Name ALF Ream News Page And Win Liberty Plus $10

Ten bucks and a 48-hour liberty will go to a lucky enlisted man stationed at ALF Ream. This is the prize being offered in a contest to select a name for the Ream Field news page in the North Islander. The page will start in the Islander next week and will contain news of things going on in the squadrons stationed at the Field.

"It's easy," say the contest sponsors. "All you have to do is think of something short, something snappy, and perhaps something that will characterize Ream Field activities." Limited, of course, to enlisted men stationed at the Field, the contest will close at 1630, January 15. Only one entry accepted from each contestant. Entries should be turned in to LCDR Chamberlin, Room 10, Bldg 8 at ALF Ream.

Contest judges will be the commanding officers of the three squadrons at the Field—CAPT. McDonald of Utility Squardon THREE, CAPT Billett of Helicopter Squadron ONE, and CDR Lincoln of Utility Squadron SEVEN.

Toastmasters Seek Seven New Members

Seven vacancies in the North Island Toastmasters club which meets every Monday at 7 p.m. at the North Park Lions' Club at 3927 Utah St., San Diego. Toastmasters have a long and interesting history at North Island, several members of the North Island club and of the Flying Toastmasters, also located on the Island, having won area and regional speech honors.

Fundamental purposes of Toastmasters clubs are: to aid its members to master the difficult art of public speaking; to teach them to appear effectively before any audience; to train them for leadership and for chairmanship in meetings of all kinds to correlate toastmasters training with job training.

These purposes are accomplished through standard club procedure, which includes speech practice by individual members, speech evaluation and parlimentary training.

The North Island Toastmasters club is an organized group of ambitious, capable Naval Air Station men, both civilian and military who seek to improve themselves in the arts of speech and leadership as means of increasing their usefullness in business, social and civic relationships.

You are invited to come out Monday and join right in the fun. Learn to speak better while having a good time. You will not be called on for anything drastic at your first meeting. Those interested should contact Paul Harshberger, Ext. 1423, or Gordon Branch, Ext. 608.

ELIMINATE NOC MATH REQUIREMENTS

Mathematic requirements for candidates qualifying for entrance to the Naval Officers Candidate School have been suspended, the Navy has announced.

Applicants who have previously been disqualified because of deficiencies in the basic mathematical requirements (trigonometry) may now re-apply to the Office of Naval Officer Procurement.

Discounts Offered To Military by Local Supply Firm

Military and Civilian personnel here at North Island will now be able to take advantage of considerable savings on nationally advertised home appliances bought through a San Diego supply house, it was announced through Special Services yesterday.

Savings up to 40% are possible on some items. Automobile supplies, as well as the home appliances can be purchased. All are nationally advertised.

Military personnel may buy at this firm by contacting the Special Services office in building 650 for an identification card. Civilian employees at North Island may do the same by contacting their Divisional CW&R committeeman.

The service, which was originally announced for civilian personnel has now been extended to include military personnel here at North Island.

Coronado Navy Families Donate Food, Clothing to Tijuana Fire Victims

PREPARING TO TAKE a 1200 pound load of toys, clothing, blankets, etc., to Tijuana, to aid fire disaster victims, are (left to right): Mrs. Laura J. Austin, motor service chairman; Mrs. Martin Wicarius, staff aide; and Mrs. Frank Sloat, Coronado Red Cross Branch chairman. Navy folks in the community contributed more than two-thirds of the large Coronado total which made up the seven station-wagon loads.

Navy people in the Coronado community came quickly to the aid of the victims of the recent Tijuana fire disaster. Abundant supplies of clothing, food, toys and cash, which poured into the Coronado Red Cross unit headquarters, came from many places, but more than two-thirds of all of the contributions originated at Navy sources, according to Mrs. Frank Sloat, chairman of the Coronado Red Cross office.

Seven packed station wagon loads of varied articles for use by the fire victims left the Coronado headquarters during the past week and a half. Loads included 47 blankets, 20 mattresses, several large hampers of canned food, and 150 new toys delivered directly to Miguel Aleman Hospital in Tijuana, where the victims, adult and children, are now under treatment.

Other items, which went to the Mexican Red Cross chapter headquarters in Tijuana, were distributed to five victims and other needy of the city, included 400 pounds of mixed nuts, 350 pounds of candy, and 42 large boxes of clothing, sorted for men, women, boys and girls, and babies. An estimated three and one-half tons of goods, in addition to cash donations, has been provided through the Coronado facility.

New Postal Regulations Take Effect; Postcards Now 2 Cents

Stick another stamp on that penny postcard if you don't want the postman to collect one cent from the person who receives it.

On January 1 the Post Office Department's new two-cent postcard rate went into effect. For a 90-day period all postcards without the additional stamp will be marked "postage due" and collection will be made from the addressee. After that, the card will be returned to sender.

The Post Office Department also announced restrictions in size and weight of parcel post matter. Parcels may not exceed 40 pounds in first and second zones, 20 pounds in third to eighth zones, and 72 inches in combined length and girth.

These restrictions do not apply to packages mailed to military personnel or to packages mailed from station post offices by military personnel and their dependents. In such cases, packages may weigh 70 pouunds and have a combined girth and length of 100 inches.

Thede Baby 'Mr. '52' At Family Hospital

The honor of being the first San Diego baby in 1952 may not go to the seven pound, five ounce son of LT and Mrs. William Thede. He can, however, claim an "exclusive" title of being the only baby born at the NAS Family Hospital on New Year's day.

Young Thede arrived at 11:53 a.m., January 1—too late to be in the competition for the first San Diego baby in 1952.

His father, LT Thede is attached to a squadron operating in the Korean area.

VFW Commended For Aid to Victims Of Tijuana Fire

H. H. Harris, of Public Works Department, vice chairman of the county VFW disaster committee, received a letter this week from Mark Tomas, County Red Cross Chairman, commending him and his organization's work in gathering and delivering more than $500 worth of blankets, clothing, cash, and other articles for the Tijuana fire victims.

CAG 102 Gets New 'Skipper'

Carrier Air Group 102 and Fighter Squadron 781 held change of command ceremonies at San Diego 31 December. CDR Gordon P. Chase, USN, relieved CDR Harold Funk, USN, as commanding officer of CVG 102. CDR Funk was Air Group commander during the recent Korean cruise aboard the Aircraft Carrier USS BON HOMME RICHARD. CDR Chase, a veteran Carrier, Fighter and Bomber pilot, has been serving as BuAer represntative, Columbus, Ohio, the past two years.

Sibbet Promoted, 30 Awards Given In PW Ceremony

In a special award presentation held at noon yesterday, James Elliott Sibbet was officially promoted to Foreman electrician of the Public Works Department. CDR J. R. Davis, Public Works Officer, made the presentation in the PW Department classroom in the presence of assembled PW supervisors

At the same meeting thirty Industrial Accident Prevention certificates were awarded to supervisors who had earned them through constant maintenance of safe working conditions in their shops and areas.

Sibbet, who won his promotion through a competitive examination given last spring, has been employed at North Island since 1940, and has a total of more than 32 years government service. He was a Chief Electrician's Mate in the Navy at the time he left active military service.

Accident prevention certificates were earned as follows: One year awards to Gilbert Gibson, Abram Noe, James E. Sibbet, Pruit M. Steelman, Andrew H. Thill. Two year awards to Clarence Boren, William Crossman and Henry Para. Three year awards to Victor Anderson, Cornelius Loomis, John Murawski, Robert Teale, John C. Peterson and John W. Wershing.

Chaplain's Corner

The Great Event

Rivers of years have not carried away the remembrance of the great Carpenter of Nazareth. He is the Great Event of the first century and the Great Event of the twentieth century, and of this year—1952. We remember Him today as he was known after the resurrection. We interpret Him today as He was interpreted by those who wrote about Him in the first Christian century. By our own personal experience, we interpret to others the meaning and significance of the Spirit of our Lord.

The rivers of years have not changed the Spirit of the man from Galilee. He is still known, still remembered, and still interpreted. He became known as Lord and Savior. We may know Him now just as well as the first Christmas and we call Him our Lord and our Savior. Why is this so? Because we too have experienced his presence. That is how Paul knew Him, and all other Christians after Paul knew Him in the same manner. In our aloneness we may feel his very presence. Jesus understood those about Him as He walked here on earth. His words not only applied to them then, but they apply now to us and to invisible multitudes not yet born. Though we cannot see Him, yet we may know Him. I am sure of this one thing, we may know Him as Our Lord and Our Savior. There is one requirement necessary if we really wish to know Him, and that is, we must repent for our wrong actions and declare Him in our own lives as our Lord. If we truly do this, then we will have "peace that passeth all understanding."

This kind of peace is everlasting. It endures forever. It brings hope to all men. It satisfies man's thrist after righteousness. When the light of the Lord bursts forth into the thinking and acting of mankind, then The Great Event has come. God has been revealed and man beholds Him in all life. This is a great occasion for man. To know, to remember, and to interpret: may this be our motto for 1952.

Chaplain Samuel B. Bennett.

NORTH ISLAND SERVICE POST 753

LEGION NOTES

By ART BURNS

To start the New Year off right, the month of January is full of activity for the North Island Post No. 753.

Friday, January 25, this post presents.. its .."Winter.. Frolics" dance. It will be held in the auditorium of the Veterans Memorial building, Balboa Park, corner of Park Blvd. and Upas street. A fine band has been engaged and it is certain that as much fun will be had as at past dances.

Tickets are available from any Post member, with only a limited number to be sold. Ticket sales and distribution will be supervised by F. J. Witkowski. Pat O'Neil, with a greeting committee to introduce all strangers, will be at the door. John (Commissary) Gizo will be in charge of the refreshment stand.

Next Thursday, January 10, 8 p.m., at the same Veterans Memorial building, a business meeting will be held by the Post. An election to fill two vacancies on the executive committee along with other items of business to be discussed.

Roscoe Morse, past commander of the Post, and now the county council commander, says the county council will have an outstanding program with the city council as guests next Tuesday, 8 p.m. at the Veterans Memorial building. Mayor Butler will be the principle speaker

Johnnie Wilburn, Post child welfare chairman, and his past Christmas committee — Charlie Lee, Harold Terrill, Pat O'Neil, and Roscoe Morse—report success in the Post's program to provide a Christmas for a destitute family of six. A turkey, a Christmas tree, a basket of food, and $100 worth of clothing were supplied to the family.

Over the holidays two men of Shop 4264-1 had bad news in their families. Paul Havolind's brother died in San Francisco. Paul has been up there for a few days. Jessie Riley has been absent from work because of the serious illness of her father . . . The Lloyd Filsom (Shop 4248-4) holiday was darkened by their son catching scarlet fever the day before Christmas.

Good luck to Millie "Windy" Splichal, firse vice president of the Post Auxiliary, and "Electronics" columnist, now absent on two weeks sick leave

DAVE HIRSCH ARRIVES

A son, David Milton Hirsch, weighing in at 6 pounds, 2¾ ounces, was born to Mrs. Doris Lucille and Milton Hirsch, at Scripps Hospital Dec. 11. Mother and son doing fine, father of O&R Shop 3491A, also doing fine—is well enough to even brag a little.

Lucky Guy

GAZING WONDERINGLY at the gaping hole in the canopy of his Skyraider plane after it was hit by a Communist missile over North Korea is ENS Emmet R. Allaud, USN, of Squadron VF-51, attached to the aircraft carrier USS Essex. ENS Allaud was unhurt and the plane was only slightly damaged. That very day Allaud's wife had received a letter in which was enclosed a poem from her husband. Title of the poem: "I'm a Lucky Guy."

This Week's MOVIE MENU for NAS

Friday, 4 January—"THE TANKS ARE COMING" with Steve Cochran and Mari Aldon. This is the story of our fight across France and the men in the tanks who were the spearhead of the attack. Much of the picture is composed of actual war shots. The picture is made up of war combat and the servicemen's usual sense of humor.
SHORTS: "Drip-A-Long Daffy."
Running time: 1 hour and 44 minutes.

Saturday, 5 January—"THE MAGIC CARPET" with Lucille Ball and John Agar. The age old fable of the magic carpet is again flying high wide and handsome. Agar, an exiled Prince, becomes the Scarlet Falcon in order to drive his uncle to destruction. The picture ends in deadly combat and the disclosing of his true identity.
SHORTS: Dick Stabile and his Orchestra.
Running time: 1 hour and 10 minutes.

Sunday and Monday, 5 and 7 January—"GOLDEN GIRL" starring Mitzi Gaynor and Dale Robertson in the story of Lotta Crabtree, one of America's greatest women in show business. The movie is loaded with music, comedy and romance of the middle 1800's.
Running time: 1 hour and 10 minutes.

Tuesday and Wednesday, 8 and 9 January—"STARLIFT" with Doris Day, Gordon MacRae, Virginia Mayo and many more stars bringing songs, dances and laughs to our fighting men.
SHORTS: "Ballot Box Bunny."
Running time: 1 hour and 57 minutes.

Thursday and Friday, 10 and 11 January—"THE MOB" starring Broderick Crawford and Betty Buehler. Detective Crawford witnessed a street shooting and is assigned to one of the toughest jobs of his career. To take cruel and cunning Blackie, the mob boss, is a job only for the most cruel and cunning cop.
SHORTS: "The Painter and the Pointer."
Running time: 1 hour and 41 minutes

Passage of 10% Boost For Servicemen Expected

Early passage of the 10 per cent pay raise bill for Servicemen is expected after Congress re-convenes January 8, according to most Washington observers.

Rep. Kilday, who introduced the bill, said, in a statement to the Armed Forces Press Service, that he would try to get the bill on the floor as quickly as possible, and added "if we get it on the floor, I think we can get it passed."

If passed, the bill would raise both base pay and allowances. The raise would become effective on the first day of the month in which the bill is enacted.

A proposal to make the raise retroactive to last July was eliminated.

Other bills awaiting consideration by Congress which will be of concern to the Servicemen are:

1. Armed Forces Reserve Bill—Establishes three types of reserves: ready, standby and retired, and is designed to eliminate some of the faults of the present reserve plan. It is already passed by the House.

2. Survivors' Benefit Bill—would set up self-sustaining survivors' benefit plan. Money would be taken out of serviceman's pay. Introduced, the bill has not reported out of committee.

3. Combat pay Bill—Would provide extra pay for Servicemen in combat. Introduced but not reported out of committee.

4. Olympic Games Participation—Would allow Servicemen to participate in Olympics. Reported in House. Ready for floor action.

5. GI Bill—Men in service on or after June 27, 1950 would get limited scholastic benefits. The bill is still in committee.

'VALLEY' IN ACTION FOR THIRD TIME

The USS VALLEY FORGE, first carrier to launch planes in the early days of the Korean conflict, is once more carrying out air attacks against the Reds.

The current action marks the "Happy Valley's" third foray into the battle since opening of hostilities in 1950.

BEFORE AND AFTER

NEWLY APPOINTED WARRANT OFFICER E. B. Glass "before and after" being dunked in the old Navy tradition. The "JEEP" Gunner took to the water gracefully with a hugh splash off pier "F" recently. Gunner Glass received a rousing cheer from the Ordnance gang of VC-35 and their "Skipper" CDR. D. A. Marks.

Talent From The Palette At Ream

Philbin "interprets" HU-1

The Utility Air Wing, Pacific, Commissioned Officers Mess (Open) now exhibits seven murals on its walls. The bulkhead artistry is the work of Robert Philbin, AB1, of Helicopter Squadron ONE.

Philbin, working "off and on" at the COMO for the past five weeks, has caricatured each of the squadrons that make up UtWingPac. The humorous representations of his outfit are done in a free, dry brush technique. No delicate strokes are required for this subject matter, he claims.

Painting was something that crept up on the UtWing aviation bos'n. He became an addict to the brush and pallette back in 1946. Since then he has been doing cartoons and posters, but considers the COMO murals his first big job. Philbin has never received any formal art instruction but hopes to take some courses at night school.

Philbin has been in the Navy nine years. He came to ALF Ream Field last September after being stationed at NAAS Miramar.

CARRYING THE BALL

ALL-NAVY TACKLE, RAY VERKERK, of the Skyraiders, is seldom pictured in a horizontal position, but this time it was different. The Skyraider football team closed out a highly successful season by adding an "assist" to their record as 40 squad members donated a pint of blood each to be sent to aid American battle casualties in Korea. Nurse Mary Crain "quarterbacks" as Verkerk prepares to "carry the ball" supported by teammates in background (left to right): end, Leroy Cox; guard, Billy Key; fullback, Jim Mancuso; guard, Bob Campbell; fullback, Ed Jackson; end, Bud Landers; and halfback, Jim Haley.

Get Aquainted

Senior Fiscal Accountant A. V. Francis, or "Pat" as he is known here at NAS, took employment here in July, 1931. He spent his first nine years in the Accounting Division of Supply Department then transferred to Disbursing in October, 1940.

Pat was born and raised in Kansas and came to the West Coast in 1924 upon joining the Navy. At the end of his enlistment in 1928 he accepted employment with the U. S. Rubber Company and later with the Cudahy Packing Company. He continued to work for Cudahy until 1931 when he came to work in the Accounting Division at NAS.

The duties of Senior Fiscal Accountant are many and consist of long and tedious hours. The supervising of payments for all Civilian Personnel attached to NAS, Litchfield Park, Miramar and El Centro comes under the jurisdiction of Senior Fiscal Accountant. Next to this is the payment of all NAS Ships Company. In addition to this the department furnishes Transportation Requests (TR's) and settle travel claims for both civilian and military personnel and the handling and distribution of civilian War Bonds. These are only a few of the duties which have to pass through the Senior Fiscal Accountant's desk.

In 1947 Pat received a Superior Accomplishment pay increase Award for outstanding work far above that expected of a man in his position.

ITEMS OF INFORMATION FOR CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

The New Year brings over from 1951 many problems for settlement in the field of employee relations. However, supervisors have gained additional experience with which they can better cope with problems brought to them by their fellow employees. On the other hand, many employees have become indoctrinated into the technical requirements of their positions and should thus be able to help guide the new recruit on the bench.

Both together will make for better teamwork, better production, better fellowship, and less strain on the individual nervous system.

'Raiders Halt Miramar Meet NTC Here Tonight

Back to avenge their loss to the Naval Air Alameda Hellcats, the Naval Air Skyraiders trampled the Miramar Jets 45-38 last Thursday night in the Skyraider gym.

Jim Bird led the Skyraider scoring with eighteen points, three of them on free throws.

In the first quarter the Skyraiders took a slim three point lead with Bird, Max Kephart, Joe Hamernik and Art Borchers each scoring for 11 points against the Jest' eight.

In the second quarter it was a different story, with the Jets holding a three point lead over the Skyraiders, 21-18.

The Skyraiders pulled out ahead once again in the third quarter, keeping a 32-25 lead when the quarter ended, and running their score to 45 when the final gun went off.

Miramar, although a minor league team, gave the Skyraiders a battle all the way, and never once let up their resistance, even though the Skyraiders were ahead most of the game.

The Skyraiders meet the Naval Training Center Bluejackets tonight at 2000 in the Mainside Gym. The Bluejackets are presently tied with the Skyraiders for third place in the Major League, each winning three and dropping one.

Captain's Cup Lowdown

Resuming their first Captain's Cup basketball schedule since the holidays, Navy Exchange dropped one to Plant, 52 to 37, yesterday. Gene Koch was high scorer for Plant with 20 points. Walter Sawtelle scored 15 points for Navy Exchange. In the 12 o'clock game, Special Services turned in a stunning 4 9to 18 victory over the Yeomen. Leon Cox scored 14 points for Special Services while Levin Johic scored 11 for the Yeomen.

Today in the Mainside Gym, Metal and Machine will meet Operations 29 in the 11 o'clock battle while Repair and Flight will take on Electronics at 12.

All Captain's Cup representatives are urged to turn in their roster of men competing in the Captain's Cup sports program from their respective divisions.

Basketball games will be played every day at noon in the Mainside Gym.

BIRDIE BASHERS BADMINTON CHAMPS

Newly crowned champs of the National League in Badminton is the FAIRBETUPac trio that took its ninth straight contest and in so doing became the first and half champs of their division.

The trio of racket wielders include: CAPT Byng, LCDR Gierisch and LT Doyle. They will play the American League victors for the intramural championship about the middle of January.

Their latest conquest was over FASRon 7 in which CAPT Byng and LCDR Gierisch won their singles matches as well as the doubles, but LT Doyle dropped his singles.

NAGA NEWS

The monthly "ACE" tournament will be held next Wednesday 10 January at the Municipal Golf Course, Balboa Park. Tee off time for all members is between 1130 and 1300. Trophies will be given for low and second low net, and low gross.

Regular team matches would be resumed immediately. Those who haven't finished should contact the teams they are scheduled to play, and report the results to the golf range.

Mac Hunter is now playing in the $17,000 Open in Los Angeles open tourney. All NAS golfers wish him the best of luck during the tournament.

WAVE Bowlers Take MCRD 3-4 Here Wed.

Jeanette Haber and Evelyn Rogers took top honors Wednesday evening here at NAS as the WAVE bowling team took the MCRD women bowlers in three out of four games. They had high game of 157 and high series of 430 respectively.

Evelyn Rogers is the newly named team captain replacing Lou Dasbach who is attending class "B" Parachute school in Lakehurst, New Jersey.

Next Wednesday the WAVES will play the NTC No. 1 team for the second time. The last time the two teams met, NTC won all four games. NTC is now in first place in the 11th Naval District Women's Bowling league. NAS stands at second place and the NTC No. 2 team is third.

North Island's WAVES recently defeated the Camp Pendleton women. The NTC Bluejackettes have won on each of their two showings to date; beating Pendleton and El Toro.

TAKE 500 SHIPS OUT OF MOTHBALLS

The Navy has removed 506 ships from mothballs since the outbreak of hostilities in Korea. Among them are 5 fleet carriers, 6 carrier escorts, and 1 light carrier.

LIKE FATHER

Joe Hamenik, one of the starting five on the Skyraider basketball team stands 6 foot 4 inches, and weighs 195 pounds.

In all probability one of the most experienced men on the team, Joe first started his basketball career when he played four years at Winona High School, Winona, Minnesota. Since then he has played basketball for NAS Seattle, Washington; NATTC Norman, Oklahoma; NAS Klamath Falls, Oregon; NAS Pasco, Washington; USS PINE ISLAND, and last year played for AirPac.

Playing this year as a forward, Joe sustained a knee injury at the start of the season, and is just now getting back in shape He is a tricky ball handler and an outstanding team man.

His son Lonnie (basketball star of 1964) listens intently as Joe received some last minute instructions before taking the floor in one of the practice games.

THE BIG CATCH

Winding roads and "something that towed the boat around awhile" didn't stop a party of five persons from North Island from catching 91 fish about 20 miles from Santo Tomas, Mexico, recently.

Chuck Robinson, of O&R Ordnance and his wife, R. E. Owen, AOU3, of the Medical Department, and Adolph Matura of the Carpenter shop and his wife made the trip. Mrs. Matura caught more fish than the others. Robinson hooked "a big one" and the boat was pulled around for about forty minutes until the line broke.

The party returned with the big load of fish and are ready for the "next time." The fish were Rock Cod, White and Mexican Sheep head. Above right to left are Robinson, the Mexican guide, Skipper and Owen.

1951 Capt. Cup Athlete To Be Named Next Week

Due to the fine records of four men in the Captain's Cup sports program on North Island, the Captain's Cup Athlete of the Year for 1951 will be selected by the Captain's Cup Executive Committee. The board will meet next Tuesday, January 8, to decide the winner.

The four men up for selection are: George W. Wells of the Supply Department, Bob Rogers of Power Plant, Cliff Bileyu of Special Services, and Lee McKenzie of Metal and Machine.

The Executive Committee, made up of seven members, is headed up by chairman Hank Miller of Supply. The six other members are: Jerry Fogle of Accessories, Jim Brock of Special Services, Bob Pyle, Repair and Flight; George Searles, Metal and Machine; J. Roemer, Plant; and J. Barrett, Boat House.

Last year's Captain's Cup Athlete of the Year was Don Ostergard from the Supply Department.

CW&R Meets

The Civilian Welfare & Recreation Committee will meet today at 1300 in the IRD conference room. Routine business matters will be discussed.

NORTH ISLAND ALWAYS WINS THE BIG ONE

Every New Year brings another service boxing season, and with it the hopes and dreams of would-be champions. First up is the Annual Golden Gloves classic. Then comes the All-Navy eliminations, and finally the All-Navy championships.

There are several weight classes in amateur boxing, but as in the professional game, the Heavyweight stronghold is the one that grabs the most limelight. The big title carries most of the glamor, wins the most prestige for the station possessing the champ.

It naturally comes to our biased attention, that NORTH ISLAND probably holds the most outstanding distinction in Navy boxing that exists anywhere in the service.

Ever since the initial All-Navy (servicewide) championships in 1947, NORTH ISLAND fighters have won and maintained a near stranglehold on the heavyweight title. In Golden Gloves, which is practically a "closed shop" Navy-Marine venture as far as Western titles are concerned, NORTH ISLAND has dominated the heavyweight scene for three years.

In 1947, the 11th ND title was won by North Island heavyweight Maynard Jones, his teammate Jack Scheberies giving him his only serious competition in the eliminations. Jones went on to take over the All-Navy title.

In 1948, North Island's Jack Woods took the 11th ND championship, then battled his way past North Island shipmate Kirby Seals to take the All-Navy crown.

In 1949, it was Seals who carried the North Island colors into the ring, winning the San Diego Golden Gloves crown, and the Armed Forces YMCA titles in the heavyweight class. He won the Fleet championship and battled his way to the All-Navy finals before losing out to Joe Connell, of the Marines, by a decision.

In 1950, Seals stormed through everything, taking San Diego and West Coast Golden Gloves dukes, repeating the YMCA win, and roaring through District eliminations, and the All-Navy championships.

In 1951, Seals repeated in Golden Gloves, moved all the way to the Chicago finals, and won himself another YMCA championship. He was easily the top Navy fighter of the year, though there was no regular All-Navy competition for '50.

Comes 1952, and a return to All-Navy championships. In three weeks, the Annual Golden Gloves championships offer an opportunity for fight fans to preview this year's crop, with eliminations all the way from here to New York and the National finals. More than that, there is a shot at the Olympic Games awaiting successful Navy battlers.

Competition promises to be better than ever, but so is Seals, from the looks of his workouts. Could be another big year for NORTH ISLAND in the big weight class.

EX-NORTH ISLAND COACH AT L. A. STATE

Coach of the Los Angeles State College basketball team is Cdr. Sax Elliot, former athletic director here at North Island. He was here at North Island in 1946, was one of the first Naval Air coaches this writer worked with. L. A. State, which the Skyraiders meet tomorrow night in Los Angeles, have run up an impressive record and look like a mighty tough customer for the 'Raiders, especially after tonight's brawl with NTC and the San Francisco road trip which ended yesterday.

But Coach Hal Boudreau's Skyraiders are looking sharp in practice these days, are developing a keen sense of timing, and the warning is out that they are the team to beat from here on out, in 11th Naval District play. Plenty of spirit and teamwork makes them a pleasure to watch in action. And next week we will host PhibPac Tuesday and MCRD Friday, to provide the local gentry lots of chance to watch them.

Island's Seyboth and McWilliams Take National 'B. Sugg' Honors

Harold A. Seyboth, aircraft inspector; and Theodore F. McWilliams, leadingman crater and packer, won national honors in the Navy-wide beneficial suggestion program for the year 1951, it was announced this week. The two were instrumental in the overall success of the North Island Benny Suggs program.

North Island's mounting number of successful suggestions submitted aided materially in the Navy's second successive winning of the National Association of Suggestion Systems' award at Detroit November 13.

In announcing that the Navy Department had hit the awards jackpot for the second time in three years, Under SecNav Francis P. Whitehair, chairman of the Navy Efficiency Awards Committee, pointed out that although this nation-wide recognition is a most commendable achievement, it represents the participation of only 14 percent of the Navy's civilian employees. Mr. Whitehair expressed his confidence that the winning of this award will serve as an added incentive to further participation rate during fiscal 1952.

The nation-wide recognition is given annually to the government department or agency showing the greatest annual increase in suggestion participation. During the

Exchange Store Closes Tomorrow

The Navy Exchange Retail Store will be closed all day Saturday, 12 January, because of a special painting process to be used. Extra time is needed to allow time for sealing, covering the merchandise, and other painstaking processes. The store will open as usual on Monday morning at 8 a.m.

TWO SEAMEN ARE SHOWN COMPETING with all the eligible seamen in the fleet for the coveted prize of 3rd Class Petty Officer. Over 1700 men stationed on and based aboard North Island took the test on last Tuesday.

Eligible Seamen Vie For Prized 3rd Class 'Crow'

With brows wrinkled and eyes raised, over 1700 men from fleet units and NAS competed in the Fleet Wide examinations for 3rd Class Petty Officer. It is certain that the competition will be extremely tough, because it is generally recognized that this step toward the coveted "CROW" is the most important in the enlisted ranks.

The hundreds competing represented most of the 63 working rates in the modern Navy. Each man was expected to know many of the military aspects of the Navy as well as his individual professional skills.

Much of the credit for this smooth working examination rests with the Indoctrination and Education Divisions of the Naval Air Station and FASRon 7.

'Dimes' Appeal in Second Week, Containers Throughout Station

Thursday, January 10 the Naval Air Station opened its campaign for funds for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. This program, more popularly called the March of Dimes, will continue until January 31. Special containers in which donations can be placed, have been distributed throughout the station and are now on display in prominent places.

Funds contributed to the 1952 March of Dimes this month will become double-barrelled barrages in the war on polio.

Every dime and dollar finances care of patients, research, epidemic aid and education of much-needed professional personnel.

Fifty per cent of the funds remain here to finance care of local polio patients needing such help or, in an emergency, are made available to the national epidemic aid fund.

Research — The most extensive voluntary research program ever levelled at a single disease. Aimed at finding a means of preventing or curing polio, March of Dimes grants are supporting research in the nation's leading universities and laboratories.

Professional Education — With shortages resulting from increased demands for professional service, plus inroads made by military requirements, more trained personnel are needed today than ever before, particularly in view of more widespread polio epidemics. March of Dimes scholarships, fellowships and short courses are training more professionals to care for polio victims and to man scientific laboratories.

AAU 775 PLANS FEB. TRAINING

Auxiliary Air Unit 775, a flying squadron of the Organized Naval Reserve, has been ordered to two weeks annual training at NAS, Los Alamitos, California, beginning 4 February 1952.

The unit is composed of local Naval Reserve personnel who are interested in improving their flying proficiency, and preparing themselves for advancement in rate.

AAU 775 meets regularly the second weekend in each month at the Operations Department, NAS, San Diego, California; the next being 11 and 12 January. Since the squadron was established six months ago ,its pilots have averaged 100 flight hours each weekend meeting. Aircraft assigned to the unit are maintained by the squadrons enlisted personnel assigned to the unit.

According to LCDR C. O. Roberts, Commanding Officer of the unit, paid billets are needed in the near future.

For information on billet vacancies, call LCDR F. C. Geer at T-1-1160, or LCDR C. O. Roberts at H-6-7304.

200 Pint Goal in January Donation

Two hundred pints of blood will be the goal of the next civilian donation—January 22—for armed forces overseas, but to commitments in Chula Vista in the afternoon on that day, the bloodmobile unit will be at NAS during the morning hours only.

To reach the goal "blood will have to be collected at the rate of 60 pints an hour," said Mrs. Madge Mulloch, blood program coordinator, "but it can be done —we averaged 70 pints an hour in the December donation."

Civilian employees desiring to give blood on January 22 should notify their shop supervisor. Each person will be notified of the time and place of donation later.

The January 22 donation will mark the beginning of the second year of the NAS civilian blood program to supply monthly quotas of blood for the armed forces. The special 500 pint blood gift in December closed what was considered a highly successful first year, which received praise from the Red Cross.

Blood Given Here Tuesday Flown Immediately to Korea

Seventy-five pints of type "O" blood were flown from North Island to the Korean area Tuesday night. Right now this blood is probably helping save the life of some member of the armed forces in the Korean conflict.

"O" blood is the universal type that can be given directly to anyone and is frequently rushed overseas for immediate use. The 75 pints represent half of the total amount of blood donated Tuesday by FASRon 110, and also ComFAW-14, VS-12, and FASRon's 7 and 691. The all-day mass donation took place at the NAS Infirmary. The "bloodmobile" unit and volunteers from Local Red Cross chapters directed the blood collecting effort.

In addition to the type "O" blood, 83 pints of types A, B and AB blood were given. After being processed into plasma, it also will be shipped overseas.

Because of colds and PO-3 exams on that day many scheduled FASRon 110 personnel were unable to give blood. They plan to contribute at the next military donation—February 5—along with FairBetuPac personnel and other units based at NAS.

Little Shavers Can Get Trimmed At Barber Shop

The Navy Exchange reports that children of NAS military personnel may receive haircuts at the NAS barber shop.

New Skipper Assumes Command of Utility Air Wing In Ceremonies Held at ALF Ream Last Friday A.M.

CAPT. JOHN G. LEWIS

In change-of-command ceremonies at ALF Ream last Friday at 0800, CAPT Ralph W. D. Woods assumed command of Utility Wing, Pacific Fleet. He relieved CAPT John G. Lewis who has been ComUtWing Pac since August, 1950. Prior to his assignment at Ream Field, Captain Woods was commanding officer of the USS SAIPAN (CVL-48). A graduate of the Naval Academy in the class of 1923, he served in the battleships USS ARKANSAS and USS WEST VIRGINIA before reporting to Pensacola in 1926 for flight training.

Christianity Is Dangerous

Christianity is the most dangerous teaching to anyone who does not want to change from unrighteousness and ungodliness to justice, love and honor.

Christianity teaches, "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report: if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." But whoever does not want any of these virtues will find that Christianity is very dangerous in that it demands a change in his life.

There is always present that plaguing, persistent notion that if we arrange the outside of life so that it looks all right, why then the inside doesn't matter. It's like treating the symptoms and letting the disease carry on through the body. But Christ, who demands a complete change of heart and mind, says, "Be ye therefore perfect even as your heavenly Father is perfect."

By nature man is "dead in trespasses and sins." It is not merely improvement in our conduct that we need. We need a new life within. Christ gives us that new life. Christianity has become a dangerous teaching to the individual who resists any change from ungodliness to righteousness and truth.

Watch how quickly a religious program will be turned off the radio or TV set. It's dangerous to listen to because Christ can change your life.

Christianity is dangerous because it demands of the individual pureness of conversation. God's Holy law says, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that takes his name in vain." And again Jesus says, "Swear not at all neither by heaven, for it is God's throne: nor by the earth, for it is his footstool . . . . but let your communication be yea, nay, nay for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil."

Christianity is dangerous because it attacks corruption and who desires an end to corruption when benefited by it?

In the lives of everyone who hears or reads the Word of God, the Holy Spirit is constantly at work to produce conviction of sin, and to lead them to accept Christ as their personal Savior. That Word of God tells us that man is saved not by his own efforts but solely by the grace of God freely offered through Christ.

Christ offers strength to overcome all obstacles, courage to endure every trial, and power to live a life that will glorify God and bless one's fellow men. Whoever does not want these great gifts, to him Christianity is dangerous.

Hobby Shop Needs More New Hobbyists

Chief Maddox invites all those who have hobbies or would like to start one in ceramic, leather craft, photography or any others to come to the Hobby Shop in Building 833. Now that the Christmas rush is over there is plenty of room to work. You need no experience nor tools as there are instructors and tools at your disposal.

For those interested in ceramic and leather craft the instructor will spend as much time with you as you need. Tools may be borrowed but the material has to be purchased from the Hobby Shop store at the lowest possible charge.

Photogs have a complete lab in which to work with everything furnished except the enlarging paper.

Adult dependents of station personnel are more than welcome. A few of the hobbies are especially set up for "Mom" to work at while "Pop" is in the woodwork shop making that cupboard or bassinet.

The Hobby Shop is open from 1300 to 2200 Monday through Thursday, closed all day Friday and open from 1000 to 1800 Saturday and Sunday.

NORTH ISLAND SERVICE POST 753 LEGION NOTES

"What is the name of the band playing for the Post's mid-winter Frolic Dance on January 25?" This question has been asked many times of Post members selling tickets for this big affair. To make sure that an outstanding band will be obtained, a check was made by Frank Storms, entertainment chairman, and the band most requested this time was those lively "jumping jacks" who played for the Turkey Hop two months ago. So, by popular demand they were obtained for this dance. Get your tickets now. Only a limited number to be sold.

Pat J. O'Neil, the popular Post Chaplain, is now in the hospital and responding well to treatment. Letters would be greatly appreciated by Pat. Write care of Veterans Administration, Ward W-7, Long Beach.

Archie Breeden, Post Commander, has appointed Rudy Fuentes as acting Chaplain during Pat's absence. Phone M-1786 for any on sick call.

A large group from this Post plans to attend the Legion's 22nd district meeting at El Centro next Sunday, January 12.

The many friends in the Post and Shop 4259 welcome back Cecil Allen to the Island after a long absence. Congratulations go from your Post, Cecil, on the long, determined fight to regain your health!

Last Sunday night at the Salvation Army USO, the Post Auxiliary members furnished and served refreshments to a large group of servicemen. Those participating were: Frances Morse, Juanita Stringer, Nettie Fuentes, Pearl Galoski and Esther Burns. Millie Splichal was ill and unable to attend but sent a large birthday cake for fellows having a birthday this month.

Some new members to the North Island Post No. 753 are: Edwin A. Tribbey, Lawrence Beckwith Jr., Frank Martinez, Warren R. Walles, Maurice P. Paquin, Pete V. Mercado, Edward H. Gonzalez, and John B. Almon. Congratulations, fellas.

Two Swans Come Home From Hospital At Same Time

All home from the hospital the same day, was the news from the Barton Swan household.

Barton, a Metalsmith at Bldg. 68, arrived home from Naval Hospital December 24, the same day his wife, Nita, brought their new son, Michael, home from Quintard Hospital. The baby, weighing in at 6 pounds 3½ ounces, was born December 21.

Mrs. Swan is on leave of absence from O & R Parts Procurement.

Edith Wells and Ens. Goetschius Plan Nuptials

The engagement of Edith Wells, Supply Personnel Section employee, to ENS. F. D. Goetschius of VF-871 was announced last week.

Miss Wells has been employed in NAS S&F Dept. since last December 10, working at the San Diego Naval Hospital prior to that date. Her home is Baltimore, Maryland.

ENS. Goetschius, VF-871 line operations officer, is a graduate of Baker University in Kansas. His home is in Wichita, Kansas.

No wedding date has been announced yet.

IR DIVULGES

By Max

Our loss, another's gain—Dona King of Personnel Files, leaves today, and begins her timekeeping chores for the Transportation Department Monday.

Nora Jones, of the Safety Division, is moving across the street to our Performance Ratings section, replacing Audrie Martin, who heard wedding bells last month.

Our employment receptionist, Jean Richey, returned last Monday after a brief vacation in Glendale, where she visited her brother and his family.

ELECTRONS

By JEANNETTE KINSER

Cecil Allen, with his friendly and happy-go-lucky smile is back with us again. "Monty" Marshall is transferring to 94. One comes, another goes, but our best wishes are with both of you.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ragsdale returning from Fort Worth, Tex., having been called there by the serious illness of her father, miraculously escaped without a scratch or bruise when their car overturned down a 15 foot embankment. They now have a new car!

Mrs. Vera Corbett has been ordered to the desert for three months by her physician.

Your many friends in the Electronics Division send deepest sympathy, Rosa and Connie Conwell.

Jan Maiefski has returned to her desk in the front office after six weeks absence.

Mr. and Mrs. George Skelly received a baby girl for their Christmas present.

Ruth Daehler of radar and Walter Daehler of test instruments, spent two weeks in San Antonio, Tex., and Mobile, Alabama.

Mrs. A. T. Lee has returned from a months vacation in the Sunny South—Louisiana.

Aileen Mack and Rufus Sherrill celebrated birthdays last Friday with a cake from the plug shop.

The parents of Donna Noel Freeze must have been thinking of Christmas time when they named their daughter. Donna Noel was born on Christmas day in the NAS Family Hospital, the only baby born here that day. Her parents are Herb and Virginia Freeze. Herb, an AE3, works in O&R Electronics.

'Dimes' Appeal

—This is money made available to the community which has exhausted its local March of Dimes funds caring for patients.

The number of new patients every year, plus the tens of thousands of patients from past years still needing help, have left the March of Dimes in debt at the end of the past four years. Thus the 1952 appeal must surpass any of the past.

The March of Dimes will continue to the end of the month.

'Lapidary'—a Gem of a Word—Is the Sparkling Hobby of O&R Flight Test's R. K. Miller

By BILL FEENEY

The art of applying his lapidary (Gem Cutting) skills to an interesting rock collection, has given Mr. Ronald K. Miller of Repair and Flight Test one of the most interesting and productive hobbies in the San Diego area.

Always an outdoor man, Mr. Miller became fascinated by the many beautiful rocks found during his extensive hunting and fishing trips. Because of this, some 13 years ago he decided to start collecting, cutting, and polishing some of the beautiful specimens he had come across.

LAPIDISTS RONNIE MILLER OF FLIGHT TEST AND REPAIR and Jack Starkey of Production Control, examine impressive collection of gems collected, cut, and ground by these Lapidary minded men.

Hard Work and Constant Study Pay Off

His entire skill was learned through the process of untiring research and study. Not satisfied with a simple collection, Mr. Miller constructed all of his delicate gem cutting tools by himself. This included a rock cutting diamond saw; the cost of his elaborate equipment is in excess of $1400.00.

From a slim and uncertain beginning, this extra curricular activity has produced many thousands of cut and polished gems. Today in the backyard of the Miller's home is setting over 3 tons of uncut rock.

To obtain his samples, Mr. Miller has traveled through most of the mountain areas of the Western United States, and even at present, he spends most of his spare time searching the hills of San Diego County for additional supplies of certain gem-giving rock.

Through the process of years of research and study, Mr. Miller has become an authority on lapidary, and during the past five years, he has taught Adult Education classes at Hoover Evening High School.

Among the more impressive trophies won in years of competition are five ribbons in five years of competition in the San Diego County Fair.

Always trying to improve his technique, Mr. Miller is a member and past president of the San Diego Lapidary Society, and a member of the San Diego Mineral and Gem Society.

At present Mr. Miller's activities are mostly directed toward non-profitable exhibits, but in the near future he plans to apply his professional skill in this relatively unexplored field to the commercial manufacturing of broaches, pins, and other pieces of jewelry. In his effort to combine the gems of his collection into beautiful pieces of jewelry, Mr. Miller discovered that the silver work included in this field was quite different from the art he had already learned so well. So with the same drive and persistance he used to learn lapidary, he studied and became an artisan in the field of molding and shaping silver.

Mr. Miller has obtained the requisite of a man with a hobby; his work has produced objects of magnificent beauty, as well as definite commercial appeal.

fiscal year 1951, Navy employees offered 51,990 improvement proposals. 13,146 of these were adopted, resulting in actual savings to the taxpaying public, of $8,414,182 for the year.

NAS San Diego made major contributions to the Navy Department success. During the latter half of 1951, the North Island base held first place in competition with all major BuAer activities.

During the year 1951, NAS San Diego employees submitted 2,019 suggestions on ways to improve Navy operations and save taxpayers money, 732 employees receiving a total of $24,486 in cash awards. As a result of adopting these ideas, the station effected a monetary savings of more than $634,000. In addition, many suggestions were of an intangible nature ,that made improvements in quality of product, contributed toward safety, and other benefits.

Seyboth, in attaining top spot in the entire Navy, will effect a saving of more than $100,000 in cash a year. His idea was a portable testing device for gauging strength of aircraft fabrics.

McWilliams, through the adoption of his device, provided a safer way of handling expensive aircraft engines and will save in excess of $50,000 a year in labor costs.

AFGE Local Observes Civil Service Week

January 16-22 will be observed by the AFGE local 1085, North Island, as "Civil Service Week." Annually observed by the organization, it commemorates the signing of the "Civil Service Act" on January 16, 1883, by President Chester A. Arthur.

Harry T. Kranz, U. S. Civil Service Regional Director of San Francisco and a long-time member of the AFGE, originated the idea of "Civil Service Week" in 1934. It was subsequently adopted by the organization.

The AFGE Local 1085 held its first meeting under its new officers last Tuesday. Newly elected officers are: J. B. Kenney, president; Dewey Fox, vice president; James F. Hainsworth, secretary; George L. Cotter, treasurer, and Leon J. Robinson, sergeant-at-arms.

TAX FORMS AVAILABLE AT DISBURSING OFFICE

Income Tax Forms 1040 (short form) and 1040A (long form) will be available to all Naval Air Station Military personnel at the NAS Disbursing Office.

P.W. Paragraphs

It may come as a surprise to the Welding Shop to know there is an accomplished artist in their midst. Leon Miller, Welder, having studied at San Diego Arts and Crafts in La Jolla has many fine examples of his work on display at his home.

The gang around the Blacksmith Shop were pleasantly surprised to receive a large box of candy from the popular Irene Rainville, former clerk at the shop. Irene is residing with husband in Las Vegas, Nevada, where he conducts his own business. Many thanks and loads of luck for the coming year from all of us.

Tommy Murtha, Iron Worker, spends his leisure hours raising and working with horses out at his Mission Valley Ranch. He has ambitions toward finding more suitable property to further his interests along this line.

Tony Palermo, Helper Pipefitter, returned to work after an extensive tour of Italy, including Rome and other points of interest. As a representative of the Pentacostal Society, Tony preached at various gatherings throughout his tour.

"Beantown Smitty," welder, has been seen pricing power-driven lawn mowers. Perhaps this is what he meant by starting to cut corners around home.

The question, "Where's Alma?" at the Carpenter shop can now be answered. Alma Miller, congenial clerk, has returned from annual leave which she spent with her daughter visiting in and around San Diego. Welcome back.

Otto Bek, Carpenter, was injured in a freak accident by a falling pane of glass, which fell out of a transome upon which he and L. O. McQueen, carpenter, were working. The glass struck him above the knee causing a laceration not of a serious nature.

ITEMS OF INFORMATION FOR CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

Effective 6 January, employees' leave will be credited for each full bi-weekly pay period as follows:

Bi-weekly payroll: Less than 3 years creditable service—4 hours per pay period; 3 to 15 years—6 hours per pay period, plus an additional 4 hours for the 26th and final pay period of each calendar year.

Those employees on the weekly payroll will be credited each week with one-half the number of hours credited to those on the bi-weekly payrolls. The 5-day, 40-hour week is basic for computing leave.

Employees beginning work on other than the first day, or separating on other than the last day of a bi-weekly pay period will not earn leave during that pay period. (Comptroller General's Decision B-106704 of 12/14/51.)

REPORTERS BILL FEENEY, LEFT, AND ROBERT JACKSON, right, examine the ISLANDER'S "morgue," or back-issue files, to gather colorful and interesting sidelights for current articles. The morgue also contains issues of service and civilian newspapers from here and abroad which often air in supplying further data for stories. There are more than 150 of these exchange papers in the files.

THE ISLANDER'S ART WORK is in the capable hands of Staff Photographer Jack Beaver, AN, left, and Staff Artist Earl Ehret, AM3. Beaver is responsible for all photography appearing in the paper and works out of the Naval Air Station's Photographic Laboratory. Ehret, whose art studio is located in the Building 317 annex, "touches-up" photographs as well as creating special art work in addition. Both Beaver and Ehret work in cooperation with the Public Information Office in supplying publicity and news release art work.

'Islander' Celebrate s

THIS week marks the seventh anniversary of the first publication of the NORTH ISLANDER as a weekly newspaper for the personnel of the Naval Air Station. In commemoration of this occasion, the staff has requested LCDR H. I. Pemberton, NAS Public Information Officer and Supervising editor of the ISLANDER, to act as honorary editor-in-chief for this issue. The following is an article prepared especially for Lieutenant Commander Pemberton.

Perhaps on one or more of the three hundred sixty-six Fridays during the past seven years when you received your copy of the NORTH ISLANDER, you paused a moment between stories to wonder how those 20,000-plus words of copy and the numerous pictures appearing on the eight pages were put together to form the NORTH ISLANDER. Perhaps you have also wondered who the men are "behind the scenes" who jointly produce the ISLANDER.

Realizing that this may have occurred to some of you, I would like to present in this, its seventh anniversary issue, the story behind its stories and to introduce to you the nine Navy men and one civilian whose combined efforts bring you the NORTH ISLANDER each week.

When the final note of "Carry On" sounds each Monday morning, the eight typewriters in the ISLANDER office, located in Room 2, Building 8, automatically begin turning out the first of the hundreds of pages of copy. The two telephones begin ringing almost immediately bringing in news leads and stories from the station reporters working in c the regular staff.

SPORTS EDITOR ROBERT LAIBLE, YN3, finds "leg work" a must in the sports reporting and editing business in order to cover all the major athletic contests conducted aboard the Naval Air Station. Above, he is shown interviewing Howard Prestwood who is getting in condition for the forthcoming Golden Gloves bouts.

BEFORE THE NORTH ISLANDER GOES TO PRESS, Fayette Copeland, AT2, Editor, and LCDR H. I. Pemberton, NAS Public Information Officer and Supervising Editor, make a thorough check-up of a "dummy" or "lay-out" sheet of one of the pages which will appear in the next issue. This is the last examination before the actual printing begins.

CIVILIAN AND ASSOCIATE EDITOR GEORGE BERGMAN has been on the ISLANDER staff longer than any other member, having joined the staff June 11, 1946. Since that time, it has been his job to assist the editor in collecting and arranging each issue of the NORTH ISLANDER, specializing in civilian news coverage. George is also active in the journalistic circles in San Diego and the surrounding territory.

After the photo is processed, it is returned to the ISLANDER office, inspected, captioned, and submittd. If "touch-up" work is necessary, the picture is sent to Ehret for quality improvement or other art work.

Routine of the next two days is similar to Monday's except that Wednesday noon, the established deadline, all items must be on the editor's desk. Again, Copeland, Hammel, and Bergman, join forces to begin the "dummying" process. The "dummy" is a blank sheet of paper the size of an ISLANDER page on which space for each article is designated as the space is selected, a notation is made on the dummy and the necessary amount of space is allowed for the item.

Wednesday afternoon, material is sent to the printers and photo engravers. The printers set-up the type for "galley proofs"—rough impressions of the copy printed after it is set by the linotype operators—which are proof-read for errors on Thursday when a portion of the staff goes to the printing firm. Meanwhile, the engravers are transferring the photographs onto metal plates which, in turn, reproduce the pictures on newsprint. When the finishing touches are applied to the final proofs, the NORTH ISLANDER goes to press.

Friday morning, the 15,000 copies of the paper are brought to the ISLANDER office and distribution begins throughout the station and area plus mailing distribution to more than 200 recipients all over the world, including many other service newspapers.

North Islander Changed From Monthly Magazine to Weekly Seven Years Ago

By GEORGE BERGMAN

"Islander is Changed from Monthly Magazine to Weekly Newspaper," proclaimed the top page one headline of the North Islander the morning of Friday, January 12, 1945.

Issued under that dateline, with a designation of Volume 1, Number 1, the Naval Air Station weekly newspaper has enjoyed seven years of publication without any great over-all change in appearance. Most noticeable differences between the 1945 version and the present weekly issues are the generally more diversified coverage of "on the Island" news now obtained, and a considerably wider range of pictures used.

Early issues stressed more Navy-wide, and secondary interest stories, plus a wider use of Washington, D. C.(news service articles. World War II was still in progress, and censorship of those days limited local coverage to a considerable extent

But prior to the current version of the North Islander, with its weekly appearance and combined civilian-military news and feature content, there were several forerunner publications worthy of note as we pass this seventh anniversary milestone.

In 1926, and continuing through 1933, "The Trouble Shooter" made its weekly appearance on the station, its four to sixteen pages containing commercial advertising in addition to a well rounded coverage of the local news scene. Among the editors and writers noted from available partial files of the old Trouble Shooter, are Joe Goss, now sports editor of the Long Beach Press Telegram; and Charles M. Hatcher, AMM2, now a feature writer for several national magazines and public information officer for the San Diego Navy Electronics Laboratory.

Next came the North Islander in monthly magazine form, on slick paper. Fine grade artwork and some well written features augmented the limited news coverage which the once a month publication date allowed. The magazine North Islander endured from October, 1942, through 1944, up to the time of conversion into its present format as a weekly Tabloid. Unusual as it may appear, it was a Marine private, Paul W. Pollock, who was first editor of the magazine, North Islander. Following him came Frederick Fast, Seaman First Class, who took over as editor in November, 1943. His successor was cartoon-artist deluxe "Windy" Winn, Seaman First Class, who remained until the closing days of publication of the magazine in December, 1944.

Many civilians will remember the North Island Star, and its editor, Florence C. Brown. The Star, published entirely on the Air Station, was a first class lithograph job of four to eight pages, reflecting the activities of the civil service population of North Island effectively and consistently. Its life span extended from January 1944 until the eventual merger with the present North Islander, in July, 1945. Mrs. Brown now employed in the O&R Department, continued for many months as associate editor of the bigger weekly North Islander, has held several civilian journalistic positions since.

Roy Curtis, S1c, held the reins of the North Islander from the first 1945 issue until November of that year, being relieved as editor by Roy James, AM3, upon receiving his discharge. Curtis, when last heard from, was editing a thriving weekly in Los Angeles. James remained as editor of the Islander only until February, 1946, when he returned to civilian life, where he has been in charge of a Southern California small city weekly paper ever since.

James B. Koomar, AM2c, was successor to Editor James, staying at the helm until the end of April, 1946, then returning to civilian life. Bob Murphree, AM1, took over briefly as one of the series of "demobilization" editors, staying until June, when he received his own discharge. Arthur V. Mobley, AM2, the next editor, brought the paper up to the present era, leaving in 1948 for a civilian journalism career.

Several more recent changes in the editorial position of the North Islander, are well known to most personnel now attached to the station .

Amendment Alters Policy For Promotion

Civilian employees of the Naval Air Station will be interested in the major changes brought about by the Whitten Amendment to the 1952 Appropriation Act. The amendment established certain regulations governing promotions and reassignments which will have considerable effect on all employees and, in many cases, will withhold promotions until certain time limits have passed.

Although the Whitten Amendment applies specifically to graded positions, the Civil Service Commission is applying the same regulations to promotions and reassignments to ungraded positions effective 5 March 1952. Further details on the affect of the amendment to ungraded employees will be provided prior to 5 March.

The specific regulations are as follows:

a. Reassignments.

(1) To GS-5 or Lower. An employee may be reassigned after completion of three (3) months of service after competitive appointment.

(2) To GS-6 or Above. Employees may be reassigned after six (6) months of service after competitive appointment.

b. Promotions.

(1) To GS-5 or Lower. An employee may be promoted after completion of three (3) months of service after his last competitve (indefinite) appointment except that he may not be advanced more than two (2) grades above the lowest grade he held within the past twelve months since his:

(a) Last permanent or indefinite appointment, or

(b) Last promotion, transfer to a higher grade, or appointment to a higher grade.

(2) To GS-6 or Above. An employee may be promoted not more than one (1) grade above the lowest grade he held within the past twelve (12) months after a permanent or indefinite appointment, following the completion of twelve (12) months of service after:

(a) Last permanent or indefinite appointment which began his current period of continuous Federal employment, or

(b) Last promotion, transfer to a higher grade, or appointment to a higher grade (whichever is later).

(1-) Exceptions to One Grade Restriction. Employees may be advanced two (2) grades above the lowest grade held within past 12 months when:

(a-) Position to be filled is not higher than a grade GS-11, and is in a line of work properly classified at two (2) grade intervals under the Classification Act of 1949, or

(b-) When the position to be filled is in the agency, e.g., Department of the Navy, in which he is serving, and there is no position in the normal line of promotion in the grade immediately below that of the position to be filled and prior approval of the Civil Service Commission has been obtained.

c. Exceptions.

(1) Employee is within reach on a Civil Service register in regular order for a competitive appointment to the position to be filled.

(2) Promotion is effected in accordance with terms of a training agreement which has been approved by the Civil Service Commission.

(3) Promotion to any grade or level up to that from which he had ever been demoted or separated, by any agency, because of reduction in force. Any time or grade requirement for advancement above the grade or level from which he had been separated or demoted shall begin with the effective date of his advancement to that grade.

GET ACQUAINTED

As you walk into the Public Works Personnel Office you will see what looks like a mass of telephone cord sitting in front of a desk. If you should push the people aside and walk up to the desk you will find (but who else) Dick Keller, along with his boss K. P. Sachs. He is acting in an advisory capacity with personnel relations which has to be handled in accordance with the NCPI rules and regulations.

Dick Keller first came to work in the machine shop at NAS in 1943 and was here only a short time until he enlisted in the Navy in 1944.

Flight Engineer PBM

During his tour of duty he was assigned to a combat air crew as flight engineer in a PBM squadron. In 1946 he was discharged on the point system and returned to his job at NAS. Shortly after being assigned to the Public Works Personnel Shop, in October, 1950, he took his exxamination for Shop Personnel Supervisor and was appointed to that capacity March 3, 1951.

Before coming to NAS he left the University of Kansas at midterm in 1940 and then took employment as machinist for Consolidated. In the past few years he has taken extension courses at the University of California in tool designing, engineering math and inspection. Then he enrolled at San Diego Junior College and acquired a teacher's credential. This was not enough education as he entered the hundred hour supervisor training course as a machinist in PW training Building 5 after working hours.

Dick's pet moral obligation is the North Island Association. He has been a member and a very active one, in the association since shortly after it was formed in 1949. He was Vice-President in charge of membership in 1950 and then treasurer in 1951.

He belongs to the La Mesa American Legion Post 282 and the 40 and 8 club. He is also finance chairman of Wilson District Boy Scouts of America. The rest of his spare time is spent studying Factory Management which he considers his hobby.

LCDR Oveland Reports to AirPac

LCDR. Collin I. Oveland, USN, former commander of Fighter Squadron 871, has reported to the staff of Commander Air Force, Pacific Fleet at NAS. He will assume the duties of Assistant Carrier Air Group Training Officer.

As Commander of VF-781, Lt. CDR. Oveland and his squadron were one of the first Navy squadrons reporting to active duty after the start of Korean hostilities. He was also one of the first Reservists to qualify in the Navy's Panther jet.

A flyer during most of World War II, he wears the Distinguished Flying Cross, Seven Air Medals, the Purple Heart, Presidential Unit Citation, Asiatic-Pacific Ribbon with seven battle stars, Pre-Pearl Harbor ribbon, World War II Victory Medal, Japanese Occupation ribbon, and the Korean area ribbon.

VP-731 "SKIPPER" PROMOTED TO CDR.

William T. O'Dowd, USN, of Palm City, California, Commanding Officer of Patrol Squadron 731 based at San Diego, has been promoted to the rank of Commander by Navy Department order.

TEN BUCKS and 48-hour liberty will go to a lucky enlisted man stationed at ALF Ream. This is the prize being offered in a contest to select a name for this section of the North Islander.

The contest is limited to the enlisted men stationed at ALF Ream. Only one entry to a contestant. The contest closes at 1630 January 15, 1952.

Entries should be turned into LCDR Nyhan or LT Chamberlin, Room 19, Bldg. 8 at ALF Ream.

'Whirlybird' Squadron Has Outstanding Rescue Record

Over 200 pilots and air crewmen have been plucked from the "jaws of death" during the present Korean action by Helicopter Squadron ONE. HU-1, stationed at ALF Ream, has units and detachments deployed in the combat areas.

One "whirlybird" pilot facetiously pointed out that the basis of life insurance alone, Helicopter Squadron ONE has saved the Veteran's Administration well over two million dollars by rescuing servicemen who otherwise would have been lost.

"At $10,000 insurance value each! We're happy to be graded on our cost consciousness!" he said. Naturally, HU-1 people do not consider their rescue work in monetary terms. They feel the helicopter has proven its life-saving capabilities in the past months of the Korean conflict.

During the last six months of 1951, of the 62 rescues performed by the squadron, 49 were water pickups and 13 were land rescues deep within enemy territory. Twelve were made under enemy fire.

Capt Woods New UtWingPac CO

Woods served as staff aviation officer of Amphibious Force, Atlantic Fleet and later as commanding officer of USS CHARGER (CVE-30).

In 1948 Captain Woods was ordered to duty in the Buerau of Aeronautics as Director of the Shore Establishments Division. While serving in this capacity he conceived the "Long Range Development Plan for Naval Aeronautics Shore Establishments" which is currently in use and known as the "Woods Plan."

Captain Lewis, who is ordered to report to the Office of Bureau of Aeronautics General Representative, Eastern Division, is a graduate of Harvard University. As an ensign in the naval reserve he was designated a naval aviator at Pensacola in July, 1931, and served with Scouting Squadron ONE in 1931-32. Later he served with various reserve squadrons at Floyd Bennett Field, New York, until recalled to active duty in 1939. During World War II he served aboard USS SARATOGA in the Pacific.

As commanding officer of Naval Air Facility, Litchfield Park, Ariz., in 1949, Captain Lewis became acquainted with Captain Woods, who was then serving as Director of the Shore Establishments Division.

GET SMART, BOY

'READIN', WRITIN', AND 'RITHMETIC' NAVY STYLE

"My education must wait" is an old phrase around the Navy barracks.

But why? Men at ALF Ream are getting their educations in the Navy!

Many Navy men are now training for the future, while in the Navy today. The education officers of the several squadrons can enroll men in Armed Forces Institute Courses. Or, if actual classroom study is required, the Navy will pay part of your tuition if you attend an accredited school in your spare time.

Get your yeoman-friend to show you BuPers Circular Letter 178-50, entitled Partial Payment of Tuition for Off-duty Courses, for further information.

Prominent among the men stationed at ALF Ream who are well known to their Education Officers, who are advancing themselves while in the Navy, are: E. P. Bolen, AN; J. R. Jean, AF3; and J. Rispoldi, ADAN of VU-7; R. D. Jeax, AN; J. A. Doiron, V. W. Smith, ADAA, J. J. Crowther, AD3, of VU-3(K); G. E. Hoiten, AKAN D. E. Slaughter, AN, H. Cardoza, AD1(AP), J. C. Marks, AD2 of HU-1.

Men like these do not intend to lose educational opportunities.

ALF Ream CPO Club Has New Manager

N. A. Haas, ADC, of the Welfare and Recreation department of ALF Ream, was elected club manager of the new CPO club on 7 January. The previous manager, J. J. Webber, ADC, of VU-7, reported to North Island for duty.

Chief Haas stated that all active and retired Chief Petty Officers in the South Bay Area are invited to visit the Ream Field CPO club. Bingo is played every Wednesday night at 2000 and food is served.

VU-7 SHOWS HIGH-FLYING SPIRIT

The men of Utility Squadron Seven at ALF Ream have recently been showing to great advantage their tremendous high-flying spirit.

On the job the maintenance crews have shown a 92.4 flight availability, in spite of a heavy operational schedule. This fact was magnified during the recent formal inspection when VU-7 was awarded the rating of excellent.

In field squadron work, the men of Utility Squadron Seven point with pride to their maintenance night check crew, attributing to it much of the credit for the outstanding level of aircraft availability which has been achieved.

In sports, the spirit of this group again pushed them over the top to win team trophies in boxing, wrestling and badminton. In an overall glance we see that Utility Squadron Seven's teams are leading the Fleet Air Detachment, ALF Ream sports league.

All of the foregoing has led up to only one thing: VU-7 is out to win, whatever it's doing, in sports or in work.

HU-1 TAKES VU-7 IN ALF REAM'S BASKETBALL FINALS

Basketball enthusiasm has reached a new high in the HU-1 area as a result of the varsity's recent victory over VU-7, 54-53, in the finals of the ALF Ream championship play-off. In this game the outcome was not decided until after the final gun had sounded, due to the fact that a personal foul was called as the whistle blew. The foul shot was missed however, and HU-1 was victorious.

An interesting sidelight to this game is the fact that HU-1 and VU-7 have met three times now, HU-1 winning each time; a total of only seven points separated the teams in aggregate scoring.

Helicopter One's starting team is composed of Erger and Dennis, forwards; Bartz at center, Beuey and Hogan guards. Others who capably alternate at the various positions are Bilby, Ross, Jaggers, Caldwell, Stanley, Severns and Rogan.

Victories have been scored by Helicopter Squadron One over FASRon 701, VU-3 twice, VU-7 three times, USS SKAGIT, USS SPERRY and ComAirPac Administration. Losses have been to FASRon 701, Los Alamitos, and USS DELTA.

On tap in the near future is the start of the Southwestern League of the 11th Naval District.

Trophies Awarded

At the next Squadron Personnel inspections, the Individual and Team trophies will be awarded to the men of HU-1, VU-3 and VU-7, for basketball, boxing, wrestling and badminton.

Results of FAD Ream Wrestling are:

Ramirez (HU-1) dec. Patalano (HU-1) for middleweight.

Lawerence (VU-3) Lt. Heavyweight by default.

Thornton (VU-7) dec. Alberts (VU-7) for Heavyweight.

Results of FAD Ream Badminton Playoffs:

Meehan (VU-3) def. Wheeler (HU-1) for singles title, 4-15, 15-14, 15-2.

Meehan and Jacobs (VU-2) def. Wheeler and Lovekiss (HU-1), 15-11, 15-3.

In the finals VU-7 defeated VU-3 for FAD Ream Field championships. Meehan (VU-3) defeated Palmer (VU-7) in singles play, 12-15, 15-6, 15-1. Palmer and Liss (VU-7) defeated Meehan and Jacobs (VU-3) in doubles play, 16-14, 15-1.

VU-7 were the team champions because the athletic officers agreed to count 2 points for doubles and one point for singles.

DANCE SLATED FOR 19 JANUARY

The overwhelming success of the parties held on 21 December and on New Years day at the new ALF Ream Officers' Club has decided the entertainment committee to schedule a dance for 19 January, LCDR Nyhan USN, chairman of the committee, said yesterday.

Dancing to the rhythms of Jay Gould's band will last from 2000 to 2400. The admission will be $1.00 per person.

Lt. Ben Leathers, club manager, urged all local officers to come and bring their friends.

The entertainment committee of the club is made up of LCDR S. L. Nyhan, UtWingPac, LTJG A. W. Romans, VU-7, ENS W. C. Braun, VU-3(K), and Lt. J. Hogan, HU-1.

"Apparently they like the friendly atmosphere of our little club," said LCDR Nyhan, "because I've noticed more and more of the officers from other stations coming here to have fun."

POST OFFICE MOVES TO NEW LOCATION

The ALF Ream postoffice is slated to move by next Monday, G. M. Crandell, TEMC announced this week. Abandoning its present spaces in building 8, the U. S. Mail will henceforth be processed in the new headquarters in building 39, in the FASRon Area.

"They're hurrying to complete the new postoffice, and we may get moved in before that," the Chief commented today.

The Officer-in-Charge of the FASRon 701 Detachment moved Tuesday from building 39 to building 4 in the VU-7 area.

NAS Grapplers Prep For NTC Meet

C. E. VONK (left) and B. G. Castleman execute one of the holds which may be used in the forthcoming NTC Invitational. Daily wrestling workouts like these are helping to get the Skyraiders in excellent shape.

The Skyraiders wrestling team is fast whipping into shape for the forthcoming Naval Training Center Invitational which is to take place at NTC on the 17 and 18 of this month.

As part of their rugged training, the grapplers worked out with the San Diego State College wrestlers last Wednesday. In addition to their daily inter-squad matches, Coach Cote is having each man run two miles a day after each workout.

Presently made up of seven wrestlers, the Skyraiders consist of two 135 pounders, Carroll Vonk and Kent Townley. The latter winning the FAIRBETUPac intramural wrestling tournament last month.

One hundred twenty-five pound Bert Mehl makes up the lighter side of the squad, with Tom Dillow, veteran of last year wrestling at 147 pounds.

Another returning veteran from last year's rugged AirPac squad is All-Navy tackle Ray Verkerk. Verk is reported to be in excellent condition, mainly due to his efforts on last season's football team.

After the Training Center Invitational, the Skyraiders will go into intensive training for the YMCA tournament which is to be held on 28 and 29 January.

Ski Club Makes Trip To Green Valley

Monday morning found thirteen tired but happy "snow bunnies" back on duty after spending the weekend skiing at Green Valley. Warm sunny weather and perfect snow conditions combined to give the Islanders one of the best weekends of the season.

There will be no trip this weekend due to lack of transportation.

This has become an increasing problem and many have been unable to go because of lack of private cars. This will be overcome if a large enough number show up for the next meeting.

The Naval Station has indicated its willingness to supply weekly ski busses to the ski areas provided sufficient interest is shown, and Special Services is considering the purchase of surplus skis for issue to personnel. This combined with reduced rates for food, lodgings and ski tows, will cut the total cost of a week-end below ten dollars.

The club is open to all Naval personnel, their dependents or guests, and civilian employees of the Naval Air Station.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, 15 January at 7::30 p. m., in the Administration Building Auditorium. A movie will be shown, election of officers held, and plans formulated for the rest of the season.

This will be the most important meeting of the year and all personnel interested are urgently requested to attend. If you find it impossible to attend but are definitely interested you may call the NAS Athletic Office and leave your name and telephone number.

CDR J. R. Thompson CO Of Anti-Sub Squadron

CDR Thomson succeeds Commander Robert A. Weatherup, USN as the new skipper of Air Anti-Submarine Squadron 892. Before taking his new command, CDR Thomson was on the Staff of Fleet Air Wing, where he served as Flag Secretary.

Some of his previous duty stations have been aboard the heavy cruiser USS PENSACOLA, with Bomber-Fighter Squadron 86 on the USS WASP, and with escort carriers USS BOGUE and USS SAIDOR.

Among his decorations are the Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal, Navy Unit Citation, Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with eight battle stars, and the American Defense ribbons.

MAC HUNTER WINS L.A. OPEN; ENTERS S.D. EVENT JAN. 17

MacGregor Hunter, airman of North Island, son of the famous professional Wee Willie Hunter, won the amateur division of the 72-hole Los Angeles Open Golf tournament which ended Monday at the Riviera Links. He was awarded the mammoth MacDonald Smith Memorial Trophy.

Hunter's 301 total was not remarkable unless the unco-operative nature of the soggy fairways and greens be considered. But his last round performance of 72, after a not too impressive three days of 74-76-79 shooting, established him as a lad who can come back strongly to win.

He topped a rugged field of the West's best amateurs, including John Finney, former Walker Cupper Bruce McCormick, National Jr. Champ Bud Holscher, present National Pub Links Champ Dave Stanley, and Irving Cooper who recently tied with Lloyd Mangrum for the Montebello Open. Finney and Holscher placed two strokes behind Hunter in the big L. A. event.

Most of these and other top play-for-fun golfers will be on hand to give Mac a run for it next week, in the San Diego Open at Chula Vista Country Club. Barring additional rains, some much better scores should be recorded in the first Annual holding of the San Diego event, which will find the professionals gathering much of the publicity and all the $10,000 in prize money while the amateurs vie for title and trophy.

Three North Island entrants in qualifying rounds for the San Diego tourney are amateurs Joe Burdine, Frenchy Marcoux, and Walt Axcell. Hunter, as a top seeded contestant, will be exempt from the qualifying play which takes place Monday at La Jolla Country Club.

BUCKEYES OF FAS-691 STILL LEAGUE LEADERS

That's how things shaped up in the Southeastern League after FASRon 691's Buckeyes put on the most spectacular 2nd half comeback of the year. The "Comeback Kids" fought their way back from a 13-point deficit to gain a thrilling 64-62 decision over the Camp Pendleton Navy Hospital Monday evening.

J. L. Gilham, 691's leading scorer, swished a 30-foot field goal with 2 seconds remaining to cap a 2nd half comeback that could be staged only by a team of Champions.

Completely outplayed in every phase by the CamPenMen throughout 1st half play, 691's charges were smarting under that seemingly invincible 13-point deficit at intermission. But, refusing to be knocked off their lofty perch atop the league, the Greeleymen picked up that 'spark' that has been igniting their offense all season long and cut loose with a barrage of goals seldom equalled in this league.

The Bucks were within 5 points when the 4th period got under way as they completely bottled up the Corpmen's offense and outscored them 21-13 in the 3rd stanza. LT. Greely's boys were a fired-up team at this point, and everyone in the house knew right there that the Buckeyes were going to go on to overhaul the leaders.

It was the 6th in a row and 13th in their last 14 times out for the league-leaders as they established themselves as top-heavy favorites to sweep to the Southeastern League Championship.

WAVE Bowlers And NTC Tie

The NAS WAVES Bowling Team split with the No. 1 team from NTC last Wednesday night at NAS, each taking two games each. The tie still left the NTC No 1 team in first place in the district league with NAS remaining second.

Jeanette Haver did a repeat performance by grabbing the high game and high series. Her highest game was 197 with a series of 490. Ruth Koons' high game for NTC was 163.

The WAVES will bowl the Lady Marines from Camp Pendleton next Wednesday night at Pendleton.

Price, who joined the Navy in 1949, has been fighting in the Navy circuit ever since.

Pin Busters Add To Bowling Lead

Stomping the second place Easy Aces for four big ones, the Pin Busters bounced out into a more convincing lead Tuesday night, in the NACRA Mixed Bowling League.

In the first renewal of play since the holidays, the Pin Busters racked up a series total of 2491 and a top game score of 848 to bring their season record to 48 wins and 16 losses, seven games out in front.

With nine weeks of play remaining, it commences to look like a two-way race between the leading pair of teams, the third spot Ten Pinners having just an outside chance of closing the six-game gap that exists between them and the second place outfit. Carl Caster's 541 for the Ten Pinners, was the best individual series effort during the ten team league's Tuesday night play. Jim Dossey, of the ninth place Woodpeckers, bounced a 204 to lead in individual game scores.

Bonnie Rogers, of the Mixups, topped women for individual game honors with a 187, while Lucile Morrison of the Just Us Five combine, had high individual series with a 472.

Skyraider Cagers Win One, Lose Two; Waves Dump NTC; Meet MCRD Tonite

With a "We'll teach 'em to sneak up on us unexpected like" attitude apparent all over them, the embattled basketball Skyraiders bristled up and erupted all over George Air Force Base Thursday evening, January 3, ending up with a neat 73 to 35 victory.

Returning home from a losing road game Wednesday with San Francisco University Junior Varsity, the Skyraiders were suddenly confronted by the Air Force quintet, which showed up for a contest that Coach Hal Boudreau and his Naval Airmen had thought they had cancelled many weeks ago. They hastily regrouped and stood by to repel boarders, Navy style.

Led by a 13-point scoring binge on the part of center Max Kephart, and plentiful support from the entire cast, the Skyraiders bounced into an early lead, which they steadily lengthened throughout the lop-sided contest.

Halftime score was 37-21, Skyraiders.

Lose to NTC, PHIBPac

Last Friday, the 'Raiders dropped a 63-46 verdict to NTC, continuing their slump Tuesday by blowing a 60-45 game to the same PhibPac outfit they had dumped twice during earlier meetings this season.

Waves Win a Pair

The WAVIATORS, NAS WAVES quintet, "shook" the defending champion NTC WAVES, 45 to 37, for their second straight Girls' League victory. Led by "Butch" Glover, who bucketed 30 points, and Georgia Hounshell with 9, the WAVES were the bright spot on last Friday's program.

Meet MCRD Tonight

Tonight at 2000 at the Skyraider gym traditional rivalry will take place between the Naval Air Skyraiders and the Marine Corps Recruit Depot Devildogs when they clash for the first time this season.

MCRD was beaten only three times last season in all their league games. NTC smashed them twice, and AirPac dumped them once, but dropped two after that.

Up again from their loss to PhibPac, the Skyraiders have been holding daily workouts in preparation for the Marines, and are reported to be in the best of condition for tonight's game.

The WAVES will tangle with the MCRD Women Marines tonight at 1830, just prior to the varsity game.

ALTHOUGH WELL covered by the opposing players, Butch Glover got this one away to score another basket against the Bluejackettes from NTC. One woman team Glover scored 30 out of the 45 points needed to beat NTC.

JIM GREWE executes one of his famous hook shots against USF. Skyraiders lost the game by a slim three points.

WINS CLOSE DECISION FOR SEASON'S HONORS

George W. Wells of the Supply Department was given the title of Captain's Cup Athlete of the Year at the end of a close race for 1951's top honors. Wells won by a close margin of one vote over a strong contender, T. L. McKenzie, of Metal Machine.

He was selected by the Captain's Cup Executive Committee which met last Tuesday to vote on the winner. Wells drew five votes, while McKenzie drew a close four.

Wells reported aboard the Naval Air Station in April of last year from Storekeeper School at the Naval Training Center. He is presently working in the Clothing and Small Stores.

A member of Supply's track and touch football team which won the Captain's Cup Championship this year, he also played intramural basketball, and was a member of the NAS varsity softball team last season.

In track he won the 220 and 395, and was a member of the winning 440 relay team.

Wells is from Winnsboro, South Carolina, and attended Mount Zion High School there. During his high school days he earned a total of ten letters. Three in football as a quarterback, four in basketball as a guard, and three in baseball as a second baseman.

He was an All-State guard in 1950, was a member of the All-District basketball team, and was named Top Athlete in the senior class also in 1950.

Wells is planning to keep on participating in nearly every intramural sport. He will be presented a trophy at the next Commanding Officer's Personnel Inspection.

His team spirit and his will to win was one of the deciding factors in this year's race for the 1951 Captain's Cup Athlete.

AirPac Sports

Those perennial powers of AirPac intramural sports—the Raiders from FAIRBETUPac — have again painted their names in a first place.

The Raiders annexed the second half of the intramural basketball American league Wednesday by dumping VR-32 by a 43-36 score. The victory left the Raiders with a second half record of 6-1. Every other team in the league has lost at least two games.

The Raiders will now go into a two-out-of-three playoff series with the first half winner, VC-35, to decide who will represent the American loop in the championship playoff against the National division.

At this stage of the race, it still looks like the USS SICILY will come through the National bracket unblemished. After waltzing through the initial half undefeated, the carrier crew has piled up six straight wins in the second half and needs only one game to assure them of the "grand slam." But that "one more game" could prove very troublesome, because it is with the much-improved FASRon-691 club. The Buckeyes of LT. Greely's have lost only one game in second half play and prove a definite threat to the SICILY'S ambition of an all-victorious season. If the SICILY comes through, then it's all over. But, if FASRon-691 upsets the dope-bucket, the two clubs will be forced into a play-off to decide the second half winner. This game is scheduled for Monday, 14 Janpary, at 0900.

Captain's Cup Lowdown

—by "Les"

Basketball again is in full swing now that the holidays are over. Each league is putting on quite a race.

In the National League, Metal Machine and Plant are setting the pace with four wins and no defeats. In the American League, Special Services and Supply are leading the league with a six win and no defeat for Special Services and a perfect record of four wins and no defeats for the "Keepers of the Keys."

The Captain's Cup Executive Committee met last Tuesday to select and also to decide the outstanding athlete for 1951. It was a very close race as both boys are very good all around athletes. G. W. Wells from Supply received five votes while T. L. McKenzie from Metal Machine received four.

Congratulations go to G. W. Wells from the Captain's Cup Program. Wells' greatest asset to his team was his spirit to win, a great example for all Captain's Cup participants to follow.

Due to the fact that three sports must be p layed before winter ends, there will be no second half basketball. The other three sports are handball, volleyball, and badminton.

Those who wish to participate in handball must have their entries in by the sixteenth of this month.

25 Jan. Deadline For AirPac Sports Entries

Chief Jim Freeman, AirPac inter/intramural sport co-ordinator, announced that entries for the winter intramural sport programs should be in prior to 25 January. The winter program includes handball, volleyball, horseshoes and bowling. Squadrons are requested to submit a written sheet to, STAFF ATHLETIC OFFICER, COMAIRPAC, prior to 25 January.

The NORTH ISLANDER
U.S. NAVAL AIR STATION
VOLUME VIII SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 18, 1952 No. 3

25 NEW GROUP 3 RATINGS SET UP FOR O&R EMPLOYEES

In accordance with a recent Office of Industrial Relations letter, twenty-five new Group III laborer, helper, and mechanical service ratings have been established in the Overhaul & Repair Department.

The specialized titles included in the new list of ratings are to be applied on a trial basis at North Island, as well as at NAS Jacksonville, Fla., during the six months' period commencing 28 January.

A review of ungraded positions existing in the O & R Department is currently being undertaken in order that the areas of assignments belonging in the specialist ratings will be determined. The above-mentioned OIR letter furnished approved job descriptions which will be used for this purpose.

During the trial period, all vacancies in the specialist ratings listed shall be filled by new hires, transfers, or promotions. Hiring in the ratings of Aircraft Mechanic, General; Aircraft Instrument Mechanic; Aircraft Mechanic, Motor; Aircraft Mechanic, Propeller; Electrician, Aircraft; Metalsmith, Aviation; and Aircraft Mechanic, Ordnance, shall be restricted until all positions which have been determined to be properly those of specialists, have been filled. Exception to this ruling will be only when specific workload requirements establish a need for full-time assignments of additional workers in the basic trades positions listed in this paragraph.

Every attempt is to be made to utilize fully the skills and knowledge of those employees assigned to basic trades positions in a manner which will clearly dis-

HOUSE PASSES 10% MILITARY PAY RAISE

A bill to increase Military pay by 10 percent passed the House of Representatives Tuesday, and was the first major bill passed by Congress this session. It still has to get the Senate's approval and the President's signature before it becomes law.

Passing by a 30-vote margin over the two-thirds majority necessary, the increase would become effective the first day of the month following passage. Housing allowances would be increased but not overseas and flight pay.

LIBERTY HOP JUMPS ALONG

Comedy, Music, Talent—and all for FREE—that's the "Plan of the Day" for the company of "Liberty Hop," new extravaganza being staged for the delight of military personnel in the 11th and 12th Naval District.

The show is in full rehearsal now, and the tentative date for the premier performance is February 13.

An original production, with words and music by well known North Island personalities Buddy Viotti and Jack Thomas; this show should bring laughter and applause from the men in the military service.

Plans for the show have been worked on for some six weeks, but not until January 8 were auditions held. From the many people trying out for the parts, 16 chorus and 19 specialty acts have been assigned.

During the show's road trip, Naval Air Station talent will compete with that from the military installations being visited. To the winner of each individual contest will be awarded an engraved "loving cup" as a souvenir of the occasion.

This entire revue is being handled under the supervision of Lieutenant Commander Robert E. Empy, Special Services Officer. In charge of a few of the intricate details are: Miss Betty Hatty, original costumes—W. F. Radley and Rebob Hanson, art and set directors—Bruce MacBeth and John J. Johnson, makeup men.

The "Liberty Hop," will not be a "run of the mill," comedy revue. There will be no individual starring roles. Instead of having one central star take the leading part the revue will consist of many individuals taking roles in a group of independent scenes.

Cathy's Case, A Reason for Polio Drive

North Islander readers will recall that for the past two years Cathy Gilmore opened the March of Dimes drive at North Island.Cathy, who was striken with polio in 1947, helped NAS make a record contribution to the effort last year. Her courageous, three-year battle to conquer the disease symbolized to many people the importance of the March of Dimes effort.

Cathy, now five, is still carrying her fight to overcome crippling effects of the disease. She attends kindergarten and participates in most of the activities of children her age.

Her mother, Mrs. Frank C. Gilmore, says Cathy's "case is progressing slowly, but she never gets discouraged." She now receives treatment from the San Diego Crippled Children's Convalescent Home.

"Without the assistance of the March of Dimes in the past, Cathy could never have received the excellent treatments that have enabled her to walk," said Mrs. Gilmore. The organization continues to help Cathy.

CDR WELLS TAKES NAS IRO POST

CDR Melvin T. Wells relieved Robert S. Putnam as Industrial Relations Officer of Naval Air Station, San Diego, Friday, January 11. The move was made in compliance withBuAer instructions that all Industrial Relations Department heads be active duty

CDR. MELVIN T. WELLS

Naval officers of the rank of LCDR or CDR.

Putnam, who has held the office of IRO for the past five years, will remain as assistant to CDR Wells in line with the new policy, to provide continuity to the department's operation through future routine changes in assignment of IR officers.

Commander Wells comes to North Island from a two year tour of duty in an identical capacity at Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

Quoting a recent issue of the NAS Pensacola GOSPORT, "all his associates (at Pensacola) will remember him as an officer with a ready wit and a smile for every occasion, and one who can handle a difficult situation with level-headed reasoning."

Navy Relief Auxiliary Branch Established at Station Chapel

Permission has been granted to establish a Navy Relief Auxiliary Branch No. 1 at the Naval Air Station. All personnel including Naval Air based, who may need Navy Relief assistance may now make application for assistance at the Naval Air Station.

The Commanding Officer of the Naval Air Station has appointed the Senior Chaplain, CDR Samuel B. Bennett, as the representative for the Navy Relief Society for this branch.

The purpose of organizing a Relief branch at this Command is for the convenience of the servicemen and to expedite the processing of applications for Navy Relief loans. The Naval Air Station Chapel office will be used as the center for interviews.

All Military personnel who may qualify for financial assistance from the Navy Relief Auxiliary may be interviewed by the representative. The application forms are provided by the representative. He will complete the forms and deliver them by messenger to the main office for final action. If the loan is approved, a check will be available in about one day.

All men who may qualify for Navy Relief assistance have a choice of being interviewed by the representative at this station, or going to the main office in San Diego, which is in the Broadway Navy Pier Building. There is considerable overlapping between the Navy Relief Society and the American Red Cross. Both are for the purpose of rendering assistance to the serviceman and his dependents. Men may choose which organization they desire when asking for assistance.

Skyraiders Trip CruDesPac 49-42 Take on NTC Bluejackets Tuesday

Getting back into a wininng stride after a disastrous three-game losing streak, Coach Hal Boudreau's Naval Air Skyraiders pasted a 49 to 42 drubbing onto the CruDesPackers Tuesday, Jan. 15, at Skyraider Gym. (See detailed story on page 8).

Last night the 'Raiders met a tough Camp Pendleton Leatherneck quintet, on the Marines' court. They play next at Naval Training Center, Tuesday evening, hoping to find the range and upset the Recruits.

"WELL, THEN, YOU'D BETTER GET HELP 'cause the time's drawing near." This statement will probably become one of the most often repeated warnings uttered during the next few weeks before the income tax return deadline falls. Above, Robert Lee Harder, SN, and Louie Salazar, PNSN, both of the NAS Personnel office, realize that their questions must be answered pretty quickly because "that time's drawing near again."

Making Out Tax Return Isn't So Hard If You Know How

Last Tuesday NAS military personnel received their W-2 forms—a grim reminder that March 15 is nearer than most of us think.

The problem is "what do you do with the W-2 form now that you have it?" That's just one of the questions related to arriving at the March 15 deadline successfull.

LT. A. T. Taylor, NAS Disbursing Officer, and his staff are willing to offer assistance to any sailor in making out his income tax report. However, since the average person's income tax problem isn't as great as it may seem at first, Lieutenant Taylor believes that answers to a few typical questions will enable most persons to make out their return unassisted. Those who have special problems, of course, should come to the disbursing office for help, says Lieutenant Taylor. Here are answers to the questions:

Q—What do you do with the W-2 form received last payday?

A—The W-2 form came to you in original and duplicate copies. Attach the original copy to your Income Tax form, and mail it to the Collector of Internal Revenue.

Q—Where can you obtain the long or short forms for filing your tax?

A—Both the long and the short tax forms may be obtained at the NAS Disbursing office.

Q—Where do you send your tax form and W-2 statement?

A—The men who have not previously filed Income Tax, and do not have an established residence, send their forms to The Collector of Internal Revenue, Baltimore 2, Maryland. For men who have previously filed Income Tax, and have a permanent residence established, file at the same Internal Revenue Office they have previously filed.

Q—Which form would be best for me to use? The 1040 (long) or 1040A (short).

A—In most cases it is advisable for a Navy man to file the 1040A

E. C. Wilson, Bond Winner, Found Aboard USS Whiting

E. C. Wilson, AN, winner of the $100 savings bond given away in the December MG drawing, has been located, according to word received by the Commanding Officer recently.

Wilson, whose exact whereabouts were unknown, was found to be aboard the USS KENNETH WHITING (AV-14), his present duty station. The WHITING is now on duty somewhere in the Pacific.

He was informed that his ticket number 7356, which was given him when he made a contribution to the fund being raised at the time to sponsor the Christmas party for children in this area of deceased Naval aviation personnel, was the lucky number entitling him to the $100 bond.

Other winners in the December 7 drawing were D. E. Johnston, TE3, of the USS VALLEY FORGE, winner of the MG; and CHPLK J. T. Pierce, of the NAS Commissary, winner of the television set.

"HE THAT IS NOT WITH ME IS AGAINST ME"

Perhaps the greatest fallacy of our day is the one which says that a man can be neutral where God is concerned. Hundreds of thousands make a creed of indifference. They are neither hot nor cold. They are luke-warm. They straddle a hundred fences every day in their dealings with God and the moral law and never give such behaviour a second thought. They are the people who always think any religious discussion is out of place.

Who hasn't heard that old bromide about "religion and politics." It has never occurred to them that religious ideals and political philosophies are the two most important subjects that exist; the only ones actually worth discussing. To speak of hell, the likelihood of its existence, is taboo. It's such bad taste, don't you know. To state that reason demands a final judgment wherein a just God orders a reckoning from His creatures brings forth a yawn from our indifferentists. "Let's not get shook" is their meaty reply to such a concept.

The man who remains indifferent to Christ will always be against Our Blessed Lord. "You are either with Me or against Me." We cannot brush Christ off as we do a fly buzzing around us. God cannot be dismissed so summarily. The most violent language Christ ever used was against those who are indifferent to Him, "Because you are neither hot nor cold but lukewarm, I shall begin to vomit thee out of my mouth." We can't be neutral with Christ. We can't be indifferent to God. We can only try to be, and when we are that way we are against Him.

41 YEARS AGO . . .

NAVAL AVIATION HISTORY MADE JANUARY 18, 1911

The armored cruiser, USS PENNSYLVANIA, lay at anchor in San Francisco Bay on the morning of January 18, 1911. To the people of the city, she looked rather strange, for her familiar lines had been altered by the addition of an awkward raised platform extending from the stern to the bridge deck.

Another phase of aviation history was about to unfold that morning. From Tanforen Aviation Field, ten miles distant, a Curtiss biplane, the latest thing in aircraft, was winging its way to the PENNSYLVANIA at a 60 mph pace.

The airplane, approaching the ship at 1500 feet, was piloted by Eugene B. Ely, the famous "knight of the air." Dropping his plane to 100 feet and completing a turn about 500 yards from the cruiser's starboard quarter, Ely cut the engine and the biplane glided onto the deck at 40 mph, coming to a stop within 70 feet.

Ely calmly stepped from his plane and observed his feat as if it were a routine task. The Curtiss, now an item of history, was turned around and the engine started. Ely climbed into the pilot's seat and the plane rolled down the inclined platform off the stern, dropping to ten feet from the water, and then gradually gained altitude. A few minutes later Ely was back at Tanforen Field.

The object of the experiment, which marked the humble beginning of carrier aviation, was to "demonstrate the possibility of an aeroplane of the existing type leaving a shop for scout purposes." This landing of Ely's marked the final phase of the experiment. Early in November, 1910, Ely had successfully flown a plane from the deck of the cruiser BIRMINGHAM at the Norfolks, Virginia, Navy yard.

The flight deck of the PENNSYLVANIA on which Ely alighted bore little resemblance to the deck of a modern CV. Constructed at the Mare Island Navy Yard, the platform was 119 feet, four inches in length, 36½ feet wide. Erected on the aft portion of the ship, it sloped toward the stern to facilitate acceleration in take-off and the opposite effect in landing. An ingenious method of arresting the speed of the plane in landing had been devised. This consisted of 22 lines at six-foot intervals across the deck. Each line was held by a 50-pound sandbag on the starboard and port extremities of line. A hook on the underside of the plane would attach itself to the lines.

Makeshift as the system was, it worked perfectly. Ely's craft missed the first 11 lines, but caught the next 11. The plane came to a stop with 30 feet of deck to spare, with not as much as a brace or bolt disturbed.

Opera Star Will Shine This Summer

JAMES L. SCHILLING, SA, 23, poses back stage after he successfully completed an audition for the Star-Light Opera Company. He is now attending rehearsals for "Bittersweet," one of the musicals to be presented by the opera company at the Balboa Park Bowl beginning July 1.

"Who knows what the operatic future holds in store for the right person?" Wonders a young Navy man serving with FASRon 110. He is James L. Schilling, SA, 23.

Schilling successfully completed his final audition tryout before Star-Light Opera critics last Friday night in San Diego.

Thirty-five of the 83 singers trying-out for a chance with the opera company, succeeded in their auditions and will begin rehearsals for "Bittersweet," one of the five shows that will make up the repertoire for the seventh summer season for Star-Light musicals. The season will open July 1, with the presentation of "Showboat" in the Balboa Park Bowl.

Schilling completed three and a half years at the University of California with the class of '52. A major in music, he has performed in a number of operas in the Santa Barbara area, including a part in Brahms German Requiem.

GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN

Good Neighbor Policy 'South of the Border'

Russell L. Creighton, Apprentice Supervisor in NAS Vocational Training Division, is one man who didn't wait for a major fire disaster to lend a helping hand to distressed and needy Mexicans.

Realizing the high degree of poverty which engulfs most of the rural Mexican families across the border from here, Creighton and his wife several years ago decided to do something tangible about it. They also realized that Baja California is a big place, so they set about picking a specific spot to aid. They picked the tiny fishing village of Cabo Colnett, about 160 miles south of Tijuana, off the main (and only) highway on Baja California's West Coast.

Elisting the assistance at home of sympathetic persons at North Island and others in San Diego, they collected loads of clothing, toys, cooking utensils, and other items of everyday family living, to be transported to the Cabo Colnett community.

The degree of poverty in the area is very high, and during the past year the Creightons have made trips to the village on the average of once every two months. They load up a jeep station wagon and trailer, and make the haul down to the lobster camp of Adolph Melling, a member of the far-famed Norwegian descent Melling family of Baja California.

The last trip of the Creightons to Cabo Colnett was made over the Christmas holidays, wagon and trailer loaded to the gunwales. A Christmas feast of tamales, enchilades, wild duck, quail, fish, abalones, and other favorite foods of Mexican California, was prepared for the visitors, who are always welcomed when they bring their "Good Neighbor" gifts.

RUSSELL L. CREIGHTON

Creighton says that he and his wife are preparing to load up again as soon as possible, as the need is still great among these people—food they have, but little else. And this time, part of the load will be dropped off at Tijuana, to aid in the relief work for the families of those were lost or injured in the recent Coliseum fire of that city.

"Many thanks to the numerous kind-hearted folks who have helped to make our trips below the border possible with their contributions," says Creighton. "Others desiring to assist in this work, by donating any goods that they no longer need, are urged to contact us at Randolph 5418. We will call and pick up the items."

SDJC Offers Russ Language Classes

A new class in beginning Russian will be offered by the Evening Center of the San Diego Junior College. The class will begin on Monday, January 28. 1952, and will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the San Diego High School building in Balboa Park.

This new class is for beginners, and will include reading, writing, elements of grammar, and conversation to be able to understand the language of everyday life.

The office is open every day, Monday through Friday, from 1:00 to 9:30 p.m. Interested persons are requested to register as soon as possible.

P.W. Paragraphs

By Danny Daniels

Billy Gover, Ironworker, has resigned his position on NAS to accept employment in the Oil fields of Oklahoma. Good luck, Billy, on your new venture.

Mrs. J. Robbins, popular administrative assistant received news —her daughter, Charlene Robbins, former employee of P.W. Department is enjoing skiing instructions in the Austrian Alps. Charlene Robbins is attached to U.S. Army as Recreational Director in the vicinity of Munich, Germany.

A premonition must have prompted Sarita Pound, Labor office clerk, to drive the 36 Ford, instead of her late model convertible to work recently. As a result the Ford received the damage in a traffic accident.

Marsha Payne, Plumbing shop clerk enjoyed a reunion with members of her immediate family visiting her from Middle West.

It has been confirmed from authoritative sources, "Dutch" Weidner is not a member of an underground society. He has only been doing a swell plumbing job underneath Bldg. No. 317.

Rain or shine, one welder is always on the job even though he rides a scooter from Coronado. That is "Iron" Mike Thomas.

Tommy Murtha, Iron Worker is being visited by his son 1st Leiutenant James Murtha who has recently completed a nine months tour of duty in Korea.

Clarence Fuller, Snapper, and Carpenters, Ed Plant and John Murphy returned to NAS after working one month setting forms for two "Butler' buildings at Ream Field. Welcome back.

Stanley R. Saunders, Machinist has returned to work after a two month period of illness. Welcome back Stan.

O. D. Abbott, Leadingman Ironworker and a crew of five men have been temporarily transferred to Ream Field to begin construction of a building. It is estimated they will spend the better part of one month at this base.

Blood Donation Tuesday at Main Dispensary

Civilian donations for this month will be taken at the Main Dispensary, Bldg. 14, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 12:00 p.m. Tuesday, 22 January it was announced this week.

Each division on the station has been given a different time, and each individual employee who wishes to donate blood will be given an appointment card sometime today or Monday.

The goal of 200 pints will have to be reached by noon Tuesday, due to appointments of the Bloodmobile for that afternoon. In order to reach the goal by noon, blood will have to be taken at a rate of 60 pints an hour.

All civilians who wish to donate blood are again reminded of the strict diet that must be adhered to prior to the donation.

RADM Clark To Speak on Korean War

Rear Admiral J. J. Clark, Commander Carrier Division THREE, will speak on his personal observations of the Navy's part of the war in Korea at the monthly dinner of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences, Thursday, 17 January.

Officials from San Diego's aircraft companies and the Overhaul and Repair Department of the Naval Air Station will attend the dinner meeting in San Diego.

Admiral Clark was Commander Naval Air Bases, Eleventh and Twelfth Naval District with offices at the Naval Air Station, San Diego, prior to his assuming command of Carrier Division THREE in October 1951. He has a wide background of experience in both World War I and World War II and has actively engaged in the Korean conflict.

TWIN-JET F7U-3 COMPLETES FIRST FLIGHT FOR NAVY

The first flight of the F7U-3 Cutlass, designed to out-fly and out-fight any other carried-based fighter plane in the world, has been announced by the Navy.

The twin-jet craft promises to be even more formidable than its F7U-1 predecessor, the first swept-back wing, tailless fighter to operate from a carrier.

Placed by the Navy in the "more than 600 mph category," the new version is equipped with a dual power control system, the first to be installed in a Navy fighter. Each system is completely independent of the other. Manual controls have been eliminated entirely.

25 New Group Ratings

tinguish between the job requirements of the basic trades and those of the specialized ratings.

During the trial period, no attempt will be made to reduce those employees on board from basic trades positions to those of specialists. Changes during this period will be made by attrition only.

Upon completion of the trial application of the new occupational titles, the Bureau of Aeronautics and OIR will jointly evaluate the results of the new system and determine final application. In the event of the trial period, the Department expects to adopt a wage freeze plan for employees currently on the rolls who fall into the specialized ratings, to secure them from reduction of their present wages.

Additional problems which may arise regarding this new rating setup may be resolved during a visit to the station by Navy Department officials the week of January 28. A Number of questions have already been submitted to the Navy Department and the Civil Service Commission.

SENIOR NAS EMPLOYEE H. T. Bushart, converses with newest employee on the station, Madelyn Sanford. The latter pauses a moment during her first day aboard NAS to hear how North Island civilians fared in 1919, when Bushart first came to work here. There were far less civil service benefits for workers in those days, only a small handful of civilians employed here.

Q—What is the advantage of using the (short form)?

A—By using the short form, you are allowed a flat rate of 10% for overall non-taxable deductions. It would be difficult to exceed this percentage unless an extreme amount of extra expense had been encountered during 1951.

Q—Who can I claim as a dependent?

A—Any immediate relative who is being supported by you, and who did not earn in excess of $600.00 in 1951.

Q—I am filing the (long form), what can I deduct?

A—There are many items, but a few of the more commonly used are: Auto license fees, sales tax, and 15% traveling tax on all trips by plane, train, bus, or ship.

Georgia Byers Will Vacation In Brazil in February and March

Miss Georgia Byers, secretary to CAPT Ross R. Kellerman and LCDR James West, Officer in Charge and Executive Officer respectively of the Navy Weather Central, begins a two months' leave of absence February 2 when she departs for an extended tour of South and Central America. Prior to her departure, she will be honored by a farewell party at the home of Mrs. R. C. Walker, 2730 Nutmeg Place, on Saturday, January 26.

Georgia's itinerary includes stops in Mexico City, Panama, and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, her final destination, where she will visit her brother, the Reverend Laurence Byers.

Rev. Byers, a Presbyterian missionary, has been in the Mato Grosso and Sao Paulo regions of Brazil for the past five years teaching and preaching to natives. During this time, he has photographed color slides of many interesting native scenes and events which Miss Byers has presented to local clubs and churches.

At the completion of her visit, she will leave Rio de Janeiro with her brother and his family and will fly to Lima, Peru, where they will board an ocean liner for the remainder of the return trip to the States. Following their arrival in New York City, Georgia will fly to San Diego.

Atom Sub Named

The widely heralded atomic submarine which the Navy has pushed past the planning stage, will be christened the USS NAUTILUS. The Navy's last submarine carrying that name sank 90,000 tons of Japanese shipping during World WAR II. The firts actual Nautilus was an experimental model built by Robert Fulton in 1801. A fictional Nautilus was created by writer Jules Verne, in his "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

ITEMS OF INFORMATION FOR CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

An Operating Objective. Put human considerations first. This is a requirement of both the non-supervisory and supervisory employee. To work, it is a two-way communication job about mutual problems and plans; provide fullest opportunity for participation; recognize the reward personal accomplishment; respect and protect personal dignity; achieve a personal association that yields a warm and lasting satisfaction. The pay-off, more cooperation and more efficient production; with a larger assigned work schedule and more jobs.

Eye Sharper Than Lens In O&R Shop

Not many people in the world have had the unique and distinct experience of shaking hands with a camera, but for those persons desiring such an experience, we suggest a visit to the office of O&R's Shop 3101, Structures and Finish, located in Building 17. This is the headquarters for Otto M. Kelenske, Naval Air's one and only "human camera."

Kelenske, aviation mechanic general and analyst for the shop, partially replaced the mechanical camera approximately four years ago when he helped in establishing a new system for temporarily cataloging individual and assembled aircraft parts. This system institutes the sketching of parts, which shows part details more clearly and omits the time-consuming process of setting up camera equipment, and filing these sketches for reference by the shop personnel who route the parts to the respective divisions and sections of O&R.

Pertinent information is listed below each sketch, drawn on cards approximately 2"x3½" and mounted on large filing boards, giving full directions as to the process necessary and the final destination for each part. This system enables shop personnel to more easily and quickly recognize intricate parts without having to read detailed and complicated descriptions.

WORTH 10,000 WORDS

OTTO M. KELENSKE, Structures and Finish Shop Analyst, begins another sketch of a part removed from one of the aircraft undergoing overhaul and repair work on the station. Kelenske has sketched virtually every section of the several different types of planes which are processed by NAS O&R shops.

20 Years Ago On North Island

The following items were taken from the files of THE TROUBLE SHOOTER, forerunner to the NORTH ISLANDER, year 1932:

FLEET EXERCISES

A week of intensive activity culminated January 7 and 8 in coordinated exercises in the San Diego-San Pedro area for units of Aircraft squadrons attached to North Island.

More than a hundred planes, which were flown from the Island to the carriers Saratoga and Lexington, took part.

U.S. CRUISERS TO OPERATE IN PACIFIC

For the first time in many years, a squadron of U.S. cruisers will be based on this coast. Scheduled to arrive January 23 from Boston is Scouting Cruiser Division Three.

Ships will include the Omaha, flagship, Cincinnati, and Concord. The Milwaukee will join the group at San Diego April 6.

NEW WELFARE HOUSE NEARS COMPLETION

Preparations are being made for moving into the swanky new Welfare House, with all work entering the last stages. Sound movie equipment will be installed soon.

22 NAVY MEN TRY FOR OLYMPICS

Twenty-two athletes from the rank and file of the U.S. Navy from fencers to rope climbers have been selected to represent the service in the coming Olympic Games. Aviation Ornanceman Prentice, Naval Air San Diego, was picked for a diving event

ELECTRONS

By JEANNETTE KINSER

By "WINDY" SPLICHAL

Two empl ees of the Cable shop recently found out that their sons were buddies at the Recruit Depot here in San Diego. Mrs. Tobin's son, Benjamin, just completed his training here and is now stationed at El Toro in the Hydraulics Maintenance group. W. W. Marshall's son, William, was a friend of Benjamin at the Recruit Depot.

Today the Radio Shop is bidding a fond farewell to Marjorie Temple who is terminating to move to Los Angeles to be with her son who is attending Art School.

A hearty welcome into the division to the four new shop learners. Remember the names and we hope to hear more about them in the future. WELCOME TO MAE SMITH, ALICE MURPHEY, NATHALIE STILL and CECEILA DE SWAN.

Le Vandes Mac' has suffered a heart attack and is now in the Naval Hospital. Drop him a line at Ward 36-1.

Helen Fugman and Bud Manuel are now Line Leaders in the Cable Shop. Good luck to both of you and may your work continue to be outstanding.

Hats off this week to the Baby Sons. This well could be called Baby Week. News has been pouring in about the new offspring of many of our workers. First report comes to us from Warren Wells. His wife, Doris, presented him with a daughter, Cathryn Ann, at Mercy Hospital. Cathryn Ann weighed in at 6 lbs. 7 ozs.

John Hoke is very proud of his son, Tommy, who also made his appearance at the Mercy Hospital. Mommy Alice, says he is a mighty big boy at 7 lbs. 9 ozs.

Margaret and Harold Hamilton are sending out announcements of the birth of their son, Thomas Lee, at the Mercy Hospital. He weighed 7 lbs. 13 ozs.

Nelda and Bill Loob are the proud parents of Michael, who made his appearance at the Balboa Hospital on Sunday, weighing in at 7 lbs.. 11 ozs.

We have little information on the new son born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wyrick. We know the baby was named Roy and was born on the 11th of this month, but father is on leave so further details are hard to find.

On behalf of the division, I would like to congratulate all the new parents. May all your troubles be LITTLE ONES.

Max Cox is now on sick leave and recently underwent surgery at the Naval Hospital. Get well soon, Max, we all miss seeing your red head.

'I Remember When....'

STORMY WEATHER

Remember when the "liquid sunshine" was pouring down last Wednesday? Well - - during the dampest part of that day, the North Islander's roving correspondent was braving the elements to ask, "Where and When was the worst storm you've ever seen?"

J. D. Fitzpatrick, ADC, recalled the year of 1946. At that time he was on Guam. He didn't say it was raining hard, but according to Chief Fitzpatrick, this was the only time he had ever seen men playing cards in the barracks with their RAINCOATS ON.

Frank Turner, AT-1, was in Denver during the storm of 1947. He was living in a trailer at the time, and had just stepped out to locate a store, and buy some bread. As he glanced back over his shoulder for a last look at his "sweet home"; it was gone. It had been completely covered by snow in the period of 5 minutes. SNOWS KINDA HARD IN DENVER.

Raymond Kelley, SA, told us of the time he was in the Texas tornado of '42. At the time he was sleeping in a trailer, which had been placed on blocks. During the night, in blew the tornado, and when Kelley awoke, the trailer had been moved off the blocks and 3 feet away without anyone inside knowing it had moved.

"Way back in 1940," as Chief Piccolo, ADC, put it; "We were in a bay near Manila, when the typhoon hit." "The wind was blowing so hard, that our ship passed one of the PBM's as it was taking off into the wind."

Joe Frank Newton, SA, of Germantown, Tennessee remembered in 1947 the day that Grandpa's House literally "took off." The family was gathered in the house as the storm broke. Grandpa, taking charge of the situation, ordered the family to the shelter of the old brick barn. No sooner had they left the house than - - across the field it went; like a Navy jet taking off.

Ed Bocovich AA, was home in Colorado Springs, Colorado during the cold spell of '47. Ed admitted that 20 below isn't very cold, but how often does the thermometer read - 20 INSIDE THE HOUSE.

Fleet Logistics Kept Hopping At Yuletide

The yuletide season was anything but a holiday season for the men of the NAS-based Fleet Logistic Air Wing. In fact, these officers and enlisted men of the San Diego Air Transport Squadron Detachment, were as busy or busier during that time than at any other time of the year.

Recently released figures from detachment headquarters reveal that during the 24-day period beginning December 15 and ending January 7, the Fleet Logistic Air Wing was responsible for transporting three hundred seventy-five persons from this area to points all over the United States, many of these "hops" going home for the holiday season.

Within the same 24 days, six hundred and seven persons were received from distant points by the Air Wing terminal located in Building 700, making a total of nine hundred eighty-five persons who made use of the squadron's facilities.

CDR B. C. Wheatley is the Officer in Charge of this station's detachment which is composed of 23 officers and 201 enlisted men. The parent squadron, located at Moffet Field, San Francisco, is under the command of CAPT E. E. Colestock.

P. W. Employee Returns To Philippine Birth Place

Antonio Hechanova, Public Works Employee, and retired Navy chief with 30 years service, recently returned from a three month stay in his native Philippine Islands.

The trip was a "once in a lifetime" for Mr. Hechanova; he had not seen his brother and sister for 35 years, and the reunion was definitely a heartening experience. He went from San Diego to Los Angeles, and then to Honolulu, Wake, Guam, and Manila respectively. Antonio had seen all of these Pacific outposts during his Naval career, but he was very surprised to see how they had changed since the end of hostilities in 1945.

Mr. Hechanova was surprised at how the standard of living in the Philippine Islands had remained amazingly low. There were many cases where professional men such as lawyers had turned to farming to earn a living. Some of the food prices Mr. Hechanova quoted were: eggs .10 each, butter $1.50 per lb., and $1.25 for 8 oranges.

The Naval career of Antonio Hechanova began in 1916. He enlisted at Manilla, and from that date till 30 years later he served in Navy blue. The USS SATURN, a coal burning supply ship, was his first assignment. During his tour of duty, he served on many of the largest ships in both the Atlantic and Pacific Fleets. Among these were the USS NEW YORK, USS IOWA, USS NEVADA and USS McCORMICK.

Ask First Before Giving Job Info

Employees frequently wish to submit as enclosures to examination or job placement application forms 57 or 60, official material as supplemental information. In the interest of security, employees must first obtain permission from respective Department Heads before enclosing copies of position descriptions, diagrams, copies of blueprints, photographs, etc.

Failure to obtain such permission will subject the employee involved to disciplinary proceedings.

VR-812 Reports Aboard

Air Transport Squadron 812, an organized reserve unit based at NAS Minneapolis, Minnesota, has reported aboard the Naval Air Station for a 10-day tour of duty as a complement to the VR-5 Detachment.

Composed of fifteen officers and forty enlisted men, the squadron arrived from Minneapolis Sunday, January 13, and will return to that station the morning of January 24. LCDR D. H. Ledin is the squadron's Commanding Officer.

USAFI Offers Every Sailor Opportunity for Education

COLLEGE-LEVEL COURSES AVAILABLE for naval personnel at the Naval Air Station are outlined by WAVE Priscilla Owens, YN3, to three indoctrinees as they report to North Island for duty. Indoctrinees are, left to right, Lynn McNary, HN; Elmo Dill, SD2; and Bob Hoover, AN.

This week the inquiring reporter gets some information on USAFI — United States Armed Forces Institute. He interviews LT. J. T. Waldron, NAS Information & Education Officer.

Q. What educational levels are included in the USAFI Program?

A. Educational levels from elementary subjects through second year college are included in the USAFI program.

Q. If a person completes his high school education through USAFI will he receive a diploma from the high school he attended before entering the Navy or will it be awarded by USAFI?

A. USAFI does not issue high school diplomas. A person who completes his high school education thrdough UASFI will receive his diploma from his high school, if they accept USAFI courses. In all case, the final authority is the person's own high school.

Q. How long on the average does it take to complete the equivalent of a year of high school through USAFI?

A. This will vary widely with the individual. The amount of time he spends studying, his ability to learn, and his previous education will all affect this.

Q. Are USAFI courses self-study or does I&E personnel give instruction in some of the subjects?

A. As a rule, USAFI courses are self-study. However, in certain subjects group study classes are conducted by I&E personnel.

Q. To what extent can college work be pursued through USAFI?

A. College education through the second year may be pursued directly through USAFI. College education above the second year may be pursued indirectly through USAFI, from the co-operating colleges and universities.

Q. Will colleges accept this work as credit toward a degree if a person plans to attend college later?

A. This will depend on the college or university concerned. Forty-four colleges and universities are cooperating with USAFI, offering subjects through their extension divisions.

Q. How much do USAFI courses cost?

A. A two dollar enrollment fee is charged by USAFI, after which a erson may take as many courses as he desires, as long as he completes each course satisfactorily in the specified length of time.

Q. Who should a person see for advice on educational problems and aid in planning a course of study?

A. He should contact his I&E officer for counselling on problems concerning his studies. If he desires high school or college credit, he should also contact the institution concerned to make sure the courses will be acceptable.

Q. Is the fact that a person is continuing his education through USAFI be entered in his service record?

A. All USAFI courses and college extension courses satisfactorily completed are entered on page 4 of his service record.

Navy Relief Branch Established at NAS

ed for several reason. A few of the reasons are listed as follows: checkage of pay, wife's allotment delayed, unusual sickness in the home, necessary dental bills for dependents; basic subsistence such as rent, food, utilities, necessary furniture, and so forth. Funerals, transportation in cases of emergency, and assistance in payment of civilian doctors and hospital bills when dependents' facilities are not available in the area are also included.

All military personnel who have unusual circumstances develop and are in need of financial assistance should be interviewed by the representative from 9 to 12 daily, Monday through Friday.

The purpose of the Navy Relief Society is to give assistance to Naval men and their dependents when illness or undue circumstances create a temporary hardship. Loans are made for the purpose of alleviating an undue hardship which has suddenly developed. There is no interest on these loans. Repayment of a loan is expected by monthly allotments or by cash payments. The circumstances may be such that the repayment of the loan is not expected. In such cases the loan would be an outright grant. Many grants are made to widows and orphans of servicemen who lose their lives in action or in an accident.

The Navy Relief Society is a big organization promoted by the Navy. It is not a money-making organization though it is a big business. It is primarily a loan organization to help men when they need help.

NIA Membership MeetingToBeHeld In S. D. January 25

North Island Association will hold its annual General Membership Meeting next Friday evening, January 25, according to Bill Mayer, secretary.

Meeting, to be held at the Woodrow Wilson Jr. High School on El Cajon Blvd., San Diego, will last from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Major topics will include a report on 1952 board of directors election results; changes in NIA by-laws; and major committee reports. There will be no speaker.

The meeting is open to all NAS civilian employees and their families.

VC-35 Admin. Officer Receives Promotion

Gerald I. Myers, USN, a Navy veteran of two world wars, has been promoted to the rank of Commander, retroactive to July 1 of last year.

Commander Myers is Administrative Officer of Composite Squadron 35, aboard the Naval Air Station.

Now on his fourth tour of duty, he first joined the Navy on May 13, 1919. When recalled to duty he was employed by the Waynesville Board of Education, Waynesville. Ohio. Commander Myers is a graduate of Defiance College, Defiance, Ohio, and Ohio State University.

"AND IN CONCLUSION . . ."

VFW Dance To Be Held January 22

In celebration of Nation Veterans of Foreign Wars Week, the Coronado VFW Post, commanded by H. H. Harris of Public Works, will hold a free party-dance next Tuesday, January 22. All overseas veterans and naval personnel are cordially invited.

Music will be furnished by the CrewDesPac Band, and entertainment will be provided by Clayton E. Lacy, AT3 and Bob Bibb and his Western Rhythmasters, as well as numerous other NAS personalities.

VP-731 Gets New Exec.

LCDR Harold J. Baird, USN, former flight officer of NAS is now executive officer of Patrol Squadron 731 at NAS.

After receiving his wings and commission in June, 1942, LCDR Baird served as flight instructor at Pensacola, Florida.

During World War II he was assigned to an aircraft training unit in the South Pacific where he obtained various theatre ribbons. Prior to receiving his commission he graduated from the University of Nevada.

J. D. WHELAN, AMAN, of Transportation draws his sea bag from the NAS Lucky Bag as H. S. Hausdorf checks him off the log.

The Case of the Lucky Bag

The NAS Lucky Bag should have a different title, something like "Complaint Department" or "Gripes Incorporated." Not one day goes by in the Lucky Bag without gripes from station personnel who have gear in the Lucky Bag. "Racketeers" they are called. Well, let's take a look at the "Five Racketeers."

Hank Hausdorf, GM1, who is the target of all gripes, is the bossman. His job is to see that the Lucky Bag runs smoothly and that the logs, ledgers and financial books are kept up to snuff. These logs consist of brig and straggler reports, stray gear, transit and sea bag inventory ledgers.

There behind the counter is Eugene Nail, AN, expediting stray gear picked up by the barracks MAA. Nail logs the name of the owner and article in ledgers and then separates all gear into separate bins. Just about that time a man confined to the brig is brought up to have his sea bag inventoried. Willard "Bones" Bernard takes over. The whole sea bag is laid out and a close and accurate account of all articles are listed on several inventory sheets. After the inventory the bag is sealed and stored until the prisoner is authorized to claim his gear. Stragglers and deceased ship company personnel gear is also inventoried and stored or shipped, which ever the case may be.

Over at the telephone is Rick Plicta calling all men who have gear in the Lucky Bag over two weeks. A list of all gear is put on the bulletin board but many of the owners fail to read it. Before calling these men, Rick has to check through the Post Office files to locate their divisions.

On TAD from the USS OZBOURN (DD-864) is Bob Parrington, FN, wheeling a "wicked" sewing machine. All mattress covers turned in which are ripped have to be mended. When Bob finishes thirty or forty mattress covers he knows he has done something.

No, this is not the full extent of their duties. All of these men help with lesser duties. Before a DC, (discarded clothing), sale all the gear has to be stamped, logged and sold. Sea bags come in to be stored and transits come in at all hours for bedding. Clean mattress covers have to be issued and the used taken to the laundry, stencils have to be cut and new mattress covers stenciled. There are several other duties the fellows have to perform and when added to those mentioned there can't be too much of a racket in their job.

Rounding out their twenty-four hour service is the continual "rhubarbs" with which they have to put up.

Engineer Joins NAS Electronics Staff From Navy Position in the East

Surrounded by leaflets of facts and equations, problems to answer and correct is Ray Gorden, new electronics engineer assistant to the aeronautical engineering officer, M. F. G. Arnold. Coming aboard last November 5, he was put in charge of the Electronics Engineering Division of the Aeronautical Engineering Group, O & R Department. Ray has a highly responsible job to handle in his new position but according to his background in Electronics it is in verv capable hands.

Tracing Gordon's background before he recently came to NAS we find that he was previously employed at the Naval Air Test Center, Patuxent River, Md. He was Chief Project Engineer of the Electronics Test Division in charge of the Engineering Department. His work there consisted of laboratory and flight evaluation of all airborne electronic and electrical systems and equipment for use in Naval Aircraft.

1949 to early 1951 he directed a major investigation for the Armed Forces, to determine the adequacy of the Ultra High Frequency Spectrum for use by the Navy Air Force, Army and British for use of multi-channel radio communication equipment. In between larger jobs he worked on many highly classified projects including the first airborne radar system. While he was there in 1945 he was awarded the Meritorious Award for "Initiating, formulating and successfully implementing the method of integrated systems analysis of aircraft, radion and radar equipment."

The Bureau of Aeronautics, next assigned Gordon to the Western Electric Company and the Collins Radio Company for assistance in the designing of the ART-13 and ARC-1 radar equipment. During his stay with the Bendix Radio Corporation he was Senior Engineer and designed the airways marker beacon transmitter.

Gordon holds several patents on antennae, frequency and direction finder systems. He has also published many technical articles in the Naval and engineering publications including the only published articles on German and Japanese airborne electronics equipment which appeared in Electronics Magazine of March, April and May, 1944.

VP-42 ADC Awarded Flying Cross for Korean Missions

Stanley R. Orzel, ADC, was presented with the Distinguished Flying Cross during ceremonies held at the Air Station on January 12.

The award was received for "extraordinary achievement in aerial flights as a crewmember of a patrol plane in VP-42. Particiating in numerous missions against hostile North Korean forces during the period August 21, 1950, to February 2, 1951; he added greatly to the success of his squadron."

Chief Orzel enlisted in the Navy in July, 1940. During World War II he served aboard the aircraft carrier USS TICONDEROGA.

Besides the Distinguished Flying Cross, he also holds the Air Medal, Presidential Unit Citation, and medals for the Asiatic-Pacific Theater, American Defense, American Theater, Philipine Liberation, Korean Theater, Japanese Occupation, China Service, World War II Victory, and the Good Conduct Medal.

This Week's MOVIE MENU for NAS

Friday, 18 January—"WHEN WORLDS COLLIDE," starring Richard Derr and Barbara Rush. A new planet, Zyra is heading toward the earth, and will arrive in nine months. The astronomers who learned this are scoffed by the United Nations. Larry Keating decides to build a rocket, and fly a select group to Zyra. Interesting complications develop, action, deception, and love.
SHORTS: "PUNCH and JUDO" and "LITTLEST EXPERT ON FOOTBALL."
Running time' 1 hour and 46 minutes.

Saturday, 19 January—"MAN IN THE SADDLE," starring Randolph Scott and Joan Leslie. Romance is added to this superwestern to make it one of the plushiest of recent plush sagebrushers. Scenic shots are good, and the supporting cast portrays melodramatic overtones well.
SHORTS: "SNOOZE REEL" and "SADIE HAWKINS DAY."
Running time: 1 hour and 50 minutes.

Sunday and Monday, 20 and 21 January—"BRIGHT VICTORY," starring Arthur Kennedy and Peggy Dow. A blind veteran solves his emotional problems, and wins the affections of a girl. With her help, he sets out to become a lawyer. This romance is full of charm, and has the fine human qualities that distinguished "THE BEST YEARS OF OUR LIVES."
SHORTS: "BATTLING BUDDIES."
Running time: 1 hour and 51 minutes.

Tuesday and Wednesday, 22 and 23 January—"SECRET OF CONVICT LAKE," starring Glen Ford and Gene Tierney. A wonderful cast portrays with excellence this chapter from early California history. Here is a picture that incorporates more in the way of drama, suspense and action than can be found in most fictional stories.
SHORTS: "FOOTBALL OF 1951."
Running time: 1 hour and 56 minutes.

Thursday and Friday, 24 and 25 January—"HARLEM GLOBETROTTERS," starring "The Harlem Globetrotters" and Thomas Gomez. Here is a picture featuring the on and off court antics of that famous basketball team "The Harlem Globetrotters." The fast pace of this show will appeal to many, sports-minded or not.
SHORTS: "DESERT NOMADS."
Running time: 1 hour and 45 minutes.

EM Club Swing--Western Style

Bob Bibb and his Western Rhythmasters will be at the Enlisted Men's Club every Friday night from 2000 to 2400 to play for the entertainment of all enlisted personnel stationed or based at NAS.

Rebob Hansen, ex-member of the Spade Coley band, is featured on the steel guitar with Lonnie King "emceeing" the show. Chuck McGowan, formerly with Bill Neddle's orchestra, is only one of the many vocalists.

Every member of the Rhythmasters has had previous experience playing with various bands throughout the country, and are planning on forming their own band when they are released from the Navy sometime this year.

NORTH ISLAND SERVICE POST 753

LEGION NOTES

By Art Burns

It is urged that all Legionaires, especially those living in Coronado, vote on the issues that will affect the Employees transportation to North Island in the coming elections.

At the American Legion's 22nd District meeting held last Sunday, Lady Luck was with Roscoe Morse of this Post. We won't say what happened, but he is now called "Bean-Pot Roscoe." It wasn't luck, however, when at the last County Council, he arranged such an interesting meeting with Mayor Butler as special speaker. He also was elected to the very important 5th area Steering Committee, which in this state comprises much of the Southern California area.

There is much enthusiasm about the Legionaires of North Island as many are making plans to attend the next meeting of this 5th area. It is to be held Sunday, January 27th at Brawley. Charles Stringer, its Civil Service Commissioner, has a very exciting report to present to the Departmental Commander. This report will include the many changes coming about in Civil Service.

At the past 22nd District meeting the resolution was passed calling for the maximum penalty for dope peddlers caught selling narcotics to minors. This is an answer to the recent publicity the subject has been given.

F. J. Witkouski, Post Dance Tticket Sales Chairman, reports that ticket distribution for the dance Friday night, January 25th, has almost been completed. The popular "Jumping Jacks" are to play for this jamboree at the Veterans Memorial Building, Balboa Park.

Local Machinists Honor Retiring District President

Naval Lodge 726 of the International Association of Machinists recently commemorated the 40 years service of their district president, Nick Alifas. Alifas, who retired this month, was president of District 44 of the I.A.M. which is made up of members in the machinist and mechanical trades employed by the government. Naval Lodge 726, an affiliate, includes NAS employees.

Francis P. Whitehair, undersecretary of the Navy, taking note of Alifas' retirement, said, "The Department of the Navy is deeply grateful for the fact that he has always given us friendly cooperation while at the same time militantly protected the interests of his organization and its members. Nick Alifas takes with him into retirement the continuing affection and respect of the Navy."

"Aren't you afraid that the rain will wash some of the salt off your shoulders?"

'Did You Find the Lost Pilot?'

That is the question being exchanged between the pilots and crewmen of Helicopter Squadron ONE since a new phase has been included in the squadron's training program.

It all started a few weeks back when LT V. W. COLLINS returned from a six month tour of duty in the Korean Area as OinC of a helicopter unit. LT COLLINS, knowing what a difficult task it is to search out the location of a downed pilot, decided to try to duplicate the condition right here in the San Diego Area.

"The Lost Pilot," which consists of an iron rod six feet in length with two small mirrors mounted on top at angles so that the rays of the sun will reflect on them and catch the searching eyes of the helicopter pilot, was constructed with the assistance of the squadron metal shop.

Each morning the operations department sends a helicopter into the foothills east of San Diego to plant "The Lost Pilot." From then on throughout the day, each pilot departing on a training flight is given the approximate grid coordinates of the so-called "Lost Pilot." Each helicopter pilot who is able to locate it lands and tags it with his name.

From this, pilots are receiving good training in search technique, picking landing spots, wind direction and all that goes with locating a downed pilot in Korea, that is all but one—no bullets are involved.

Talk Is Cheap at Ream If You Use the Ham Shack

"Hello! MOTHER! This is George. I'm here at Ream field, how's everybody there in Boston? No, it's not costing me anything to call you! I'm calling from the HAM SHACK."

Boon to the people in the Utility Wing, Pacific Fleet, for both work and play, is the amateur short wave radio station operated by Utility Squadron Seven at ALF Ream.

This "ham" radio station, W6IQD, has been authorized by the Eleventh Naval District and the Federal Communications Commission.

All men of the Fleet Air Detachment of the ALF Ream may use the facilities of the HAM SHACK, and many of them are able to talk to their families at home, via another HAM radio enthusiast near their homes.

This is accomplished by the amateur radioman calling the home on the telephone and then plugging the telephone circuit into the radio. Then, the family can talk over the telephone, the two way conversation being broadcast to and from ALF Ream.

The Ham Shack is located in the south end of building 64, and is operated by members of the Amateur Radio Club. The Chief Trustees and Operator of the station is Sid Lindroth, ALC, VU-7.

W6IQD also serves to keep the squadrons and units of the Utility Wing Pacific Fleet which are located in the Hawaiian Islands, on Guam, and in the Far East.

SID LINDROTH, ALC, VU-7, contacts friends and relatives for Navy men at ALF Ream, via the short wave amatuer radio station he operates.

JIGGERS STILL TOPS IN 800 SCRATCH LOOP

With Winter Bowling well into the second half of play, the Jiggers remain three games in front of the second place Timbermen in the Civilian 800 Scratch circuit, after last Friday's competition.

Boasting 39 wins against 18 losses, the Jiggers are paced by Joe Calcidise, who sports a 171 average over the 57 game route.

T. Coughlin, of the fifth place Masterswitch team, tops all bowlers with 30 or more games played, holding a 176 average over 39 contests.

High individual game and series for the week's play went to E. Booth, of the Timbermen, with 227 and 598.

Santa Turns Talent Scout

LAST MONTH'S MAN OF THE HOUR, W. R. Procter, AOC, the Utility Wing's popular helicopter-borne Santa Claus, has been given the green light to produce a stage show every month.

These shows are slated to run the gamut of the entire field of entertainment and sports, Chief Procter disclosed today.

"And one of the first shows will be a good old fashioned smoker!" he stated.

When interviewed, the chief was in a flurry of activity, writing scripts, seeking talented performers, ordering supplies, while perfecting a new soft-voice routine.

"I can't do everything," he confided, panting. "We've lined up quite a few lovely young ladies, but we need musicians, dancers, singers, jugglers.

"There are a lot of talented people based here at ALF Ream, and as soon as they get in touch with me, here at VU-7, we can put these shows together."

Chief Procter's telephone number is extension 23 ring 1.

"We'll need prop' men, spot light operators, painter and stage hands too!" he added.

The shows will be given in the ALF Ream theatre.

Ream Sports

This week found the Fleet Air Detachment Ream teams wrestling with several Eleventh Naval District aggregations in championship contests.

On Wednesday, January 16, the grunt and groan artist from the Border activity joined in a bone-crushing melee with the Miramar mugs, in a series of wrestling contests.

Ream's own basketball handlers were clobbered for the second time and conclusive time last Friday afternoon at NAAS Miramar. In a fast hard game, the Ream Five, handicapped by the loss of five players shortly before game time, were on the short end of a 64 to 58 tally.

WATCH THIS SPACE

JOEL F. BROWN, AA, of HU-1 at ALF Ream faces the delightful prospect of a TEN DOLLAR PRIZE and a FORTY-EIGHT-HOUR LIBERTY for his winning entry "Ream Border Lines" in the Ream Field page contest.

The Judges were CAPT. D. H. MacDonald, CDR. N. R. Lincoln, and CDR. D. Billett, the commanding officers of the three squadrons based at ALF Ream.

"It was difficult for us to choose from so many excellent entries," CAPT. MacDonald declared, "but we believe that Brown's really was the best."

In a ceremony today, Brown will be presented with the prize money and liberty chit.

CAN YOU COUNT?

Learn to Dance At ALF Ream

Come Wednesday night 1930—nothing to do?—then why not stroll over to the library for an evening of dancing enjoyment. From eight to twelve lovely girls are on hand each Wednesday night from the LeRoi Dance Studio, San Diego, to give FREE instructions.

As one of the girls puts it, "If you can count then you can dance." Begin with the most basic steps and advance into the fashionable swing, rumbas, and sambas.

Come on over! All hands are invited, and if the crowds get too big, then the following week there will be more of those gals to take care of those who want to learn. Before Christmas, the Wednesday evening dancing sessions were enjoyed by all who participated. Let's show the Le Roi's people their generosity to the service men here at ALF Ream is appreciated.

HU-1, VU-7 Men Prepare for Arctic Cruise

A combined crew of men from HU-1 and VU-7 are now ready for a chilly cruise into the frozen land of the north in the near future. They will be sent us a unit on the USS BURTON ISLAND, an ice breaker, to do reconnassance, observation and photographic work among their duties. The BURTON ISLAND will go to Long Beach this week before leaving for the north.

LT. Williford, O.inC. of the unit, will be on his second cruise of this nature into the barren cold and will provide helicopter services. His crew will consist of the following from HU-1:

LTJG. Kinney, LTJG. Myatt, Bordner, ADC; Sonner, AD1; Smith, G. S., AD3; Vawter, ADAN; Welt, ADAN; Sparks, AA; Whitley, AN; Helman, PR3.

From VU-7: Jean, AF3; Bates, AF3; Willey, AF3.

Ream Bird Boys Snowed Tuesday

In the second badminton playoffs between the RAD Ream and FAD Miramar champs at ALF Ream last Tuesday, the mesa athletes gave the lads from the border tidelands the bird.

In the doubles, CDR Webber and Lt. Brice of Fasron 701 defeated Liss and Palmer of VU-7 for a Miramar win.

In the singles playoff, Liss and Palmer knuckled to Sikes and Santos, 15-9, 15-4 and 15-8, 15-4.

New Way to Get Blood in A Hurry

Helicopter Squadron ONE will soon be able to tell you the blood type of all personnel in the squadron within a few seconds.

The squadron is now compiling a so-called "Blood Type List." The list will contain the various types of blood and the name of every person in the squadron with that particular type.

In case of an emergency or a disaster, within minutes HU-1 personnel will be available for blood contributions.

11ND Ski Club Elects Officers

Tuesday evening saw the ski fans, from amateur to professional move swiftly to organize for snow sports in the California mountains this Winter in a meeting at H. Naval Air Station.

In the elections, the group of 40 representing both military and civil service personnel from the entire Eleventh Naval District, chose LT Bill Redmon as president; Alan Deacon, PHAN of VU-7 at ALF Ream as vice-prexy; Mrs. Wanda Redmon as Secretary-treasurer; Jerry Liptrap, PH3 of VU-7 as Publicity Chairman; and Mike Miller, AN, of NAS as Social Chairman.

Plans were made for many skiing week-ends to the Big Bear Lake area in the San Bernardino Mountains.

The Special Services board has been petitioned to procure an adequate stock of skis and other necessary equipment so that any interested people may check out these things and go along.

NAS ENTRIES

TWO of the entries from North Island entered in the $5000.00 benefit drag race is IRD's Jack Ball and his class "A" sprint machine, and Ed "Axle" Stewart O&R, and his class A V8-60 lakester.

SDTA Sponsors Drag Races For March of Dimes Drive

The fastest cars and motorcycles in Southern California will participate in one of the biggest race programs ever staged at Paradise Mesa Air Strip, Sunday 20 January 1952. All proceeds will be given to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

A number of NAS personnel, both military and civilian, will participate in the races. Bill Cundari and Roy Wilke from the Transportation Department will be trying for the class C motorcycle trophy. Current class B champion, Jack Ball, from IRD, will be trying to exceed his speed of 105 plus.

In the roadster department, Ed "Axle" Stewart from O&R will run his 136.63 mph class A V8-60 lakester.

All the time trials start at 10:30 a.m. and will last until 1:00 p.m. when the regular races will start and last until 4:30 p.m.

To date, the fastest sprint time at the strip is 121.00 mph on the quarter mile run, with many class records in excess of 100 mph.

Any time runs and class competition racing is from a standing start, and in less than ¼ mile (2½ blocks) electric time clocks pick up the racers' speed. Extreme accuracy is assured, because clocking will be done by Otto Crocker and his nationally famous Timing Mechanism, the same timer as used at the Bonneville Salt Flats.

Paradise Mesa Air Strip is located five miles east of National City on Eighth Street.

Admission fee of $1.00 will be charged this Sunday in order to try to reach the $5000 goal to be given to the March of Dimes.

Airmen Defeat CruDesPac As Borchers Buckets 17

After dropping three successive games, the Naval Air basketball Skyraiders turned in a sparkling upset victory over a strong CruDesPac quintet Tuesday night at the Skyraider gym. Art Borchers led the Skyraider scoring binge, bucketing seventeen points.

The first quarter ended with the Airmen leading 11-9. The game was all tied up at the half 23-23, and the Skyraiders took the lead early in third quarter and final period ending up with a neat 49 to 42 victory.

Bill Turner, CruDesPac center, was high scorer with 14 points.

Both the Skyraiders and the WACES dropped their games to the Marine Corps Recruit Depot last Friday night. The Skyraiders lost 73 to 35, while the Waves bowed to a 34-30 defeat.

Conflicting opinions were abundant at the WAVE contest, as to why coach-Chaplain H. T. Lavin did not leave the first team in throughout the game.

Chaplain Lavin believes that the Waves are not playing just to win games, but principally to allow everyone a chance to play.

The Waves play each of their opponents twice, and by the looks of Friday night's game there should be little doubt as to the outcome of coming WAVE contests. The girls have a solid team.

JIM BIRD, Skyraider forward pulls one away from Bryan (The Giant) Miller (left), and Al Colomo of the Marine Corps Recruit Depot Devildogs in last Friday's game at the Skyraider gym. Bird bucketed 15 points for the Skyraiders, while Bryan Miller accounted for 20 of the 71 points that MCRD scored against the Skyraiders' 55. Max Kephart was second high scorer for the Skyraiders with 11 points.

NAGA NEWS

Low net winner in last month's "ACE" tourney was Bob L. Grant, AMC (below). The tournament was played last Wednesday at the Municipal Golf Course, Balboa Park. Grant had a score of 83 with a net 68. Williams won second low net, and Drelicharz took the low gross.

R. L. GRANT

NAGA lost one of its oldest members last week, when Robert W. Tanner, AKC, received orders to the USS KEARSARGE.

Tanner was largely responsible for the building of the NAS golf range, and had charge of its construction. He also assisted in the organization of the present Naval Air Golf Association.

Along with being the vice president of NAGA, Chief Tanner was also an active member of NAGA.

OUT OF SEASON FOOTBALL PATTER

The Professional championship Los Angeles Rams football team plans to do a re-take on last season's opener against the top Navy-Marine clubs of San Diego area. Only the 1952 version will be better in several respects. This time it will be the Rams' third, rather than their first, appearance of the year. Date may be September 5, and in all probability, four rather than last year's three service teams will meet the Rams. Maybe NTC, Pendleton, and MCRD just as in last year's affair, and we'd suggest the Naval Air Skyraiders to sit in as the fourth.

NAS CIVILIANS TO VIE FOR CITY TITLES

Sixteen teams of civilian bowlers representing North Island will constitute the opening night contestants for the annual San Diego City championships commencing February 1, at Pacific Recreation. The NAS teams, most of them in the 799 bracket, have been afforded the opportunity of heading the list due to their seniority at the Pac. Rec. alleys. They have bowled there every season since the place first opened, 10 years ago.

Skyraiders Prep For Golden Gloves

Next week the San Diego Tribune Annual Golden Gloves boxing tournament rolls into violent action at the Coliseum. As usual, North Island fighters will be counted upon to provide a big chunk of the fireworks. And just like old times, Chief John Goudy will be in the corner of the North Island ring to spur the gladiators on to their best efforts

Goudy, back from a year's absence at the Korean battle zone, was missing from the Navy ring warfare in 1951, but is a familiar figure in the Golden Gloves picture, having coached 1949 and 1950 squads at North Island.

Goudy and his assistant, Hank Leyba, who is another old timer in San Diego fistic circles, are developing another gang of potent punchers as the January 23-25 show approaches.

Starting quietly, and pretty much from scratch with a meager group of old timers and much new talent, Goudy and Leyba opened boxing workouts before the end of the football season. Publicity? They didn't particularly want it, until they had something to show for their toil.

But now it is different. They are ready and anxious for their lads to get into print as well as into the ring.

Some of the North Island fighters that may be seen in Golden Gloves action, on the road to Chicago—as well as in All-Navy and Olympic eliminations later in the season, are:

KIRBY SEALS, who is back for another shot at the National Golden Gloves championship he has so nearly attained on two previous occasions, is probably the best known Navy boxer in the service today. He will also be out for a shot at the Olympic as well as the All-Navy heavy crowns. Already the holder of the latter championship, Kirby is 22 years old, and rapidly approaching his best scrapping weight, 205 pounds.

EDDIE HUGHES, a rugged middleweight, who has been campaigning in the Navy since 1949, is a welcome addition to the squad. The 21-year-old San Diego lad, with a handful of Pacific Area laurels to his credit, looks like he is ready.

EDDIE JACKWIN, perennial AirPac welter contender, is back for more, and for what could easily be his best season. Always near to the championship and several times the winner of titles, Eddie will scrap in the 147 pound bracket in the Golden Gloves. In the new All-Navy and Olympic alignment of weight classes, he may remain a welter, or move up to the 156 pound light-middleweight class recently established. Eddie has won the Pacific Fleet lightweight, and the SDAAU and YMCA welter crowns, as well as the 11th Naval District lightweight title during his two years of Navy campaigning. He is 23, comes from Hartford, Connecticut. He claims 102 fights, and every one of them has been a battle, with Jackwin the winner on most occasions.

WILLIAM "Slats" SLATTERY, a 155 pounder with 45 brawls to his credit, comes from the USS SICILY. He holds the Mid-South Golden Gloves title, and 1st Naval District crown, calls Bellflower, California, his home. "Slats should prove an able contender in the Gloves battles next week, and might just pull an upset win for his weight class.

SICILY, VC-35 VIE FOR TITLE

It's the SICILY and VC-35 in the final championship playoff for the AirPac intramural basketball crown. The SICILY came through as expected in the National league with an all-victorious season, but VC-35 had to pull a dramatic comeback to edge FAIRBETUPac for the American league bunting.

The 35ers and FAIRBETUPac had each won a half of the regular season and were forced into a final two-out-of-three playoff. The Raiders copped the initial contest 45-40 in a double overtime to take a big one game edge. Then the fighting spirit of VC-35 began to show. The 35ers grabbed the second game 37-33 and then overcame a 12-point second-half deficit to win the final 41-37.

Jim Forgy and Ken Choate were the big guns in the VC-35 comeback.

VC-35's opponent, the SICILY, will be heavily favored to win the final two-out-of-three game playoff. (This series got under way Thursday, too late for publication).

Fiscal Issues W-2 Forms 13 Days Ahead of Schedule

Once again, Naval Air Station Supply & Fiscal's Machine Records and Payroll Divisions have beaten the deadline established by the Navy Bureau of Supplies and Accounts Manual for the issuance of the annual withholding statement to the civilian employees of NAS.

These statements, officially designated as the "W-2" Forms issued by the United States Treasury Department's Internal Revenue Service, were distributed to all civilian employees on this station January 18. Th official deadline is January 31 which means the 10,000 W-2 forms issued at NAS were in the hands of the employees 13 days ahead of the deadline.

Procedure for the issuance of the W-2 forms has been divided into two major steps by the Fiscal Division. The first includes printing the employee's name, his total wage earnings, and the amount of federal income tax withheld during the preceeding year. This information was printed by the Machine Records Division on the W-2 forms. This process meant that the entire gross earnings of all employees had to be balanced against the gross earnings as recorded in the Disbursing Office cash book.

Step Number Two involved the typing of the addresses on all of the W-2 forms. This data was obtained from the address cards filled out and submitted by each individual employee. Due to the magnitude of the job, the Overhaul & Repair Department and the Industrial Relations Department furnished several additional typists who, acting in a supple-

I&E Classes to Begin Feb. 4

Naval Air Station's Information and Education Division has announced the commencement of a new military requirements class for personnel in pay grades E-2 and E-3 who are recommended and are preparing for advancement to pay grades E-3 and E-4.

This class, established as a result of a large number of requests received by the I&E Division, will begin at 1300 Monday, February 4, and will meet every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from 1300 until 1530 in Building 317-A. Tentative completion date of this class will be March 14.

Personnel who will attend the class will be designated by respective division officers.

Airman classes for personnel aspiring to pay grade E-3 will be conducted by the Information and Education Division in Building 317-A beginning Monday, February 4.

Airman Class "A" will commence at 0930, on that date and will meet every Monday, Wednesday and Friday thereafter from 0930 until 1130.

Airman Class "B" will begin the same date at 1300 and will also meet every Monday, Wednesday and Friday thereafter from 1300 to 1530. Completion date for both classes is scheduled for March 19.

Respective division officers will designate personnel to attend these classes.

Ellis of S&F Commended by Chief of BuAer

Charles M. Ellis, Technical Branch supervisor of the Supply & Fiscal Dept., was commended in a letter recently by the commanding officer, following the receipt of a commendatory letter from the Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

The commendation was the result of a recommendation Ellis made to BuAer regarding the format and application of Nav-

CHARLES ELLIS

Air Form 2126, "Technical Publications Requirements Request."

His recommendation will result in the distribution of a revised form along with the installation of additional machinery for processing work in the Publications Section of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

The revised form will be broadened to enable the requesting activity to indicate more specifically the quantities and models of aircraft for which publications may be desired.

CAPT. C. M. Boundy, Supply & Fiscal Officer, delivered the commendation in a ceremony. He expressed his appreciation for Ellis' constructive thinking and made a bid for more of the same type of "exemplary work."

Civilian Wage Review Pending

Naval commands of the 11th Naval District, San Diego and Oceanside area, which employ civilians, were informed this week that a new wage review will probably be initiated on or about February 18.

Speaking for the Navy Department, the Office of Industrial Relations in Washington, D. C., has indicated that information available indicates that a review of wage rates paid by private employers in the San Diego-Oceanside area, is warranted.

Once started, the wage survey is expected to be pushed to as rapid a conclusion as is consistent with producing a quality job.

In general, the same procedures and rules used in the 1950 wage survey will be followed. The survey will be coordinated by the Area Wage and Classification Office, Long Beach, Calif, and naval activities in the San Diego-Oceanside area will have representatives to serve on the area wage committee.

"The importance of properly conducted wage surveys in establishing equitable schedules of wages cannot be overemphasized," comments Philip F. Wakeman, spokesman for OIR. "The qualifications of persons detailed to wage survey assignments bear a direct relationship to the quality of the results. It is, therefore, requested that the person selected as chairman of the wage survey committee be a responsible, high level official of the activity, and also that careful consideration be given to the qualifications of persons selected as data collectors."

The North Islander will keep employees of this station informed of the progress of the proposed wage survey, and will publish a list of those selected as data collectors, as information becomes available.

104 Pints Donated

Blood donations Tuesday yielded 104 pints for Armed Forces overseas. Ninety-five civilian and nine military personnel made contributions.

Due to an afternoon appointment in Chula Vista, the bloodmobile unit was able to accommodate donors only during the morning hours.

Football Movies at NAS Theater Today

Highlights of the Cornell University football season of 1951 will be shown at 1200 today (Friday) at the NAS Theater. This fine 45 minute sound picture will be shown for the benefit of everybody. No admission charge.

'Tention Texans, Poll Tax Due February 1

Hey, all you Texans! If you all want to cast your absentee ballots in this year's elections in Texas, you'd better send in your $1.75 poll tax fee before February 1.

The tax must be paid directly to the county tax collector in the county where you normally reside. You may make payment by mail or by a person with a written authorization from you.

If you desire to pay by mail, you must enclose 15 cents postage for the handling and mailing of the receipt back to you. This receipt acknowledges that you are eligible to vote.

Evacuate 4 From Flooded Border Field

Four persons were evacuated from flooded Border Field, which is on the south side of ALF Ream, when roads were closed leading to the area last Friday.

Helicopter Squadron ONE was called upon to evacuate three enlisted men of V-3 and the wife of one of them when flood waters trapped them at the field Thursday evening. The four were J. R. Miller, TM1, J. K. Holland, AM2, J. E. Menear, AK3, and his wife, Vivian Menear.

LT C. C. Coffey, pilot of the rescue Helicopter, received a call at 0830 Friday and flew to the flooded area. He landed on a hill nearby and flew the four to safety. LT Coffey later flew food in to flooded Border Field. The rescue operation was carried out under difficult conditions of wind and rain.

In addition to lifting the four from the water which surrounded Border Field, sand bags and shovels were flown to the crew remaining to put up a dike around the mess hall where water was a foot deep and sanitation was endangered.

Reserve Bill Has 'Contract' Plan

The Armed Forces Reserve Act is scheduled to soon appear in the Senate for consideration. The bill has already passed the House of Representatives.

A significant part of the proposed law is Sec. 236 which would offer reservists a contract deal with their particular Service. The contract would provide a fixed time of service ranging up to five years.

In the event the reservist is released because of strength reductions in the Armed Forces, he would be entitled to a severance pay equal to one month of pay and allowances for each year in the contract not served.

The clause is designed to do away with the uncertainty regarding a reservist's period of service and encourage voluntary calls to active duty.

If passed without being amended, the contract clause would be effective immediately. The rest of it would go into effect six months after passage.

Not a second without a laugh! Minute after minute of dynamic entertainment! Hours you'll never forget! Only a few days remain until the talk of the year hits NAS Theater. What is it? Why, IT'S LIBERTY HOP? the show of the century! NAS Theater, Feb. 13-14. BE THERE!

IRD Seeks Answer to Housing Shortage

A large number of Island civilian employees are desperately in need of private housing. At the present time, due to existing conditions in this area, many of these people are now residing in highly inadequate housing and often are paying rent beyond their means.

Realizing that this situation may be alleviated to a degree through the cooperation and combined efforts of North Island civilian employees, the NAS Industrial Relations Department has issued an urgent appeal to all station personnel to contact the Employee Services Office, Industrial Relations Department, extension 446, if they have housing to rent, or have any knowledge whatsoever of rentals which are available.

Rental listings especially desired are 1, 2, and 3 bedroom houses or apartments at prices within the range of a civil service employee budget.

Plain Talk About Profanity

It grieves me to hear men use God's name in just ordinary conversation. I realize in most instances it is used unconsciously. Few people are angry when they misuse God's name. I hear His name used in the barracks, in the shops, on the streets, in the movies, nearly everywhere. It is used as an adjective, as an exclamation.

Why do people use such sacred names as "God" and "Christ" in plain talk? It may be a hidden desire to be approved by the group. It may be (to the person concerned) a sign of ruggedness or a real he-man. What do you think about this? I believe the consistent use of profanity indicates an inner weakness. The habitual use of it breaks down self-respect. I know it lessens my desire to associate with such a person. I soon get the idea that the person is a show-off, that he doesn't have much to stand on. He leaves me cold—I am unimpressed. I am talking about profanity in plain conversation. The person who gets angry about a just cause has something to talk about, but God's name does not have to be used. It is too sacred, too holy, too great to use in any uncommon manner. It is the highest of all names. The greatest idea man ever had was when he thought of God, the Creator of all life, the Father. Just to think of the name "God," "Christ" causes a calmness in our hearts. What a sacred idea—God, Christ, Jesus!

If profanity is a habit it can be cured. I know a man who had a six-year-old son. One day the young man was having trouble with his little wagon wheel. It wouldn't stay put. The father was observing this scene with great interest, until he heard his son let out an oath that shocked him. The father, feeling his responsibility, had a terrific urge to discipline him. He said, with an angry voice, "Son, come here, right now. If I ever hear you talk like that again, I am going to whip you." The son somewhat distressed said, "Daddy, I heard you say that to the tire on your car." That father was cured. He heard himself through his young son, and he was ashamed.

P.W. Paragraphs

By DANNY DANIELS

E. A. Abbott, Chief Quarterman, spent three days on leave to be with son Eddie, Jr. His son, a specialist in Electronics, U. S. Navy, traveled from Honolulu, T. H., to spend 30 days leave period with his wife, daughter and parents.

W. C. Miller, Carpenter, returned to work after spending a week in the mountainous region of Valsets, Oregon, with Mr. Morris and family. Heading down from Portland, he was joined by his father-in-law, A. Garrow, 82, and brother, Gill A. Garrow, 86. Returning they encountered heavy snow as far as Grants Pass, where it switched to icy roads and rain. Numerous wrecked vehicles were noted along the road, but they arrived without mishap to 1280 Georgia St., Palm City, Calif.

The work of our three roofers moves along unuobtrusively until a torrential downpour arrives. Suddenly there is a deluge of phone calls and the excitement rises to a feverish pitch, with every department demanding top priority. Every report must be thoroughly investigated, be it a forgotten window or leaking pipe, by Johnny Duncan and his able assistants, Tommy Lloyd and Pat Patterson, for the safety of millions of dollars worth of machinery and equipment as well as the safety of personnel, working around high voltage, must be guarded. So considering the responsibility, the number of buildings, and the efficient manner the work is carried on, we all owe a "well done" to the roofers.

The son of Ernie Recin, Ironworker, has been inducted into the Army. He is presently stationed at Ford Ord.

Gene Boykin, clerk in Budget and Finance, has just returned from spending a period of 30 days in and around San Francisco. Welcome back, Gene.

Announcements are out for two families this week for new births. Stan Schambers, Carpenter, was presented with a boy weighing over 9 lbs. Another boy was proudly received by J. F. Lee, laborer of shop No. 73.

C. J. Ellzey, Apprentice Plumber, has a new home under construction in Castle Park, Chula Vista.

Ray Owsley, Ironworker, transferred to Alameda, Calif., where he will work as a molder. Good luck, Ray.

This Week's News at a Glance

Andrei Vishinsky prepared to return to Moscow from an unsuccessful United Nations conference in Paris. It all began with his laugh over Western peace proposals earlier in the session. Russian counter proposals were defeated and the Soviet Bloc failed generally in the international forum. Vishinsky's later speeches promised nothing in the way of peace. In his words, "the United Nations had delayed world peace." Last week, Secretary of State Dean Acheson was accused by the Soviet delegate of opposing any form of atomic control and of undermining Russian attempts to get it.

Winston Churchill received the bi-partisan acclaim of Congress when he addressed a joint session in Washington. He cautioned the United States against surrendering its atomic supremacy without an ironclad control guarantee. Churchill warned the Chinese Reds that Great Britain will join the United States in swift "resolute and effective counteraction" of the proposed Korean truce is broken. It was essentially the same policy decided upon by the Allies in their meeting a week previous.

Dwight D. Eisenhower stated that Russian weaknesses are known to the men in the Kremlin as well as to us; for that reason war with Russia isn't imminent. He did not discount the possibility, however, of the Politburo masterminds launching world war. To prevent this, the SHAPE Commander advocated a constitutional assembly of Western European Powers to achieve "a great combination of spiritual, economic and military strength to gain permanent security and end the cold war."

Southeast Asia is threatened by increased Communist military activity in rubber-rich Indo-China and Malaya. The indecisive five year war has cost the French 30,000 dead and $3,500,000,000. Casualties among officer personnel have equalled the last three graduation classes of the French military academy, St. Cyr. Russia's United Nations delegate hinted at this buildup as a security measure against alleged American activity.

Congress was warned that 1952 will be "a year of strain" and continued inflation unless taxes are increased and tighter credit and price controls introduced. In his annual economic message, President Truman recommended an increased tax levy and greater production as essential deterrents to inflation. If the budget is approved by congress, sixty cents of every dollar will go into our military and thirteen cents of each tax dollar will be expended to increase the military potential of the anti-communist world.

"No progress" is reported in the Panmunjon truce talks. The Red negotiators accused the United Nations of bombing a truce mission in the Kaesong neutral area. It was admitted that one pilot accidentally released a bomb instead of the wing tanks he intended to jettison. Damage . . . one crater. The investigation brought some "commie" foul play to light, however. It was found that more than the one truce caravan was traversing this road daily. Truce stipulations allow only one adequately marked caravan to move in each direction each day.

Trans. Flower Show To Be Held Today

Despite the great amount of bad "flower-growing" weather which has predominated the past month, the NAS Transportation Department will hold its monthly Flower Show as scheduled this morning in the departmental spaces located in Building 314.

As in the December show, prize-winning entries will be designated by appropriate ribbons. These ribbons will be given first, second, and third place winners with the grand sweep-stake ribbon going to the contestant who compiles the most points from his entries in the show.

This month's show will be composed of six events, bouquets, roses, lilies (or daffodils), camelias, potted plants, and all single blooms.

Flowers will be on exhibition from 0900 until 1500 at which time the cut-flower entries will be presented to sick members of the Transportation Department and to the patients in the NAS Infirmary.

Judges for the event have not been named as yet.

C.O.'s Personnel Inspection Feb. 1

The Commanding Officer's Personnel Inspection for all station personnel will be held Friday 1 February 1952 in the area south of Buildings 379 and 333.

Enlisted Personnel

Chief Petty Officers—Service Dress Blue Baker, with gloves. Chief Petty Officers in NEGDF—Service Dress Khaki.

Other enlisted personnel—Service Dress Blue Baker. Enlisted personnel in NEGDF—Dungares, leggins and white hats,

Members of the duty section actually on watch after 2400 are excused from inspection.

FAS-110 Leading Chief Retires

Retiring after 30 years service in the Navy, Jesse L. McNeel, ADC, 47, was honored this morning at FASRon-110 captain's inspection. McNeel was the squadron leading chief and worked in the unit's carpenter shop prior to retiring.

Enlisting in the Navy in 1920 at Galveston, Texas, he received boot training at Great Lakes, Ill. After "boot," he reported to Hampton Roads, Va., where he began his career in the naval aviation branch. Chief McNeel recalls two young lieutenants he served with in Observation Squadron TWO in 1923. One is now CinCPac—ADM Arthur W. Radford; and the other ComAirPac — VADM T. L. Sprague..

Commenting on his retirement, McNeel said, "I've been around so long that I sort of hate to leave." He plans to continue working at NAS in a civil service capacity.

Chief McNeel and his wife, Freda, reside at 4360 38th street, San Diego.

FORMER YORKTOWN CREW GATHERS

Plans are being made by former crew members of the carriers USS YORKTOWN to hold their fifth reunion aboard the vessel this April. The YORKTOWN is being recommissioned and modernized for active service.

NI Legionnaires Head for Brawley

A large delegation of North Island American Legionnaires will make the trek to the Fifth Area Meet Sunday at Brawley, in Imperial Valley, according to North Island Post 753 spokesman.

The delegation will include Archie Breeden, Post 753 commander, Charles Stringer, Johnny Wilburn, Frank Storms, John Berry, Dudy Fuentes, George Bergman, Richard Daeheff, Art Burns, and Roscoe Morse. From Old Town Post 564, will be C. C. Perry. Mel Thornto will represent Pacific Beach Post 552. Bob Riffle will represent National City Post.

Among important topics on the agenda will be a report concerning present and proposed changes to civil service legislation and its effect on veterans.

TOASTMISTRESS CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

Officers for the first six months of 152 were elected at a recent meeting of the Silver Strand Toastmistress Club, it was announced by Louise Patterson, publicity chairman for the club.

Sara Brooks was elected president and Clella Stivers, vice president. Club treasurer is Fannie Cupples; secretary is Edity Meador, and club representative is Mary O'Shea.

Dinner feetings are held twice monthly in Coronado.

VS-23 Plays '72' Contest

They're playing a new game now in VS-23. They call it the "Seventy-Two Contest," and its giving the March of Dimes a big boost.

The object of the game is to drop a dime through the slot atop a gallon jug of water and get it in a small glass in the bottom. Anyone getting a dime in the glass gets the day off. A 72-hour liberty goes to the person getting the most dimes in the glass.

It's a very popular game, said ENS R. E. Simenson of the squadron. "They sit around and play it after they have already won the day off!"

By last Friday the squadron had collected over $200. Winner of the 72-hour liberty was Theodore W. Barnett, AN. He dropped 22 dimes into the glass.

Reminder To All Hands

INCOME TAX—is not the kind of business to put off. Remember that because the deadline isn't until March 15th, there's no reason for waiting that long before filing.

The quicker you file your tax reports; the sooner you will have those possible refunds in your pockets.

PATENT WINNERS A. C. Barlow (standing) and William V. Paul, both employees of the Naval Air Station Overhaul & Repair Department, examine the final blueprints of their stencil printing machine which was patented recently.

* * * * * *

Patent Granted to Barlow and Paul

One of the most complicated pieces of equipment that the Navy Department has ever patented in the name of any NAS employees was granted last month. Co-inventors Almus C. Barlow, Production Control, O&R Dept., and Wm. V. Paul, Plant Engineering, O&R Dept., have received a certified patent covering 13 claims on a stencil printing machine which they developed in 1945.

Complexity of the mechanical function of this equipment, and the fact that 11 other licensed patents had to be closely examined before the Barlow-Paul patent could be granted, accounts for the long period of time between the filing and granting date. Had Mr. Barlow and Mr. Paul attempted to obtain a patent through any other source than the Navy Department, litigation of this type would have been extremely expensive.

This is a fine example of how the Navy Department sponsors such cases for civilian employees through the INCENTIVES AND AWARDS PROGRAM.

In this, and other cases, the Navy Department bears the complete cost of patent action for the applicants and patents are issued in their names. The only reservation being that the U. S. Government may use such patents free of royalty charge.

If you believe that you have an idea or device that is patentable, feel free to call Jack Ball, Executive Secretary, Committee on Awards, X-694, for further information.

CONSIDER GI BILL

A bill extending educational benefits of the Serviceman's Readjustment Act of 1944 to personnel of the Armed Forces who served on or after June 27, 1950 has been introduced in Congress.

Noel Finley, of O&R Statistics, is once more a proud father. An eight pound daughter was born to Finley and his wife, Rose, January 5, at Scripps Hospital. Mrs. Finley was formerly employed in O&R Statistics.

Reservists Will Not Be Recalled Except In War, Emergency

According to an article in the "Naval Reservist,'" Naval Reserve officers and enlisted personnel who are veterans and who served 17 or more months' active duty since June 25, 1950, will not again be ordered to active duty for periods in excess of 30 days without their consent except in time of war or national emergency which has been declared by Congress.

A veteran, according to this definition, is "any member of the inactive or volunteer Reserve who served on action duty for a period of 12 months or more in any branch of the Armed Forces between the period December 7, 1941, and September 2, 1945."

Barton of S&F Speaks To La Mesa Group

Frank Barton, Supply & Fiscal Dept. training supervisor, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the La Mesa chapter of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha International yesterday evening. Mr. Barton's topic was "Principles of Speech."

The Epsilon Sigma Alpha is a women's educational society. The chapter, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Dorothy Nanartowich of Supply Material Branch, plans to set up a "toastmistress" project.

More Praise for 'Boot Daze'

HAH—"Boot Camp wasn't so bad after all." Have you ever caught yourself thinking that? Well—most of us have, and when you stop to reminisce, weren't there many experiences that still give you a chuckle or two?

This is a comparison. What was it like during the Classes of '39, '42, and 52?

Henry Goss, AOC, let it be known that back in pre-World War II days, this Navy of ours was a tough outfit.

Chief Goss entered the Navy in 1939, after a tour of duty with the Army. Immediately he was sent to the Naval Training Center, Newport, Rhode Island. As he recalls it, "even though I'd had Army experience, the first night in camp was one I'll never forget."

There were 90 men in a company, and Boot Camp was a 12 week course at that time. Five thousand were at Newport in 1939, and the Chief said, "they spent about 90% of their time carrying and drilling with the "old standby," the 1903 Springfield rifle.

As for general course of study, seamanship took up most of their time. Very few men at that time had a good knowledge of ships, knots and other Navy ways.

According to Chief Goss, the greatest discomfort for him was sleeping in a hammock.

"It wasn't too bad once you were asleep, but every time you attempted to change position, the chances of landing on the floor were greatly increased."

Chief Goss will never forget the day he was leading the dress parade in front of the Captain. As he smartly brought the company to Present Arms, one man sheepishly stooped to retrieve his fallen "piece". The urge to kill was really strong.

Arthur Habecker DCW-1, is a proud member of the "Mighty Crew of '42". He joined the Navy in August of 1942. At that time World War II had begun, and the rush was on; as Art put it, "Never had I done so much in such a short period of time."

Boot Camp was six weeks long at that time, and the Naval Training Center at San Diego was humming to the tune of 30,000 sailors. The course of study at that time stressed seamanship, swimming, and firefighting. However, the ever present drilling was there, and proficiency in the handling and maneuvering of a rifle was soon attained.

Art said the recruit training did one thing for him, if nothing else: It gave him the ability to accept and carry out orders.

One of the discomforts Habecker mentioned was the old story of "Standing in Line," anytime, anyplace, anywhere.

One experience which stood above all others, was a comical one.

After completing his recruit training, Art spent a brief period in the Navy Hospital. Upon his return, he was greeted with the news that his swimming records had been lost. Not only did he have to re-qualify at swimming but he was placed in a non-swimmers barracks with, of all things, NO LIBERTY. At the time this was no joke, but now he can tell the story with a smile on his face.

H. R. Wheeler, SA, is one of the more recent crop. He completed his recruit training just last November. When he was asked why he had joined the Navy, his answer was immediate, "Well — seeing I have six brothers and they all were in the Navy at one time or another, it seemed only right that I spend at least one hitch in the Navy."

His "Boot" training was completed at Bainbridge, Maryland. Although this is a newly activated station, there are now 20,000 men in training there, and it rates with the other large training centers in the country.

Seaman Apprentice Wheeler thinks that the most valuable thing learned by him in Boot Camp was regimentation. "To get along with others under unusual circumstances," is how he put it.

Seamanship was the main course of study, but as always drilling with the "old piece" was an every day experience never to be forgotten.

The circumstance that is most vividly remembered by Wheeler is one that most of us have laughed about at one time or another. Do you ever remember seeing a company of "raw recruits" in action?

"Left face," yells the leader, and a beautiful execution of right face is enacted. "Right oblique," shouts the master — the company comes to an abrupt halt. Then comes the fatal mistake. "To the rear—MARCH!!!" Shouts the Company commander. Wham — once again the "Boots" bit the dust.

Reassignment of Shop Personnel Supervisors

Shop Personnel Supervisors may be selected from an eligible register without regard to their standing on the register. A Shop Personnel Supervisor may not be reassigned to a comparative line position, however, unless his name is, or has been, within reach on the appropriate register, or the action is based on provisions of NCPI 160.3-6c.

Salvage Program Saves Half Million in 1951

Twelve hundred tons of critical metals reclaimed for Defense needs, one-half million dollars received on resale of scrap and surplus materials—these figures represent the major achievements of the NAS Supply & Fiscal Dept. salvage program during 1951.

In addition, the S&F Dept. transferred surplus items totaling $282,854.73 in value to the Air Force, Army, and other naval activities. Surplus and obsolete items valued at $537,528.56 were also transferred to State of California institutions for educational purposes.

Of the salvage material resold by S&F, the bulk of it falls into three categories: 1) production scrap, 2) stock material determined to be obsolete or in excess to defense requirements, and, 3) equipment damaged or worn beyond economical repair.

Production scrap is derived almost entirely from the numerous machine shops. Tag ends of metals and organic materials are accumulated and delivered to the NAS scrap yard for separation, according to type.

Although the National Production Authority is concerned mostly with the salvage of critical metals for industrial purposes, the NAS program has also given attention to other scrap materials. Egg crates, cardboard cartons, garbage, nails and bolts, paper, and expended machine gun slugs—all commonly referred to as "waste"—represent a few of th many itms rclaimed on the Station for resale.

Scrap materials are segregated into various kinds and grades. Sales catalogs are prepared to describe the material and quantity accumulated. It is then sold to the highest bidder after special care has been taken not to exceed the ceiling price of the office of Price Stabilization.

NSLI Payments Start in March

With payments starting in March, $200,000,000 in initial regular divident payments will be made to about five million holders of National Service Life Insurance.

To be eligible, the policy holder must have paid premiums on his policy for any three or more months between 1951 and 1952 anniversary dates of the policy.

The Veterans Administration has planned to forward special forms which will give a policy holder the choice of receiving cash or putting the dividend up as a deposit at three per cent interest.

The dividend may also be used as an advance payment on premiums falling due after the 1952 anniversary date of the policy.

NAS Terpsichorean Artist Knows The True Meaning of the Word

By L. ROBERT JACKSON

"Dance," according to Webster, "is a series of rhythmic concerted movements and steps timed to music." But to many of us, "dance" is just another term for the entertainment into which we enter with our eyes wide open, our feet eager, and our minds alert only to emerge as mere shells of our former selves. Our eyes are usually only half open, feet and shins battered, with our mental attitude at a new low.

Edith Monson and Ralph Johnson

But Ralph A. Johnson, NAS dancer-extraordinary and potential choreographer, (the art of arranging and staging all forms of dancing) is one among us who knows what Webster really meant when he defined the word.

Johnson, who was recently assigned to ComCarDiv Three as assistant to the yeoman of Rear Admiral J. J. Clark, began his extensive dancing career when only 9 years old. At that time, he became extremely interested in the Latin American and Oriental dance styles and techniques. However, Johnson refused to limit his dancing interests only to these two fields and soon began branching out until he had studied virtually every phase of dancing.

It wasn't long before Johnson literally danced his way into the cast of the famous Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo which has toured this and other countries during the past half-century. He soon met Madame Donilova, prima ballerina of the company and one of the leading figures in the terpsichorean field, and studied under her direction

Powerplant PARAGRAPHS

By B. Dreher

GEORGE DAUM of Shop 6201 is at home recovering from a recent appendectomy but modern surgery being what it is—he'll be back to work next Monday.

STANLEY GROBECKER of Shop 6236 is entertaining his brother Charles and his wife of London, England. They plan to return to London in April and this same month will see Mr. Grobecker's sister and husband from London arriving via the Panama Canal for their first visit to the States.

JEANETTE ETENSOHN, clerk in the Division Office, is on extended sick leave and is being replaced temporarily by MRS. BERT BEAUSIR from the Clerical Pool. Bert is a newcomer to the Island but formerly worked at Great Lakes Naval Station.

STANLEY HEWSON and LYLE EIDSOME of Shop 6300 returned to work Monday after spending those three rainy days last week on a special assignment at BAR, Inglewood. They got some first hand knowledge of the flood conditions we hear.

MRS. RUTH MILLER checked out last week from Shop 6276 and all her friends here will be waiting for that little card in the mail announcing the arrival of a Tax Exemption for the Millers.

MRS. MARY HAUSER of Shop 6246 is a happy mother these days since her son, a Sergeant in the Army, returned from Korea. He is now stationed in the States.

E. G. GROFF, Shop 6222, tells us he was almost a victim of Old Man River in San Diego's recent rain storm. The water came very close to entering his home.

L. C. TALBOY recently returned from a tour of duty in the Pacific aboard the USS BOXER. He's a civilian again and is back at work in the Final Assembly Shop in the Power Plant Division.

JOHNNY DURRETT, Shop 6222, returned to work this week after being absent approximately a month due to an injured leg.

ARTHUR L. GOODALE is back in Building 379 again after being discharged from Uncle Sam's Army and he's working in Shop 6237.

Fiscal Issues W-2's

mentary capacity to the regular Supply & Fiscal typists, rendered considerable aid in helping to complete this operation.

LT J. J. Scheela, Naval Air Station Fiscal Division Officer, wishes to remind all civilian employees that the earning and withholding data included on the IBM cards they receive each payday provide all information required for filing early income tax returns. In addition, these cards can be used to check the W-2 form figures issued annually. Therefore, they should be kept throughout the entire year not only for personal convenience, but also as an individual means of checking against possible errors.

LT Scheela also announced recently that plans are well underway to reduce the W-2 form issuance time even further in years to come. This new procedure will enable the Fiscal Department to complete the form information printing by the Machine Records Division in one instead of the present two-step system. When this new set-up is initiated next year, Naval Air Station civilian employees will have their W-2 forms several weeks in advance of the deadline thus facilitating the employees in filing earlier income tax returns.

Course for Navy Relief Workers Starts Feb. 4

A special training course for volunteer workers of the Navy Relief Society will begin in San Diego February 4, according to a recent announcement by Mrs. Paul Albright, chairman of the women volunteers, San Diego Auxiliary, Navy Relief Society.

Wives of Navy and Marine Corps officers and enlisted men, active or retired, as well as wives of reservists on active duty are invited to enroll in the course and to participate in Navy Relief activities.

Plans call for the course to continue for approximately three weeks under the instruction of Miss Myrle James of Navy Relief headquarters, Washington, D. C. Classes will be held in the meeting room of the society at the Naval Training Center. Hours of instruction will be determined at the first meeting to best fit the convenience of the members. Best transportation from the Naval Air Station will be provided for those attending from Coronado.

Content of the training course will be policies, regulations and procedures of the Navy Relief Society, and graduates will be prepared to serve in any of the activities of the organization. At present, the most urgent need is for women to assist with interviewing applicants for assistance at the local headquarters on Broadway Pier.

Mrs. George Henderson is chairman of the training course, and women wishing to enroll may send their names to her at Quarters A, Naval Air Station.

ALEUTIANS, GILBERTS, AND MARSHALLS, by Samuel Eliot Morrison.

This is the seventh volume in Admiral Morrison's 14 volume History of the United States Naval Operations in World War II. The author records the operations in the Aleutions through the capture of Attu and Kiska. The narrative then picks up the central Pacific phase of the war; the recovery of the Gilberts and conquest of the Marshalls. Admiral Morrison examines the Tarawa and Makin amphibious assaults in considerable detail.

THE MAGNIFICENT CENTURY, by Thomas B. Costain.

The author of the popular Black Rose has written a colorful historic novel of the long reign of King Henry III, from 1216 to 1272. Costain has packed a great amount of factual details in this novel, but it does not keep the book from being entertaining and exciting.

I'M A LUCKY GUY, by Frank Gilbreth, Jr.

With the same wonderful humor that made Cheaper by the Dozen famous, Gilbreth tells what happens to a member of that uproarious clan when he, jaunitily attired in ersatz racoon coat and pork pie hat, leaves that rollicking roost for the wide world.

CW&R Program Questions Answered

This week, your NORTH ISLANDER roving reporter interviews Judd Kenney, chairman of the stationwide Civilian Welfare and Recreation Committee, who is questioned on the CW&R program for the Naval Air Station.

Q. Mr. Kenney, what is the Naval Air Station Civilian Welfare and Recreation Association?

A. The CW&R Association is an organization designed to promote a recreational program for the employees of the station. Its primary purpose is the encouragement and development of better labor relationship among the civilian personnel. Members are represented by divisional and stationwide committees.

Q: Who is eligible to belong to the CW&R Association?

A. All civilian employees of the station automatically become members of the association when they are employed. Their participation in the activities is purely voluntary and there is no formal payment of dues or assessments for such membership.

Q. How is the Recreation Committee organized and how are members chosen?

A. Divisional Recreation Committees are elected annually from nominations among the employees in each division. The three nominees receiving the highest number of votes from within the division are considered to be the divisional committee with the one polling the largest vote as chairman. The chairman of each divisional committee is the division's representative on the stationwide committee which elects its own chairman. The chairman of the stationwide committee is a member of the station CW&R Council. In addition, this council is composed of one key civilian from each department on the station. The Executive Officer of the station is the non-voting chairman of the council. The selection of personnel for the divisional committees is of prime importance to the members. Careful consideration should be given to their demonstrated interest and understanding of the program rather than their personal popularity. It is these hard working committee members who conduct the business and make the decisions and financial recommendations toward the conduct of the program.

JUDD KENNEY

Q. How and when is the Annual Civilian Welfare and Recreation budget set up?

A. The annual budget recommendations are proposed by a committee appointed by the stationwide committee. These recommendations are submitted for the approval of the stationwide committee each June meeting. The approved budget is then submitted to the Civilian Welfare and Recreation Council for consideration at its July meeting. The preliminary recommendations are based on the anticipated income for the coming fiscal year. Established activities and expenses receive first consideration. Proposed new activities or activities organized but not included in the previous budget are next considered. Provisions are then made through the general fund to allow for new activities or for program expansion.

Q. How does an activity obtain funds, and who has the final authority to approve expenditures of these funds?

A. To obtain funds, an activity submits a request to the stationwide committee. If the activity is only division-wide, the request must first be approved by the division committee chairman. The stationwide committee then considers the request and by vote, accepts or rejects the request. If accepted, the request becomes a recommendation from the stationwide committee to the council, for the expenditure of the funds against the appropriate item in the budget. For fund expenditure, the CW&R council has the final authority.

Q. What are some the activities now operating under the CW&R program?

A. The program is designed to cover a wide scope of interest among the many activities. These include the annual hunting and fishing tournament, annual Christmas tree contest, division picnics and parties, organized bowling leagues, an organized golf club, golf tournaments, and a flower-show. In addition, equipment is provided for intra-divisional table tennis, horseshoe pitching, softball, volleyball, and badminton. The NORTH ISLANDER is provided to you, and to 8,000 other civilian employees each by the CW&R program.

Among the Welfare activities is the sponsoring of discount buying privileges, and the issue of service longevity pins. These pins are awarded only for civilian service at this station.

Q. How are new activities of CW&R started?

A. New activities are started by a group of employees joining together to pursue a mutual interest. When they have organized, and selected responsible representatives, they may request CW&R funds. In general, they should be definite objectives and specific purposes should be planned for the funds. The stationwide committee considers such requests on their individual merits and on their potential value to other employees of the station. The principal use of funds so allocated is for prizes, trophies, or other incentive awards to encourage wider participation.

Q. Are Civilian Cafeteria funds used to pay for any portion of the CW&R program.

A. No.

Q. How are the funds provided?

A. Funds for the program are derived from the profits of vending machines located in civilian areas. The profit from every nickle spent by the employees returns to them through the CW&R program. In addition, the fund receives commissions from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses and Navy Department beneficial Association Insurance. Specific campaigns, as represented by the recent bond queen contest, provide an occasional source of revenue.

NAS Terpsichorean Artist Johnson

while associated with the "Ballet Russe".

Two years after joining this company in 1948, Johnson resigned to join the touring cast of the Broadway musical "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes". The next season saw Johnson touring again with such hits as "The Desert Song", "South Pacific", and "Rose Marie".

But then in 1950, Hollywood issued him an invitation and Johnson graciously accepted. Upon his arrival in the film city, he began work as a supporting dancer in the film musical "Nancy Goes To Rio" which was closely followed by "Royal Wedding", "Holiday in Mexico", and many other major musical productions released in 1950 and early 1951. Shortly before his enlistment in the Navy in April last year, he signed a contract with Howard Hughes which would have assured him roles in many forthcoming motion pictures. However, due to his enlistment, Johnson had to postpone these plans temporarily but intends to resume some movie and a great deal of stage work when his tour of duty expires.

Ten Super Carriers May Be Constructed By Navy

Secretary of the Navy Dan Kimball announced last week plans for the construction of ten 60,000-ton supercarriers. The project calls for building one of the huge ships each year.

The proposed carriers will be larger by 15-000 tons than any existing flattop. USS FORRESTAL, now under construtcion at Newport News, Va., will be the prototype of the giant vessels.

The announcement also disclosed that some of the carriers may be driven by atomic power.

ALMOST EVERYBODY READS THE NORTH ISLANDER, even down in the Southern regions of North Island, known as FAIRBETUPac country. The rabid followers of the FAIRBETU Raiders, and stalwart supporters of what they themselves call "Little Brooklyn," possess a competitive spirit which is hard to deny, doubly hard to beat. Above, a group of ardent FAIRBETUPac citizens scan the North Islander for news of the day throughout the Island. But look! Below, another group of loyal FAIRBETU admirers study the contents of their own weekly, the mimeographed Border Review. A holdover from the days when the command occupied Ream Field, (ALF Ream) the Review contains local news, unit chatter, lively columns and other detailed proceedings, and bulletins which couldn't possibly be handled by a stationwide newspaper. Newly arrived editor, Tommy Newman, is the JO3 seated in center, foreground. But they still read the North Islander, almost all of them.

VS-23 Party Survives Southland's Rains

Seventeen members of Air Anti-Submarine Squadron 23 last week found themselves trudging through part of California's Cleveland National Forest in some of the worst weather the Southland has seen for years.

They were the squadron's survival party which was participating in a program designed to acquaint pilots and men with the hardships they might meet if they ever had to bail out or land in an uninhabited area.

On their second day out the rains began, and soon a heavy fog blanketed the area making it difficult for them to take bearings on obvious landmarks. For the first two days they had to live on malted milk tablets. Then squadron planes dropped supplies for them.

All hands agreed that this was the roughest survival party they'd ever seen.

Some of the places they won't soon forget are Borrego Springs, Coyote Creek, Collins Valley, Warner Springs, and Caliente Creek.

One of the groups was "rescued" by a helicopter from Ream Field's Helicopter Squadron ONE. The craft was piloted by LTJG "Dusty" Blades, who made his rendezvous right on schedule.

Border Review Gets New Ed.

Accompanied by a touch of Alaskan weather in his trip from Kodiak to North Island, Fred C. Newman, JO3, assumed the editorship of the FairBetuPac "Border Review" last week. He relieves I. H. Safris, JO2, who returned to civilian life recently.

Fourth generation of an Arkansas newspaper family, Fred enlisted in the Navy in March of 1950. While on an 18 month tour of duty at the Naval Station at Kodiak he edited the six-page mimeo paper, "The Kodiak Port-O."

In his last year of high school, 1949, he edited the school paper as well as holding down a position on the family newspaper.

BuAer Patent Counsel to Be Here Jan. 31

Two representatives from the Bureau of Aeronautics Patent Counsel will be aboard the station Thursday, January 31, to discuss patent matters with both civilian and military personnel.

Mr. Max Geldin, BuAer Patent Counsel, and Mr. E. A. Autrey from the Office of Naval Research, Pasadena Branch, will have interviews with persons desiring patent information. For information and interview appointments contact Jack Ball, extension 694.

Navigation Classes Starting Jan. 29

Sweetwater Evening High School announces two classes in seagoing navigation, to be held at the high school, 28th and National Ave., National City. Tuesday, Jan. 29, will be the opening night for the class in celestial navigation. Class starts at 1900 (7:00 p.m.) and will be held each Tuesday.

Wednesday, January 30, the first session of a beginning navigation class will be held. This class, to include piloting, dead reckoning, and coastwise navigation, will continue every Monday and Wednesday.

Both classes are free to all adults. Navy personnel are especially welcome. Take "V" bus from San Diego, directly to the high school.

Large Turnout Reported at VFW Party

Over a 100 enlisted personnel from NAS joined over a 100 junior hostesses from the YWCA, Volunteer Bureau and Jewish Welfare Board in helping the Coronado General Henry D. Styer VFW Post and Auxiliary in observing the start of National VFW Week last Tuesday evening at an "open house" free party-dance at the VFW hall in Coronado.

H. H. Harris of Public Works, the Post Commander, announced that the monthly series of service dances will be held at 2000 on the fourth Tuesday of each month and urges all NAS-based enlisted personnel to attend. The dances are free, with hostesses and refreshments furnished.

Auxiliary President Rosiena Graves, NAS telephone operator, co-ordinates all entertainment and refreshments.

Tuesday, music was furnished by the ComCruDesPac orchestra and by the NAS Bob Bib and his Western Rythmn Masters.

Get Acquainted

Year after year hundreds of enlisted Navy men pass through the Naval Training Centers in the United States. Many of the men graduating from these training centers have a secret ambition to climb up through the ranks and finally become a Naval Officer. Such was the case of LCDR J. C. Hale yhen he entered NTC, San Diego, California, in 1927.

Transferring from the USS ORISKANY (CV-34) to NAS last November, LCDR Hale took over one of the more responsible positions as Security Officer. His duties are varied and widespread. Every civilian employed at NAS has to acquire a pass through the Security transfer and pass section. All investigations and interrogations are handled through the Security Department. The Civil Guard and Marine Detachment, along with the fire deparement, are responsible to Security.

After receiving the Commendation Pennant with a combat device at Pearl Harbor, he went to participate in the invasions of many of the island strongholds such as Tarawa, Saipan, Tinian and other Pacific islands. While serving in the Pacific area, he was Commanding Officer of the USS GRAPPEL (ARS-7), USS CULEBRA ISLAND (ARG-7), and the USS GEAR (ARS-34).

He has spent the last three years in the Mediterranean area. While in this area he held the position of First Lieutenant on the USS LEYTE and the USS ORISKANY (CV-34).

At present LCDR Hale and his family are living on the station with the exception of son, Ray, who is now at NTC, San Diego.

Upon retiring, Mr. Hale and his family plan to raise horses and establish a Dude Ranch somewhere in Northern California.

Three Islanders Back From Tour

Misses Ann Morey, Gertrude Larsen, both of the NAS Overhaul & Repair department, and Francis Chandler, of the Public Works department, returned last week after an eleven-day tour through greater Mexico.

During their trip, they stopped at many of the points of interest such as Mexico City, Taxco, Acapulco, Cuernavaca, and others, and visited some of the most historic places in these Mexican cities.

VS-23 Plans Dinner-Dance

Plans for an all-hands Valentine's dinner-dance on February 2 have been announced by VS-23. Held at the Veteran's Memorial building on Park Blvd. (adjacent Balboa Park), the party will include dinner from 1930 to 2100 and dancing 2100 to 0100. Floor show and door prizes will be featured.

Present 10% Pay Raise May Not Pass Senate

Predictions of an early passage of the 10 per cent pay-raise bill may not materialize despite a quick passage of the measure by the House of Representatives recently.

Now in the hands of the Senate, the bill must first clear the Senate Armed Services Committee before going up for a vote. Many legislators have expressed the feeling that the bill should be amended.

"If that happens," says Warren Adler, Armed Forces Press Service correspondent, "and the bill with amendments passes the Senate it would then be referred to a joint conference of both houses. There, some sort of compromise would be reached, perhaps after a delay of months."

Blanket increase of pay, subsistence, and quarters to all members of the Armed Forces, including those now retired is included in the measure passed by the House. The clause making it retroactive to the first of the month in which passed was dropped.

Armed Forces officials after conferring on the measures of the bill, anticipate little delay in implementing it after it becomes law, except for quarters allowances for enlisted dependents. Issuing dependents' checks is a centralized operation and hundreds-of-thousands of records must be processed. Officials say this may mean about a two-month delay.

Legion Plans Social Events

Post 753, North Island Service Post, American Legion, will hold a dance for members, auxiliary, and friends, at the Veterans' Memorial Hall, Balboa Park, tonight at 8:00, according to Archie Breeden (O&R Dept.) commander.

The following evening, January 26, Old Town Post 564 will present an evening of fun at the Old San Diego Chamber of Commerce Bldg., 3960 Mason Street. Events will start with a potluck feed, games, then a program of entertainment.

Adjutant Cary C. Perry, (O&R) invites all veterans, Legionnaires or not, and their ladies, to enjoy the evening with the Old Town Post.

Seals Bows in Second Fight; Jackwin, Malvezzi Triumph

After shooting for his fifth consecutive San Diego Golden Gloves title, Kirby Seals, North Island All-Navy heavyweight king, was defeated by Ed Sanders of the Naval Training Center Wedneseday night at the San Diego Coliseum.

This was the second fight of the night for both boxers. Seals decisioned Don Thompson from Marine Corps Recruit Depot, while Ed Sanders TKO'd his opponent, Harold Kilman, also from MCRD, in the first round of the fight.

Out of the six fighters entered from North Island, only two are eligible for tonight's bouts. Ed Jackwin, North Island welterweight, TKO'd Mel Anderson from the USS CALVERT in 55 seconds of the first round, while Don Malvezzi, featherweight won his bout on a split decision from Billy Marshall of PhibPac.

Howard Prestwood, NAS welter, was TKO'd in the first round by Billy Hartman of PhibPac; Richard Price, NAS lightheavy, was TKO'd in the second round by Nolan Davis of PhibPac; and Syl Grant of CruDesPac, decisioned Jimmy Vacca of North Island in the flyweight division.

Other well-known Navy fighters, Felix "The Cat" Franklin from PhibPac, fought two fights, decisioning Allen Miller from CruDesPac in his first bout, and TKO'ing Wallace Fowler, from the Naval Station in the second round. Sam "The Assasin" Williams, TKO'd Ray Walters from PhibPac; Herschel Acton, MCRD, TKO'd Don Angell from CruDesPac in the second round; while "Killer" Kenny Davis, MCRD, won a cut eye TKO from Glenn Erwin of NTC in the first round.

KIRBY SEALS (left), takes and gives a hard punch to Ed Sanders from NTC. Seals lost to Sanders in his second fight of the night.

Captain's Cup Lowdown

Plant won the American League intramural basketball crown by defeating Metal Machine on 21 January. Special Services, Supply, and Weather Central are still tied for first place in the National League.

Playoffs between the leagues will be held on January 30 and 31, best two-out-of-three. Special Services and Supply will play on Monday, 28 January, the winner playing Weather Central on Tuesday, 29 January to determine the winner of the National League.

Handball

Handball starts on 28 January. Seven teams have entered and games will be played at the two courts in back of the NAS theater, and the court at FASRon-110.

Handball this year will be played as team matches.

For all spectators interested in watching the handball games, a balcony has benn built at the FASRon-110 court.

Badminton

The entry deadline for badminton tournaments is 29 January. Play starts 7 February. All matches will be conducted at the NAS Gym.

Wave Bowlers Take NTC

The NAS Waves bowling team won three out of four games from the NTC No. 2 team at NTC Wednesday night.

Evelyn Rogers walked off with top honors by scoring high game and high series. Her scores were 143 and 423, respectively.

Ruth Countryman had high game and series for NTC with a 180 and 430.

Hunter Second In S.D. Open

Roaring home to a fourth round 68, and looking like a champ after three days of strictly average performance, North Island's Macgregor Hunter finished second among the strong amateur field in the San Diego Open Golf tournament Sunday at Chula Vista links.

Hunter's final round, one of the two top scores for the last day of play, brought him a 76-72-75-68—291, left him 7 strokes behind rival Gene Littler, who continues to rank as San Diego's top amateur.

Ted Kroll, who won the $2,000 top professional prize in the tournament, was the only golfer to turn in a score better than Hunter's 68. Kroll carded a very neat 65 on a rain-soaked course the first day out.

NAGA NEWS

The next monthly "ACE" tournament will be held at the Muncipal Golf Course, Balboa Park, on February 6. All NAS or Fleet Air golfers are eligible to compete in the tournament, but prizes will be given only to those who have handicaps.

Team matches are held the second and fourth Wednesday of each month.

Drag Races Postponed

The $5000 March of Dimes benefit drag races, which is sponsored by the San Diego Timing Association to take place at Paradise Mesa Airstrip has been postponed because of weather. It will be run this Sunday, 27 January.

The "strip" is located four miles east of National City, on Eighth Avenue.

SICILY SLAMS VC-35 42-22 AT MAINSIDE

The USS SICILY finished their unprecedented "grand slam" of the AirPac intermural basketball race last Friday with a convincing 42-22 triumph over VC-35 in the Mainside Gym. It was the second consecutive win for the SICILY in the two-out-of three game playoff series. The carrier crew had won the initial tilt on Thursday by a 42-26 count.

The twin killing gave the SICILY a total of 18 consecutive wins in the league race. They had copped eight straight games in each half of the National league schedule.

The runner-up VC-35 team had advanced into the finals by virtue of a victory over FAIRBETUPac in a two-out-of-three series. VC-35 won the first half of the American league season, and FAIRBETUPac the second.

The ComFair San Diego playoff between the SICILY and Miramar was played yesterday, too late for press time, and also today at 1300. Time of the final game, if needed, will be announced later.

Airmen, Waves Bow to NTC; Meet Pendleton Tomorrow

Both the Naval Air Skyraiders and the NAS WAVES dropped their games to the Naval Training Center teams last Tuesday night at NTC. The Skyraiders lost 64-46, while the WAVES dropped their game by a 68-38 score.

Wednesday, the Skyraiders journeyed to El Centro for a tussle with Centro College, and last night they met the El Toro Flying Bulls at Mainside. Results of both games were not obtained prior to press time.

Tomorrow the Naval Air men will take on the powerful Camp Pendleton Marines on the Marines court at 2000. The Game will be preceded by a clash between the Naval Air WAVES and the Pendleton Lady Marines, which will start at 1830.

Pendleton, although beaten on several league outtings this season, stands above the Skyraiders in major loop standings, posseses an explosive one-man attack in Tony Vlastelica, the towering shot-smith who handles the ball expertly from the center spot.

Next Tuesday, the 'Raiders will invade the Naval Amphibious base to tussle with the PhibPac Invaders for the third time. The Skyraiders knocked the PhibPac team off twice, before bowling a 60-45 game a few weeks back. All games start at 2000.

FAIRBETUPAC WINS BIRD CHAMPIONSHIP

The raging rivalry between FASRon-110 and FAIRBETUPac erupted again last week when the Raiders won the intermural badminton playoff. The Raiders finished their season without a defeat, and FASRon-110 suffered only one reversal.

The final playoff went the full three days with FAIRBETUPac winning the first and last matches by scores of 4-1. FASRon-110 copped the middle match, 3-2.

FASRon-110 and FAIRBETUPac joined forces to whip NAAS, Miramar, and cop the Fleet Air San Diego championship.

ALL HANDS got in to try to break this one up. Art Borchers, (right) scored nine points against NTC. Jim Bird was high scorer with eleven buckets.

A Corner on Sports

By GEORGE BERGMAN

Kirby Seals once more hits the long road back to prominence. He was beaten Wednesday night in the Golden Gloves semi-final by one Ed Sanders, at the Coliseum, by the same combination of circumstances which cost him the Los Angeles' Gloves finals in 1949, and the Chicago title last year. In the Los Angeles affair, Seals lost by a close decision to Clarence Henry, whom he had led during early going. Just as he did Wednesday, Seals ran out of gas against Henry, and for the same reason. On both occasions (and also in the big Chicago scrap) Kirby had tangled with a tough customer in another fight earlier in the evening, to grind out hard earned decisions. On all three occasions, he had to return to the ring to battle men who had scored quick knockouts over inept or unfortunate opponents. He has, while very tired, had to fight comparatively fresh adversaries.

It all adds up to this—we think that Seals, with two weeks of intensive training, plus a bit of luck in the pairings, could and should go to the Los Angeles area title, come Sanders, heck, or high water.

Maybe in the Los Angeles scraps, the law of averages will catch up with the lads, and Kirby will draw the "breather" on the evenings he has to fight two men.

As far as we are concerned, Kirby Seals is still the defending champion of the Los Angeles Times Golden Gloves tournament.

MAYBE NIGHT BASEBALL THIS YEAR

Plans are in the mill toward initiating night baseball this season in the 11th Naval District Major League, according to informed sources at Navy Field. With teams playing under the lights, three or four games a week could be staged instead of two, as has been the case heretofore.

Baseball plans so far include an early season 11th N. D. clinic, featuring Lefty O'Doul, Hollis Thurston, Lee Thornton, and other big baseball names on the staff.

MORE FIGHTS TONIGHT

Don Malvezzi, featherweight, and Eddie Jackwin, welter, will carry North Island colors into the Golden Gloves finals for the San Diego area tonight at the Coliseum. It promises to be another great show, and boxing fans are urged to attend, get a load of some top service fighters in action.

Note this: There's not one civilian in tonight's San Diego finals—all sailors and marines!

Future Bright For VU-3(K) Man

Jean Jones AN, twenty-one year old baritone from Decatur, Alabama, has already established a name for himself in the world of entertainment. Even back in high school friends felt that the handsome young man had a bright future ahead, if given the proper breaks. One by one, great honors are coming to the Decatur boy.

As a voice major at the University of Kentucky he had as one of his many extra-curricular activities a fifteen minute radio program each week. Jones feels as though this was his real beginning.

Like many others, he was concerned over his draft status and made the choice of joining the Navy. Going through "boot" training at the Great Lakes USNTC, he was a soloist in the world famous Blue Jacket Choir, gaining more distinction in his climb for success.

In April of last year, while stationed at Miramar, he entered the "Horace Heidt, Youth Opportunity Show," for service men in this area. Winning over stiff competition at NAS, San Diego, he went on to the quarter finals at Treasure Island only to lose out.

Today Jones finds time aside from his mailclerk duties at VU-3(K) to put on a television show "In a Lighter Vein" each Wednesday over a local station.

Chapel Services will be held at ALF Ream Sunday as follows:

Fate Berates Durward Cates

DURWARD CATES, AT3, VU-3 (K) Electronic Shop, has something in common with the famed comic character "SAD SACK." Cates is becoming famous for finding misfortune. The latest exploit was his wonderful (?) Christmas leave.

With a 15 day leave in his pocket, a jubilant Cates checked out on December 13, for his home in Galveston, Texas. The jinx waited only until Cates had entered the barren wastes, well on the east side of Tucson, Arizona.

His 1947 Plymouth there decided, whimically enough, to throw a connecting rod. Cates spent hours in reaching a wrecker, and returning with it to his car. But before Cate's car could be towed into town for repairs, more complications arose.

The wrecker and Cates were snowbound in the middle of the desert overnight in a blizard. Without even a heater in the towtruck, the driver and Cates huddled, with chattering teeth, in the cab of the truck until morning.

Cates caught a cold.

With nine days of leave remaining, Cates reached home in his rejuvenated Plymouth, to collapse onto the nearest bed.

Three days later, on the day before Christmas, Navy medicos tok Cates away to the Naval Hospital at Orange, Texas.

Released five days later, Cates barely had time to wave goodbye to his family before dashing back o'er hill and desert to return to his squadron at Ream.

'Elephant Boy' Now Trains Helicopter

John W. Wilkins, AA, of Helicopter Squadron ONE, has changed costumes, from the allure of grease paint and the pageantry of the circus as an elephant trainer, to the uniform of Uncle Sam's Navy.

Working summers for four years previous to his enlistment, Wilkins handled and trained the big show elephants. His most recent was with the Shrine Circus.

J. W. WILKINS

The duties of the elephants in a circus are many and varied. All of the hard and heavy work is theirs— rolling and unrolling the heavy canvas tents, moving heavy materials, shifting the animal cages and trailers and a thousand and one things that only an elephant's great muscles can do. And the trainer is needed there to guide him, coaxing and soothing, praising his work when it is hard, prodding them on as they lead the parade, and finally scratching their ears for doing the tricks in the main ring at show time under the big top.

Upon the completion of his Navy tour, Wilkins hopes to return to his elephants.

Skyraider Grapplers Win First Smoker

The Skyraider wrestling team walked off with top honors last Tuesday night by defeating Marine Corps Recruit Depot, and the Naval Station in a triple meet at MCRD. The Skyraiders chalked up 43 points to MCRD's 42 and Naval station's 5.

Three welcome additions to Coach Cotes' grapplers are W. H. Mason, 190 pounder; W. M. Kozman, 175 pounder, and G. L. Stotsier in the 160 pound class. All these boys come from VU-7 at Ream Field.

Five of the grapplers wound up in the finals. They are: Carroll Vonk, 136; K. H. Townley, 136; C. A. Wilhite, 191; L. H. Walters, 200; and R. D. Rothwell, 195.

The Skyraiders first home meet will take place next Wednesday night at the Mainside Gym. It will be a dual meet between the Naval Airmen and SubPac. Smoker starts at 2000.

HU-1 Cagers Dump VU-3(K) at Ream

HU-1 defeated VU-3(K) 82 to 33 in a decisive basketball game Wednesday evening in the ALF Ream Gym. This puts HU-1 in a 3-way tie for top honors with VU-7 and the USS NEREUS in the 11th Naval District Southwestern League. High-point man for HU-1 was Lee Erger with 18 points.

Ream Sailors Instruct at National City Boys' Club

"We need more men, so that we can build better men for the future" was the call issued by Mr. Charles Conley of the National Boy's Club of National City.

Men based at ALF Ream have begun answering this call, but many more are needed, Conley said, to act as instructors to the nearly 700 bay area boys who come to the Club to learn crafts, athletics, in the evenings.

The majority of the boys, he added, are from Navy families. The boys' club is open from 1500 to 1700, and from 1800 to 2100 weekdays, and from 0930 to 1200 on Saturdays.

Men interested in volunteering their services as coaches in boxing, wrestling, basketball, or as instructors in any of the crafts are urged to contact Mr. Charles Conley at Greeley 7-5445, or write to the National Boy's Club of America, 15th and D Streets, National City, California.

CPO Club Sees Sansom's Wit

Boxers, Wrestlers Draw With Ream

North Island's Fleet Air Detachment teams could muster only a draw in ComFair San Diego matches in boxing and wrestling. The draw came in a 10-card boxing match with Ream Field. In the grunt-and-groan game, they dropped a 6-4 decision to a combined team from Miramar and Ream Field. However, in the wrestling match, the Islanders actually outwrestled their opponent four matches to two, but lost by four defalts.

The results in boxing:
112—C. Wilson, (AIRPac) forfeit.
118—E. Williams (Ream) forfeit
126—R. Daniels (Ream), decision over J. Foster (AirPac).

Heavy Snowfall Entices Skiers

Although some of them were still nursing slight bruises from last weekend, 25 persons from NAS and Ream Field will be going to Big Bear this weekend. All signs point toward many excellent weekend and enthusiasm is soaring high.

Transportation will be made available to members of the ski club in the future. However, members must make arrangements as to the number going at the weekly meetings every Tuesday in the NAS auditorium in Bldg. 8.

Plans were discussed at the meeting this Tuesday to purchase membership cards and patches for sweaters and jackets. It was also disclosed that there will be movies at the next meeting.

Motorists, Get Stickers Now!

All Naval Air Station windshield identification stickers now in use will be invalid after the procurement of 1952 motor vehicle license plates. The new stickers will be issued according to the following plan:

When 1952 vehicle license plates are procured, the owner of the vehicle will advise the Security Department, at the Traffic Section in Building 415. At this time a new sticker, red and white with the number 52 on it, will be placed by the side of the present sticker.

At the time the 1952 sticker is requested, the registered owner must present proof of valid insurance providing a minimum coverage of $10,000 bodily injury, and $5,000 property damage on his automobile.

In cases where 1952 vehicle license plates have already been received, vehicle owners will advise the Security Department Traffic Section before February 13, 1952.

Clothing Prices May Continue Downward Trend

There is a good deal for the Navy man in these days of rising prices. The cost of the Bluejackets' full seabag is going down.

The down-grading includes an approximate 20% decrease in prices of articles included in each man's seabag. Even lower prices may prevail when the Navy's wool conservation program gets into full swing.

As a result of the reduced prices which became effective this month the volume of sales in Navy small stores in the San Diego Area has increased about one-third.

The wool conservation program started when the Navy found it could no longer purchase 100% pure material at inflation prices, make into uniforms, and then sell at pre-inflation prices. The result was that prices went up on March 1, 1951.

After that the Navy clothing supply office in New York set out to find a suitable material with a price tag within the reach of the average Bluejacket's pocketbook. Their laboratories came up with a blend of synthetic and wool fiber that is cheaper, but equals in appearance, warmth, and lasting quality the regular 100% wool.

Wool of the new synthetic fiber material has not yet been received in San Diego, but it is expected as soon as present supplies are exhausted.

At Navy stores the upswing in sales has been noticed particularly in woolen pants, jumpers, peacoats and cotton goods. Along with shoes they are among the principle items with lower price tags.

IRD to Hold Dance Tonight

Personnel of the Industrial Relations Department will gather at the El Morocco Club tonight for a semi-formal dinner-dance.

CDR, Melvin T. Wells, newly reported Industrial Relations Officer, will head an impressive list of honor guests which will include a number of North Island's "old timer" employees.

BENEFICIAL SUGGESTION checks were awarded to four Public Works employees early Wednesday by CDR. R. M. Grower, Assistant PW Officer. Receiving a $200 check from the commander is Samuel Greene while other "idea men"—Carl H. Liebig, Guy Burcham, and Archie J. Callahan—look on.

4 Public Works Men Receive Checks for Ideas Adopted

Four Public Works employees received checks Wednesday morning as a result of application of their "beneficial suggestion" ideas on the Station. The presentations were made by Assistant Public Works Officer, CDR. R. M. Grower, CEC, during a PW Supervisors' training class.

A $200 check was awarded to Samuel Greene, Electrician-Max. of the communications section. Greene was responsible for the construction of a special cleaning booth for teletype machine carriages. His method permits maintenance men to clean and assemble carriages without breaking them down into many parts.

The teletype machines must be in first-class condition at all times for the communication center. Public Works' adoption of Greene's "cleaning booth" made it unnecessary to employ another teletype mechanic to take care of the increasing work. With the cleaning device, it is claimed that one man can adequately handle all the work.

Adoption of Greene's idea will result in an estimated annual savings of $7000 on the station.

Others receiving checks on the same day were: Guy Burcham, PW Shop Instructor, $35; Carl H. Liebig, PW Mach-3, $15; and Archie Callahan, Pipefitter-3, $20.

Burcham devised a plan for "the use of dowel separators in deck matting;" Liebig, a "helical gear cutter." Callahan conceived a method for preventing damage to insulation on pipe.

Feb. 21 Dance Planned by NAS Civilians

Dancing to the music of Henry Busse will feature the evening of entertainment at the Washington's Birthday Ball Thursday, February 21, at the Balboa Park Club. The dance, sponsored by the Naval Air Civilian Welfare & Recreation Association, will benefit the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Door prizes and special entertainment events are being planned by the CW&R committee, which met Wednesday afternoon to discuss the program.

Van Line for Van Thyme

Oliver B. Van Thyme, CHMACH, leaves his duties as public information officer, Fleet Air Wing 14 tomorrow, to go to Naval Air Technical Training, Memphis, Tennessee. There he will be attached to the Naval Air Mobile Training Center for five months instruction.

He will then be placed in charge of one of the Center's trucks or "vans" containing a mobile training unit. These units move from one station to another as needed, with accompanying personnel to give instruction in the upkeep and maintenance of Naval aircraft engines.

Navy-Wide PO Exams Completed Last Tuesday

Ending a heavy work load schedule for several Information & Education divisions on the station, last Tuesday completed the month-long series of Navy-wide petty officer exams. Over 2800 NAS and NAS-based enlisted men took the exams for advancement in rate.

NAS I&E division conducted exams for all 716 Station, Miramar, and Ream personnel vying for the four rates. In competition among fleet-based enlisted men, FASRon 7 I&E administered exams for the 1091 third class PO participants on January 7. January 14 second class exams were given to 507 men by FairBetuPac I&E. The 226 first class aspirants took their tests under Fleet Air Wing 14 I&E. Chiefs' examinations, held last Tuesday, were conducted by FASRon 110 for 275 men.

Asst. SecNav Here

Pacific Fleet type commands and shore-based activities in San Diego area were inspected last week by the Navy's new Assistant Secretary, Herbert R. Askins.

Coming here following inspections in the Twelfth Naval District, the Assistant Secretary met fleet officers and also embarked in USS BON HOMME RICHARD for aircraft training operations. He was accompanied at sea by VADM A. D. Struble, ComFirstFleet, and VADM T. L. Sprague, ComAirPac.

4 NAS Officers Take New Posts on Island

Former NAS administrative officer LCDR. N. R. Charles has become commanding officer of the ComAirPac Flag Administrative Unit.

CDR. John W. Roberts, former commanding officer of the Unit, has received orders to report to the USS CHOURRE aviation supply ship. He will be executive officer of the vessel.

LCDR J. L. Morrissey last week took over CDR Charles' post of administrative officer at NAS. LCDR Morrissey, NAS assistant operations officer before taking the new post, came to this station from duty aboard the USS VALLEY FORGE 10 months ago.

LCDR Charles was named administrative officer at NAS in June 1950.

LT Boudreau Heads Special Services

Skyraider basketball coach, LT Hal Boudreau, took over the duties of Special Services Officer at NAS recently. He was NAS athletic officer before receiving the new post.

LT Boudreau was recalled to active duty in April 1951 and reported immediately to NAS. A graduate of Fordham university, he played in the Cotton Bowl and Sugar Bowl games of 1941 and 1942.

During World War II he was a pilot for the Commandant, 17th Naval District, and an instructor at NAS Pensacola.

New assistant special services officer is LTJG Dickson, formerly of the Overhaul & Repair Dept.

Readers of the North Islander will recall an article "Turkey Pilots are Normal," written by LTJG Dickson. Written in August 1949, when he was attached to VA-55 the article lampooned a story about jet pilots which appeared in a national magazine.

LTJG and Mrs. Dickson live at 3776 Welborn Ave., San Diego, with their daughter Pamela Elizabeth who was recently born at the Family Hospital.

BuAer Officials Confer Here

Four BuAer representatives and one official from the Area Wage & Classification Office conferred here this week with NAS Overhaul & Repair and Industrial Relations representatives, concerning the establishment of the 25 new civilian aircraft ratings.

The new ratings, which were listed in a recent issue of the NORTH ISLANDER, are being placed in effect on a 6 months trial basis here, and at NAS Jacksonville, Fla.

The four BuAer representatives are John Payne, John Edmonds, John Cocci, and Carl Buck. AWCO was represented by Charles Gard.

V.F.W. To Form Coast Guard Post

A veterans of Foreign Wars of America Coast Guard Post is being established in San Diego. Charter membership is being restricted to qualified Coast Guard personnel, both active and retired as well as ex-Coast Guardsmen who served during World War II.

Necessary qualifications for membership include:

World War I service between April 6, 1917 to November 11, 1918.

Service in Germany or Austria between November 12, 1918, and July 11, 1923.

Service during World War II that is recognized as campaign medal service by the government with authorization of a badge award.

Service in Korea between June 27, 1950, and a terminal date to be announced.

It is anticipated that membership may be opened to members of other services, active, inactive and retired, at a later date, who possess the above listed qualifications. An auxiliary for women is also being formed.

Chaplain's Corner

"WELL, CHAPLAIN, IT'S LIKE THIS . . ."

Very often conversation will flow into the discussion of religion, and sometimes we hear the usual comment, "Well, Chaplain, it's like this, I don't want anything to do with religion or with God. I want to live as I please without God's interference."

Yes, of course, if this is one of your convictions and desires, you are entitled to abide by it, and no one will, or can, change your thinking. Only the power which comes from God through the hearing of the Word of God can any change come about in your thinking concerning God.

However, let's review the many things God has done for us. From Holy Scripture we are able to summarize the following: "I believe that God has created me and all that exists; that He has given and still preserves to me my body and soul, my eyes and ears, and all my members, my reason and all the powers of my soul, together with food and raiment, home and family, and all my property; that He daily provides abundantly for all the needs of my life, protects me from all danger, and guards and keeps me from all evil; and that He does this purely out of fatherly and divine goodness and mercy, without any merit or worthiness in me." How can anyone choose to separate himself from God who has created us and all that exists, preserves our body and soul, provides abundantly for all the needs of life, protects from all danger, and guards and keeps us from all evil? For anyone who considers these gifts it is impossible to say that I won't have anything to do with God.

But wait a moment, you mentioned that you want to live without God interfering in your life. Perhaps here is our answer. God's divine law tells you to keep your hands off someone else's property, not to covet your neighbors husband or wife, not to do your neighbor any bodily harm nor cause him any suffering and not to commit adultery. Maybe these are the very things you want since God's divine law says to keep your hands off. You wish that God wouldn't interfere in your life.

Therefore whenever we hear the comment, "Well, Chaplain, it's like this, I don't want anything to do with religion or with God. I want to live as I please without God's interference." It may be that God's divine law is striking deeply against your covetous selfish desires which are very dear to you and which are the root of many of the problems we have in society, nation, and the world today.

NAS Men Enter Prize Canines In Dog Show

Over 600 dogs, representing 61 breeds, will be entered in the annual mid-winter dog show held Sunday at Balboa Park. North Islanders entering dogs in the canine derby include E. L. Cox, ALC, AirPac staff, and Paul Tilley of O&R, both officers of the San Diego Pomeranian club.

Forty-seven animals of the pomeranian breed will be entered, most of them from the local club, says Cox. "The pomeranian has grown rapidly in popularity in the last few years," he declares. "To our best knowledge this is the biggest show for that breed since the eighteenth century." Pomeranian entries in the show will be exceeded in number only by boxers and collies.

The San Diego Pomeranian club holds regular scheduled meetings. Interested persons are asked to call Paul Tilley, Randolph 2238, or E. L. Cox, Hamilton 29489, for details on the organization.

Meet Harvey H. Hodapp, IVb Training Supervisor in the Training Division, Industrial Relations Department. He is presently the head of the Classified Services Personnel Training Branch.

He has been in civil service with the War and Navy Departments for 16 years. From 1936 to 1939 he held positions as Chief Clerk of the U. S. Material Yards in Sioux

City and Onawa, Iowa, under the Corps of Engineers, War Department. He came to the Naval Air Station in 1939 as a Stenographer in the Supply Department, and worked up through the Stock Control Division.

After special training under a BuS&A program, he was transferred to the Naval Supply Depot, Spokane, Washington. He was one of the first civilians in this new depot and acted as head of the Receiving Division. In 1943 he transferred to the Marine Corps Air Station Santa Barbara. While there he was promoted to Chief Clerk of the Supply Department. In 1946 he received the Navy's Meritorious Civilian Service Award.

Returning to NAS in 1946 he was shortly promoted to the training position he now holds. As training supervisor he is kept very busy with the large number of supervisory, instructor training, and clerical classes which he directs.

His hobby is playing the piano and organ, and he has played for many types of programs ranging from dance music to church organ since he was 14. Entering the Nebraska State Teachers College in 1933 he worked his way through by playing the piano. He now substitutes occasionally as organist in the NAS chapel.

In 1950 he was commissioned as a Lieutenant in the Supply Corps, U. S. Naval Reserve, and is presently the Training Officer for Volunteer Industrial Relations Unit 11-1, Naval Reserve.

He now resides in Lemon Grove with his wife and two children.

This Weeks News at a Glance

A Russian-sponsored, U. S. opposed "package admission" of 14 new members to the United Nations was voted out of the political committee by a vote of 21 to 12 with 25 absentions. Although this is an apparent defeat for the United States, closer analysis indicates the contrary. A two-thirds majority is required on all questions pertaining to membership, and since all nations are represented on the political committee, the final vote in the General Assembly would have to change considerably to give the Soviet bloc a victory.

Ohlson Retires 'for 4th and Last Time'

By George Bergman

He's a retiring sort of gentleman, this John E. Ohlson, Jr., O & R Production Superintendent. In fact, he is probably the most retiring of all North Island's many civilian employees. He has either retired, or changed status from uniformed to civilian employment, right here on the Naval Air Station, no less than four times during the past twenty years. At this writing, he is reported to be preparing for a final and definite retirement, after more than forty-one years of valuable and untiring service to the Government. According to plan, he will depart from the Island some time in April.

John E. Ohlson, Jr.

Ohlson first enlisted in the Navy in November, 1910, advanced to the rating of Aviation Chief Carpenter's Mate during the ensuing 22 years. First written account of his doings appeared in the "Trouble Shooter," North Island weekly paper of the time, February 5, 1932 ,almost exactly 20 years ago. Under the headline "ACCM Ohlson Becomes Ass't Chief Planner," the following was printed:

"You know how the Horatio Alger stories ran—boy works hard, keeps nose wiped and hands clean, runs errands promptly, saves old man's spectacles from falling in the mud, or rescues boss' daughter from drowning? Well so far as we know, John Ernest Ohlson, one of the landmarks on the station, may not have made any rescues of drowning daughters, or falling spectacles, but he has certainly made a go of his chosen profession.

"Last week Aviation Chief Carpenter's Mate J. E. Ohlson finished twenty years' service in the U.S. Navy, and was sworn into Class F-4-D. For at least ten of the twenty years, Ohlson had sat behind desks on this station, and came to know the work and procedure of production in the shops about as well as any one man could know them.

"This week, Ohlson is still on the job, behind the same desk. How come? Simple. They just created the job of Assistant Chief Planner and Estimator, under Civil Service, and our Ole stays on."

So Ohlson retired to the Fleet reserve, and into civil service, where he labored industriously until World War II. He then accepted a Navy commission (in 1942), remaining on the island in that status until 1946, when he returned to inactive status and further civil service, still at NAS. Ohlson then retired from civil service briefly in 1950. With the outbreak of the present emergency, and its attendant strain upon production facilities, John E. Ohlson was once more needed, to carry out the O & R obligations to the Navy and to the nation.

All North Island duty? Not by any means. Ohlson's World War I service included duty aboard the USS CHARLESTON which took the very first American troops, including the far famed 5th and 6th Marines, across to their destiny at Belleau Woods in France. The route was through German U-Boat infested waters of the Atlantic Ocean. Prior to that tour of duty, he served in a number of locations at sea and ashore—obviously not on North Island, which was not even commissioned as a Naval Air Station at the time of his first enlistment.

Now, with a lengthy and varied skein of service to the Navy which far antedates the existence of the Air Station upon which he is a veteran figure, Ohlson prepares to retire again. There is no doubt that one so active and energetic, will continue, even after this final retirement, to be a valuable citizen to the community.

GENTILISKA GRAHAM, regular and ardent contributor to the monthly Transportation Department flower show, took first, second, and also third, honors in the camelia division January 25, then was awarded the sweepstakes ribbon. IRD Shorthand Classes Planned

NAS Industrial Relations Department's Training Division has announced plans to conduct classes in advanced shorthand for both civilian employees and Naval personnel, providing a sufficient number of students enroll.

These classes are designed for persons doing stenographic work who are in need of increased speed or who are losing their speed and skill due to a lack of practice in their work. Classwork will consist of instruction in Gregg shorthand theory as well as considerable dictation practice.

Present plans call for the classes to be held each Tuesday and Thursday at 1000 in Building 5 for a period of about three months.

Personnel for these classes are to be selected only by individual Department Heads and it is requested that the students' names be submitted to the Training Superintendent by February 15.

GEORGE F. ZAMMUTO, SKSN, created and designed the FAAO-PAC decal insignia shown above. The Chief of Naval Operations recently approved, for reproduction and display, the insignia which conveys to the viewer a thorough explanation of the duties and the area of responsibility of Fleet Aviation Accounting Office, Pacific. The wings in the background indicate that FAAO-PAC deals primarily with aviation. Price extentions from the vouchers, which can be seen coming from all points in the Pacific area, are checked on the adding machine. The ledger sheet is used as a posting and recording media for these extentions. Fleet activities are denoted by the Pacific Ocean. All in support of the name, Fleet Aviation Accounting Office, Pacific. FAAO-PAC's present Officer in Charge is LT. Norman M. Crowder, SC, USN.

20 Years Ago At Naval Air

If the War Games "attack" on Honolulu were the real thing, it would be just too bad for the SARATOGANS. Because, according to the Umpires, the SARA has been destroped by the defensive forces, who have so far repulsed all attempts of the "invaders" to capture. Every condition of actual war exists except the firing of real projectiles.

Hell Divers, a motion picture for which many scenes were filmed on this station, is appearing at San Diego theaters this week.

Last July, Wallace Beery, Clark Gable, Cliff Edwards, Conrad Nagel, John Miljan, and their cohorts were familiar figures at North Island.

Two Second Nicaraguan campaign Medals were presented at inspection last Saturday, one each to P. T. Proteou, and J. N. Shoethe. Eight good conduct pins were also awarded.

Two VA-702 CPO's Commended Friday

Two Chief Petty Officers of VA-702 were given letters of commendation at the squadron inspection last Friday. They are A. F. Garavaglie, ADC, and G. J. La Breacht, AEMC.

The letters, from CAPT Dennis J. Sullivan of the USS BOXER, commended the two Chiefs on aircraft maintenance in the Korean theater.

TWO MEN IN WHITE who are especially capable of administering their own special laugh prescriptions are "Doctors" Ken Sansom (left) and John Reed who appear alternately as the inimitable "Doctor Chumley" in the forthcoming Coronado Playhouse production of "Harvey."

North Islanders to Appear in 'Harvey' on Coronado Stage

By L. ROBERT JACKSON

Four Naval Air Station stars will form one of the brightest constellations on the Coronado Playhouse horizon next week when that company opens its 1952 season with their presentation of the Broadway smash-hit "Harvey."

This stellar quartet, composed of O&R's Grayton Allan and John Reed, along with Ken Sansom, DK3, stationed in the Fleet Air Disbursing Office, and Ed Moore, formerly of the Ground Control Approach unit Four, has been active in local theatrical productions for the past several seasons.

Thespian John Reed returns to the Coronado Playhouse stage as the fabulous "Dr. Chumley", a psychiatrist who, after several encounters with the six-foot white rabbit and his associate "Elwood," gradually finds himself in need of a psychiatrist.

Ken Sansom, veteran NAS trooper and comedian, makes his debut with the Coronado players in "Harvey". He will alternate with Reed in the Doctor Chumley role.

The young doctor who tries desperately to help the loveable "Elwood P. Dowd" in his "middle-of-the-stream" battle between reality and his dream world is portrayed by Ed Moore. He appeared in the lead role in the Coronado Playhouse production "What Do You Know of Love?" which scored a hit in the late summer. Moore was recently discharged from active Naval Service.

Grayton Allan also steps before the Coronado Playhouse footlights for the first time next week. He plays the part of "Wilson", the strong-arm assistant in a sanitarium.

The three-act comedy by Mary Chase will be staged for three or four weeks, three times weekly, beginning Thursday, February 7, in the Coronado Playhouse located just out of Coronado on the Silver Strand. Curtain time for each performance, scheduled for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday each week, is 1015. Reservations may be made in advance at the Coronado Playhouse.

Mrs. George Kenyon, director of this production and one of the organizers of the Coronado group, has issued an invitation to all civilian personnel in this area interested in participating in any type of work connected with theatrical presentation to contact her at Henley 3-6825 for information on joining the company. Mrs. Kenyon stressed the fact that interested persons need not have had previous theatrical experience. Positions of all types are open including acting jobs, prompters, prop men, theater and stage custodians, etc., and persons are needed to fill these positions.

THERE'S STILL TIME FOR ONE MORE DIME!

The March of Dimes campaign closes officially today. YOU still have time to make one last contribution — a contribution which will help some polio victim to live a normal life again.

She Writes for The Small Fry

By George Bergman

It all happened while she was telling stories to primary age Sunday School class pupils at the North Island chapel. It was then that it occurred to Mrs. Virginia Sale that she too, could (and should) write stories for small children. She had read many juvenile magazine stories, and felt that there lay an interesting and useful field for spare time writing.

VIRGINIA SALE

Mrs. Sale, a native of Charlottesville, Va., came to San Diego in 1943, was first employed on North Island in June, 1947. As secretary to the Station Chaplain, she became intensely interested in the organization of Sunday School classes, taught at the chapel from 1946 to 1950. She has also come into contact with children's groups through working with her husband, Arthur Sale, chapel organist. They give children's operettas, plays, and do much work in churches with children up through the teen-age bracket.

Now employed as supervisor of the stenographic and duplicating section, Administrative Department, Mrs. Sale composed her first juvenile story late in 1949, sending it out to the Wartburg Press. It was accepted quickly, and her initial effort brought a welcomed check.

Thus encouraged, she commenced sending out more manuscripts, received further acceptance, and has been rejected only because of incorrect length of stories on occasions. "I have been fortunate so far," she confides, "in having a high percentage of acceptances."

Still interested in her original field of yarns for small children, Mrs. Sale hopes to branch out into writing for teen-age publications, feels that she is aware of the problems and desires of this age group, and could do something worthwhile there.

In addition to her recent successes in writing juveniles, she has composed more than a dozen feature stories for the NORTH ISLANDER concerning the chapel, and special events and programs pertaining to its activities.

Children of her own? "I have none," admits Mrs. Sale, "but that doesn't prevent me from being extremely interested in children, and their problems."

NORTH ISLAND SERVICE POST 753 LEGION NOTES

There has been fervid activity among the individual post members of North Island Post No. 753 lately, explaining the advantages and reasons why all veterans should belong to some veteran organization and take part in it's activities. The word is: "Each one—reach one—and bring that one into membership with our live-wire group!" Results—new members for this post have been pouring in.

Many divisions were well represented and enjoyed "The Mid-Winter Frolics" Dance this post sponsored last Friday night, but one new group to this dance was noticed in particular having a big time. It was the crowd from the Flight Test and Repair Division and the post welcomes your company and congratulates Charlie Lee and Jim Hartigan of this Division for so many tickets sold.

It will be interesting to the many friends of Pat O'Neil, Post Chaplain, to hear that his health has improved remarkably in the past two weeks in the Long Beach Veterans Hospital, according to Lottie, his wife, who was visiting him last week-end.

W. S. Roland, formerly of Shop No. 4268, was lost by North Island last week. He left here to accept work with a local television station.

Bill Mueller has just returned from a vacation in Utah and Wyoming and the skiing resorts. The Mueller's returned by way of Kansas and visited with Mrs. Mueller's parents.

Those Rumors Aren't True, MAA's Are Really Human

"Come here, Sailor! Say, what is it with you, anyway, eh? Square that hat, get your hair cut and let's be getting into some clean dungarees." This is a typical cry of the Station Master-at-Arms, the thorn in their side during the 24-hour vigil of the station. The Master-at-Arms Force is not a "Demon Division," however, formed to make life miserable, but a group of capable old "salts" selected to insure your safety. To some of you, these regulations may appear inconsequential, but they are the basis of a well run military organization. If not carried out there would be general "organized" confusion.

R. M. Cramer, TMC, Chief MAA, and I. C. Bowlick, BMC, assistant CMAA under the direction of the Executive Officer, head this division. Out of the 43 men in the division, 27 belong to the Station Master-at-Arms Force. Many of their duties consist of leg work for the OOD, such as picking up prisoners and reporting on the scene of serious crashes and fires. The instruction of restricted men, extra duty men and men on report is also handled through the MAA Office. Men on report have a MAA escort to and from Captain's Mast and they make the necessary arrangements to comply with a sentence. Those who receive Bad Conduct or Dishonorable Discharges are escorted around the station while being checked out and are not set free until they have passed through the gate.

The MAA's stand watches set at various points about the station. They are placed at these different points in order to give help and insure that the regulations are carried out. Regular tours are made of the station both day and night and the supervising of a working party to keep the station clean is also their task.

Fifteen of the men are attached to the baracks Master-at-Arms Force and one in the NAS Lucky Bag. These men, except for the Lucky Bag MAA, see that the barracks regulations are carried out. They insure the cleanliness of the dorms and maintain order. They issue lockers, bunks and mattress, make repairs and replace worn or broken ones. In time of emergencies, they assist the station MAA. Oh yes, they are those "jokers" you feel for but can't quite reach; the ones you never see in the morning but no doubt hear.

This combined Master-at-Arms force is designed for your convenience and safety as well as to see that Navy regulations are carried out. The appearance, cleanliness and safety of the station and station personnel fall greatly upon the Master-at-Arms shoulders.

DIMES MARCH AT S&F

Styles Blooms of Tomatoes, Gay Bouquets of Potatoes

Transforming an ordinary vegetable into a beautiful flower might prove a rather difficult undertaking for most people, but to Isabelo Bunuan, chief steward for Vice Admiral T. L. Sprague, it's an everyday occurrence—in fact, a hobby.

His method of converting vegetables into striking bouquets of roses, dalias, and lilies or perhaps arranging a centerpriece of vegetable magnolias, orchids, or daisies that would grace a royal table is a simple but delicate operation. His "magic wand?" Nothing more than a common kitchen paring knife—his only implement for this operation.

Chief Bunuan selects fresh vegetables of the bulb or root type, as turnips, beets, carrots, potatoes, and even tomatoes. After a thorough cleansing with cool water, he takes his trusty knife and very carefully divides the outer layer of the vegetable into the desired number of sections which, when minutely trimmed and finished, will become the exterior "petals" of his man-made bloom.

Near by is a bowl of cold water into which he submerges the entire vegetable after the sectioning of each layer. The cold water reacts on the vegetable in such a manner that the sections open as if actually blooming.

The entire operation must be carried out with the utmost care and precision due to the extreme fragility of the "blossoms," but his patience and discriminate attention to fine details are more than amply rewarded when his finished products—all truly works of art—are almost invariably taken for perfect specimens of their respective species by floral connoisseurs. His "turnip-magnolias" and "beet-roses" along with his other "vegetable-into-flower" productions are so realistic in their appearance that, as an admirer said on one occasion recently, "I can almost detect the fragrance of the flower when I look at the vegetable replicas he's made!"

Chief Bunuan, who was born in La Union, Philippines, began his interesting and most unusual hobby in the early part of 1935 and has been constantly engaged since that time in improving his ability and expanding his art to include even more types of flowers, and experimenting with making other objects to carry out a selected motive of a party. Just two examples of articles he has created from vegetables are jet planes constructed of carrots which were featured in a centerpiece. Many times, he has carved miniature bulls from large Irish potatoes.

The next time you admire a magnificent centerpiece or a bouquet of "roses" or "dalias," examine it more closely. It may be just a beautiful arrangement of turnips and tomatoes or beets and potatoes, arranged Bunuan style.

Navy May Shift Hueneme Depot

The Navy Supply Depot at Port Hueneme, California is being considered for removal to St. Louis, Mo.

Though, at this time, plans have not been completely molded, the move is expected to take place within the next two months. The Supply Depot is chiefly a clerical set-up, and has about 650 employees.

The move would give the Navy more free space at Hueneme for actual shipping activities.

The Navy's main difficulty with such a shift comes in persuading the employes at the Depot to leave sunny California. Officials say many are reluctant to leave the coastal state in favor of a shift inland.

Stewart Ends 32 Years Service at NAS Today

By GEORGE BERGMAN

William Van V. Stewart will retire today after more than thirty-two years of continuous civilian service on the Naval Air Station. His story of service is well known to all of the old timers of North Island. From his position as Personnel Officer in the Industrial Relations Department, his keen insight into the many problems of manpower employment and his ready aid sure counsel which has dispelled the problems of many an individual employee, have made him a landmark on the station that will be sorely missed in years to come.

For those associated with "Van" over the many years of his faithful and useful service here, his retirement will be a definite loss. But to Van himself, and to his wife Della, February 1, 1952, represents the beginning of a new era of activity. Always active and extremely interested in travel and photography, he has laid out a broad, though indefinite program of "seeing America" for the future.

Van's "Pictorial America," as it might be titled, already has a background of nearly 4,000 feet of 16 millimeter moving picture film, gathered during his numerous jaunts about the nation on annual leave, and dating back through the past several years.

"We are going to travel, fish, take pictures . . . just enjoy life to the utmost," he told the writer. "First, we plan to take a trip to Houston, Texas, to visit our daughter, Mary Helen Childs. We will try to make it by March 3, in time for our grandson's first birthday."

From there on, the Stewart travels will become leisurely, with a definite eye for photographing the beauty of the American world. A several-week tour through Mexico, to Oaxaca, Pueblo, Mexico City, Taxco, Monterrey and other points, will be followed by a summer at home in San Diego, to "catch up on the many things that have needed to be done around the house." Then will come an extended tour through Ontario, Quebec, and the New England states, to catch the autumn beauty of the Eastern seaboard. Possibly a turn into New Brunswick will be included.

WM. VAN V. STEWART

"It will be like going on an extended vacation, with no limiting date for getting back home," he stated.

"If we see anything interesting along the route, we will stop as long as we feel we wish to, and take pictures. We will definitely try to take in a number of the New Mexico and Arizona Indian festivals and ceremonials later this year."

The next winter? "Possibly Florida," he continued. "We might go to Cuba for a winter soon, but I believe that we will do well to see the continent of North America first . . . theres' a lot of it to be seen. For 1953, there's Banff, Glacier, and other park and mountain areas of the Great Northwest . . . perhaps a tour to Alaska by the AlCan Highway."

Mrs. Stewart, who is looking forward to these trips, is interested in geology and mineral collections. She too has awaited this retirement and travel with much anticipation.

"The thing that I am going to miss," commented Van rather wistfully, "is the long standing friendships and association with those with whom I have worked these many years on the Island. I hope that as I accumulate moving pictures, I may have the opportunity to share with these friends, the splendor of America's beauty spots that I have visited.

"Although I've been laying plans for this retirement for many years, it just doesn't seem real now that it's here."

Winship Takes Top Honors At Toastmaster's Meeting

By B. DREHER

At the regular meeting of the Toastmaster's Club held Monday night at the North Park Lions Club, Mr. K. I. Winship won both the first prize for his five-minute speech entitled "White Christmas in the South Pacific" and also the "gooney" prize for forgetting to introduce one of his guests of the evening. Mr. Stanley Grobecker, Shop 6236 and his wife, and his brother Mr. Charles Grobecker and his wife who are visiting here from England were guests of honor. Stanley showed colored pictures of England which he took last summer, to the assembled club members. Joe Herron, Shop 6222, and his wife (an English war bride) and James Waltner, Shop 6245, and his wife were also present as guests of Mr. Winship. Stanley Hewson recently joined the Club and will be giving Mr. Winship some competition in the near future no doubt.

L. C. WILLIAMS of Shop 6222 is accused daily of having spring fever—seems all he thinks of is catching the biggest catfish in the ocean.

O. B. BURKHEAD and STANLEY HEWSON switched jobs this week. From now on O. B. will be working in the "jet" shop and STANLEY will be in charge of the Apprentice Training Program in the Power Plant Division.

More news from the "jet" shop —KEGER SCHMITT recently became the father of another daughter.

Power Plant employees are to be complimented on their generous contributions to date for the MARCH OF DIMES. This is partly due to the fact that a fellow employee MARTIN ETTEL of Shop 6235 has reason to know just how much help the Polio Foundation can be. Martin's wife, Jeanette, has been ill with polio since before Christmas and is getting excellent care thanks to everyone's contributions to the MARCH OF DIMES.

KAY BRENNAN of the O&R Clerical Pool is currently assigned to the Power Plant Division Office. Kay worked for two months previous to her present assignment as a clerk in Bldg. 805—Salvage Branch. The Clerical Pool is well represented in the Power Plant Building 379, VIRGINIA KUTZLED is replacing HELEN RYDER of Material Division for a month Bluefield, West Virginia.

THERE'S STILL TIME FOR ONE MORE DIME!

The March of Dimes campaign closes officially today. YOU still have time to make one last contribution — a contribution which will help some polio victim to live a normal life again.

12 Ways Not to Wear a Hat

One of the charms of the sailor's little white hat is that it is perennially in style. Think of the changes in ladies' hats over the last 30 years! Even time has seen the change in the army man's millinery. But sailors will probably be wearing their distinctive bonnets as long as ships float. This doesn't mean that attempts haven't been made to alter the white hat. Besides getting official consideraion periodically in Washington it daily receives the imaginative unofficial attention of a few unconventional souls (not NAS of course) who relentlessly seek to restyle it into something daring, dashing, and different. Despite their energy and resourcefulness, the creations which they evolve are probably all variations on 12 themes. All 12 add up to one conclusion: Hat designing should be left to the hat designers.

"Here's your hat, sailor" . . .

"The Stan Laurel type"—"Gee, look, I'm a sailor" . . .

"Hey, it shrunk" . . .

"Sun protector" or "Prisoner Style" . . .

"Bos'ns mate" or "Peek-a-boo style" . . .

"Flight deck sailor" (Wings and all) . . .

"Fore and aft" (Admiral's style) . . .

"It pays to advertise" . . .

"Starboard list" or "Defying gravity" . . .

"Paul Revere" type . . .

"The Roll type," keeps it round . . .

"Joe College," with a snappy brim . . .

"Look, no hands" or "Liberty special" . . .

MARGERY BRULE, storage section clerk, observes as carpenter Ellis G. Cooper describes how he came upon the current mystery of Supply & Fiscal—a heavily rusted 20 millimeter slug, while cutting up a piece of 6 by 6 lumber.

20-mm. Shell Puzzles S&F Dept. Carpenter

When a Navy civilian carpenter cuts into a 6 by 6 with a saw on a routine job, he seldom does so with the expectation of slicing into a deeply imbedded, heavily rusted 20 millimeter slug.

That, however, is exactly what happened to Supply & Fiscal Department carpenter Ellis G. Cooper Tuesday afternoon. While working over a piece of wood from the scrap pile, Cooper contacted the well aged projectile, hitting it briefly on two occasions before halting proceedings long enough to find out what he had struck.

Source of the wood? Vintage of the projectile? Those were prime topics of Supply & Fiscal conversation. Was the 6 by 6 a part of a living tree when it was "shot?" Or was it a part of the deck cargo of a ship at sea?—or part of a target for Navy planes or ships?

Several reliable authorities were questioned on the subject, all of whom returned the generally consistent verdict that rust and wood deterioration point toward the target theory. In the words of Charles Shell, AOC, Ordnance Division, "It looks like it had been submerged or had water playing over it for a year or so at least."

In any case, both projectile and 6 by 6 have most likely come a long ways together.

'JACK-HAMMER' MAN IS REALLY A FIGHTER

By Danny Daniels

The name, R. Proo, pneumatic tool operator, may only mean that smiling "jack hammer" man to some of you, or the guy that awakened you as you sat dozing on the ferry in the early morning, with a loudly bellowed "HEY," and a hearty laugh. But to you fight fans this man is "Dick Rickey," born in Denver, Colorado, entered amateur ranks as lightweight; after numerous bouts turned professional in welterweight division; fought 89 fights, losing 11.

Proo fought in Colorado, Arizona and California, including San Francisco and Hollywood. That's a record anyone could be proud of.

Most baseball fans have heard of "Satchel Paige" and his famous "hesitation pitch." Our R. T. Phelps, Plumber, well known pitcher on the old days, learned and used this pitch from his old pal "Satchel." Phelps played with the Kansas City Royals and Kansas City Giants and was also manager of the Royals. With the exception of a year in the service, Phelps played from 1914 to 1921.

G. B. Franklin, Carpenter, resigned from Civil Service to accept employment by private contractor at Souva, Fiji Islands. Housing is available but not furnished with job, therefore G. B. Franklin is shipping his family and household effects at his own expense. After termination of this employment they expect to reside in Honolulu.

Charles Grahm, son of Ralph Grahm, Blacksmith, after a period of six weeks schooling, left for Saudi, Arabia, to be employed by Standard Oil Co. for a two year term in personnel supervision.

Let's get acquainted this week with three interesting personalities. Start with Irving "Groovey" Groves, Jr., Painter, musician and artist. In the artistic field, he studied at San Diego Arts and Crafts, and developed a specialty in caricatures. As a musician he plays piano, trombone and recently changed to bass fiddle. Having played in various night spots, Irving is a composer in his own right. He has written music and lyrice to a song which is being copyrighted at present.

Edna Kalin, clerk, after a period of over nine years employment is resigning. After study, research, and experimentation for nearly 15 years in the field of flower and plant culture, she now has the knowledge and bankground necessary for entering the nursery business, to which she has looked forward so long. After a brief vacation she will be ready to meet the public, So long and good luck in your new venture.

AirPac Sports

By Bob Swisher

The AirPac intermural basketball league is all over except the finals of the ComFair meet between the USS SICILY and FAD Miramar. As a whole, the league was highly successful, providing many thrills and disappointments. Although the SICILY made shambles of the race, winning 18 straight, interest was never lacking.

VC-11 nailed down second place by winning the four team double-elimination tournament pitting together the two top teams of each league. Other teams in the race for the "place" spot were VC-35, winner of the American league but loser to the SICILY in the championship playoff, PAMI and VF-821. Many people now think the VC-11 Comets, strengthened by the addition of center F. B. Watrous, could give the SICILY all they want. The fast breaking Comets won every game in the playoffs, defeating VC-35 twice by scores of 44-32 and 46-45 and VF-821 by 60-52. The 112 points tallied in that game set a league record for combined points in one encounter.

The individual high score was racked up by VP-42. They smothered FAW-14 by a 71-16 count. Ironically enough, that was the only game VP-42 won in the first half.

A special bouquet should be handed the fighting VF-821 team. Although never a serious contender, they gave it all they had throughout the season. Their portsmanship was undoubtedly the best in either league.

Ski Conditions Remain Excellent

Weather and snow conditions last weekend provided the group who went to Green Valley with some excellent skiing. It looks like these conditions will continue through this week and most of the remaining season. The plans for this weekend should prove interesting as the group will be spotting conditions at both Big Bear and Blue Jay. Saturday, most of the skiiers will ski at Snow Valley and then move on to Green Valley for Sunday.

Among the many things discussed by the ski club at this week's meeting were the suggestions for any names for the club, sketches for the club patches, the purchase of boots and skis and the recounting of last weekend on the slopes.

Next Tuesday's meeting in the Building 8 auditorium at 2000 will bring on the first showing of the films that weer shot at Big Bear of the club's members in action on the snow. Other ski pictures are also on the agenda for that meeting.

Any member who was not present at this Tuesday's meeting and is interested in purchasing ski boots or skiis at discount should contact Alan Deacon at Barracks 11, NAS, before 1600, 1 February. Remember Tuesday, 5 February, will see the members voting on a name for the club so give it a thought and bring any ideas to the meeting.

Brown, Leach Top Golf Tournament

Last Saturday, 26 January, the NACRA Golf league held a "Two Man Best Ball Tournament" at Rancho Santa Fe. Bill Brown and Sam Leach of O&R won the tourney with a low net of 66. Runners-up were Henry Smith and Bill Seyboth, also of O&R, with a 67.

Blind Bogie number 79 was divided by Glenn Legg and Jud Kenney.

The next tournament will be match play against par at the Circle R Golf Course in Escondido, on 16 February. This will be the last short tournament before the start of the President's Cup.

SPORTS

800 LEAGUE TO OPEN 1952 SD BOWLING CHAMPIONSHIPS

To North Island civilians of the "800" League will go the honor of opening the 1952 San Diego City Championship tournament Friday night at 7:00, at Pacific Recreation bowling alleys.

According to Jack Campbell, 800 league spokesman, there will be 16 North Island teams entered in the fast competition, and the public is invited to watch the action. The league was chosen to open the tourney in recognition of the fact that they have bowled 10 consecutive years at these same alleys—since the Pacific Recreation establishment was first opened.

With second half play approaching the halfway mark, W. Childs hold the top individual game mark for the season with a respectable 247. Next is W. Zecherle, with a 246, followed by J. Calcidise, with 244.

JACKWIN NABS WELTER TITLE

'Novice' Malvezzi Takes Featherweight Semi, Drops Finals to World's Champ

By BILL FEENEY

Eddie Jackwin took his greatest step toward "ring fame" last Friday night when he won two unanimous decisions to become San Diego Golden Gloves welterweight champion for 1952.

Don Malvezzi, the other North Island gladiator, got into the finals after a very tough semi-final bout against Warren Straight of CruDesPac. Although Don won this preliminary bout, he was noticeably tired.

In the finals he was pitted against the defending featherweight kind, "Killer" Kenny Davis of MCRD. Although Malvezzi put up a terrific battle, the more expereinced Davis took the most points, and won a unanimous decision.

In the semi-finals, Jackwin faced his toughest test in the person of ComPhibPac's Felix "The Cat" Franklin, last year's champion.

The first round proved that Jackwin meant business from the beginning. Although his opponent was difficult to hit, the "southpaw Jackwin" was the aggressor and forced the fight during the first two minute period.

Round two started with a brisk exchange in a neutral corner. When Jackwin broke ground, there was a stream of blood running down from Franklin's right eye. The doctor examined the eye, allowing the fight to continue. As this round drew to a close, Jackwin seemed to have the fight sewed up.

As the bell for round 3 sounded, Jackwin came out of his corner with a rush. During the first minute of the last round, Jackwin was connecting violently with a winging left hook, setting a difficult pace for the tiring Franklin. Jackwin's superb condition was one of the determing factors, and the last minute of the final stanze was his unanimously.

In the finals, Jackwin had a much easier time with the highly touted Herschel Acton of MCRD. Although Acton was willing, he was constantly beaten to the punch

Bon Voyage to Hank Leyba who packed his bag and gloves last week and headed for duty with MATS Pacific at Hickam Field. GOOD LUCK, HANK!

"Hank" LEYBA

Coach and Trainer of Champs

A professional boxer himself, Hank fought in Los Angeles under the name of Johnny Avila back in 1937, prior to entering the Navy. Since starting his Navy coaching career, he coached 1950 11ND and Golden Gloves middleweight champ Pete Janke, and Andy Anderson, All-Navy semi-finalist. Among others Johnny Kamber, Cooky Cook and Greek Lakanites, All-Navy semi-finalists and finalists. Hank will be replaced as Skyraiders' trainer by 1949 All-Navy lightweight Earl Williams.

Airmen Win Two, Drop Two; Meet CruDesPac Monday

After finding range last week and drubbing Imperial Valley College 70-42, and the El Toro Flying Bulls 59-33, the Skyraiders' basketball squad suffered two close decisions at the hands of a powerful Camp Pendleton and PhibPac Invaders' quintet.

The Airmen met Pendleton on the Marines' home court last Saturday only to return with a close 65-58 defeat. Tangling with PhibPac Tuesday night at the Amphibious Base, the Skyraiders were in charge of the game most of the time, and just as victory was near the Invaders swung into a last minute scoring spreed, ending up with a one point victory, 52-51. Half-time score was 35-29, Skyraiders.

Monday at Navy Field the Skyraiders will take on the CruDesPackers for the third time this season. The first time the 'Raiders lost, 60-51, only to turn around and smear the Cruiser-Destroyer force 49-42 a few weeks back.

Last Wednesday night the Skyraiders played a benefit game with the Fon Jon Kennels of Coronado. All proceeds went to the March of Dimes drive. Game was played in the Coronado High School gym, but results were not obtained by press time.

Timbermen Gain In 800 Scratch Loop

Although W. Butler of the Jiggers rolled top individual game of the week with a 214, the Timbermen drew to within two games of the leaders last Friday at Pacific Recreation alleys.

J. Toprahanian, though bowling for the 13th place Long Shots, boosted his season average to a respectable 169 with the week's high individual series mark of 586.

WAVES BOWL OVER EL TORO

Team Captain Evelyn Rogers played her last game with the NAS WAVES bowling team last night and took top honors in scoring. She is being transferred to the European theater and checks out Monday. Her top game of 202 and high series of 517 enabled the WAVES to dump the El Toro Lady Marines and take four games. High scorer for the Marines was Margie Thalhamer whose top game was 173 and series, 439.

BASKETBALL

Special Services won the National League title by defeating Supply 36-19 Monday, and Navy Weather Central 25-24 last Wednesday in the Mainside Gym.

Jim Brock was awarded a gift shot in the last 45 seconds of Wednesday's game which proved to be the winning point.

It was a thrilling game all the way with Special Services on top at halftime. The last half was a touch and go affair with the lead changing every few seconds. Finally with 45 seconds to play Brock was awarded a free throw after which Special Services were able to freeze the ball till the final moment.

In Monday's game with Supply, Special Services jumped to an early ten point lead and continued to lengthen it in spite of a hard fighting Supply team. Halftime score was 20-7, Special Services.

A Corner on Sports

By GEORGE BERGMAN

Everybody went to the Golden Gloves fights last week to see Kirby Seals win the heavyweight title for the fifth successive year. On the card were several other North Island ring gladiators, but very few ringsiders really thought anybody but Seals had a chance to grab a championship for Naval Air. "Sure, Eddie Jackwin and Don Malvezzi are good fighters," the ring addicts would concede, "But who have they whipped lately?"

Well, Seals bit the dust on the opening night, and Jackwin punched his way to a staggering, crowd pleasing welterweight championship and Malvezzi (who rated as a novice up to the G.G. tourney) slugged it out all the way to the featherweight finals, only to drop the duke to seasoned veteran and many-titled champion Kenny Davis in a fast and furious three-round brawl.

Malvezzi, USS SICILY product, fell victim to the inexcusable fact that there is no longer a novice class for San Diego Golden Glovers. Not since the Daily Journal handled the big annual affair has there been any real chance for newcomers like the speedy Naval Air 126 pounder to gain experience against other novices. He is to be heartily commended for going as far as he did against the "stacked" odds of the open classification game. Davis, the lad who decisioned the North Island neophyte, is World amateur champ.

Jackwin a surprise winner? Nothing really unusual about it. He has been knocking at the door of Navy boxing fame for three years. He has won lightweight and welterweight crowns in YMCA, AAU, 11th ND, and other competition. So the Jackwin Golden Gloves triumph, although heralded as an upset win, might easily be classed as inevitable. The lad was ready, has been training zealously, and was going on the wealth of 103 fights' experience.

Anyway, it was a great show—probably the greatest in San Diego Golden Gloves history. And as a proving ground for Navy and Marine boxers of the area, it has laid the groundwork for another 11th Naval District-Pacific Fleet domination of the approaching All Navy fights.

Variety Show To Be At Ream Theatre Feb. 6

Girls! Gags! Guys! This will comprise the bulk of the talent coming to ALF Feam Field for the gala variety show. Chief Bill Proctor, ADC, in charge of production, announces that on Wednesday, February 6, 1952, at 1930, in the Ream Theatre a show of music, comedy, dancing and singing will be presented to the men of Ream, their families and guests.

"Happy Jack" Stevens, VU-7, will be master of ceremonies, introducing and joshing the host of acts and comedy skits. Among the entertainers will be:

Mary Lou Doxtate, singer and guitarist supreme.

Barbara and Lois Johns, baton twirlers exceptional.

Joyce Rawlings, popular song vocalist.

Robert Cancelosi, electric steel guitarist.

Bob Moore, TV personality, popular vocalist.

Pope Trio, two boys and girl acrobat team.

Dean Jones, TV star, popular song vocalist.

Beatrice School of Dance will provide dance routines.

"Don't pass up a chance for an evening of fine entertainment," said Chief Proctor in an interview early today. "Be there, see some great performers who will be out to please each and everyone who attends. Remember this great collection of artists can be seen only at the ALF Ream Theatre, at 1930 on Wednesday, February 6, 1952."

Once again the decision was unanimous, and Jackwin of the Skyraiders had won the fight, and the right to take his championship to Los Angeles and compete in the Regional Finals of the Golden Gloves Tournament. Should he win in L. A. he then goes to Chicago to battle for the National crown.

SAM "THE ASSASSIN UPSET

Sam Williams, one of the most feared fighters in this area from CruDesPac, was upset in the middleweight finals by Buel Griffin, of MCRD.

Williams nearly met with an upset in his first fight with Cecil Seals of NTC, and brother of Kirby Seals. Cecil cleverly boxed throughout the fight, and kept Williams at bay most of the time, but the disputed decision was given to "The Assassin".

In the finals, Griffin showed great condition, and although he was rocked by murderous left hooks throughout the bout, he outgamed and outfought the DesPac fighter. A split decision gave Griffin the victory, and the Golden Gloves robe.

The team trophy was given to MCRD who captured 21 points, and the best fighter trophy was given to Griffin of MCRD for his upset win over Sam Williams.

FIRST CUSTOMER at the newly opened Ream Hobby Shop was Donald R. McCracken, TD2, Ream's Link Trainer Instructor, (right) buying a model aircraft motor from James R. Roberton, AN, VU-3(K), the hobby shop's storekeeper and instructor.

Leathercraft, Modeling, Plastics Featured at ALF Ream Hobby Shop

Last Tuesday found the hobby shop—for leathercraft, model building and plastics—open to the men of ALF Ream.

The shop is located in the northwest section of building 64. On next Monday, the woodworking shop will also open for use. In the near future, information regarding the opening of an automobile shop will be published, it was stated.

Chief Frazier and a crew of 11 men have rushed the Hobby Shop to an early completion.

The hours of the shop are: Tuesday through Friday 1300 to 2130, Saturday and Sunday, 1000 to 1700. The shop will not be open on Monday, Chief Frazier said.

"Any and all hobbies may be pursued here," Chief Frazier commented, "and they'll be given all possible assistance. But the men will have to conform to the rules for the Hobby Shop at all times.

VU-3 (k) Cagers Edge Out Sperry

UTRON Three eaked out a 53 to 52 verdict over the VU-7 "n-vaders" Monday night, during the closing seconds of the five minute overtime period.

Averill's closing second basket in the regulation contest sent the game into overtime at 48 all, where Stevens and Dyke sparkled with the tying bucket and winning foul shot.

At the intermission VU-3(K) led 25 to 18 with Howard Hope getting 16 points in the first half and taking individual honors with a total of 19 points.

Coming from behind in the closing minutes of Friday's Southwestern league contest UTRON Three emerged victorious over the USS SPERRY team on the Naval Station basketball court, 45 to 42.

Hope led the winners with 15 points, but Kelly of the SPERRY team took individual honors with 19 points.

Plagued by the lack of height, their 4 to 3 record, though not impressive, is an indication that the leaders will be in for trouble any time they meet the hustling team from UTRON Three.

ALF REAM MOVIE SCHEDULES

1 February—"SAILOR BEWARE," Martin & Lewis, Corinne Calvert. "BIG TOP BUNNY."

2 February—"SCANDAL SHEET," Broderick Crawford, Donna Reed. Eddie Condon.

3-4 February—"BEND OF THE RIVER," James Stewart, Arthur Kennedy. "Poppa's Little Helper."

5-6 February—"MODEL AND THE MARRIAGE BROKER," Jeanne Crain, Scott Brady.

7 February—"DAVID AND BATHSHEBA," Susan Hayward, Gregory Peck.

Claim Border Flood Due to River Debris

Investigations to determine the cause of flood conditions at Border Field during the recent torrential rains have disclosed that silt and flotsam had piled up in the mouth of the Tijuana River. As a result, it raised the water level and backed up the heavy run-off.

The situation became critical when the roads into the small base were destroyed two weeks ago. Helicopters from AFL Ream evacuated four persons and dropped food and supplies. Later a bulldozer was brought in from the Naval Air Station to clear the mouth of the shallow Tijuana river. Officers believe that these measures will prevent a recurrence of the flood conditions, but stated that the bulldozer was being kept close at hand.

During the flood, volunteers from VU-3 (K) worked hard, filling and piling sandbags to stay the rising waters that threatened the beleaguered little base.

The menaced sanitation system has been protected against future assaults of the river by the erection of cement walls around the pump houses.

Sked New Hours For CPO Club

Chief Hass, manager of the Chief Petty Officer's Club at ALF Ream, announced yesterday that the hours of the club have been changed. The new hours are:

Week days: 1100-1300 and 1600-2300.

Saturdays: 1100-2300.

Sundays: 1200-2300.

Plans are being made, the chief disclosed, to hold a St. Valentine's Dance on the 15th of February for the CPO's and their guests.

Link Trainers Land at Ream

Two Link trainers were installed last Friday at ALF Ream. The Links will provide additional pilot training facilities for all squadrons based at the auxiliary landing field.

Utility Squadron Three (K) will operate the training program.

The complicated installations were accomplished by R. H. Stokes, AD2, D. R. McCracken, TD2, and R. J. Sams, AN, of the NAS.

NAS Chaplain to Be at Ream Tues.

NAS Protestant Chaplain LTJG T. E. Schultz has announced plans to conduct a series of discussions on religion for the benefit of personnel stationed at AFL Ream Field. He will deliver these lectures, which also include motion pictures and an open forum, each Tuesday evening at 1900 in the Ream Field Chapel.

Chaplain Schultz also plans another program of lectures and movies in conjunction with the character guidance program being carried out throughout the armed forces. The first meeting will take place next Tuesday at 1000 in Ream Field Theater.

A Protestant Chaplain from NAS visits the Chaplain's office at Ream, located in Building 64, every Tuesday afternoon. All personnel desiring to see the chaplain may do so at this time.

CHARLES MERRELL, AN, HU-1, demonstrates the bowline to two of the Imperial Beach Sea Scouts, Gerald Tracy, 15, apprentice boatswain, and Charles King, Jr., 16, apprentice ship's yeoman. Both boys live in Palm City.

Merrell Has the 'Duty' 3 out of 4 Teaching Sea Scouts Seamanship

C. L. Merrell, AN, HU-1, has been devoting his time during the past three months to the Sea Scouts of Imperial Beach. Merrell, an ex-scoutmaster, is very much interested in seeing boys get off on the proper foot, in developing themselves into worthy American citizens. As their assistant adviser, or "mate," he feels the future of our country is only as strong as the youth we have. For this reason he devotes three or four nights each week to them, helping to develop basic seamanship, leadership and citizenship.

The Scouts met on Ream Field each Monday evening until they could find a place to meet. The boys, all fourteen or older, have just returned from a district camporee in the San Diego mountains on January 12 and 13, followed by court-of-honor on January 14.

Along with these regular scout activities, they have a boat at the Naval Station. Merrell states the boys are learning to become real seamen very rapidly, and having lots of fun in doing so.

The some twenty boys need help in leadership, and Merrell says that anyone interested in helping him will be welcome. Also, the boys need uniforms. Since the uniforms are almost the same as the Navy's, any old one will be put into use as soon as donated. "If you have one that you cannot use, they why not let someone who can use it have it?" Merrell asks.

Sicily, Miramar Meet Saturday

The USS SICILY and FAD Miramar-Ream tangle Saturday night for the ComFair San Diego area intermural championship. Game time is 6:45 in the NAS Mainside Gym.

The two teams are currently tied at one game each in their two-out-of-three series.

The SICILY won the first game 67-57 last Thursday night. The following day, before the game, the SICILY was an overwhelming favorite to win, but things didn't turn out that way. An alert NAAS Miramar and ALF Ream team took full advantage of the overconfident "Sicilians." The final score was 40-36 with the FAD boys on the long end.

Miramar's LT. Hogan was the outstanding man on the floor for the Fleet Air Detachment. His 12 points, along with great support from the rest of the quintet, gave them the deserving win.

Liberty Hop Premiere Wednesday

COMEDY, MUSIC, TALENT - - And all for FREE - -That's the "Plan of the Day" for the production Liberty Hop.

After more than six weeks of strenuous rehearsals, the show is now ready for its showing to military personnel in the 11th and 12th Naval Districts. The "Premier Performance" will be presented on the evening of February 13 in the NAS Theater.

An original production with words and music by well known North Island personalities Buddy Viotti and Jack Thomas, this show should bring laughter and applause from all the men in the audience during its showing here.

Original plans were formed some four months ago. From the many people auditioning for parts, 16 chorus and 19 specialty acts were eventually assigned.

During the show's road trip, Naval Air Station talent will compete with that from the military installations being visited. To the winner of each individual contest will be awarded an engraved "loving cup" as a souvenir of the occasion.

This entire revue is being handled under the supervision of LT Hal Boudreau, Special Services Officer. In charge of some of the intricate details are: Miss Betty Haddy, original costumes; W. F. Radley and Rebob Hanson, art and set director and Bruce MacBeth and John J. Johnson, makeup men.

There will be no individual starring roles in "Liberty Hop." Instead of having one central star take the leading part, the revue will consist of many individuals taking roles in a group of independent scenes.

TEEPEE OF OJAVAN (Navajo spelled backwards) is the highlight of "Liberty Hop," latest musical comedy of the North Island Productions. Written by two NAS seamen, "Liberty Hop" will be shown at NAS theater February 13 and 14.

Don't Dare Skip The Lovers' Leap

"Lovers' Leap," this years' first station-wide dance, will be held at the NAS Gymnasium at 2100 on Saturday, February 16th.

Dick Pierce, and his Decca Recording Orchestra, will provide music to the Valentine background of the dance.

Special Services Division has contacted over 500 girls through various San Diego service organizations to act as hostesses for the evening.

Admission for military personnel will be by free ticket. These tickets will be distributed to department heads and unit commanders. The last station-wide dance was held in November.

Cited for Helping Christmas Party

Mrs. Helen Quady and Mrs. Teresa Alexander, both O&R employees, were presented plaques last Monday "in appreciation for their unselfish, enthusiastic, and capable assistance toward the success of the Naval Air Station Christmas Party for 1951."

Both women began working on plans for the party early last summer. The San Diego area was canvassed by letter and telephone to find eligible children—dependents of deceased Naval aviation personnel. Later they arranged correct sizes of clothing as gifts for the children, and issued invitations. On the day of the party they acted as hostesses.

Mrs. Quady and Mrs. Alexander are members of the Coronado chapter of the Gold Star Wives. Their husbands wire killed while on active duty with the Navy.

February 22 Is a Holiday

George Washington's birthday, Friday February 22 will be observed as a holiday by military and civilian personnel of NAS. Although 24-hour service will be maintained, a holiday routine will be observed.

'52 Sticker Deadline Nears

The NAS Security Officer announced that the issuance of the 1952 station auto stickers has been nearly completed. However, quite a number of people, he says, neglected their insurance papers or registration receipt when applying. This resulted in an additional trip for a number of people.

It is suggested by the Security Div. that every person make an effort to bring these items when applying for their stickers. It is not necessary to bring the car for which the sticker will be issued. The decal is being issued to the individual who in turn will apply it to his car windshield.

Automobiles registered in those states where license plates do not expire until later dates may obtain their 1952 station sticker when their current plates expire. All automobiles carrying California license plates will be required to have new stickers prior to February 13. If any person fails to do so, after that date they will be restricted from driving aboard NAS, says the Security Division.

Those who do not receive their 1952 license tabs before the deadline of February 13 will be allowed to drive aboard the station if they can show proof of application for the new license plates.

Washington's Birthday Ball To Benefit March of Dimes

"Let's Dance, so that Polio Victims can Walk." This is the theme for the Naval Air Civilian Welfare Association's Washington's Birthday Ball Thursday, February 21. The evening's entertainment will feature the famous trumpet of "Hot Lips" Henry Busse, and his nationally prominent orchestra.

Both civilian and military personnel are invited to attend, at the Balboa Park Club. Dance starts at 8:30.

Shop committeemen have tickets for the benefit affair, the entire proceeds of which will go to augment the funds of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Tickets may also be procured from the Civilian Employee Services office, Bldg. 415, or from the NAS Welfare & Recreation Office, Bldg. 650. Tickets are one dollar a person, entitle holders not only to enjoy dancing to Henry Busse's orchestra at far less than the usual tariff for major league music, but affords a chance to win any one of the many fine door prizes which have been arranged through the courtesy of public spirited merchants and businessman of the community.

Staged at an ideal time, the Washington's Birthday Ball takes place on the eve of the Friday holiday.

Despite Predictions of Groundhog, Signs of Spring Appear at NAS

SEE THAT BLUE SKY—That's the sign that Spring and summer are not far away. What are you going to do about all this vitality that warm sunshine always brings out?

SWIMMING will once again reign as this year's number one form of heat dissipating recreation. With the unlimited facilities for bathing at the seashore, in the San Diego area, it seems unlikely that any man will retain his normal shade of white during the summer months.

SAILING—is another of the sports that attract a great deal of attention during the warmer months of the year. CAN'T YOU JUST SEE IT NOW? There you are, sailing in the broad expanses of San Diego Bay. The wind filling your sails, and the trim bow of your boat cutting neatly through the clear blue sea. Boy! That's the life. (If you enjoy sailing.)

BASEBALL is the typical warm weather sport for those who seem to have an overabundance of effervescent corpuscles. Good old exercise will be utmost in the minds of the participants; whether it is a game of "Big League Caliber," or one of the "Sandlot" variety.

Regardless of which of the above you personally desire most, we can say that summer will probably bring a much greater amount of outside participation in pleasureful pastimes.

Hearings Held On Pay Bill

Open hearings on the proposed Armed Forces pay hike have been completed by the Senate Armed Service Committee. The Committee has scheduled a closed hearing.

The bill will come up for a vote after it has cleared the Committee and been reported on the Senate calendar for three days.

In past hearings Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett, Assistant Defense Secretary Anna M. Rosenberg and Air Force Chief of Staff General Hoyt S. Vanderburg testified before the Committee and favored passage of the bill.

The bill as passed by the House would give blanket increase of pay, subsistence, and quarters to all members of the Armed Forces.

If the Senate amends the House bill and passes it, it would then have to be referred to a joint conference of both houses to work out a compromise.

Morals and Morality

Lots of talk these days about morality and morals. Everyone is getting into the act and giving us the word on morality in public life and morals in private life. Most of what I've read makes no sense to me. Most of the writers have the idea that morals and morality are a matter of custom. Which is like saying that because people are drinking more these days it will not be long before alcoholism will be morally fine. Some of the other liberal genuises are telling us that majority vote determine morals. In other words adultery may be O.K. in the near future because a Gallup poll proves that most people are in favor of it. This sort of sloppy thinking, this kind of shabby logic is enough in itself to make a thinking man take to drink. If morals are made or unmade by men, then what is wrong last week may be right this week.

If you murder a man in 1952 the chances are you may well be electrocuted; in 1982 you may receive a citation. Silly? Not in the minds of our moral progressives, who tell us morals are more a matter of time and geography than anything else. In their reasoning morals are a fashion, nothing more, nothing less.

Any man who can think at all knows that morals are the expression of the mind of God, that God's mind is unchangeable, that God expressed His mind rather well in the Ten Commandments, which are the basis of all morality.

The moral law is not a plaything in the hands of a nation, of an organization, of an individual. It is not a weathervane to change with fleeting fashion or modern mechanics. It was born in the mind of God and no man or number of men or passing of centuries shall change the mind of Our Creator.

Islanders Appear in Harvey 'at Playhouse'

The Coronado Playhouse will present its production of "Harvey" beginning Thursday, February 7th, and continuing every Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evening for a period of three weeks.

Ken Sansom, veteran NAS trooper and comedian, will make his debut with these Coronado players in this play. He will alternate in the role of Doctor Chumley.

The young doctor who tries to help the lovable "Elwood P. Dowd" in his "Middle of the Stream" battle between reality and his dream world is portrayed by Ed Moore. He appeared in the leading role of the Coronado Playhouse's production "What Do You Know of Love?" This play was a "hit" during the recent late summer run.

Mrs. George Kenyon, director of this production and one of the organizers of the Coronado group has issued an invitation to all civilian personnel in this area interested in participating in "Show Business." To obtain further information, call Mr. Kenyon at Henley 3-6825. Positions of all types are open; including acting, prompters, prop men, theater and stage custodians, etc.

S&F Dept. Officer Assigned to Japan

S&F Administration Division Officer LTJG E. B. Barnett will leave NAS February 15 to report to Fleet Activities, Yokoska, Japan. He came to NAS two years ago from USS JOHN R. PIERCE (DD-753) where he was supply officer.

While stationed here LTJG Barnett was athletic officer for the Supply & Fiscal Captain's Cup teams which racked up new records in intra-mural sports competition.

Enlisting in the Navy in August 1939, he advanced through every enlisted grade to warrant grade of chief payclerk. Commissioned ensign (SI), he served six months during World War II in the naval observer's office, Tabara, Peru.

Leaving the Navy in 1946, LTJG Barnett returned to the University of Oregon, his alma mater (1939), where he taugh Spanish and French.

He was accepted into the Regular Navy and returned to the Supply Corps in 1947.

LTJG Barnett resides with his wife and three children in San Diego.

Civilian Elections

Shop Committee and Civilian Welfare & Recreation Committee elections will be held some time in April, according to IRD sources. early in March.

Nominations will be opened early in March.

This Weeks News at a Glance

"The King is dead; long live the Queen." This traditional cry sounded in the United Kingdom Wednesday morning. Elizabeth becomes the sixth woman to rule the British Empire. Two feminine predecessors on the throne had tremendous successes in expanding the domain of the English crown. King George VI died in his sleep early Wednesday morning following a long illness which saw the monarch near death's door on several occasions.

Last Friday, 1 February, marked the 684th day of United States participation in the Korean conflict. This was equal to the total number of days that the United States was engaged in World War I. The United States declared war on April 6, 1917 and the Armistice was concluded November 11, 1918. The latest cumulative casualty figures published by the Department of Defense lists about 105,000 names. Total casualties sustained by United States' forces in World War I were 364,800.

The Saar Basin, a coal-rich area and long time trouble spot for the Germans and French, once more threatens to awaken the dormant hostilities of these two countries. Only recently, Chancellor Adenauer won a hard-fought dispute in the Bonn Reichstag to ratify the French proposed Schuman Plan. The Schuman Plan, a program designed to eliminate the economic difficulties that plagued the Western European nations, was ratified by a substantial majority of the German legislative body over the objections of the opposition, the extremely nationalistic-minded Social Democrats (Socialists). All Germany is embittered by the recent French action of naming an ambassador to the French-created Saar puppet state. This, to German nationals, represents a flagrant violation of good faith.

The United Nation's Assembly ended their Paris session with a resounding defeat of the Soviet bloc. With a vote of 51 to 5, the member nations resolved against a Russian proposal to an immediate debate of the Korean question. Western nations countered that the Soviet proposal would not, as it was claimed, hasten the truce, but would tend to delay final settlement much further.

The Korean peace talks have had their ups and downs in the past few days. United Nations' optimism that a sudden progressive approach by the "Reds" was indicative, perhaps, that the Communists want an armistice in the foreseeable future. These sentiments as voiced by UN negotiator Brigadier General William P. Nuckols, represented the periods of optimism that gave way to periods of "quagmire." The Communists submitted a proposal to have high level conferences within 90 days after the armistice to decide on the questions relevant to the Korean problem. The proposal links all other Oriental problems to a peaceful Korean settlement.

Of major importance in the nation is the trial of the 15 man second team of the American Communist Party. This second team took over the Party reins when the top 12 were convicted in Judge Harold Medina's court in 1950. The Government has charged the defendants with conspiring to use violence in the overthrow of the constitutionally established American government. Sixty witnesses have been scheduled by the Government to confront the "Reds" with the evidence of the charges. A "surprise" witness, evidently similar to those introduced by the government in the trial of the top 12, has been promised by the prosecution. If this surprise witness is similar to those, he, or she will have been an FBI "plant" in the Party to garner evidence.

FRIDAY, February 8—PEOPLE WILL TALK, starring Cary Grant and Jean Crain. A story playing up the discrimination present in our modern day world. As usual, Cary Grant plays his assigned part without error, and his leading lady does equally well.
SHORTS: None.
Running time: 1 hour and 57 minutes.

SATURDAY, February 9—INDIAN UPRISING, starring George Montgomery and Audrey Long. The Indians come into their own in this motion picture. This story gives the redman's side of the taking over of America by white settlers. Geronimo, the most savage of Apache chiefs, is treated with sympathy here along with Captain Case McCloud's attempts to make and keep honorable treaties.
SHORTS: Winter Holiday and High Blood Pressure.
Running time: 1 hour and 47 minutes.

SUNDAY and MONDAY, February 10 and 11—ELOPEMENT, starring Clifton Webb and Ann Francis. Once again Clifton Webb resorts to his famous "Mr. Belvedere" role, and as is usually the case, the picture is predominantly laughs. This time, he is none but a father whose daughter has been grasped by the urge of elopment.
SHORTS: By Leaps and Hounds and Fresh Water Champ.
Running time: 1 hour and 45 minutes.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, February 12 and 13—ALADDIN AND HIS LAMP, starring John Sands and Pat Madina. Here is another of the endless string of stories based on the "Arabian Nights." A new twist, however, is added to this old and famous story of the famous "Lamp."
SHORTS: Nature's Half Acre.
Running time: 1 hour and 40 minutes.

THURSDAY, February 14—WILD BLUE YONDER, starring Wendell Corey, Forrest Tucker and Walter Brennan. Here is a story of the famous B-29, its part in winning the recent war, and some of the intricacies concerning its operation. Also, there is a tie-in with pilot romance, and faithfulness.
SHORTS: Hand to Mouth.
Running time: 1 hour and 47 minutes.

IRD Dinner Dance Honors Stewart, Retiring Employee

Guest of honor at the well attended Industrial Relations Department dinner dance Friday, Feb. 1, at the El Morocco, was William Van V. Stewart, retiring Personnel Officer, who has completed 32 years of NAS civilian service that reads like a history of the Air Station itself. John Ohlson, O&R Production Superintendent, introduced Stewart. Himself a veteran of more than 40 years total Navy service, and 20 years in North Island civil service, Ohlson joined the retiring Stewart and other old timers in the assemblage, in reliving some historic moments of the two world wars, and the days in between and since.

Able Master of Ceremonies, Earl Gardner, was at his usual peak in handling the program between the well received dinner and the hours of dancing which culminated the evening.

PLANNERS, ESTIMATORS MEET FEBRUARY 13

The Planners and Estimators and Progressman's Association of the San Diego area will hold their quarterly Dinner-Business Meeting at the Henry Langhorst Cafe, 2100 Belt St., on Wednesday February 13 at 6:45 p.m.

All members are urged to attend.

Sailors Aid 'Dimes Drive' In Coronado

Volunteer Navy talent from Special Services Division of the Naval Air Station joined forces with the Coronado VFW Post 2422 Saturday, February 2, in a day-long "Block of Dimes" Campaign to swell Coronado's contribution to the 1952 March of Dimes.

The Navy showmen, under the direction of Buddy Viotti and Clayton E. Lacy, presented a marathon sidewalk show lasting from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The day's contribution totalled $286.00 in the service club sponsored "Block of Dimes".

Highlighting the day's entertainment was the versatality of Bob Bibb and his Western Rhythmasters', who played any request for a fifty-cent contribution for the March of Dimes. The Seven-piece orchestra played continually from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., with only a 'break" for lunch.

Buddy Viotti, former night club entertainer and Capitol recording artist, sang some of his original compositions as well as many favorites requested by March of Dimes contributors.

Miss Beth Moon, 1951 National Poster Girl for March of Dimes made a brief personal appearance with her mother. Mrs. Moon commented briefly upon the assistance the polio foundation had given little Beth and urged everyone to contribute as much as they could so other little children would also receive the treatment necessary to regain health."

Chief Makes Personal March of Dimes Plea

During the recent completed March of Dimes Drive, the officers and men of VC-35 here at NAS collected nearly $500.00 in contributions toward the drive.

One of the men largely responsible for this tremendous turnout was Charles Chaney, ADC. What inspired Chief Chaney to go all out so much for the March of Dimes? He had a good reason. Not a new one, but one that has been repeated over and over again in various parts of the country.

Chief Chaney is a father of six children. In July, 1950, his son Charles Jr., age 4, was suddenly stricken with polio. After spending nearly $700 on aid to his son, he found it financially impossible to give his son the treatment he needed, so he contacted the Chaplain to seek help.

He was referred to the March of Dimes and got free treatment by the Crippled Children's Society. The nurses and doctors even showed Chief Chaney and his wife how to exercise the child's muscles in water.

Now Charles Jr. is completely cured of the dreaded disease and is able to run and play like other children with no braces to hinder his movements.

So when the March of Dimes approached, Chaney felt he should do something to help out. He personally contacted every man in the Administration Department and was able to collect over $200.00 Incidentally, there are only 32 men in that particular department.

Legion Post Meets Feb. 14

An important meeting of North Island Post, American Legion, will be held at the Veterans' War Memorial Building, Balboa Park next Thursday, February 14, at 8:00 p.m.

There will be detailed reports concerning veterans' civil service legislation, by District Civil Service Chairman Charlie Stringer, and County Council Commander Roscoe Morse.

All veterans are welcome to attend.

LT Knoche, Lucy Dawson Wed in Station Chapel

Returning from their honeymoon in Mexico City and Acapulco are LT John Harold Knoche, USN, and his bride, the former Miss Lucy Ann Dawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett R. Dawson of Coronado.

The wedding was held in the NAS Chapel January 26 at 1600. Chaplain S. B. Bennett officiated at the service and Alfred G. Laing was soloist.

Mrs. Robert W. Danielson was matron of honor and Miss Louise Wigchert and Miss Alicia Weeks were bridesmaids. The best man was LTJG Niel de la Vergne, USN, and the ushers included LT Edward O. Henry, USN; LT Homer B. Davis, USN; Dr. R. W. Danielson and LT T. E. Dawson, USMC, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Knoche attended State College and LT Knoche studied at Kansas State College and his home is in Paola, Kansas. He is now Test Pilot and Officer in Charge of Test Flight at NAS. The couple plan to live in Coronado.

Mercy Ship Returns From Record Cruise

After 16 continuous months in Korean waters, the hospital ship, USS REPOSE, is enroute to San Diego.

During this "New Record" cruise, the REPOSE, nicknamed "Angel of the Orient", cared for 11,025 hospitalized patients and some 24,000 additionals who were not admitted to the ship's hospital.

Her longest and most perilous rescue operation came two months after the REPOSE arrived in Korean waters. To reach 750 wounded UN troops during the hectic fighting around Channampo in November, 1950, she inched her way 30 miles through a dangerously shallow channel and took her cargo of casualties aboard before they could be trapped by a gigantic Communist offensive.

Captain C. H. Perdue, of San Diego, then commanding the REPOSE, had high praise for his helmsmen:

"The most perilous part of the big operation was the task of steering the ship through the narrow, winding channel without running aground. We were unable to use the main thoroughfare because it was heavily mined. The one we used was only 26 feet deep at high tide. The REPOSE draws 25 feet, 6 inches. At times out depth indicator reading showed about the same as the draw. We didn't have much water under our keel."

When she arrives at San Diego, she will unload patients before proceeding to Long Beach for shipyard overhaul.

Get Acquainted

Public Works Quarterman, M. L. Beck, came to North Island January 12, 1937. Being a Journeyman Machinist, he accepted the first available opening on the Island as Welder. Climbing up the ladder he advanced to Leadingman in the Public Works department and was temporarily transferred to the Salton Sea in 1943 and continued to work there until 1946.

His qualities as a leader of men asserted itself upon being assigned to supervise the construction of long term plane preservation units known as the "tin can" project. He designed a hydraulic ram bending machine, to turn out rollers upon which buildings rest, thus saving the government $31,000 and completed the whole construction job three months ahead of schedule. Upon the retirement of Frank Johaningneir he was promoted to Quarterman PW April 12, 1951. He now supervises PW Blacksmiths, Iron Workers, Welders, Riggers and Machinists.

Mr. Beck received his education from Grade School through High School in National City. After graduating he followed his fathers footsteps and began prospecting. Branching out alone he prospected in Mexico but due to difficulties in exploiting his dscoveries was unable to capitalize on his findings there. He widened his education when he took employment doing research work in a Medical Laboratory in Portland, Oregon.

ITEMS OF INFORMATION FOR CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

COLUMN RIGHT—is your column. Its purpose is to answer questions of employees and employee groups. Questions must pertain to items of a general interest which affect your employment. This column will attempt to furnish brief and factual information on pertinent and timely questions. Forward all questions to "COLUMN RIGHT," c/o Industrial Relations Department, Building 415, or deposit them in the Beneficial Suggestion Box in your area.

ANNUAL REPORT OF STATUS OF THE BLOOD PROGRAMS

The Commanding Officer has commended the civilians of the Naval Air Station on numerous occasions for their splendid support of the two blood programs during 1951 when they contributed 1,210 pints of blood. The Armed Forces, through the Red Cross, received 797 pints of blood, and the NAS Civilian Blood Fund received 413 pints.

BLOOD FOR ARMED FORCES

Civilians donated blood for Armed Forces during seven visits of the Bloodmobile during 1951. The Bloodmobile comes aboard the Station at least once every two months to receive donations for the Armed Forces. The Medical Department sets aside space at the Main Dispensary as a donation center. NAS civilians donated 483 pints of blood as a "Christmas for Korea."

NAS CIVILIAN BLOOD FUND

Our account with the San Diego Blood Bank is in excellent condition. On 1 January we had 245 credits in our fund, even after releasing 200 credits in December to the Armed Forces as a part of the civilian "Christmas for Korea." In the agreement made early in 1951 between the Blood Bank and NAS, the Blood Bank agreed to honor credits built up in the old San Diego Community Blood Bank. This old credit was exhausted in January 1952.

The station agreed to deposit 32 pints of blood each month through voluntary donations by civilian employees. For each pint of blood released for use of NAS civilians and members of their families, two credits are used. The first credit is the "replacement" credit; the second is to cover the service charge of $7.50. The tabulation given below shows how our fund was used during 1951:

During 1951, 148 people—civilian employees and members of their families—received 646 blood credits.

PROCEDURE FOR OBTAINING BLOOD FROM THE FUND

All civilian employees and members of their families may receive blood from the NAS Civilian Blood Account. Notify your doctor or the hospital that the NAS Civilian Blood Fund will cover all blood required. You, the employee, may call the Employee Services Assistant, who acts as Blood Fund Chairman, on Ext. 446 for the release of blood. Or you may ask your doctor, the hospital, a fellow employee, or your supervisor to phone for you. The Blood Fund Chairman will authorize release of blood for the patient through the Blood Bank. It would be a good idea to tell your doctor about the blood fund during your next visit. Then in the event of an emergency or accident, the blood will be available immediately without question.

Pilot Authors Jet Crash Story for Mag

"The jet ate up distance smoothly and effortlessly, performing like a pilot's dream. Over El Centro I banked her toward San Diego and ran her through some wing-overs. I dived her to nearly the speed of sound with no strain, then pulled her up into a steep climbing turn. She responded as if she loved it, shooting up like a rocket—8,000 feet a minute. The Panther jet was in her glory."

This is LT. E.V. (Skip) Crangle's description of the pleasant and agreeable moments of a routine jet flight in clear southern California skies. What followed, however, was no "pilot's dream," but a violent brush with death which he has called "My Twenty Seconds in a Flying Nightmare." His exciting, suspense-filled narrative by that title appears in the February 9 issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

August 22, 1951 began for LT Crangle with the monotony of handling official squadron correspondence. It ended after his F9F, in a routine flight, "threw a bucket"—tossed a piece of metal off one of the engine turbine blades. Terrific vibrations rocked the plane; finally the engine lost all power. His six-ton craft hurtled to a 140-mph crash landing. The 26-year-old VC-61 pilot walked away from the burning wreck.

While hospitalized, LT Crangle made notes of all the things he remembered—all the thoughts going through his mind—during that 20 second nightmare.

He dispatched a letter to the Saturday Evening Post asking if they would consider a 600-word sketch of his experience.

"We're interested," replied the magazine. Only they would prefer 4000 words. He admits the publishers offered him an overwhelming task since he had never before written anything with any thought of publication. He accepted the challenge and submitted the result December 1. His gripping story of the near-fatal 20 seconds is the magazine's feature article.

LT. E. V. CRANGLE

LT Crangle lives with his wife and daughter in La Mesa. He has recovered from back injuries sustained in the crash and is with his squadron at NAAS Miramar.

LEGALISTS AVERAGE $2.43 IN DIMES DRIVE

NAS Legal Office averaged $2.43 per personnel in the recent March of Dimes. In addition to the Legal Office, CDR E. C. Collins, there are nine officers, enlisted men and civilians assigned to the Dvision.

Lou May Still Get Her 'Chute Jump

When asked if she has ever made a parachute jump, Lou Desbach, PR2, has to answer "negative." This brings many a horse laugh and the continual, "you WAVES have it easy" from other Naval parachute riggers.

Enlisting in the Navy in November of 1942 she was sent to Cedar Falls, Iowa, for recruit training. After completing her training she entered the first WAVE Riggers school in Lakehurst, New Jersey. At that time WAVES were not allowed to make a jump after graduating from school. Since then, in 1943, Lou has had a craving to jump but did not have the chance until recently. In this day and age WAVES are allowed to jump so with the never ending sly snickers, the casual remarks and her own desire to jump, Lou decided to enter "C" School.

So far in school all she has seen are books, papers, pencils and class rooms. The closest she has come to a parachute jump is the rigid physical given in preparation for the jump.

LOU DESBACH

Lou had become very active on the station before leaving for "C" school. As dance chairwomen she encouraged the WAVES to attend dances given by ships. She served on the welcoming committee for ships returning from overseas. She was captain of the WAVES varsity bowling team before leaving San Diego and also bowled on previous mixed team leagues at NAS.

In her spare time Lou likes to hike, bowl, and dance. She belongs to the Englewood Outdoor Club in Chicago and the Sunset Hikers in San Diego.

Introductions Are in Order

"BENNY SUGGS" has two brand new things to show off this week and takes this opportunity to introduce both subjects at once. As a part of the regular indoctrination that Benny's new clerk, Delores Britton received, he is shown displaying the beautiful cast bronze plaque to her which will be awarded to Divisions having the highest suggestion participaton rate per 100 employees in 1952. The plaque is awarded on a quarterly basis and is then permanently retained at the end of the year by the Division having the highest yearly percentage.

Delores Britton started work in the Incentives and Awards Office this week and replaces Laurel Bowie who transferred to the Communications Department. Delores is not exactly a newcomer to IRD as she previously worked with the Employment Division prior to the time she left for Minnesota a few months ago, contemplating the enlistment of her husband in the Air Force.

For the benefit of new employees recently hired at the Naval Air Station it would also be well to reintroduce "Benny Suggs." This little fellow is the trademark of the Benefcial Suggestions Committee that appraises ideas on improvements made by civilian employees.

If you haven't paid any attention to this little fellow then by all means you shoulld make it a point to get acquainted with Benny. He's the guy who can help you take home an extra paycheck, but YOU have to start the ball rolling by submitting your constructve ideas for increasing production, improving quality or method of operation, preventing waste. reducing costs, improving safety or improving working conditions.

The Benny Suggs Committee on Awards will be glad to present you with awards ranging from $10.00 to $275.00 depending on the savings or other benefits to the Air Station attributed to your suggestion.

If you have such an idea—and everyone has ideas! Here's what you do: Write your suggestion out in detail, giving rough sketch or other means of making the idea clear. Send it through the regular mail to Beneficial Suggestions, Building 415 or drop it in one of the many suggestion boxes located throughout the station.

GOOD IDEAS PAY OFF! TURN THEM IN!

GED Tests Are Another Educational Opportunity

As well as offering the USAFI courses, the NAS Information & Education Div. includes the GED tests as means for personnel to further their education while in the service. Together, USAFI and the General Educational Development tests are important educational tools by which the Navyman can accomplish a great deal for his own personal benefit. Many typical questions regarding the GED tests are answered in the following article.

Q. What are the GED tests?

A. The GED tests are tests of General Educational Development, and determine whether or not a person has achieved the equivalent of that level of education.

Q. Are these tests on the high school or college level?

A. One test is given for high school level, and one test is given on first year college level.

Q. May I obtain my high school diploma by taking these tests?

A. In a great majority of cases, yes. However, the final authority rests with the individual high school or State Department of Education.

Q. What subjects are covered on these tests?

A. There are five parts of the high school GED test. Part 1 is English, Part 2 is Interpretation of reading materials in the Social Studies, Part 3 is Interpretation of Reading Materials in the Natural Sciences, Part 4 is Interpretation of Literary Materials, and Part 5 is General Mathematical Ability. On the college test, the parts are the same, except that no Mathematics is included except at the person's request.

Q. I have been out of high school for several years. Will I have to remember everything I learned in high school to pass these tests?

A. No. While you will have to know English and Mathematics, the other three parts of the test are based on the person's ability to interpret materials, rather than on his knowledge of small details. He will be required to recall many generalizations, but if he remembers these, he should not have too much trouble with these tests.

Q. How long does it take to complete these tests?

A. Approximately two hours should be allowed for each part of the test. While some persons may be able to complete it sooner, the knowledge that he doesn't have to rush will enable him to concentrate better.

Q. When I start taking these tests, must I complete them in one day?

A...No. Only the part of the test started must be completed at that time. The group of five parts should be completed in three weeks if possible.

Q. Can I get college credit for completion of the college level tests?

A. Again, this will depend on the individual college or university, however a great many will grant advanced credit for satisfactorily passing these tests.

Q. If I pass these tests, will the Navy accept them as the equivalent of that level of education?

A. Yes. A man who passes the GED tests, High School level, is considered to be a high school graduate, and a man who passes the College Level GED tests is considered to have completed one year of college.

Q. If I take these tests and fail them, may I take them over again?

A. Yes. Two re-tests are authorized. If you fail them you may take the retest only after six months have elapsed from the time you originally took the test. If you fail this retest, you are eligible to take another retest only after one year has elapsed from the time of the first retest.

Q. If I fail one part of the test, must I take the entire test over?

A. No, only the part failed.

DORA COX KNOWS THEY'RE 'CHEAPER BY THE DOZEN'

Mrs. Cox attracted the attention of several fellow employees in O&R's cable shop last Tuesday afternoon when she suddenly displayed a brighter-than-usual "glow". Unknown to many of her associates, however, that particular gleam and special smile were nothing new to Mrs. Cox. In fact, this illuminated look had made its appearance quite often during the past thirty-five years.

The reason? At 1330 last Tuesday, Mrs. Cox was informed that she had just become a grandmother for the FOURTEENTH TIME! Her daughter Evelyn had given birth to a 8 pound, 8 ounce son. By the day, Dora Cox has NINE daughters and THREE sons of her own.

Muster in the Cox household in San Ysidro when the entire clan gathers would be something like this: David, 11; Janet, 13; Suzanne, 15; Megan, 17, with husband and son; Gwyneth, 20, with husband and son; Roger, 22; Jessica, 24, husband and two daughters; Evelyn, 27, husband, two daughters, and one son; Yvonne, 29, husband, two daughters, and two sons; Margaret, 30, husband and two sons, and Pauline, 33. One son, Charles, who is now deceased, was married and had one daughter. All thirty-three members of the Jesse L. Cox family live in the San Diego area with the exception of Yvonne, who resides in Santa Barbara.

Two of the Cox children, Suzanne and Megan, were born on the same date, September 24, exactly two years apart and two of the grandchildren were also born on the same date, December 29, two years apart. Megan and Gwyneth are married to brothers, Bob and James Nash.

Mrs. Cox was born in Liverpool, England, but was raised in the northern section of Wales. She met Mr. Cox when he was stationed with the army in Wales during World War I, married in Liverpool, and came to the United States shortly after the birth of her first child. Mr. Cox was wounded during the war and has been disabled since that time.

During the last war, Mrs. Cox was employed at the Willow Run Plant in Michigan and at a local aircraft company in San Diego. She became employed at the cable shop in June, 1951.

ABOUT BOOKS

'Old Salts' Had Rough Life But Make Good Reading

No profession has accumulated a greater wealth of myths, legends, and superstitions than that of the mariner. Even today in the Navy and the merchant marine many of the customs and terms current found their origin among the wooden ship sailors.

Frank Shay's A Sailor's Treasury records the lore of the sea in an entertaining fashion. "Being the myths and superstitions, lore, legends and yarns, the cries, epithets, and salty speech of the American Sailorman in the days of oak and canvas," the book gives the reader a brief insight into the deck hand's life two centuries ago.

Though the sailor and sea life have changed, the modern mariner will find he has inherited some of the old. He still has the man called "jimmylegs" around. Some day he may "swallow the anchor." But before you "swallow the anchor", read A Sailor's Treasury.

ALL IN THE FAMILY, by Rhoda W. Bacmeister.

This book is strictly for the family man or family-man-to-be. The author, a leading authority on the development and guidance of children, tells ways to achieve a happy family life, free from tensions and discord. She offers sane solutions to everyday problems and suggests common sense ways to avoid those problems in the first place. Informal, readable, copiously illustrated by case histories.

GURACHA TRAIL by Dr. George Parker.

Bandits, a "lost" silver mine, and an American doctor in the wild country of northern Mexico.

AND THE RAINS CAME

The Weather Agrees With J. Alastuey

Before the drought began, scenic Center Valley, located in the San Quintin region of Baja California, was known throughout the territory for its productivity and general agricultural attributes. Its hill and mountain sides were rich in fertile soil and the seasonal rain-fall fell in sufficient but not excessive quantities.

That was nine years ago. Since that time, this region, along with most of the new Mexican state and the West Coast of the United States, suffered tremendously from a crippling drought which ruined large areas of agricultural land.

Three years after the drought began, one Eduardo Ganboa, a resident of Baja California, purchased what was at one time a prosperous farm of several hundred acres. He felt that the drought would soon end and his farm would once again be as productive as it had been. However, season after season passed without rain-fall and the farm remained dormant.

Alastuey Joins Ganboa

Shortly after he purchased the land, Ganboa invited his good friend and associate Joaquin Alastuey, an employee in Naval Air's Transportation machine shop, to help him in his farming endeavor when the drought ended. Alastuey accepted, but persuaded his partner to forget the idea of planting any crops until weather improved since the water supply was dangerously low.

Six months ago, the drought was in its ninth year and the farm land had produced few or no crops since its purchase. Then Alastuey had the premonition that the dry weather would soon end and he and Ganboa decided to plant 300 acres of barley. It was just a chance and the premonition might fail.

However, in November, December and January, the long-awaited rains came and the farm turned green almost overnight. The barley crop flourished and prosperity returned to the entire region. Many farms were unprepared, but the Ganboa-Alastuey endeavor was ready and waiting.

Sixth Sense

Alastuey, a native of Ea, Bilbao, in the Basque province in northern Spain's Pyrenees, explains that predicting good and bad years for agriculture is an old practice with his and other Basque families in the old country. There is no definite sign or omen, but merely a sixth sense which almost always proves correct. Alastuey's sixth sense warned him to prepare for the good year late last summer and his premonition is now paying off for him and his friend.

He now travels the 200 miles to the farm every week-end to assist in the chores and to keep close tab on the progress of the barley. He and Ganboa hope to plant other crops in the near future.

When asked if he was a prospective full-time farmer, Alastuey quickly replied that he was a farmer only by nature and enjoyed it strictly for the pleasure he derived from it as a hobby and a pastime.

Islanders to Try 'Dollar Throw' as Dance Approaches

Did George Washington actually throw a dollar across the Rappahannock River? Could YOU toss a silver buck that far? Would you be interested in two free box seat tickets to a San Diego Padre baseball game?

All but the first of these questions may be answered during the noon hour one day next week. At each of five open areas near the working spaces of large numbers of employees, a course will be set up, representing the Rappahannock River. Silver dollars will be provided by the Civilian Welfare & Recreation Committee, to be obtained by participants in exchange for dollar bills.

The dollar throw, open to all North Island personnel, both military and civilian, is to be held in the interests of the February 21 Washington's Birthday Ball. Every dollar thrown, whether or not it gets across the "river," will bring to the participant one ticket to the dance. Every dollar that lands on the other side of the "river," will bring to the thrower, a chance to win a special award of two box seat tickets good for any of the San Diego Padre home baseball games this season.

Realizing that it's a long way across the Rappahannock, and that Washington was a big man, and that dollars don't go as far as they did in Washington's Day, the CW&R Committee is planning to shrink down the distance of the throw inversely in proportion to the inflation of the 1952 dollar, giving more people a chance to qualify. Yes, there will be a narrower river set up especially for the ladies.

Areas for the Rappahannock Dollar Throw will be: Monday, near Bldg. 378. Tuesday, near Bldg. 379. Wednesday, near Bldg. 68. Thursday, between hangers 1 and 2. Friday, near Bldg. 654.

Let's pitch a dollar for a dance ticket. You can't lose, and you may come out two ball game tickets to the good. It's all for the Polio Foundation fund.

ON ROADS OF NAVAL FAME

McCain Blvd. Named For Former NAS C.O.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of six articles prepared in answer to several requests by station personnel for information regarding the lives and histories of Naval men who, because of their meritorious deeds and heroic careers, have had many of the main thoroughfares on the Naval Air Station named for them. This series is arranged to feature a different street each week in their order from the main gate around the Island, beginning with ADM John Sidney McCain Boulevard.)

It would be a difficult task for anyone to determine the most attractive and picturesque scene of all the "camera-bait" scenes at Naval Air Station, but certainly one that would rank in the "tops" bracket would be the panoramic view which greets the eyes of incoming motorists and pedestrians as they enter the main gate from Coronado.

The "center of interest" of this area is beautiful ADM John Sidney McCain Boulevard, which might well be termed "the Champ Elysees of the Naval Air Station." This thoroughfare, which leads from the gate into Quentin Roosevelt Boulevard, was named in tribute to the late well-known aviator ADM John S. McCain who, at one time, was Commanding Officer of this station.

ADM McCain, a native of Mississippi, began his Naval career September 25, 1902, when he entered the United States Naval Academy. Shortly after his graduation, he was assigned to the famous old USS OHIO.

During the quarter century which followed, he served aboard many of the U.S. battleships, including the COLORADO, and the NEW MEXICO, as well as serving aboard several other types of vessels.

However, ADM McCain left line duty to enter the aviation branch of the Navy in 1936 when, as captain, he became a designated Naval Aviator at Pensacola.

ADM McCain took command of the Naval Air Station in July, 1939, and remained in that status until January 23, 1941. It was in February of the same year that he was commissioned Rear Admiral and was ordered to Patrol Wings in the Pacific Fleet for duty involving flying

It was in October of 1942 that he was ordered to the Bureau of Aeronautics where he remained as Chief of the Bureau until August of the next year. At that time, he became Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Air) and was commissioned Vice Admiral ad interim.

Two years later, ADM McCain was ordered to the Office of the Secretary of Navy but died of a heart ailment while enroute to his new duty station.

He was the recipient of the Mexican Service Medal, the Victory Medal, the American Defense Medal, the Distinguished Service Medal, a Gold Star, the Navy Cross, and many foreign decorations.

The President of the United States appointed Vice Admiral McCain posthumously as Admiral, USN. from the sixth day of September, 1945. The appointment was made September 3, 1949.

Eye Surgery May Restore Ruth L. Williams' Eyesight

By L. Robert Jackson

Ruth Williams isn't here to tell her story, but it's one that bears repeating for it's a story which embodies remarkable courage and preserverence. Listen to Ruth's story:

It began on a morning seventeen years ago back in Encampment, Wyoming, her home town. When twelve-year-old Ruth Williams stepped from the door of the doctor's office, she could hardly believe what she had been told. She had been having difficulty with her eye sight during the past several years and finally, had consulted a specialist. His diagnosis—cornea tumor, "prepare for probable total and indefinite blindness".

But then as now, Ruth wasn't the type person to give up easily. She waged a relentless battle to retain her eyesight, but her vision continued to grow worse.

Told of "Eye Pool"

Then three months ago, Ruth Williams consulted with Dr. Walter Roberts, a Los Angeles physician, and the prospects for checking the total blindness which seemed inevitable, were brighter than they had ever been. The doctor informed her of the local medical "eye pool" operated for patients suffering from similar ailments. A cornea obtained from the pool could be used to replace an afflicted cornea. However, there was a great demand for these eyes and a waiting list which contained several hundred names. Ruth was told that it might be as long as a year before an eye would be available to replace her left one which was the worse of the two. Even then, the cornea transplant operation could not be guaranteed. It had failed in many cases, but was more often a success than a failure.

Called for Operation

Immediately, Ruth's name was added to the list of those seeking eyes. She was told that she must be prepared to enter the hospital for the delicate and very expensive operation within a matter of 24 hours after notification of an available eye since all transplanted cornea could not remain out of the body for a longer period.

Then, the waiting began.

Last Tuesday afternoon, Ruth was at her desk in Fiscal's Cost and Report Section, Supply & Fiscal Department, where she is Supervisor of the Cost Unit. At 1500, her phone rang and Ruth heard the welcomed news that a cornea was available. At 1630 the same day, she left by plane for Los Angeles and that evening, Ruth Williams walked into the main doors of Saint Vincent's Hospital and into an experience which might well mean the restoration of her sight. At 2200, she entered the operating room.

Making Progress

Last reports from the hospital state that Ruth is making remarkable progress, but no definite conclusions can be reached as yet. Bandages still cover her eyes and it will likely be several weeks before any complete information can be obtained.

Ruth Williams has been at NAS for the past six years and has become extremely popular with personnel over the entire station. During the last several years, she has become an outstanding bowler with NACRA's "Friendly Five" Bowling Team. Mildred Neal, a teammate, states that "Ruth is one of the best bowlers I've ever seen. She has her own distinctive style which features a 'hook' ball that never fails despite her impaired eyesight."

Friends Plan Gift

A number of her close associates and friends in the Fiscal section have presented a total amount in excess of $100.00 as a gift of appreciation and thoughtfulness. The funds, entirely unsolicited, are being kept by Claude Graham, Supervisor of Payroll Section, who will in turn present it to Ruth.

The last chapter of Ruth's story has yet to be written, but regardless of the outcome, Ruth is a person who will not give up. Her story will have a happy ending despite undermining and interfering circumstances and the men and women at Naval Air Station join in wishing Ruth the best of luck and success.

IN INFORMAL ceremonies held Monday, CAPT W. L. Erdmann awarded plaques to Mrs. Helen Quady (left) and Mrs. Teresa Alexander, O&R employees. The two women were commended for their assistance in the NAS Christmas Party for dependents of deceased Naval aviation personnel.

THE NORTH ISLANDER staff voted Ann Francis, pretty 20th Century-Fox starlet, as the girl they would most like to go bear hunting with.

4 AirPac Officers Attend Line School

Leaving to attend the Navy General Line School, Monterey, Calif., are four Coronado Navy officers on the staff of VADM T. L. Sprague, USN, Commander Air Force, Pacific Fleet

They are LCDR Jack R. Penfold, USN, 345 Orange Avenue, Requirements and Allowances Officer; LCDR Paul L. Holmes, USN, 536 "H" Avenue; Personnel Officer; LCDR John L. Butts, USN, 721 "J" Avenue, Assistant Carrier Air Groups Training Officer; and LCDR Clark H. Gates, USN, 320 "B" Avenue, Aviation Administrative Officer.

Blood Donations Taken Feb. 20

Next civilian blood donor day is scheduled for February 20, for the NAS civilian blood account. Location will be the San Diego Blood Bank, 4229 Park Boulevard.

Those interested in donating should contact their supervisors.

Curtain Rises on 'Drunkard' Sat.

The famous old melodrama, "The Drunkard," produced by Pacific Beach Legion Post 552, is reopening for a thirteen week run tomorrow. Running for a week last December, the play met with considerable success, says a Post member, "so we are staging weekly Saturday night performances."

In "The Drunkard" tradition, refreshments will be served during the play. Patrons are invited to hiss and boo the villain, and peanuts will be sold to hurl at him.

The cast, styled as the Pickwick Players, will include Mel Thornton, of O&R Planning Div., as "Honest" William who saves his "crazy sister" Agnes (Ethel Morris). Freddie Fobert, of Metal Machine, plays the parts of the bartender and the policeman. George Williams stars as the villain.

The curtain rises for the Saturday night performances at 8:15 p.m. at the Legion Hall, 1015 Grand Ave., Pacific Beach.

'Mr. San Diego' Seeks New Title

By Danny Daniels

Have you met "Mr. San Diego" of 1951? If not you will find him over at the gasoline pumping station. Keith Stephen, age 24, Plumbers helper, ex-coxswain and deep-sea salvage diver, won the distinction and title of "Mr. San Diego" against keen competition in the physique and strength world, to which he is a refreshing newcomer. The fact that he also placed fifth in the Mr. America contest in June proves he is one of the top notchers in U. S. today. At Mt. Carmel High school, he was the heavyweight boxing champion, and participated in wrestling, football, and track. Keith is working out diligently at Stern's gym, to be at peak of condition by February 23, when he competes for "Mr. Southern California", another title he feels confident of winning. He is also entering "Mr. America" contest this year. His measurements cold, are as follows, height 6'2", weight 230, neck 17½, shoulders 55½, wrist 8", thighs 26", and biceps 18¼". His fine definition, muscular mass, and unusual symmetry are the result of vigorous training with various lifts. Prone Press 370 lbs., clean and jerk 310 lbs, and over head press 255 and many others. To this promising young athlete we extend our best wishes for his future.

KEITH STEPHEN

The mysterious package received by Bill Bode, pipe fitter, labeled "Two high pressure fittings," turned out to be an upper and lower set of dental plates and not pipe fittings. It was later discovered the sender was Pat Clark, pipe fitter, new owner of the plates. Perhaps Pat felt he had been high pressured into having them fitted after seeing the price.

H. R. Stevens, Pump Operator, is resigning to enter the real estate business. Stevens gained wide knowledge in this field during the 20 years he resided in Chicago. We are sorry to see you go, but wish you the best of luck.

Charles B. Maupin, Carpenter, 65, retired, passed away last Friday in a local hospital,death believes caused by a heart condition. He resided at 1506 E. Broadway. Mr. Maupin lived in this area 35 years, was a veteran of World War I, a member of Sable Post V.F.W. and charter member of BPOE 1812 of El Cajon, California.

Sicily Smashes Miramar 56-38

Only one lap remains in the triple-crown of intermural basketball for the USS SICILY. The carrier crew smashed FAD Miramar Saturday night in the Mainside gym, 56-38, for the ComFair San Diego title. Earlier they romped through the FAD North Island race with 18 straight victories. The only thing left for SICILY is the North Island championship. That will be decded Friday at 1200 in the Mainside gym when they meet the Special Service team, winners of the NAS league.

The final game with Miramar was all but salted away in the opening minutes. Popping the nets from all angles, the SICILY poured through 15 points in the first five minutes to take a lead they never relinquished. They got hot again toward the end of the half and scored 10 points in two minutes. Their halftime advantage was 33-13.

High point man for the SICILY was center Bob Stairs with 14 digits. Joe Ingram's 12 points paced the losers.

AirPac Leads AAU Tourney

It will be strictly an AirPac party in the finals of the Southwestern Pacific Border Association AAU basketball tournament at Balboa Park Saturday night.

Out of the 10 teams which originally started in the Minor division, only VC-11, FASRon-691, VF-884 and VR-32 are left in the running. Friday night, VC-11 meets FASRon-691 and VR-32 tangles with VF-884 in the semi-finals. The winners will play for the championship Saturday night.

The Comets of VC-11 and VF-884 each defeated two teams in the preliminary round, while FASRon-691 and VR-32 won single games after drawing first round byes.

The Comets smashed the Fleet Sonar School 66-46 and Convair 72-50 while VF-884 took the Marine Supply Company 47-37 and the Vista Merchants 65-26.

LT Greeley's red-hot FASRon-691 team, improving with every game they play, encountered a little more trouble than expected before squeezing past the USS CURTISS 59-54. Meanwhile, VR-32 needed a 25-point spree by Norm Mahl to edge the First National Bank 62-54 in an overtime period. The game was tied 53-53 at the end of regulation play.

SPORTS

Golden Glovers Leave For L. A. Tournament

Five champions and five finalists from the San Diego Golden Gloves tournament left Tuesday to compete in the regional Golden Gloves bouts this week in Los Angeles.

Ed Jackwin and Don Malvezzi, welter and featherweight, respectively, are the only two mitt-slingers representing the Skyraiders in the tournament.

The hosting L.A. team is stacked with a lot of talent, and could very possibly give the Sailors and Marines from San Diego a rough go. It is even further possible that the local teams will chop each other down, unless started in opposite brackets. Several upsets and split decisions headed the San Diego finals, which indicates that several could go either way in rematches.

DAVIS INJURED

Only one of the champs will be absent in the big line-up. Nolen Davis, ComPhibPac's rugged light-heavy is presently suffering with a broken nose and torn shoulder cartilage. He will be replaced by Wolfgang Fleck of MCRD, 1951 champion of Germany and runner-up in Europe's continental championships who reported too late for the San Diego bouts.

WILLIAMS TO FIGHT

Sam (The Assassin) Williams, CruDesPac's tough middleweight who sustained an eye injury during his bout with Buel Griffin will be allowed to fight in the L.A. tourney contrary to earlier predictions.

JANKE STILL FIGHTING

Another familiar name heading the list of top-notch talent at Los Angeles is Pete Janke. Many Islanders will remember Janke from last season when he won the Eleventh Naval District championship while fighting for NAS. He is now a civilian.

Winners from this meet will be eligible to carry their championships to Chicago to compete in the International Gloves championships the latter part of this month.

Special Services Cops Cage Title, Play Sicily Today

The Special Services division won the Capt's Cup basketball Championship by defeating Plant and Planning division two straight, in a two out of three playoff at the Mainside gymnasium Wednesday and Thursday of last week. Special Services won the first game by a score of 36-33 with Jim Brock and Rex Yerby of Special Services sinking the majority of their team buckets. Yerby was high with 14 points, Brock was second with 9. The game was a close one all the way with the lead changing hands several times in the course of the game, with the score tied up at half time 17-17 Special Services having to overcome a thirteen point lead built up by Plant in the first few minutes of the game.

The following day found nearly a repeat performance with Special Services again on top, this time by a 36-29 score, with Brock, Al Crocker, Rex Yerby and Leon Cox building up a 20-13 halftime lead.

The second half found Special Services pulling away steadily on the baskets. Final score: 36 for Special Services and 29 for Plant. Cox was high for Special Services with 15 points, while Morgan was high for Plant with 11.

Special services will meet the USS SICILY Friday, Feb. 8, to decide the Island Championship and to see who keeps the perpetual trophy in 1952.

Buckeyes Defeat Ready Issue One

The Buckeyes of FASRon-691 walked away with another victory last Tuesday night over Ready Issue ONE defeating them 75-44 to keep them on top of the Eleventh Naval District Southeastern League. The Buckeyes are maintaining a 7 win no loss record in this league so far this season.

Don Valdic led the Buckeyes scoring by bucketing 23 points during his three quarters of play.

The 'Bucks" have suffered only two defeats this season in the AirPac League. The USS SICILY handed them a close 32-30 defeat, while VA-55 left them trailing 47-38.

11ND Grapplers Vie for Olympics

The Eleventh Naval District's Annual Wrestling Championships were held this week at the Naval Training Center. Although the meet was held on Wednesday and Thursday February 5 and 6, the final results were not obtained in time for publishing in this issue of the NORTH ISLANDER.

Topping the entry list was NTC's great squad, winners of 23 straight dual matches and 7 consecutive tournaments. Their victims include major West Coast Collegiate teams, and the touring champions from Japan.

Among the "best bets" to go into the District Olympic Preliminaries are: Dick Delgado and Frank Diblase both of NTC, and C. Vonk and F. Baumgartner of Air Pac.

The Olympic Tryouts will be held March 13 and 15. The tentative site for the meet is the San Diego High School Gym. The meet is to be an open affair, and is expected to lure all the areas' top mat men, including civilians, collegians, athletic club members, and representatives of the armed forces.

Airmen Drub Nereus Lose To CruDesPac

The Naval Air Skyraiders started off with a bang in the annual AAU tournament at Balboa Stadium by defeating the USS Nereus 68-49 in the first round of play Saturday night. Tonight the Skyraiders will meet a first rate Grihalva Motors team in the semi-finals, the winner to play in the finals Saturday night.

Tom Futch, Max Kephart, Jim Grewe, and Art Borchers started the ball rolling by jumping to a 15-10 first quarter lead. Jim Bird and Art Borchers sunk them fast in the second quarter to rack up a halftime lead of 43-24.

SKYRAIDERS PLAY IN BENEFIT GAME

The Skyraiders proved their hearts were in the right place by playing a benefit game with Fon Jons of San Diego, for the benefit of the March of Dimes. The Skyraiders won by a score of 49 to 37. Tom Futch and Jim Grewe were high scorers for the Skyraiders, Futch had 14 to his credit and Grewe had 10. The game was played in the Coronado High School gym last Friday night.

SKYRAIDERS LOSE TO CRUDESPAC

The Skyraiders dropped a close decision to CruDesPac in the Navy Field gymnasium Monday evening, by a score of 63-62.

Leading throughout the game, the Skyraiders had an eight-point lead with 5 minutes to play, but were unable to curb the last quarter desperation drive of the CruDesPac five. Bill Turner made the game winning bucket with 20 seconds to play.

Jim Bird was high for the Skyraiders with 16 points, Turner for CruDesPac also with 16.

'Y' Keg Tourney Starts Feb. 20th

The Annual Armed Services YMCA National Telegraphic Bowling Championships will be held Wednesday and Thursday, 20 and 21 Feb. at Navy Field. Teams not able to bowl at the above dates may make special arrangements by contacting the Physical Director at the "Y".

The tournament is open to all members of the Armed Forces, and is both team and individual play. A team consists of five men.

The Armed Services perpetual trophy will be awarded for one year to the team rolling the highest score and individual trophies will be awarded to the five members of the winning team. Individual awards will also be made to the person rolling highest three game score, and to the person rolling highest single game score. Entry date: Noon Tuesday 19 Feb.

By GEORGE BERGMAN

It has been great writing for you folks—lots of fun bringing out your Corner on Sports for the past six years. We pride ourselves in having made friends with many, and irritated just a scant few. Maybe we haven't maintained quite a .400 batting average in our coverage, but we have had a good time taking a swing at what has been fired at us.

We will be spending the spring months out at San Diego State College, in an effort to complete our education. Then, we hope, it will be our good fortune to be back with you, and to perhaps take over this Corner once more.

Until June then, Bob Laible, the sports editor (he oughtta be writing it anyway) will handle the chore of ungarbling the sports scuttlebutt for this column. It will appear, Bob avers, if and when the space permits. So long, and good fishing. . . . Bergman.

BASEBALL WILL START SOON

As a great pitcher in the pre-Revolutionary colonial legislature of Virginia once commented, "Our brethren are already in the field!" Naval Training Center, and the Marines, not to mention various and sundry other exponents of service baseball in the San Diego circuit, are bringing to our ears the clash of resounding ball bats against the horsehide. The baseball season has actually begun.

So, it is with great interest that we view the approaching date for the start of baseball practice for the Naval Air Skyraiders. At this writing, the day had not been set, but by yesterday (Thursday) a decision should have been made. Limber up the throwing arms, men, and adjust your batting eyes.

Positions will be wide open for new men for the most part, with only a scant few of the 1951 players returning. Notable among those we have seen about the station recently are Blackie Blackston, Burt Smith, Paul Green, Tom Futch, and Tommy Townsend. And the last named of these is planning to return to civilian life in June, if all goes well. It looks like a good season for baseball, and workouts should commence soon, so stand by!

HU-1 Changes Command

CDR Dudley S. Billett, Jr., Commanding Officer of HU-1, turned over his command to LCDR Henry M. Kosciusko in ceremonies at 0800 today.

CDR Billett assumed command of HU-1 on December 8, 1950, when he relieved Commander E. B. Noble, who was ordered to duty aboard the USS ANTIETAM. His new duty station will be at Patuxtent River, Maryland.

LCDR Kisciusko reported to HU-1 on September 26, 1951, from the Naval Academy. He has had previous experience with helcopters when he was serving with VX-3, the original Navy Helicopter Squadron, and Helicopter Squad ron Two (HU-2) at Lakehurst, New Jersey. He is number thirteen helicopter pilot in the Navy.

CPO Mess Hours Changed

Chief Haas announced yesterday that the open hours for the CPO Mess (open), have been changed to conform with those of the CPO Mess (open) at North Island, and are as follows:

Weekdays, 1100-1300 and 1600-2300.

Saturdays, 1100-2400.

Sundays and Holidays, 1200-2200.

Haas also states that the Wednesday night bingo games are drawing a good crowd. Bingo games start at 2000 and continue until approximately 2230 with a brief intermission about 2115.

Deep fried shrimp are featured as a food specialty on Wednesday evenings and are rapidly becoming an institution.

Six Helicopter Pilots Given Medals Friday

By Howard Olansky, JOSN

Thirty-two Navy Helicopter Squadron ONE pilots and crewmen were honored in ceremonies at ALF Ream Friday morning.

Mrs. George W. Bolt, received the Distinguished Flying Cross and Air Medal for her husband, LCDR G. W. Bolt, USN, killed in a San Diego helicopter crash last August.

On March 1, 1951, LCDR Bolt volunteered to attempt the rescue of an Air Force pilot shot down behind enemy lines. Flying at low altitude, LCDR Bolt was twice driven off by intense enemy fire. Making a third pass over the pilot, he completed the rescue. This daring feat was posthumously honored by the DFC.

For flying 20 "hazardous reconnaisance, gunfire spotting, photographic, and search flights" from November 16 to December 11, 1950, LCDR Bolt was posthumously awarded the Air Medal

Gold Star for Combat Rescue

LT Harold F. Snowden was awarded a Gold Star in lieu of previous DFC for a combat rescue on September , 1951

While flying to the aid of a downed South African pilot, his fighter escort was forced to turn back because of fuel shortage. LT Snowden continued on beyond the range normally expected of a helicopter." Hovering over the downed airman, he set the plane down and pulled the man safely aboard, despite enemy gun fire.

Air Medals were presented to LT Charles C Jones and James M. Thompson, AD1.

In December, 1950, LT Jones, under constant threat of enemy jets, aided in the rescue of 23 UN soldiers isolated far behind enemy lines. He landed twice to question people, whose affiliations could not accurately be determined from the air, in an effort to locate the troops.

Flying at night over icy seas and enemy territory, Chief Thompson, then piloting a helicopter from the escort carried USS BATAAN, plucked a downed Marine pilot from behind enemy lines.

Commended for Carrier Duty

Lloyd W. Tracy, ADC, was presented the Commendation Ribbon for meritorious service" while serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS BON HOMME RICHARD. Ofter operating in rough seas and adverse weather, he was credited with saving several pilots and enlisted men in the Korean area.

Winged "S" awards were presented to LTJG William J. Cox, and Henry Cardoza, AD1. This award is given by the Sikorsky company to helicopter pilots who have participated in life saving missions.

The medals were presented by HU-1 commanding officer, CDR Dudley S. Billett, Jr.

Hobby Shop Wood Craft Section Open

On Tuesday, February 5, the woodworking section of the hobby shop had the official opening. In charge will be D. D. SLIFFE, AM3, assisted by A. STRATFIELD, ABAN, both of VU-7. The woodworking shop will be located in the Northeast corner of building No. 64.

The shop will be governed by the time schedule that is used for the Associated Hobbies section. Supplies can be ordered through SLIFFE. Size, type of wood, and other details will be left to the person ordering such. Special prices are set for all woods. The hobby shop will try to fill out all requests.

Chief FRAZIER, in charge of the project, says, "The power tools are limited, but more are expected in the near future." SLIFFE said, "We don't have all the power tools we need, but there is an abundance of hand tools, the elbow grease is up to the men."

"ROTOR," HELICOPTER SQUADRON ONE mascot, remains oblivious to the wary look given him by CMDR Dudley S. Billett, Jr., USN, during inspection of squadron personnel at Ream Field Naval Auxiliary Air Station last week.

ComUtWingPac to Award Athletic Medals Today

At the VU-7 Personnel inspection this afternoon, medals and trophies for athletic participation will be awarded by Capt. R. W. D. Woods, Commander Utility Wing Pacific Fleet.

Many men competed in two or more of the athletic contests and a large share of them will receive two or more trophies or medals or both. In the competition for the FAD San Diego, badminton, boxing, wrestling and basketball champions: PALMER, K. R., ADAN, scored in badminton and boxing, with a part of the doubles champs and the junior middleweight title. He went to the semi-finals in badminton and finals in boxing for the ComAirPac Championships.

DANIELS, R. L., AA, took double honors in wrestling and boxing, going to the semi-finals in wrestling and the finals in boxing. THORNTON, J. E., AN, was a finalist in boxing, but was a semi-finalist in wrestling. The semi-finals were between Ream and Miramar and the finals were between composite winners and FAD, San Diego.

LISS, R. S., AD1, went to the semi-finals in badminton, CRABTREE, D. G., AMAN, was a finalist in the wrestling, LABRY, N. J., AA, was a semi-finalist in wrestling, STOTSIER, G. L., AT3, was a finalist in the wrestling, CAMPBELL, L. G., AN, went to the semi-finals in wrestling, MASON, W. H., AD3, went to the finals in wrestling, RENTSCHLER, G. B., ATAN went to the semi-finals in boxing.

MASON and STOTSIER joined the ComAirPac Varsity Wrestling team shortly after the wrestling finals held at the NAS Gym.

The basketball team was beaten out for FAD Ream Champs by HU-1 on a one point loss.

UtRon Three Has Top Golf Team

One of the very active teams in the Naval Air Golf Association that has proven to be of winning calibre this season is that of VU-3 (K).

Comprised of three active members, the team has thus far won four out of six competitive meets and taken two trophies out of three "Ace" Tourneys. One for low gross by LT L. J. Drelicharz and one for low net by LT C. A. Taylor.

Men on the team who show outstanding ability at the game are LT Taylor, LT E R. Fancher, LT Drelicharz, LTJG J. A. Donovan, LT B. C. Hamilton, J. C. Feder, ADC, C. G West, ADC, W. R. Estes, and LCDR D. S. Lyons, who does exceptionally well on the green in spite of his wooden leg. As in normal, everyday activities LCDR Lyons has proved that the loss of one limb is no handicap and unless otherwise known his misfortune is not readily recognized.

Tournaments are played on the Balboa, Municipal and Tijuana courses and to keep golf enthusiasts, such as the VU-3 (K) team, in top performance, a driving range is being constructed in the VU-3 (K) area under squadron supervision.

Character Guidance Program Begins

Chaplain T. E. Schultz, NAS Protestant Chaplain, began his character guidance lectures in the Ream Field theater on Tuesday of this week with around 400 men present for the first in a series of lectures. The lectures are to be held Tuesday of each week in the theater at 1000 and 1300 tentatively. This series is armed forces wide and a large turnout is anticipated.

Chapel Services will be held at ALF Ream Sunday as follows:

Portestant Services 0930
Catholic Services 1030

AT THE CLOSE of the "March of Dimes Drive," the men of VU-7 had contributed 100 percent. "The one hundred percenters came through again," said LT. R. W. Koster of UtWingPac. J. Lalli, ADC, leading chief of VU-7, proudly presented LT. KOSTER of UtWingPac, the $228.11 that the men of VU-7 donated to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

VU-3 (K) Fetes Former Exec

In appreciation for the excellent work he has given the squadron, the officers of VU-3 (K) held a going away party for LCDR "Al" Mencin at the Ream Field Officers Club Thursday, January 31.

Upon receiving orders to report to NAS Lakehurst, N. J., for duty, LCDR Mencin was relieved of Executive duties by LCDR T. R. Wheatley who has been with VU-3 (K) nineteen months.

Among the outstanding jobs LCDR Mencin accomplished during his time with the squadron was to initiate shipboard control of drone aircraft, which has now become another scheduled event with UTRON Three.

VU-3 (K) Team Wins Again

In another closely fought contest Monday night Utron Three's team outpointed the strong USS Nereus quintet 58-55.

High individual honors went to Brillhart of the losers who 'canned' 17 points while Hope and Averill led the winners with 14 and 13 points respectively.

Wednesday, 6 February at 2000 VU-3 (K) meets VF 892 at the Ream Field gym.

Varieties Huge Success

"UtWing Varities" was played Wednesday night at Ream theater before a packed house of 500 sailors, officers and guests. The show stopper was Mary Lou Devtater, who played the guitar and sang.

FAS 701 Enrolls in USAFI

FASRon 701 Detachment has become the first unit of ALF Ream to realize the true value in self education. According to LCDR J. C. Thompson, Officer-in-Charge, the men are really getting down to some hard work. The entire detachment at the present are enrolled in correspondence courses.

Representatives Appointed To Wage Survey Committee

Robert S. Putnam, Civilian Industrial Relations Administrator at NAS, has been appointed as the Station's representative on the Area Wage Survey Committee. The first meeting of the Committee has been scheduled for February 18.

George N. Haywood, O&R Planner & Estimator, has been elected as the Shop Committee representative and has been appointed by the commanding officer to serve as observer on the Area Wage Survey Committee. Appointed as alternate observer was Rudolph Axt, O&R machinist.

Names of employees selected as data collectors on the NAS subcommittee will be announced when these appointments are made. Both graded and wage board employees will be considered for appointment as data collectors, according to a station notice.

Consisting of representatives of this and other naval activities in the area and a representative of the Area Wage and Classification Office, Long Beach, the Area Wage Survey Committee will be assisted by sub-committees. The sub-committees will be made up of the representatives from the various naval activities on the main committee and data collectors appointed by the commanding officers.

Private employing establishments will be visited by the subcommittees to obtain wage data and other pertinent information. Upon completion of the survey, this data will be forwarded to the Office of Industrial Relations, Washington, D.C., where it will be used in compiling a new schedule of wages for Navy wage board employees in this area.

Results of this survey will not affect the salaries of graded employees who are paid in accordance with the salary schedules contained in the Classification Act of 1949, says OIR.

The Navy Department has released a list of ratings which will

'Lovers Leap' Tomorrow

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 16th AT 2000 IN THE NAS GYMNASIUM—Those are the vital statistics on the Naval Air Stations' first 1952 "all hands" dance.

With "Leap Year" and St. Valentine's Day sharing the honors as a theme, this dance will give personnel stationed at NAS a chance to unlimber their legs to the classy music of Dick Peirce and his Decca Recording Orchestra.

The Special Services Department has contacted 500 San Diego lovelies to act as hostesses for this occasion.

At the proper time, a buffet luncheon will be served in the ships service cafeteria.

Besides dancing for all, the evening will also feature two contests. One for those who enjoy the "jitterbug" steps, and another for those who prefer waltzing pleasure.

'Household Effects' Unit Set Up by Supply & Fiscal

Military personnel at NAS can now make arrangements for shipment or receipt of household goods at the Supply Department's household effects section in Bldg. 651. Previously, application for this service had to be made directly to the Naval Supply Depot in San Diego.

While the Supply Depot will continue to supervise all packing, hauling, storage, and unpacking of household goods, the NAS section is available for counseling and assistance in expediting shipment. This section will also assist personnel in completing their application. In conjunction with the Supply depot, they will arrange for the packing or unpacking, and pickup of household effects.

To further assist those who have personal effects only (such items that are packed in cruise boxes, trunks, suitcases, seabags, etc.) located at quarters or activities on North Island, the household effects section will arrange for the direct pick up and shipment of these articles, providing they are already packed.

The NAS household effects section is located on the south side of Bldg. 651 (near the quaywall). The office extension is 1656.

Personnel who have household goods to be handled are required to furnish certified copies of their change-of-station orders — usually eight copies for each shipment. For each shipment an application form must be signed. Forms are available in the office of the household effects unit.

Further detailed information on this service is available in a booklet on file with personnel officers and at the BOQ. The Section may be called for answers to specific questions on ext. 1656.

Quell 2 Burning Planes in Crash Last Monday

A crash of two Navy aircraft Monday afternoon at NAS was met with quick response by Station firemen and crash crews.

Less than two minutes after the crash, fire and crash equipment were at the scene and crews were applying foam and CO2 to the burning planes.

Four minutes later the flames of a blazing F4U Corsair were put out. An SNB, 200 yards away, which had exploded and was burning, was brought under control; but firemen, wearing protective clothing, had to enter the blazing wreckage to shovel out burning magnesium aircraft parts which had to be isolated to be extinguished.

"The boys did a wonderful job in putting out the fire," said NAS Fire Chief A. L. Hatley. "Fires like that are always dangerous to fight because of possible gasoline explosions."

Twenty-six military and six military personnel from the NAS Fire Department fought the blaze.

The Beechcraft training plane was returning from a test flight. The Corsair was on a tactical training mission. Both plans were completely destroyed.

'Liberty Hop' Hops Off on Two Week Tour of Area

For the past two nights, Naval Air Station audiences have filled the NAS Theater with laughter, applause, and themselves as the eight scenes of "Liberty Hop" were unfolded by the forty talented members of the cast.

This comedy musical, the latest presntation of the North Islnad Productions, was written by two station-based men, Jack Thomas, AA, and Buddy Viotti, AA, and featured some of the most gifted men and women at Naval Air. The program consisted of original and popular songs, dances, comedy acts, jokes and skits.

Plans were announced for a two-week tour of the entire show, including cast, scenery, and production staff, of the Eleventh and Twelfth Naval Districts. Early apnearances of "Liberty Hop" will be at the Naval Station, Naval Training Center, Marine Corps Recruit Depot and Camp Pendleton. Arrangements have not been complted as yet for appearances in the remaining portion of the Eleventh Naval District and for presentation in the Twelfth Naval District.

Air Force B-36 Pays NAS Emergency Visit

At 0320 Tuesday morning a giant Air Force B-36 bomber rolled down NAS runway 36. As it passed the Operations tower, 15 crash and fire-fighting vehicles raced after the 10-engined plane, following it until it safely came to a halt. The safe landing of the craft ended five hours of vigil by NAS firemen and crash crews.

Taking off from Lindbergh Field Monday afternoon, the plane was reportedly headed for Texas. Soon after, it was reported that the craft's landing gear would not lock in place. The plane circled the area for 12½ hours while the crew worked on the faulty gear.

At 2235 Monday evening, the NAS control tower alerted the NAS Fire Department for a "deferred emergency." Shortly after, firemen donned fire fighting clothes. At 0148 an alarm sounded over the crash phone ordering firemen and equipment to report in front of the NAS Operations tower. The equipment was lined up in front of the tower, near runway 36. An Air Force officer briefed the personnel on the B-36 plane.

The pilot touched the plane down on the runway at 95 mph. As it passed Operations, the crash and fire vehicles took out. "We didn't 'follow'," said a fireman. "We chased, and we didn't overtake the plane till it had lost a lot of speed." When the craft came to a complete stop, the vehicles surrounded it, prepared for any emergency.

Confer Here on New Civilian Air Ratings

In connection with the Navy Departmen's letter advising NAS of the plan to place 25 new aircraft specialist ratings into effect on a six months trial basis, the O&R Department has conducted a survey to determine the extent the new ratings can be utilized. No information, however, is yet available as to the actual numbers that can be used.

Proposed experience and training standards have now been drafted and submitted to the Civil Service Commission for approval. Their final approval must be secured before applications can be accepted and persons considered for assignment to the new ratings. In general, two years of experience will be required to qualify for these ratings.

Representatives from the Bureau of Aeronautics visited this station during the week of January 28 to assist and advise in formulating procedures to place the ratings into effect. They advised that it was not the intent of the Bureau that any employees should suffer a reduction in pay as a result of placing the ratings into effect. However, no information was available from the Navy Department regarding the procedure to be followed in effecting a wage freeze of journeymen assigned to the specialist ratings. No complete assurance was given on this matter, but officials said the Bureau would do all possible to obtain authority to effect a freeze of some kind.

During the trial period no full journeymen employees will be of-

Solons Plan New GI Bill

A new bill to provide free education to veterans of the present emergency has been introduced by Rep. Olin E. Teague, chairman of the House Special Committee.

The bill would give men in Service since the beginning of the Korean conflict one and one half days of free schooling for every day in Service. Maximum schooling would be 36 months or enough time to complete a full college course for a degree.

The payments, under the bill, would be paid direct to the veteran at the rate of $110 monthly for single men and $150 for men with dependents in a full-time course. Veterans taking part-time courses would receive payments proportionately smaller.

Students could change their course only once. No avocational or recreational course would be allowed except in individual cases.

The bill also makes provisions for "on-the-job" and "on-the-farm" training.

Henry Busse to Highlight Washington Birthday Ball

Henry Busse, his famous trumpet, and his rhythm-making 15-piece orchestra, will be the feature attraction at the Civilian Welfare & Recreation Washington's Birthday Ball Thursday, February 21, at the Balboa Park Club.

Emphasizing the fact that everyone is invited to this big social event, Jud Kenney, chairman of the Recreation Association, reminded North Island folks that every dollar spent on a ticket will aid in the theme of "dance so that polio victims may walk." All proceeds from the February 21 affair will be given to the San Diego chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

A handsome array of door prizes have already been arranged for the evening of fun, with many more in prospect. So far, the dance committee has lined up the following: two season box seat tickets to the San Diego Padres' home games; two first nighter tickets to all of the Starlight Opera productions of the 1952 season; a Sunbeam coffee maker! an electric iron; tfo portable sport chairs; two pair of sun glasses; a merchandise order for clothing from a leading San Diego outfitter; four single game box seat tickets for Padre games; and other equally desireable prizes.

Tickets are now available at the Civilian Careteria, Navy Welfare Office, Employee Services Office, and from Division Civilian Recreation Committeemen. It is a most worthy cause, and will provide an apt way to commence the Washington's Birthday Holiday weekend.

Tickets are "A Buck a Throw for Polio."

This Week's News at a Glance

The trial of the Communist Party's second team in Los Angeles moved into the second week with some interesting testimony by gov't witness David Saunders. Saunders, a 41 year old merchant marine sea captain and former member of the Communist Party (1935-1945) identified Red literature that predicted an armed invasion of the White House and homes of the cabinet members. Civil war and the abolition of the capitalist state by force were also advocated in the pamphlets used to indoctrinate Party members.

An effort by the defense to have this testimony thrown out was ruled out by the court.

Chief United Nation truce negotiator Rear Admiral C. Turner Joy informed the Communist adversaries at the conference table that Red China was not entitled to a seat at the Korean Peace Conference by their own definition. It had been the Red contention since their forces first moved across the Yalu in late Autumn 1950, that only "volunteers" were involved. Acting upon the validity of this, the UN team can see no justification to recognize Red China as one of the nation-participants in Korea.

The Communists have promised a new proposal for item 5 on the agenda. This item deals with recommendations to be made to participating governments.

In the biggest offensive of the month, 420 Red soldiers advanced in two assault waves against the Allied position. Allied mortar, rifle and machine gun fire broke up the attack and inflicted 226 casualties.

LIBERTY

This week the public schools had a holiday remembering Abraham Lincoln's birthday. Our children were home, and they wanted to celebrate in some special way. One of them said, "Daddy, why don't you get liberty and stay home too." This word 'liberty' needs a new definition. We are using it these days in the sense that we have the right to do as we please. This is not true. We have never had that privilege. When Lincoln used the word 'liberty', he put a new emphasis upon an ideal. He said, "Our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty." This Country of ours was founded under God and a new birth of freedom came forth. This freedom is expressed in various ways. For an example: I had the privilege of going to college or remaining on the farm. I chose to enter college but I had to meet the requirements for entrance. When I was finally enrolled, it was necessary to pass the examination in order to remain in the college. I had the right to withdraw any day from that college, but I didn't have the liberty to 'skip' every other day and remain enrolled. Along with our right and privileges, there are responsibilities. We cannot evade them. Our country is frequently referred to as "a land of freedom" or "a land of liberty." Even so, every citizen has a responsibility that he or she alone can perform. Our liberty ceases when we have work that must be done, whether we are married or single, whether we are in the military service or engaged on the farm. A life with complete freedom does not exist on this earth. Our country comes nearest to fulfilling this ideal because we believe and practice the Golden Rule.

Robot May Guide Navy Carrier

Already being used in U.S. Navy destroyers and submarines the "robot helmsman" has been designated to be installed in the first carrier, the USS ORISKANY. Installation will take place in the next few months.

The new steering device will hold an aircraft carrier's heading accurately over long periods of time and keep a straight gyro course despite varying wind and sea conditions.

Besides aiding carriers in combat maneuvers ,the robot can assist vessels in refueling airships and surface craft at sea when accurate steering is essential. It is also reported that the robot can follow rapid change-of-course commands and that personnel can take over manual steering at any time.

M. J. KATCHER

After an absence of some weeks our column returns again to the NORTH ISLANDER. January and February so far have proved the New Year's prediction that this would be a busy year for the squadron.

January saw us participate in joint H/K exercises with local destroyers and submarines. Following this we journeyed to El Centro for another busy ordnance week. The month ended with a week of day and night FCLP at ALF Ream Field.

The first week in February saw a good portion of the squadron board the famed "Constitution" for a short hop to Long Beach where we embarked on the CVE 114 USS RENDOVA. It was a short but very eventful trip, and at the end of two days we had every pilot aboard qualified and many night-qualified. On the first days operations our Executive Officer LCDR O. L. Maupin made what proved to be the ships' 11,000th landing. Needless to say the cake tasted pretty good, just ask Smitty. During this second week of February we will start 10 intensive days of flying in connection with Operation Lex Baker One.

A special note of congratulations goes to the Maintenance Department again for keeping availability up during these six weeks although we have had to operate with a much reduced number of planes.

The forecast for the future shows a continued busy period through March, with another week aboard the "Rendova", an Ad/Mat inspection, and another possible trip to El Centro in the offing.

A Letter on Lincoln's Birthday

Burdened by the many decisions and crises of the war, President Lincoln never lost touch with the common people who were making the great sacrifices for the Union. He felt a sense of personal responsibility to the parents of the "Boy in Blue" who had fallen in battle. The letter published here was written by Mr. Lincoln to a Mrs. Bixby who had lost five sons in the war.

Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C.
November 21, 1864

Mrs. Bixby,
Boston,Massachusetts.

Dear Madam:

I have been shown in the files of the War Department a statement of the Adjutant General of Massachusetts that you are the mother of five sons who have died gloriously on the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any words of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering to you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the Republic they died to save. I pray that our heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.

Yours very sincerely and respectfully,

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Stewart Sends Letter to NAS

NAS this week received a letter from William Van V. Stewart, who retired February 1 after 32 years service on the Island.

"I want to convey my deep feeling of appreciation," wrote Mr. Stewart, "for the kind thoughts expressed to me during my last days of active duty with you; also for the wonderful luncheon - reception which enabled me to meet many of those friends which it would have been impossible to contact otherwise."

"I sincerely regret that it was not possible to meet again those friends who could not attend but who did send their best wishes and participated in presenting me with the fine camera tripod. The tripod will be with me on all my trips and will be a reminder of that wonderful group of fellow employees at NAS."

Serving as personnel officer for the Industrial Relations Department, at the time of retirement Mr. Stewart plans to continue his active interest in travel and photography.

VA-55 Wins Safety Award

At an informal ceremony in the office of the Commander Air Task Group TWO at North Island last week, Attack Squadron 55 received the Pacific Fleet Safety award for attack squadrons for the second quarter of the fiscal year 1952. The presentation was made in the name of the Commander Air Force, Pacific Fleet.

LCDR Lewis W. Chick, commanding officer and LCDR Edward Kerr, executive officer, accepted the pennant from CDR James G. Daniels, III, commander of the task group.

Safety pennants are presented every three months to the squadron of each type such as fighter, attack, anti-submarine, or patrol that has the most accident free hours of operation.

Attack Squadron 55 is a two-time veteran of Korean service, having been there as a unit of Carrier Air Group 5 and later as a unit of Carrier Air Group 19.

Navy Gets Set For Rocket Test

Another attempt will be made by the Navy next spring to best the 135 mile altitude record for single-stage Viking rockets.

Generating approximately 20,000 pounds of thrust, the new rocket will have a greater diameter than its predecessors to permit a greater fuel load of liquid oxygen and alcohol.

Information obtained from the Vikings used in the scientific studies of the upper atmosphere is expected to benefit radio communications, meteorology, and the guided-missle program.

RUMORS ARE FLYING that tickets will be hard to get by next week. Tickets to what? To hear Henry Busse's famous orchestra at the North Island Washington's Birthday Ball at the Balboa Park Club next Thursday. Here Lorraine C. Paschoal (left), and her mother, Lydia O. Paschoal, both of Supply & Fiscal, discuss plans for the big dance, show some of the tickets which are going fast, but should still be available in some quantity for all those wishing to attend. Proceeds from the dance will go to the San Diego Polio Foundation's fund.

USS North Island Command Change

At impressive change of command held last Monday at 0800, Training Deviceman Second Class Donald R. McCracken became the new "skipper" of the famous aircraft carrier USS NORTH ISLAND (CV1).

McCracken replaced Aviation Machinist Third Class Albert L. Gunderson who has been in charge of the craft for the past 10 months.

The NORTH ISLAND is the model aircraft carrier designed and built by a group of NAS civilian and military men in 1947. Since that time it has traveled throughout this area representing the Navy and Naval Air Station at many important festivals, carnivals, parades, and similar occasions.

McCracken, like the former "skipper," will be in charge of maintenance of the carrier, will travel with it and furnish information concerning the model, the Navy and Naval Air Station.

NEW SKIPPER FOR THE USS NORTH ISLAND, D. R. McCracken (left) is congratulated by former "C.O." of the model carrier Albert Gunderson shortly after a brief and informal change of command ceremonies held last Monday morning. Gunderson has been assigned to VR-32.

Get Acquainted

Most People Are Already Acquainted With Don Warf

From soda fountain clerk to Commissary in the USN to Main Store Manager of the Navy Exchange on North Island, in three not easy lessons—this is genial Don Warf's story.

Moving from Springfield, Missouri to California in November 1930 Donald Lewis Warf came to NAS for employment in the sofa fountain on this station. In his capable hands the fountain was successful from both a profit and service standpoint.

DON WARF

Shortly after the outbreak of World War II he enlisted in the Navy and was first assigned to a harbor tug in San Diego Bay. Due to his knowledge of food he was put in the commissary department where he quickly advanced to first class Petty Officer. He was then transferred to squadron VR-13 (NATS at that time) and sent to the New Guiena and Admiralty Islands. While at Los Negros he went TAD to the First Cavalry for reasons he is still not sure. Back at his squadron he followed the invasions from island to island until his squadron reached the Philippines and then they returned to the States.

On Thanksgiving Day, 1945 he completed his processing and was discharged from the Navy. Taking a "whole week's" vacation after discharge he came back to NAS and took part in the commissioning of the station's new Navy Exchange Store. When asked why he came back to NAS he replied, "I have been connected with the Navy and Navy people so long that I have acquired a special likeing for them."

Mr. Warf's pride and joy is the sports department of which he is merchandising manager. He orders for the NAS Ship Service and its contemporary stores. Knowing almost nothing of this department when he began, he has acquired a better than average knowledge of this equipment and helpful pointers on hunting and fishing through the buying and selling of this equipment.

His favorite sport is golfing but in the last few years has had little time to keep in practice. In 1938 he played on the group golf team which won the Southern California Championship at the Coronado Country Club. Square dancing is his only hobby and he and his wife belong to the Wagon Wheelers and Forward-8 square dancing clubs.

1947 Naval Academy Class Plans Reunion

A reunion for the Naval Academy class of 1947 is being planned. Those members who are in the San Diego area and who might be interested in attending the party should contact LTJG Jack Stevens at ALF Ream, ext. 40, or at Hamilton 2-9101.

NAS Hutchinson Reactivated

The former Naval Air Station at Hutchinson, Kansas, will be reactivated in June of this year, the Navy Department has announced.

The station will accommodate some of the aviation forces of the expanded Navy and Marine Corps aviation program. Primarily, there will be a multi-engine aircraft training unit located at Hutchinson.

It is expected, says the Navy, that more than 1800 naval personnel will be assigned when training operations are completely relocated to this air station. Civilian employees will number about 350 when the air station and the training program reaches the peak planned capacity.

COLUMN RIGHT—Is your column. Its purpose is to answer questions of general interest which affect your employment. Forward all questions to, "COLUMN RIGHT," c/o Industrial Relations Department, Building 415, or deposit them in the Beneficial Suggestion Boxes.

Where could I obtain information concerning studies and classes through which I could further my education?

Courses that are designed to further your occupation, courses toward completion of high school, and courses toward a college degree are all available in the San Diego area. Information may be obtained in the Training Division, Building 5. Many Trade Theory Classes are being given on the Station in Building 5 after hours, as well as classes in supervision. This information is available by calling extension 426.

ATTENTION employees who were hired between 14 July and 1 December 1950.

Many of you were appointed during this period with a stipulation on your personnel action form that your appointment was not to exceed 30 June 1952. However, on 1 December 1950 new Civil Service regulations were published which erased this expiration date and made your appointment indefinite with no set limitation. Therefore, you may disrgard the statement on your personnel action which effected your original appointment which placed an expiration date of 30 June 1952 on your employment.

"STAR OPERATOR" Mary Jones, TD3, assists student LT A. C. Lauer in the use of celestial navigation instruments.

THE STARS AND MISS JONES

It's Nighttime Anytime in Celestial Navigation Unit

By L. Robert Jackson

I have just walked back from the North Pole! Crazy, you say? Crazy it may seem, but nevertheless, it's a fact.

It may surprise many of you to learn that Naval Air has its own private North Pole situated in the center of the station and the stars shine there no less than 24 hours a day! This exclusive northern hemisphere, located in Building 268 (just 10 minutes from the ISLANDER office), is the location of a major portion of the Operations 27 Celestial Navigation Training Division which trains pliots and navigators from patrol squadrons stationed at NAS in the correct celestial navigation processes.

As I entered the "North Pole Room," a black room with the overhead about 40 feet from the deck and each bulkhead approximately 30 feet in length, I met WAVE Mary Jones, TD3, the woman who has been in charge of these particular stars for the past 20 months.

We began the tour of the "planetarium" by examining the complex machinery which fills much of the room. The projection equipment rests on the deck and is connected to a vertical shaft extending from the platform suspended near the overhead. This platform is directly under a huge dome of mesh wire entangled with hundreds of feet of electrical wires attached to pin-point lights. The platform is an exact replica of an astrodome—a section of a plane housing navigation equipment — such as the ones found in PBM's and PBY's.

Students sit in the chair which is directly under the center of the dome. Meanwhile, the "star operator" either sits near by instructing him or is in a separate room arranging the stars by instruments to follow a given course. This first "hop" is the beginning of familiarization instructions.

STARS PRECISELY AIMED

A student in the astrodome seat is the only one in the darkened room who can see every "star" since the minute lights are aimed directly at that position. Actual stars shine in parallel rays and the stars in the dome also shine in the same manner with the same relative intensity in brightness as that of real stars.

This dome reproduces the visible stars in the entire northern hemisphere as seen from the North Pole and include 11 main navigation stars, such as Polaris, the North Star and Aldebaran, in the Orion constellation, and Dubhe, a primary star in the Big Dipper. It was built along with seven others in 1945, however six of the original eight have been dismanteled.

Other phases of celestial navigation include "lost plane procedures" and routine "round-robin" flights which takes the student on a supposed triangular hop from one base via two others and then a return to the original base. During these flights, the dome slowly revolves to create an illusion of an actual flight.

STARS GIVE EXACT LOCATION

Sextant bearing readings on three designated stars computed with a standard celestial table enable a navigator to determine exact air speed, earth position, ground speed, and wind velocity.

Only two students are taught at a time and about 60 are processed each month by the Celestial Navigation Training Division which is under the supervision of LT. R. H. Bramblett, training officer, and LTJG R. J. O'Connor, Jr., assistant training officer of the division.

11,000 Landings Made on Rendova

LCDR O. L. Maupin, Executive Officer of Squadron VS-21, made the 11,000th successful carrier landing aboard the USS RENDOVA, on Thursday, February 7th at 0900.

An interesting twist to this story is the fact that when the pilots were making their landings, they did not know who was to be the 11,000th. The plane ahead of LCDR Maupin, would have received the honor, but his approach was bad and he took a "wave off." Therefore, the squadron's Executive Officer was the recipient of the honor.

After the landing, LCDR Maupin, was presented an award cake by CDR Sexton, Executive Officer of the RENDOVA.

VC-11 Aviators Commended

Two VC-11 men were commended for action in the Korean area in ceremonies aboard the Naval Air Station, San Diego, last week.

They were LCDR Leone E. Kirk, Jr., who received a letter of commendation, and Richard E. Lagrand, AT2, who received a commendation ribbon.

LCDR Kirk's award was for efficiency in discharging "his many responsibilities in an exceptionally meritorious and efficient manner" and for maintaining his Airborne Early Warning team "is a high state of operational readiness and combat efficiency."

His team operated off the aircraft carrier USS BON HOMME RICHARD in the Korean area.

Lagrand was decorated for "participation in 28 anti-submarine patrol missions in hostile North Korean waters" while serving with an Airborne Early Warning team abord the aircraft carrier USS PRINCETON.

Aircraft Rates

ficially assigned to aircraft specialist ratings. The new ratings will be filled by new hirings and promotions of NAS employees. Journeymen in the seven trades affected will continue to receive periodic pay increases during the trial period. The Bureau representatives had no information on what would happen after the six months trial period but advised that a final decision on this matter would be arrived at by the Secretary of the Navy after conclusion of the trial period and after reports furnished by NAS, San Diego and NAS, Jacksonville, had been reviewed.

During the trial period, NAS will effect a gradual change over to the specialist ratings. Mass promotions of helpers to the new ratings are not anticipated. It is expected, however, that some promotions will be made. A procedure for applying for the new ratings has not been firmly established. Upon approval of the experience standards, it is expected that the Board of U.S. Civil Service Examiners will announce open competitive examinations for the ratings.

At that time, interested employees may apply for the ratings and selections will be made from Civil Service registers. In the meantime, employees should not file applications with the Board of U.S. Civil Service Examiners, since they cannot be accepted. Publicity will be given as soon as arrangements are made to announce examinations for the ratings.

This Week's MOVIE MENU for NAS

SATURDAY, February 16—LILI MARLENE, starring Hugh McDermott and Lesi Daniely. Here is a British-made picture that includes many of the adventure scenes reminiscent of our own thrillers. The story is that of a girl who writes a morale building song titled after her own name. The Germans decide that she should be made to work for the Nazi party, and after the war, she is re-united with her lover.
Shorts: CANDID MIKE and SONGS OF THE CAMPUS.
Running time: 1 hour and 53 minutes.

SUNDAY and MONDAY, February 17 and 18—TWO TICKETS TO BROADWAY, starring Janet Leigh and Tony Martin. Here is a technicolor extravaganza that magnifies the struggle of the younger set of show people, and their difficulties in entering the big-time.
Shorts: None.
Running time: 1 hour and 47 minutes.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, February 19 and 20—MY FAVORITE SPY, starring Bob Hope and Hedy Lemarr. Here's that man again; Bob Hope cmobines his hilarious talents with "breath-taking" Hedy Lamarr, and the resulting picture is one of the season's funniest. Hope, revolves around a plot of international intrigue, and Hedy provides the "inspiration" for his ordeals.
Shorts: LAWRENCE WELK and his Orchestra.
Running time: 1 hour and 53 minutes.

THURSDAY and FRIDAY, February 21 and 22—BAREFOOT MAILMAN, starring Robert Cummings and Terry Moore. This pictured was filmed in the Florida Backlands and takes place around the turn of the century. Robert Cummings, a smooth swindler takes a turn for the better, when he meets "school runaway" Terry Moore. Despite the fact that he doesn't get the girl, the sequence of events leading up to an interesting climax, are filled with comedy saturated scenes.
Shorts: None.
Running time: 1 hour and 47 minutes.

Montgomery Clift, in "A PLACE IN THE SUN."
Arthur Kennedy, in "BRIGHT VICTORY."

Early Bird Pays Station First Visit in 35 Years

"Fast devils, aren't they?" cracked dapper 72-year-old Paul R. Stockton last Tuesday when he observed a group of Navy jets taking off from North Island while he visited here for the first time in 35 years.

During an hour long tour of the station, Mr. Stockton went back through the past three and one-half decades to that year when he, as an Army Air Corps pilot, was stationed on the seven year old air base.

It was in early 1917, just a few months after his enlistment in the air corps, that he was transferred to North Island from the air station at Mineola, Long Island, where he was a member of the first New York Air Squadron. He had flown just over 700 hours with that group, but still needed more flight time before he could qualify for his "Junior Military Aviator" designation. His commanding officer arranged for him to complete training at North Island and he was subsequently assigned to a "Jenny" squadron based here.

'PUDDLE-JUMPER' BECOMES 'NICKEL-SNATCHER'

"The only means of getting from the mainland to North Island in those days," says Mr. Stockton, "was by means of a small boat which left the foot of Broadway. We used to call it the 'Puddle-Jumper', but I understand its name's been changed to the 'Nickel-Snatcher'. Other than that, the Island was completely separated from the mainland."

Mr. Stockton observed that the distance from the main landing to the barracks in those days was considerably shorter than it is today. He recalls that the barracks for "non-coms" were located practically on the water front where the Security building and the Enlisted Men's Club are now situated. These buildings plus a few operational and administrative structures composed the base. "The rest of the Island was the stomping grounds for a million jackrabbits!"

GO, WENT, AND GONE

Paul Stockton was transferred from North Island in late December, 1917, and was sent to an eastern base. Upon his arrival, he was placed in charge of assigning American pilots to squadrons flying in France during World War I. He had this job about three months and then decided to go himself.. So, he picked out a squadron, assigned himself to it, and went. Stockton says that he was the only Spanish American War veteran to fly in combat during World War I.

Paul R. Stockton

The next year was an exciting one for Pilot Stockton. His area of operation included the whole of France and his planes were the French "Spads" and Nieuports." While flying in the war, he was shot down by the Germans four times—three times in one day. However, his efficient ground crew repaired his bullet-battered plane with odds and ends and he took off again for combat after each forced landing.

AERIAL 'HAND-TO-HAND' COMBAT

Mr. Stockton says that there was very little animosity between the Allied and German fliers during the war, but he recalls at least one exception to this rule. One of his associates was flying a mission over France when he engaged in a dog-fight with a German Fokker. Both planes were soon out of ammunition, but the German plane began to purposely irritate the Allied pilot by flying in front of, around, beneath, and behind his plane. The irate pilot became so furious that he tore the fire extinguisher, the only "weapon" available, from the wall of his cockpit and hurled it at the enemy plane flying just under his wing. It's still a controversial issue whether or not the pilot's aim was good.

The ammunition situation was troublesome. Plane machine guns held so little ammunition that the length of actual combat time was quite limited. Mr. Stockton often compensated for this siutation by employing his .45 pistol against the on-coming enemy. He used it also with fairly good results against ground forces.

CHASED BY 'THE BARON'

War experience brought him in contact with several of the most famous pioneers in military aviation including Captain Eddie Rickenbacker and the well-known American pilot, Luff Berry. Germany's deadly ace and prominent leader of the fabulous "Flying Circus," Baron von Richtofen, often chased Stockton and his friends back to his home base. Mr. Stockton says, however, he always managed to escape the Baron's guns.

After the war's end, Mr. Stockton was returned to the United States where he was discharged in March, 1919, as a first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps, which, by the way, was a branch of the signal corps. Since one week prior to his release, he has not flown an airplane.

When asked his opinion of the growth of aviation over the past 35 years, Mr. Stockton summed up his observations with this statement: "Aviation, like North Island, hasn't grown; it's positively yelled!"

NORTH ISLAND SERVICE POST 753

LEGION NOTES

By Art Burns

After five long weeks in the V.A. Hospital at Long Beach, a very popular member of North Island Post No. 753 is back at work with this post in the hospital and rehabilitation work of Post Chaplain. It is good to see Pat O'Neil back again in such high spirits.

Last Tuesday night at Encinitas, a very enthusiastic American Legion County Council meeting was held with Roscoe (Pancho) Morse presiding. Those attending from this post were Jim Vinson, Harold Nichols, Charlie Lee, H.H. Wells, Charlie Stringer, and Frank Storms. An interesting report on Civil Service Resolutions was given by Charlie Stringer. Charlie Lee was appointed County Council "Boys' State" chairman.

High praise is being received by the American Legion for its program in urging its members through publicity, phone calls, etc., to attend any church of his desire and take an active part in its program of spiritual guidance. The last issue of the American Legion Magazine outlines these efforts expected of its members.

Archie Breeden, Post Commander, urges all to get their tickets for two benefit dances this month, proceeds of which go to very worthy causes. Washington's Birthday dance will be next Wednesday night and the American Legion's 22nd District Hospitalization and Rehabilitation Fund Dance will be held February 29th at the Post No. 6 spacious club house, 27th and B Street. Dance and enjoy yourself at these affairs, so that a chance is given to those that they may enjoy walking again.

P.W. Paragraphs

Charlie Warren, Carpenter left for Tucson, Arizona after years of service, due to the illness of his wife. Mrs. Warren will be in a hospital to receive special treatment, in conjunction with the ideal climatic conditions recommended by family physician.

"Sacky" Sackrider, well known Ironworker is resigning to enter business with his son. With the knowledge gained from two similar establishments, Mr. Sackrider will open a Service Station.

Chuck Griner, Plumber, returned to work after a period of duty in U.S.N. as Chief Shipfitter. He has been stationed at the Naval Base for two years. Welcome back Chuck.

Very little thought is given by most of us to the seemingly insignificant but highly important job of keeping the dozens of red lanterns burning, around excavations, road barriers and dangerous objects near landing strips, etc., throughout the Island.

But stop a moment and consider the results if only one lantern were forgotten, perhaps a life would hang on the balance. For many years this menial task has been carried out in a deserving manner by a fellow known to most of us as P. W. No, that isn't a reference to his department but stands for "Percy Walker" Underhill, lamp lighter. P.W. is a retired navy man, was recalled during the last war and returned to his job, which he handles in an efficient and conscientous manner. If you should happen to back into one of his lanterns with a truck you will surely hear "The Lamplighter's Serenade," if P.W. is in the area. A well done goes to P. W. Underhill.

Welcome aboard, Carpenter S. G. Chapman, after being recently discharged from U.S. Navy as a DCW1, Chapman reported to work in the carpenter shop and happy to be once more a civilian. After six years during the war he was recalled to duty during the police action. We are glad to have you aboard "Sir."

CAG-101 Holds Dinner-Dance

Carrier Air Group 101 will hold a Valentine's dinner-dance Saturday, February 16. The party will be held at the NAS Commissioned Officers' Mess (Open) with all officer personnel on the Station and their guests invited.

Reservations may be made by calling the Commissioned Officers' Mess (Open).

Dinner will be held between 1900 and 2200, dancing until 0300. Those attending the party are requested to "wear sweaters."

DFC Awards to FAW-14 Officers

CAPT J. B. Paschal, Commander FAW-14, awarded citations to the three Coronado officers of his command at North Island in ceremonies held Tuesday afternoon.

The citations were earned by pilots of VF-42, a unit composed of Martin "MARINER" patrol bombers. Patrol 42 was in the Western Pacific combat area during the period of August, 1950, to February, 1951.

VADM C. T. Joy, Commander Naval Forces, Far East, recommended Distinguished Flying Crosses to LCDR Fred S. Bertsch, and LTJG William A. Daniel, and a gold star in lieu of a third DFC to LCDR T. S. Thueson.

Baseball Starts February 25

Tryouts for the Naval Air Skyraider varsity baseball and softball teams will commence on 25 February. Anyone interested in trying out for the varsity teams should contact the varsity athletic officer, Room 21, in the NAS Theater Building prior to February 25.

A varsity handball team is also being planned and double eliminations will be held Monday 18 February at 0900. All interested persons should also contact the varsity athletic officer, Room 21, in the NAS Theater Building.

Varsity teams will be comprised of personnel attached to fleet air units in the San Diego area or personnel of the Naval Air Station, San Diego.

There are a number of returning members from last season's varsity team and also a number of new men who have reported aboard since then.

The Skyraiders are hoping to field one of the finest baseball and softball teams this year against some stiff competition in the Eleventh Naval District league.

NAGA NEWS

The Monthly "ACE" tournament played 6 February at Municipal Golf Course, Balboa Park was won by CHMACH Walt Axcell with a low net of 67. He had previously won the low gross.

The second low net trophy went to C.A. Taylor, and the low gross was received by Austin.

Sixteen low handicappers will meet 16 men from NTC in a golf match on February 20. Tee off time is 1300 at NTC.

Of the 16 men, each man is subject to challenge matches to retain his position.

A varsity golf team will be formed from the lowest 12 players, with the first match commencing on May 8.

Hours of instruction at the NAS Driving Range are from 1100 to 1300 and 1600 to 1700 Monday through Friday. Children's instructions are given from 1000 to 1100 on Wednesdays and 1500 to 1600 on Sundays.

HANDBALL

Special Services won the Captain's Cup Handball league with a ten-win-no-loss record for the tournament. The final game with Supply was the closest they came to defeat with Supply winning the first game 21-20 and Special Services winning the next two 21-20 and 21-19.

VOLLEYBALL

Captain's Cup volleyball started the 13th of this month. Thirteen teams have entered the tournament. All games will be played on the volleyball courts in back of the NAS Theater.

BADMINTON

Double eliminations in Badminton singles finished Wednesday with CDR H. H. Hunt taking top honors. LCDR J. D. Smith took second, and Joe Kinkaid was third. Supply copped first place in the singles with 380 points, while Special Services was second with 135. The doubles are still being played, and results will be announced next week.

VC-11 Comets Win Minor AAU Tourney

With Buzz Newburn scoring 25 points, VC-11's Comets ended the FASRon-691 victory express with a 72-62 victory in the semi-finals of the AAU Minor division held at Balboa Park last week. The Comets defeated VF-884 81-58 the next night for the championship.

The much heralded 691-VC-11 meeting was all it was tagged to be. The battle started off rather slowly but pickedup momentum as it progressed. The Comets blew things wide open in the second period when they tanked 27 points to take a 44-25 intermission lead. With their blistering fast break clicking on all cylinders, they all but ran the Buckeyes off the floor. But the fighting spirit which has been with the Buckeyes all season, ignited in the second half and they almost pulled the game out of the fire. At one point in the last quarter, they cut the Comet lead to six points.

The Comets got quite a scare in the finals from VF-884 before exploding in the last half with 47 points. Their intermission bulge was a mere 34-31 score. Center Frank Watrus was high point man for the Comets with 21 markers. Newburn was close behind with 18. Ed Lundgren led the losers with 18 points. VF-884 advanced to the finals with a 49-37 win over VF-32 in the semi-finals.

SKI SCOOPS

Weekends are eagerly anticipated by members of the North Island Ski Club. Snow conditions continue to be excellent in the mountains north of San Bernardino and each weekend finds members of the club going to Snow Valley, Big Bear, or Blue Jay, three of the most popular skiing areas.

Although some of the skiers are still learning, many have graduated from so-called "Snow Bunnies" or novice skiers to the more advanced "Intermediate" class.

Each Tuesday evening at 2000 the weekly meeting of the club is held in the Administration Building Auditorium. Any interested personnel are urged to attend these meetings.

It is requested that all members and interested personnel attend the meeting on Tuesday, February 19th. At the meeting arrangements will be made for a party to be held at Big Bear some time in March. This party will be the highlight of the year's club activities. Muh pertinent information regarding this party will be brought out in the next meeting. BE THERE!

A Corner on SPORTS

by George Bergman and Robert Laible

LOOKS LIKE HONEST JOHN GOT ROOKED

John Goudy, Skyraider boxing coach, is a mighty fine gentleman. He is a stickler for training, for regularities, and for fairplay. In fact, he is such a stickler for doing things the right way, that it begins to look like he and his charges took a bouncing of sorts, from equally regulation, but possibly less ethical squads of ring gladiators from this area. Scene referred to is the Los Angeles Golden Gloves tourney, just past.

Goudy went to the extreme to obey and abide by the "elimination rules" which require all fighters from the San Diego area to go through the San Diego Tribune bouts first, before entering the lists at Los Angelesville. His top man, All-Navy champ Kirby Seals, was in fact eliminated in this manner, due to (our opinion only) breaks in the pairings which gave him two tough opponents the same evening. We don't agree that Seals wasn't beaten, we just point out that the Skyraiders "qualified" the only two men they sent to Los Angeles, Ed Jackwin and Don Malvezzi. They attempted to have Seals, recently back from leave, also qualify.

It's pretty obvious that they didn't have to even show up at the Tribune scraps. Jackwin, San Diego welter champ, fought twice in the Los Angeles Times tournament, and NEVER DID MEET A LOS ANGELES AREA OPPONENT. He beat his way through one San Diego area scrapper, and lost to a second from this county.

It was reported to us this week that Coach Goudy has a featherweight in his stable that could possibly give Kenny Davis a rougher battle than he's had all this season.

He reported too late for the San Diego or Los Angeles Golden Gloves, but has been making strenuous workouts and whipping into shape mighty fast.

His name is Edgar Buffaloe, he fought in Memphis, Tennessee before entering the Navy, and boasts 72 fights. Not only is he an experienced fighter, but HE'S WON ALL 72 FIGHTS.

Kirby Seals, Skyraider ex-heavyweight champ, is on the long comeback road, and just itching to step into the ring again with Ed Sanders. He fights Harold Kilman tomorrow night in a Convair smoker, and the result of this fight could very well determine the condition he is in to meet Sanders. Many observers will remember that Sanders won a first round TKO over the same Kilman in the San Diego Gloves bouts.

Jackwin, Malvezzi Upset In L. A. Gloves Tourney

By BOB LAIBLE

The San Diego Golden Gloves welter champ Ed Jackwin, and Skyraider featherweight Don Malvezzi were both beaten in the Golden Gloves tournament at Los Angeles last week. Jackwin decisioned George Price from NTC in the preliminaries only to drop a close and very unpopular decision to Jake Martinez from Camp Pendleton in the quarter-finals.

Malvezzi, who drew byes for the first two nights was matched against Charlie Carrero from Phoenix in the semi-finals. The first round looked pretty close with both boys landing a few punches. Malvezzi was staggered slightly in the second round, and in the third round the Skyraider featherweight chased his opponent all over the ring, lashing him with stinging rights and lefts. Carrero got the decision, but would have undoubtedly went down had the fight lasted much longer.

During the Jackwin-Martinez brawl Jackwin was punching in his usual style, continually bothering his opponent with left hooks. All three rounds consisted of toe-to-toe slugging, with Martinez taking the decision.

WILLIAMS BEATS JANKE

Sam "The Assassin" Williams, CruDesPac's rugged middleweight decisioned Pete Janke, ex-North Island middleweight in the semi-finals and went on to whip Jimmy Palazzola in the finals. Both boys were representing the South Gate arena, and judging by the applause they received are pretty popular scrappers around the Los Angeles area.

Williams, although noticeably tired in the third round of his second fight was up to his usual standards and continually rocked his opponents with vicious left hooks and straight rights.

Janke, who is no stranger to Williams, having beaten him in 1950 for the 11ND Championship, gave Williams a rough time fighting in close throughout and eluding powerful punches that might 8 Islanders To Enter Glider Meet 23 Feb.

Eight glider pilots from North Island are planning to enter the sixth annual midwinter soaring contest which will be held north of San Diego at Torrey Pines gliderport February 23 and 24.

North Island's soaring enthusiasts who plan to enter the meet will includ Dave Boone, inspector in building 94, who is a member of the "Sierra Wave Club" (has soared above 25,000 feet in the standing wave at Bishop, California, and has a "Golden 'C' pin" one of the requirements being to soar for 189 miles in a glider). Roman Benn of Production Control also has soared above 25,000 feet and will be operations officer at the meet. Harvey Kline, Production Control, will be in charge of field facilities.

Other persons from North Island who will participate in the aontest are: Johnny Swinson, Shop Planner, and E. D. Shattuck, Aircraft Mechanic, who own their own sailplane, pictured below; Elwood Corby, Propeller Mechanic, who will be with the ground crew; Dick Akin, Supply and Fiscal, and Bob Brown, formerly of Accessories Division.

The two-day glider contest is a sanctioned meet of the Soaring Society of America and CAA regulations will gocern flying. The contest is sponsored by the San Diego Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The meet is free and all are welcome to attend.

Outbirding The Birds

By Herb Sichler

Each year at this time, Torrey Pines Gliderport awakens with feverish ambition for the forthcoming Pacific Coast Mid-Winter Soaring Championships. On silent wings the experts will soar over the cliffs in their high performance sailplanes, aiming at records in distance, duration, altitude, spot landing and bomb drops.

Aptly named, the sailplane, like the sailboat, derives its power from the winds, gaining altitude by capitalizing on characteristics of wind currents. Anyone not familiar with soaring might question the capabilities of these lightly constructed aerial yachts, but the pilots who have successfully set sail in them have proved that man has outbirded the bird.

In 1948, a young French girl soared patiently along a mountain ridge to remain in the air continually for 35 hours. The following year, a countryman of hers established an international men's record for duration with a 41 hour stint at the controls of a sailplane.

How about distance? Sailplane records in that test hover around 500 miles; and as for altitude, William Ivans, Jr., of La Mesa broke all previous absolute altitude and altitude gain records by soaring to the fantastic height of 43,100 feet at Bishop, Calif., in December 1950.

There are practically no limitations on a glider's performance. Even aerobatics are possible. Bill Ivans ,the altitude record holder, consistantly walks off with the aerobatics trophies for his smooth, graceful performance of seemingly impossible maneuvers and will probably leave the Sixth Annual Meet clutching his awards as usual.

Sailplane pilots needn't envy the birds as man in the past has done. If there is any envy, it's on the part of the birds.

Airmen Dump Pendleton Place Second in AAU

The Naval Air Skyraiders upset a strong Camp Pendleton quintet in the Mainside Gym last Thursday night by a score of 49-45. Art Borchers, Skyraider nominee for All-Navy honors, led the home team to a thrilling upset victory over a second place Camp Pendleton.

The first quarter was an illustration of how the entire game was to be, the score being tied six times in this quarter. Finally the Skyraiders pulled ahead 16-14 with Max Kephart, Duke Schneider and Art Borchers hitting with layups and jumpshots.

The second quarter found Carpenter and Sullivan from Pendleton swishing in buckets to put the Marines ahead at the half 30-24.

The third quarter found the Skyraiders again taking the lead 37-34 with Borchers, Schneider, Kephart and Grewe again setting the pace for the Skymen.

SKYRAIDERS FREEZE BALL

In the last quarter the Airmen put on an excellent exhibition of ball handling, dribbling and passing ending up with a four-point lead and only five minutes left to play. Coach Hal Boudreau sent in word to freeze the ball, which the Skyraiders proceeded to do. With the frantic Pendleton team trying desperately to steal the ball, the Skyraiders passed and dribbled the ball for five minutes until the final gun sounded ending the game.

Borchers and Schneider were high point men for the Airmen with 16 and 13 points respectively.

PLACE SECOND IN AAU

The Skyraiders took second in the AAU tournament by defeating the USS NEREUS and Grihalva Motors only to lose to MCRD in the finals in the Balboa Park Gym last Friday and Saturday night.

After getting by the NEREUS 68-49, the Airmen faced a Grihalva team which was studded with talent.

It was a close game all the way with Max Kephart, Skyraider 6'-6" center pulling the game out of the fire in the last seconds. Halftime score was 29-27.

The third quarter was nearlly even, Grihalva scoring only one more point than the Skyraiders.

The last quarter had the crowd on their feet as Max Kephart put on a one-man exhibition of scoring to overcome a three-point lead and forge ahead in the final seconds to win 64-61.

Meet the Champ Show To Be Here Feb. 28th

"Meet the Champ" show which has been touring on the east coast will be presented at the Naval Air Station on February 28, it was announced this week.

The show will be held at the Mainside Gym. A definite time has not been set as yet, but will probably be early in the evening due to a coast-to-coast television hook-up.

Coach John Goudy is planning on entering three fighters from the Skyraiders, Kirby Seals, Ed Jackwin, and Edgar Buffaloe. Heavyweight, welterweight and featherweight respectively. He will fill in the show with other fighters from Navy and Marine teams throughout the San Diego area.

Meet the Champ show is comprised of service fighters from all over the United States. If any fighter from San Diego should win, they will then be eligible to tour other military installations as part of the troupe.

SICILY Island Champs

The USS SICILY gave Air-Pac their fourth victory in five years in the Island championship as they edged the Special services team 38 to 34 last Fri.

First Talent Show a Hit At ALF Ream

Dancing, song, tumbling and laughter was the theme of the first in a series of talent shows presented in the ALF REAM theater Feb. 6.

LTJG Jack M. Stevens (VU-7) M.C.'d the show. Beatrice Johnson's School of Dancing provided a chorus line and solo dancing. Among the solos in the show was Robert Cancelosi who played the steel guitar accompanied by Edith Noel.

Sisters Barbara and Lois John grave an exhibition of champion baton twirling and tricks in unison. Their act was climaxed when the house lights were turned out and they performed with lighted batons.

Bob Moore's popular songs went over big with his smooth and well liked style. The Pope trio, two boys and a girl, spine twisting acrobats, was a thrill to watch. The hula performed was by Beverly Murphy.

The personality and voice of Mary Lou Doxtater with her guitar was a complete show stopper. She had the audience standing up and shouting for more. She is a Hoover high school student. Dean Jones, the singing mail man from VU-3K, was his usual smooth self and was greatly appreciated by the audience.

W. R. Proctor, AOC, VU-7, is in charge of the talent shows and spends much time and hard work getting shows together. Chief Proctor is planning another show for next month.

BASKETBALL RESULTS

The 11th Naval Districts Southwestern Basketball League completed the first week's play of the final month's schedule, with HU-1 and the Nereus in a first place tie. Team standings and the results were as follows:

	W	L
HU-1	5	1	SPERRY	1	4
NEREUS	5	1	AIRASRON-892	1	3
VU-7	5	2	TORTUGA	0	6
VU-3K	4	3

Last week's games, VU-7 65 Lenawee 47 (replaced by Tortuga), Airasron-892 (replaced Skagit) 54 Tortuga 19, Nereus 51 Sperry 42, VU-3K 55 VU-7 54, and VU-3K 67 Tortuga 35.

The winner of the Southwestern League will enter the 11th Naval District playoffs that are scheduled for March.

Red Cross Field Director at Ream On Wednesdays

American Red Cross field director, D. W. Jones, will be at ALF Ream very Wednesday morning for conferences. He will be in the library at 1030.

Men who have an emergency or need to contact Mr. Jones at another time may call him at ext. 567 or 568, Naval Air Station.

Income Tax Lecture Given by 11 ND Officer

CDR. Raymond D. Shryock, 11th Naval District Legal Officer, held an income tax lecture at the Ream Field Theater last week. The lecture was held in the form of an open discussion with many vital questions asked in the relationship of the service man and his income tax.

Great Strides Expected In Helicopter Design

A deep insight to the future role of helicopters has been passed by the veteran pilots of Helicopter Squadron One (HU-1) with the prediction that the unconventional aircraft will soon pass the ability to rise vertically in the air and proceed on to its destination at supersonic speeds.

This is no idle pipedream as this prediction was verified by such pioneers as LCDR Wm. G. Knapp, helicopter pilot and CDR Dudley S. Billett, Jr. former skipper of the local "windmill outfit."

The general configuration of a supersonic adaptation of rotary wing aircraft would include folding rotor blades, allowing some other source of power, probably jet, to propell the aircraft through the sonic barrier.

CDR Billette, reflecting on the brilliant accomplishments of rotary wing aircraft in the past, said, "It would be less of an advance than helicopters already have made in a few years."

The squadrons based at ALF REAM, has over 50 veterans of helicopter flying whose efforts have saved well over 300 lives in the Korean conflict. The ability of these men is exemplified by the almost daily sorties over enemy lines for search and rescue, gunspotting for the fire support ships, and patrolling enemy waters for the purpose of locating and destroying mines which threaten our supply lines.

ComUtWing Staff Inspects Bases In West Pacific

CAPT. R.W.D. WOODS, Commander of Utility Wing Pacific Fleet, and members of his staff, consisting of LCDR. G. Center, Operations Officer, LT. R. W. Koster, Administration Officer, and LT. G. L. Chamberlin, Supply Officer, have left for a three weeks inspection tour of the Utility Squadrons and Detachments in the Western Pacific. The inspection tour will include VU-1 based at Pearl Harbor, VU-5 based at Guam, VU-3 Detachment based in Japan, and various other detachments in these forward areas.

LCDR "PAT" PATTERSON was congratulated by the Commander Utility Wing Pacific Fleet, CAPT. R. W. D. WOODS, at the conclusion of Mr. Patterson's two week's Reserve Training Duty with the Utility Wing at ALF Ream, last Friday afternoon. Mr. Patterson has been active in the Naval Reserve Program since his demobilization in 1946, when he joined the NAS San Diego transportation department.

Why Have Sports?

By S. L. Nyhan

CAPT R. W. D. Woods, Commander UtWing Pacific Fleet, considers the sports program an essential part of each individual's training, recreation, and welfare. Squadrons will compete in ComAirPac scheduled sports so that F.A.D., ALF Ream may win as many of the AirPac championships and trophies as possible, and eventually represent AirPac in the West Coast playoffs.

The purpose of the athletic program is to create athletic competition within the Utility Wing, whereby all personnel, officers and men, regardless of natural ability are encouraged to participate.

Members of championship teams at Ream will be awarded individual trophies, each with suitable engraving. Team trophies will also be awarded to the winning teams. The awards will be presented at the Squadron personnel inspections by the Commander, ALF Ream.

Until the Ream champion is determined in any sport, the Command encourages enthusiastic competition on a squadron level. When a champion is determined in any sport, the Commander F.A.D., ALF Ream desires the enthusiasm to be displayed in his support. It is hoped that more enthusiasm will be shown in the future so that ALF Ream may claim more honors in the sports that are available to everyone.

Squadron athletic officers are maintaining an up-to-date card index on all sports participants giving playing experience, coaching experience (with dates) and ages.

VU-7 Needs Men for Handball, Horseshoes

"There is a good turnout for the bowling and volleyball teams, but more men are needed for handball and horseshoes," says ENS Schulte of VU-7. For the new rules governing these sports contact the VU-7 athletic officer. Competition will begin at the end of this month, and carry through until April. "Turn out and beat the Ream Champs as the other teams have strived to do," says ENS Schulte.

VU-3 Wins 1, And Loses 1

After a slow start in last Wednesday night's game the VU-3 Cagers mauled the USS TORTUGA quintet 67-35. Establishing a 13-10 lead in the first quarter of the game and threeafter pulling steadily away, the squadron team was never in trouble. The second half was sparked by two of the shorter men in the league; Franer, 5'1" and Yeigh, 5'4". Hope led the team with 15 points followed by Stevens, Dyke and Browne with 14, 13 and 7 respectively.

In one of the closest fought contests this season VU-3(K) lost to the VS-892 Cagers Monday night, 55-53. A tight game all the way, the score was never more than 6 points apart. Penecole led the way for the winners with 20 points while Hope of VU-3(K) followed with 17.

BOXING, WRESTLING, basketball and badminton team captains are shown with their C.O.'s and Commander Utility Wing Pacific Fleet admiring the trophies recently won during the ComAirPac intermural playoffs.

Issue List of Firms For Area Wage Survey Data

In the first meeting of the Area Wage Survey Committee, held at the Naval Supply Depot last Monday, Robert S. Putnam, NAS Civilian Industrial Relations Administrator, was elected chairman of the Committee.

Representing activities in the San Diego-Oceanside area were: Major I. N. Kelly, USMC, Camp Pendleton; Albert J. Prato, Naval Hospital; Harold Whittle, Naval Station; E. C. Johnson, Navy Electronics Laboratory; and Mrs. Lee Gillerson, Naval Supply Depot. Rudolph Axt, O&R Department, attended the meeting as an observer from the Naval Air Station.

At the next meeting of the Area Wage Survey Committee, February 28, suggestions from activities regarding additions or deletions to the proposed list of firms from which wage data will be gathered, will be considered. The list, numbering approximately 60 firms, is being published in a Station Notice. In the event employees, shop committees, employee groups, etc. desire to submit suggestions for additions to the present list, the committee says it would also "like to know the number of personnel employed and the type of wage coverage anticipated."

If personnel also desire to make recommendations for additions or deletions to the list of occupations to be surveyed, the Committee will consider them at the February 28 meeting. The list of occupations was published in last week's North Islander and in a recent Station Notice.

Mr. Putnam has requested all recommendations be submitted to him not later than Wednesday, February 27 so they can be presented to the Committee Thursday.

Remaining FAS-691 Reserves Released

Thirty three men, the last of the original 137 officers and men of FASRon 691 who came to NAS with the squadron from Columbus, Ohio in September, 1950, have been discharged this week.

The squadron, which was commissioned in December, 1949, as part of Wing 69 in Columbus, has worked on more than a dozen types of Naval aircraft from fighters to R4-D's since it has been here at NAS. Aptly named the "Air Garage of San Diego," FASRon 691 is one of the few squadrons to service the new AF-2W aircraft.

Of the original 137, only men who have not had previous active duty are left in the squadron. Others have been discharged or transferred to the fleet. Most of them are from Columbus or Wheeling, West Virginia.

The original group arrived here in 10 R4-D's from Columbus on September 4, 1950 and were working on their aircraft within a month. FASRon 691 is now commanded by LCDR Norman A. Young.

Hold Institute On Government Friday, Feb. 29

The fourth annual Institute on Government will be held at Balboa Park February 29. The Institute is sponsored by various public employees' associations in the area in conjunction with San Diego State college.

Supervisory employees attending the Institute will be excused from duty without charge to leave and will be given credit for training under the Navy Department Employees Development Training Program, provided they submit a report of conference sessions attended. Non-supervisory employees who attend the Institute will be

Baseball, Softball To Start Monday

All candidates who wish to try out for the Skyraider varsity baseball or softball teams are urged to turn in their entries to the varsity athletic officer, Room 21, in the NAS Theater building, no later than Monday, February 25.

Workouts will commence at 1400 in the area behind the Theater.

Sked E3 Exams For March 20

Examinations for advancement from Pay Grade E-2 to Pay Grade E-3 will be conducted for NAS personnel at 0800, Thursday, March 20. The Exams will be held in the I&E spaces (Bldg. 317A).

Personnel must be recommended and have practical factors and training course requirements completed prior to March 1 to take the examination.

Division officers have been requested to submit recommendations for personnel considered qualified to the Military Personnel Officer prior to March 1.

Time-in-rate requirements must be satisfied by April 1 to qualify personnel for taking the examination.

Washington's Birthday Ball Tonight, 8:30

"Dance, so that polio victims may walk" is the theme of Civilian Welfare & Recreation Washington's Birthday Ball held tonight at the Balboa Park Club.

Tickets to the ball, which features Henry Busse and his orchestra, are still available at the Civilian Cafeeria, Navy Welfare Office, Employee Services Office, and from Division Civilian Recreation Committeemen during part of today. Tickets also may be purchased at the door at $1.00 per person.

The doors open at the Balboa Park Club at 8:00 p.m. Dancing will last from 8:30 to 12:30. Tables will be available with refreshments served.

A handsome array of door prizes have been arranged for the evening of fun by the dance committee.

All proceeds from the affair will be given to the San Diego chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. "It is a worthy cause," declared Judd Kenney, chairman of the Recreation association. "A number of personnel on the Island or members of their families have been polio victims and have received aid from the Foundation."

Fiscal Begins Moving Process to Bldg. 334

Two sections of the NAS Fiscal Division have completed the first of a two-step Fiscal relocation plan, according to an announcement made Monday by CAPT C. M. Boundy, the Supply & Fiscal Officer.

The relocation plan, announced late last year, will eventually bring most of the sections in the Supply and the Fiscal Divisions within the same operating area, thus facilitating departmental work.

Two remaining sections of Fiscal are still located in the south wing of Building 654, the former home of the entire division. However, these two sections, Payroll, and Civil Rolls Disbursing, plus the Machine Records division, will move before April 1 to the second deck of Building 334 in the adjoining spaces to the Cost & Reports and Store Returns sections which moved from the northwind of Building 654 last Saturday.

The area in 334 now being occupied by Fiscal underwent extensive renovation just prior to occupancy in preparation for these sections. Several other minor alterations will be made before occupancy by the other two sections.

A statement regarding the future use of Building 654, which will be entirely vacated by April, has not yet been made.

ComNab Praises Island's '51 Dimes' Contribution

Beth Moon, National Poster Girl (West Coast Division) of the 1951 March of Dimes joined RADM George R. Henderson, Commander Naval Air Bases for Eleventh and Twelfth Naval Districts, in thanking the officers, men and civilian employees of the Air Station for their record 1951 March of Dimes contribution.

Admiral Henderson awarded Captain W. L. Erdmann, Commanding Officer, NAS, a scroll commendation from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for the station's 1951 contribution which totaled 76% more than the 1950 drive.

Presentation ceremonies were held Friday in front of the station Administration Building.

In awarding the commendation, Admiral Henderson said, in part:

"In times of world strife, it is always heartwarming and reassuring to know that the American people and their Armed Forces continue their generous support of humanitarian aid to the unfortunate victims of polio.

The commendation signed by Basil O'Connor, President of the Foundation, read, in part:

"For outstanding assistance rendered the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, by the officers, enlisted personnel and civilians of the U. S. Naval Air Station in San Diego, California, this commendation is gratefully presented."

1951 NATIONAL POLIO POSTER GIRL, Beth Moon, witnessed the presentation of a commendation from the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis to NAS last Friday. RADM. George R. Henderson, ComNabs, presented the commendation to CAPT. W. L. Erdmann and assembled military and civilian representatives of the Station. The commendation was awarded the station for the 1951 March of Dimes contributions which totaled 76 per cent more than the 1950 contribution. The 1952 donation of NAS civilian and military personnel is expected to set an even higher record.

What! A Lecture On Moral Principles?

"A lecture on Moral Principles? Oh no! Not that! That's not for adults." Those are some of the comments we hear when Moral Principles are mentioned.

Does it seem elementary to you to hear a review of the moral law which God has given us in the Ten Commandments? Do you believe that God's Divine Law is only for the weak, and that the so called "he-man" of today doesn't need God's guidance?

If you belong to any of these categories, just remember that these principles have been the guiding light of our nation since its inception, and that our forefathers who sat down to write the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of our United States, were guided by these principles in which they declared: "That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

These moral principles came from God as Alexander Hamilton also affirmed: "The rights of mankind are not to be rummaged for among old parchments or musty records. They are written, as with a sunbeam, in the whole volume of human nature, by the hand of Divinity itself, and can never be erased or obscured by mortal power."

God's Divine Law must constantly be our guiding light. Benjamin Franklin believed that it was necessary to have these moral principles always before him. He confessed: "While my care was employed in guarding against one fault, I was often surprised by another; habit took the advantage of inattention; inclination was sometimes too strong for reason."

George Washington, whose birthday we are celebrating Friday, was guided by them, and fought for them. Do you suppose he felt they are not adults to cherish and continually review? Just listen to his prayer for our United States.

"Almighty God, we make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in thy holy protection, that Thou wilt incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government, and entertain a brotherly affection and love for one another and for their fellow citizens of the United States at large.

"And finally that Thou wilt most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy, and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility, and pacific temper of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion, and without an humble imitation of whose example in these things, we can never hope to be a happy nation.

"Grant our supplications, we beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

Would you call these principles outdated? If you think so, you had better examine your thinking. Maybe you are living in the wrong nation. Our nation will remain a strong nation as long as we adhere to God's law of right and wrong—not by any lofty moral principle created by man which can be changed by his own desires—for Scripture says, "Righteousness exhalteth a nation."

May God's Divine Law which is given us in the Ten Commandments, be reviewed again and again so that it will never be forgotten. And may it continue to be our guiding light throughout all generations.

The strength to abide by His Commandments is given us through Christ Jesus in Whom we confess, "I believe that Jesus Christ, true God begotten of the Father from eternity, and also true Man, born of the Virgin Mary, is my Lord; Who has redeemed me, a lost and condemned creature, bought me and freed me from all sins, from death, and from the power of the Devil; not with silver and gold, but with His holy and precious blood, and with His innocent sufferings and death; in order that I might be His own, live under Him in His kingdom, and serve Him in everlastng righteousness, nnocence, and blessedness; even as He is risen from the dead, and lives and reigns to all eternity. This is most certainly true."

THEODORE E. SCHULTZ,
Chaplain, U.S. Navy.

Quentin Roosevelt Blvd. Named for WW1 Pilot

One of the most attractive streets on the entire station is Quentin Roosevelt Boulevard which runs from Gowan Street past many of the NAS Overhaul and Repair buildings and the Administration Building to the Post Office-Navy Exchange area. This avenue honors one of the most outstanding of the early war pilots who had an active hand in Germany's defeat during World War I.

Air Corps pilot Quentin Roosevelt, the youngest son of President Theodore Roosevelt, was born at Oyster Bay, Long Island, New York, 1897.

Roosevelt, like his father, was interested in aviation all of his life and it was only natural that he should join the Air Force at the outbreak of World War I. He was one of the first American Pilots to go into action against the German Air Force on the Western Front and soon distinguished himself as a pilot.

However, Roosevelt was shot down and killed on July 14, 1918, while on a patrol mission. A few days after his plane was seen going down, a German aviator dropped a note to the men at Roosevelt's home base telling them that he had been shot down, killed, and buried by the Germans with full military honors.

THIS WEEK'S NEWS . . .
at a glance

The Los Angeles trial of the Communist Party leaders was brought close to home as San Diegan, Lloyd Norman Hamlin, took the stand as a Government witness. His story revealed seven years of undercover work for Naval Intelligence and the FBI.

The former Navy yeoman infiltrated into positions of leadership in local Party circles to obtain incriminating evidence. The disabled patriot had suffered the hatred of his acquaintances for seven years, but his past activity was vindicated when his testimony was made public.

We'll hear two big explosions this year. The United States has announced a new series of experimental atomic explosions on Eniwetok. There's been some speculation that the transfer of these experiments from Frenchman's Flats, Nevada to the Eniwetok Atoll means we're ready to detonate a hydrogen bomb.

The other big explosion is scheduled for the wastelands of Australia where British physicists are assembling to set off their first atomic weapon.

The Big Three decided against giving Germany equality in the Atlantic Pact Army . . . at least for the present. Such equality had been demanded by the Bonn Government as a condition of participation. As a partial compensation, Germany was awarded a seat on the four power appeal board to review and modify the sentences of over 1000 war criminals.

New developments in the Korean Truce talks found full agreement on a proposed postwar conference to settle the Korean question. This postwar conference will presumably deal with other issues relevant to the Far East.

The Iron Triangle was in the news again as Allied tank-led infantry launched the greatest offensive in a month against this Central Front bastion.

A New England blizzard that killed twenty-nine might also have resulted in the loss of fifty six seamen on two tankers caught at sea in the violent midwinter gale.

The two 10,000 ton vessels were snapped in two by the raging storm. Valiant Coast Guardsmen in whaleboats saved thirty two sailors as planes dropped flares to illuminate the area.

Heart Disease No. 1 Killer

February marked the annual American Heart Association's Heart Fund Drive. In order to give you a little greater knowledge of America's leading cause of death, here are a few of the more pertinent facts concerning this leading "killer".

According to the AMA, heart and blood vessel diseases are by far the most serious threat to our nation's life. Statistics show that heart diseases are responsible for more deaths than the next five leading causes combined.

Although heart disease does strike more people in the "over 50" age bracket, it is not a respector of the young. Next to accidents, it is responsible for more deaths in the 5 to 19-year old age group than any other cause. In the 20 to 34-year group, only tuberculosis strikes down more persons than does heart disease.

Despite these brutal facts, there is a bright side to the picture. Recent advances, according to the American Heart Association, in the diagnosis, treatment and prevention of heart diseases are creating "new hope". The AHA and its affiliates are attacking the heart diseases with a nation-wide program of research, education and community services.

The 1952 Heart Fund, conducted throughout the month of February, is seeking the finances needed to carry forward this vital program. In every section of the country, Americans are being asked to join the fight against heart disease by contributing to the Heart Fund.

IR DIVULGES

News of the birth of twins to Doris Kindschi, former Administrative Section Supervisor, reached this department 13 February—a boy and girl—no less. Mrs. Kindschi terminated her position last September.

Welcomes to: Shirley Borden and Rose Bolick in Files, and Eunice Guay in Personnel Actions. Miss Guay replaces Gerry Johnston, who resigned last Friday, with the momento of a lovely farewell luncheon in her honor.

Our Personnel File section is in a bad way—Beth O'Connell is down with the mumps, and Ann Turrentine is still out with the flu. What no measles??

Pensacola, Florida, is the destination of Dorothy Wasilewski, who left Thursday to join her husband who is in Flight Training down yonder.

Robert Norte, a former instructor in Vocational Training, is now with the Materials Testing Laboratory of O&R. Congratulations.

'Wilt Thou?'...and He Wilted, WAVE Proposes to Whitehat

Naval Air Station society cordially received the recent unexpected announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Davies of the engagement of their son, Douglas, TD1, to an NAS WAVE whose name has not yet been disclosed.

The engagement was announced simultaneously this week by the groom's parents in Detroit and by socialite Mrs. Tom Owens at a party given by her in the fashionable ship's service coffee shop. The groom, scion of a well-known Detroit family, has not selected a wedding date.

Mr. Davies admitted in an interview with the NORTH ISLANDER Society Editor that the Leap Year Proposal took place January 2. The bride-to-be presented the groom-to-be with a ruby solitaire and copper engagement ring late last week following an NAS WAVE basketball game.

Wedding plans are incomplete, but attendants have been chosen. Roger P. Lund, will be Master of Honor with Ray Morrison, AA; Charles Cooper, TD3; Hal Ruttan, TD3; and Douglas Dumka, TD3; as groomsmen. Mary Jo Ruckle, TD3; Martha Glover, TD1; Jean Kennedy, TD3, and Carolyn Huntington, TD2 will be usherettes. Don McCracken, TD2, and Helen Tremmel, TD3, will be flower boy and ring bearer respectively.

The groom has chosen fawn's foot brown for his wedding ensemble with chlorine green accessories. His travel outfit will be Navy blue with white accessories.

A reception will be held following the ceremony in the palatial Ready Room of Building 268, the Celestial Navigation Building where the groom and attendants are stationed.

ELECTRONS

By "Windy" Splichal

Harold Vavra, Chief Quarterman of the Electronics Div., left NAS last week to take over his father's business in San Diego. He will be greatly missed here, but we wish him every success in his business.

Paul and Lorraine Anderson wish to thank all their friends from Radio and Radar Shop who contributed to the lovely wedding gift presented to them.

Congratulations to Frank and Delores Cervantes, who became the proud parents of a baby boy. Young Tommy made his debut into San Diego at the Mercy Hospital, at the wee hour of 0613 on February 10.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Kimble have returned from San Francisco, where they were visiting their daughter who just returned from Guam.

"Welcome back to work", is the greeting all of Pat O'Neil's friends are giving him. Pat has just returned to work after treatment at the Naval Hospital at Long Beach.

Rita Hunt has been on leave to entertain relatives visiting her from Hutchinson, Kansas.

Lucy Sanders is very happy indeed, because her son is home from Camp Gordon, Ga., for a week before he has to report to San Francisco, California for further orders.

Marie Breck and her husband spent last week end enjoying themselves in the desert at Salton Sea.

The new line leader in 4259 is Lavandles Mack. Congratulations and may the good work continue.

Eula Brown is back to work after being home with her husband who had a heart attack a few weeks ago. She tells us that Irvin is sitting up now and feeling very good. Get well soon, boy we need you back in 4264-3.

Helen Davis and Cecilia De Swan celebrated birthdays the past week. Each had a lovely cake from friends in the plug shop.

11ND Keg Tourney To Begin March22

The Seventh Annual Eleventh Naval District bowling tournament will be held starting March 22. All games will be played at the Pacific Recreation Bowling Alleys.

Tournament contestants must be civilian employees of the U.S. Navy in San Diego, City and County, and members of their family unless they belong to a sanctioned 11th Naval District Bowling league.

The tournament will be run under A.B.C. and W.I.B.C. rules, and contestants will play ten games across 10 alleys in two 5 game series.

Scoring will be based on a ⅔ handicap against a 200 scratch. Handicaps for the tournament will be established as follows: Men: the highest official average as of 1 May 1951. Women: highest known average as of women's book 1951.

No bowler will be permitted a drop of more than 5 pins from his or her 1950 book average. Present league average February 1st will be used in the absence of an average listed. Contestants having no established averages as specified may enter at 190 for men and 170 for women.

Individual prizes will be awarded to both men and women which will consist of trophies and cash prizes (first through tenth place).

Entry fee to the tournament will be $4.00. Contact your league officers or send your name and entry fee to the Employee Services office, Bldg. 415, by midnight 14 March 1952. Registrations will not be accepted without entry fees.

Matmen to Host SD State Monday

After tripping up San Diego State in a duel meet at the Aztec gym last Friday night, the Skyraider wrestlers will host a return match with the Montezumans Monday, 25 February between 1100 and 1300 at the NAS Mainside Gym.

The matmen won by virtue of a 26-18 score. Results:

115—Asner (SDSC) won by forfeit: 122—Kokley (SDSC) won by forfeit: 130—Robinson (SDSC) pinned Mehl (AP) 4:06; 137—Townley (AP) pinned Reetz (SDSC), 2:17; 147—Vonk (AP) dec. Chamberlin (SDSC; 157—Dillow (AP) pinned Smith (SDSC), 2:58; 167—Castleman AP) dec. Lavin (SDSC); 177—Baumgartner (AP) pinned Johns (SDSC) 1:41; 191—Wilhite (AP) pinned Ray (SDSC) 6:22; Hvwt. Jeffries (SDSC) dec. Walters (AP).

A major shot in the arm for the Skyraider basketballers is William H. "Duke" Snider, of the Navy Weather Central Division.

Completing the Captain's Cup basketball league last month, Duke reported to the Skyraider varsity basketball team and was awarded a starting position as a guard. He hails from Reading, Pennsylvania where he played for Reading Central Catholic High School. Upon graduation Duke played for Columbia University until last season when he entered the Navy.

Seals, Jackwin to 'Meet the Champ'

Skyraider boxing coach John Goudy announced this week that Kirby Seals and Ed Jackwin will be the two fighters from this station to "Meet the Champ" here February 28th. A third bout between Edgar Buffaloe and an undecided opponent will be scheduled in case of an early knockout.

The current heavyweight champ is Lucius Tate, San Francisco's 1951 Golden Gloves champ. This will mark the second meeting between Seals and Tate, who fought last year for the State AAU title, with Kirby taking the decision.

Ed Jackwin will meet Lloyd House, welter champ from Camp Lejeune.

The show will be televised over a coast-to-coast hook-up, an will consist of four 2 minute rounds, the first bout scheduled to start at 5:45, with the TV show getting under way at 6:30. It will be televised direct to the east coast, but will not be seen by San Diego audiences until a week later.

SLATTERY, SEALS WIN IN CONVAIR SMOKER

Bill Slattery and Kirby Seals both copped a win in a Convair Smoker last Saturday night at the Coliseum. Slattery decisioned Miller from CruDesPac, while Seals battered Harold Kilman around the ring for two rounds, before the referee stopped the fight in the third. Judging by Seals' sharp punching, it looks to us like he is in condition, and ready for Sanders.

Jimmy Vacca, Skyraider flyweight, whose bout with Syl Grant didn't come off, was forced to fight a more experienced Johnny Eugenio. Eugenio got the decision after a much sharper showing than in the L.A. Golden Gloves.

Vacca, who still rates as a novice, will fight in that division when the AAU tournament comes up. Maybe he'll meet somebody with the same amount of experience, instead of a more finished product.

ALL-AMERICAN SWIMMER ABOARD

Charles R. Jensen, a product of Bakersfield High School and Junior College, and an All-American swimmer in 1949 and 1950, reported aboard NAS this week.

Specializing in the 100 yard event, Jensen swims it in 57.2; 7.5 seconds behind the world's record of 49.7 set in 1944 by Allen Ford of New Haven, Connecticut.

Jensen was awarded the Helm's Athletic award in 1950, and holds the record for the Individual Medley relay in the 220 and 400 at Bakersfield J.C.

We think this twenty-one year old lad can do great things for the Skyraider swimming team next season.

CAVANAUGH WITH MEET THE CHAMP

Billy Cavanaugh, former instructor of the West Point boxing team for 30 years, is here at NAS this week as a member of the Program Management Committee with the "Meet the Champ" show. Those familiar in boxing circles will more than likely remember him as one of the top professional referees in New York a few years back.

He entered his first fight under the name of Billy Glover at the age of 14, and has over 200 fights to his credit. Retiring as an undefeated lightweight in 1910, he stayed away from fighting until 1915 when he made a comeback as a middleweight.

During his refereeing career he handled many of the more famous fighters, among those include Joe Louis, Billy Conn, Fred Apostoli, Barney Ross, and Henry Armstrong. He also managed his younger brother, Mike Glover, who was considered the uncrowned world's welterweight champ.

NACRA GOLF

Joe Randall, and Sam Leach both of O&R won the A and B Flights last Saturday at the Circle R Golf Course in a match play against par with scores of plus 5 and plus 3 respectively.

The next tournament will be the seventh annual President's Cup starting 1 March at the Agua Caliente links.

Entries should be filed immediately.

Chief Awarded Air Medal At ALF Ream Ceremonies

In the ceremonies held at ALF Ream last week, Paul E. Slavin, ADC, was awarded the Air Medal by CDR D. S. Billett Jr. The award was made during HU-1 change of command ceremonies which saw CDR Billett turn over the reins of the squadron to LCDR H. M. Kosciusko.

Donald L. Hamm, AT3, and Williams S. Covington, ATAN, were presented the Sikorsky "Winged S" award on the same day.

Chief Slavin received the Air Medal for distinguishing himself as aircrewman and hoist operator of a helicopter which was engaged in gun spotting, mine sweeping and rescue flights over hostile North Korean and Chinese Communist positions during the period from 30 March to 28 May 1951.

Covington was awarded the Air Medal for services as aircrewman in a helicopter on a successful combat rescue mission far behind enemy lines of North Korea to rescue a downed United Nations pilot.

The "Winged S" award was presented to Hamm for having participated in a life saving rescue mission in the Korean theater. The "Winged S" Award consists of a citation and a lapel pin, which is awarded by the Sikorsky Helicopter Corporation to the pilots, crewmen and those rescued while using a Sikorsky type helicopter to effect a life saving rescue.

Ream Library Ready for Use

The time and efforts of one person, have contributed more to the off hours pleasure of the personnel of ALF Ream than any other single individual on the base.

Miss Mildred F. Andrews, normally the regular NAS librarian, has spent her Tuesdays and Thursdays keeping her head above the stacks of requests for this book and that book, and in the main has satisified everyone.

It was planned to have a library on the base from the beginning, and when the time came to activate it, Miss Andrews cheerfully and thoroughly guided the appointed personnel to put things in the right places and to handle the job of librarian as it should be done.

In November of 1951, there were over 3,000 books delivered to the small ALF Ream Library and thru hard work, Miss Andrews has catalogued, stamped, posted and printed in over 1,600 books to make them available to the shelves.

Aside from the job of organizing this library, Miss Andrews also has the responsibility of maintaining the operation of the NAS Library, and the supervision of its personnel.

Helicopter Squadron ONE has furnished men to work in and maintain the library as well as an Officer-in-Charge, LTJG R. G. Powell, Special Services Officer of the Squadron. The man behind the desk is Wesley Basham, AN.

GERALD S. SOTA, AN, tees off on golf. He is a member of VU-7's golf team which will compete in FAD's 4th quarter tournament.

Ream Golfers Prep

Golfers from VU-7 are ready for the 4th quarter of Fleet Air Detachment sports.

The following men have reported to help make the VU-7ers the top golf team. LCDR R. W. Henson, LT. M. S. Willeford, LT G. P. Jacob, LT J. S. Crumley, LT W. J. O'Brien, Ens. J. G. Schulte, R. G. Johnson, ADC, J. B. Russo, ADC, (AP), J. M. Busby, YNSN, C. E. Sgambati, AN, G. S. Sota, AN, and R. L. Roeper, ATAN.

Top golf talent has turned out for the team and promises to make VU-7 one of the highest competitors for ComAirPac championship.

Chapel Services will be held at ALF Ream Sunday as follows:

NAS Civilian-Military Donate Blood Tuesday, Goal Set At 320 Pints

Tuesday, March 4, will be the next blood donation day for the Armed Forces. The goal calls for donations from 300 civilians and 120 military personnel.

Because the bloodmobile unit will be available only during a portion of the day, a close scheduling of blood donors has been made. The blood unit will have to receive an average of over 80 pints an hour to reach the goal.

Military personnel have been scheduled to donate between 0800 and 0930 and civilians from 0930 to 1300.

Civilians wishing to donate should see their supervisors or shop personnel supervisors for appointments. Military personnel are asked to contact their leading chief.

Donors are cautioned not to eat anything for a four hour period prior to donation time. They may, however, drink fruit juices and tea or coffee without cream or sugar.

AIR STATION PRAISED FOR BLOOD DONATIONS

The Industrial Relations Department received a letter recently from Mrs. Marguerite Rasberry, Director of the Blood Program for the San Diego chapter of the Red Cross. The Station was cited for a recent 100 pint donation to the Armed Forces. The letter read in part:

"On behalf of the Red Cross Blood Donor Recruitment Committee, I wish to express appreciation to everyone who participated in this endeavor. This is another indication of the fine patriotic spirit of the Naval Air Station employees and shows their awareness of the blood requirements nationally as well as locally."

Radm Soucek Takes CarDiv 3 Post in Tuesday Ceremonies

RADM A. Soucek, became Commander of Carrier Division THREE during ceremonies held Tuesday. RADM J. J. Clark, who was relieved of the command, will become Commander First Fleet next month.

RADM Soucek formerly was Naval Attache in London. Prior to his London duty, he commanded Fleet Air Wing One, commanding units at Okinawa, Tsingtao, Yokosuka, and other Far East points.

During World War II he served as Air Officer, and later Executive Officer aboard the Aircraft carrier USS HORNET. Later he served as Operations Officer on the staff of Commander Air Force, Pacific Fleet, when the command was at Pearl Harbor.

During his career as a flyer, RADM Soucek was a member of the famed "Gray Angels." He has recently flown the Navy's FH1 "Phantom", F2H "Banshee," and the Air Force's F-80 "Shooting Star". In 1930, he set an altitude record by flying an "Apache" to the altitude of 43,000 feet. His record stood for more than two years.

RADM J. J. Clark, took command of Carrier Division THREE in early October, taking over in Korean waters. He simultaneously served as Commander Carrier Task Force 77, with the Carrier USS BON HOMME RICHARD as his flagship. The carrier division returned to San Diego in December, after almost ten months overseas.

IRD To Issue Civ. Committee Election Info

A Station Notice announcing Civilian Shop Committee and Welfare & Recreation Committee elections has been planned for issuance next week, the Industrial Relations Department has announced.

The Department also said that petitions for nominating committee candidates will be available when the Station Notice is published.

An outline of procedures for nominations and elections will be published in next week's North Islander.

Board Plans to Review Navy's Rate Structure

A Navy Rating Structure Review Board will convene in the Bureau of Naval Personnel in April to consider possible changes in the present rating structure.

The Board will review all recommendations submitted and it is expected that many changes will be accepted. Some new ratings may be established while others could be done away with or combined. Certain jobs may be classified under other ratings and new jobs placed under those that previously did not contain them.

Due to the progressive development of such weapons as guided missiles, jet planes, electronics and atomic subs, the Navy's rating structure must undergo changes to keep in line with these materiel and technical developments. Throughout the years it has kept pace with the expanding concepts of modern naval warfare.

In considering the rating structure the Board will take up the problem of emergency service as well as general service ratings. The emergency service structure is designed to be put into effect in the event of war, so that train-

Islander Tops 40; Is Pacific Soaring Champ

Dave Boone, Inspector in Building 94, topped a field of more than forty glider pilots last weekend to take the Pacific Coast Soaring Championship held at Torrey Pines.

Boone, in his blue and white modified Laister-Kaufman glider, took both the distance and two-place distance events, as well as the John J. Montgomery Memorial trophy, by covering 12 miles before landing in Mission Valley.

He scored 59½ points, compared to 53 for the runner-up and defending trophy holder, John Loufek, of Long Beach.

Two other Islanders, John Swinson and Ernie Shattuck, also placed in the meet. Swinson missed first place by having to return to Montgomery field after soaring out past Boone's distance but was unable to land east of Camp Elliott. He took third place in the distance event. Shattuck took third place in the bomb drop event.

Roman Benn and Harvey Kline, also from North Island, acted as officials during the meet.

The meet, which was witnessed by more than 10,000 persons from the San Diego area, was sponsored by the Southern Associated Glider Clubs of San Diego and the Junior Chamber of Commerce. More than 20 sailplanes were entered from clubs from Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Birthday Ball Was Success

Six-hundred-fifty people danced to the music of Henry Busse last Thursday, February 21, at the Washington's Birthday Ball, sponsored by the NAS Civilian Welfare & Recreation Assoc. Proceeds from the dance went to the March of Dimes to fight polio.

The dance, considered one of the most successful employee dances, was held at the Balboa Park Club.

It was, indeed, a successful dance for the 24 persons who received the impressive array of door-prizes awarded at the ball. Winners and prizes are listed below.

NAS Designated Sponsor of 1952 Navy Relief Carnival

The Naval Air Station has been designated as the sponsor of the 1952 Navy Relief Carnival by the Commandant, 11th Naval District. To be held at Navy Field, San Diego, the Carnival is scheduled for July 31, August 1, 2, and 3.

LCDR H. I. Pemberton, NAS Public Information Officer, has been appointed chairman of the Carnival Committee by CAPT W. L. Erdman, Commanding Officer. CAPT Erdmann also named the following officers to assist LCRD Pemberton:

LCDR H. I. PEMBERTON

LCDR B. W. Williams, LCDR J. H. Knoche, LCDR R. J. Jennings, LT H. C. Boudreau, LT R. W. Marshall, LTJG J. C. Smith, CHBOSN W. S. Mainord, CHRELE G. L. Williamson, PACT C. A. Gore, Jr., and WOHC T. J. Callahan, III.

The Carnival is an annual affair in the San Diego area and is a means by which the Navy Relief Society receives a major portion of its working capital. The San Diego auxiliary of the Society netted $73,000 from the 1951 Carnival.

CO Inspection Friday, March 7

Commanding Officers' personnel inspection for all station personnel will be held next Friday, March 7. Divisions will fall in at 0700 in the area south of buildings 379 and 333. Assembly and inspection will be held at 0730.

The uniform designated for the inspection will be service dress blue baker with gloves for officers; service dress blue baker with gloves for chief petty officers; and service dress blue baker for other enlisted personnel.

Identification cards and tags may be inspected.

Transportation Cites Eleven For Longevity

Eleven Transportation Department civilians chalked up long-distance marks on Tuesday when Sidney L. Patterson, Transportation Officer, presented them with service awards. The twenty-year milestone was reached by William Fritz, while those receiving 10-year Service Awards at the ceremony were: Thomas H. Fox, Charles G. Gowens, Carl P. Schaefer, Edwin H. Benbough, Clarence L. Lund, John B. Thul, Bernice W. Hamilton, Bert R. Crotts, Joe G. Quintero and Charles H. Bloemecke.

Lord Teach Me to Pray

"More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of."

Prayer of St. Francis of Assisi

Lord, make me an instrument of your peace,
Where there is hatred, let me sow love;
Where there is injury, pardon;
Where there is doubt, faith;
Where there is despair, hope;
Where there is darkness, light; and
Where there is sadness, joy.
O, Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console;
To be understood as to understand;
To be loved as to love.
For it is in giving that we receive;
It is in pardoning that we are pardoned.
And it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.

Wright Street Named For Aviation Pioneers

The street that passes in front of the Security Building is Wright Street. This street, one of those most used on the station, was named for the pioneers of aviation, the Wright brothers.

In 1895, the Wright brothers read about the gliding experiments of Otto Lilienthal in Germany. When they heard that in 1896 Lilienthal had been killed in one of his experiments, they wondered if they could go on from where he and others had left off.

After several years of studying the flying habits of birds, and receiving as much information as possible from other interested people, the Wright Brothers assembled their first glider, at a cost of $15. After several successful flights and the setting of new records, the Wrights turned their attention toward the possibility of flying a motor driven aeroplane.

On December 17, 1903, the Wright Brothers made the first man carrying flight of any appreciable distance. The distance over ground was 852 feet, and the length of time aloft was 59 seconds.

From that date on, the achievements of the Wright Brothers are history.

On December, 1948, the forty-eighth anniversary of the first flight, the original aircraft was brought back from England and was formally installed in the National Museum at Washington.

The craft is now on display at the Institute as a permanent shrine to the memory of these "who did more for the modern aviation age than any other two men."

On the label of the plane, as it stands today, is inscribed the following: "By original scientific research the Wright Brothers discovered the principles of human flight as inventors, builders, and flyers. They further developed the aeroplane, taught men to fly, and opened the era of aviation."

This Week's News
at a glance

The lighter side of the International situation . . . that people of the various nations can get together was shown in Norway at the ending of the first phase of the Olympic Games. The host country won first place with the United States, Finland and Austria following in that order. Winner of two gold medals was American feminine ski entry Andrea Mead Lawrence.

The Lisbon meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization concluded with the drafting of a master plan to put an Allied army of 45 to 50 divisions in the field by the end of 1952. The total estimated cost is $300 millions with a proportionate share to be borne by each member nation. Although this has been the result of continuous conferences and compromises by the various foreign ministers, added debate will ensue in each of the nations' legislative bodies before the plan is concluded.

A new pessimism surrounds the United Nation's truce team at Panmunjom. The latest assumption is that the Reds will delay the talks until weather conditions make a Spring offensive possible.

In other developments, the UN team refused to acknowledge Russia as a "neutral" nation in the Korean conflict. The Russians had been one of the Reds' choices to supervise the armistice. The United Nations negotiators had suggested that Russia and Norway be dropped thus leaving two representatives of each side; Sweden and Switzerland for the United Nations and Poland and Czechoslovakia for the Communists.

A riot in the United Nation's prisoner of war camp on Koje Island resulted in the deaths of some prisoners and guards. The Red delegates have accused the United States of "barbarous massacre" of prisoners.

Snow clouds finally broke over the Korean Front enabling Allied artillery to blast at enemy concentrations, and air units to resume their task of bombing troop concentrations and communication lines. The renewed activity followed a lull in which only weather reconnaissance planes took to the air.

The situation in Indo-China is perilous. French and anti-Communist Viet-Nam troops were forced to withdraw into a smaller perimeter as a result of defeats suffered this past weekend.

The Federal Appeals Court upheld Judge Irving R. Kaufman's death sentence of Julius Rosenberi and his wife Ethel. The scientists, parents of two boys, were convicted in Judge Kaufman's court of giving atom bomb secrets to Soviet Russia.

Once more up for consideration by the United States Senate is the perennial bill to give statehood to the territorial possessions, Alaska and Hawaii. Action will be forthcoming the latter part of the week.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill won a vote of confidence in Parliament this week. The Labor Party Opposition sought a vote of censure of the Conservative's foreign policy. In defending his policy, Mr. Churchill revealed that English atomic research had been so secretive that he did not know until after his election in October that England possessed an atomic bomb.

Of local interest was the successful passage of three measures to increase the San Diego area water supply. All three proposals were carried by sizeable majorities.

Red Cross Drive in March

Start of the 1952 Red Cross fund appeal gets underway tomorrow with a month-long drive aimed at enlisting the support of all NAS Military and civilian personnel.

Departmental representatives selected this week were addressed by the local Red Cross Director at a special meeting held yesterday, at which time plans and procedures were outlined to guarantee the maximum success of this year's Red Cross Month. Station coordinators for the drive are LCDR J. L. Morrissey, Administration Officer, and Mr. H. W. Goods, Personnel Relations Superintendent.

All station personnel are encouraged to contribute voluntarily.

About Books
'Hound-Dog Men,' Fishermen Subject of Two New Books

Two new books received at the Station library are well calculated for appealing to outdoorsmen, particularly hunters and hound-dog men. Tales of Quails 'N Such by Havilah Babcock is a selection of, in the authors words, "lazy, loose-fingered and rambling accounts of my jaunts afoot."

Whether it's covey dogs or single-bird dogs, Babcock has known a few in his time, and he has set down some observations about the personalities of some of these canine acquaintances. On fishing, he speculates "Why Does a Bass Strike?" His theories are stimulating whether you agree or not.

A. R. Beverley-Giddings has edited Frank Forester's On Upland Shooting. Forester, a mid-nineteenth century American sportsman, is to shooting perhaps what Isaak Walton was to fishing. The editor selects what he considers the best of Forester's writings and has added chapters of his own to bring the book up-to-date on hunting dogs and guns and on methods of hunting Snipe, Woodcock, Plover, Quail, Grouse, and Rail.

THE FAR EAST by A. D. C. Peterson. Termed "A Social Geography of Asia Today," this book attempts to probe into the religious and political attitudes of the oriental in order to clarify some of the vital problems that exist in Asia. This widely-travelled Englishman gives current reports on such important subjects as: the Chinese Communists, the Hindu caste system, the social and economic structure of Korea, Far Eastern Russia, India, Pakistan, Siam, Malaya, Philippines. He describes the impact of the Hindu, Buddha, Mohammedan, and Christian religions on the oriental cultures.

State Income Tax Data Available

Members of the Armed Forces of the United States who are residents of the State of California are required to pay an income tax under the California Personal Income Tax Law.

Under the provisions of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, which is in effect, the State of California may not tax compensation for military service performed in California by a non-resident. Non-resident members of the military service are, of course, taxable on any income other than compensation for military service derived from a California source.

Majority Transitory

The Act provides, in effect, that a member of the military forces with permanent domicile outside of California who enters the state under military orders is presumed to be in California for a temporary and transitory purpose.

Unless he has taken steps to establish a legal residence in the state, he is not a resident for income tax purposes. The fact that he has purchased a home because of the housing conditions or because it is economically advantageous for him to do so without any intention of establishing the home as a place of domicile would not affect his status as a non-resident.

Filing Dates

Personal income tax returns made on the basis of the calendar year shall be filed on or before 15 April following the close of the calendar year. Returns made on the basis of a fiscal year shall be filed on or before the 15th day the fourth month following the close of the fiscal year.

The office of the California State Income Tax Division is located in the San Diego Trust and Savings Bldg., Room 242, and provides assistance without charge in making out California individual income tax returns. Persons in the San Diego area in need of assistance or advice on the income tax law should consult the above office.

Security Badge Section Clicks A Fast Shutter

Ever meet anybody with a light-proof, fire-resistant, fade-proof face? If you're an NAS civilian employee, that description applies to your own face—the one you carry on your identification badge, that is.

Taking your picture for this purpose is the primary function of the Security Department's Badge Section in Building 415, where every day new employees are supplied with these sturdy NAS passports. As a further security measure, each badge's dotted surface allows the easy detection of any incision mark or erasure that might appear on its face or on the photo beneath.

A. C. Lotten, ADC, who supervises the photo-taking process, estimates that the average time elapsed between snapping the picture and pinning on the finished badge is four minutes. But Lotten and his two assistants, R. D. Dellar, EN, and R. L. Ahrens, FA, can turn out up to 250 badges per day when the work-load requires, in which case the operation is speeded up accordingly.

Photographs are taken with the Tamperpruf Identification Machine, whose loading cartridge holds enough film for approximately 1,000 separate I.D. pictures. Up to 40 images can be developed at a time, but the normal procedure is to complete each badge separately on a "while you wait" basis. After the picture is developed, it is die-cut to fit the badge and affixed to the metal back on a special pressing machine.

The circular badges now worn by nearly all NAS civilian employees replace the former square-type, laminated cards in use last year. Conversion of supervisors' old style badges, still being worn, is scheduled for the near future. The new cellulose acetate-coated badge utilizes 13 different rim colors, each representing a specific NAS department.

Occasionally the I. D. machine develops a quirk, reports Lotten, such as the time a batch of pictures came out with one subject's shoulders topping the next poser's forehead.

Another minor headache experienced by Lotten, Dellar and Aherns is the new employee with the elongated name. The board upon which they set up the subject's name normally holds a maximum of twelve letters. So when a man called W. R. Dinglehoofer, Jr., walks in to have a badge made, a squeeze play is definitely in order.

Too, there are always the female subjects who shudder when they see their images on the finished badge, and vehemently demand a re-take. The answer is always "No," says Dellar.

Regarding the proper wear and care of badges. H. Trendell, GMC, in charge of the Badge Section, offers some pertinent reminders. He urges all employees whose badges have become damaged through droppage or other accident to report the matter to their supervisors, and obtain departmental authorization to bring them in for immediate renewal.

Trendell also cautions against defacement of badges for decorative purposes or for the attachment of clasps, which is punishable by disciplinary action. Misuse of Naval or official passes, he further points out, can result in five years' imprisonment or a $2,000 fine. The latter violations include falsely making, forging or altering such passes, as well as their illegal possession, or transfer for use by any other person.

VFW Entertains With Party-Dance

The monthly party-dance sponsored by the Coronado VFW and Auxiliary was held Tuesday night at the VFW Hall, 6th and Orange in Coronado. This was perhaps one of the most fun-fested parties yet, with music furnished by the popular CreDesPac band.

Mid-way between the dance, personnel were entertained by the singing antics of Barbara Webb, and piano accompanist Morrie Swanson.

Dances are held on the fourth Tuesday of every month, and are free to all military personnel and their guests. Dancing hostesses are provided for the occasion. Free refreshments are served throughout the dance.

'Bing-Ding' Returns From Korea Tomorrow

Completing her second tour of duty in Korean waters, the USS BADOEING STRAIT is scheduled to arrive in San Diego March 1.

The ship is commanded by Captain Roy L. Johnson, USN, of Virginia Beach, Virginia, and his Executive Officer is Commander E. H. C. Fredericks, USN, of San Diego, California. The CVE also serves as flagship for Rear Admiral H. E. Regan, USN, Commander Carrier Division 17.

On September 15, 1950 the "BING-DING" left San Diego for Korea where she participated in anti-submarine warfare patrols. She returned to San Diego in February 1951.

In December 1951 the "BING-DING" began her second tour of duty in Korea with Task Force 95 just south of the 38th parallel. This time the carrier had Marine Fighter Squadron 212 on board. From her deck the famed "Devil-cat" squadron launched effective offensive strikes against the Communists. Concentrating on transportation facilities and supply areas the VMF-212 pilots made 1,028 strikes totaling 250,000 miles of flying and dropped 150 tons of ammunition. Aside from killing 750 enemy troops the Marine pilots put many highways and railroad bridges out of action.

Navy Wives Club To Meet March 10

Navy Wives Clubs will hold a Regional District meeting in the Community Hall, Frontier Housing, 3355 Buckmaster Drive, March 10. There will be two sessions: 1000 to 1200 and 1300 to 1500. The two local clubs, No. 3 and No. 96, will be hostesses to club members coming from various parts of California, Nevada and Arizona.

Mrs. Waneta Gizara, National vice-president of Navy Wives Clubs of America, will be there to represent Long Beach. Business of the coming convention will be discussed.

S&F Top Civilian Transfers to 11ND

Appointment as Assistant District Civilian Personnel Director, 11th Naval District, will mark commencement of his 25th year in Federal service for Arthur F. Freeman, Supply and Fiscal Administrative Officer, who leaves NAS today after a long and successful association.

Mr. Freeman began his career on the Island as a stockman in March, 1928. A short time later he became engaged in Stock Control clerical work, and continued to serve in that category until early in World War II.

Freeman's wartime duties as a lieutenant in the Naval Supply Corps, from 1942 to 1945, included still further service at North Island, as well as an assignment at the Naval Supply Center, Oakland, Calif.

Upon his return to the NAS S & F Department, Freeman served as Chief Clerk until his appointment last year as Planning Division Supervisor. His superior handling of his administrative duties, including budget and personnel ceiling control functions, have merited the respect and admiration of his many associates, all of whom wish him continued success in his new position.

COLUMN RIGHT

ITEMS OF INFORMATION FOR CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

COLUMN RIGHT—Is your column. Its purpose is to answer questions of general interest which affect your employment. Forward all questions to: "COLUMN RIGHT," c/o Industrial Relations Department, Building 415, or deposit them in the Beneficial Suggestion Boxes.

Q. WHAT ARE SOME OF THE PERMISSIBLE ACTIVITIES IN RELATION TO POLITICAL ACTIVITY FOR GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES?

A. YOU MAY:

1. Retain the right to vote as you may choose.

2. Express political opinions with the reservation that employees may not take any active part in political management or in political campaigns.

3. Make voluntary contributions to a regularly constituted political organization, provided such contributions are not made in a Federal building or to some other Federal employee within the scope of the statutes.

4. Display a political picture in your home.

5. Wear a political badge or button or display a political sticker on your private automobile. However, it is unlawful for any public servant to make a partisan display of any kind while on duty conducting the public business.

6. Be a member in Young Democratic Clubs, Young Republican Clubs, League of Women Voters, American Federation of Labor, Congress of Industrial Organizations, and Civil Service Reform Associations.

7. Engage in nonpartisan political activity in connection with candidacy for local office which is to be filled in a wholly nonpartisan election where none of the candidates is running as representing a political party.

8. Serve as election officers, provided that, in so doing, you do not engage in partisan activities, or partisan political management. The controlling factor is the manner in which you conduct yourself and not the method of your appointment as election officer. If you engage in only the normal duties of an election officer in the manner prescribed by state and local law, no political activity violation is involved.

9. You may sign a nominating petition but cannot initiate a petition or canvass for signature of others if petition is identified with a partisan political camp.

CLINARD CHAMBERS, ADC, sits at the wheel of the NAS deepsea fishing boat, "Shipmate." Chief Chambers says the fishing should be getting better within the next two weeks and expects more Islanders will take advantage of Special Services facilities for fishing.

'Shipmate' Is Ready For Deep Sea Fishing Season

Clinard F. Chambers, ADC, skipper of the fishing boat "Shipmate," extends an invitation to all station personnel, their dependents and guests to make reservations for fishing trips off the Coronado Islands. Reservations may be obtained by calling the boathouse or Special Services and should be made not less than 72 hours before departing time and not more than two months in advance.

Box lunches are prepared for those not on communitive rations and all fishing gear except hooks and sinkers are provided by the boat. Only eight fishermen may make the trip at a time and the only charge is for bait.

The "Shipmate," a 35 foot boat built on a Japanese hull, departs from the boathouse at 0600 sharp every Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday so it is advised to be ready by 0530. You will be in for a good day's fishing as the boat does not return until 1500. Fishing experience is not needed as the boat's crew, Chief Chambers, J. Crawford, AN, and J. L. Lessard, AM3, offer any helpful information to those who need or ask for it.

Only bottom fishing prevails at the present but live bait season should start around March first. The experts predict a hot live-bait season in this vicinity as the waters are at a warmer temperature than they have been in the last sixty years and an early run of Yellowtail is expected.

Aside from Yellowtail angling in this vicinity, there are barracuda, sea bass, a few stray Marlin and many other big game fish with which you will be able to test your skill. A good example of this is the 306 pound bass Chief Chambers caught on a 36 pound test line last year. This, by the way, tied the world's record for a light tackle catch. Another example of surprises out of the "deep six" came when Chief Chambers and Crawford tied into two Marlin off the Coronado Island shores.

Remember, good times are in store on all fishing trips whether or not there is a big catch, so come on out for the fun and excitement of deep sea fishing.

Red Cross' Part In Armed Forces Blood Program Described

Sam B. Montgomery, manager of the Pacific Area of American Red Cross, in a special report on the Defense Blood Program clarified a number of questions civilian and military personnel have asked.

Mr. Montgomery stated that on July 20, 1950, less than one month after the beginning of hostilities in Korea, when the critical need for whole blood, plasma and other blood derivatives became apparent, the American Red Cross was requested by the Department of Defense to collect blood on an emergency basis from its established centers for shipment to Korea. These first supplies of whole blood were obtained entirely from Red Cross regional blood centers throughout the United States and converged by air on San Francisco. The first shipment of whole blood arrived in Tokyo August 30, 1950.

Collect 27,300 Pints In Pacific Area

A few weeks later several Pacific Coast private and community blood banks were asked to help procure blood for Korea. By December 1950, thousands of pints of whole blood were collected by the Red Cross in cooperation with blood banks and given to the Department of Defense for use in Korea. Of the total amount, about 27,300 pints were collected in the Pacific area.

The initial operation was financed entirely by the Red Cross, and no reimbursement was requested or received from the Department of Defense. Community blood bank cooperating in this program were reimbursed from Red Cross funds.

Contract with Defense Dept.

On December 1, 1950 a formal contract between the Department of Defense and the Red Cross became effective. This contract provides that the Red Cross shall be reimbursed for collection of blood for use by the Armed Forces.

Blood procured for defense purposes is sent either to (1) commercial laboratories for processing into plasma and other derivatives, or (2) shipped to Japan and Korea as whole blood.

Blood Property of Defense Dept.

Commercial laboratories are under contract to the Department of Defense. When the blood reaches the laboratories, it becomes the property of the Department of Defense and the American Red Cross has no further control over it. Plasma and other derivatives are distributed by the Department of Defense and not the American Red Cross.

From December 1950 to December 1951 the Red Cross delivered 396,507 units of blood from the Pacific area to the Defense Department.

Pacific Area: 500,000 Pint Quota

The Red Cross believes that present facilities and arrangements to collect blood for the Armed Forces are adequate, provided donors will contribute as well as they have during the past year in this area. A quota of 500,000 pints was assigned to the Pacific region for the fiscal year beginning July 1951. This quota has been met for the first six months of the fiscal year.

The San Diego Blood Bank, through its mobile unit, collects blood for the Red Cross to send to the Department of Defense aboard the Station. The Bloodmobile comes aboard once a month for military donations, and once every two months for civilian donations for the Armed Forces.

CC's 'Operation Dirt' Requires Clean Sweep

SWEEP, SWAB, RUB, SCRUB . . . That's the unwritten code of North Island's own Compartment Cleaners.

Every morning the word "muster" puts "operation dirt" into motion for the ordeals of another day. Jobs are individually assigned, and each man has his own area for which he is responsible. His duties may range from sweeping the deck to washing the windows.

At 1100, all hands secure for "chow," and once again the barracks are "cluttered up" by the feet of men taking their lunch hour at the expense of the cleaners. When work is again resumed, the awesome task of re-doing the morning's work is begun!

The duty of Compartment Cleaning is usually of three-month duration, and often men who are promoted from "mess cooking" are given this post. Friday is the most important day, and things must be absolutely "ship-shape" for the critical eyes of the inspection party.

Although this is not the most desired job aboard our station, it is certainly one of the most necessary. Imagine what your sleeping quarters would be like if "operation dirt" was not an every day occurrence at NAS.

Get Acquainted

Mr. S. D. Seidenman of Supply and Fiscal Department, whose early years were spent in Mount Pleasant, Texas, came to NAS in February 1948.

He was first employed by the government in 1937 when he went to work for the Internal Revenue. In 1942 he took a position with the Office of Price Administration in Dallas, Texas, and later was transferred to the Los Angeles branch of O.P.A.

As Property and Disposal Clerk, Mr. Seidenman has charge of the Disposal Unit which consists of two types of work: processing of Class B-270 material and the sales of surplus material. These units are combined to do a thorough job of disposing of surplus material to other government agencies, donations to educational institutions or sale to the public. The preparation of sales catalogs, conducting the sale and the completion of paper work necessary for the transfer of material to the purchaser are prepared in this unit. The sales unit also conducts sales of material accumulated at dependent activities.

Photography and traveling are Mr. Seidenman's hobbies and when combined can be most interesting. He has taken extensive trips into Mexico, Canada and the Western States. Yellowstone Park, Carlsbad Caverns and Yosemite Park were the most impressive to the Seidenman family but for all around interest and beauty they pick the Pacific Northwest and Canada.

Mr. Seidenman and his family now reside in Mission Beach where they are planning their next trip to Canada.

The Thrift Shop, Another 'NR' Volunteer Activity

North Island Volunteers Are Salesladies For Shop

Among the many volunteer activities of the Navy Relief Society is the Thrift Shop, situated in Building 6 at Navy Field. It is staffed by 50 women, wives of military personnel in the area, who devote on the average a total of 350 hours each month to the operation of the Shop.

Items Priced Low

As a result of their volunteer work, the Thrift Shop is able to offer service personnel and their families a variety of household goods, clothing, shoes and other articles at prices that are amazingly low. The majority of the "used but good" items are priced between 10 and 50 cents, but numerous items are marked lower —one to five cents. Seldom are any items more than $2.00. Volunteer help and donation of the Shop's stock of articles makes wrapping paper, string and pencils about the only overhead expense. If you look at the prices of goods offered for sale you won't have to be told that the Thrift Shop is a non-profit organization. After expenses are subtracted at the end of the month, the small balance goes to the general Navy Relief fund.

Nine Volunteers

One day each week representatives from different shore and land-based units in the area operate the Thrift Shop. Monday is North Island Day, having mostly wives from ComAirPac personnel as salesladies. They are: Mrs. Lloyd Harrison, Mrs. C. M. Boundy, Mrs. B. E. Day, Mrs. J. W. Antonides, Mrs. H. E. Holt, Mrs. R. L. Weir, Mrs. D. B. Brokenshire, Mrs. William Bryson and Mrs. J. W. Vose.

Whom does the Thrift Shop serve? Any enlisted man or his dependents and commissioned officer up to lieutenant (jg) or equivalent rank in other services are eligible to make purchases at the Shop.

Navy Takes Care of Own

In line with the Navy Relief Society's credo, "The Navy Takes Care of Its Own," its Thrift Shop plays an important role in performing that function. Workers at the Shop feel that it answers a very important need, especially among Navy families newly assigned to the area. After household goods were disposed of at a previous duty station, the expense of furnishing a new home immediately is a financial burden to a family. The Shop often helps families in these circumstances by offering low-priced household effects which help them get their home started. If the situation warrants it, the Thrift Shop makes outright gifts of household goods when advised by the Navy Relief Headquarters.

Need Children's Clothes

Volunteers at the Shop say that the greatest demand is for children's clothes, shoes, toys, babies' bassinettes and cribs. Nine children in one family were recently outfitted from the Shop's stock of children's articles. Especially in this line, it is difficult, they say, to keep up a good assortment with the constant purchases of patrons.

To continue operating, the Thrift Shop not only depends on the aid of volunteer women, but also on the gifts of clothes, shoes and household goods by people concerned with its welfare. They are its only source for its stock of goods. As a result there is a "standing appeal" for donations of these items. "Anyone who desires to donate items may call the Shop at F-9-3214," says the Shop's co-chairman. "We will call for the contributions." Contributors may also contact Mrs. R. L. Weir, 555 I Ave., Coronado. or Mrs. D. B. Brokenshire, 320 J Ave., Coronado, who look after collections for the Shop.

"Many families have children's clothes that are outgrown," observed one of the Shop's assistants. "If these items are passed on to the Thrift Shop, we'll see that they go to Navy families who can get further use from them."

Occasionally personnel who receive orders to a new duty station can not practically send some household goods. In such a case they are asked to think of the THRIFT SHOP—an opportunity to help one's shipmates.

TWO YOUNG LADIES do some shopping on their own. Mrs. C. M. Boundy shows them some of the Shop's selection of toys.

TWO CUSTOMERS inspect children's clothes offered for sale at the Thrift Shop. North Island Volunteer Mrs. H. E. Holt assists the customers. Workers at the Shop find that greatest demand is for children and infants' clothes.

30 Reserve Officers Here For Industrial Relations Meet

Approximately thirty Naval Reserve Officers will be guests, today, of the Naval Air Station in conjunction with a Seminar for West Coast Industrial Relations Officers.

Under the sponsorship of the Eleventh Naval District Commandant, Rear Admiral Wilder D. Baker, a ten day Seminar is being held in this area for these men ordered to training duty.

During their stay in San Diego, they will visit other naval installations including the Naval Station, Naval Supply Depot, Naval Electronics Laboratory and the Long Beach Naval Shipyard.

Mr. Robert S. Putnam, Civilian IR Administrator and Mr. Herman G. Snodgrass, Chief Training Supervisor of IRD coordinated the North Island program consisting of talks given by Captain A. L. Baird, Overhaul and Repair Officer, Commander M. T. Wells, Industrial Relations Officer — who will also welcome the guests to the station — training supervisors and foremen.

Three North Island employees—Messrs. R. L. Creighton and Harvey H. Hodapp of the Industrial Relations Department's Training Division and Mr. Alexander M. Rodgers, of the Overhaul and Repair Department—will be among the reserve officers participating in this Seminar.

Visits to several of the shops in the O & R Department and a tour of the station will conclude the day's activities.

On Thursday, of next week, the group will return to North Island for dinner and entertainment at the Commissioned Officers' Mess (Open).

Review Structure

ing time may be shortened through maximum use of civilian education and experience.

It may take from weeks to years to make a change in the structure. For example, in 1949 the Navy decided to combine the ratings of fire controlman and fire control technician into one rating of fire technician. The change was recommended by the board and then submitted for approval to the various technical bureaus, JAG, the Chief of Naval Operations and the Secretary of the Navy for approval. Five years was allowed for a fire controlman to change his rating.

The Bureau of Naval Personnel is working continuously to keep the rating structure up to date. It may be expected that changes will be announced semi-annually in order to phase them with examinations for advancement.

Something's Fishy About This Hobby

Six years ago, Hugh Brown, motor vehicle messenger, began to take an interest in tropical fish. He started his collection with an initial investment of $7.00. Today, Hugh has forty 15 gallon tanks, and over 2500 fish. His aquarium as it stands today is estimated by him to have a gross value of $2000.

Hugh's aquarium, which is located in the front of his apartment, is, as he puts it, "just one fascinating experience after another."

Among the most interesting of the fish in Brown's aquarium are the Siamese Fighting Fish. Probably one of the most beautiful of all tropicals, they are known for their desire to fight. They will, however, fight with no other fish but their own speci. When they fight, there is no truce; they battle until one is dead. Although not very large, these tropicals have a row of teeth similar to those of a Barracuda.

The Siamese variety has another trait which makes it one of the most interesting to own and study, according to Brown. The male makes an actual nest of bubbles from the saliva in his mouth. When the female lays her eggs, the male has the responsibility of placing them in the bubbles which form the nest.

Many of the 20,000 varieties of tropical fish are "live bearers"—their young are born alive. The fact of this phenomenon is that the eggs are hatched within the mother fish, and the small fish are alive when born.

Most of these tropical fish will eat their own young, so to compensate for this, the collectors and breeders such as Mr. Brown, keep the parent fish well fed, and place floating plants where the young fish can hide within the tanks.

Hugh Brown has in his present collection seventy-four different kinds of fish. Of these the least expensive are the common "Guppie." They will sell for from 12 to 25 cents each. The most expensive fish in this extensive collection is the Rasbora, which sells for $2.50.

Despite the many procedures needed to keep the fish alive which are necessitated by the delicate nature of the tropicals, such as keeping water temperature constant, and controlling the fish diet, Mr. Brown said that many people might find this hobby very interesting, and in most cases profitable.

USS Manifee Honors Mothers

Today at 1000 the PhibPac ship, USS MANIFEE (APA) will dock at pier M here at NAS after completing eleven months duty in the far east. The ship will be met by three lucky mothers selected by the men on the attack transport. The mothers who have sons on the ship are:

Mrs. Clition Reed of Joplin, Missouri; Mrs. Georgeanna B. Webb of New York City, and Mrs. Ira S. Goains of Meridian, Texas.

Sometime ago the men of the USS MANIFEE decided to pick three typical Navy Mothers and pay their expenses to San Diego. Enough money was raised for a week's vacation and round trip train tickets for all three Mothers.

The California Club and Chamber of Commerce met them at the train with dozens of flowers and escorted them to their hotel. Plans for the vacation are being made by the men of the USS MANIFEE and will start in motion the minute the ship arrives.

While in Korean waters the APA lifted troops of the 8th Marine Division, made statistic reports to the UN Forces and performed amphibious training maneuvers off the shores of Japan. The ships company is composed of LST Squadron 1, LSU division 32 and LST division 11.

Skiers Schedule Mid-Month Party

Big doings at Big Bear are announced for the weekend of March 15-16 by the North Island Ski Club. Open to members and interested outsiders as well, the outing will feature a $3 head charge which includes room and a chicken dinner with all you can eat.

A no-time limit party on Saturday night will be held at comfortable Stilwell Lodge, where ample facilities exist for dancing and general hilarity. Plenty of partners are assured for dancing, and optional refreshments may be enjoyed. Ski films will be shown to supplement the evening's entertainment.

The group will arrive at Big Bear Saturday morning, and ski instructors will be on hand both Saturday and Sunday to assist any Tyrolian tyros who are eager to try for a grand slalom.

Reservations for the March 15-16 ice-capade should be made with any Ski Club member before 2000, March 4. At that time a meeting will be held in the auditorium of Building 8, and plans will be completed for the event.

NORTH ISLAND SERVICE POST 753 LEGION NOTES

By Art Burns

Tonight at 8:30 p.m. a benefit dance claimed to be "the year's biggest," will be held at Post Six Legion Hall, 27th and B St. The proceeds are to go to the Hospital Patients' Welfare and Rehabilitation Fund. A large group from North Island is expected.

Ed Splichal is now on his way overseas. It is requested that his many friends in the post write him soon. His address is: Edmond I. Splichal, CHS, USS MT. BAKER (AEO4), c/o F.P.O. San Francisco. Ed is the husband of Millie Splichal, first vice president of the North Island Post's Auxiliary.

Good to hear that Morse Conwell's wife is able to get out of the house now for short walks, after her illness.

Mel Thornton, Production Control, was admitted to the American Legion's highest group, The Forty and Eight. He was initiated last Sunday night. Mel was selected because of the many outstanding achievements in American Legion work he has accomplished. Congratulations Mel, and keep up the good work!

VS-21 DEALS

by M. J. Katcher

Many recent changes in squadron personnel cause us to devote this week's column to an up-to-date accounting. Among the permanent departures are many of the squadron's old standbys. To various shore duty billets we have lost Lts. Larsen, Brady, and Elgee, Ltjg's. Birdwell, Pool and Schaeffer, and AMC O. G. Hughes. Returning to the cold, cruel, civilian world are A. D. Johnson AT2, and F. V. Seaton AD3. A couple of less permanent departures are G. Cline AL1, for 40 weeks TAD at Memphis, and A. P. Fresques AD2, for 24 weeks TAD at Memphis.

To help balance the ledger, Welcome Aboard goes to Lts. B. J. Olsen, and J. Tuckey, and Ltjg. C. H. Owen, all reporting for a normal tour with us. For a temporary six weeks stay, we welcome Ltjg. P. J. Bergdahl, who is getting acquainted with the TBM in preparation for transport duty with them in Japan. A welcome back goes to Lt. D. V. Bell, who returns sun-tanned and slimmer from eleven weeks TAD in the Hawaiian Islands.

Air Pac Sports

By BOB SWISHER

The winter sport program is well under way in four different events and, at this stage, the FairBetuPac Raiders have yet to lose a contest. No other single unit can come close to the enviable raider record of 17 straight wins in all events.

Their slates of four wins and no defeats head the handball and horseshoes leagues, and six straight victories in the volleyball loop is good enough for first place in that division.

However, in bowling they are forced to take a back seat, at least for the time being, to Ready Issue and VP-731. The storekeepers and patrol boys have 4-0 records, one-half game ahead of the Raiders.

Another unit which merits mentioning is VP-731. Aside from their leadership in bowling, they have won three of four handball matches. They are not entered in horseshoes and their volleyball team has won only one of six contests.

VC-35 played the villain role this week as their volley-boppers knocked Fasron-110 out of first place. The 110ers had six straight wins until they ran into VC-35. The win left VC-35 with a 4-2 mark.

Biggest attraction for the coming week will find VS-21, which is undefeated in three handball matches, clashing with undefeated and league-leading FairBetuPac. This is scheduled for Tuesday morning.

Another clash of giants was played too late for publication. It pitted VP-40 against FairBetuPac in the volleyball league yesterday. VP-40 is breathing down the Raiders' neck with five wins in six outings.

'Raiders Win Skeet Shoot

Five chief petty officers from the Naval Air Skyraiders won the team championship trophy with a 478 x 500 at the Eleventh Naval District Skeet Shoot held at the Barstow Marine Base, Barstow, California on Wednesday 13 February.

The team consisted of W. W. Eddington, VR-32; L. W. Hughes, VS-21; W. C. Ellington, FAS-691; J. A. Leslie, FairbetuPac; and F. A. Lastrico, VF-871.

Lastrico won runner-up to the championship by shooting 97 x 100. Hughes won Class AA with 96 x 100, Ellington won Class B with 95 x 100, and Leslie won the Class B Runner-up by shooting 94 x 100.

A. D. Choen, VS-892 shooting as an alternate won Class A-R.U. with a 96 x 100. R. E. Dohse from VF-871, and Jim Kennedy from the NAS Pistol Range also shot as alternates and finished with a 91 x 100 and 84 x 100 respectively.

Glovers Score 6 Wins, 1 Loss

Golden Gloves champs representing the Los Angeles Times scored six wins and one loss in the Chicago Tournament as of 27 February.

Willie Faulkner, bantam from NTC dropped a three-round decision to Chicago's Jack Corvino, to become the first L. A. boxer to be eliminated.

Herschel Acton, MCRD, decisioned Randy Hummel, Columbus, Ohio; Ken Davis, MCRD, scored a decision over Adell Dukes of Detroit, and a second round TKO over Sonney Lewis, Muncie, Ind. Sam "The Assassin" Williams scored an easy decision over Roy Harris, Texas A&M in the middleweight decision, while Pendleton's lightheavy Jesse Barber, and NTC's heavy Ed Sanders both copped knockouts. Barber stopped Marvin Bach of Minneapolis in the second round, while Sanders KO'd George Harrison, U. S. Army in 46 seconds of the first round.

Ernie Castaneda, Phoenix, decisioned Frank Jones, Moline, Illinois Monday night in the flyweight division.

More results in next week's North Islander.

Baseball Has Huge Turnout, Softball Players Needed

Baseball season for the Naval Air Skyraiders started off with a bang as sixty men reported for workouts last Monday. Softball didn't favor so well, as only twelve men were out to start the season.

Several returning last year's veterans were on hand to greet the baseball manager, Lieutenant (jg) Harvey Speed, and coach Ned Kinf. Mr. Speed was the Fliers' coach last year, and the year before he played in the outfield for the Air-Packers.

The first game tentatively scheduled is a practice meet with San Diego State College on March 6. Players will not be suited up, as this is just part of the weeding process.

Spots are still open in all positions on the baseball team, and men are still welcome to try out for the team.

Softball Pitchers Needed

Although Manager-Coach Lieutenant Bob Greeley, and his two assistant coaches Bob Claypool, and Red Harris are in dire need of more players, perhaps the most needed is in the pitcher's slot. It is anticipated that the great arm of Larry Higgins may be back to favor the Skyraiders on the mount this year.

A tentative game has been scheduled with PhibPac for March 17 at the Mainside Diamond.

More candidates are needed for the Skyraider softball team, and anyone wishing to try out can contact one of the three coaches in the area behind the NAS theater during their workout period between 1400 and 1630 every afternoon.

NACRA BOWLING

North Island teams copped a first, second, third, fourth, ninth, fourteenth, and sixteenth place out of 20 in the 799 division of the Fifteenth Annual San Diego City Bowling Championships which opened on February 1 at Pacific Recreation.

Out of the NACRA League, the Easy Aces took first place, by knocking down 2610 pins, and Just Us Five took a 14th place with 2437.

The Windmillers, Jiggers, and Machine Shop teams from the 800 Scratch League took second, third and fourth with a 2554, 2525, and 2498 respectively.

Also out of the 800 scratch came a ninth and sixteenth place by the Rejectors and Long Shots with a 2462 and 2429.

Airmen Dumped In Thrilling Overtime

By Leon Cox

The Naval Air Skyraiders lost a close decision to CruDesPac by a 62-68 score in the Mainside gym Tuesday night. Although leading throughout the game the Skyraiders were unable to squelch a last quarter and overtime rally by the CruDesPac five.

The first quarter found CrudesPac taking a slim lead of 14 to 10, with Art Borchers, Jim Grewe and Jim Bird doing the scoring for the Skyraiders and Frank Blood doing the majority of scoring for CruDesPac.

Airmen Lead at Halftime

But the Skyraiders took charge in the second quarter with Jim Grewe and Duke Snider finding the range to put the Skyraiders ahead at the half, 28-25.

The Skyraiders were still in command at the end of the third quarter, leading by a 48-42 count.

In the last Quarter Blood again started swishing the nets bringing CruDesPac into a tie at the gun. Final score, 56 for Skyraiders 56 for CruDesPac.

The overtime period found the CruDesPac five taking charge with Blood once again swishing the nets bringing a thrilling finish to a thrilling ball game, CruDesPac copping the decision by a score of 68-62.

Skyraiders Lose to MCRD

The Naval Air Skyraiders lost to MCRD on the latter's court Monday night by a score of 87-67.

Jim Bird took scoring honors for the Skyraiders with 16 points to his credit, while Phil Filbert was high for MCRD with 22 points. Halftime score was 42 for MCRD, 24 for Skyraiders.

Play Ventura Saturday

Saturday, the Skyraiders travel up Ventura way to meet the Pirates for the second time this season. The Naval Airmen started the season out with a 64-54 win over them here at the Mainside Gym.

NAGA NEWS

In a match play against NTC on their home links last Wednesday, the NAGA team dropped it 39-29. However Mac Hunter and Walt Axcell came out on top with a 3-up win.

The monthly "ACE" tournament will be held on 5 March between 1200 and 1300 at the Mission Valley Golf Course. All NAGA Golfers who wish to enter should register prior to March 4 at the NAS Driving Range.

FAS-691 Wins S.E. League

The Buckeyes of FASRon 691 won the Southeastern League championship after blasting the USS HECTOR, 59-54, last week at Navy Field. Qualifying for the Long Beach tournament of champions due to begin on 3 March, the Bucks hold a ten-win-two-loss record for the season.

Jim Gilham and Ed Kozeliski, 691's deceptive guards led the scoring in their 12 game league schedule by amassing 308 points between them. Gilham pumped in 159 points for a 13.4 average, while Kozeliski accounted for an additional 149 points and a 12.5 average.

Ken Johanek and Don Vladic, center and guard respectively contributed heavily to the success of the Buckeyes this season with their excellent teamwork and ball handling.

Whit Chasteen, forward, was an invaluable asset on defense, and donated 109 points to the total scoring.

A lot of teamwork and sportsmanship was a big reason why the team came back from a dismal early-season start, to finish as one of the strongest teams in 11ND Minor League play.

DISPLAYING THE form in which they won the Captain's Badminton Tournament are CDR H. H. Hunt (left), and LCDR J. D. Smith.

NACRA GOLF

The Seventh Annual President's Cup Tournament opens tomorrow at the Agua Caliente Course, Tijuana, climaxing a highly successful year with medal play over 54 holes.

The second and third rounds are scheduled for 15 March at LaJolla, and 29 March at Rancho Santa Fe.

Outstanding trophies and prizes will be given to match the Perpetual President's Cup Trophy.

In addition to the winner, there are awards for the first five places in each flight, plus special prizes for each round.

Each player wins but one prize, except for daily awards. Immediately following the Rancho round, there will be a turkey dinner.

Time is short, and entries should be filed immediately.

Keg Entries Due Mar. 14

Only two weeks left to get your entries for the Seventh Annual Eleventh Naval District Bowling tournament which starts March 22. All entries must be in by 14 March.

Tournament contestants must be civilian employees of the U. S. Navy in San Diego, City and County, and members of their family unless they belong to a sanctioned 11th Naval District bowling league.

Contact John Allison, tournament manager, at Ext. 497.

SOFTBALL HAS POOR TURNOUT

One of the poorest turnouts we have ever seen was witnessed last week, as only twelve prospects reported to spring practice. Coach Greeley comments "out of the twelve men that came out, I have a lot of good quality, but we need quantity to pick from." "Spots are still open in practically all positions, and we would like to see more of the boys out for practice."

We also learned from coach Greeley that he is going to enter the Skyraider softball team in the American Softball Association, one of the strongest leagues in Southern California.

BASEBALLERS FLOCK TO PRACTICE

Contrary to the softball turnout, sixty men came out last Monday for the Skyraider baseball team. Several of these are returning veterans from last year's Fliers. Some of the old faces we saw around the diamond this week as practice got underway were Burt Smith, Bill Daron, Blackie Blackston, Bob Johnson, and the man who led the Eleventh Naval District league in batting last year, Tommy Weaver.

Manager Harvey Speed says he will start the "weeding" process right away, and all men will have to really get in there and dig for a position. There are a lot of good boys out this year, and we think we might have something.

When asked what he thought of the prospects this year he commented that "this is by far the toughest in all Navy leagues, and some of the other stations in the district have some pretty big names on their roster." "But with a little backing I think we will do all right."

WORKOUTS LIKE this one between Bob Castleman (top) and Stanley Grimes are getting the Skyraider muscle crushers in shape for the coming Far Western AAU tournament. The Airmen recently won two meets by defeating S.D. State 28-18, and PhibPac 20-11.

HU-1 Cagers Are ALF Ream Champs

Helicopter Squadron ONE has just completed a most successful basketball season at ALF Ream Field. Having begun pre-season practice on the outdoor concrete courts while still at Miramar during the past summer season, it was anticipated that the team would shape up as a championship outfit. In many respects such turned out to be the case.

The highlight of the season was HU-1's winning of the Ream Field championship. Another interesting sidelight was the friendly feud which existed all season between HU-1 and VU-7. The two teams met a total of five times, HU-1 winning four of these games. An examination of the aggregate scores shows a differential of only six points between these two ball clubs.

The only teams which were able to defeat HU-1 and were not in turn defeated were NAS Los Alamitos, which eliminated HU-1 in the pre-season Armed Forces "Y" tournament, and the USS NEREUS, which turned the trick twice in winning the Southwestern League championship. An augmented HU-1 team lost to NAAS Miramar in the Fleet Air Detachment playoffs between NAAS Miramar and ALF Ream.

This report, picked at random from among the daily rescue reports received by Helicopter Squadron ONE from the forward area, is typical and indicative of the duties performed and missions accomplished by units of the squadron. The helicopter pilot who submitted this report was LTJG J. T. Stultz of San Diego. His crewman was R. L. Martin, ADAN, of HU-1.

"At 0743 we received word to launch our windmill as a night attack plane had been shot down in the Hungnam area. At 0750, we took off from our base. We encountered ten to fifteen knot head winds enroute to Hungnam and entered the Harbor about 0815 at 200 feet altitude. The rescue CAP, which had formed over the scene, was not able to locate the pilot until we were within sight of his burning plane.

"After talking to the downed pilot, I learned that two Korean soldiers armed with rifles ran toward him after he ditched. Seeing them he ran south across snow-covered rice paddies and frozen irrigation ditches, but the ice would not support his weight.

"He ran with his pursuers firing at him for almost half an hour, and had covered about three miles before he saw the helicopter approaching. When he slowed to light a flare, a shot caught him across the neck.

"The rescue CAP guided me until I saw the flare about a mile and a half from the beach in a rice paddie. My escorts were strafing the area around him as we came in. There was a smooth looking flat spot about twenty-five yards to the west of the pilot. Because he was running toward it I elected to land there for the pickup.

"I barely had the wheels on the deck before he ran stumbling to the door. He had thrown the flare at his pursuers who had been pinned down by the strafing planes. Martin and I hauled the pilot aboard and we departed immediately. I stayed low and the CAP covered the area ahead of us toward the beach.

"On the way back I made arrangements to pick up a doctor from the destroyer which was close to our base to expedite the transfer. I dropped the wounded pilot off at our base and was back with the doctor in less than an hour and a half from the time we received the alert. Our helicopter was checked for possible damage by gun fire: Results negative."

Ream Swimmer Comes to NAS

Alfred A. Bach, ADAN, was recently transferred from VU-3(K) to the Special Services department at NAS. He will act as a special survival instructor in water safety courses.

Bach, who has been in the Navy one year, achieved proficiency as a swimming instructor before entering the Navy by teaching 300 students swimming and life saving at Glendora, Calif.

VU-3 Golfers Take Match

The aggressive golf team of Utron Three won 22-2 against VS-23 at the Balboa Golf Club in a NAGA match Wednesday, Feb. 13.

A blind bogey was held by members of the VU-3(K) team. Their gross score minus chosen handicap should fall within a 69-72 bracket. Oddly enough no one became a winner so an odd man match was held for the prize.

In the match, six points each were won by LT L. J. Drelicharz, LT C. A. Taylor and LTJG J. A. Donovan and four points by LT E. R. Fancher.

Scoring of points was divided up to 2 for the front nine holes, 2 for the back nine and 2 for all eighteen.

The next Utron Three match in the Naval Air Golf Association will be played February 27 on the Balboa greens against AirPac.

Nereus Dumps VU-7 in Overtime

Psychology Pays Off for VU-7 Man

Enrolled as a psychology student at San Diego State College, night school, VU-7 MAA Vernon P. Brisson, ABAN, USNR, puts to practical use the lessons learned at school in performing his duties. The popular VU-7 "Sheriff" enjoys the opportunity his assignments as squadron MAA afford him as he can witness psychology at work in every day Navy life.

V. P. BRISSON, ABAN, of VU-7

"In my opinion," stated Brisson, "every person, both in and out of service life, who handles men each day, should have a well rounded background in psychology. It helps everyone to better understand their fellow workers and makes dealing with people that much easier."

When not attending night school, Brisson may usually be seen on week-ends doing his "homework" at the station library or writing letters in the crews lounge.

Prior to reporting to VU-7, Brisson served aboard the USS VALLEY FORGE for a year while the aircraft carrier operated in the Far East. He has a total of 17 months active duty since recall.

MARTHA TILTON AND CURT MASSEY, singing stars of "Curt Massey Time," will appear here at the NAS Theater Thursday, March 13 at 1930. Their radio show is heard five days a week on CBS and MBS, and twice a week internationally on Radio-Luxumbourg.

Curt Massey, Martha Tilton On Radio Show Here Thursday

The radio show, "Curt Massey Time," will be "On the Air" at 1930 next Thursday at the NAS Theater. This musical show will combine the talents of two "Texas Born" singing stars, Martha Tilton and Curt Massey.

The show is open to all military personnel and their dependents. There will be no charge for admission.

Martha Tilton was born in Corpus Christi, Texas; for all of three months she lived in that state, 'til her parents moved to Edna, Kansas. It was there, at the age of four, that she made her first public appearance.

When she was seven years old, she moved to Los Angeles, where after her graduation from high school, she was immediately booked at the fashionable Coconut Grove of the Ambassador Hotel. From that moment on, her career has been one of fame and fortune.

Curt Massey was born in Midland, Texas. His father, who was a champion "fiddler", insisted that his seven sons and one daughter be even more musical than himself; Curt obeyed. He studied music at the Horner Conservatory of Music at Kansas City, Mo., and there he perfected his technique on the trumpet, and learned the variations of harmony.

When Curt was only 20 years old, he became a member of the orchestra at Kansas City's famous Pla-Mor ballroom and he was soon the director of the organization. As a feature, he played every instrument of the band, as well as singing and directing.

Put these two fine music personalities in one musical show, and there is an evening of top-notch entertainment for those able to see them in action. That's what all NAS hands and their dependents have in store for them when the show "Curt Massey Time" comes to NAS next Thursday night at 1930.

Navy-Wide PO Exams Set For July

Navy-wide competitive examinations for advancement to third, second and first class petty officer will be held on three consecutive Tuesdays in July.

Dates for the examinations are: Pay grade E-4 (third class petty officer will be held on grade E-5 (second class petty officer) July 15, 1952; pay grade E-6 (first class petty officer) July 22, 1952.

In the event that movements or operations of certain seagoing, aviation or overseas shore-based units prevent holding of the examinations on the specific dates, certain deviations from the schedule will be authorized as long as the examinations are still conducted during the month of July.

Nominations of candidates for promotion are to be forwarded to reach appropriate convening authorities by April 20.

Blood Donors Give 256 Pints

Blood donations by NAS civilian and military personnel brought 256 pints last Tuesday at the NAS Infirmary. The blood contributions will go to the Armed Forces.

One hundred nineteen pints were contributed by civilian employees. Military personnel on the station gave 137 pints.

The donations were handled by the staff of the mobile blood unit with Red Cross workers assisting.

Data Collectors Listed For Area Wage Survey

The second meeting of the Area Wage Survey Committee was held Thursday, February 28, at the Naval Supply Depot. Those attending from this activity were Robert S. Putnam, Industrial Relations Dept., Chairman; George N. Haywood, Overhaul and Repair Dept., Observer; and E. Lois Land, Industrial Relations Dept., Recorder.

The purpose of the meeting was to consider the recommendations made by the activities participating in the survey as to additions to the list of occupations to be included during the wage survey and also additions to the list of firms to be contacted.

As a result of the review of recommendations made, it was the decision of the Area Wage Survey Committee to include the occupations of Aviation Patternmaker and Rigger and to add the following firms: Bill-Jack Scientific Instrument Co., Solano Beach; Kelly Laundry, San Diego; Hilton Cleaners, Oceanside; and Humphrey, Inc., San Diego.

The Committee deleted four firms from the list as published previously because adequate wage data is available at other firms on the list. The firms deleted were: Arrow Transfer Co., San Diego; C & R Transfer Co., San Diego; Culy Transportation Co., San Diego; and Union Oil Co. of Calif., San Diego.

A total of 61 firms will be contacted during the survey. These firms were divided among the various activities participating in the survey although the specific companies have not as yet been

Monday New Mail Procedure Starts

NAS activities may pick up their mail any time during normal working hours under a new system effective March 10, which provides individually assigned, locked postal boxes. This will eliminate the former 1000 and 1400 mail calls.

A box number and key will be supplied to each Station-based command, department and unit by the Communications Officer.

Assembly Division Holds St. Pat Dance

Tropical Gardens at Navy Field, San Diego will be the scene of O&R Assembly Division's St. Patrick's dance to be held Saturday, March 15.

Dancing from 2000 to 2400 will be to the music of Jack Bassett and his orchestra. Soft drinks and door prizes will be added features at the dance.

Tickets may be purchased in the Assembly Div. office.

Civ. Committee Election Petitions Circulated

Elections will be held in the latter part of April for the purpose of electing representatives to the Shop Committees and Division Civilian Recreation Boards, the Industrial Relations Dept. has announced.

Petitions are already being circulated throughout shops and offices on the station for nominating candidates for both organizations.

Candidates for the shop committees are nominated by petitions containing the signatures of at least five percent of the employees eligible to vote in the organizational unit in which they are assigned and in which it is desired to establish a shop committee. Completed petitions with the required number of signatures must be submitted to the senior civilian supervisor of the organizational unit not later than March 14. Petition forms may be obtained from shop personnel supervisors.

All nonsupervisory employees who are in a pay status, except employees appointed for periods of less than one year, are eligible to sign petitions for nominations and to vote in the Shop Committees elections.

To be eligible for nomination and to be designated as a member of a shop committee, an employee must be among those eligible to vote and must have been an employee of the Naval Air Station for a period of one year, including broken service on the Naval Air Station.

Nominations for the Welfare & Recreation Committees also require signatures of at least five percent of the organizational unit's employees on the petitions. The senior civilian supervisor must receive all petitions by March 14.

All employees, supervisors and nonsupervisors alike, are eligible to vote and to serve as members of recreation boards.

Shop Committees Meet Bi-Monthly

Shop committees are a means of cooperative communication between management and nonsupervisory employees to exchange information and viewpoints, to discuss questions pertaining to work, to make and receive suggestions for improvement of physical working conditions and work methods, and to promote mutual cooperation, understanding and confi-

Temporary Reprieve Granted Tax Filers

John Q. Taxpayer, and that includes nearly everybody in this area except inhabitants of the San Diego Zoo, may prolong the agony an extra day next week if he needs more time in preparing his return.

The reason is that March 15 falls on a non-working day this year, in which case the Government considers returns filed the next working day as "on time," with no penalties attached. Therefore persons filing their returns by Monday, March 17, will still get in under the wire.

This unofficial extension will be welcomed by long-form filler-outers who are still trying to locate records of contributions to the Boy Scouts, interest paid on the old homestead, and State gasoline taxes that poured into the tank of the family chariot.

Liberty Hop Cast Plays At Hospital

A substantial number of the cast from the musical revue, Liberty Hop, which was originated here at NAS, are going on their own time to the disabled mens' ward at the Camp Pendleton Hospital.

Those taking part in the hospital show are: Buddy Viotti, Bill Betz, Bill Slagle, Nikki Tulson, Lawrence Smith, Ken Sansom, Frank Scruggs, Bill Bonney, and Gene Upton.

The Enlisted Men's Club band, The RhythMasters, will also be there with their full complement of: Rebob Hanson, Lonnie King, Charlie Fouser, Ed Elliott, Jerry Boldwynn, and Bob Bibbs.

Senate Offers Revised Pay Bill for Services

Washington (AFPS)—A three percent across-the-board pay increase has been approved for Armed Forces personnel by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The Senate is expected to vote on the measure within a few days.

In addition to the base pay boost, the Senate group also made provisions for cost-of-living increases in quarters and allowances for officers and enlisted men.

Richard B. Russell, chairman of the committee, explained that the Senate group felt it should increase the items directly related to the cost of living rather than give a large across-the-board pay increase.

It was also pointed out that some enlisted men with families would fare better under the Senate version of the bill than under the the House-passed bill which provided a flat 10% across-the-board increase.

Pertinent changes in the Senate committee approved:

1. Subsistence allowance for officers—now $42, Senate bill, $54.

2. Subsistence for enlisted personnel authorized to mess off the post—now $2.25 a day, Senate bill, $2.75 a day.

3. Rental allowances for officers not furnished housing—no increase; with one or two dependents, $10 a month increase, with three or more dependents, $20 a month increase.

4. Quarters allowances for enlisted men not furnished housing—now $45 a month for all grades for men without dependents, Senate bill $51. (This also applies to men in pay grades 1, 2, and 3 with one dependent.)

For enlisted personnel with two dependents in the lowest grades or one or two dependents in the top enlisted grades—now $67 per month, $80 in the Senate bill. Enlisted personnel with more than two dependents—in all grades—now $85 a month, and $100 in Senate bill.

Chaplain's Corner

The Supreme Wonder

One thing we should all do this Lenten Season is take a long look at the supreme wonder of man. If we do this, a new perspective will come into our thinking. We will be more humble and contrite. We will be more religious and receptive to the teachings of Christ our Master.

In the life of Wordsworth his study and admiration of nature was one of his chief sources of communion with God. No other poet, in my opinion, has brought more "God-like hours" to the souls of men. In "Tinterm Abbey" you find this passage, which expressed the universal divine presence of God:

> "And I have felt a presence that disturbs me with the joy of elevated thoughts; a sense sublime of something far more deeply interfused, Whose dwelling is the light of setting suns, And the round ocean and the living air, And the blue sky, and in the mind of man; A motion and a spirit, that implies, All thinking things, all objects of all thoughts; And rolls through all things."

There was a poet who lived before Wordsworth who saw something of the splendor and mystery of the heavens. We do not know who he was or just when he lived. We know about him through his poem. He was familiar with the story of the Creation and no doubt chanted the Doxology in his worship. He probably walked as a shepherd boy on the plains of Jerusalem. He lived in the open and gazed into the starry sky. Then one day he saw into the life of things and wrote: "O Lord our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth. Who hast set thy glory above the heavens. Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings hast thou ordained strength because of thine enemies, that thou mightest still the enemy and the avenger. When I consider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars which thou hast ordained; What is man, that thou are mindful of him? and the son of man that thou visitest him? For thou hast made him a little lower than the angels and that crowned him with glory and honour. Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of thy hands; thou hast put all things under his feet; All sheep and oxen, yea, and the beasts of the field; the fowl of the air, and the fish of the sea, and whatsoever passeth through the paths of the seas. O Lord our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth."

The psalmist in this vision of extra-ordinary glory was able to see the relation of God to man. This places man in a very dignified relation to the Divine Being, and to all other living things on earth. When man sees into the meaning of his place in life he marvels at God's creation and himself.

Mr. Rainford said that "the supreme wonder of life is man himself—man, a little child of God. What he has done, and is, and knows, is but a poor hint of what he shall know, and shall be; man, God's last, best, and so far as we know, final expression of Himself. To realize the greatness of ourselves is not to minify God, but to magnify Him."

ON ROADS OF NAVAL FAME

Moffett Road Named For Naval Air Pioneer

RADM William Adger Moffett, for whom Moffett Road was named, was one of the most versatile men in the long list of Naval Aviation pioneers. RADM Moffett was born at Charleston, South Carolina in 1869, and died in the crash of the rigid airship Akron, in 1933.

During his 47 years in the Navy, he was the holder of many responsible positions. Among the most important of these was Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics for a period of 12 years. He held this position during four presidential administrations. Also during his naval career, he was the commanding officer of the 9th, 10th, and 11th Naval Districts.

The Naval Air Reserve Program was a pet project of RADM Moffett, and in 1927, he was almost single-handedly responsible for the first man being called into that program.

His great faith in the use of aircraft carriers was demonstrated, when he was quoted saying, "we are safe from attack as long as our carriers can patrol our shores."

During his long career, RADM Moffett was presented with the two highest awards given by our nation: the Congressional Medal of Honor, and the Distinguished Service Medal.

Benny Sugg Awards To 2 Public Works Men

Harry E. Pennock jr. and Carl H. Liebig, Machinists in Public Works Dept., both received $10 Beneficial Suggestion awards. The awards were presented by R. A. Lyons at a P.W. Supervisors conference March 3.

Pennock's "Benny Sugg" idea was a "case for inverted grinder points and rotary files." Liebig developed a rebushing housing for electric motors.

This Week's News

at a glance

A House of Representatives vote of 236 to 162 sent the controversial Universal Military Training bill back into committee. It means that UMT is a dead issue for this year at least. The proposed law would have made 18-year-olds subject to six months military training plus 7 and one-half years membership in a reserve.

France is facing grave problems both at home and in her empire. The fortieth French government since 1945 fell in attempting to implement its committments in the recent Lisbon conference of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. In order to raise France's $60 million share in the $300 million defense plan, the government proposed a 15 percent boost in taxes which failed to receive support from the Assembly. An attempt by elderly Paul Reynault to form a new government failed.

In Indo-China, the Communist-led Viet-Minh increased pressure on the French defense perimeter around Hanoi was answered by a French counter-attack. The Indo-China situation, which had cost more than the total American aid to France in the last four years, is probably the major contributing factor to the French problems at home.

"We're back to where we were three months ago," was the comment of a member of the UN's truce team at Panmunjon. The UN remained firm in its refusal to accept Russia as a neutral member to supervise the armistice. The Reds refused to withdraw that country from its list of "neutrals."

The Communist's accusations that Americans were dropping disease germs over North Korea were answered by Secretary of State Acheson, who challenged the Reds to submit their allegations to an impartial investigation by the United Nations. Speculation was that an uncontrolled epidemic was raging in Korea, and the Communists were using it for propaganda purposes.

The air war of jets increased in tempo over Korea. American F-86's blasted five MIG's out of the skies Tuesday.

An Iron Curtain method of conserving on resources was discovered this week. To counter a fuel shortage, the Hungarian radio announces temperatures five to 10 degrees higher than those shown on the thermometer. The people no doubt keep warm by getting "red" hot under the collar after they have checked their own thermometers.

The Courier, the Coast Guard operated floating radio station, directed its first broadcasts behind the Iron Curtain this week. President Truman made an appeal to the Soviet-dominated people to "join us to banish the fear of war, and bring peace to the earth." The speech was broadcast over the 150,000 watt Voice of America transmitter in 46 languages.

'Bing Ding' Gives Iron Lung To Polio Foundation

Last Saturday, the USS BADOENG STRAIT, returned from Korea after nearly six months of actively participating in the aerial support of our ground forces. During her stay in the battle zone, the pilots of the Bing-Ding made 1,028 strikes, and flew a total of 250,000 miles.

Besides bringing back a happy crew, the CVE also returned with enough money to buy an iron lung for the Polio foundation and an additional $240 for the San Diego Polio Fund. The lung will be retained by San Diego for use in California, Arizona and Nevada cities.

Among the crew were men who at one time suffered from polio and were cured through the aid of the National Fund.

The carrier's commanding officer, CAPT Roy I. Johnson, presented the lung at ceremonies aboard the ship last Wednesday.

La Mesa Horticulturist Says It With Flowers

Transportation Department's coveted Sweepstakes Ribbon, top award in that activity's monthly flower show, was claimed last Friday by Frank M. Payne, Administrative Assistant. Proof of the richness of the La Mesa soil he calls home was evidenced by his first and second place winners in the Iris and Gladiolus division, second award among Lily entries, and second place honors for bouquets.

Gentiliska Graham took all three awards for Camellias in the February competition.

Best bouquet was entered by Leo Baker, with Doris Lee's arrangement judged third. The latter also won a first in the Lily division, third place going to Daniel Castano, who received a similar award in the Daffodil judging. First place in this category was given to Lorena Valentine, with Comer Jones second. Mr. Jones was also winner of the Iris and Gladiolus third place spot.

A Transportation Department outsider, William H. Roberts from O & R, won the top award in the potted plant division. Sally Rice and Dusty Rhodes took second and third places, respectively.

February judges were LCDR M. L. Haley, (NC), Senior Nurse; Jose Tafoya, Transportation quarterman, and Ricardo Rivas, O & R leadingman. Judging of the show takes place the last Friday of every month, and following presentation of ribbons, all cut flowers are taken to the NAS Family Hospital for the enjoyment of patients there.

Hobby Shop Will Close Monday For Remodeling

The NAS Hobby Shop will be closed for remodeling after Monday, according to K. J. Menzel, ADC, new leading chief of the Hobby Shop. Projects should be picked up as soon as possible.

Facilities will be available for hobbyists to finish projects which have been started.

An extensive remodeling program is planned with repainting the interior and resurfacing the garage.

NI Toastmasters Elect Officers

Officers for a six-month term were elected at Monday's meeting of the North Island Toastmasters' Club. New president is Gordon L. Branch.

Other officers are Audie Shipp, Ken Winship, Elmer Russell, Don Johnson and William D. Snell.

The club, according to president Branch, has been selected to sponsor the San Diego traffic program for March. The slogan chosen is "Motor Manners" and posters have been printed with this theme. Awards will be made for courtesy on the road.

VP-42 Chief Given Medal

The third gold star in lieu of an Air Medal was presented Friday morning to Paul B. Beaty, ADC.

Now a mmber of VP-731, Beaty received the award for "extraordinary achievement in aerial flights as a crewmember of a patrol plane in VP-42.

The award was presented by CDR William T. O'Dowd, Commanding Officer of VP-731.

A 14-year veteran with the Navy, Beaty is the squadron's engineering chief.

COLUMN RIGHT

ITEMS OF INFORMATION FOR CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

COLUMN RIGHT—Is your column. Its purpose is to answer questions of general interest which affect your employment. Forward all questions to: "COLUMN RIGHT," c/o Industrial Relations Department, Building 415, or deposit them in the Beneficial Suggestion Boxes.

Q.: SINCE THE NEW LEAVE BILL IS NOW IN EFFECT, CAN I BE ASSURED THAT ALL OF MY CREDITABLE FEDERAL SERVICE IS BEING CONSIDERED?

A.: The Industrial Relations Department furnishes to the Fiscal Branch of the Supply and Fiscal Department, the "Service Computing Dates" for all employees. These "Service Computing Dates" are determined from the employee's declared and creditable service. Instructions concerning service to be credited have only recently arrived and the correct leave accrual status for all employees is not yet completed. In the near future, each employee will receive an IBM card which will advise him whether he is at present accruing annual leave at the rate of 13, 20 or 26 days.

Q.: ONCE A PER DIEM (UNGRADED) EMPLOYEE RECEIVES AN ADMINISTRATIVE STEP INCREASE FROM A STEP 3 TO STEP 4, IS IT POSSIBLE FOR HIM TO LOSE THIS INCREASE AND UNDER WHAT CONDITIONS?

A.: The Commanding Officer may, if in his judgment the efficiency of the service requires, reduce a step four (4) employee to step three (3) for either of the following reasons:—

(1) Disciplinary suspensions (invoked or deferred).
(2) Failure to continue a high standard of performance if the fourth step was earned under the current merit provisions.

Employees will be given six months' notice of proposed reduction in compensation to step 3 in those cases where the reason for the reduction is a result of failure to continue a high standard of performance. In such notice, the employee will be told that unless definite improvement is noted in his performance, it will be necessary to reduce him to step 3 in order to promote the efficiency of the service.

MAYBELLE GREEN, Electrician - Aircraft, winds armature. Painstaking work, but she likes it. She has worked at Electronics ten years.

NEWCOMER Donna Mae George is a Shop Learner. As well as receiving on-the-job-training, she attends night school and takes correspondence courses to learn the electrician's trade. Her husband is serving overseas with the Navy.

It's Capacitors, Not Typewriters, For Women In Electronics Division

The notion that "a woman's work is in the home" has few strict advocates today. But, now that women represent a sizable working force in industry, frequently they are still thought of as being engaged only in clerical and stenographic jobs.

A trip through O & R Electronics Division will destroy any misconceptions about women working only at clerical tasks. More than 250 women work in the Division and most of them are better acquainted with capacitors, transformers, and resistors than typewriters.

HELEN G. CASH installs electrical system on P4Y. Has been in work of this type since World War II.

ALTHA NELSON tunes radio transmitter.

It was probably World War II more than anything else that brought the ladies into technical work as is found in Electronics Division. Maybelle Green, Electrician-Aircraft, has been working in the Division since 1942. She started out as a Helper; says she didn't know "a thing about electricity" at the time. Now she does difficult and precise work on generators and small motors. Typical jobs like "winding armatures," she says takes lots of patience, but she likes the work.

Altha Nelson, Radio Mechanic, got her start in Electronics back in 1943. Before going through the in-service training program here, she worked in a local radio shop. Now working in the Electronics radio shop she prefers tuning a transmitter at her workbench to typing in an office.

Radio Mechanic Marion Commings comes close to doing "clerical" work in Electronics, but she has seven years of radio experience behind her. At present she is assistant shop planner to C. E. Harrison, of production control dispatching. Her shop procures equipment and material used in other Electronics shops. She has to know the terminology of many pieces of equipment and their use.

New to NAS is Helen G. Cash, Electrician-Aircraft, although she has been in electrical work since World War II. Previously she has worked for the Air Force, "trouble shooting" aircraft electrical systems, and with an aircraft company in Oakland.

Heading a group of three or four aircraft electricians, she now works on the P4Y assembly line at Hangar 68, assembling electricial systems in the big Privateers.

"This is the kind of work I like," says Mrs. Cash, "or I wouldn't be doing it." She says she has always been interested in electricity. As a youngster she repaired broken electrical appliances at home.

Also new to NAS is Donna Mae George who went to work at Electronics in September of last year when her husband, James, an NAS employee, was recalled to active duty with the Navy and ordered to duty aboard the USS ATLAS. When employed, Mrs. George indicated a preference for electrical work. She was given mechanical aptitude tests and preliminary training. Now working on P4Y's, she has the status of "shop learner." Still in a training phase, Mrs. George takes vocational correspondence courses and attends night school every two weeks as part of the Electronics Div. training program. Through these studies and on-the-job training, she can advance to Helper in six months, Mechanic Limited in two years, and Journeyman in four years.

MARION COMMINGS has seven years' radio experience. Her present work is procuring electronic supplies.

GOING ON LEAVE?

Better Know What to Do in Case of Illness, Emergency

Illness and injury while on leave are always something that happens to the other guy. Well, it may seem that way. But just in case you're that other guy some time, it might be well to know what to do.

To help you get adequate medical attention and to assure that your duty station is properly informed of your situation, some of the regulations regarding emergencies while on leave are reviewed in this article.

Paragraph 7 of the instructions for enlisted personnel on leave, on the Standard Leave Form, states:

"In case of serious illness or injury incurred while on leave, requiring medical attention or hospitalization, report facts to your commanding officer, by telegram, and request instructions."

Further regulations concerning illness on leave appear in Navy Regulations, Section 1281, paragraph 3, and in the Manual of the Medical Department, Chapter 20, article 20-5. In brief these regulations state that, "Personnel who require emergency medical or dental treatment while on authorized liberty or leave shall apply to the nearest Naval Activity in the vicinity; if emergency treatment is not available, application should then be made to any other Federal agency having medical services. When Federal facilities are not available, the individual concerned or someone in his behalf should, if practicable, contact his Commanding Officer by telephone or telegraph reporting the emergency condition and requesting permission to obtain civilian medical or dental aid.

"When the urgency of the situation does not permit obtaining treatment from Federal facilities or authority to obtain treatment from other sources, necessary emergency treatment may be obtained from civilian sources by or on behalf of the individual concerned, and reasonable expenses therefore may be allowed as a charge against the Navy; provided that, within a reasonable time, report is made to his Commanding Officer so as to permit investigation and suitable arrangements for transfer to a Federal institution or other appropriate action.

"The expense of elective medical or dental treatment may be allowed under no circumstances.

"Claims for reimbursement for medical or dental expenses should be forwarded to the Commanding Officer for investigation and forwarding to the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery."

Federal agencies having medical facilities include U. S. Army, U. S. Air Force, Veterans Administration, Public Health Service, and of course, U. S. Marine Corps.

All personnel having civilian, Veterans Administration, or Public Health Service medical, dental, or ambulance service shall, in addition to securing prior authoriaztion from the Commanding Officer, notify the Medical Department, Medical Records Office, of the fact immediately upon reporting from leave or liberty.

AirPac Chief Is a Top USAFI 'Collegiate'

An article in the February All Hands magazine cited Navy men who have established records in the number of correspondence courses they have completed. Among the group was Gershon Smith, ADC, attached to ComAirPac Officers' Personnel.

Smith hasn't set out to establish any record. He was interested merely in getting an education in the field of his interest, but in doing so he completed 15 correspondence courses in a period of 27 months. On eight officer correspondence courses he averaged 3.92, and on seven USAFI college correspondence courses he scored "with distinction" on five and "satisfactory" on two.

Subjects he studied included aviation, meteorology, air dynamics, naval regulations, and law. Smith says he has taken every aviation course that USAFI has to offer.

The chief will quickly dispell any notion that any of these courses can be dashed off effortlessly. He estimated that during the 27-month period he worked an average of three nights a week. No course was completed in less than one month.

A high school graduate, Smith, through these courses, has acquired the equivalent of 45 college credits or a year-and-a-half of college.

Gershon Smith

An 11-year Navy veteran, he is married and has one child. Planning on nine more years in the Navy, he plans to take a few more correspondence courses during that period. After that? Perhaps go to college!

AEC Plans Series Of Tests At Eniwetok

Washington (AFPS)—A new series of tests are being prepared at the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's Eniwetok Proving Grounds, the Department of Defense has announced.

Test operations are to be carried out by Joint Task Force 132, composed of personnel of the AEC, Army, Navy and Air Force.

FRESH FROM THE DRYER, Dorothy Lucas, SN, assigned to Special Services, relaxes at left with a magazine while Operator Antoinette Bojarski prepares her hair for its final brushing and arranging. Dorothy came in for a shampoo and set, one of the many services provided by the Beauty Shop. A manicure, also expertly administered by Mrs. Bojarski, completes her session in the shop.

Beauty Shop Gives 'Aye' To Military Distaffers

Strictly women's realm is the south end of Building 508, where the professionally equipped Navy Exchange Beauty Shop is located. Here every Monday through Friday the fair sex becomes even fairer, with facials, permanents, shampoos, rinses, dyes, scalp treatments, hair cuts, coiffure styling, eyebrow arches and manicures the order of the day.

Three full-time operators—Mrs. Antoinette Bojarski, Mrs. Hazel Dickman and Mrs. Dee Fullilove, each a competent, licensed beautician—handle an average of 10 to 15 customers a day. These women are the wives and dependents of NAS officer and enlisted personnel, as well as Station-based Waves, all of whom enjoy the privilege of reasonably priced beauty service by virtue of their military association.

Thursdays and Fridays are "peak" days, explains Mrs. Bojarski, with appointments filling every minute of the day from 0830 until closing time at 1630.

The shop itself matches any commercially owned beauty salon. There are three dressing tables, three shampoo bowls, two manicure tables and six hair dryers. Any type of hair style, from the current Poodle and Pony fashions to the more traditional cold-wave permanent, can be supplied.

A function of the Navy Exchange operating under LCDR Paul B. Long, Officer in Charge, the Beauty Shop has been in existence nearly ten years as an NAS activity. During World War II, when large numbers of Waves were stationed aboard, facilities were increased to cater to their needs. Although the shop as it now exists is deemed adequate to handle present clientele, it is planned to move the activity in the near future to a more centrally located site.

Until that time, however, the Beauty Shop phone at Extension 1153 records a busy schedule of daily appointments, as Miss and Mrs. NAS keep their powder dry and their spirits high.

"Which war was fought between the North and the South?"

So—the Harshberger's are proud owners of a new deep freeze unit, courtesy of the coffee company. Moral — it doesn't always happen to someone else.

Naval Officers Wear Items of Marine Garb

The Navy plans to adopt two articles of the present Marine Corps uniform for wear by its officers.

They will wear Marine officers' metal shoulder rank insignia on sholder straps of the blue and khaki raincoats and the aviation winter working overcoat.

In addition, both officers and CPO's will wear tropical garrison and cotton khaki shirts of the same style and color as those of the Marine Corps.

PatRon Officer Gets King Size LCDR Promotion

Robert E. Dresel, a member of Patrol Squadron 731, was promoted in a "big-way" to the rank of LCDR, Friday, February 29th.

While standing at attention, and amid the laughter of his shipmates, LCDR Dressel's new insignia, consisting of shoulder boards and collar devices six inches wide, were pinned on him by his Commanding Officer CDR William T. O'Dowd, and Executive Officer LCDR Harold J. Baird.

Before reporting to the squadron, LCDR Dresel served at the Naval Aviation Material Center, Philadelphia, Pa. Since his flight training, he has served at many varied stations, one of these being the Naval Air Station, Port Lyautey, French Morocco.

A Navy veteran of ten years, Dresel is now the patrol squadron's Maintenance Officer.

dence. The divisional committees meet twice each month.

Once each month all shop committees meet together in the station-wide Shop Committees meeting, held with the Commanding Officer and the heads of the departments. In these meetings, the Commanding Officer receives and discusses suggestions made by the committees for the improvement of working conditions and related matters. A complete report of these station-wide Shop Committee meetings is made and distributed for the information of all employees.

Recreation Board Functions

The three candidates receiving the greatest number of votes comprise the divisional Civilian Recreation Committee. The candidate receiving the highest number of votes is designated as chairman. The chairman serves on the Station Civilian Recreation Committee, established for over-all administration of the recreation program.

The divisional boards plan and develop the recreational program on the divisional level. The functions of the divisional boards are to requisition funds needed from the station Recreational Council for authorized recreational purposes, to assist in promotion of station-wide athletic and recreation events by publicizing and communicating such information to division personnel.

Station Notice CP-60 contains additional details on policies and procedures regarding the election of shop committees and welfare and recreation committees. Published last Tuesday, the Notice has now been circulated in shops and offices on the Station.

ELECTRONS

By "Windy" Splichal

The Cable Shop has lost two of its very good workers to jobs as housewives and mothers. Bertie Wheelington left to care for her baby. Katie Tate left because she is to become a very proud and happy mother.

Holland Campbell, Leon Monroe, Enid Cluck, and Beatrice Newton were promoted from Shop Learners to Electrician Helpers.

Eural Crawford, Thomas Franklin, and Lloyd Gauff were promoted from Shop Learners to Radio Helpers. Congratulations to all.

Irvin Brown of Bldg 68 is doing fine while resting at home, however he may not be back to work 'till about April 1.

I. R. Jordan sprained her ankle but being the hard worker she is, she hobbled in to work each day.

Vera Corbett returned to work after a long illness and a month in the desert to recuperate. Hope good health is with you for a long time to come.

M. Moral and Howard Buchanan were patients at the Naval Hospital. M. Moral is now back to work, but Howard "Sarge" is at home.

Joe Shoemaker bid farewell to his second son who joined the Air Force. Andrew B. Shoemaker is now a PVT in San Antonio, Texas. Joe's older son, K. A. Shoemaker is attached here at NAS. He tells us he has one more at home.

Leeann Hollinsworth is back to work after an operation. Glad to see you back and looking so well.

The Electronics Division has four women who are fast becoming known as the "Traveling Women." They are Maud Biddison, Cora Hodge, Minnie Trainer and Cora Woodley. They recently visited Scotty's Castle at Death Valley and on their return stopped at Calico ghost town and hastily explored the town, which at one time was inhabited by 3500 people. Now there are only two people living there. This little town has a silver vein which is 48" thick and contains 85% silver, however no mining is done at this time. The town was bought by Walter Knott recently.

Another interesting adventure the girls enjoyed was riding from Furnace Creek Inn to the 20 mule team borax mine in a stage coach drawn by four horses.

They already have another trip planned to go back again and do some more exploring. They believe that California should be seen.

NAS Doctors Report It's Girls 2-to-1

Last Friday, February 29, was "Leap Year Day," and as the tradition is firmly established, the Naval Air Station's Family Hospital reported that it was strictly a girl's day, 2-to-1.

On that day, three babies were born to face the age-defying phenomenon of having a birthday only once every four years.

The girls born were: Donna Carolyn Marr, daughter of CAPT and Mrs. Robert F. Marr, and Jeanette Lorinda Mitchell, daughter of Electrician Fireman and Mrs. Thomas Wesley Mitchell.

CAPT Marr, USMCR, is stationed at the Naval Amphibious Base in Coronado, and Electrician Fireman Mitchell, is stationed aboard the USS SPERRY, now based in San Diego.

The lone male to take advantage of being born on that day strictly reserved for girls, was Robert Stanley Nesbitt, son of LCDR and Mrs. James O. Nesbitt. LCDR Nesbitt, is attached to FASRon 7, here at the Naval Air Station.

Get Acquainted

Van Hedges, Civilian, Joins Staff of North Islander

A newcomer to the North Islander staff is Van D. Hedges. As Associate Editor he is temporarily relieving George Bergman, who is taking advanced courses at San Diego State College. More than likely many of you have already met this native Californian and like his friendly, quiet and occasional joking personality. He has already proven an asset to the Islander staff and is well liked by his many new friends.

Van Hedges

Van's home town is Los Angeles and like any native Californian he is proud of the large city His first introduction to writing and newspaper work was at the Los Angeles High School. He was assistant editor of the school newspaper and business manager of the annual for his class when he graduated in 1931.

After four years in banking, Van went to work as chief proof reader for the "San Pedro News Pilot." He held this job for three years and then enlisted in the Navy in June of 1941.

As Yeoman 2nd class his first assignment was with the District Intelligence Office, Eleventh Naval District. In less than a year he made Warrant Boatswain and was transferred to the 5th Naval District Intelligence Office, Norfolk, Virginia.

Completing his tour of duty in the 5th ND he was transferred to Commander Amphibious Bases United Kingdom in Plymouth, England. He was to report aboard a troop transport ship and assume the duties of assistant Gunnery Officer and Intelligence Officer; however, his ship was sunk three days before he arrived in England.

Van stayed in England and was made assistant to the Chief of Staff and assistant Public Information Officer. He also wrote the action report on the preparation and follow through of D-Day. After his return to the States, he became Supply and Welfare Officer for the Fleet Home Town News-Center in Chicago until his separation from the Navy as a LTJG in 1946.

As a civilian he accepted a writing job with the 6th Army Recruiting Headquarters at the Presidio in San Francisco where he served as assistant editor of a semi-monthly field publication, "Manpower."

In May 1951 he resigned in order to start his own business and then came to NAS to replace Mr. Bergman February 20.

Creative writing is Van's pet pastime. Humorous verses are all that he has had published as yet but he has high hopes for his future in writing. Another hobby of his is the study of contemporary modern furniture design and construction.

Van plans to settle in San Diego, "Where," he states, "California's best climate exists." (NOTE: Van is in no way connected with the San Diego Chamber of Commerce.)

TWO REAM OFFICERS GET FAREWELL PARTY

Powerplant PARAGRAPHS

By B. DREHER

Lots of vital statistics this week—word was received from RUTH MILLER who formerly worked in Shop 6276 that her son William Michael was born 11:41, February 19 at the Family Hospital. William started out in life at 5 pounds 14½ ounces and both he and his mother are in the best of health.

JAMES WALTNER of Shop 6245 didn't make it to work Feb. 27, as that is the day VICTORIA WALTNER choose as her birthday. She tipped the scales at 6 pounds 10 ounces and with her mother returned to their home from the Mercy Hospital March 3rd.

JAMES RAUSCH of Production Control, Building 379, had another son added to his family February 20—an eight pound eight ouncer. It's rumored that some of the guys are expecting 25 cent cigars when Jim gets back to work.

It is also rumored that JIM MANUEL and FOREST RIDDLE of the Paint Shop are going to put a shuffleboard court up at home so they can get in some extra practice and really give SMITH and RAMIREZ some good competition.

Four Power Plant Apprentices received Certificates of Graduation on Monday, February 25, in CAPT Baird's Office. This represents the end of four years of training aboard the Station and makes these four full fledged journeymen. CHARLES ELLIS is assigned to Shop 6248, ROBERT D. WITCRAFT is assigned to Shop 6236, JAMES WALTNER is assigned to 6245 and ARDEN L. SNIFFEN is in Shop 6235.

ROSEMARY SCARBOROUGH of Material Section and SI SCARBOROUGH of Engine Schedules have been on leave the last couple of weeks getting comfortably settled in their new home at Grove Vista.

Eight wage data collectors, appointed by the Commanding Officer this week, met Thursday, 6 March, at the Naval Supply Depot with data collectors from the other activities for the purpose of indoctrination and special training on the collection of wage data.

Collectors and their departments are: L. D. Hennis, Aircraft Mechanic, General; E. W. White, Leadingman, Aircraft Mechanic, Motor; H. I. Nilsen, Progressman; E. J. Loss, Toolmaker; from the Overhaul and Repair Dept. From Public Works, the collectors are: A. Callahan, Snapper, Pipefitter; and H. M. Smith, Planner and Estimator. Supply and Fiscal is represented by J. B. Heffern, Crater and Packer. Transportation collector will be O. L. Reeves, Automotive Mechanic. Robert S. Putnam, Civilian Industrial Relations Administrator, and E. Lois Land, Wage and Classification Specialist, from the Industrial Relations Dept. will serve as alternate data collectors.

Skiing Party At Big Bear

Plans are nearing completion for the North Island Ski Club party to be held at Big Bear on Saturday and Sunday, March 15th and 16th. Tickets for the party may be obtained from the following people:

Allan Deacon, Building 11, dorm 9; Bill Schneider and Harley Gerdes, Building 706, lower dorm, extension 492. The charge for the tickets is $3.25 each. This includes chicken dinner Saturday evening, dancing, movies, and Saturday night's lodging. Snow conditions continue to be good so there should be excellent skiing.

All personnel who are going to the party should be at the meeting Tuesday evening, March 11th, in the Administration Building Auditorium.

Timbermen Race For Loop Lead

A race for first place is now being run between the Jiggers and the Timbermen in the North Island 800 Scratch Winter Bowling league. Both are tied for first place with a 50 win against a 25 loss record.

Also setting a hot pace is J. Martin, who is nearing G. Sotier's 266 high individual game average with a 264.

Raiders Win AAU Tourney

Skyraider boxers gathered up 13 points in the Pacific Southwest AAU Tournament last Wednesday and Saturday to enable them to take the team title and trophy, contrary to earlier announcements. Out of the 11 fighters entered from this station, five came out as winners, and five as runners-up. Only one scrapper was defeated in the preliminaries.

CruDesPac took a second place with 11 points, MCRD took third with nine, PhibPac fourth with five, and Naval Station and Miramar tied with four each.

Out of the five winners, three were in the novice, and two in the open divisions. Two were won by default.

NI Handballers In Quarter Finals

Last night at Navy Field two men representing the Skyraider handball team entered in the quarter finals of the San Diego eliminations. Results of the matches could not be obtained by press time, and will be published next week.

The doubles eliminations start today, the winners of the doubles and singles then go to the Naval Station, Long Beach for the finals on 27 March.

Those who entered last night were: W. D. Stainbach, ATC, and Ensign G. P. Douglas.

VC-11 Defeats Rogers, FAS-691 Bows To Sicily In Minor League Play

The Minor League playoffs of 1952 opened Tuesday at the Naval Station, Long Beach, California, with two teams from North Island entered. VC-11 Comets walked off with a neat 79-55 victory over the USS ROGERS, while the Buckeyes of Fasron 691 suffered a 64-50 defeat at the hands of the USS SICILY.

Los Alamitos drew a bye for the first round of the tourney, and were scheduled to play VC-11 Wednesday at 1400. Results were not obtained by press time, and will be published next week.

Seals, Jackwin Reign As New Television Champions

By Bob Laible

Skyraider scrappers Eddie Jackwin and Kirby Seals each battled their way to a title spot on the "Meet the Champ" show at the NAS Theater last Thursday evening, and earned the right to defend their titles before television screens in all parts of the country. This was the first time in the history of the newly formed show that two fighters from one station have succeeded in winning both championships.

Jackwin battled Lloyd House, Camp Lejeune Marine in the welterweight division, and heavyweight Seals tangled with Lucius Tate of Camp San Luis Obispo. Both slugged out unanimous decisions.

A difficulty in microwave transmission between here and Los Angeles resulted in the picture not getting through, causing the fights to be staged all over again Saturday night in another weight division. Although the Jackwin-Seals' fights were not televised, their championships remain.

It was the Skyraiders all the way Thursday night with Jackwin switch-hitting and crouching throughout the fight. House made a futile attempt for the fight in the fourth and final round, but Jackwin caught him coming in and staggered him with vicious left hooks to the body.

In the heavyweight class, Tate forced Seals to fight in close, trying to cut his chances of throwing that terrific right hand which almost spilled him in the first round. Although Tate looked plenty good, Seals continually bothered him with jabs, and wore his opponent down with murderous body punches.

Jackwin spotted House four pounds, the latter weighing in at 146, while Seals weighed in at 190, to Tate's 220.

In Saturday night's brawl, there was only one championship bout between Milton Hanson of Great

Airmen Defeat Pendleton, Play Last Game Tomorrow

By Leon Cox

The Naval Air Skyraiders came through with the most spectacular win of the season by defeating Camp Pendleton 69-61 in the Marine's gym last Thursday night.

Scoring 52 points in the second half the Skyraiders turned what looked like a humiliating loss into a stunning victory. Trailing 19 points at the half, Skyraider Coach Chief R. E. Ledingham put an entirely new team on the floor with the exception of Art Borchers. Gary Glick, Roy Hubbs, Whitey Coffman, Art Borchers, Dale Hancey and Jim Grewe, proceded to whittle down the Marines' lead.

In the first quarter the Marines jumped to a quick 17-8 lead with Carpenter of the Marines setting the scoring pace. Borchers and Snider scoring for the Naval Airmen.

The Marines lengthened their lead to 19 points at the half, making the score 36-17.

At the beginning of the third quarter the Skyraiders started to find the range with Gary Glick hitting eight points in this quarter. With Glick, Coffman, and Hancey hitting from all angles to cut the Marines' lead down to 10 points, making the score 52-42 at the end of the third quarter.

The Skymen continued putting on the pressure in the last quarter with Glick, Grewer, Hancey, Hubbs and Borchers teaming to overtake the Marines and then go ahead, winning by a score of 69-61.

Gary Glick captured high point honors for the night with 15 points.

SKYRAIDERS LOSE TO VENTURA

The Skyraiders were defeated by Ventura J.C. Saturday night on Ventura's court by a score of 85-56. Ventura suffered defeat at the hands of the Skyraiders at the beginning of the season 64-54. Jim Bird scored 25 points to lead both

A Corner on SPORTS

By Bob Laible

MALVEZZI WINS AAU WITHOUT A FIGHT

There's an old law that applies to boxing, namely, that "championships are won in the ring, and lost in the ring." Well here's one case where the old law hit a snag. The scene we're referring to is the AAU tournament just completed. In this instance, one of our featherweights, Don Malvezzi, who was of course just an innocent bystander, won the AAU featherweight title, without even working up a lather, let alone slugging it out for the championship.

Here's the story behind it. The first night of the AAU tournament saw three featherweights entered in the open division: Jeff Underwood from CruDesPac, and two Skyraiders, Don Malvezzi, and Ed Buffaloe. Malvezzi drew a bye, and Buffaloe KO'd Underwood in the first round which would have thrown the two stablemates together for the title go. That was on Wednesday night. On Thursday night, Buffaloe battled with Glenn Erwin from NTC on the "Meet the Champ" show, and won a unanimous decision; despite a broken thumb which occurred sometime during the fight; this put him out of the AAU altogether, and since there were no other featherweights entered in the open division, Malvezzi won the title without a fight.

KITE ALSO OUT OF AAU

Dale Kite, young Skyraider bantamweight would have undoubtedly copped the bantam weight title, if it weren't for a cut eye he received a few hours before the AAU finals were to start. He was scheduled to fight Neil Stevens of MCRD, a lad he won a unanimous decision over Thursday night during the "Meet the Champ" show. Since Thursday's night show didn't go through because of a failure in the microwave transmission, the fights were staged again Saturday night, with different scrappers. Kite fought Milton Hanson, the "champ" from Great Lakes, and during the course of the fight suffered a cut eye, which put him out of the AAU, enabling Stevens to win by default.

HIPPS' UP AND COMING

Watch for Bob Hipps. We feel that this boy will make a name for himself in boxing circles in the near future. He lost the title in the AAU, but it wasn't because he met a better man, it was his first tournament fight and he just got a little excited and confused about taking an eight count on a "slip." He'll know better next time.

ON THE DIAMOND

Over 36 softball players came out to try for a spot on the Skyraider softball team, more than doubling the first week's turnout. Looks like we might have a team after all.

Coach Speed announced this week that 20 men have been cut from the baseball team, leaving 35 left. Although more cuts are still to come, spots are still open for anyone who wishes to try out for both teams.

Plans for Varsity Golf Team Underway

Plans are now underway for the formation of a Skyraider varsity golf team, to be made up of personnel from Fleet Air Units in the San Diego area, Naval Air Bases in the San Diego area, and personnel from the Naval Air Station, San Diego, it was announced this week.

An elimination tournament will be held on 10, 13 and 14 March at the Rancho Santa Fe links. Each entrant will play two rounds of medal play, totaling 36 holes, with the low twenty-four entries qualifying to play the final 36 holes on Friday 14 March.

The eight low medal scores from 72 holes of competition will form the Skyraider team.

Entries must be turned in to the Force Athletic Officer, Room 21 of the NAS Theater Building no later than today, 7 March. Play will begin promptly at 0815 Monday, 10 March.

Participants shall have their own golf clubs, balls, and athletic clothing. Green fees have been lowered to $1.00 for enlisted personnel, and $1.50 for officer personnel.

Air Pac Sports

By BOB SWISHER

The possibility of a clean sweep by FAIRBETUPac in the four winter intermural sports looms larger and larger.

With only two weeks left in three of the four divisions, the incomparable Raiders remain undefeated in every league. This week their bowling team defeated VC-35 and the horseshoe slingers stopped VS-892. The twin wins left them with a combined record of 21-0.

They lead the handball race with four wins, the horseshoe loop with six successes and volleyball with seven straight victories. Only bowling keeps the Raiders from being on top in every league. Here their four wins is one-half game behind VP-731, who has five consecutive victories. Actually there are three undefeated teams in the torrid bowling race, Ready Issue filling out the trio with a perfect slate in four outings.

But things are due to start popping on the alleys. Next Friday, FAIRBETUPac and Ready Issue tangle and a loss to either squad would probably knock them out of contention.

Other important tussles coming up next week will feature handball. VP-731, who currently is third in the league with a 5-1 mark, clashes head-on with both the leading Raiders and second place VS-21, who is unbeaten in three starts and trailing FAIRBETUPac by only one-half game.

Pistolmen To Face Targets Tomorrow

A bull's-eye session for North Island Civilian Pistol Club members is scheduled for 1300 tomorrow at the San Diego Police Pistol Range, Home and Federal Avenues.

Interested non-members are invited to attend the meet, and may obtain further information by calling George Little, Ext. 558, Fred Rowe, Ext. 609, or Tommy Caldwell, Ext. 222.

Matmen Place 8th In Western AAU

The Skyraider wrestling team returned this week from competition in the Far Western AAU tournament with four 4th places. The Naval Airmen took eighth place out of the 28 teams entered, including many top-notch college and service teams.

Those who placed fourth were: Carroll Vonk, Tommy Dillow, Chuck Wilhite, and Frank Baumgartner.

SkeetTeamFormed

The formation of an eight-team North Island intramural skeet league, which will include both NAS and FAD North Island units, has been completed. Shooting will start in the near future.

The eight teams which have entered are: NAS San Diego and NAB Staff (combined); Transport squadrons (combined); Carrier Air Groups (combined); ComFairWing 14 and squadrons (combined) FASRons (combined); ComUTWingPac and squadrons (combined); VS-VC Squadrons and ComAirPac staff (combined); and FAIRBETUPac.

Basic reason for the combination of different units derives from an order issued by BUORD which allows a station of this size eight teams.

West Coast's First Helicopter Anti-Sub Squadron Commissioned at ALF Ream Today

Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron Two, the West Coast's first squadron of this type, will be commissioned today in ceremonies at ALF Ream. HS-1 is based at Key West, Florida.

The squadron will be in training status after commissioning and its work until it is on an operational basis will be of a development nature. Fifty officers and 180 enlisted men will be in the new squadron.

CDR Edward H. Bayers, USN, and LCDR Wm. G. Knapp, USNR, will assume the roles of skipper and exec respectively of the first HS-2.

The commissioning ceremonies forming Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron two, will culminate many long months of planning and preparation.

CDR Bayers, residing at 66 Casselman Place, Chula Vista, has recently completed a tour of duty at the Electronics Test Division, Naval Air Test Center, Patuxent River, Md. He participated in the development of the electronic equipment to be employed by the squadron.

LCRD Knapp hails from New York State and is on the record as holding the Navy's No. 1 helicopter pilot card. His last tour of duty was in the Rotary Wing Design Branch of BUAER in Washington. LCDR Knapp actively participated in research and development in the early days of the helicopter. He now resides at 2825 E. Ave., National City.

Another 'Copter Saga With a Happy Ending

The helicopter had just beeen secured on the fantail of the ship at the end of a typically strenuous day's operation in the forward area, when "Hank" Cardoza, Aviation Pilot First Class, received word that a pilot was reported down near Hungnam.

With Cardoza at the controls of the helicopter, and J. H. Hicks, AM2, as crewman, the rescue mission was organized and underway with a British fighter division as cover, in record time.

Upon arriving over the downed pilot, Cardoza landed near the wrecked plane. Hicks immediately jumped from the helicopter to free the pilot who was trapped in the cockpit. Cardoza, observing that Hicks was having difficulty in freeing the pilot's leg, dashed to Hick's assistance. With Hicks on one side of the cockpit and Cardoza on the other, they were successful in freeing the pilot's broken ankle. Between the two men they loaded the injured pilot aboard the helicopter, and took off under the muzzles of Hungnam's enemy defensive artillery and quickly returned to their base to add another happy ending to the volume of rescue sagas increasing in size daily at Helicopter Squadron One.

For this outstanding act of personal heroism, Cardoza was awarded the Bronze Star Medal and Hicks was awarded the Air Medal.

The above rescue story is an example of the excellent record of the enlisted pilots and crewmen in accomplishing their missions in the forward area.

VS-23 Pilot Plucked From Ocean by Ream Helicopter

During local operations off the coast of San Diego, LT L. C. Salmans, of VS-23, found himself in the water following a landing accident aboard the USS RENDOVA. Within a few minutes the plane guard helicopter, piloted by Robert W. Camp, ACC (AP), and his crewman, Johnny L. Lanning, AD3, plucked LT Salmans from the water and returned him safely to his ship.

When aircraft are taking off or landing aboard carriers, the helicopter is airborne and in a position to rush to the assistance of any pilot that may be in distress. HU-1 provides helicopter units to all the carriers in the Pacific Fleet.

Face-Lifting Is Going on at Ream

Ream Field is under the process of getting its face lifted. LCDR J. C. Thompson, who recently relieved CDR E. Evans Jr., as officer in charge of the gardening crew, is now responsible for making the surrounding area look inhabited.

The area around the base was fast becoming a "dust bowl" until the landscapers moved in and planted grass, flowers, trees and bushes. This process is known as "anchoring the soil" and must be done carefully as all their labor may be washed away in one heavy rain storm.

A diligent working crew comprised of men from VU-7, HU-1 and VU-3 receive the credit for being the men behind the shovels that has made Ream Field look like home.

HU-1 Picnic

Last Friday HU-1 held an all hands picnic at the picnic and recreation grounds of Lower Otay Lake. There was plenty of chow, consisting of hot dogs, baked beans, potato salad, and all the trimmings. Of course kegs of cold beer on tap was a high priority item.

Although it rained intermittently throughout the afternoon, it had little effect on the activities. A good time was had by all hands, and HU-1 is looking forward to another such event.

MEN OF VU-7 load a JD-1 type engine aboard R5-C. This engine was flown to NAS Whidbey Island a week ago last Monday as a replacement for an engine in one of their aircraft there.

VU-7 Man Gets Orders to OCS

John M. Busby, YNSN, has received orders to report to the U.S. Naval Academy Preparatory School, Bainbridge, Md., on June 1.

Busby was graduated from Orlando, Fla. High School and attended the University of Florida for two years, worked on the hometown newspaper for about a year, prior to joining the Navy on Oct. 28, 1950. He went through recruit training at San Diego and is attached to VU-7.

John M. Busby

Upon completion of prescribed college courses, he may be commissioned as Ensign in the USNR, and serve in the capacity of a line officer, until such time as he will be placed on inactive reserve status. In this event he will take up the journalist quill once again.

Bingo Featured Wed. at CPO Club

Bingo! CPO Mess (open) Wednesday night! That's what they are playing every week at ALF Room.

Every Wednesday night from 2000 to 2300 for the past eight weeks, chiefs, their wives and guests have been playing Bingo. A week ago last Wednesday night saw Mrs. Pearl Bagby, wife of Joe Bagby, ADC, (AP), of North Island Operations, become the lucky winner. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bagby were the guests of L. W. Tracy, ADC, (AP), of HU-1.

Manager of the club N. A. Haas, ADC, and assistant manager P. E. Slavin, ADC, like to give every stranger an introduction as they have guests from all Navy ships and stations in the San Diego area.

Bingo night the club features shrimp dinners, as well as the steak special.

VU-3 (K) Needs More Intramural Athletes

Utron Three has a good start towards fielding teams for the current AirPac quarterly sports program but athletes are still needed for some teams such as handball and bowling.

The horseshoes team looks very promising with such "dead-eyes" as B. L. Hood, AM3, C. Haner, AM2, O. J. Reynolds, AE3, and B. J. Juel, AO1 throwing the ringers.

The volleyball team is under way for a good showing this quarter with Lt. (JG) W. C. Snellman, R. E. Warner AOAN, R. L. Phillips AD3, G. B. Knoll AMAN, B. Averill AL3, A. H. Eldridge SA, B. W. English AN, W. R. Estes AN, H. I. Price ADAN, J. A. Odom ADAN, K. E. Schull ADAN, A. J. Warp AEC, G. W. Stallknect AT2 and I. I. Betty AA out for the team.

The players working out for the handball team so far are ENS W. C. Braun, P. S. Hager AN, J. E. Robinson AT2, I. J. Lightblau AEM3, and A. (N) Seker AN.

Anyone desiring to try their hand at Bowling see A. J. Warp AEC, L. A. Graupmann AO2 or the U-3(K) Athletic Officer LTJG W. C. Snellman.

VU-7 Intramural Sports Underway

VU-7 men are provided with a well rounded intramural sports program. The program, under the direction of ENS J. G. Schulte, Athletic Officer for VU-7, gives the men at least one or two afternoons a week of physical recreation.

At present the program covers bowling, handball, horseshoes and volleyball. The squadron is divided into 15 teams which include at least two officers on each team. The purpose of this program is to keep the men in top-notch physical condition.

Chapel Services will be held at ALF Ream Sunday as follows:

Reserve Bill Studied by Committee

The Senate Armed Services Committee, having reported the Pay Bill, now turns its attention to the Armed Forces Reserve Act.

Open hearings are scheduled to begin soon on the measure that passed the House of Representatives late in 1951. Sometimes called the "Reservist's Bill of Rights," the bill would set up three categories of reserves: Ready, Standby and Retired.

Members of the Ready Reserve could be called into active service during a national emergency declared by the President. Standby reservists, however, could only be called into Service during an emergency declared by Congress. Those in retired status would not be recalled involuntarily until qualified men from the other categories had been called.

New Passenger Ferry Slated To Serve NAS

A new passenger ferry, the "Monterey," will soon go into operation on the San Diego-NAS run, the Star & Crescent Co. announced this week.

Now being completed in San Diego, the new vessel is scheduled to join S&C's present fleet of ferries in about three weeks.

With a 600-passenger capacity, the new craft has a hull of steel construction, with wood and plywood superstructure. It resembles the present two-decked vessels now in operation.

Powered with diesel engines, the "Monterey" will have triple-screw propulsion. It is 64 feet long with a beam of 27 feet.

It is designed to operate primarily during the rush hour periods at the Island.

Begin Data Collecting For Survey

Data collections for the Area Wage Survey got underway this week by the assignment of local business firms to the four data collection teams for this station.

This activity has been assigned twenty local business firms to contact. These firms have been divided so that each of the data collection teams will have five firms from which to gather wage data.

The information obtained by the data collectors will be compiled by the Area Wage Survey committee and sent to the Navy Department to assist in setting an average wage for ungraded civilian employees of the Navy in the San Diego-Oceanside area.

Variety Show To Play NAS Saturday 1930

A group of variety acts will be shown by George Bruce and his variety show, Saturday evening at 1930 in the NAS theater. The show is open to all Military personnel and their dependents.

Weight lifting demonstrations will be given by Leo Stearn, famous San Diego strong-man. An adagio act will be presented by Russ Saunders and Joy Crown.

Beverly Jocher, "Miss Venus of California," will appear with the show, as well as Jackie Coey, 1951 American Legion sweetheart and Merci Dascenzo.

Feature attraction of the show will be a beauty contest to determine "Miss NAS."

Mail Call

PFC VERNON HASS of the NAS Marine Barracks gets acquainted with the "new system" at the Station branch post office as he is greeted by D. A. Olds, superintendent of the branch. Divisions on the Station are assigned locked postal boxes for incoming mail, eliminating the former 1000 and 1400 mail calls. As well as making mail available to units on the Station soon after it arrives, the new system aids post office personnel by making it necessary to handle mail only once.

Annual Metals Conference Starts Tuesday, March 18

"Working Today with the Metals of Tomorrow" will be the theme of the annual Metals Conference which starts March 18 at Hoover high school auditorium. Held on Tuesday evenings from 1930 to 2130, it is considered of particular interest to machinists, engineers, inspectors, and technicians on the Island.

The seven session conference is sponsored by the American Society for Metals, San Diego chapter, with the cooperation of the American Society of Training Directors, and San Diego Vocational School. It is open to all with no tuition charge. Those planning to attend the conference should register at the time of the first meeting on March 18.

The conference features many speakers who are considered specialists in the field of metallurgy. Latest processes in forming metal, heat treatment, and latest developments in alloys will be topics under discussion at the sessions. Motion pictures and demonstration materials will supplement the lectures.

Don O. Shively, of NAS Civilian Training Div., said that in the past quite a number of NAS employees, particularly from Metal & Machine Div., have attended the conference and have found it quite informative.

Certificates are awarded those who attend the scheduled sessions of the conference. NAS employees who receive certificates may have a record made of it in their personnel record jackets if they request it.

Hoover high school, scene of Metals Conference sessions, is located at 4474 El Cajon Blvd.

The Conference schedule, with speakers and topics for all seven sessions, is listed below:

There's More Than Malarkey Behind St. Patrick's Day

By H. T. LAVIN
Catholic Chaplain

The clans will gather, the shamrocks will blossom in many a lapel and green will be the order of the day. Yes, and many a shillelagh will be wagged with a confident air by those who are the children of Erin. In San Francisco and New York, as in many other cities, traffic will be halted on the main avenues to let one of the biggest and most colorful of parades go by. And why all this? Well, don't ask an Irishman on March 17th because he may punctuate his answer "why faith and begorrah 'tis St. Patrick's day" with a few sharp knocks on your dome.

The story of St. Patrick is one dear to the hearts of all Irishmen. When only sixteen, Patrick was taken captive from his home at Kilpatrick, Scotland, to Ireland. Here he tended the sheep and cattle of his master, an Iruid Chieftain, until he was admonished by God in a dream to escape to his country. Many years later he was commissioned by the Pope to bring the faith to Ireland. With great zeal and ardor Patrick began his task and soon many had left their pagan way of life to embrace Christianity.

One of the highlights of Patrick's struggle to win Ireland to Christ occurred on the Eve of Easter in 433. A decree had been issued that all lights in Ireland be extinguished until the signal blaze be lighted in the royal mansion. Arriving at Tara, Patrick struck a light to proclaim to all in the kingdom that a new light had come—the light of Christ's gospel.

Sixty years later, when death claimed Patrick, the light that he had ignited in Tara had become a roaring flame, a flame that led people from the darkness of Paganism to the source of all light—God. Yes, the Irish will salute St. Patrick on March 17th and many who admire a courageous and heroic man of God will do the same.

"All hail to St. Patrick, who brought to our mountains the gift of God's faith, the sweet light of his love."

Top San Diegans Will Address Supervisors

A new Management Development Group, whose purpose will be the discussion of supervisory topics common to San Diego area Naval installations, manufacturing plants, and public utility and municipal government agencies, will hold the first in a series of five meetings at 1930, Tuesday, March 25, on the second floor of the Downtown YMCA.

Some 30 supervisorial representatives from these various activities are expected to attend the meetings, each of which will feature the appearance of a special "resource man" who will answer questions of a supervisory nature developed by group members. Resource men will be drawn from among top executives in San Diego industry.

Deadline Today For Petitions, Names of Judges

Today is the deadline for submission of petitions nominating candidates to run for election as Shop Committee and Division Civilian Recreation Board representatives, according to a reminder from the Industrial Relations Department.

Completed petitions with the required number of signatures must be turned in to the senior civilian supervisor of each organizational unit by this afternoon, and senior civilians must also submit the names of election judges to IRD before the close of working hours today.

What Is the Meaning Of the Cross?

High on a hill east of San Diego, there stands a big white Cross. It has become a tourist attraction in that many a stranger visiting or passing through the city has considered his time well spent in making the journey to the top of the hill to stand beneath that Cross.

What is the meaning of that Cross on the hill? the Cross on the altar? and the Crosses row upon row in the many national cemeteries in the world?

The meaning of this Cross is found in the life of Christ. Its history began the night that Christ was betrayed into the hands of His enemies. An order was sent by the Roman officials at Jerusalem to a carpenter demanding that another Cross must be made before the morning—the schedule now called for the crucifixion of three criminals. When the morning sun began to rise above the horizon, the third Cross was brought before the court of Pontius Pilate, and placed upon the shoulders of One who was unjustly condemned to die by crucifixion. This One was Jesus Christ who is the true God, begotten of the Father from all eternity, and also true man born of the Virgin Mary.

Jesus carried the Cross to Calvary amidst the prodding and jeering of His enemies, and the weeping of His friends. On Calvary's Hill, He was nailed to that Cross which was then raised up, and He was left to die upon it the most excruciating death mankind has ever known.

But why? Here is the answer! On that Cross, Jesus took the sinners' place, and took upon Himself the sin of all sinners of all times. By making all sin His own, His suffering and death provided atonement for all sin, and mankind was again bought back from sin, death, and from the power of the Devil under whose domination mankind had come after his first disobedience in the Garden of Eden. Therefore, through the centuries, this Cross has always been the symbol of our salvation, and the hope of a better world.

Protestant Lenten Services

Protestant Lenten services, every Thursday at 1215 to 1245 in Building 8 Auditorium.

Catholic Lenten Services

Beginning on the 31st of March and extending until the 4th of April a Lenten Mission is to be given on the Naval Air Station by Father Joseph M. Keefe, Vincentian Missionary. All Catholics aboard the station are most cordially invited to attend the mission exercises. A special invitation is extended to all civilian employees and their friends. There will be two exercises each day. One will be held at 1200 in the Auditorium of Building 8 (South end of Administration building) and the other at 8 p.m. in the main chapel. The exercise in the evening will not be a repetition of the one at noon.

Here is an opportunity for all Catholics to make a semi-retreat and draw closer to Almighty God.

ON ROADS OF NAVAL FAME

Curtiss Brought Aviation To North Island in 1911

Probably no other person more genuinely deserves the title of "Father of Naval Aviation" than Glenn Hammond Curtiss. Two events only a week apart in January, 1911, which significantly demonstrated the future possibilities of a Naval air arm were sponsored by this pioneer aviator. Both Ely's landing on the battle cruiser USS PENNSYLVANIA in San Francisco bay, January 18, 1911, and the hydro-plane flight at San Deigo a week later were carried out by Curtiss.

Like the Wright brothers, Curtiss operated a bicycle shop in his early career. His interests progressed from bicycles to motorcycles and finally to "flying machines." In 1907 he constructed a motorcycle with an eight-cylinder engine. He traveled to Florida with his machine and there he set a world's record of 137 miles per hour.

Lacking any higher education in engineering, Curtiss was a self-taught man. Never putting any idea down on paper, he confidently set about developing an inspiration, apparently with a mental "blueprint" of every detail. Whenever a technical problem arose, he would retire to a corner of his shop, meditate over the difficulty and come up with a solution.

"The battles of the future will be fought in the air!" Curtiss declared. In 1912 he claimed he could construct a plane which would carry a "ton of dynamite." People who knew Curtiss say that he visualized aircraft carriers similar to the modern flattop of today, and future use of airplanes for carrying mail and passengers appeared to be a certainty to him. Of the many predictions Curtiss made as to the future use of aircraft only one seems to be unrealized. Curtiss seems to have visualized an airplane which would net game birds much as a trawler seines for fish at sea. But what genius hasn't indulged in some fantastic ideas?

Rumors Vs. Facts

about the Red Cross

RUMOR . . .

Quite often you'll hear that in some cases Red Cross has actually sold blood to wounded GIs in Korea.

THE FACT . . .

Red Cross cannot possibly sell blood to GIs. Red Cross collects blood, processes it, and turns it over to the military on our West Coast. From that point on Red Cross has nothing to do with it. It is inconceivable that our military leaders would in turn sell it to their wounded men.

RUMOR . . .

The one that almost everyone has heard is that during World War II Red Cross charged servicemen for cigarettes which were marked "Gift of the American Red Cross."

THE FACT . . .

RED CROSS DOES NOT SELL AND HAS NEVER SOLD CIGARETTES! To do so would be a violation of Bureau of Internal Revenue regulations. In some instances, shipments of cigarettes have been switched, and Army Post Exchanges received Red Cross cigarettes and sold them; while Red Cross received the unmarked cigarettes and GAVE THEM AWAY. Also, Red Cross supplies were sometimes stolen and fell into the hands of black marketeers, and it was they—not Red Cross—who sold them to servicemen.

RUMOR . . .

It is said that Red Cross charged servicemen for food and lodging in clubs and hotels.

THE FACT . . .

This statement is true. During World War II, Allied soldiers, whose pay scale was way below that of the Americans, were required to pay in their clubs and canteens. For this reason the combined chiefs of staff agreed that it would be more equitable to charge American boys, and under their instructions Red Cross established a below-cost charge in off-post clubs and hotels. In on-post clubs, canteens and club-mobiles, Red Cross services were ALWAYS FREE. This misunderstanding will not arise in the Korean conflict because, since the troops are primarily those of the United States, Red Cross has been permitted to make all of its services available in all areas at no cost.

RUMOR . . .

It is charged that although Red Cross maintains a huge surplus fund the mercy organization continues to conduct fund drives.

THE FACT . . .

Because of oversubscribed wartime fund drives, the Red Cross came out of World War II with a surplus of $80,000,000. That surplus was earmarked for expenditure over a period of five years, and the campaign goals were reduced accordingly. For example, the 1951-52 fiscal year was the fifth and last year to come under that allocation; thus, the budget called for actual expenditures of $92,000,000, but the campaign goal was set at $85,000,000. Red Cross bases its goal on the amount needed, not on the amount to be spent! Hereafter, all Red Cross services will be given on the basis of annual income from its fund campaign, as there will be no surplus.

RUMOR . . .

Many think that the United States government will make up any deficit in the Red Cross budget.

THE FACT . . .

The Federal government and National Red Cross each has its own function in an emergency—AND EACH PAYS ITS OWN WAY! For example, in the recent flood disaster in the Middle West, the job of government was the reconstruction of schools, roads, sewers, water systems, and other public works. For that purpose—and NOT for Red Cross services—the federal government appropriated $25,000,000. Red Cross, on the other hand, took care of the people—provided emergency food, clothing, and shelter and helped them to repair homes and farms and replace livestock and equipment. In short, Red Cross undertakes the job of rehabilitating the individual—and Red Cross pays the bills. Definitely, Red Cross receives no funds from Federal, State, or local governments.

This Week's News

at a glance

Fulencio Batista seized control of the Cuban government Monday, deposing President Carlos Prio Socarras. It was nothing new for the General, who in the 1930's overthrew three other presidents. In a move that was almost bloodless, he attacked the presidential palace with army forces under his contol. He justified his revolt by claiming that the government had become a collection of "ward heelers" and declaring that President Prio was plotting a "coup."

Antoine Pinay succeeded in forming a Conservative coalition government acceptable to the French National Assembly, Tuesday. The new government's ability to survive stormy issues that are coming is anything but certain. It will face the problem of meeting French obligations in the Atlantic Pact defense plan soon.

The State Department clamped rigid restrictions on the free movement of Soviet officials in the United States. The action came as a result of Russian regulations hampering the movement of Americans in the Soviet. Russians must now make application to travel further than 25 miles from the center of Washington, D. C., or New York.

At the same time, the Supreme Court ruled that the United States may deport aliens for past membership in the Communist Party.

RADM R. E. Libby, answering continued Communist stalling in the truce talks, told North Korean representatives: "We are getting fed up with your attempts to make things appear as facts that are not facts!" GEN Ridgway said future of the talks was uncertain. Issues still unsolved are, 1) repatriation of prisoners, and 2) armistice inspection.

Western officials eyed with understandable suspicion the Soviet proposal for conference to draw up a German peace treaty. According to the Russians, they would like to see a free press, freedom of speech and elections and other democratic guarantees in Germany.

Increased taxes and food prices and reduced imports are new measures for meeting Britain's economic problems. In a budget presented to Parliament, Churchill's government raised the tax on gasoline from 27 to 35 cents a gallon. Meat will go up five cents per pound. Bank rates on loans were increased, imports slashed 100,000,000 pounds. A new excess profits tax now takes 30 percent. Less than 40 British citizens now make over $20,000 after taxes.

Exchange Bulletin Board Sells Articles, Services

Like to get rid of that studio couch you've got stashed away out in the garage? Want to list a car or maybe a motorcycle for sale to a buyer who's located right here on the Station?

The gleaming new bulletin board at the entrance to the Navy Exchange, Building 91, is the place to do it. On it NAS civilian and military personnel may advertise rooms, houses, radios, TV sets, golf clubs, furniture, rides wanted, articles lost and found, or just about any article they have no need for and would like to turn into cash.

The new glass-enclosed board, where up to 96 separate items may be listed without charge on uniform 3" x 5" cards for a two-week period, replaces the former board on which cards of various sizes and kinds were haphazardly tacked for indefinite periods of time. Now cards are held neatly and securely between horizontal wooden strips, allowed to remain for a week on the first-half-of-the-month side, then rotated to the other side for another week, unless previously removed when results are obtained.

Here's how to place a listing on the board, according to H. R. Heffner, SHC, in charge. Go in person to the Navy Exchange Security Office on the second deck of Building 91, and ask Chief Heffner or any man on duty for a bulletin board card. Print or type what you want to say, include your name and how you can be reached, and be sure to date the card. Your advertisement will be put up that same day. As soon as you get results, notify the Exchange Security Office so that your card may be taken down to make room for others. No telephone placements are permitted.

Chief Heffner reports that bulletin board advertising gets excellent results, and the crowds which the board attracts each day seem to bear out this statement.

O&R Man Transfered To NAS Norfolk

Ralph D. Dixon, of O&R Structures Division, will transfer today to the Naval Air Station, Norfolk Division.

Dixon, who has worked in the NAS O&R Department since 1939, requested a transfer to Norfolk because of its proximity to his home in Vanceboro, North Carolina.

A Leadingman, AMG, in Disassembly for the last seven years, he was active in numerous Civilian Welfare & Recreation sports. Between 1923 and 1929 he served in the Navy.

VF-884 Holds Command Change

In change of command ceremonies last week LCDR Frederick W. Bowen, relieved LCDR Gordon E. Hartley, as commanding officer of VF-884, aboard the Naval Air Station.

LCDR Bowen was serving as executive officer of the squadron prior to assuming command. He was formerly chief flight instructor at Saufley Field, Pensacola Naval Air Station.

LCDR Hartley was commanding officer for the past year and during its tour of duty in the Korean area aboard the aircraft carrier, USS BOXER. He has received orders to report to VC-3 at Moffet Field, Calif.

LCDR Bowen entered flight training in August, 1941, at Seattle, Washington, and served in various fighter squadrons during World War II. He reported to VF-884 in November, 1951.

Service Post Tosses Bouquet Islander Way

The Commanding Office of NAS received a letter last week from the North Island Service Post 753 of the American Legion, expressing appreciation to the NORTH ISLANDER for its aid in developing common interests between civlian and military personnel on the station.

The letter reads:

"Many verbal compliments for the North Islander as being a high morale booster to the Employees of this Station has been brought to the attention of the North Island Service Post No. 753 of the American Legion.

"It was felt by the Post that this should be passed on to your office to express sincere thanks for excellent Civilian news coverage and 100 percent co-operation by your office for each worthy cause undertaken.

"This has, in fact, been greatly responsible for the common interests developed between the Civilian Employees and the Military and Naval Forces of your Command.

"For this, the members of the North Island Service Post No. 753 of the American Legion wish to extend a hearty 'Well Done.'"

(Signed)
James O. Vinson, Adjutant.

Chiefs' Dance Is A Big Success

The dance held last week at the CPO Mess (Open) turned out to be quite successful despite the rain. Plans are being made for another in the near future.

Chiefs and their ladies of VP-731 also held a very successful dinner-dance at the CPO Mess and are planning another.

It's Unusual, Weather You Like It or Not

Dry statistics will hardly dispel the wetness of the weather last Friday. However, personnel who waded through the river-like boulevards of the Air Station on that afternoon should be assured that: THIS WAS DEFINITELY UNUSUAL. Old-timers claim that they had never seen the "likes of it" before.

Weather Central records substantiated the claims of the old-timers. It was a "junior-sized" cloudburst, to use unmeteorological terminology, that hit North Island last Friday. In 47 minutes, one inch of moisture furiously descended on the area, and you would have to look a long time before you would find anything comparable in the weatherman's book.

VS-892 To Hold Spring Dance

A "Spring Fever" dance, with slacks and sport shirts in order for men and cotton dresses for women, will be held on March 22 at the Commissioned Officers Mess (Open). The informal affair is to be sponsored by VS-892, and all officers in the San Diego area and their guests are invited to attend.

Featuring an orchestra and entertainment, the dance will be preceded by a special cocktail hour from 1830 to 1930. Dinner will be served from 1900 to 2200.

Admission will be $5 per couple with dinner; $1.50 per couple without dinner.

Philatelists Meet

Service personnel interested in stamp collecting are invited to attend meetings of the San Diego Stamp Club, which meets the fourth Tuesday of each month.

Meetings are held in the San Diego Electric Building, at 6th and E streets at 1930.

Q. WHEN COMPUTING ANNUAL LEAVE ACCRUAL, WHAT SERVICE IS CONSIDERED CREDITABLE SERVICE?

A. In determining years of service for the purpose of annual leave accrual, there shall be credited all periods of civilian Federal service and all periods of honorable military service which are potentially creditable for annuity under the Civil Service Retirement Act. The following types of service were ruled specifically to be creditable:

(1) Service for which retirement deductions were made, but which were withdrawn by an employee during a period of separation.
(2) Government service during which no retirement deductions were made.
(3) Federal civilian service for which an employee is now receiving an annuity under another retirement system.
(4) Military service on the basis of which an employee is receiving retired pay.
(5) Military service even though an employee does not have five years of civilian service.
(6) Service performed on Government projects, when appointed or employed by a Federal Officer but carried on the contractor's rolls for the convenience of the Government.

INSIDE THE NAS Low Pressure Chamber, pilots and crewmen inhale via remote control as they experience the effects of simulated high altitude flight.

If Allergic to Height, Darkness, Speed or Cold, This Isn't for You

By Van Hedges

People who like to keep both feet on the ground would be wise to stay away from the Applied Aviation Physiology Training Unit at the NAS Main Dispensary. This is the activity, only one of its kind on the West coast, where Navy pilots and crewmen learn how to handle themselves during high altitude flights, are trained in night-time identification of simulated targets, receive instruction in medical survival, and are made familiar with the principles as well as the actual physical reactions involved in using a jet plane ejector seat.

Officer-in-charge of the Unit is LTJG H. R. Bower, MSC, who is assisted by ENS G. P. Douglas. Both men are authorities in all phases of physiological training. With the exception of the Medical Survival program, they deliver the supplementary lectures which accompany the various training phases. The medical instruction, including first aid procedure, effects of acceleration, and cold weather survival, is given by LTJG J. W. Abbuhl, MC.

Low Pressure Training

When a group of pilots and crewmen reports to the Unit for low pressure training, the members first attend a lecture which deals with the physiological problems confronting the high altitude flyer, together with the oxygen equipment he uses—masks, regulators, and cylinders.

After the classroom instruction in theory, the trainees enter the low pressure chamber itself. This structure is as large as a small house, and its inner chamber comfortably holds about a dozen men. Sealed portholes around the sides allow interior vision, and an intercommunication system permits each man to relay his individual reactions and receive instructions from either LT Bower or ENS Douglas any time during the hour-and-a-half he spends inside. In charge of pressure inflow and all mechanical aspects of the chamber's operation are T. Kardys, AD2, and L. E. Ross, AM3.

Symptoms of Bends

While in the chamber, flight personnel are taught to recognize the symptoms of anoxia (lack of sufficient oxygen), occurrence of the bends (from too little an outside pressure), and gas expansion, which affects the internal organs, the middle ear and the sinuses. At 30,000 feet, they are instructed to remove their masks and asked to perform simple coordinated exercises, which reveal the effects of altitude on their nerve centers and muscular responses. Balloons subject to the same pressures as the men illustrate the expansion and contraction which occurs in their own gaseous organs.

Trainees experience the sensation of a "free fall" through space from 35,000 to 20,000 feet, and from 20,000 feet to the surface at parachute speed. All of them emerge from the chamber with a new respect for their oxygen equipment and its proper use.

Three Dementional Training

For its night vision training, the Physiology Unit utilizes four "darkrooms," two of them falling in the two-dimensional category and two featuring three-dimensional identification models. Of special value to fliers is the three-dimensional indoctrination. From a simulated altitude of 5,000 feet, they can look down on a miniature industrial city, complete with buildings, factories, landscapes, and waterfront in scale. The model may be lighted by a front and rear moon, high and low side moons, flares, flashing lights, or tiny, stationary ground lights, any of which may be used singly or in combination. Pilots recently returned from Korea are particularly high in their praise of this three-dimensional training.

Under the supervision of Warren Vietor, HMC, night vision training is given by Fred Weaver, HM2, Wm. Koenig, HM2, John Sherwood, HM2, Don Otis, HN, and C. H. McIntyre, HN.

Purpose of the ejector seat program is to familiarize pilots with the principles involved in jet escape at high speeds and under any emergency conditions. The 20-foot portable seat-ejection catapult in the rear of the Unit building is patterned after a 110-foot prototype developed at the Aeronautical Medical Equipment Laboratory in Philadelphia, which is the only other one in use.

Hurled Upward

The catapult's operation is simple—and fast. The trainee is strapped into a dummy cockpit at the base of the tower. He pulls a protective shield over his face, which trips a release mechanism. Hurled upward to the top of the tower with considerable force, he has the sensation of actually being in two places at once. LT Bower reports that the device has proved invaluable in allaying the fears of pilots who might some day have to use this escape method in the line of duty.

The crew of the Applied Aviation Physiology Training Unit maintains a busy schedule. During an average day, there is at least one low pressure chamber run, and a class in night vision. Two or three times a week ejector seat training is held, and three or four special week-long courses in parachute rigging are conducted each year. The Unit serves military pilots and crew members from West coast air stations as far North as Alameda, and its facilities are also used by civilian test pilots from as far away as Texas.

A FAST RIDE to the top is what jet pilot trainees get when they board the portable seat-ejection catapult located in the rear of the Applied Aviation Physiology Training Unit at the Main Dispensary.

Metals Conference

Conference Schedule

March 18—"Materials and Metals in the Industries of Today," W. H. Eisenman, Ex-Secretary, American Society for Metals, Cleveland, Ohio.

April 8—"Sub-alloys for Ultra High Temperatures," Dr. Bernard P. Planner, Metal Process Engineer at Douglas Aircraft.

April 15—"Working with Titanium and Special Process Alloys," Professor of Mechanical Engineering, U. S. C.

April 22—"New Techniques in Electroplating Industry," Myron Orbough, President of Bene Engineering Co., Glendale; Earl W. Arnold, Technical Advisor of Butcher Co., Los Angeles.

May 6—"New Tools and Techniques," no Speaker—Open Meeting.

May 13—"Atomic Control and Power in Industry," Dr. A. B. Focke, U. S. Naval Electronics Laboratory, San Diego.

May 27—"Substitute Metals and Protective Coatings," no speaker—Open Meeting.

Coronado Playhouse Has Play Tryouts

The Coronado Playhouse is holding tryouts for its new production "The Giocanda Smile," by Aldous Huxley. The play is of the suspense drama variety.

There are five parts open for men. Three of these are large parts, and the other two are "walk-on" spots. The date for the tryouts are Sunday March 16 at 1400, and Monday March 17 at 2000.

The tentative opening date for this new play is April 24. It is expected to run for three weeks on weekends only.

Civilian Indoctrination Makes a Big Difference

At 0810 each Thursday morning, a varied group of civilians gathers on the east side of Building 5, follows a yellow line leading inside to Room 1B, and settles itself comfortably to await the beginning of Vocational and Training Division's Indoctrination course for new employees.

They come from O&R, S&F, IRD, Administration, Transportation, and other NAS shops and departments. Most of them have already been on their jobs a week or more, and this is the day when their questions on Station organization and history, safety regulations, fire prevention, civil service functions, and radiological defense will be answered by lectures and films.

Previous to this general indoctrination, their respective supervisors have instructed them in the basic work procedures covering their own areas of employment.

The Thursday morning session is opened either by Robert Eaton, Training Supervisor, Wayne Roundtree or Frank Barton, all three of whom are well-versed in NAS traditions and regulations. First of all, the basic, over-all function of the Station is explained—how inter-departmental support is combined and correlated to give maximum logistical support to the Fleet.

Keynote of the class is the friendly, informal manner in which it is conducted. As the morning progresses and the Island newcomers are informed in turn of the importance of obeying safety rules; operation and purpose of the Civilian Dispensary; the NAS administrative chain of command; the background and development of North Island as a Naval Air Station; proper display and possession of I. D. badges; the role and responsibilities of supervisors and the employee grievance procedure; civil service pay, leave and grade structure, and recreation and off-duty training facilities, a definite sense of the importance of his own job in relation to the primary NAS objective is instilled in each listener. He begins to feel that his individual responsibilities represent a real and personal contribution to America's defense effort and to the combined NAS military-civilian goal.

This feeling of "belonging" is heightened through participation by the introctrinee in numerous class question-and-answer periods. In addition, he learns the value of observing a high moral code of conduct on the job, how he can participate in the Beneficial Suggestions programs, why it is sensible for him to ignore rumors and refrain from their promulgation, and the many other essentials which add up to maximum job satisfaction and performance.

At approximately 1040, the Indoctrination group visits NAS Fire Station No. 1, where a discussion and demonstration of types of fires, their prevention, reporting and extinguishing, takes place.

After a recess for lunch, members of the class reconvene in Building 5 for an enlightening and informative discussion of radiological warfare, conducted by William Shreves. Atomic theory, bomb ranges and effects, and proper defense and attack precautions are thoroughly presented. Following this lecture, the class is adjourned.

Thanks to H. G. Snodgrass, Training Superintendent, Supervisor Eaton, Mr. Roundtree, Mr. Shreves and Mr. Barton, the indoctrinees who walk into Room 1B every Thursday morning merely as civilian employees, emerge from the same room in mid-afternoon as NAS civilian employees, and you can see the difference in their faces.

Sponsor Photo Contest For Service Photogs

Attention all shutterbugs!

Popular Science Magazine has inaugurated a "Craftsmen in Uniform" photo contest giving servicemen an opportunity to win cash prizes and merchandise for their camera work.

Beginning with the April issue, the magazine will feature photographs of craft work by men on active duty with the Armed Forces. The pictures should be of work which is original and "eye-catching" in order to compete for the monthly cash prizes.

Photographs and captions should be addressed to the Craftsmen-in-Uniform Editor, Popular Science Monthly, 353 Fourth Avenue, New York 10, N. Y.

VA Explains Reasons For Dividend Lag

Reasons why the second special 1951 NSLI dividend to servicemen is lagging were outlined to Congress recently by VA Administrator Carl R. Gray Jr.

In a letter to Rep. Porter Hardy Jr., of Virginia, chairman of a congressional subcommittee investigating government operations, Mr. Gray said that 1,186,900 dividend checks have been sent out or are currently on their way to servicemen. That leaves 1,313,000 yet to be processed.

The average rate of processing, according to Mr. Gray, is 13,000 a day or 65,000 weekly. If all the personnel in the NSLI Premium Accounts Section could be utilized, the weekly total could be raised to 75,000, but other work relating to Public Law 23 (Servicemen's Free Insurance) must be taken care of as well.

At this rate the dividends could all be sent out by the end of July. The target date for completion formerly was April.

NAS Car Permits, Regulations, Keep Traffic Under Control

This month marks the deadline for obtaining new 1952 windshield stickers for all military and civilian privately-owned vehicles in use aboard NAS. In conjunction with issuance of these stickers, Earl R. Renner, in charge of Security Department's Traffic Section for the past 16 months, answers some pertinent questions relative to NAS traffic regulations.

Q. Chief Renner, how do newly-assigned civilian and military personnel go about obtaining permission to operate their cars aboard the Station, and what requirements must they meet?

A. Beside the car itself, they must bring an insurance policy showing PL and PD in the amount of $5,000/$10,000 and $5,000 respectively, a valid operator's permit from any State if they are 21 years of age or older (persons under 21 must possess a California permit), plus their ownership certificate. Those driving somebody else's car must be able to show written permission authorizing them to have the vehicle in their possession. Such authorization must be notorized, with a copy kept in the vehicle itself.

Q. How many different types of Station stickers are issued at NAS, and where else is their use authorized?

A. There are individual stickers for commanders and above, for all other commissioned officers, for chief petty officers, for enlisted men, for dependents and representatives, for civilians, for captains and above not attached to or serving on board NAS, and for members of the North Island Gun Club. All of these stickers except the last are also recognized at the Amphibious Base and at Ream Field. Then, of course, there are the stickers entitling eligible drivers to park in restricted areas, and the new 1952 permits.

Q. Have you any idea how many cars a day come aboard NAS?

A. Well, recently we conducted a four-day check which indicated that an average of slightly less than 15,000 cars enter the Station each day. You can see from that figure what a tremendous parking problem exists, with only a minimum of space available for the purpose.

Q. Who is entitled to possess special parking permits and restricted parking stickers, for use on the Station as well as along Harbor Drive?

Earl R. Renner

A. Harbor Drive stickers are applied for through their respective shop or department supervisors by civilians, and through the Leading Chief in the case of enlisted men. One hundred spaces are allotted NAS military personnel in that area, with no Fleet spaces available. Special parking stickers for other areas are issued by the Traffic Desk after the applicant obtains a letter from the officer-in-charge of the specific area, stating that space is available. No special windshield permits to cover parking are required of officers. Restricted parking stickers are issued to personnel not having PL insurance, and they must park in the area set aside for this special designation.

Q. Is there an established time limit covering these various parking areas?

A. Yes, three days is the limit on the off-Station lot fronting Alameda Blvd. Ten days is the limit in other areas. However, for personnel who desire to park their cars for a period exceeding five days, there is a storage compound. Those desiring this service may request it of Station police at any time.

Q. What are the speed limits for vehicular traffic aboard the Station?

A. Speed limits as posted by the Commanding Officer indicate the maximum allowed for all Station areas, and should be strictly obeyed.

Q. What are some of the more common traffic violations, and what penalties do they carry?

A. One of the more common violations is the failure to bring the car to a complete stop at designated Stop signs. This carries a penalty of 30-days' restriction. Another frequent misdemeanor is parking out-of-bounds, which involves a 15-day restriction. Not yielding the right of way to a pedestrian in a crosswalk is punishable by 10 days' restriction, and crossing a double line will result in a similar penalty.

Q. If the car of a civilian employee encounters mechanical trouble while being driven on the Station, what steps should he take to have it corrected?

A. During working hours, the Traffic Desk will issue permission in writing for the performance of minor repairs. For major repairs, cars must be towed off the Station or taken to the Hobby Shop. Under no circumstances is it permissible for a stalled vehicle to be pushed by another car.

Q Is a List of Station Traffic Regulations available to NAS personnel for reference?

A. Yes, they are included in all Station Regulations, copies of which are posted on department or shop bulletin boards. Personnel may also refer to them at the Traffic Desk in Building 415, where questions concerning them will be gladly answered.

"SHE FLIES THROUGH THE AIR—" Joy Crown and Russ Saunders give a demonstration of their art, a sample of which will be shown at NAS military personnel and their dependents Saturday at NAS theater. George Bruce will present his variety acts starting at 1930.

Los Alamitos To Host Annual Model Plane Meet

The Navy will host the National Model Airplane championships for the fifth consecutive time this year, at the Naval Air Station, Los Alamitos, California. The event will be held from 28 July through 3 August.

Sponsored by the Long Beach Exchange Club and sanctioned by the Academy of Model Aeronautics, the meet is expected to attract nearly 1,000 contestants.

Quarters and meals will be provided the contestants at no cost to the government.

Some Temporary E-5, E-6 Rates Now Permanent

Certain Navy advancements in rating to temporary pay grades E-5 and E-6 have been confirmed as permanent by the Bureau of Naval Personnel.

BuPers Circular Lefter No. 8-52 instructs commanding officers to screen service records of personnel in grades E-5 and E-6 who were advanced during the period from January 1, 1951, to Dec. 31, 1951. If they were advanced as a result of the following they are henceforth considered permanent:

1. The January 1951 or July 1951 Service-wide examinations or examinations delayed because of operational difficulties.

2. Meritorious advancements by the Chief of Naval Personnel under special advancement quotas issued to the Commanding General of the First Marine Division.

3. Having qualified while on inactive duty or on continuous active duty with the USNR prior to current tour of active duty with the regular Navy.

Commanders must finish all action pertaining to the change by April 15, 1952, after which the provisions of the letter are cancelled.

Huh!!

Diverse Interests Occupy O&R Helper

Birds and rifles don't usually go together, particularly when the birds are targets for the rifles. But David L. Miller, Helper General in O & R Material Storeroom 6099, collects both with equal enthusiasm.

His assortment of rifles, started about five years ago, now contains ten different styles, including a Japanese .25 and a French .30. Miller's interest in the weapon actually began when he swapped a pistol for a 1907 old-type hammerlock .22, which he believes will become a collector's item in not too many years. He is mainly interested in this calibre, and the display rack he has built to hold his collection specializes in that type.

Miller's other-end-of-the-barrel hobby—birds—began two years ago when his mother suggested that it might be nice to have a canary around the house. He bought a male, and a short time later a female; soon afterwards he purchased another pair, and from there on out it was inevitable that he become a breeder enthusiast.

Parakeets next were added to his stock, and at present he owns three adult pairs, with six more on the way. The canary population numbers five adults, four youngsters, and three "in the shell." It won't be long, he admits, before his present inside cages will have to be supplanted by larger outside enclosures.

The young ornithologist was discharged last November from the Marine Corps, and his four year's of service included 20 months on Guam and a year in Korea. Paradoxically, Miller likes to hunt, and he considers birds as fair game as any.

VA-55 CO Promoted Here Last Week

L. Winston Chick, commanding officer of VA-55 was promoted to the rank of CDR here last week. He is a veteran of the Korean war, having served there as a member of VA-115.

Entering flight training in September, 1940 at Long Beach, he was commissioned in June, 1941. During World War II, he served in several attack squadrons and aboard various aircraft carriers.

CDR Chick was graduated from El Centro High School, El Centro, Calif. and the University of Southern California with the class of 1940.

He is authorized to wear the Purple Heart, Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with two stars, and the American Defense Ribbons, as well as various campaign ribbons.

Islander Wins Part of 'C' Pin In 6½ hr. Flight

Ernie Shattuck, Aircraft Mechanic in Building 805, got the first "leg" of his Silver "C" soaring pin last weekend when he soared for 6½ hours in his glider over the cliffs at Torrey Pines.

Shattuck's flight satisfied the 5-hour duration requirement for the pin. Other requirements are a gained altitude of 3200 feet and a distance flight of 32 miles.

Get Acquainted

NAS Field Director Explains Red Cross Role on Island

In conjunction with Red Cross month the NORTH ISLANDER has chosen Elliot Shue, Field Director American National Red Cross, for its "Get Acquainted" article. Instead of going into his background, Mr. Shue suggested that we get acquainted with the job and duties which the Field Director and Red Cross preform on this station.

Elliott Shue

The object of having a Red Cross Field Director on a military installation is to assist the service men to help themselves with problems which arise while in the service.

Only one person out of a hundred is paid for his or her work in this organization and the rest of the Red Cross workers are all volunteers. They pay for their own uniforms, use their own automobiles and pay for the gas they use. There are very few exceptions to this but one would be the station wagon which runs from the Coronado Ferry to the Out Patient Clinic.

In 1951 the Red Cross handled 7,000 cases at NAS alone. Twelve percent of these problems dealt with financial assistance and a total of $36,000 in loans were made. Most of the problems solved on the station are obtaining verification of Naval emergencies at the home of personnel. Emergency leaves cannot be granted by the Red Cross but their word goes a long way in procuring a leave. The Red Cross branch at NAS works in close contact with other chapters by telegraph. When a service man asks for emergency leave the Red Cross contacts the chapter in his home town and they, in turn, send a representative to his home. If they decide it is an emergency they get a doctors' written verification and send it to the Red Cross here and they notify the Navy.

Individuals from this vicinity who volunteered their service to the Red Cross field office last year, totaled 7,038. Three hundred and eighty-seven Coronado women volunteer's donated 4,560 hours alone on the Christmas wrapping and motor service program. They also worked endless hours on the blood mobile program which collected 1,020 pints of whole blood from NAS. However, all Red Cross work is not volunteered as they have to hire doctors for the Blood mobiles and other persons to do specialized work.

A goal of $420,000 has been set for the San Diego area during this March drive. This will be only a small percentage of the national goal of 85 million dollars. The Red Cross receives no financial help outside of their periodic drive so everyone is urged to give and give generously.

Baseball Season Opens Monday At North Island

The Naval Air Skyraiders open their 1952 baseball season Monday at 1400 as they tangle with the formidable amphibious base invaders on the Towers Field diamond.

The Naval Airmen will encounter an invader squad with one loss their record against La Jolla High school.

Monday's encounter will only be a practice game but should give Coach Speed a pretty good idea of the men who will fill his roster when the official league games start on May 7.

This Week's MOVIE MENU for NAS

SATURDAY, 15 March—THE WELL, starring Henry Morgan and Barry Kelly. On her way to school, a Negro child falls into an abandoned well. Her family, worried about her disappearance, calls the sheriff, who treats the matter as a routine incident, but discovers she has been seen earlier that morning in the company of a man—a white man. The search is accelerated and a transient, who admits he had brought flowers to the little girl, is arrested. He denies inferential accusations that he kidnapped her, then it is discovered the child is at the bottom of the well, and the same men—negros and whites—who were about to kill each other, join together in harmony to rescue the girl.
SHORTS: Who's Kitten Who? and So You Want To Buy Wholesale.
Running time: 1 hour and 49 minutes.

SUNDAY and MONDAY, 16 and 17 March—BUGLES IN THE AFTERNOON, starring Ray Milland and Forrest Tucker. Once an army captain whose rank was broken because of a feud with Hugh Marlowe now of the cavalry at Ft. Lincoln, Ray Milland follows his antagonist to the Dakota Territory and re-enlists. En route he meets and falls in love with Helena Carter, in whom Marlowe also is romantically interested. Once at the fort, Milland is given one suicidal assignment after another by Marlowe.
SHORTS: That Man Rickey.
Running time: 1 hour and 40 minutes.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, 18 and 19 March—I'LL SEE YOU IN MY DREAMS, starring Doris Day and Danny Thomas, with Frank Lovejoy. This is a musical biography of Gus Kahn (Danny Thomas) who rose to fame through the efforts of his wife (Doris Day). The depression comes, and with that, the fall of the music world. Kahn finally goes to Hollywood and again climbs back to the top with such songs as "I'll See You In My Dreams," and "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?" He also wrote many other "old time" favorites.
SHORTS: None.
Running time: 1 hour and 57 minutes.

THURSDAY and FRIDAY, 20 and 21 March—THE BIG TREES, starring Kirk Douglas and Patrice Wymore. When devoutly religious settlers in northern California's rich redwood timber country discover, in the early 1900's, that their land claims are no longer valid, Kirk Douglas, unscrupulous logging operator, refiles on the claims, promising to repay the settlers. He meets Eve Miller, daughter of the colonists' leader, and pretends to be stirred by her disclosure that the sect hopes to gain intervention to spare the big trees. It is soon apparent that Douglas is an insincere landgrabber, and the settlers fight a "peaceable" delaying action to hamper him.
SHORTS: Born To Peck.
Running time: 1 hour and 45 minutes.

About BOOKS

(Library Bldg. 91)

THE SCALPEL OF SCOTLAND YARD, by Brown and Tullett.

This is a biography of the famous English pathologist, Sir Bernard Spilsbury. It provides enough murder and sleuthing to keep the most devoted mystery novel reader satisfied. Sir Bernard, almost a legendary figure in the annals of Scotland Yard, pioneered the laboratory techniques of crime detection. His methods were accepted by police the world over. From 1911 on, he figured in virtually every British criminal trial. The book contains accounts of some of the cases where only the careful examination of the corpus delecti by a trained pathologist could reveal a solution to a murder.

MISTER ZIP, by H. Allen Smith. The author of Low Man on a Totem Pole lampoons Hollywood cow punchers in the story of Zip LeBaron, a hard-riding, fast shooting, red blooded matinee idol. His manly smile merchandises millions of boxes of breakfast foods, red and black checkered shirts, belts, boots, kiddie cars, tricycles, ad infinitum. Mister Zip lives his hero's role off the screen too. Setting out to be a genuine cowpoke, he takes the short cut across the mountain and rides into some real tough hombres.

THE TOTAL EMPIRE, by Edmund A. Walsh, SJ.

Are Soviet motives and strategy as mysterious as they appear? No, says Dr. Walsh, eminent geopolitician, and he bases it on 30 years of first-hand experience with Russia and intensive study of the philosophy of Marxism, Leninism, and Stalinism. If the camouflage of Communist double-talk and deception is once pierced, a rude doctrine, lacking any element of subtlety, is clearly revealed, he contends. The actions of the Soviets at Yalta, Lake Success, and in Korea are the logical consequences of a godless system whose "morality" is determined solely by the advancement of the Revolution.

I see by the antenna top of Pancho Morse's home he is the proud owner of a television set. Well, Roscoe, don't let the T.V. set keep you away from the important business meetings of the North Island Post like it has done to so many of our working members.

It's good to see Charlie Stringer back in action again as skipper of the U.S.S. Membership Drive. Fighting Charlie is doing a great job. It's that fighting spirit and determination that make a success of everything Charlie does. Among the Post member's on his committee are C. Lee, Archie Breeden, Jim Venson, Art Burns, John Gizo, Ed Slaven, Richard Docheff, John Berry, to mention but a few. So let's all get behind Charlie 100% and make this a record breaking year.

Frank Storms, Post 2nd Vice Commander and entertainment chairman has appointed a committee to put on another one of the dances this post has become so famous for locally. This is "The Re-tread Benefit Follies" the proceeds of which go to pay the 1952 dues for our Post members who have re-entered the Armed Services. The date is Fri., March 28, and tickets may be purchased from any post member.

It's good to see Archie Breeden, North Island Post commander, back at work after his daughter's recoverly from serious illness.

Captain's Cup Lowdown

The completion of the first half of the Captain's Cup Volleyball race found the boys from Test Line walking off with all honors. Test Line won the first half by virtue of eleven straight wins and no losses, followed closely by Ordnance and Torpedo with ten wins and one loss. Special Services, Supply and Metal Machine were tied for third place with eight wins and three losses each.

Due to bad weather the second half has gotten off to a slow start with only two rounds being played.

Airmen Defeated by El Toro As Basketball Season Ends

SPORTS

Playing their last game of the 1951-52 basketball season, the Naval Air Skyraiders suffered a blistering defeat last Saturday night at the hands of the Flying Bulls from El Toro. The Bulls ended up with a 59-47 victory over the Naval Airmen.

Coach Bob Ledingham, who took the helm of the Skyraider basketballers only a few weeks back substituted freely throughout the game in order to give everyone a chance on the floor. Halftime score was 21-29, Flying Bulls.

High pointmen for the night were Roy Hubbs and Joe Kinkaid for the Airmen with 8 each. Bush led the Bulls' scoring with 14 tallies. This game marked the end of the season for both teams.

The Naval Airmen ended their season with a 19 win against a 26 loss record, not too bad considering some of the opposition. The 'Raiders scored a total of 2567 points, against 2554 scored against them. Art Borchers and Jim Bird led the team's scoring efforts with 533 and 343 points respectively.

Congratulations are in store for first of all the two coaches, LT Hal Boudreau and Chief Ledingham. Boudreau piloted the team most of the season, until his new assignment as Special Services Officer, when Ledingham took over the coaching spot. Out of all 45 games the Skyraiders played, Ledingham missed only the El Centro game.

Next the team physician, Dr. T. W. Zwemer and trainers Wesley Bell and E. H. West, who were on hand to care for any injuries that may have been suffered.

Last but not least, Walt Breeland who managed the team all season, caring for gear and handling any technical arrangements, and Leon Cox, who "covered" nearly every game for this paper, in addition to writing many of the basketball stories for the sports page.

Keg Entries Due Today

Today is the deadline for entries in the Seventh Annual Eleventh Naval District Bowling Tournament to begin on 22 March at the Pacific Recreation Bowling Alleys. All entries must be turned in to the Employee Services Office, Bldg. 415, or to League officers. Registrations will not be accepted without the entry fee of $4.00.

Air Pac Sports

By BOB SWISHER

It's the same monotonous story in the AirPac intermural leagues —FAIRBETUPac undefeated and still rolling.

The Raiders stretched their combined winning streak to 31 this week with two successes in volleyball and one each in handball, horseshoes, and bowling.

They now pace handball with five wins, volleyball with 11, and horseshoes with eight victories. In the bowling league, they are still one-half game behind pace-setting VP-731. The Raiders have 6-0 to VP-731's 7-0 slate.

However, an ambitious Ready Issue outfit is threatening Raider supremacy in three categories—volleyball, horseshoes, and bowling. They do not have a team entered in handball.

The Storekeepers are undefeated in 10 volleyball outings and trail the Raiders by one-half game. Their keglers are also unbeaten to date with five victims.

Their only team to lose a contest has been the horseshoers, but their record of 5-1 is good for third place in the "pole-popping" league. VC-11 occupies second with 6-1.

A pair of giant clashes too late for publication involved FAIRBETUPac's volleyballers against third-place FASRon-110, and the Raider bowlers against Ready Issue in a meeting of the undefeated.

Women Softball League Forming

Limber up those batting eyes, gals! A women's softball league is going to be formed in San Diego this season, and is open to both civilian employees and WAVES of the Air Station.

There will be a preliminary meeting Monday, 17 March at the Community Youth Center, La Mesa. Anyone interested is welcome to attend.

Skyraiders Prep for Fleet Eliminations

When the Pacific Fleet boxing eliminations get underway in San Diego on 17 March, thirteen scrappers will carry North Island colors into ring warfare. No fighters from the Skyraider team will compete in the Eleventh Naval District bouts.

All bouts will be held in the Coliseum, 15th and E Streets, San Diego on 17, 19, and 21 March. Semi-finals will be held 26 and 28 March, with finals on 2 and 4 April.

Fifteen-hundred tickets will be available to enlisted personnel each night of boxing. These will be allocated to the various ships and station commands on the basis of size and demand. Tickets must be presented at the gates prior to 1930 each night.

In order to raise a fund for the Olympic Committee, reserved seats will go on sale at $1.80 and $1.20. In addition, a number of general admission seats will be sold at $1.00.

Two ten-man teams, winners from the Pacific Fleet and 11th Naval District tournaments will then compete in the All-Navy classic on the nights of 24, 25, 26, 28, and 30 April. Winners and selected alternates from the All-Navy bouts will go on to the Naval Academy for intensive training in preparation for the Olympic Final Trials at Kansas City, Missouri in mid-June.

Fighters representing the Skyraiders are:

Jimmy Vacca — 112 pounds.
Dale Kite — 119 pounds
Bob Hipps — 119 pounds
Don Malvezzi — 126 pounds
Andy Sierra — 132 pounds
Ed Jackwin — 139 pounds
Howard Prestwood — 147 pounds
Bill Slattery — 158 pounds
Danny Hayes — 156 pounds
Johnny Shelton — 156 pounds
Ed Hughes — 165 pounds

Kirby Seals — 193 pounds

Sanders, Acton, Davis Win in Chicago Tourney

NTC's Ed Sanders, and MCRD's Herschel Acton and Kenny Davis crashed through to win titles last Friday night in the Chicago Tournament of Champions. This marked Acton's third time and Davis' second time as a winner in this tournament. Acton's two previous wins were as a lightweight before entering the Marine Corps.

Sanders decisioned Herb Ellison from Detroit, in a scrap which was referred to as a "push and pull bout". The only real action came in the second round when Sanders sent his opponent to one knee with a right to the jaw.

Davis successfully defended his featherweight title by scoring a second round knockout over Bill Morton of Kansas City. Only one other title was won by a knockout in the finals, in the 175 pound class.

Acton succeeded in winning a clear cut decision over Homer Clees of Roswell, New Mexico. The New Mexico boy made his fatal mistake in trying to slug it out with the Marine in the second round, taking severe punishment from Acton's piston-like punches.

Winners from this tournament are now eligible to fight in Europe for the International championships. Davis also succeeded in coping this title last year.

A Corner on Sports

LOOKS LIKE VACCA'S GOT EUGENIOITIS

Skyraider flyweight Jimmy Vacca has been threatening to beat CruDesPac's Johnny Eugenio ever since the first day we ran into him down at the Gym. In fact, it looks like everybody but two of the officials thought he did in last Saturday night's Convair smoker at the San Diego Coliseum. Anyway, a whole stadium full of people raised a ruckus when Eugenio got a decision over the North Island flyweight.

Middleweight Bill Slattery won a watch for being the outstanding fighter of the night. Ed Hughes also got a watch for winning a default over MCRD's Buel Griffin who didn't show.

Chalk up a draw to Prestwood. He came out even with a more experienced Bill Brinson of PhibPac. The Skyraider welterweight now has seven fights to his credit, and is showing a lot of improvement with each one.

JACKWIN, SEALS TO DEFEND TITLES

Welterweight TV champ Eddie Jackwin defended his title last night against John Gill from the Presidio Army at Treasure Island. Results could not be obtained at this writing.

Gill lost a very disputed decision to Lloyd House two weeks ago. It is the policy of the matchmakers with "Meet the Champ" to grant a return match whenever there is a more or less toss up decision. This means that if Jackwin were to lose his title by a very close decision, in all probability he would be given a return match at the earliest possible moment. How long can this go on?

Seals will defend his title at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio, on March 20. The name of his opponent could not be obtained.

HARTE MAY SLUG AGAIN FOR SKYRAIDERS

1948 San Diego Golden Gloves and YMCA light-heavyweight champion Frank Harte may be back for more this year. He's in Pensacola now, but training for the forthcoming Pacific Fleet tournament.

BUFFALOE OUT FOR SEASON

Ed Buffaloe will be out of boxing for the rest of the season, because of a broken thumb he sustained during the "Meet the Champ" show. Too bad, we're wondering what he could have done with Kenny Davis?

SKYRAIDERS ON TV

Last night, four North Island scrappers were scheduled to display their fistic talents over KNXT Channel 2, Hollywood, between 1800 and 1930. LTJG Earl Wenbourne seconded the four scrappers in place of John Goudy who was in Frisco with Jackwin. Fighters were: Dale Kite, Ed Hughes, Danny Hayes, and Bill Slattery.

'New Fangled' 'Copters Join HU-1 at ALF Ream

Last week three new type HUP-2 helicopters landed at NAS, completing a 3000-mile coast-to-coast flight from the Piasecki factory in Pennsylvania. The twin rotor-bladed, all-metal craft will join HU-1, under the command of LCDR H. M. Kosciusko, at ALF Ream.

The "flying mules", as they are often called, have a fuselage resembling a plane. They carry two fore-and-aft rotors. The rotors, spinning in a 50-foot diameter, do not touch because the rear one is a foot higher than the front one. There is no small vertical rotor extended on a boom as on conventional helicopters. The 'copters are among the first to carry the "auto-pilot" which stabilizes the craft, also permitting pilots to fly with minimum effort and fatigue. The craft can accommodate seven passengers and normally carries a three-man crew. Quite compact for shipboard storing, the new whirlbirds reportedly, will be used for rescue, troop-carrying, and supply delivery work.

The trio of planes were brought across the country by four officers and two enlisted pilots and co-pilots. Making daylight hops only, the crews secured at nightfall, often setting their craft down in an open field. All along the way, the "new-fangled" craft drew hundreds of spectators.

The "windmill caravan" was brought to San Diego by LT W. L. Bennett, LT Lester M. Heller, LT Bernard Samuels, LTJG William J. Cox, James W. Jones, ADC, and J. M. Thompson, AD1.

VU-3 (K) Men Relate Conditions in Japan

To give Navy men an idea what to expect when going to duty in Japan, an account of the different living conditions and problems encountered in that country was received from men who have recently returned from a tour of temporary duty with the VU-3(K) WestPac detachment.

It was discovered that one of the first requirements upon arriving on the island was to change all American money into Military script. This form of currency is used to buy merchandise from the base exchange. To purchase articles from civilian stores the paper script must further be transferred into Japanese 'Yen'. The rate of exchange on the American dollar is very high; when changed into 'Yen' its purchasing power increases considerably. One common comparison is a steak dinner. Eaten in one of the U.S. government approved restaurants the best would cost 60c whereas its equal in the U.S. would be $2.00. A hair cut is acquired for about 25c.

At Atsugi, at present the only all Naval airbase in Japan, good living quarters and recreational facilities are available. Since the climate is somewhat similar to that of Seattle, Wash., a full set of year round uniforms is necessary. Civilian clothes are only authorized in athletics although such items can be bought on the base for dependents of personnel on permanent duty there. An ample supply of white uniforms is advised to combat the seasonal rainy season. A light plastic raincoat was found to come in handy during that time.

Bicycles and passenger trains are used throughout the country since the roads are extremely poor and inadequate. The old style rickshaws have been modernized from the man drawn method to the present bicycle-powered system. Though travel is a problem it is found that shipping a new car across is very unprofitable in the sense that there are no good highways and it's nearly impossible to sell it to civilians since the majority cannot afford one.

The people of Japan are far happier than ever before. Their amazing recovery from the war is indicated by the friendliness and cooperation they give the Armed Forces. Living conditions have improved immensely by employing all the civilian people possible for base labor work. The maximum wage for a Japanese house servant is 7200 yen a month, about $12.00.

Speech differences are a minor problem. A large percentage of the population has mastered enough English to be understood. and after learning a few of their more common words there seems to be little difficulty in carrying out a sensible conversation.

The "American Way" seems to have a great influence on the new Japan. Although they still live in small homes without furniture and leave their shoes at the door, the people are adopting the western style of dress. Women now appear in high heeled shoes and simple short skirt dresses. Kimonos are on the way out and are only worn at weddings and special occasions.

American movies are greatly appreciated. When shown in a public theatre, the dialogue in Japanese is shown alongside the screen to enable them to understand the picture.

Excellent shopping values and opportunities for a pleasant tour are offered for those doing a stint of duty in Japan.

Answer to Puzzle

LCDR Lorch Goes To Glenview, Ill.

LCDR Jacque W. Lorch, Executive Officer and for a short time Commanding Officer of VS-23 aboard the Naval Air Station, San Diego, has been transferred to the staff of the Chief of Naval Air Reserve Training, Glenview, Ill.

LCDR Lorch served with VS-23 for over two years both in the Atlantic and Pacific Fleets, and while the squadron operated in the Korean area last year. The squadron returned from the Far East last August.

Skeeters Score At Ream Range

As indicated by their impressive scores Utron Three personnel are getting in good gunnery practice at the ALF Ream skeet range every Wednesday and Friday afternoon.

Last Friday, Lt. D. G. Jacobs, one of the consistently high scorers, shot down 47 birds out of 50. He managed to hit 37 straight before getting a miss.

Others who continually have a high percentage of hits on the range are Cdr. C. D. Huston, C. O. of the squadron, LT C. A. Taylor, LT C. Raczkowski, LT H. R. Hunzeker, LTJG I. L. Linder, and W. G. Webb, A02, the skeet instructor from VU-3 (K).

VU-3(K) Golf Team Standings

Standings of Utron THREE golf players in the NAGA "Ace" tournament played on the Mission Valley golf course were:

LCDR T. R. Wheatley, 102, LCDR D. S. Lyons, 94, Lt. L. J. Drelicharz, 87, LTJG J. A. Donovan 81, J. C. Feyer ADC, 102, and C. G. West ADC, 84.

Low net of 68 each was won by Donovan and West.

VU-7 Is Second In 2 Conferences

VU-7's championship basketball team took second place in two conferences. They lost the FAD championship in a close game 54 to 53 with HU-1. In the Southwestern League, VU-7 came out on top of HN-1 only to lose the championship to the Nereus 58 to 54 in a disputed overtime game.

During the season which ended 22 February, VU-7 won 9 and lost four.

ENS J. G. Schulte, Athletic Officer for VU-7 says, "the boys had a wonderful ball team and should receive credit for it."

New Barracks for VU-7

VU-7 personnel have moved from barracks 62 to barracks 60 to make room for the men from new helicopter squadron HS-2.

Helicopter Unit Furnishes Rescue Service to Allies

When the call goes out for help, the Navy does not restrict its rescue service. In the Korean conflict the Navy stands ready to aid any of its allies.

Helicopter pilot, LT R. J. Gill is responsible for the rescue of a British pilot shot down over Korea. Gill was flying guard mail from the USS MANCHESTER with crewman T. Roche, AD2, when he received word that a British "Seafury" was shot down in the vicinity of Hamhung.

He immediately headed for the downed pilot, picking up a British fighter escort when over land. Anti-aircraft fire was heavy, so Gill flew his helicopter close to the ground. As he approached the downed pilot, small arms and anti-aircraft fire from the ground became so intense that further evasive action was necessary before the pickup could be made.

When the pilot of the "Seafury" was safely aboard, the plane proved to be noseheavy and all spare gear was jettisoned to balance the plane.

As the helicopter flew away, a mortar shell burst within 50 feet of it. No further mishaps occurred and the helicopter landed aboard the USS MANCHESTER in the closing darkness.

Dance Held Tonight At CPO Mess (Open)

A dance will be held at the CPO Mess (Open) tonight with St. Patrick's Day as the theme. Music will be furnished by a Combo from the Naval Amphibious Base and dancing will begin at 2000.

There will be no charge for admission and uniform for CPO's will be either Dress Blues or civilian clothing.

The management of the club has also announced that there will be a juke-box dance every Friday night.

The USS ESSEX (CV-9), nicknamed "The Fightingest Ship in the Navy" during World War II, is returning to San Diego at 0930 Tuesday, March 25.

After cruising in Hawaiian waters, the ESSEX departed for Korean waters on August 8, 1951, to operate with Task Force 77. During her cruise, more than 6,000 combat sorties were launched from her decks. She also was the first carrier to launch the F2H Banshee, twin-jet fighter, on combat strikes.

After being completely renovated at a cost of $40,000,000, which included the installation of escalators, the 27,000 ton carrier was recommissioned at Bremerton, Washington, January 15, 1951. While in Korea, the ESSEX was commanded by CAPT Walter F. Rodee.

Carrier Air Group FIVE, the first Navy flyers to launch air attacks against the North Korean Communists, is aboard the carrier. Another first was made by this air group when in the middle of May, 1950, they used the "Panther" jet in combat for the first time. They continued to launch strikes until the group was returned to the U.S. in December 1950. This made it the first air group back from the Korean war.

CDR Beebe, the only ESSEX pilot flying both jet and prop-driven planes, racked up more than 70 combat missions. His group accounted for 2617 troops killed and 3139 cuts in the North Korean rail system, plus destruction of many other war items, including 245 bridges, 70 locomotives, 632 boats and 933 railroad cars.

The ESSEX will tie up at Piers Mike and Nan when she arrives Tuesday morning. Relatives and friends of personnel aroard the carrier will be allowed aboard the Station though gates 1 and 2 from Coronado.

Issue Notice on Aircraft Ratings

Vacancies in the Production Group, O&R Dept., for new Group III aircraft specialists ratings, were published recently in NAS Notice CP 160.

The Notice contains official descriptions of the aircraft specialists ratings and their experience requirements.

Appeal to Bolster Civ. Blood Account

An appeal has been issued by the Industrial Relations Department for voluntary donations to the NAS civilian Blood Account. The donation has been scheduled for Wednesday, April 2, at the San Diego Blood Bank, 4227 Park Boulevard.

A goal of 70 pints has been set. This large quota is necessary, according to IRD, because of heavy withdrawals of blood from the civilian blood reserve in the last two and one-half months. Since March 12 all credits in the blood account have been exhausted.

The April 2 donation will be open to all civilian employees on the Station. Those desiring to give blood are asked to notify their Shop Supervisor not later than Friday, March 28, so all arrangements can be made with the San Diego Blood Bank.

According to present plans, the donation will be scheduled between the hours of 1200 and 1630. Transportation will be arranged, if necessary, for employees who do not have access to rides. Donors are cautioned not to eat for a four-hour period prior to giving blood.

The Civilian Blood Account was organized on its present basis December 1, 1950. Blood from this account is made available at no charge to NAS civilian employees and their dependents who require transfusions for treatment of illnesses and injuries.

Normal monthly withdrawals from the account have averaged 60 credits (30 pints). However, since early 1952 larger demands have been made on the blood reserve. Seventy-seven credits were withdrawn in January, and 96 in February. Sixty credits were released in the first 12 days of March.

Withdrawals in most individual cases averaged one to five pints, says Mrs. Madge Mulloch, of the IRD Employees Services. "In addition, we have had several more cases recently among our civilian personnel requiring 12 to 15 pints of blood."

Employees desiring to donate blood are asked to fill out the form on page 3 and submit it to their supervisor or shop personnel supervisor.

NAS Talent Featured in Benefit Show

Top-flight Navy talent from the Naval Air Station's Special Services Department will present the musical comedy skit "OJAVAN" from the recent North Island Production, "Liberty Hop," during next Wednesday's 20-30 Club rheumatic fever benefit at the Village Theater in Coronado.

Such Navy stars as Buddy Viotti, Betty Haddy, Ken Sansom, "Deacon" Smith, and Bob Bibb and his Western RhythMasters will headline the fun-packed half hour of music and comedy at the show. All of the performers are enlisted personnel from the Naval Air Station, and volunteered their services for the benefit.

Buddy Viotti, SA, wrote the lyrics, music, and dialogue of the production in addition to directing it. His 22 years include over 13 years of professional entertaining. Buddy gained nation-wide fame last September when he was a finalist on the Horace Heidt "Original Youth Opportunity Program."

Betty Haddy, AT-2, had her first experience in the productions of the Pasadena Players. She also gained considerable fame as a nightclub singer of comedy

Pay Boost Set, Expect Action During March

The Senate-reported pay bill is now ready for a vote on the Senate floor. When it will come up is not certain at this time, but veteran observers indicate that it should be voted on "within a week, or two at the latest."

Sen. Russell (D.) of Georgia, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, informed AFPS that he "wants to get it on the floor as quickly as possible." Urgent pending legislation already scheduled, however, may offer some delay.

A swift and favorable Senate vote may determine whether or not the bill would go into effect on April 1. Observers close to the Congressional scene say that there have been rare cases when a bill went into a joint conference of both houses then back to each house for a vote and onto the President's desk within two weeks. They offer only slim hope, however, that it will work in the case of the pay bill.

A survey by AFPS of available members of the House Armed Services Committee who will serve on the House-Senate Committee to come up with a compromise bill revealed a willingness to "enact a bill as soon as possible."

Rep. Kilday (D.) of Texas, original sponsor of the House-passed bill, said he was "studying the Senate bill to determine in what ways it differs from the House bill.

Rep. Vinson (D.) of Georgia, chairman of the committee, felt that it was too early to comment on the bill. He proposed to wait until a final version of the bill passed the Senate.

The Senate bill offers a three percent increase in base pay and allowance increases up to 30 percent. The House Bill asked for a flat 10 percent increase in pay and allowances.

Hobby Shop Gear Must Be Claimed By Owners Now

Only a few days remain during which personal gear still at the NAS Hobby Shop may be picked up by the owners, announces K. J. Menzel, ADC, leading chief of the activity. Other disposal will be made of all articles not claimed by the end of next week. Their immediate removal is necessary because of extensive alterations now taking place at the shop.

DOD Sets Up Uniform EM Retirement Plan

Enlisted personnel of all Services who have more than 20 and less than 30 years service now fall under a uniform retirement policy.

A Defense Department directive establishes a policy which makes those who apply for inactive duty after 20 years of service subject to recall. Here's the way it works:

Upon application, enlisted personnel of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps with over 20 years and less than 30 years service will be transferred to the Reserve, or, in the Navy and Marine Corps, the Fleet Reserve.

Depending on needs of the service, personnel in this category may be recalled for a period of 24 months. The Policy also provides for those who wish to volunteer for active duty. They may do so for any period of time depending on the needs of their particular Service.

The policy outlined in the directive always has been in effect in the Navy and Marine Corps, which has consistently maintained a Fleet Reserve. However, authority for the policy always has rested with the secretaries of all the Services. Now all vagueness has been removed by the directive.

Military departments have been instructed to notify Assistant Defense Secretary Rosenberg by Apr. 1 of action taken to place the policy into effect.

Spring Is Official--But Hold the Tra-La's

That slight creaking sound you heard at 0814 yesterday morning was caused by the intersection of the celestial equator and its ecliptic. The gears at this year's vernal point were a bit rusted by the abundant rains, but the equinox established its point and Spring, however cloudy, emerged. Just in case you've always wondered, the vernal equinox, official beginning of the season, is the time when days and nights are of equal length all over the world, and each hemisphere receives the same amount of light and heat from the rays of the sun (if it's out.) This is the period when vegetation stars anew in some very remarkable places—in the hearts of young lovers, atop women's hats, and in cooling glasses of Bock. Rain or shine, it's arrived; and if it doesn't look like Spring right now, just wait—it's certain to be the greenest, grassiest one you've seen in many a year. Right, Molly Gunagan, RMSN.

'Retreat Hell'

No, this is not an advertisement for a movie about the Marines but it does have a real meaning for all of the Catholic personnel on this station. Beginning on the 31st of March and extending through the 4th of April a mission is to be given aboard this station by Father Joseph M. Keefe, Vincentian missionary. Two exercises will be held each day, one at 1200 in the auditorium of Building 8 (the south end of the administration building) and the other in the evening at 2000 in the Main Chapel. This will consist of a conference and Benediction.

We all remember making missions in our home parishes. Here is an opportunity to re-affirm our Catholic faith and draw closer to Almighty God. All military personnel and their friends are most welcome to attend these exercises. We particularly invite all civilian workers aboard this station to attend the noon exercise. You will be finished by 1230, so there is plenty of time to attend.

Remember the time and the places:
March 31st to April 4th.
1200, Bulding 8 Auditorium.
2000, Main Chapel.

At this time we wish to remind you that there will be full Holy Week services for Catholics aboard the station. The schedule of the times for these Masses will be published at a later date in the North Islander.

Father William Langman, professor of Theology at the Immaculate Heart Seminary will preach the "Seven Last Words of Christ" from 1200-1500 on Good Friday, April 11th.

Catholic Lenten Services

Beginning on the 31st of March and extending until the 4th of April a Lenten Mission is to be given on the Naval Air Station by Father Joseph M. Keefe, Vincentian Missionary. All Catholics aboard the station are most cordially invited to attend the mission exercises. A special invitation is extended to all civilian employees and their friends. There will be two exercises each day. One will be held at 1200 in the Auditorium of Building 8 (South end of Administration building) and the other at 8 p.m. in the main chapel. The exercise in the evening will not be a repetition of the one at noon.

Here is an opportunity for all Catholics to make a semi-retreat and draw closer to Almighty God.

Reaches Highest Level At Tilton-Massey Show

When Curt Massey and Martha Tilton presented their show here at NAS Thursday, March 13, the cooperation between the Hollywood contingent and the Naval Air Station's publicity personnel reached an all-time high.

Before the show, which consisted of a 15 minute tape-recording session and an hour long "free for the applause" show, Miss Tilton and Mr. Massey graciously received representatives from the North Islander and The Public Information Office. Despite the usual backstage confusion and last-minute rehearsals, they gave all the time necessary to take 39 individual photographs for "hometown" newspaper release. Then, as if this were not enough, after the hour and fifteen minute show, they once again were more than happy to pose for additional pictures with men stationed aboard the Air Station.

This type of congenial relationship between entertaining celebrities and the personnel at installations receiving the show, can do nothing but improve the relations between the Armed Forces and those in the entertainment field.

That the effort exerted by these fine performers was appreciated, was evidenced by the tremendous acclaim of the more than 2500 men and women on hand at the NAS Theater for the show.

HOW THINGS HAVE CHANGED! Pictured above is a pre-World War I scene at North Island. On the seaplane ramps in those days a common sight was the Curtiss seaplane of the 1912 vintage. Despite developments in aircraft in the last 40 years, a modern PBM "Mariner" appears just as helpless as its ancestor while waiting to be launched. Whitehat ground crews still get their feet wet getting the craft waterborne, too.

This Week's News

at a glance

Some progress was reported this week in the Korean truce talks. The delegates at Panmunjon agreed to 10 ports of entry which both sides, under neutral supervision, may use to supply their existing forces.

Still undecided is the issue of whether Russia should become a member of the neutral inspection team, and whether North Korea should be permitted to construct military air fields.

The Reds now say that UN forces are using poison gas in addition to spreading germs in North Korea. However, they reject the Allied proposal of having the International Red Cross investigate the matter and publicize its findings.

Wednesday, in the air war over Korea, Allied airmen attacked and damaged a new type Red jet fighter. They say it is similar to the MIG 15 but has a wing mounted high on the fuselage.

At home, efforts are being made to avert a strike of steel workers set for Sunday midnight. Public members of the Wage Stabilization Board recommended a wage increase for the workers which may influence a settlement before the Sunday deadline.

National politics made the biggest news this week. Results of Minnesota primaries, like those in New Hampshire, brought varied interpretations. All candidates involved said they were happy with the outcome of the voting.

Being reviewed more by the politicians than by literary critics is "Mr. President," written by President Truman. It is the first time in history that the private papers of a president were published while he was still in the White House.

In the Pacific, all military activities south of Okinawa, including the Philippines and Formosa, were transferred from the Far Eastern command of GEN. Ridgeway to CinCPac under ADM Arthur Radford.

In San Diego there was some silver lining behind the rain clouds that had darkened the area for many days—the city's 'Save Water" committee had disbanded after serving its purpose. Drastic water saving measures were no longer necessary as heavy rainfall had restored the level in most of the reservoirs. People were warned, however, that the end of the drought situation did not mean there was water to waste.

It might be a good idea to further postpone washing the family car. Forecasters predict more showers through the middle of April for the San Diego area.

No Tears for Losers At NAS Lost & Found

If you've marked up that raincoat, wallet, or car registration slip you lost a couple of months ago as permanently missing, there's a good chance it's in the Lost and Found Section at the Traffic Desk, Building 415, just waiting for you to pick it up. Here the adage, "Finders Keepers, Losers Weepers," holds little weight, and honesty is the rule rather than the exception.

Among other unclaimed items on hand, some of which have been at the desk for several months, are I. D. and liberty cards, leather jackets, gloves, rings, car keys, several pairs of eye glasses and one slightly used back truss. Nearly all of these articles have been lost by service personnel.

Last week even old Diogenes did a double-take when an unidentified NAS enlisted man turned in $9 in cash he'd found. W. M. Pate, ABC in charge of the Traffic Desk, invites claimants to form a line to the right, and if the loser can establish the correct time, locality and other circumstances existing when he and his money parted company, he'll definitely get it back.

LTJG J. R. Fitzwater, Assistant Security Officer, under whom the section operates, believes the reason more people don't claim their missing property is because they are unaware of the activity's existence. For them, and for anyone at NAS who finds an article belonging to someone else, the proper place to go is the Lost and Found section in Building 415.

Ken Sansom, DK-3, one of the most versatile performers at NAS, has volunteered his services for the 1952 Navy Relief Carnival. His numerous television appearances in Los Angeles and on the East Coast have made him one of the country's favorite impersonators.

Bob Bibb and his Western RhythMasters are already favorites of many NAS people. This western band plays in the "EM" Club, and has also on many occasions played in Coronado.

This Navy cast will make up the Navy Relief Carnival advance entertainment unit that will start a four-month tour of the country April 1.

Coronado VFW Holds Dance Tues.

Seventh in a series of free monthly party-dances for enlisted personnel of the Naval Air Station will be held by the Coronado VFW and Auxiilary Tuesday, March 25, 2000, at the VFW Hall, Sixth at Orange in Coronado.

Two bands will furnish dancing music—ComCruDesPac and Bob Bibb and his Western RhythMasters. A floor snow will include Barbara Webb of Coronado, and talent from the Special Services Division.

Clayton E. Lacy will again MC the monthly dance. Due to being "on the road" with "Liberty Hop", last month, Lacy was unable to MC the February dance, George "Dodo the Clown" Snodgrass of Transportation Department acted as MC.

Baby Sitting Dosen't Appeal To Plichta

Richard T. Plichta has taken an oath never to make friends with "Strangers On A Plane" again for as long as he lives. Especially strangers with blue booties, about 17 months of age and with the name of Billy.

Plichta met his new friend while returning from leave on a plane from Pittsburgh to St. Louis. They became quite good friends before reaching St. Louis; in fact Plichta took care of Billy many time for his mother during the flight to St. Louis.

When they reached St. Louis, all three boarded the same plane to Los Angeles so they again were seated across the aisle from one another. Plichta went into the depot to buy some magazines, when he returned there was Billy in his seat with a note pinned to him. He read the note and his reaction was instantaneous, "STEWARDESS!" He told her that Billy's mother had left the baby with him and asked if he would take Billy to her mother in Los Angeles. She had left names and address but no clothing or food for the baby.

After telling the stewardess the circumstances he told her to notify the police. Not knowing the first step in handling the situation, two women seated in front of him offered their help. One of the ladies claimed to be a nurse and reached for the baby but was snubbed when he sobbed and reached for his friend Plichta. The stewardess soon returned and was prepared to care for Billy but he still clung close to his friend.

After the longest fifteen minutes Plichta had ever spent, the police arrived. Through a lot of confusion, questions and fuss the police carried Billy away. A pick-up alarm was sent out for the mother and Plichta believes she was soon found.

When the excitement died down and the plane took off, Plichta leaned back in his seat with a sigh of relief and was welcoming his return to the quiet and calm of North Island.

Room for More at VS-892 Dance

Reservations are still being accepted for VS-892's "Spring Fever" dance, to be held tomorrow night Mess (Open). Tickets for the dinner, to be served from 1900 to 2200, are $5 per couple; without dinner, admission is $1.50 per couple. A special cocktail hour will be held from 1830 to 1930, and slacks and sport shirts for men, cotton dresses for women, are in order.

The affair is open to all officers in the San Diego area and their guests.

Brownie Moves To Statistics

I'm a wanderer now in Statistics
Bewildered by figures and charts
Surrounded by graphs
That look like giraffes
Divided - subtracted - in parts.

I live in a world filled with staples,
With memos, with chits and with clips
A.S.O. publications
And letters from stations
It's Navy — but where are the ships?

When I look at the stars I am thinking
They are just asterisks out of place
And once in a while
I file my nail file
But the people are nice in this place.

COLUMN RIGHT

ITEMS OF INFORMATION FOR CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

COLUMN RIGHT—Is your column. Its purpose is to answer questions of general interest which affect your employment. Forward all questions to: "COLUMN RIGHT," c/o Industrial Relations Department, Building 415, or deposit them in the Beneficial Suggestion Boxes.

Many employees have questions on retirement. This week's column will present some of the facts concerning your retirement.

If you are a former permanent employee and have now been given an Indefinite Appointment you may come under the Retirement Act.

If you resign your position to enter the Armed Forces, your widows' and children's survivor protection under the Retirement Act is retained even though you do not return to the Naval Air Station, but do return to other Government Service.

If you are a married or female employee and receive a disability retirement, you have the option of electing a reduced annuity with benefits to your widow or widower.

The entire period during which you were absent from your civilian position to serve in the Armed Forces of the United States may be used as civilian service for the purpose of computing the rate of annuity, without contribution to the Retirement Fund unless you are receiving an annuity for that Military Service.

If the base pay you received in the Military Service would increase the average base pay used in the computation of your annuity, you may elect to have this period credited as military service. You can generally determine this only at the time of retirement.

If you are separated for disability, you have six months after separation in which to file an application for disability retirement.

If you have 30 years of creditable service and are 62 years of age and have had a basic salary for the 5 highest consecutive years of $3,000.00 a year, your life annuity upon retirement will be $1,650.00 per year.

Your money in the retirement fund could be subject only to the indebtedness of the Federal Government and only after the exhaustion of other means.

If an employee fails to redeposit with interest, an amount previously refunded to him, the period of service covered by the refund is eliminated entirely from the period of service on which the annuity is computed.

If you are an employee with an Indefinite Appointment you are covered by the Social Security Law. When you receive a Permanent Appointment you will be covered by the Civil Service Retirement Act and the time you served as an Indefinite will be credited toward service for Civil Service Retirement.

The EM's of the P4Y Line

T. J. CONNERLY, ATAN, and R. S. Moore, AT3, above, inspect a control box on a P4Y-2 on which they have been working. The two are part of a 5-man radio check-out crew which works in O&R Electronics.

ADJUSTING THE LOOP ANTENNA on top of a P4Y-2 near Building 68 are A. E. Camezon, AN, and R. B. Schnell, AT3, who work with the radio cable installation crew. This crew is part of 18 enlisted men who make up the electronics crews in the area.

* * * * * * * * *

First 'White Hat' Crew Finishes Electronic Work on 'Their' P4Y-2

To the west of building 68 stands a row of P4Y-2 patrol type aircraft, going through the process of electrical and mechanical overhaul. The last one in line is the special concern of 18 enlisted men of Electronics Division.

Now nearing completion and soon ready for 'check-out, the plane is the first to be worked on by an "all white-hat" electronic crew. The group is justifiably proud of their handiwork.

Under the direction of Marvin Dory, ATC, the five crews perform all electrical and electronics work required on the plane, from pulling all the radio and radar equipment for repair in the shops to replacing most of the electrical cables and then replacing the units and testing them for correct performance.

Primarily a training unit as well as a production unit, the group receives practical instruction on every phase of maintaining an aircraft, as far as electronics and electrical systems are concerned. Most of the men in the outfit have had previous experience in the shops, actually working on the radio and radar equipment used in Navy aircraft. Now, as part of the electronics division of building 68, the men are getting an overall picture of electrical systems of the planes.

The radio cable installations crew replaces 90 percent of all the cables on the P4Y's. In this crew are: R. B. Schnell, AT3; R. C. Moser, ATAN; H. S. Coley, AEAN; R. L. Ringstad, AEAN, and P. C. McMurray, ATAN.

After the cables have been installed and checked, the radio checkout crew takes over to put the radio and radar back in the plane and check the units for correct performance. This crew consists of D. J. McGoff, AT3; R. S. Moore, AT3; W. D. Rogers, AT3; R. G. Morris, ATAN, and T. J. Connerley, ATAN.

Two men work on the APS-15 radar in the P4Y's. They are R. I. Burnes, ATAN, and W. E. Davis, AEAA. R. L. Phillips, AT3, checks the APS-15 "dishpan" antenna on the planes.

Bureau changes to make each plane up-to-date are made by the electrical change crew. These men change the cables and modernize the electrical systems to conform with modernization requirements R. E. Camezon, AEAN; R. W. Garneus, AEAN; W. D. Seader, AEAN; S. R. Whaley, AEAN, and J.P. Turrentine, AEAN, make up the electrical change crew.

The P4Y-2 aircraft is one of the most heavily loaded planes, as far as electronic equipment is concerned, in use by the Navy today. Formerly there were 43 enlisted men in the group which is now made up of 18.

The crews are shifted around in the various jobs on the plane so that every phase of the work will be learned. Each man is being taught to understand how his rate will apply to this aircraft and other Navy aircraft in general.

Rumors Vs. Facts

about the Red Cross

RUMOR . . .

Occasionally the complaint is made that contributors don't know where their dollars go because Red Cross doesn't publish a financial statement.

THE FACT . . .

During fund drives San Diego County Chapter DISTRIBUTES financial statement and operating budget to all campaign workers, urging its use in talking with contributors. It is AVAILABLE to anyone. The firm of Francis S. Jackson, Public Accountant, makes audits of Chapter expenditures. In addition, the Department of Defense audits the National organization's accounts.

RUMOR . . .

Someone will tell you that an ex-GI told him that comfort articles produced by Red Cross volunteers are sold to servicemen overseas.

THE FACT . . .

This rumor was circulated during World War II and has come up again in connection with the Korean fighting. Undoubtedly there have been many cases where these articles have been purchased—BUT IT WAS NOT FROM RED CROSS. During World War II, for instance, truckloads of Red Cross sweaters and other comfort articles were highjacked and sold in the black market. Also, there were many cases where servicemen, when being transferred to a warmer climate, would sell their Red Cross sweaters to the boys who stayed behind.

RUMOR . . .

You'll hear, occasionally, that the government pays Red Cross for the blood it provides to the armed forces.

THE FACT . . .

The estimated cost to National Red Cross in the 1951-52 fiscal year for recruiting blood for the armed forces is $11,033,600, NOT ONE CENT of which will be reimbursed. In San Diego, the non-reimbursable amount is $16,030. ONLY THE COST OF ACTUALLY PROCESSING THE BLOOD is reimbursed by the Department of Defense. This goes to the San Diego Blood Bank. Red Cross must defray ALL OTHER COSTS out of funds donated in the March fund drives.

RUMOR . . .

It is alleged that Red Cross pads its fund campaign goals, and, therefore, failure to make a goal would not necessitate curtailment of services.

THE FACT . . .

In fund raising, there are two schools of thought as to how to set a goal. One method is to pick a high goal as something "to shoot at." The other method is to budget strictly on the basis of anticipated expenditures. Red Cross is operated as a business, under Congressional charter, and its fund goals are based on actual operating needs. All expenditures are audited by both a private auditing firm and the Department of Defense, and must be factual.

Triple-Threat Hobbyist Is Artist, Author, Photog

Enough spare-time pursuits to occupy three ordinary people serve merely as a challenge to the versatile talents of Mrs. Isabella T. Harr, who transfers soon from her present position in the Nurses' Barracks to become an O & R Plant Division Shop Learner. An enthusiastic painter, author and photographer, she divides her interests as the mood strikes her, and consequently is never at a loss for "something to do."

When she wants to enliven the wall of a room in her Coronado home with exactly the right picture, Mrs. Harr doesn't compromise by going out and buying a commercial reproduction — she simply takes her easel, oil paints and canvas and creates the picture herself.

Mrs. Harr's penchant for art began when she was a child in her native New York. Every time she wrote a note to a friend, she would illustrate it with an informal, appropriate sketch. Following her move to the West coast some five years ago, she developed an interest in oil painting, and attended adult evening art classes in San Diego. The instruction she received was principally in landscape painting, and her canvasses in this field have been judged sufficiently meritorious to warrant a one-woman show. However, she has modestly demurred in participating in such a project until she herself feels ready.

Her main interest in art, she admits, is portraiture, because it allows her to capture the personality of her subjects in a permanent form, which can nevertheless be altered and improved upon as she gets to know them better.

In the writing field, Mrs. Harr's current No. 1 project is a novel, which she describes as "fiction, based upon personal observation." The story embodies a reverse "poor little rich girl" theme, in the style of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn." Started three years ago, she estimates it will take about eight or nine more months to complete the book.

Meanwhile, when she becomes bogged down by the novel, she turns her hand to short stories and poetry. Her writing, too, has served as a creative outlet since childhood. While she refers to her painting as something she does strictly for pleasure, she definitely has a commercial goal in mind for the novel.

Ten years of working with photography finds the versatile Mrs. Harr as ardent a camera fan now as the day she developed and printed her first picture. She is particularly keen on enlarging the exceptional sections of otherwise routine negatives, and this is her main darkroom pursuit these days.

Although it's difficult to imagine how she would find time to attend, Mrs. Harr is eager to see the formation of a group of NAS employees who have similar interests in art, writing or photography. She believes the exchange of ideas and discussion of mutual problems by members of such a group would serve as a definite creative stimulus.

A PORTRAIT, a famous San Diego landmark, and a still life comprise this group of paintings by Mrs. Isabella T. Harr, NAS civilian employee. In addition to oil painting, Mrs. Harr devotes much of her spare time to creative writing and photography.

Exchange Cleaners Always on the Spot

Most Navy men here at NAS know there is a cleaners, and most of them know that they can have their clothes cleaned there, but few know the entire story of how this operation is carried out. There is more to the procedure than taking your clothes to a window, and picking them up at the same window a few days later.

To illustrate the turn-over in this department, Evelyn Davis, Head Cashier, told us that over 6,600 individual garments are handled during a pre-inspection period.

The department itself is divided into several separate units. The markers of the incoming section tag the dirty clothes and put them into bins for shipment to San Diego for cleaning.

When clothes return from the cleaners, they are given to the five "pressers." These men "steam-press" all the clothes, and in turn give them to the girls who hang them on racks in rotation according to their ticket number.

When a person comes back for his clothes, he takes for granted that they will be cleaned and pressed. However, he doesn't always appreciate the effort that has gone into making them presentable.

The tailoring section is the section which handles alterations and other special sewing jobs. Among the most frequent of those are: rate sewing, striping, and sewing patches on jumpers and trousers.

Evelyn Davis, Head Cashier, gave a few suggestions on how to obtain a better cleaning job, and how to make the job of sorting the clothes easier for the people working on the clothes.

It was suggested that clothes which are spotted not be tampered with by those not familiar with cleaning processes. Often when a person tries to clean his own clothes, he sets the stain and makes it very difficult or even impossible to remove.

Another suggestion was made to Naval personnel. It was suggested that all men using the Navy Exchange Cleaners, keep the stencils on their clothes in good shape, thus enabling those processing the garments to more easily handle them, and therefore more quickly return them to their owners.

FIRST STEP—in the long cleaning process is the receiving of clothes from personnel. In typical scene at receiving window, above, are: R. M. Harder, SN; and head cashier Evelyn Davis. This step makes positive identification on clothing which follows throughout the cleaning process.

GETTIN' THE HANG OF IT—Shown hanging clothes in numerical order are cashiers Leona Ison, left, and Evelyn Deputy. The clothing has been cleaned in San Diego and pressed here at NAS. They are being arranged in numerical order according to the ticket numbers so that they may be easily picked out for the owners.

PACT Gore Is the Popular Man with Legal Tender

One of the most popular men on NAS is PACT Charles A. Gore. Why? If you haven't already recognized him from his picture as the Officer who hands you those wonderful "Green Backs" every first and fifteenth of each month, take another look.

Warrant Officer Gore came to NAS from NTC, San Diego to replace the Assistant Disbursing Officer last July. His duties consist of supervising personnel working in disbursing and the paying of NAS military personnel. Then of course there are records to be kept, allotment and commuted ration forms to be signed.

Joining the Navy in April, 1940, PACT Gore completed boot training and was sent aboard the battleship USS NEVADA as his first assignment. He was then transferred to the USS ABSECON (AVP-25) and worked in the supply department. During W W II he spent most of his time in the Pacific area, particularly in the Manus and Russel Islands. While in this area he was with CASU which supplied squadrons with parts and gear for repairs on land and carrier based planes.

Before going to NTC he was attached to the USS OGLETHORPE (AK-100) where he was Chief Store Keeper in the Supply Department. After returning from Korea on the OGLETHORPE in November of 1950 he was transferred to NTC. A month later he passed the examination for Warrant Officer and was then transferred to NAS.

PACT Charles A. Gore

At the present the Navy Relief Carnival is taking up most of his time. He was appointed to the committee which is organizing the selling of the Carnival tickets.

Long Beach, California is not his real home but he claims it as such because he spends most of his spare time and transacts his business there.

Squadron Adopts Play-Teaching Method

Ever conscious of the importance of training both in military and professional fields, FasRon-691 has adopted the Moreno role playing method of instruction in its nightly training courses.

Based on the idea that learning is most effective when the student is placed in an imaginary real life situation, the Moreno method uses dramatic skits as an instrument of instruction. Scripts used in the 691 classrooms are the original products of Donald V. Fregeau, AMSC, who also acts as instructor.

The cast of these instructional plays is usually built around some Dilbert who does everything wrong, violates regulations, and suffers the consequences, as opposed to the other characters who attempt to guide him in the right direction. The true-to-life characterizations, often taken from real situations, are dramatized by the members of the class thereby making each lesson a vivid memory.

The popularity of this method is apparent in the willingness of voluntary participants to take active part in the plays. "It makes each class more interesting, and everyone pays more attention," said J. K. Beck, SN; and R. W. Jackson, TESN, who has participated in several of the plays feels that "they create a lot of interest and make the class worthwhile. You learn more by actual participation." Each query brought a similar response from the non-rated men who are required to attend these classes. After all, learning should be a painless process.

This Week's MOVIE MENU for NAS

SATURDAY, March 22—"CAVE OF THE OUTLAWS," starring Macdonald Carey and Alexis Smith. Here is a picture which deviates far enough from the ordinary cowboy-type show to make it a show worthy of acclaim for its acting and plot. An innocent man serves a term in jail for a robbery, and when he is released, is instrumental in the recovering of the loot.
SHORTS: "Rhythm on a Reef" and "A Missed Fortune."
Running time: 1 hour and 49 minutes.

SUNDAY and MONDAY, March 23 and 24—"MUTINY" starring Mark Stevens and Patric Knowles. There's action a-plenty, of the swash-buckling, sea-going variety, in this briskly paced drama of maritime adventure. During the war of 1812, when the U.S. needed gold to build a strong fleet, Mark Stevens drew the assignment to run the British blockade and sail to France, where $10,000,000 in bullion is available. The gold is lost, but later is re-captured.
SHORTS: "Bee on Guard" and "Rooting, Shooting Tenderfoot."
Running time: 1 hour and 46 minutes.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, March 25 and 26—"FORT OSAGE," starring Rod Cameron and Jane Nigh. Frontier scout Rod Cameron is hired to lead a caravan out of Ft. Osage to California, but there have been many delays. To add to the conflict, the Osage Indians are on the "War Path" because of a treaty broken by the owners of the wagon-train which Cameron is to lead. Action is plentiful.
SHORTS: "Crow Crazy" and "Land Behind the Dikes."
Running time: 1 hour and 53 minutes.

THURSDAY and FRIDAY, March 27 and 28—"DISTANT DRUMS," starring Gary Cooper and Mari Aldon. In Florida in 1840 the seven-year Seminole war was in progress and Richard Webb, naval officer from the north, travels to army headquarters under the guidance of Gary Cooper, a brave swamp fighter. A group then heads for Lake Okeechobee and, en route, they pick up Mari Aldon, who had been captured by the Indians. The climax of the show is the challenge given the Indian chief by Gary Cooper to fight to the death and therefore decide the battle winner.
SHORT: "Thumb Fun."
Running time: 1 hour and 57 minutes.

Views and Interviews

Lots of Books, but Librarians Have Little Time for Reading

The Station library, located in Building 91 (Navy Exchange topside) serves both North Island military personnel and their dependents. Perhaps because books are such "dull stuff," some often overlook the real recreational value of the library. Not catering just to the "bookworm," it is a familiar haunt for those writing letters, studying, and browsing through the many newspapers and magazines in the racks.

The library is under the direction of Mildred Andrews. Miss Andrews has had considerable experience with Navy library work, being with the Great Lakes and NAS Olathe libraries before coming here five years ago. The "inquiring reporter" interviews her regarding the NAS library.

Q. Miss Andrews, what in general are the reading tastes and preferences of people at NAS?

A. Actually their reading tastes are quite varied. They don't read merely the "best sellers," but are interested in world affairs, languages, history, and political and social problems as well. They read nearly as much non-fiction as fiction—which is unusual for any library.

Q. What about Science Fiction? It seems to have quite a following among service men.

A. Science Fiction has a small but enthusiastic following here. Although they don't represent a large segment of the Station's reading public, they read avidly every Science Fiction novel the library has to offer. It is the same with chess fans also. It's difficult to keep enough books about chess on the shelves for them.

Q. How large is the library circulation?

A. Between 2000 and 2500 books are checked out each month. The days prior to pay day are always the busiest with a larger number of books circulated and more people patronizing the library.

Q. How many books are in the library?

A. Around 16,000.

Q. What are the library's sources for new books?

A. The Bureau of Personnel sends a monthly shipment of books. They furnish an excellent selection of popular fiction, non-fiction, and technical books. NAS Special Services provides funds to purchase books. Books not on the BuPers list are purchased from this fund. From the two sources the library acquires an average of 200 books each month.

Q. May personnel suggest book titles for the library to acquire?

A. Yes. We would be very happy to have recommendations. As long as a book is of general interest and is available, we are glad to order the book for the library.

Q. Does a librarian find time to read many books?

A. No. Certainly not during library hours.

Q. Are many library books lost?

A. More than we would like to have, but no more than most libraries. Our regular patrons have the least trouble with losing books. We have five copies of the popular Caine Mutiny constantly in circulation. None of them has disappeared.

Q. Does operating a library entail a lot of work?

A. Yes. Perhaps more than most people would suppose. There are five enlisted men working in the library who keep busy cataloging, processing books for the shelves, taking care of the desk, issuing notices, and mending and repairing damaged volumes.

Q. Are enough people using the library facilities?

A. We have a large number constantly using the library, but unfortunately more people could benefit from it. I'm afraid a large number who have been here a long time do not even know where it is located.

ELECTRONS

By "Windy" Splichal

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gray. They are the proud parents of a baby girl, born on March 14. This is their second daughter so rumor has it that Cecil will have a hard time getting a word in with three women in the house.

Mr. L. J. Bishop has returned to work after three weeks leave. He and his wife enjoyed a pleasant vacation in Imperial Valley.

Sis Bealeau of storeroom is now a very proud grandmother. The little fellow and his mother are doing fine and anxiously waiting for Daddy to return from Korea.

Nickie Avery is leaving the Island today. We are sorry to see you leave. Good Luck.

Ceceila Condon has been on leave for the past two weeks. She went to San Francisco to see her husband before he leaves for overseas.

Viola Coble flew to Oakland to see her husband who just returned from Korea. He will be here in San Diego with her next week when she enters the Naval Hospital for surgery. Best of Luck to you, Vi, and we'll all be happy to see you Lin.

Laura B. Hutton, Rose Ryan, Mrs. A. Allen, Mrs. Billings and M. Trainer all were transferred from the Radio Shop to Cable Shop. These girls were hard workers in Radio and will be missed.

A Pot Luck dinner was given in the Cable Shop last Friday. Chop Suey was the feature dish. No special occasion, the girls say they were "just hungry."

In the past month there have been several of our boys returning to N.A.S. who were called into Service. J. P. Johnston and Gordon Wayne Hawhee returned to work in Bldg. 68. Neal Paradise and Joseph Majewicz have returned to the Cable Shop.

Charles Barry has taken over the Shop Planners job in 4296. He is replaced in Shop 4248, parts procurement by James McWilliams. Best of luck to both the boys on their new assignments.

Last week H. T. Owens of Electric Shop passed away at the Palomar Hospital. He is greatly missed by all his fellow workers and our deepest sympathy is sent to his family.

Squadron Holds Party in Calexico

Anti-Submarine squadron 21 will send 30 officers and their wives as an advance party to the Desert Cavalcade, being held in Calexico this weekend.

Although the entire squadron is going to El Centro on March 22, the officers making up the advance party will give a dinner party in Mexicali Friday night. Honored guests will include the governor of Baja California and the president of the Calexico Chamber of Commerce.

Saturday morning, when the rest of the squadron arrives, a chuck wagon breakfast will be given prior to a week's special training in the desert area.

Wrestlers Bid For Olympic Berths

Last night at the San Diego High School Gym, 12 contenders from the Naval Air Skyraider wrestling team entered among a field of over 200 grapplers from colleges, athletic clubs and prep schools to struggle for a berth on the Olympic wrestling team.

The mat show will continue tonight and tomorrow night from 1800 to 2300. Tickets are available at Special Services, with a fifty percent discount.

Plans for New Island Chess-Checkers Club

In a recent Civilian Welfare & Recreation meeting a proposal was submitted to form a chess and checkers club. The recreation council approved the suggestion.

Chess and checker enthusiasts who would be interested in joining this club should contact E. L. Collins, of Metal & Machine Div., at his home (F-6042) after 1600. Collins says the proposed club would be open to both military and civilian personnel.

Two N. I. Scrappers Win in PacFleet Meet

Five scrappers from the Naval Air Skyraiders entered in the first lap of the Pacific Fleet boxing elimination Wednesday night. Of the five entered, only two emerged victorious.

Howard Prestwood, welter, decisioned John Smith of the USS TOLEDO, and Bill Slattery, light-middle, decisioned Harry Ralston, also of the TOLEDO.

Eddie Jackwin, fighting as a light-welter, lost by a cut eye TKO in the second round to C. H. Ford of the USS NAVASOTO. Ford staggered Jackwin early in the first round with a terrific right to the jaw, and seemed to have him in more trouble than he's seen all season. Jackwin came back strong and finished the round, piling up many points with overhand lefts and looping rights.

Both fighters opened the second round with an exchange of blows against the ropes. As they came out of the tangle, Jackwin's left eye was layed open, and bleeding considerably. After being examined by the doctor, the referee stopped the fight.

Bob Hipps, Skyraider featherweight, took the count in the second round from Jack Vaughan, USS TOLEDO. Hipps was in trouble in the first round from a right to the mid-section, but finished strong. A left-hook dropped him after 29 seconds of the second round.

Johnny Shelton, a newcomer to the Skyraiders, tangled with the formidable Nolan Davis, Phib-Pac, in the middleweight division. Davis' punching power and ring experience proved to be just too much for the game but outclassed Shelton.

In the light-middleweight division, Bill Slattery took a unanimous decision over Harry Ralston, of the USS TOLEDO.

Ralston seemed bewildered by Slattery's bobbing and weaving crouch, and constantly was hit with stabbing left jabs to the mid-section. Slattery opened up in the final stanza with a barrage of blows to the head and body to take the undisputed decision.

Howard Prestwood, a much improved fighter since the Golden Gloves, timed his punches perfectly against Smith in a fast moving brawl. Both fighters mixed it up in the final round, Prestwood landing punches to the head and mid-section to take a unanimous decision.

Skyraiders Dump Invaders As Baseball Season Opens

Opening their 1952 baseball season with a big bang, the Naval Air Skyraiders trampled the PhibPac Invaders Monday on the Towers Field diamond, ending up with a neat 12-1 victory. This marked the Skyraiders' first game of the 1952 season against a PhibPac nine with seven practice tilts to their credit.

The Airmen were in great mid-season form, starting their scoring attack quickly in the bottom half of the first inning, and continuing the attack throughout the game. Dale Hancey and Tommy Weaver were the first of the Skyraiders to reach home plate.

The Skymen were responsible for only two errors during the entire course of the game, but scored numerous runs off of errors from the opposition.

Veteran coach Harvey Speed used four pitchers, and allowed the entire squad a chance at bat. Jim Pardue started the Skyraiders' pitching attack, followed by Rex Yerby, Frank Kerr and Burt Smith.

With only three weeks of practice behind them, the Skyraiders played in perfect coordination, showing a lot of the spirit it takes to make a good ball club.

The Skymen were leading the game 7-0 up until the seventh inning, when the Invaders scored their first and only run of the game. This marked the first time they got past second base.

HE'S SAFE!—Skyraider first sacker Tom Futch slides into third during Monday's game with PhibPac. Minutes later he took a trip to home plate to add one more run for the 'Raiders.

JACKWIN LOSES TV TITLE

Defending his television title last Thursday night at Treasure Island, Skyraider welterweight Eddie Jackwin was defeated by "Bud" Gill of the Presidio Army, in a return match against a new champ.

The lad Jackwin fought knew the title bout was coming up two weeks ahead of time, but still he came in weighing 152 pounds. The weight limit for that class is 147, yet the fight went on.

We're not trying to make excuses for Jackwin's loss, but we are trying to point out that if the fight was staged under strict AAU rules, Jackwin would have won by a default, instead of defending his title against a middleweight.

We're not blaming the blunder on the television people, but we do think that Gill could conform more closely to weight limits.

Anyway, in all fairness, it is our opinion that Jackwin should be given another crack at the title, as Gill was, but we also think that if another title bout does come off, both boys should be welterweights.

BORCHERS, OLIVER PLAYING IN AAU

Art Borchers and John Oliver, members of this year's Skyraider basketball team were drafted by the Grihalva Motors AAU team, and are now in Colorado (using their own leave) playing in the National Western Division AAU tournament.

BURT SMITH—STRIKEOUT KING

Looks like southpaw Burt Smith might do a repeat performance of last year's pitching efforts. In his first game of the season Monday, he fanned five consecutive players, let one hit, and fanned another for five out of six strikouts. Not a bad way to start the season Burt!

KITE, HUGHES ON TV

Dale Kite and Ed Hughes, bantam and middleweight appeared last Thursday night over KNX-TV from Hollywood. Kite lost a decision to Neil Stevens of MCRD, while Hughes decisioned one Bob Baysinger also of MCRD. The program will be on every Thursday night starting at 1800, with Tom Harmon at the mike, and an ex-world's champ as referee. Last week's referee was Mickey Walker.

Air Pac Sports

By BOB SWISHER

The heralded clash of the FAIRBETUPac and Ready Issue volleyball teams came off Tuesday, with the Raiders gaining undisputed position of first place by winning 15-12, 11-15, 15-8 matches. Prior to this meeting, each team was undefeated in 12 starts. With only two games remaining on their schedule, the Raiders can almost coast in with Ready Issue out of the way.

However, while the Raider volleyballers rolled along, their keglers were knocked off the undefeated list by the pesky Ready Issue bowlers. The loss shoved FAIRBETUPac into third place with a 6-1 record. The Storekeepers and VP-731 are deadlocked for the lead with 7-0 slates.

The bowling setback was the first of the season for any FAIRBETUPac team. Their combined record in the four sports is now 36-1. Ready Issue, which seems to take deep delight in challenging the ET men in every category, sports a lusty record of 25 successes against only three defeats.

The horseshoe loop was clinched by the Raiders Tuesday. They knocked off FASRon-110 to finish the schedule with 10 straight wins. VC-11 is currently in second place with 8-1 and Ready Issue comes next with 6-2.

Three teams are battling for supremacy in handball. While bad weather limited play this week, FAIRBETUPac remains unbeaten in seven starts and atop the list. Trailing close behind is FASRon-110 with 6-1 and VS-21 with a 4-1 mark.

Timbermen Lead in 800 Scratch League

After running a close second for the past few months, the Timbermen from the North Island 800 Scratch Winter Bowling league finally surged ahead of the Jiggers. The Timbermen now hold a 53 win against a 25 loss record, while the Jiggers have a 51 win against a 27 loss.

Top Five have won 13 out of 14 games to bring them from thirteenth to fourth place in five weeks.

Johnny Goeas of Machine Shop currently is the high individual scorer and holds the high individual game for the week with a 606 and 269 respectively. He also holds the high individual game for the season with a 269.

Captain's Cup Lowdown

The second half of Captain's Cup volleyball is still in its primary stages, and already five teams have dropped out. Test Line is still leading with a perfect slate of ten wins.

The first Captain's Cup track meet will be held Monday, 24 March at Coronado High School. A bus will leave from Bldg. 650 (Theater Bldg.) at 1030.

Tennis singles start on 25 March, with doubles following immediately after the singles. Singles will be held on a double elimination basis.

Today is the deadline for entries in the intramural softball league. Play will start on 31 March. A tentative game schedule has been made with one game a night at 1900 at the Mainside Diamond.

Each division entering must also furnish two umpires.

Islanders Bowl Tomorrow As 11ND Tourney Opens

When the Seventh Annual Eleventh Naval District bowling tournament opens at the Pacific Recreation Bowling Alleys tomorrow over 200 civilians and servicemen who have been participating in civilian leagues will enter into competition.

Five games will be bowled on ten alleys over a two week-end period, starting at 0900 tomorrow.

Of the 220 bowlers entered in the tournament, over 175 of these will represent North Island. Last year's winners who received trophies were Roy H. Williams from the Electronics Lab who took first, and Tazwell Jones of Naval Air who was a runner-up in the men's division. Trixie Mitchell of the Supply Depot took first, and Adelyn Menick of Naval Air took second in the women's division.

Helicopter Pilots Win Friends--the Hard Way

While LT R. J. Gill, the pilot of the helicopter based aboard the USS MANCHESTER (CL-83), and his crewman, Roche, T. C., AD2, were going about their business of delivering guard mail and supplies to the other units of a task force operating off the coast of Korea, another rescue story was about to begin.

Ever vigilant for emergency calls, as are all helicopter pilots, LT Gill overheard a radio call from a British pilot pin-pointing a pilot in his flight who had been shot down in the vicinity of Hamhung. At once the helicopter was headed toward the downed pilot at top speed. After hedge hopping over the ground and trees for several miles, and successfully evading the enemies' guns, the helicopter arrived at the position of the downed British pilot just in time for a mortar shell to explode a few yards in front of it.

No time was lost by the downed pilot in getting aboard, and an immediate take-off was made. With the additional weight of the British pilot to the mail and food already aboard, the helicopter was very nose heavy. Realizing this at once, Roche began to lighten the load by tossing boxes of food intended for an LST over the side. All was soon under control, and all sighed with relief when the helicopter reached the safety of the open sea.

The MANCHESTER was dead ahead and all were soon safely aboard. Needless to say, the British pilot was vehement in his gratitude to Gill and Roche. This is the hard way of making friends, but HU-1 of Ream Field has hundreds of them acquired in just such a manner.

Music Show At Ream-Theater Is One of Best

Swing and dixie band music had the audience clapping their hands at the Battle of Music show held in the Ream theater March 12.

A dixie band from the Julian High School started out the enjoyable evening of music after being introduced by Chief W.R. Proetor, M.C. for the show. They were followed by Louis Reneditz, PNSN, from N.T.C. who literally danced the taps off his shoes before the end of his first number.

Miss Louise Hood then played several numbers on her vibraharp and left the audience clamoring for more.

A swing band from NTC took over with a couple of numbers before presenting Miss Delores McCartle, a WAVE singer from N.T.C. who recently appeared on the Bob Hope TV show. The swing band then marched out into the audience without breaking rhythm, around the theater and back to the stage.

Fred Rigby, a Starlight Opera star, sang "Old Man River." When called back for an encore he was joined by his wife in a duet which turned out to be one of the highlights of the show.

As for the local talent on the show, our own "Evil Eye" Parker asked for volunteers from the audience and put them under his hypnotic spell.

The gal with the guitar, Miss Mary Lou Doxtater, gave out with a couple of numbers that had the guys all howling.

The finale of the show was when both bands combined in a jazz session and played "How High the Moon."

Despite microphone difficulties the show turned out to be the best yet at Ream.

Chief Proctor, coordinator of the Ream show says, "We'll be back with a bigger and better show next month."

VU-7 Airmen Given Medals

Three Air Medals and one Commendation Ribbon were awarded to VU-7 airmen at Captain's inspection Friday, March 14, at ALF Ream. CDR N. R. Lincoln made the presentation to LT Loren J. McDonald, LTJG William F. Wallace, and Kenneth C. Gaddis, ADC.

LT McDonald received the Commendation Ribbon and gold star in lieu of a third Air Medal for meritorious achievement as a fighter pilot operating from the USS BON HOMME RICHARD in Korean waters from 1 June to 29 November, 1951.

LTJG Wallace was awarded a gold star in lieu of a third Air Medal for 20 strikes on enemy positions as a Corsair pilot while attached to the USS BOXER during the period 16 July to 1 October, 1951. LTJG Wallace participated in over 60 missions.

A gold star in lieu of a fifth Air Medal was presented to Chief Gaddis, who flew reconnaissance and anti-sub missions in Korean waters as a crew member of Patrol Squadron 42 from October to December, 1950.

Answer to Puzzle

Psychiatrist Gives Lecture at ALF Ream

"Things my mother never told me" and "What to do until the psychiatrist comes," were subjects of two very interesting speeches given at the station theater by Doctor Murray Banks, Wednesday and Friday of last week.

Dr. Murray Banks is a well known New York psychiatrist. He has held several professorships in large colleges and writes a newspaper column for a national syndicate. Dr. Banks is also a magazine writer and author of several books, one of which is the best seller, "How to Live with Yourself."

Dr. Banks has been acclaimed as, "A little bit of Barrymore . . . a little of Will Rogers . . . a little bit of G.B. Shaw, mixed with a smattering of Bob Hope . . . with a Will Durant delivery and an O'Henry finish!"

Dr. Banks presented his talks in an amusing, always thought-provoking manner which held the audience spellbound. Many officers and men found his first speech so interesting they attended again Friday and brought a friend with them.

In his talk Friday, "What to do until the psychiatrist comes," Dr. Banks defined "happy" as being "well adjusted" and left nine ingredients for a well adjusted life in each person's mind.

J.E. Parker, AFAN, is a personal friend of Dr. Banks and arranged for him to appear at Ream.

HS-2 Athletic Program Starts

Athletics are number one on the list for morale building and utilization of spare moments at Ream.

The HS-2 athletic program is well under way under the guidance of LT Rog Gill and the able assistance of LTJG Bob Ulm. At the present volley ball, bowling, horse shoes and hand ball teams are being formed. These teams will participate in both inter and intra-squadron competition.

HU-1 Burton Island Group Returns From Arctic Circle

Returned to Ream field, after a two month's voyage above the Arctic Circle, is Helicopter Squadron ONE'S USS BURTON ISLAND Detachment.

A party of one officer in charge, one enlisted helicopter pilot and nine enlisted men to maintain the planes embarked aboard the ship on January 7, bound for Naval Air Station, Kodiak, Alaska. During the entire trip, extensive flights were made with the two helicopters carried aboard, to determine how the planes would behave in Arctic climates.

After the ship left Kodiak, it headed for Nome and the Bering Straits. While in Nome, transport flights were made, bringing equipment to the people there and bringing Eskimo children aboard for free dental work.

The helicopters also landed on Little Diomede Island, the island in the middle of the Bering Strait, owned by the United States, and the closest point of United States territory to Russian controlled Siberia. This, according to one member of the expedition was the first time an airplane had landed on the barren, rocky island.

The coldest weather conditions encountered on the voyage were at Nome, the temperature being 24° below zero. All maintenance of the helicopters was done on the open deck of the ship, meaning many cold faces and hands for the crew.

Several times the ship was lodged in the pressure ridges caused by the packing ice in the ocean. Underwater demolition teams, brought for the occasion blasted the ship free, allowing the ship free movement in the ice fields of the Bering Strait.

The ship departed for Arctic area, returning to San Diego on 11 March 1952.

HU-1 Skipper Promoted

Henry M. Kosciusko, Commanding Officer of Helicopter Squadron ONE, Ream Field, has been promoted to the rank of Commander.

He entered the Navy at Squantum, Mass, where he received his flight training.

CDR. Kosciusko later served aboard the aircraft carrier USS LEXINGTON. He was with a helicopter squadron on the East Coast before coming to ALF Ream.

HS-2 Has Role As Hunter-Killer

The primary mission of HS-2 is anti-submarine warfare. With the aid of the helicopter and improved electronics gear, the Navy added one more hunter-killer to its ever increasing force to combat the enemy.

As a versatile machine, the helicopter gives promise of new hunter-killer tactics, which should greatly relieve the submarine menace.

For the present the training syllabus is being set up to use the HUP-2 helicopter, manufactured by the Piasecki Corporation. The new HUP has the Sperry Auto-Pilot enabling it to operate over an extended period without undue pilot fatigue. This plus new improved electronics gear and operational technique gives the impression that the men of HS-2 have one of the most promising answers for submarine control.

From ADC (AP) To AA (P)-Easy

Headlines can be misleading, such as this one which at first glance appears to be the sad tale of a Chief Aviation Pilot's trip to Airman Apprentice via the disciplinary route. Actually it's a story with a happy ending.

This week Frank M. Nehlig, ADC(AP) of VU-3(K) bids farewell to the Navy to enter American Airlines pilot training.

During his 11 years in the Navy Chief Nehlig spent many hours in drone flying and in various other types of flying connected with the drone program, both at NAMTC Pt. Mugu and in operating squadrons.

Nehlig, who has been with VU-3(K) since last April will no doubt find his new duties somewhat different from those of a drone jockey and controller. However all hands join in wishing him a lot of good luck in his new career.

Island Military to Watch Jack Benny Show March 31

Jack Benny and the stars of his radio show will appear in person at the Naval Air Station Theater Monday, March 31.

The song-writing, violin-playing, blue-eyed comedian with his regular cast—including Mary Livingstone, Dennis Day, Phil Harris, Rochester, Don Wilson and the Sportsmen Quartet—will tape a half-hour show for broadcast on April 20. An hour-long stage show will follow the taped portion.

The show will be open to NAS and NAS-based Fleet Units personnel by ticket only. Tickets will be distributed to the various departments and squadrons at North Island on the basis of one to every five men. LT Hal Boudreau, NAS Special Services Officer, says that the limited number of seats in the NAS Theater will not permit inviting dependents to attend.

The theater doors will open at 1845 and will definitely close at 1910. The taped portion of the program will be from 1930 until 200, followed by the "for-the-applause" show.

Uniform for personnel attending the show will be dress blue baker for officers and chiefs and uniform of the day for men.

Ed Lear Appointed to O&R Production Supt. Position

The selection of Edward A. Lear for the position of Production Superintendent, NAS O&R Department, GS-13, was announced last Tuesday. Formerly Foreman, O&R Shops, he fills the post vacated by John E. "Ole" Olson, Jr., who retired after 41 years of government service.

Coming to North Island in 1935, Lear immediately joined the Overhaul & Repair Department, which employed only 200 civilians at that time. Earlier he had worked for the Glenn Martin aircraft company and Navy Lighter-than-Air at Moffet Field.

Born in Cleveland, Ohio, Lear came to California in 1933. He and his wife reside in La Mesa. They have one son and one grandson.

In connection with the appointment of the O&R employee to Production Superintendent, CAPT A. L. Baird, O&R Officer, declared: "Mr. Lear has reason to be proud of his selection for this position, since he was in competition with six other applicants, all of whom were highly qualified. Selection was based upon a careful analysis and comparison of total experience and demonstrated abilities of the applicants, and the margin of difference in individual standings was very narrow. The O&R Department is very fortunate in having such a large pool of talent from which to draw."

N. I. Red Cross Total Announced

The Red Cross fund drive among military and civilian personnel at NAS stands at $2900, according to a tabulation of collections last Wednesday. The drive will be extended at NAS until Wednesday, April 2. All Divisions are asked to turn in their collections to the Executive Officer's office on that day.

The ComAirPac Red Cross drive has reached $4537, according to a report made Wednesday. AirPac collections include NAS-based squadrons, ships tied up at North Island, and squadrons based at NAAS Miramar and ALF Ream.

As a result of tornado damage in six southern states last week, the need for Red Cross funds has been increased by $5-million, bringing the goal in the current drive to $90-million for the nation. The San Diego area goal was boosted by $16,000.

The storm disaster in the southern states brought immediate response from the Red Cross to alleviate the suffering and provide food and shelter for the thousands of homeless.

Hold Civilian Blood Donation Next Wednesday

Today is the final day for civilian employees to volunteer for the April 2 donation to the NAS Civilian Blood Account. The account's blood reserves have been depleted by large withdrawals since the first of the year.

Orville W. Larson, AMG Max. of O&R Structures & Finish Div., this week expressed his appreciation to NAS personnel for their blood contribution, drawn through the Civilian Blood Account, for his wife.

Mrs. Helen Larson died in a local hospital March 7 as a result of a critical liver ailment. During the 19 days Mrs. Larson was hospitalized, she received 50 pints of blood, all of it from the NAS account. Larson feels if it hadn't been for this NAS blood program, this large amount of blood could not have been obtained in such a short period except through a plea in the press.

7,000 Persons Greet Essex

The USS ESSEX, (CV-9), returned from a nine month tour of duty in the Far East, including Korea, last Tuesday at 0930.

More than 7000 relatives and friends were on hand to greet the "Fightingest Ship in The Navy" when she docked at the quay wall. Along with the throng of anxious people, were the bands of ComAirPac and the Marine Corps Recruit Depot.

Entertainment was also provided by majorettes from Coronado and San Diego Hoover High Schools. Clad in flashing red and green uniforms, these girls must have made the men feel "It's sure good to be home."

Highlight of the welcoming ceremony was the presentation of the Legion of Merit to CAPT Austin Wheelock, former commanding officer of the carrier. The citation was presented by VADM T. L. Sprague, after it had been read by CDR W. H. House.

With a fire-boat shooting streams of water in advance of the ship, homecoming of the ESSEX was a truly spectacular one.

Make a Date for April 8 Armed Forces Donation!

An appeal for blood donations to the Armed Forces has been made to military personnel at NAS. Donation day has been set for April 8 with both NAS and NAS-based personnel asked to give blood. Personnel desiring to contribute should contact their division officer, who will make arrangements for an appointment, by April 4.

The donation, to be held at the Infirmary Garage, building 14, is scheduled to start at 0800, lasting late into the afternoon until all volunteers have been processed.

Pointing up the critical need for blood, GEN Omar N. Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, recently said: "If you have given blood, you have undoubtedly saved an American life. It is one item that all the taxes, all the industry and science and technology of this country cannot produce for our soldiers. This life-saving blood can only be given by you."

Civ. Cafeteria To Serve 45c Plate Lunch

An appetizing 45-cent hot plate will augment the regular menu at the main civilian cafeteria and the branch in building 404 starting next Tuesday, April 1. Decision to feature the low-cost lunch, which will consist of an entree, vegetable, and bread and butter, was voted unanimously this week by members of the Civilian Cafeteria Board at their regular monthly meeting.

Because of the reduced price, no substitutions or deviations from each day's planned meal will be permitted, such as getting rolls in place of bread. Continuation of the hot plate, to be served initially on a two months' trial basis, will depend upon the possibility of loss accruing from improper portioning and entree selections.

Coincidental with the reduced charge for one entree each day, the price of milk will be increased one cent per carton. Buttermilk will remain the same. The one-cent raise is necessary to offset absorption by the cafeteria during the past six months of two small increases in the cost of milk products, which have amounted to approximately $400.

Seasonal Uniform Change At NAS Set for April 1

The seasonal change of uniform will become effective Tuesday, April 1 at the Naval Air Station and will remain in effect until November 1, 1952, according to NAS Notice 1020.

For commissioned officers and chief petty officers service dress khaki has been designated as both the uniform for duty and liberty.

Service dress blue (baker) may be worn at any time in lieu of service dress khaki, and will be the uniform for all official ceremonies and social functions where a measure of formality is required. Service dress white is authorized, when appropriate, for weddings and similar occasions.

Aviation winter green is an authorized working uniform while aboard the Station and proceeding to and from the place of residence when such travel is uninterrupted. The wash khaki working uniform is authorized aboard the Station when, due to working conditions, it would be the most appropriate. When worn, the person concerned is not permitted to proceed beyond his immediate working area.

The enlisted men's uniform will remain dress blue for liberty and undress blue for duty.

Service dress blue is authorized as a duty and liberty uniform for both enlisted and officer Waves. The working gray seersucker is authorized while aboard the station and proceeding to and from the place of duty when such travel is uninterrupted.

Senate Has Not Acted on C.S. 'Leave Rider'

Station employees have expressed their concern regarding legislation pending in Congress which, if passed, would effect the use of leave.

Unfounded rumors are also being circulated that the pending legislation has passed both houses of Congress. These rumors are false.

Unofficial sources reveal that the leave rider now pending in Congress, which would require the use of leave earned in any calendar year to be used by the following June 30, has only passed the House of Representatives.

It has not yet been acted on by the Senate. These unofficial sources also indicate that there is strong opposition in the Senate to the acceptance of the House-approved leave rider.

'Y' Plans Easter Weekend Trip To Camp Davidson

The Armed Services Y.M.C.A. of San Diego is running a special Easter weekend camp trip to Camp Davidson, a Y.M.C.A. camp in the Julian mountains. The trip is open to service men and service women, and is sponsored by the Girls' Service Organization of the "Y."

Hiking, softball, volleyball, camp fires, dancing, hot dog roasts and many other programs are included in the weekend activities. The highlight of the weekend is to be the Easter Sunrise Service planned by a committee of service men and women and U.S.O. girls, with a Navy chaplain as guest speaker.

Busses leave from the "Y" for Camp Davidson on Saturday, April 12, at 1330. They will return to the "Y" by 2150 the following day. The entire cost of food, transportation, bedding and recreational facilities is $5.00. Those interested are asked to sign up in the Program Office as soon as possible.

The Truth About Ourselves

If we could suddenly discover the whole truth about ourselves, we would probably become terribly frightened. However, God has made us in such a manner that we gradually learn the truth about Him and about ourselves. By this method we are able to take it.

The importance that we place upon ourselves when young in years is quite natural. We are supposed to overcome this self-righteousness and personal significance as we grow up. Actually, the truth about ourselves is, we are far more important to God and mankind than we are able to grasp quickly. Our importance lies in the realm of usefulness. When we wake up to this fact, we are worth something. We start asking others, "What do you think I should do?" I suppose all children have asked their parents at one time or another, "What would you like for me to do when I grow up?" The wise parent treads softly.

Jesus tells the story of a rich young ruler who came to Him and asked, "What must I do?" This story illustrates the cost of discovering the truth. There is no easy method of finding out the thing we must do to bring us peace and happiness. Evidently, the young ruler thought the price was too high, because "he went away sadly."

Sometimes our values become warped and get all out of proportion. When we discover this fact, we have found a very valuable truth concerning ourselves. Jesus tells another story which illustrates a truth about ourselves.

The young man asked for his share of the inheritance because he felt important and wanted other people to think so too. When he used all his money, and came to himself, he realized how important he really was in another way. It was necessary for him to go home and tell his people that they could use him anywhere. It just didn't make any difference, so long as they would accept him, even as a hired hand. He was worth something far more now, because he realized his place at home and how important he really could be. I believe his discovery was this: He learned about love. When the idea of asking his father for forgiveness came to him, he discovered love. It was that simple. Truth is like that. It is something we discover. We know it is so. There is no argument.

I believe Jesus was like that about God. There was no question in His mind. He knew what was necessary for Him to do. He discovered the truth, the way, and the life. What the young son found out was the truth about himself. In return for the love his father had shown him, he could not present himself as a worthy son, but only as an eager person to prove his loyalty and devotion. I believe we should feel this way toward Jesus Christ, our Lord.

Protestant Lenten Services

Protestant Lenten services, every Thursday at 1230 to 1300 in Building 8 Auditorium.

Catholic Lenten Services

Beginning on the 31st of March and extending until the 4th of April a Lenten Mission is to be given on the Naval Air Station by Father Joseph M. Keefe, Vincentian Missionary. All Catholics aboard the station are most cordially invited to attend the mission exercises. A special invitation is extended to all civilian employees and their friends. There will be two exercises each day. One will be held at 1200 in the Auditorium of Building 8 (South end of Administration building) and the other at 8 p.m. in the main chapel. The exercise in the evening will not be a repetition of the one at noon.

Here is an opportunity for all Catholics to make a semi-retreat and draw closer to Almighty God.

This Week's News

at a glance

Western Powers are reacting with caution to Russia's proposal for a conference to draft a German peace treaty. In replies to the Kremlin, France, Britain, and the United States refused to discuss a treaty until Germany is unified through free elections supervised by the United Nations.

A report from a London magazine quotes an informant as saying that the Soviet's Premier Stalin is seriously ill from a brain malady and may die at any time. Stalin's death would, according to the report, result in a struggle for power among the Politburo's "big wheels"—Melenkov, Beria and Molotov.

The Government is still trying to settle a threatened strike of 650,000 steelworkers on April 8. What wage concessions should be granted to the steelworkers remained unsettled, however. Fears were expressed by some officials that the situation would disrupt the Government's price-wage stabilization plans.

GEN Alfred M. Gruenther, GEN Eisenhower's chief of staff, now in Washington testifying for the Administration's foreign aid program, told the House Foreign Affairs Committee that World War III is neither "imminent nor inevitable." He admitted that Russian military strength is impressive but does not believe they will make the decision to attack Europe now. "They never will," he says, "if we take the proper measures."

If any progress was made in the Panmunjon talks early this week, it was not disclosed because proceedings of the sessions were kept secret. Major issues under discussion continue to be prisoner exchange and neutral inspection teams.

A series of tornadoes devastated areas in the South last week leaving in their wake 222 dead, 1107 injured, and millions of dollars in property damage. Over a thousand homes were destroyed, and hundreds more damaged.

Red Cross aid was immediately rushed to the area to help alleviate the suffering of the thousands of homeless. The organization has established shelters manned by 98 trained personnel and 6000 volunteers.

The Defense Department has announced that 19,000 men will be inducted during the month of May. Of the total requested 15,000 will be assigned to the Army and 4000 to the Marines.

Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics RADM Thomas S. Combs at a recent meeting of aviation writers said that the Navy is experimenting with five types of jet aircraft that can out-perform the Russian MIG. He identified the five planes as the F7U-3, F4D, F3H, FJ-2, and F9F-6.

A SPIRITED WELCOME—was afforded the USS ESSEX (CV-9), upon its return from a nine-month tour of duty in the Far East. Seven thousand friends and relatives of the officers and aboard the carrier witnessed the presentation of The Legion of Merit to CAPT A. W. Wheelock, ex-commanding officer of the ship, by VADM T. L. Sprague and CDR W. H. House.

'Retirement' Defined by PW's Webster

A little light work—more pleasure than labor—is all that John S. Webster, former PW Heavy Equipment Operator, has lined up for himself during the next few months. Mr. Webster, who retired last week after 34 years' service on North Island, revealed that his plans for the future will start off with some good old-fashioned relaxation.

First of all, he has a lot of fishing to catch up on—anytime he feels the urge and the fish are in a mood to bite. After that, there'll be a leisurely trip to Yosemite this summer. But most important of all, he'll be able to devote a major portion of his time to caring for the garden of his home at 2729 46th St., San Diego. This garden, which the neighbors fondly call "Webster Park," has long been the pride and joy of Mr. Webster and his wife, who shares his enthusiasm for working in it.

Part of the genial and well-liked Mr. Webster's period of service here was as a soldier during World War I, and he was discharged from the Army's North Island unit in 1919.

The Websters, who have a son and daughter, both married and living in San Diego, eventually plan to operate a walnut ranch near Morgan Hill in Northern California.

S&F 40-Year Man Bids 'Farewell'

Completing over 40 years of Federal service, Supply & Fiscal employee W. F. Hardy retired this week.

Entering the NAS Supply Department in July 1936, Hardy previously had served 26 years in the Navy, first enlisting in 1910. Between 1924 and 1936 he was attached to several North Island based squadrons.

"It is true," says Hardy, "that I helped chase the jack rabbits off North Island . . . but not the Indians!"

ITEMS OF INFORMATION FOR CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

COLUMN RIGHT—Is your column. Its purpose is to answer questions of general interest which affect your employment. Forward all questions to: "COLUMN RIGHT," c/o Industrial Relations Department, Building 415, or deposit them in the Beneficial Suggestion Boxes.

Q. SINCE THE WAGE SURVEY WAS SCHEDULED TO START ON FEBRUARY 18, WHY HAS THERE BEEN SUCH A DELAY IN ACTION TO DATE?

A. There has not been an excessive delay in the wage survey. It has been underway a month and approximately half of the firms selected for survey (other than the aircraft firms) have been contacted. Such matters as requesting comments from employees and employee groups as to the list of occupations and firms to be surveyed and the screening of such comments by the Area Wage Survey Committee consume considerable time. In addition, it has been necessary to postpone visits to several of the firms because of current wage negotiations or because of the due date for filing income tax reports.

Q. WHEN IS THE WAGE SURVEY IN THIS AREA EXPECTED TO BE COMPLETED AND READY TO SEND TO WASHINGTON?

A. It is anticipated that the wage data will be ready to send to Washington during the latter part of April.

Q. WOULD IT HAVE BEEN POSSIBLE TO HAVE THE PRELIMINARIES SUCH AS THE PICKING OF TEAMS AND TRADES FINISHED PREVIOUS TO THE FEBRUARY 18th DATE?

A. It would not have been possible to have preliminaries such as selecting data collectors and trades completed prior to 18 February. Instructions are disseminated from the Navy Department, through the Area Wage and Classification Office, Long Beach. The representative of the AWCO serves on the Wage Committee as Secretary. The Secretary schedules the meetings of the Wage Committee and issues survey plans. The first meeting of the Committee was held 18 February at which time the occupations and firms to be surveyed were made known.

"OPEN SESAME" is all you have to say to PW Locksmiths Vaunder Hamlin (left), Bob Stewart and George Clark, and your key is as good as made. Here they are at work in the Building 3 Key Shop.

* * * * * *

Station Locksmith Shop Is Key Security Activity

Seven Keys to Baldpate, the fictional mystery mansion made famous in novel, play and movie form, was a piker compared to NAS-North Island. Over 100,000 locks, on doors, closets, bins, safes and file cabinets are in use on the Station, with many times that number of keys and combinations to fit them.

Keepers of the keys at NAS are George Clark, Vaunder Hamlin and Bob Stewart, who make their headquarters in the Public Works' Key Shop, located in Building 3. Besides installing new locks, they are responsible for the maintenance and repair of all Public Works locks and keys already in use on the Station, as well as for servicing units at the Amphibious Base, Miramar, San Clemente, Ream, Brown and Border Fields, and aboard ships that dock here.

Clark, Hamlin and Stewart are constantly on the go, and alternate calls for service between them. Unlike the average NAS civilian employee, their day's work doesn't end with the close of normal working hours. Each of them is on call at any hour during the 24, when emergencies may arise requiring their services.

One of their busiest periods is Monday morning, when people seem more apt to misplace their keys. Many times a phone call will come in asking them to hurry over and open something up, and by the time they arrive, the missing key has been found.

When the combination of a safe must be changed, these PW trouble-shooters are authorized to explain the manner in which it may be re-set, but in no case do they actually supply the revised combination itself. The same procedure follows the opening of a safe in need of repair.

The Key Shop is equipped with every device associated with the locksmithing trade. Three key cutting machines, two automatic and one manually operated, comprise the principal equipment, with files, vises, key blanks and other basic tools and material in plentiful supply. On the walls of the shop, duplicate keys for NAS buildings, rooms and storage properties are neatly hung and catalogued, making it easy to find any key requested in a matter of seconds.

Although the three PW craftsmen are always ready to serve you, next time you think you've lost a key, take another look. It might be in that other pocket, and the time you save the Key Shop can be used for more important work.

NORTH ISLAND SERVICE POST 753 LEGION NOTES

By Art Burns

There's going to be a big time tonight, March 28, at 2000, in the Veterans Memorial bldg., Balboa Park. North Island Post 753 invites the public to its "Re-tread Benefit Ball". "Re-tread" means, of course, those men called back into active service. The proceeds from this dance go toward paying these men's dues. The popular dance band, "The Jumping Jacks" will play for the dance.

Roscoe Morse, County Council commander, announces that for the first time anywhere, part of the next council meeting Tuesday, April 8, will be on television from 1900 to 1915. The County Council will present an outstanding Americanism Award, and $1000.00 in cash donations to Lloyd Hamlin, the local veteran who was an undercover agent for the F.B.I., and Naval Intelligence with the Communist Party for the last seven years.

Two outstanding workers for the North Island Post have been greatly missed, Charlie Stringer and Pat O'Neil. After Charlie's last leg injury, the doctors reported it imperative to deaden his entire leg. Pat O'Neil has been ill the past two weeks and is now back in the Veterans' Hospital at Long Beach.

Last Sunday, the American Legion's 22nd District had its meeting in the Imig Manor Hotel. The principle speaker was departmental commander John K. Home. He has just returned from Washington, D. C.

Many compliments have been paid Ken Golden for his part as a new member of "The Pickwick Players" in their play, "The Drunkard".

This is my last write-up. It's been very enjoyable these past three years writing this column for your "North Islander". Good luck to all, and I will continue seeing you at the North Island Post activities.

VFW Features Fashion Show Tomorrow Noon

Coronado's VFW Auxiliary will hold a card party and fashion show at VFW hall, Sixth and Orange in Coronado, Saturday, March 29, at 12:30 p.m.

Auxiliary President Rosiena Graves, NAS night telephone operator, announced that members of the Tau Omicron Phi Sorority will model the latest spring and summer fashions during the afternoon's entertainment. In addition to the fashion show and card party, a buffet luncheon will also be served by the ladies of the auxiliary.

Ken Sansom will make the show's commentaries.

The event is open to the public and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Views and Interviews

To Waiver? To Convert?--Still the Questions of Many Policy Holders

"To waiver or not to waiver" is still a persistent question of many Navy men holding government life insurance. In order to help those who are not entirely clear on the relationship between NSLI or USGLI and the Gratuitous Indemnity Act, the North Islander presents the following article by LT C. V. Higman, FASRon 110 Training Officer. LT Higman has made a careful study of government insurance and the more recent Indemnity plan, and last January conducted a seminar on the problem at North Island.

LT C. V. Higman

The Gratuitous Indemnity Act was enacted on April 25, 1951 and provides for a $10,000 coverage on the life of a person on active duty in the U.S. Armed Forces. It must be understood that this is an Act of Congress and not an insurance policy.

Upon passage of this act the issuance of additional NSLI and USGLI was discontinued. Those persons entering the Armed Forces after April 25, 1951 are covered by the $10,000 Gratuitous Indemnity and are not eligible for NSLI. Furthermore those who had NSLI or USGLI prior to the enactment can retain the amount they had at that time but can not increase the coverage.

The act provides that those who have NSLI and USGLI can take advantage of the Gratuitous Indemnity Act and still retain the rights and privileges of their policies. However, keep in mind that the maximum amount to be received from either Gratuitous Indemnity Act or NSLI-USGLI or a combination of these is $10,000.

In order to take advantage of the Gratuitous Indemnity Act while holding NSLI or USGLI it is necessary to understand the composition of the premium paid on insurance.

The premium on NSLI or USGLI permanent plans is divided into two parts. One is the insurance risk or mortality portion, the other is the cash value or reserve portion. The risk or mortality is that portion which is needed to cover the death claims arising in any age group. The reserve or cash value is that portion which accumulates to mature the policy at a given date.

The premiums paid on five-year level term policies in NSLI or USGLI contain only the mortality or risk portion and no cash or reserve value.

When a man submits a waiver on his NSLI or USGLI he expresses his desire to take advantage of the Gratuitous Indemnity Act and retain all the rights and privileges of his NSLI or USGLI.

Upon signing the waiver form, the risk of an individual's life is assumed by the Gratuitous Indemnity Act. Therefore as the risk on his life is no longer covered under NSLI or USGLI the policy holder is responsible for payments amounting to only that portion which constitutes his cash value or reserves. In the case of a Term Plan the entire premium a man has been paying is insurance risk. Therefore his waiver cancels his premium payment in its entirety.

While a plan rests under the waiver all rights and privileges including the settlement options designated by the insured are in force.

Do not cease payments on your NSLI or USGLI either by allotment or direct payment before signing a waiver form as this constitutes a cancellation of your NSLI or USGLI policy.

Q. If I submit a waiver on a five year level term policy, will I be able to convert it to a permanent plan at a future date?

A. It may be converted by completing a conversion form and establishing an allotment in amount of the monthly premium of the particular permanent plan desired. At the time of conversion, if on active duty, you could also submit a waiver form on the permanent plan, which would lower your premium to include only that portion which constitutes the reserve or cash value.

Q. Is there any advantage to not submitting a waiver on my insurance?

A. No dividends are declared while a plan is functioning under the waiver. However, the amount of the dividends based on previous experience would not equal the amount of the premium which is waived. Observation of the "table of risk" portion of an article published in All Hands discloses the fact that the amount waived far exceeds the amount of past dividends.

Navy Talent Aids Coronado Benefit Show

Selected acts from the recent North Island production, "Liberty Hop," were the featured highlight at Wednesday evening's Rheumatic Fever benefit held at the Village Theatre in Coronado under the auspices of the Coronado 20-30 Club.

The Navy talent from the Special Services Division presented two complete stage shows Wednesday evening to capacity audiences, and was credited by the Club officers as making the benefit the most successful in Coronado's history.

Starring for the NAS enlisted men and women were Buddy Viotti, SA; Betty Haddy, AT2; Ken Sansome, DK3; and Bob Bibb and his Western Rythmasters.

'Ojavan," hit skit from "Liberty Hop," was presented, followed by four selections of the Western Rythmasters featuring Niki Tullsen and Lonnie King. Following the musical selections, Ken Sansome brought the house down with his impressions.

Buddy Viotti was given four encores in the closing spot of the show.

Fish Gotta Swim, But This Bird's Got a Fly That Will Catch Them

Have you sport fishermen ever wondered why it is that sometimes a fish will completely ignore the fancy fly at the end of your line, yet go like a love-struck leaping Lena for the one on some other guy's hook? Pretty much that same pattern is what started Paul W. Pitts, Storekeeper at S&F's Engine Parts and Accessories RFI warehouse, in his commercially successful hobby of fly tying.

In 1947, Pitts was living in Rochester, Minnesota, land of 10,000 lakes and famous as a rod and reeler's paradise. One day an old retired resort owner began showing him the finer points of flytying, and Paul quickly acquired the knack. He was soon originating designs and patterns for his own use, and on days when the fish gave other anglers the big go-by, Paul was catching all he could take.

The word got around, and before long young Pitts was selling his flys to numerous Minnesota resorts, a thriving enterprise to which he subsequently added the construction and repair of rods and reels and other miscellaneous fishing equipment.

Returning to his native San Diego a year and a half ago, Pitts kept up with his fly tying, and now sells all he can make to the West coast branch of one of the country's largest sporting goods manufacturers.

Pitts does the work in his spare time at home, where he turns out an average fly in from three to five miuntes; the fancier types take up to ten minutes. He has his own 24-foot boat, a converted Navy craft purchased locally from surplus, and uses it for personal enjoyment as well as hiring it out. As a sportsman, he prefers fresh water game fishing, but he also likes to give the yellowtail and barracuda a run for their money.

What's the secret behind his successful fly tying? It's all in achieving the right color combinations and getting the proper action, says this contemporary Izaak Walton.

Paul W. Pitts

Water Survival Training Program Prepares Airmen for Emergencies

By Van Hedges

Every week at the NAS Crews swimming pool, nearly 200 Navy pilots and air crewmen go through the paces of FASRON 7's Fleet Air Survival Training program, like ducks taking to water. When their intensive two-day instruction period is over, each of them is thoroughly indoctrinated in the techniques of survival at sea in time of emergency.

In their first day's training, they learn the principles of swimming under water, through surface oil hazards, and under conditions of concussion. They learn how to abandon ship by practice jumps from a 24-foot tower; the proper way to handle panicky swimmers by using a break front or back strangle hold; the correct procedure in bringing tired or injured swimmers to safety, and the present day back-pressure-arm lift method of artificial respiration.

During the second day's session, the men are instructed in life raft and life jacket check-out, parachute and cockpit escape, and endurance swimming for an extended period of time. Fleet air personnel are required to repeat certain phases of the maintenance training, such as under water, concussion and sustained swimming, every sixty days.

Officer-in-charge of the Unit is LCDR Richard Brownlee. The activity is operated by FASRON 7 for the training of men attached to its squadrons, although other authorized personnel are eligible to receive it. Pilots and crewmen from Ream Field and Miramar are included in the program, and complete squadrons from the latter installation are often run through. In addition to the daily survival training, the Unit conducts morning classes for non-swimmers at 0900, Monday through Friday, and also administers basic swimming tests for all non-crewmen enlisted personnel on the station.

Supervising the survival training program at the pool is Sam Ingrum, ADC. Instructors are Ken Pearce, AM1; Tom Scotton, AE3; Phil Neuhauser, AN, and Norm Wiles, AA. Each of these expert swimmers is experienced in all phases of the training, and individual attention and instruction to men requiring it is given.

Particularly exacting is the life raft and life jacket check-out exercise. In this, trainees follow a step-by-step process which starts immediately after they hit the water wearing full gear. In quick sequence they learn the correct way to unsnap their safety harness; how to inflate their Mae West jacket; the procedure in following the white lead cord attached to their individual raft; the proper method of inflating and getting into the raft; and how to keep their gear and 'chute equipment with them at all times, as well as its proper stowage in the raft. PBM squadron members also receive instruction in the use of their larger seven-man rafts.

The endurance swimming test, which concludes the two days of survival instruction, may be passed in two ways—by a 440-yard swim (16 lengths of the pool), or by remaining in deep water for a 15-minute period.

The heated pool makes possible all-year operation of the Survival Training program, although current trainees doubly welcome the chance to cool off during the present warm Spring days. A record sheet is kept on each man taking the course. If he fails to pass any of the tests at first, he is given the time and encouragement to try until he succeeds. Non-swimmers receive special supervision, and last week one such man insisted on making the jump from the tower despite his inability to swim. However, it turned out he had already made arrangements with two of his friends to pull him to the edge of the pool after surfacing.

The Survival Training Unit conducts what is believed to be the most complete program of its type in existence, and many of its features have been adopted by Navy Air installations elsewhere. Its facilities will be expanded in the near future by construction of a helicopter hoist at the pool, permitting actual pick-up rescue exercises from the water's surface.

GETTING READY to participate in the life raft and life jacket check-out exercise in the water survival training program which takes place every day at the Crews pool, C. R. Johnson, AT2 (left), helps J. S. Albright, AT3, don his gear. The two men are from VC-11, and are part of the 200-man group instructed each week by the Unit. After jumping into the pool with full equipment, Albright (below) inflates his rubber life raft, prior to getting into the proper position for boarding it. Once in the raft, he must stow his parachute and the other equipment which will sustain him until he is rescued. Other water drills which Albright will take as part of his training include an abandon ship jump from the pool's tower, underwater swimming, concussion swimming, the proper handling of panicky fellow swimmers, and a 15-minute endurance swim.

ONE QUART OF AIR, instead of the one pint intake permitted by the old-fashioned system, is an important advantage of the new Back Pressure-Arm Lift method of artificial respiration. Demonstrating the arm lift is Phil Neuhauser, AN, shown "reviving" Ken Pearce, AM1. Both men are instructors in FASRON 7's water survival training program.

Ski Club Plans Trip to Big Bear April 5

Plans were made at this week's meeting of the ski club for a ski party to Big Bear on April 5 and 6. Last month's party was postponed because of mountain storms which blocked roads leading to the ski site. But ski conditions are expected to be excellent for the first week of April so ski club members are urging all skiers and party-goers to attend.

Tickets for the party may be obtained from any ski club member. Price of the ticket includes a chicken dinner Saturday evening, dancing and movies and lodging at Stillman's lodge in Big Bear Saturday night. Reduced rates on renting skis, poles and shoes may be had through the club.

Persons who wish to attend the party and not ski are welcome, as well as civilian employees of NAS.

Forty tickets were sold for the party of March 15 which was postponed and even more are expected to turn out for the party April 5. Deadline for buying tickets is Tuesday, April 1, date of next week's meeting at 2000 in the auditorium in Building 8.

There will probably be enough transportation furnished but persons with cars who would be willing to take others to the party are doubly welcome.

Reminders at Gates Insure That '4.0 Look'

"Mirror, mirror, at the gate—
Tell me that I'm looking great;
Square my hat, secure each cuff,
And on my shoes reveal no scuff!"

This incantation, solemnly uttered by thousands of NAS enlisted men during the past six years, has become an established formula for liberty-bound personnel passing through the Station's main gate and gate 4 at the main dock. The twin-framed structures at both posts, which bear the now familiar phrases, "As you should appear," and "As other see you," have helped square many a hat, turn down many a cuff.

Built by the Public Works Department from specifications drawn up in April, 1946, the sturdy frames hold a life-size photo of a properly dressed enlisted man on the left side, and a full length mirror on the right. The man in the picture, behind the glass, is Frank Capps, at that time a PN2, now a PNC serving aboard the USS KEARSARGE.

According to F. Boggs, AN, and PFC R. R. Litkey, both on guard duty at gate 4, the mirror-stand there serves its purpose well. They also report its frequent use as a check point for straight seams and evenly hung skirts by the civil service feminine contingent.

About Books

Library Receives Latest Edition of Naval Annual

JANE'S FIGHTING SHIPS, 1951-52.

The famous British annual on the World's navies has few significant changes that distinguish it from last year's edition—possibly because most nations are recommissioning present vessels rather than carrying out sizeable construction programs. This apparently does not hold true for Russia, but because of that country's tight security on naval construction information, the publishers of Jane's have only a few facts and unconfirmed reports to work on.

Russia, they claim, has "no fewer" than 370 submarines in service, with a goal of 1000. A new type of Soviet mine-laying sub, they say, has a submerged speed of 25 knots.

Reports claim that new Russian construction includes three battleships, 20 cruisers and 120 destroyers. There are no reports of aircraft carrier construction. However, the ex-German Carrier GRAF ZEPPELIN, now in the hands of the Russians, is being rebuilt as a special ship for guided missile trials.

LIFE IN AMERICA, by Marshall B. Davidson. (In two volumes).

American history will gain clarity, authority, and interest for readers of this unusual book. Containing little politics and less of war, it represents the life of the American people from Colonial times to the present day in the most vivid manner possible—through the reproduction of paintings, maps, prints, daguerreotypes, photos and sketches. Around these pictures, which accurately reflect the American experience, is woven a stimulating narrative.

The author, a member of the staff of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, feels that history is better understood through the arts. He feels that "a painting or drawing may constitute the most convincing record that remains of the past—at times, indeed, the only one."

BOOK OF MODERN HOUSES

Plans for 29 modern homes, designed by outstanding architects, and 130 photographs (100 in full color) are presented in this volume to capture the interest of potential home owners. As well as having floor plans drawn to scale with drawings illustrating special building problems, the book gives information on materials and equipment, interior decorating, landscaping and financing.

This Week's MOVIE MENU for NAS

SATURDAY, March 29—PALS OF THE GOLDEN WEST, starring Roy Rogers and Dale Evans. Plus, THIS IS KOREA (Documentary). The latter is a story with no formal plot, because the footage has been supplied by the navy and marine photographers. This footage centers for the most part around the Seventh Fleet and the First Marine Division. Their support of and cooperation with the Eighth Army is dealt with thoroughly.
Running time: 1 hour and 45 minutes.

SUNDAY, March 30—SAILOR BEWARE, starring Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis. Jerry Lewis, a hypochondriac who is violently allergic to women, and Dean Martin, a night club singer, join the navy to incur the emnity of burly petty officer, Robert Strauss. In boot camp Marion Marshall, a Wave, and Jerry are attracted to each other. Dean spreads the report that girls just can't resist Jerry, and Strauss makes a bet that, when their detachment gets to Honolulu Jerry won't be able to kiss Corinne Calvet, the Navy's pin-up girl.
Running time: 1 hour and 45 minutes.

MONDAY, March 31—THE JACK BENNY SHOW—Doors open at 1845; show begins at 1930. Time of show, approximately 1 hour and 30 minutes.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, April 1 and 2—DOUBLE DYNAMITE, starring Jane Russell, Frank Sinatra, and Groucho Marx. Frank Sinatra, a mild mannered bank teller, plans to marry his co-worker Jane Russell, as soon as he gets a raise. Their favorite waiter, Groucho Marx, continually urges Sinatra to live dangerously. On his way back to the bank, Sinatra saves Nestor Paiva, a big-time bookie, from assault and the latter forces a $1000 reward on him and then proceeds to tell him how to parlay it into $40,000.
Shorts: OPERATION RABBIT.
Running time: 1 hour and 27 minutes.

THURSDAY and FRIDAY, April 3 and 4—ROOM FOR ONE MORE, starring Cary Grant and Betsy Drake. Already the parents of three uninhibited youngsters, Betsy Drake and Cary Grant want another, but aren't quite prepared for the arrival of Iris Mann, cynical 13-year-old product of divorced parents. Soon, Betsy informs Cary that they are taking another youngster from the welfare home—Grant finally decides all the sacrifice has been worth it in view of the love and affection that pervade his home.
Shorts: GIFT WRAPPED.
Running time: 1 hour and 42 minutes.

Communications To Hold Dance Tomorrow Night

An informal Communications party will be held at 2000 tomorrow night at the El Morocco club on Federal Blvd. in San Diego. All NAS Communications personnel and their guests are invited to attend.

Buffet refreshments will be served, and the ComAirPac band will furnish music for dancing.

Powerplant PARAGRAPHS

By B. Dreher

Leading the fashion parade, just a few jumps ahead of the Easter Bunny, is JACK LAY, Production Control Progressman, with his bright, old fashioned "string" tie. Immediately following the advent of this piece of men's apparel last week, feminine employees in the division were called on to donate hair ribbons to the cause. Reason: The men were following Jack's fashion lead and wearing the hair ribbons around their necks—"string style."

DOROTHY SEETO, Material Section, Shop 433, checked out on maternity leave last Friday, so her husband James Seeto, Shop 5204, will have to solo to work from now on.

BOB LLOYD, Production Control, drove to Wichita Falls, Texas to see his son, PFC Richard Lloyd, former shop learned in Disassembly. PFC Lloyd recently enlisted in the Air Force and has been assigned to Shephard Air Force Base in Wichita Falls.

H. D. NASEEF, Plating Shop, became a grandfather for the first time just lately and seems to be doing nicely.

LESTER CRAWFORD, Plating Shops, says they have named their new addition, born February 10th, John Lester. We notice the initials, Les! Could there be a reason?

HAROLD FOUTS, Material, Shop 433, is on two weeks honeymoon leave right now. He was married March 15 to Louise Webb, in Las Vegas, Nevada.

JOHN SIMILIS, Production Control, has returned to work after a leave spent in Newark, N. J. where he was called by the death of his step brother.

ED WHITE, Shop 6201, is back in the shop after serving a week on the Wage Survey Board.

Something new has been added—we now have a couple reporters for Power Plant Paragraphs and they will be happy to collect any items of news for this column. Contact JUANITA JENKINS, Shop 6203, and GRACE EWING, Bearing Storeroom. We want to credit them with the news for this edition.

Flying Toastmasters Install New Officers

Newly-elected officers of the Flying Toastmasters club will be installed in a meeting Wednesday, April 3. Held at the Naval Station COMO at 1830, the meeting will be held jointly with the Toastmistresses organization.

Elected in a March 18 meeting, the new officers are: CAPT Joe Tenney, SC, president; LCDR W. R. Campbell, MSC, vice president; CDR A. Antonides, secretary-treasurer; CDR Jim Reedy, sergeant-at-arms; CDR Bill Bryan, deputy governor; and LCDR Jim Nesbitt, educational chairman.

Naval officers are invited to attend the meeting.

Servicemen Invited To Tennis Tourney

Bill Tilden and Frank Parker, former world tennis champions, will be featured performers in a professional tennis tournament slated for the Del Mar Hotel, Del Mar, California, April 5 and 6.

Also playing in the tournament will be Lester Stoefen, former world's doubles titlist, John Faunce and Carl Earn. Singles and doubles matches will be staged each day beginning at 2 p.m.

The tournament is open to the public at 50c per ticket. Servicemen in unuiform will be admitted without charge.

NAGA NEWS

The monthly "ACE" golf tournament will be held at the Rancho Santa Fe golf course on April 2. Tee-off time is 1300. All entries must be in at the NAS Golf Driving Range prior to 0800 April 2.

The method of challenging for positions on the Skyraider varsity golf team has been set up as follows: "In order to take another man's spot on the golf team, the man has to challenge the man in front of him to a 72 hole match, and beat him in gross score for the 72 holes. If he loses he will not get to challenge this man for six months or if the man he loses to challenges the man in front of him and loses, he can challenge him again before six months."

Four Skyraider Scrappers Enter Pacific Fleet Semi's

The Skyraiders roar into action once more tonight as the Pacific Fleet Boxing tournament enters the semi-finals. Four scrappers from this station will be among the mitt-slingers tonight. Five drew byes and won't see action until the finals on 4 April.

Tonight's card, made up of 16 bouts from the Eleventh Naval District and Pacific Fleet combined will pit Jimmy Vacca of the Skyraiders against Syl Grant of CruDesPac in the flyweight division. Don Malvezzi will attempt to knock off John Underwood of CruDesPac in the featherweight class. This promises to be one of the fastest battles of the night, as the boys fought to a draw in Hollywood last week.

In the lightweight division, Andy Sierra of the Skyraiders will take on Clarence Jackson of CruDesPac, while Bill Slattery tangles with Ray Walters of Phib Pac in a light-middle scrap.

The finals on April 4 will prove to be even more interesting as Pacific Fleet and All-Navy kingpin Kirby Seals defends his title against Jimmy Hickey and PhibPac in a heavyweight scrap. This will mark Seals' first service tournament fight since he was defeated by Ed Sanders during the Golden Gloves.

Another brawl which promises action aplenty will pit the Skyraiders' Ed Hughes against the cool and hard punching of PhibPac's Nolan Davis in a middleweight title bout.

Captain's Cup Lowdown

The Special Services division walked away with the Captain's Cup Track meet held the 21st and 24th of March on the Coronado High School track. Special Services compiled a total of 82 points, while the next high was Supply with 43 1/3 points, followed by Boat House in third place and Operation 27 in fourth place.

Captain's Cup tennis is well under way with the participants fighting through a double elimination tourney. Captain's Cup Softball starts Monday with 18 teams lined up and ready to vie for the title.

Air Pac Sports

By BOB SWISHER

Volleyball and bowling have taken over the spotlight in the AirPac intermural leagues, as FAIRBETUPac sewed up handball and horseshoes. The Raiders finished both slates, winning eight and 10 games respectively with a loss.

The hectic volleyball race may go into a one-game sudden-death playoff between FAIRBETUPac and Ready Issue. The Raiders, rebounding from their stunning loss to FASRon-691, finished their schedule with a win over VF-884. This left them with a 14-1 mark. Ready Issue, which has 13-1, met VF-884 today and a win would tie them with FAIRBETUPac.

Bowling is getting as congested as Fifth avenue on Saturday night. With the entry of darkhorse VR-5 into the picture, four teams are now scrambling for the title. Ready Issue was elevated into the lead Tuesday when once-beaten FAIRBETUPac knocked off undefeated VP-731. The standings as of Wednesday:

Ready Issue	7	0
FAIRBETUPac	7	1
VP-731	7	1
VR-5	7	1

Ready Issue has five games left, while the remaining teams have four.

Volleyball Squad Eyes District Championship

The Naval Air Skyraiders newly formed varsity volleyball team knocked off the Naval Station Wednesday night, taking two out of three games. Earlier Naval Station upset the Naval Airmen two straight.

Miramar, whom the Skyraiders have never played, also beat the Naval Station to take the Southern Division Championship. Both teams will go to Long Beach next Thursday and Friday to compete for the Eleventh Naval District championship.

Tryouts for the varsity volleyball squad are still being held. Anyone interested can contact Chief Wally Hanna at the Mainside Gym between 1300-1500 today, and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

NTC, Miramar Defeat Skyraiders; PhibPac Drubbed for Second Time

The day was warm, the crowd was fair, and tempers were, well, a little warm. In fact about the only thing that was cold was NTC. That is until the seventh inning, when they followed the weather and really got hot.

Anyway, they handed the Skyraider baseball team their second loss out of four practice tilts ending up with a close 6-5 victory.

The Bluejackets scored six runs, six hits and three errors, while the Skyraiders had five runs, eight hits, and two errors.

NTC scored their first time at bat, and from then on the game went see-saw style, until the seventh when the Bluejackets surged ahead by one point, maintaining the slim lead to the end.

Hap Ivy led the Skyraider hitting attack with three hits out of five times at bat. Sterger led NTC's winning efforts with two hits out of four times at the plate.

Earlier, the Skyraiders knocked off the PhibPac Invaders for the second time, winning 8-1, only to be defeated by Miramar in a close game which ended up 3-2.

A Corner on Sports

By BOB LAIBLE

SEALS STILL TV KING

Skyraider heavyweight king Kirby Seals successfully defended his TV title at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio, last Thursday night. Victim of Kirby's fists was George Pullam, U. S. Air Force, who hit the deck four times during the four round battle. After being saved by the bell at the end of the third round, Seals dropped him for a 10-count in the final stanza.

TELEVISION SETS ARRIVE

Three television sets that North Island fighters won on the "Meet the Champ" show arrived here last week, and another is on its way from Kirby Seals' last win.

Ed Buffaloe, who was a stand-by on the show in case of any knockouts is donating his to Barracks 251, and it will be placed in VF-791's dorm. Jackwin is donating his to the Naval Air Station athletes' dorm, and Seals will donate his first one to Barracks 252. Wonder what Seals' will do when he runs out of barracks?

JANKE NOW A PRO

Pete Janke, a middleweight who learned the art of self-defense under the tutelage of North Island instructors is now making it pay off, via the professional route. As of this writing he's had only two pro fights. Won one, and lost one.

AN APOLOGY

The names of two persons who qualified for a position on the Skyraider varsity golf team were omitted from last week's paper. It seems a line of type got "dropped" somewhere in the mad shuffle between the North Islander office and the print shop. Sorry, Walt Axcell and L. J. Drelicharz!

SOFTBALL WASN'T FORGOTTEN, JUST SLOWED DOWN A LITTLE

LT Bob Greely and his Naval Air Skyraider softball team haven't given up trying to get games, in fact they had one last night with a civilian ball club called Beasley's, but it was just a little late for press time.

The reason for the delay is this. It's still a little early for softball, and most of the teams in this area aren't in shape for a game. It seems the Skyraiders whipped into shape awful fast. Coach Greely says "give me two pitchers and a catcher, and we'll whip anything around here." They might just do that.

Skyraiders In Olympic Finals

Three grapplers from the Skyraiders wrestling squad took two seconds and one third in the California-Arizona district Olympic Wrestling trials at San Diego High School last week and earned the right to go to Ames, Iowa, for the National AAU and Olympic team finals.

Carroll Vonk, 125.5, and Kent Townley in the same weight, each took second place, while George Stotser, 136.5, took a third.

The Airmen ended their season with a lusty record of six wins against one loss. Their only loss was to SubPac. Out of the nine teams entered in the district, NTC took a first place, SubPac second, and Skyraiders third.

11ND Keg Tourney Finishes Sunday

Tomorrow at the Pacific Recreation Bowling Alleys, the last half of the Eleventh Naval District Bowling tournament will get underway at 0900, and continue until Sunday night.

Last week marked the first time in the history of the tournament that all ten first places in the men's division were over a 1000 score. The first four places in the women's division also reached 1000.

Hal Murray had high individual game with 231 and Frank Hiembach had high five games with 977 in the men's division, while Myrtle Lally had high individual game with 215 and Jaunita Caster had high five games with 823 in the women's division.

'Whirlybird' Picks up Dunked VS-931 Pilot

During carrier training exercises off the coast of San Diego, ENS B. N. Bunnell of VS-931 experienced an engine fire in the aircraft he was flying and ditched it near the USS RENDOVA. The HU-1 helicopter which was on plane guard station was soon hovering over ENS Bunnell and returned him to the RENDOVA in less than five minutes time. The helicopter pilot was ENS T. L. Ray and his crewman was S. F. Donorovich, AD3, both stationed at Ream Field.

Helicopter Unit Heads for Home

Helicopter Unit 16, which has spent nine months in the Korean area, was headed home to Ream Field yesterday.

The unit is led by LT J. F. Wilson and LT J. A. Jenkins. Its Korean exploits include rescue of six downed aircraft pilots, and transportation around the war zone of 238 passengers, 8682 pounds of mail and 15,000 pounds of priority freight.

The unit has operated from the aircraft carrier USS ANTIETAM.

VU-5 Changes Command in Feb.

VU-5 held a change of command ceremony in February. CDR L. E. Larson, Jr., was relieved by LCDR Robert K. Campbell, the former Executive Officer.

LCDR L. E. Parsneau moved up from Operations Officer to Executive Officer and LCDR G. R. Stablein relieved him in Operations.

Also reporting aboard in February were Lieutenants B. E. Rogers and L. D. Cox, ENS K. M. Lockhart, ENS F. M. Coray, ENS R. A. McCroskey and ENS G. J. Watson.

Those leaving VU-5 in February were CDR L. E. Larson, Jr., LT G. C. Harrison, LTJG B. B. Brown and ENS P. J. Boomgard, T. E. Woolcock and J. W. Lewis.

VU-5 was temporarily based ashore at the U. S. Naval Air Station Agana, Guam, M. I.

Pilot Rescued Twice By HU-1 Helicopters

LT Robert T. Walker flying with VA-702, based aboard the USS BOXER (CV-21) during its last tour in Korea had the experience of being rescued twice by helicopters. On both occasions HU-1 pilots were on the spot and came to his aid.

LT W. C. Dixon, Officer in Charge of HU-1 Unit 9 was then based aboard the USS TOLEDO, and was on a gunspotting mission when he received a radio message that a pilot was down inland from Wonsan, Korea. A fighter escort vectored the helicoper to the position of the downed pilot, which proved to be LT Walker.

Dixon landed the helicopter in a corn field and Walker was coming on the run to get aboard when the enemy opened up with small arms fire. Walker pulled out his 38 pistol and returned the fire as he climbed aboard the helicopter.

Walker was returned safely to the TOLEDO, and was soon aboard his own ship.

A month later LT Walker again found himself in the position of being a downed pilot, this time he was in his small life raft paddling furiously to get away from the shore line of Wansan Bay and the eager hands of the enemy.

Walker was picked up by HU-1 helicopter pilot LT E. R. Bergsma, who was based aboard the TOLEDO, and was also on a gun spotting mission when the rescue call was received. The helicopter hoist operator on both rescues was LT J. J. Roathoff, USMC, the TOLEDO's gunfire spotter.

HS-2 Dumps HU-1 In Officers' Softball Game

HS-2 officers defeated HU-1 officers, 9 to 4, last Friday in their first softball game of the season. The winning pitcher was LTJG Ulm and the loser, LT Coffey. Home runs by Ulm, Cox and Norman in the second inning, gave HS-2 a lead which HU-1 could not overcome.

Though getting a late start, HS-2 plans to field teams for the quarterly playoffs in bowling, handball, volleyball and horseshoes. Playoffs will start in these sports about April 2. Also, new leagues have been formed in ping pong, golf and softball. These leagues will start about April 1, and will provide competition between squadrons VU-7, VU-3, HU-1 and HS-2. Individual team trophies will be presented the winners in each sport.

Possible Record Set in ALF Ream Blood Drive

What may have set a national record in a single mobile blood collection drive, claim Red Cross officials, is Ream Field's donation of 766 pints last week.

Members of HU-1, HS-2, VU-3 and VU-7 led the donations with the largest number of donors. Personnel from FASRon 107 Detachment, UtWingPac Staff and ALF Ream made up the rest of the volunteers. All units had high percentages of men volunteering to give their blood.

CAPT R. W. D. Woods, Commander Utility Wing, Pacific Fleet, was "number one" on the donation list, giving his pint of blood at 0800 Thursday when the mass donations began. Eight hours later, 766 pints were counted, marking what Red Cross officials called the greatest number of pints of blood donated in that short a time.

During the day the dispensary was filled with a steady stream of men giving blood.

Red Cross officials estimate that it took an average of ten minutes for each man to give his blood, and several more minutes for him to rest, drink coffee and eat cake and cookies provided for the occasion by the ALF Ream Galley.

Volunteers who donated blood were given a variety of privileges, differing with their respective squadrons. Most of the donors were given special liberty, while members of VU-3 who donated were also exempted from the next Captain's inspection.

All donors were given a steak dinner at the galley and a ticket for admission to a San Diego baseball game.

80% of HS-2 Donates

Over 80% of the personnel of HS-2 volunteered to donate blood when the Red Cross visited Ream Field Thursday, 21 March, 1952.

The Electronics Division and pilots of HS-2 led the way with 100% participation, while three other divisions had better than 95% volunteers.

VERNON G. SMITH, YN3, receives his 19th Red Cross Blood donators' pin from CAPT R. W. D. Woods, Commander Utility Wing, Pacific Fleet. Smith donated his 19th pint of blood during a record-breaking eight-hour drive at Ream Field, San Diego, Calif., that netted 766 pints.

ALL EYES ARE ON THE BALL as Ralph S. Beisner, AN, gets set to take a healthy swing in a softball game at VU-7's picnic held at El Monte Park, Lakeside, Calif. on March 18. Catching is R. S. Liss, AD1. ENS George Seaborg is calling balls and strikes.

VU-7 Takes Day Off For Picnic

Lakeside's El Monte Park was filled with a near-capacity crowd Tuesday, 18 March, when over 200 of the officers and men of Utility Squadron relaxed and had a picnic.

At the top of the list of attractions was a plentiful supply of food, soft drinks and appetizers.

The afternoon tested the athletic prowess and endurance of the men in softball, volleyball, football, horseshoe pitching and three-legged races.

Spectator interest reached its highest pitch at the officer-CPO softball game with the officers coming out on top, 8-6. LCDR Morris Rotchstein outpitched Chief "Nick" Nichels while LCDR R. W. Henson, squadron Exec, topped the sluggers with a long home run to center field. F. L. Orgovan, ADC, homered for the chiefs.

Other winners in softball were the third and fourth duty sections.

Winner in the sack races was R. J. Rivera, AA, of the third section. The fourth section team of W. R. Pratt, Jr., AD3, and E. H. Barnett, AD3, placed first in the three-legged races.

Ping Pong Players Put Down Paddles For Jai Alai

Any sports expert will agree that there's a vast difference between the games of ping pong and jai alai. Yet, in spite of this, three officers of Utility Squadron Seven, ALF Ream, have bridged the gap rather successfully, we think—at least they've purchased the necessary equipment: cesta's, pelota, adhesive tape and liniment.

LT "Marty" Moskowitz was the first stalwart to lay down his ping pong paddle for the cesta and his enthusiasm for the game was so sincere that he soon convinced ENS Joe Schulte and ENS George Seaborg to join the ranks.

The trio found their first few trips to the Fronton were rather discouraging as they were unable to toss the pelota from the wicker basket more than 15 feet in any given direction. However, with dogged determination, the three were soon playing snappy little games utilizing the first third of the court, and it is rumored that they expect to participate in full-court play (not for money) any month now. It seems that there is quite a technique involved in throwing the pelota the length of a 200 foot court, catching it and throwing it back before it strikes the floor more than once.

Most Mexican players have practiced since childhood, but ten years from now, jai alai fans may be able to pick up a Fronton program and read—third game, mixed doubles: Quintana, Moskowitz, Reme, Seaborg. Don't hold your breath.

VOLUME VIII — SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, APRIL 4, 1952 — No. 14

VADM THOMAS L. SPRAGUE salutes side boys made up of eight captains as he is piped into his automobile at NAS Tuesday morning. Upon being relieved as Commander Air Force, Pacific Fleet by VADM Harold M. Martin, former Commander Seventh Fleet, VADM Sprague retired after 34 years' Naval service.

USS Floyds Bay Welcomed Wed.

The Seaplane Tender, USS FLOYDS BAY returned to San Diego from her second Korean tour Wednesday morning.

In June 1951, the FLOYDS BAY returned to San Diego from nine months in the Far East, and in September departed on her present cruise.

During her six months in the Korean area, the ship was based in the Sea of Japan, where she operated a seadrome. The tender supported both British RAF and U. S. Navy seaplanes flying night and day, regardless of weather.

While in Japanese waters, the FLOYDS BAY was the senior aircraft tender of a two-ship, three-squadron force. It served as the Staff, Task element, under the direction of Commander, Fleet Air Wing SIX.

CAPT Herschel A. House, Skipper of the FLOYDS BAY, served as Senior Naval Officer afloat.

Solons Pass Pay Bill, Now Goes to House

In a vote last Monday, the Senate passed a bill giving the armed forces a three percent pay raise and men under fire in Korea a $45 per month "combat bonus."

Also included in the measure was an increase in food and rent allowances for married men in the service. This increase plus the three percent hike in base pay would make the average increase in military pay for families about 5.6 percent.

Now the measure goes back to the House, which passed earlier a flat 10 percent pay boost. Washington observers doubt whether the House will accept the Senate bill. It is expected that some compromise will be ironed out in a joint conference of the Senate-House committees, and the actual raise will be somewhere in the middle of the rate set by both bills.

Whatever the result, it is doubted by some congressional observers that the pay bill will become law before May 1.

The Senate bill—without combat bonus—was estimated to cost $471 million, while the House bill was estimated at $850 million. The general pay boost would affect about 3,600,000 persons.

VADM Martin Becomes New ComAirPac in Ceremonies Tuesday

VADM Harold M. Martin, former Commander Seventh Fleet, relieved VADM Thomas L. Sprague as Commander Air Force, Pacific Fleet, in ceremonies at NAS, April 1. VADM Sprague will retire after 34 years of Naval service.

VADM Sprague assumed the post after two years as Chief of the Bureau of Naval Personnel, in October, 1949. He was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1916, and in 1921 received his wings at NAS, Pensacola, Fla.

He then served aboard the Navy's first aircraft carrier, the USS LANGLEY.

During the early stages of World War II, VADM Sprague was cited for assisting in organizing Atlantic Fleet air groups and air wings, and organizing an effective anti-submarine campaign in the Atlantic.

As first skipper of the carrier USS INTREPID, he aided in the capture of the Marshall Islands in 1943 and was in the first carrier attacks against the Jap stronghold at Truk. He later received the Legion of Merit for sailing his torpedo-damaged ship 6000 miles to safety.

In 1944 as a carrier division commander, he received the Navy Cross for heroism. For 2½ hours his group battled a strong Jap Naval force during our invasion of the Philippines, sinking five cruisers, damaging another, and causing the enemy to retreat.

VADM Martin commanded the Seventh Fleet from March 28, 1951 to March 3, 1952, when he was relieved by VADM Robert Briscoe.

He was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1918. In December 1921, he won his wings at NAS, Pensacola, Fla.

In 1934 he took command of a Hawaii based patrol squadron, making the first flight from Midway to Pearl Harbor. He was ordered to Washington in 1938 to compile a text book on aerial navigation.

He was in command of the Nav-

Good Friday Services at Main Chapel

Good Friday religious services will be held on the Station April 11 for members of both the Protestant and Catholic faiths. Civilian as well as military personnel are encouraged to attend.

Protestant services will be conducted in the Main Chapel (Bldg. 665) at 1000. Catholic services, also in the Main Chapel, wil be conducted from 1200 to 1500.

Military personnel may be excused to attend services at the discretion of their department heads. Civil service personnel may attend at the discretion of department heads, providing leave slips have been approved.

125 Volunteer For Civilian Blood Account

One-hundred twenty-five NAS civilians volunteered to donate blood last Wednesday afternoon to their Civilian Blood Account. They answered the plea issued by the Industrial Relations department for donors to replenish the blood fund which went into the "red" as a result of extremely heavy releases in recent weeks.

Next Wednesday afternoon, April 9, will be another donation day for the Civilian Blood Account. Personnel wishing to volunteer are asked to turn in the coupon on page 5 to their supervisor or shop personnel supervisor by Monday. Volunteers will be notified of the time of their appointment with the San Diego Blood Bank, 4227 Park Blvd., the agency handling the blood donations.

Transportation will be arranged, if necessary, for employees who do not have access to rides.

The 125 volunteers for the April 2 donation are listed below:

O&R Accessories & Ordnance Division: Urban J. Walker, Eleanor P. Krauth, Aladeen E. Payne, Delbert S. Bookout, Henry Torres, Joe D. Pickett, William R. Reid, Rolin G. Johnson, Terry Hitchcock.

O&R Planning Group: Joseph Allen, George Caldwell, Mathew Fuller, Gerald Hughes, Gustav Miller, George Perkins, William Sabo, F. McLeod, Mabel Messner, Don Porter, Barry Pierce, John Seither, Lyle R. Burns, D. Abelardo.

O&R Assembly Division: Antonio Lujan, W. I. Stumph, C. P. Matthews, J. W. McClung, L. A. Sanchez, H. B. Stickel, G. S. Small, M. J. Nichols, Jr., R. R.

Standing Room Audience Sees Jack Benny and Cast

Jack (Blue Eyes) Benny and his entire cast presented a 90-minute show for all hands at the NAS Theater last Monday night. With all 2,048 seats of the theater taken, and several hundred persons standing, the "all-star" cast played to enthusiastic applause throughout the entire show.

After a 30-minute tape recording show for the Columbia Broadcasting System, which will be heard April 20, the cast combined to present a wide variety of musical and comedy acts for the better part of an hour.

With Jack Benny acting as master of ceremonies, the talent-laden show began with two songs by Dennis Day. One of these was "Clancy Lowered the Boom."

It was then Jack Benny's turn, and with his "Magic Fiddle," he played his entire repertoire of "Love in Bloom."

Phil Harris, complete with "That's What I Like About the South," did his part with the usual finesse associated with all his radio performances.

As a finale to the show, Eddie (Rochester) Anderson put together a routine that literally stopped the show. Few of the people in the audience realized that "Rochester" is an accomplished "song and dance" man. His rendition of "My Blue Heaven," complete with "soft shoes," was, if applause is any means of judging, the highlight of the show.

The remainder of the show was comprised of The Sportsmen, Mel Blanc (Bugs Bunny), Frankie Remly and the orchestra, Benny (I dun' know) Rubin, Mr. Kitzel, and the contingent of technicians necessary to produce a show of this caliber.

Four members of the cast remained aboard the station long enough to take advantage of the rapidly improving sportfishing season. They spent Tuesday aboard NAS' Livebait Boat. Results of their trip to the "briny deep" were not reported.

April 15 Deadline for July PO Exam Recommendations

Service-wide examinations for the petty officer grades will be held for NAS personnel on four successive Tuesdays in July.

Pay Grade E-4 will be held on July 8, E-5 on July 15, and E-6 on July 22.

Division officers have been requested to submit recommendations prior to April 15 to the Enlisted Personnel Officer for personnel considered qualified. No recommendations will be considered after this date.

Service information for both eligibility and multiple computation shall be computed to October 16, 1952.

The deadline for personnel to submit their practical factors is June 1.

'GREATER LOVE HATH NO MAN'

Chaplain's Corner

What Shall It Profit a Man?

"For what shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" Mark 8:36.

We often hear this passage quoted in relation to the gaining of material things. However, if we examine its meaning a little further we find that it also includes the evil thinking and action of the individual. For what shall it profit a man . . . if he shall spend his whole life in evil lusts and at the end his soul is lost to eternal damnation?

The fictitious character of opera and literature, Dr. Faust, made a bargain with the devil agreeing that he would give his soul to him after death if the devil would give him anything he desired while he was here on earth. The character, Dr. Faust, is only fictional but his reasoning and action are found among people of every age. There are many people who, with full intentions and sometimes without thought, make the same bargain in life. The false reasoning which has led them to make this bargain is that there is no final accounting. Therefore, do whatever you desire. However, Scripture teaches that a day of accounting is set forth for all. In the New Testament this truth is most strikingly set forth, "So each of us shall give an account of himself to God." Romans 14:12. "We must all appear before the judgment of Christ so that each one may receive good and evil according to what he has done in the body." II Corinthians 5:10.

Others make the bargain believing that if an evil deed is done in secret it will not be discovered by anyone. In Bible history King David made this great error. He wanted Bathsheba for his wife. However, there was no way of getting her unless Uriah, her husband, was put out of the way. David planned to have Uriah put away in a manner which he thought would leave him guiltless. He ordered his captain to put Uriah in the most dangerous part of the front in the next battle. His plan worked. Uriah was killed after which David took Bathsheba for his wife. Perhaps no man knew of the evil plan and the murder he committed but God knew what had happened. Scripture says, "for nothing is covered that will not be revealed, or hidden that will not be known." Matthew 10:26.

Still others follow the false, malicious reasoning set forth by many saying that we have found a way to prevent the judgment of God here on earth. It's like saying if you must sin and you can't resist the temptation to do so, don't worry—we have discovered a way which will prevent the judgment of God from coming upon you. This false reasoning has led many weak-minded into much evil.

For what shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world, live in evil lusts, do whatever his will desires. . . Nothing will be gained, but his end will be eternal damnation. However, Scripture also says that he who believes in Jesus as his personal Saviour shall not come into judgment but be passed out of death into life.

This Week's News

at a glance

In a report on his first year in command of SHAFE, GEN. Dwight D. Eisenhower said, "There is no real security yet achieved in Europe. There is only a beginning." He declared that the tide of battle in the cold war "has begun to flow our way."

The general urged that "each country remember that its own enlightened self-interest is best served by developing the common security necessary to us all . . . We require faith, self-confidence, devotion, tenacity—always tenacity."

The first of a series of new atomic bomb tests began April 1 in Nevada with the explosion of a nuclear weapon of "medium intensity." The bomb, described as an "experimental device," was dropped from a B-29 flying at an estimated 20,000 ft. altitude.

Having apparently not succumbed to any "brain malady," Premier Josef Stalin cabled answers to questions posed by a group of American editors. Editors asked: "Is a third World war any closer than two or three years ago?" Stalin replied: "No it is not."

The steel wage negotiations appeared deadlocked. The industry demands a price rise in steel to compensate the wage raise demanded by labor. Government does not seem willing to grant industry its demand. The situation brought about the resignation of Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson.

Flower Show Winners for March Named

March may have come in like a lion for some people, but it went out in a bouquet of purple stock and yellow iris for E. Calkins, Transportation Department civilian chauffeur. Mr. Calkins was awarded the sweepstaks ribbon in that activity's monthly Flower Show, when his bouquet was chosen the most outstanding of all entries in last Friday's competition.

Second and third places in the bouquet class were taken by Lorena Valentine and Leo Baker. Other awards were as follows: Camellias, Leo Baker, winner; Daniel Castano, second and third places; lilies, Doris Lee, first and second place; Daniel Castano, third; cacti, Dusty Rhodes, first and second; iris and gladiola, Lorena Valentine, first and third; Leo Baker, second; roses, Henry Olson, first; Sally Rice, second, and Gentiliska Graham, third.

Judges were Wm. Sumner and Royce Rollings, Transportation, and Robert Workman, IRD.

Flower enthusiasts from any NAS activity are invited to enter the regular Transportation show, with this month's competition scheduled for Friday, April 25. There is no limit to the number of entries by any one person, and they must be delivered to Building 315 by 0745 of that morning.

Awards are made by three impartial judges, and entries in any of the following divisions are eligible; bouquets, camellias, lilies, succulents or cacti, potted plants, and iris or gladiolus. Either single blooms of bouquets may be submitted.

All participants agree that following the show, any cut flowers will be sent to a hospital or used for some other worthy cause.

Flt. Reserve Branch Welcomes Visitors

All persons interested in the Fleet Reserve Association are invited by Sun Harbor Branch No. 145 to attend its regular monthly meetings, held the fourth Friday evening of each month in the War Memorial Building, Balboa Park.

Incorporating as its aims the promotion of fellowship and good-will, the Sun Harbor Branch was instituted last November, and a Ladies Auxiliary was formed a short time later. Another feature of this new Fleet Reserve unit is its encouragement of freedom of discussion by all members.

Sun Harbor president is Joe Drobnsy, whose efforts were responsible in large measure for creation of the branch.

BAIROKO PILOTS FORM CLUB

Organized by three Marine Corps pilots who completed their 100th combat missions in the Korean theater, a new organization called "The Century Club" was formed this week aboard the USS BAIROKO, now operating in waters off Korea.

COM (Open) Plans Formal Dance

Saturday evening, April 12, has been set as the date for the COM (Open) Easter Spring Formal dance, for all officers and their guests in the San Diego area. Sponsored by VS-21, the dance will be preceded by a dinner at 1830 with a special prize cocktail hour from 1830 to 1930.

Dancing will start at 2030 and end at 0300. Reservations should be made through the COM (Open.) All officers and their guests in the San Diego area are invited to attend. They are asked to get a squadron or division table.

State Income Tax Deadline Set April 15

NAS civilian employees, and military personnel who are legal residents of the State of California, are reminded that California personal income tax returns must be filed by April 15. All single persons in this category having an annual income of more than $2,000 are subject to the tax, as well as married persons having a combined income of $3,500 or more.

Anyone desiring information, tax forms, or assistance may contact the California State Income Tax Division in Room 242, San Diego Trust and Savings Bldg., 540 Broadway. The phone number is Main 3349.

This office, which provides assistance without charge to anyone desiring it, is open every weekday from 0815 to 1700. Tomorrow it will be open until 1200, next Saturday from 0815 to 1700, and on Tuesday, April 15, until 1800.

A bill was introduced in the California State Assembly last month which would exempt active duty military pay, bonuses, allowances and other compensation from taxation. Pending its approval, however, California residents who are now members of the Armed Forces are subject to taxation under present law.

Absolutely no "for sale" ads are accepted for the Trading Post column. Ads may be submitted for rides, rentals, and lost and found to the North Islander, Bldg. 8, Room 1, in person or by mail. Ads cannot be accepted over the telephone.

COLUMN RIGHT

ITEMS OF INFORMATION FOR CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

COLUMN RIGHT—Is your column. Its purpose is to answer questions of general interest which affect your employment. Forward all questions to: "COLUMN RIGHT," c/o Industrial Relations Department, Building 415, or deposit them in the Beneficial Suggestion Boxes.

Q. ARE TRANSFERS FROM ONE JOURNEYMAN RATING TO ANOTHER NOW PERMISSABLE?

A. In most cases, yes. However, the movement of employees into the following trades upon which the new aircraft rates are based is restricted: AMG, AMM, Electrician Aircraft, AMO, AMP, AIM and Metalsmith, Aviation. A limited number of vacancies may occur in some of these ratings, but for the most part there will be few if any movements into these seven trades.

Q. WHAT SPECIFICALLY WOULD BE CONSIDERED A "BREAK IN SERVICE" DURING THE FIRST 90 DAYS SERVED BY A NEW EMPLOYEE?

A. A break in service would be one or more "workdays" off the rolls of the activity.

Q. IF AN EMPLOYEE MUST TAKE EMERGENCY LEAVE DURING HIS FIRST 90 DAYS OF EMPLOYMENT, CAN HIS RETROACTIVE LEAVE GRANTED AFTER 90 DAYS BE APPLIED TO THIS EMERGENCY LEAVE?

A. No. There is no retroactive leave. In essence, the employee earns no leave during the first 90 days. If he completes 90-day period, he is then credited with leave for the 90 days.

Q. CAN I BE GRANTED SICK LEAVE DURING MY FIRST 90 DAYS OF EMPLOYMENT?

A. Yes. Sick leave is not subject to the 90-day qualifying period.

Q. I AM REGISTERED AT A DRAFT BOARD IN ANOTHER STATE AND NOW LIVE IN CALIFORNIA. HOW SOON MUST I NOTIFY MY DRAFT BOARD OF ANY CHANGE IN MY STATUS?

A. Immediately.

Q. I HAVE A QUESTION ON THE ABOVE INFORMATION, WHERE DO I WRITE FOR ANSWER?

A. Send your question to "COLUMN RIGHT," BLDG. 415, or drop in Beneficial Suggestion Boxes and—keep your EYES on this Column for the answer.

WHO WOULDN'T SMILE? John E. Ohlson, Jr., retiring O&R Production Superintendent, cuts the cake presented him last Monday by the women of the Administrative Section, at a farewell potluck luncheon in his honor, held in the O&R Conference room.

Retiring O & R Chief Honored at Luncheon

John E. "Ole" Ohlson, Jr., who retired this week as Production Superintendent of Overhaul and Repair Department, was guest of honor at a farewell potluck luncheon given him by the women of the O&R Administrative Section last Monday in the Conference room of building 94.

Highlight of the informal affair was the presentation to Mr. Ohlson of an artistically decorated cake depicting a miniature throne, with "King Ole" reigning over a court of 16 admirers. Helen Reichert, Administrative pastry specialist, was its creator.

Guests honoring the retiring production chief were Ruth Collins and Billie McDermott, Personnel office; Tess Alexander, Workload division; Hedy Stutzman, Material division; Edna Hall, Engineering group; Lea Low and Gert Larson, Industrial management; Angie Kozak and Mille Hampton, Production control; Elsie Newton, Production group; and Betty O'Connor, Helen Quady, Pat Hallis, Marilyn Jeffs, Helen Reichert and Ann Morey, Adminisrative section.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Ohlson was presented with the Distinguished Civilian Service Award by CAPT W. L. Erdmann, Commanding Officer.

Shop Learner Needs No Instruction in Cooking

First you take some chicken, add a portion of sea food, put in a few sausages, and combine this with a mixture of rice and peas. Prepare for cooking, and presto—what have you got? Paella Valenciana, a delicious Spanish national dish, that's what.

On second thought, it might be better to let Jeane Ripple, Shop Learner in O&R's Accessories and Ordnance Division, do the fixing. That's her off-duty specialty—collecting foreign recipes and cooking foreign dishes, and the fact that the friends to whom she serves them always come back for more is guarantee enough of her culinary skill.

Jeane first began experimenting with the unusual in foods about four years ago when she obtained several recipes from Mexican people living in San Diego's Old Town and across the border. Now her collection, kept in a big black notebook, includes dishes of Scandinavian, Russian, Italian, Chinese, German, Japanese and Spanish origin. Many of them are given her by people of foreign descent whom she meets, and others she gets from Service friends returning from overseas.

At least once every week, Jeane invites guests over for a foreign meal built around one main dish. This might be Pizza, Tacos, Sukiyaki or perhaps something even more unusual, like Parmigiana (Italian veal) or Hasenpheffer (rabbit with a German accent). But her regular meals, too, often include an exotic side dish or embellishment, and she invariably utilizes many foreign touches to add zest to standard American foods. Rice, for instance, she can steam in true Chinese fashion, which properly cooks each individual grain.

Jeane says there is nothing at all difficult in the preparation of dishes from other lands. The lesser-known spices needed are available at most large food stores, and ordinary utensils and the average kitchen stove provide the necessary cooking mediums. One important point, however, is that she avoids using packaged mixes, preferring to concoct them herself.

Her only near-failure was a Scandinavian dish she was making for the first time, and she attributes the fault to following the recipe too exactly. Her second attempt was a success when she varied the recipe by simply falling back upon her own natural cooking sense, a procedure with which most good cooks will agree. Scandinavian recipes rank among her favorites, and she is constantly on the lookout for new ones of that origin, as well as recipes for any unusual national dish.

Baseball Benefit to YWCA May 8

A special benefit baseball game between the San Diego Padres and Sacramento Solons will be played Thursday, May 8th at Lane Field in San Diego.

All the proceeds from this game will be turned over to the Young Womens Christian Association. It is hoped that these proceeds will further the widespread activities provided by the YWCA for servicemen in the San Diego area.

Tickets which may be purchased at Special Services, and are available at the following prices: Reserved, $5.00; grandstand, $2.50, and bleachers, $1.00. Entertainment will be provided before the game by well-known local entertainers.

Easter Services Aboard 'Richard' For Navy Families

Protestant Easter Sunrise services will be held for the Fleet aboard the USS BON HOMME RICHARD Sunday, April 13, it has been announced. The services, conducted at 0515, will be opened to armed forces personnel, their families, and their invited guests.

Shuttle boats from Fleet Landing will begin operation at 0445, carrying personnel to the BON HOMME RICHARD, moored at North Island.

The NAS gate 4 (First Street, Coronado) will admit cars carrying service personnel or their dependents. Special parking will be provided.

Ivy League Alums Meet

Ivy League alumni now serving in the Navy and Marine Corps in the San Diego area are especially invited to attend the Princeton University Glee Club concert and dance tonight, April 4, in La Jolla, the sponsors announced today.

The Glee Club concert, sponsored by the Princeton Alumni Club of San Diego, will be given in the La Jolla Women's Clubhouse, 715 Silverado. The dance, sponsored by the Ivy League of San Diego, will be at the Casa de Manana Hotel.

Tickets for the concert and dance are available from William F. Halsey, telephone G-5-4797; the Casa de Manana, and the Fabro book shop in La Jolla; the San Diego and University Clubs in San Diego; and the Hotel Del Coronado in Coronado.

You'll Lose Some Sleep, But Gain Some Sunshine

This is the month the hands of your clocks and watches get a quick 360 degree turn, and you lend out an hour of your life for five months. Daylight Savings Time goes into effect at 0100 on Sunday, April 27, when you set the clock ahead to 0200.

Sunday is the day chosen for the change because after Saturday night, a great many people don't know what time it is anyway when morning rolls around.

The hour will be returned to you in September.

Record Number of Ships Dock Here During March

During March the Naval Air Staton played host to the largest number of ships of any single month in the past three years.

While an average of 70 ships moor at North Island monthly, during March 110 naval vessels were accommodated, according to LT R. F. F. Gerswewski, NAS First Lieutenant and Docking Officer. Only on March 2 did docking parties have a respite from their chores at the station quay wall and piers.

Weather conditions in the middle of March accounted for a portion of the large number of vessels putting in here. As a result of the storms, sixteen submarines berthed at the quay wall instead of at their usual moorings. In the Docking Officer's records these craft were counted as only four ships because they tied up in nests of four each.

During working hours, personnel of Public Works 32 provide docking parties for incoming and departing ships. Last month, however, a large share of the work fell to personnel drawn from the station watch bill, since 50 per cent of the vessels arrived before 0730 and after 1630.

Assisting LT Gerszewski in performing the Docking Office's duties are: W. J. Brewer, AMC; R. M. Gardner, MEC; L. A. Jordan, TM1; J. M. Hendricks, EM1, and R. E. Standish, AN.

As well as supervising and berthing of ships assigned to NAS docking facilities, the Docking Office is charged with the responsibility of providing these ships with telephone service and, when necessary, water and electricity.

VC-35 Leading Chief Transferred

Charles Chaney, 43, ADC and Leading Chief for Composite Squadron 35 since June 6, 1950, has received orders transferring him to Memphis, Tenn.

At Memphis he will serve as an instructor on Mobile Naval Air Engine Maintenance Trainers.

Chaney enlisted in the Navy on January 27, 1928, at Richmond, Va., after working four and one-half years in some of West Virginia's coal mines.

VC-35's new Leading Chief will be Howard C. Matlock, AEC. Chief Matlock has been in VC-35 since June 10, 1950. He returned aboard the aircraft carrier USS BOXER last October from a tour of duty in Korean waters with an advance maintenance chief for the team.

Australian, New Zealand Women To See Movies

Australian and New Zealand women married to NAS civilian or military personnel are invited to the monthly meeting of the ANZAC Women's Club, 7:30 p.m., April 7, at the Chamber of Commerce Hall at 3690 Mason St., Old Town.

The meeting will feature a movie, "Australia Today." Refreshments will be served.

The ANZAC club is an organization of women who formerly lived in Australia or New Zealand. It holds its meetings on the first Monday of each month at the Old Town Chamber of Commerce Hall.

Further information on the organization may be received by contacting Mrs. Peggy Baskett, program chairman, at Main 2586.

SATURDAY, April 5—PHONE CALL FROM A STRANGER, starring Gary Merrill and Shelley Winters, with Bette Davis. Although Helen Westcott confesses to her husband, Gary Merrill, that she has changed her mind and decided not to run away with another man, Merrill is convinced the marriage is washed up. He planes to Los Angeles and, among the passengers, meets Shelley Winters, a hard-boiled hoofer. The plane is wrecked, and after the crash, Merrill, the only survivor, traces the paths of those he met while aboard.
SHORT: They All Like Boats.
Running time: 1 hour and 57 minutes.

SUNDAY and MONDAY, April 6 and 7—HOODLUM EMPIRE, starring Brian Donlevy, Claire Trevor, and Forrest Tucker. Brian Donlevy, crusading United States senator, is conducting a full-scale Congressional inquiry into nation-wide gambling and crime, of which syndicate Luther Adler is the kingpin. His second-in-command is Forrest Tucker, and they are planning to throw John Russell, Adler's nephew, to the federal "wolves." When Tucker murders a key witness, Russell goes berserk; in a gun battle Adler is slain, Tucker arrested and the Congressional hearing continues.
SHORT: Playmates of the Sea.
Running time: 1 hour and 54 minutes.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, April 8 and 9—THE CIMARRON KID, starring Audie Murphy and Beverly Tyler. Released from prison after serving time on an unjust charge that he sheltered the notorious Dalton gang Audie Murphy again runs afoul of David Wolfe, unscrupulous railroad detective whose testimony brought about Audie's conviction. Beaten unmercifully, Audie escapes and joins the Daltons. After meeting Beverly Tyler, he vows to do one more job, but he is betrayed and again faces a jail term. He is sent to jail, but the understanding that he and Beverly will be re-united is prevalent.
SHORT: The Candid Mike No. 3.
Running time: 1 hour and 42 minutes.

THURSDAY and FRIDAY, April 10 and 11—THE LAS VEGAS STORY, starring Jane Russell and Victor Mature. Traveling to Los Angeles Vincent Price and his wife, Jane Russell, stop in Las Vegas although Jane—once a nightclub singer there—is reluctant to do so. She had been in love with Victor Mature, but the romance went sour. Price loses money recklessly at the gambling tables, while Jane encounters Mature and they discover their love is not dead. Price is accused of murdering the owner of the casino where he lost so heavily, but Mature establishes that Dexter was the killer and that Price is an embezzler. Jane plans to divorce him and marry Mature.
SHORT: Famous Hollywood Comedians.
Running time: 1 hour and 46 minutes.

When It's Darkness on the Delta, You'll Make Your Best Impression

If you're a civilian employee and you have one delta in your loop print, two deltas in your whorl print, but none at all in your arch print, you don't have to worry. But if the center of your loop and its delta, plus the lines running between them, aren't clear, or if the two deltas and the lines connecting them don't show up well in your whorl prints, you'll probably be called back to IRD in Building 415 and asked to have another set of your fingerprints taken.

Deltas and whorls and arches are terms used to describe the specific patterns appearing most frequently in your fingerprints. Separate impressions of all five fingers of both hands, plus simultaneous impressions of all your fingers, were taken when you first started to work at NAS, and were recorded on a U. S. Civil Service Commission Fingerprint Chart. The card was then sent, along with your Loyalty Investigation form, to the Investigation Division of the 12th U. S. Civil Service Region in San Francisco, for checking.

Mrs. E. Mabel Haley, IRD Placement Clerk in charge of fingerprint cards, relates some interesting sidelights in connection with the taking of prints. A person's previous occupation can usually be determined by his or her fingerprints. Clerical workers have soft pads on their fingers, and for the most part their prints are excellent. Craftsmen in radio and electrical work may have roughened the texture of the pads to such a degree that prints are difficult to obtain. Cement workers in particular often have sustained finger skin erosion to an extent where legible prints are almost impossible to get.

The men who actually take the prints in Building 415 are Security Section's G. J. McLean, AF2, A. C. Lotten, AD3, and J. E. Wilkins, AA. Their main objective, after the subject's fingers have been pressed into printer's ink, is to get the best possible impression of center whorls, and avoid smearing. Their biggest hindrance, paradoxically, is the effort by most subjects to help the operation along by rolling their fingers stiffly across the paper. Complete relaxation is essential, with manipulation left entirely to the men taking the prints.

Mrs. Haley sometimes has fingerprint cards returned from the Investigation Division as many as four or five times, when the impressions are not absolutely clear. However, if some physical condition makes it impossible to obtain perfect impressions, the best that can be taken are submitted along with a memo stapled to the card explaining the circumstances. When an amputation or deformity necessitates leaving a blank space, a notation is made in the appropriate block.

Killer Roams NAS!

Do You Know That:

A rat's teeth grow about 20 inches in a year, and tips are harder than tungsten. It is claimed that if one pair of rats was allowed to survive, with none of the offspring exterminated, in five years there would be about 960,000,000 rats.

Cockroaches eat many of the holes in wool that moths get blamed for.

Some ants will live for 17 years.

Ants will attack termites.

There are several queens in a colony of ants, each of which is capable of hatching out 400 ants a day.

Termites do more damage than fire in Southern California, according to government statistics.

These interesting facts only go to prove how important is the job of pest control at the Naval Air Station and auxiliary installations. To carry out the successful waging of this war, NAS employs a professional "killer", or to employ a more refined term, an Exterminator.

Serving in this capacity at NAS for the past twelve years has been Mr. Ernest D. Parkin of the Public Works Department. Before entering government service, he performed considerable research work on the extermination of pests and holds certificates from the University of California on the Control of Household and Structure Pests.

Mr. Parkin has developed many ingenious methods by which he can better perform his job, such as ant traps, rat traps, spray guns, spraying extensions, termite control guns, and devices for the equipment he uses which will protect humans and material. His designs vary according to the demands of the situation.

The NAS Committee on Awards has reviewed some of Mr. Parkin's more important developments, and has awarded him a total of $90 for devices designed by him which acomplish the efficient extermination of pests.

County Fair Show To Be Held Here

Members of the fair sex will play an important role tonight at 2000 when the San Diego County Fair Association holds its Prevues in the Coronado high school auditorium. The free stage show is designed to stimulate interest in the annual County Fair, scheduled for June 27 through July 6 at Del Mar. Both military and civilian personnel are invited to attend and participate in the contests scheduled.

Two preliminaries are designed exclusively for feminine entrants. For little girls between the ages of three and ten, the Miss Sunbeam competition holds special appeal. This is a nation-wide contest being conducted to select a youngster most closely resembling the blonde, blue-eyed tot who appears on the wrapper of a nationally distributed loaf of bread. Prizes include a two weeks' vacation in Paris, and contestants should be at the auditorium not later than 1945.

Young ladies between 16 and 25, married or single, are invited to participate in the "Fairest of the Fair" queen preliminaries, finals for which will take place on June 6 at Russ Auditorium. The winner will reign over the Fair during its ten-day run, and will highlight all promotional activities connected with it.

Other contests, open to both sexes, will be Show Time for Talent, junior and senior divisions, and Mom and Pop Sound Off. Anyone who likes to sing, dance, play an instrument or act is urged to take part in tonight's show by Jack Harrington, director of special events for the Fair. Contestants need not sign up in advance, but are asked to be at the auditorium in ample time for scheduling on the show.

ComAirPac Has New Staff Officers

LCDR Buford D. Abernathy and LT Sam Rorex, Jr., have reported to the Staff of VADM Harold M. Martin, Commander Air Force, Pacific Fleet, as Flag Secretary and Flag Lieutenant, respectively.

Before reporting to Commander Seventh Fleet, LCDR Abernathy was navigator aboard the battleship, USS NEW JERSEY.

This is the fourth tour of duty LT Rorex has had on the Staff of Adm. Martin.

Bigger Engine To Power Navy Jets

Completion of initial tests on a new and more powerful jet engine to power the latest fighter aircraft has been announced by the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics.

The new J-48, which represents five years of intensive development, is an advanced version of the J-48 Turbo-Wasp built by Pratt and Whitney Aircraft, East Hartford, Conn. The new model delivers a great deal more power than the previous J-48 which is rated at 6,250 pounds static thrust.

Production of the engine is scheduled for this fall.

al Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii, when the Japs struck December 7, 1941.

In July 1942 he became Commandant, Naval Operating Base, Midway, remaining there more than a year. It was a vital submarine and aviation base for operations against Wake Island and the far-flung Japanese shipping routes.

Adm. Martin then returned to Philadelphia to commission and take command of his first ship, the light carrier USS SAN JACINTO.

The SAN JACINTO was in the initial strike against the Bonin Islands, the landings at Saipan, Tinian, Guam, and the famous "Marianas Turkey Shoot" during the first battle for the Philippines.

VADM Martin was decorated with the Legion of Merit and Silver Star for his heroism.

Detached from the SAN JACINTO in October 1944, VADM Martin was Chief of Staff and Aide to Commander Air Force, Atlantic.

In March 1945 he was assigned as Commander Carrier Division 23, supporting our ground forces on Okinawa. In August he commanded Task Force 49, a group of carriers organized to support the Russians who had just entered the war against Japan.

In October 1947, VADM Martin took command of Carrier Division FIVE and Task Force 38 aboard the carrier USS VALLEY FORGE.

In November 1948 VADM Martin assumed duties of Chief of Naval Air Technical Training, Memphis, Tenn. February 15, 1951, he took command of the Navy's First Fleet, and a month later took over the Seventh Fleet, operating in Korean waters.

VS-21 DEALS

Winding up a week's bombing and rocket practice at El Centro, all hands of VS-21 let go with a stag party in downtown El Centro last Friday evening. A good time was had by all—especially "Fergy."

Monday the squadron leaves for a week of carrier operations which include night and day landing qualifications. They have had a busy time this week flying nights at ALF Ream.

Squadron officers are making plans and preparations for the Easter spring formal April 12, which they are sponsoring.

ELECTRONS

By "WINDY" SPLICHAL

In the last Electronics column, the North Islander carried an announcement of a new baby delivered to Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gray, of Shop 4264-3. Mrs. Edith Gray of the Cable shop thought Cecil Gray may be her husband's uncle, so she contacted your reporter. When Cecil returned to work this week, I had the pleasure of bringing these two together. They had not seen each other for about four years and enjoyed talking over old times and bringing each other up to date on current interests of their respective families. We hope they will not lose track of each other again.

Ruth and Allan Law, both of NAS, wish to announce to friends that their son, George Law, MM2, aboard the submarine BAJA, is to be married tomorrow at the Navy Hospital Chapel. Miss Dorothy Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Williams of San Diego, is the bride-to-be. Best of wishes to the young couple.

Mrs. Victoria Roberts was on leave for three weeks, some of which was spent on vacation and the rest in moving into her new home.

Ola Weber is back to work in the Cable Shop after having an operation and being off work for two months.

Sallie Tennant's husband returned to the U.S.A. last week aboard the USS ESSEX. To be sure, Sallie was a very happy gal.

Get well wishes are sent to Marie Cluck, Clarice Shipman and Pearl Goloskie from the Cable Shop.

Buck Weaver is on leave getting acquainted with his new daughter-in-law. His son Harrison Walter Weaver and Miss Mary Jane Woodruff were recently married.

Electric Shop is sorry to hear Frank J. Atkins is in the U. S. Naval Hospital for an operation. A speedy recovery and hope to see you back soon.

A trip to Waco, Texas, is the reason for the absence of C. T. Leggott, known as Salty, from the Production Control Office. Salty and his wife are to visit with C. T.'s mother. They expect to be gone about three weeks.

Harry Gahagan of the Radar Shop is probably the youngest grandfather on NAS. His wife called him from Tacoma, Wash., to tell him the news of the new granddaughter.

SDTA vs SCTA In Grudge Race

Grudge drag races between the San Diego Timing Association and the Southern California Timing Association will be held this Sunday at the Paradise Mesa Airstrip featuring some of the fastest cars and motorcycles in California.

Numerous personnel, both military and civilian employees of North Island will be among the participants. One of these will be Jack Ball of IRD, who will defend his Class "A" motorcycle record of 103.8 using gasoline on a quarter mile track.

Time trials start tomorrow, competition racing Sunday afternoon. Remember, 5 miles east of National City out Eighth Street.

Johnson Wins Bowling Tourney

The Seventh Annual Eleventh Naval District Bowling tournament drew to a close last Sunday evening at Pacific Recreation, with Gosta "Rusty" Johnson of the Naval Air Station taking an overall high score of 2183. In the women's division, Dorothy Heron of District Public Works ran a close second with a 2180. This marks the first time in the history of the tournament that a woman has ever been so close to winning.

High individual game in the men's division was won by H. Greena of NAS with 238, while D. Price of PAMI had high individual score with 976.

In the women's division, Faye Jones of Naval Supply Depot took high individual game with 212, while Patricia McKee, also of the Supply Depot had high individual score with 885.

Payoff will be made tomorrow at 1300.

Golf Range Boon to NAS Weed Cutters

The Naval Air Station's Driving Range is a golfers' paradise. Every golf enthusiast realizes the importance of practice, and the area set aside for this purpose affords these sportsmen an area for their training.

This one phase of North Island's recreational facilities provides more than just the hap-hazard opportunity to hit golf balls. If a person wishes to learn the game the right way, instructors are available during most of the daytime hours. At the present, instructors are Louis Szuch AOC, and C. E. Bartlett, AD-2. Both of these men are qualified to give instructions designed to improve the learners' game.

Among the facilities available for the people desiring to use them are 13 driving tees, 15 sets of clubs, over 3000 balls, and assorted special clubs for specific practice. There is also a repair section for those using clubs in need of attention. All of this makes up one of the station's most popular "get away from it all" spots.

NAGA NEWS

Persons who are eligible to compete in the Monthly "ACE" tournaments, and cannot play on Wednesdays, may play on a weekend on the same course, and in company of one or more members. Please notify the golf range of your intentions before registering.

Results of this month's ACE tourney will be published next week.

Skyraiders Battle for Crowns As Pacific Fleet Tourney Ends

Tonight at 2000 at the San Diego Coliseum, five ring gladiators from the Skyraider boxing squad will enter ring warfare as the Pacific Fleet boxing tournament goes into the finals. Winners of this tournament will then go into intensive training for the All-Navy fights which come up in April.

In last Friday's semi-finals, only two North Island fighters were entered. Don Malvezzi drew a split decision over Jeff Underwood of CruDesPac in the featherweight division, while Bill Slattery lost a close one to Ray Walters of PhibPac in the light-middleweight class.

Andy Sierra was forced to drop out because of a busted ear drum he received two weeks ago, and Jimmy Vacca dropped out because of weight difficulties.

Malvezzi, who fought to a draw with Underwood only a few weeks ago in Hollywood, seemed to have his opponent tagged last Friday. He neatly side-stepped punches and showed a lot of fire in clinches. to take the split decision.

In the Slattery-Walters brawl, Slattery seemed to have the fight sewed up in the first two rounds, but Walters showed up in the final stanza and punched his way to a split decision.

Tonight's fights will pit Dale Kite against John Rios of the USS TOLEDO in a bantamweight fracas, while Johnny Eugenio and Syl Grant, who are stablemates at CruDesPac will battle for the flyweight championship. This will mark the second time these two lads have fought a championship fight.

Malvezzi will take on Bill Brin-

BILL SLATTERY (above left), Skyraider light-middleweight puts a hard left into the mid-section of Ray Walters of PhibPac during the Pacific Fleet semi-finals last Friday night at the Coliseum. Although Slattery jabbed and hooked well through the first two rounds, he lost a split decision. Tonight Walters will face Sam "The Assassin" Williams for the Pacific Fleet light-middleweight championship, the winner to battle in the All-Navy tournament.

DON MALVEZZI (below right) neatly ducks a left from Jeff Underwood of CruDesPac in last Friday's semi-finals. Malvezzi, who had fought Underwood earlier went on to take a split decision. Tonight, the Skyraider featherweight will face Bill Brinson of PhibPac for the Pacific Fleet title.

NAS Fishing Boat Registered In Yellowtail Derby

San Diego's Annual Yellowtail Derby started Wednesday, and as it was last year, the NAS boat is registered in the Derby. All personnel fishing off NAS boats are eligible to compete for prizes given away by the San Diego Junior Chamber of Commerce in the Yellowtail Derby.

For the first time this year, the Naval Air Station is sponsoring their own "large game fish derby," to last for a 36-week period.

The person catching the largest game fish each week will be awarded a complete fishing outfit, either fresh or salt water, whichever he chooses. At the end of the 36-week period, the person who

SOFTBALL TEAM SCORES FIRST WIN

Skyraider softball team scored their first win of the season last Thursday night on Mountain View diamond against "Beasley's." This game was a close one ending up 1-0.

This week they played Camp Elliott and NAVPHIBTRA Unit adding two slaughters to their record. Elliott fell before a 14-0 onslaught, while NAVPHIBTRA Unit was beaten 13-0.

The softball team will play NAVPHIBTRA Unit once more, Monday night at 1900 on the Mainside diamond.

SANDERS UPSET IN NEW YORK

Big Ed Sanders of NTC, the only lad who's whipped Kirby Seals for sometime was finally knocked off his pedestal by Norvel Lee of New York on March 24. Sanders hit the deck in the first round, giving Lee the unanimous nod.

GOUDY TO COACH PAC-FLEET TEAM

Skyraider mentor John Goudy has been named "pilot" of the Pacific Fleet champions. When the winners are decided tonight, the ten-man team will come to North Island for intensive training under the guidance of Goudy to compete with the seven other teams for the All-Navy crown. Incidentally, this is the fourth time Goudy has held this position.

SEALS DEFENDS CHAMPIONSHIP—VIA DEFAULT

Defending champion of the Pacific Fleet heavyweight title Kirby Seals, has already copped the 1952 crown by a default. The only other heavy in the Pacific Fleet was Jimmy Hickey of PhibPac who was transferred this week. This means that Seals probably will not see any action until the All-Navy finals in April, due to the fact that the only other heavy in the Eleventh Naval District is George Woods of El Toro. Seals has already whipped Woods three times previously.

Captain's Cup Lowdown

—By Leon Cox

The Captain's Cup softball league started off with a bang Tuesday night as Weather Central edged a strong Special Services team by a score of 7-6. Weather Central jumped to a quick 4-0 lead off of pitcher Ed Gross of Special Services and another 3 runs off of E. L. Cox of Special Services in the fourth inning. Special Services collected runs in the third, fifth, and sixth innings but were unable to overtake the slugging Weather Central team. C. L. Boorn went all the way for Weather Central allowing only six runs, and striking out eight Special Service stickmen.

B.O.Q. and Power Plant will tangle in the next night game Tuesday night the 8th of April, on the Mainside field. This year marks the first time that B.O.Q. has entered a team in Capt's Cup competition, and much is expected of this club.

Capt's Cup tennis singles came to a close with LCDR J. D. Smith defeating Joe Kinkaid for the championship. Tennis doubles started the following day, with six teams in the competition.

Decorations Given VU-3(K) Personnel

Six members of Utility Squadron THREE received decorations at ceremonies March 28 and 31 at Ream Field. Distinguished Flying Crosses were awarded to L. D. Clark, ADC, and J. R. Hutchison, AD2, and a gold star in lieu of a second D.F.C. was awarded to E. E. Brown, ADC. All three men received their awards for extraordinary achievement in aerial flights in action over Korea while attached to Patrol Squadron FORTY-TWO.

Gold stars in lieu of third and fourth Air Medals were awarded to LT H. R. Hunzeker, for meritorious achievement in aerial flights while a fighter pilot attached to VF-884 on board the USS BOXER in action in Korea. A gold star in lieu of the third Air Medal was awarded LT D. G. Jacobs while a fighter pilot attached to VF-874 on board the USS BON HOMME RICHARD in action in Korea. A gold star in lieu of a second Air Medal was awarded F. R. Sullivan, AM2, for participation in aerial flights while attached to Patrol Squadron TWENTY-EIGHT operating against enemy forces from April 6, 1951, to August 2, 1951.

Navy Unit Commendation insignia were awarded at ceremonies Tuesday, 1 April at Ream Field to E. B. Pearson, SHSN, for services in the Korean Theaters of action while a member of Task Element 90.62 and to M. L. Kulman, AD3, for action in World War II while serving with Patrol Squadron FORTY-TWO.

J. O. Hess, AM3, received an Occupation Service Medal for services while a member of the Berlin Air Lift. Awards were delivered with congratulations for service well done by Commander C. D. Huston, Commanding Officer of VU-3(K).

VU-7 Lends A Helping Hand

The night field carrier traffic has been exceedingly heavy around ALF Ream the past week or so, what with getting a new air group checked out in the art of carrier landings, sans daylight,

Most of the pilots take to night flag waving like ducks to water, and some say they even prefer night bounce. To each his own! Nevertheless we're quick to agree that there is a certain amount of mystery and intrigue involved in night FCLP QUAL, mostly mystery, (now let's see, is that the LSO's platform down there, or the tower? Oh well, I'll make a pass on it anyway).

Be that as it may, the proficiency of these pilots in their work is adjudged by the dust and cobwebs settling around the crash equipment at ALF Ream; the only practice the crash crew gets is when they pour 50 gallons of gas on the TBM hull at the west end of the field and throw a torch to it.

Once in a great while, however, one of the planes will encounter a flat tail wheel or blow a tire on landing. Just such a situation presented itself last Tuesday night when a TBM MI-17 of VS-23 blew a tire on landing and called the tower to send a tractor to pull him off the runway. The tower immediately called the VU-7 duty section and asked if they could send a vehicle for the job. They repled that they would not only pull the plane off the runway, but jack the plane up and change the tire and wheel as well.

This they did, and 20 minutes later MI-17 was calling the tower for take off to resume his night check out. Another "service with a smile" rendered by VU-7.

'Whirly Bird' Is New TV Star

Who knows who or what is destined for stardom? From out of the blue may come almost anyone's chance for a place in the public eye. One definitely needs no overflow of talent as is attested by the approach to immortality of your friend and mine, Whirly Bird, whose theatrical attributes were brought to the fore by LT B. L. Samuals.

His gentle touch brought the reluctant HUP-2 before the cameras at North Island to show off for the television audience on a local telecast recently.

CDR Bayers and LCDR Knapp, skipper and exec. of HS-2 appeared to familiarize the public with the purpose and equipment of the new squadron.

The interview was supplemented by the film of the helicopter executing a few of the maneuvers seldom seen by the public. The telecast was presented on Thursday, March 27.

HS-2 Is ALF Ream Bowling Champ

The bowlers of HS-2 brought home the first trophy of the current station play-offs Friday, March 28, 1952. Four teams participated in the play-offs, each bowling two games on Thursday of last week for the semi-final round. HS-2 defeated VU-3(K) by a total of 123 pins while HU-1 defeated VU-7.

On Friday in the finals HS-2 defeated HU-1 for the station championship by a margin of 48 pins. CDR Bayers, LT Webber, Chief Worack, Osburne, AN, and Burk, PH2 made up the five-man team, while LT Ryan and Henderson, PH3 were the alternates.

Starting April 15, the champs of HS-2, headed by Chief Worack as team captain and supported by other bowlers of Ream Field, will play NAAS Miramar for the semi-finals of the ComFair San Diego championship play-off.

Red Cross Gives Praise for Ream's Blood Donations

In an official message from the American Red Cross, Ream Field was congratulated for its high mark set on March 20.

The message reads:

"Mark A. Thomas, Manager, San Diego County Chapter, ARC, Attention: Mrs. Rasberry—

Your total 705 pints blood at ALF Ream Field in 7½ hours is certainly an outstanding achievement. All persons connected with this operation should be congraatulated."

Regional Director
Pacific Area Office, ARC

VU-7 Predicts Top Season

"Take me out to the ball game" is the familiar cry around Ream Field this week as 36 of Utility Squadron SEVEN's sackers turned out for this year's softball team. Coaching VU-7's softball team this year is Chief Ryle G. Johnson.

With ten years experience in playing and coaching softball with the Navy and civilian teams, Coach Johnson says, "The team is in fine shape and will be standing on the top at the end of the season." His last coaching was with a Naval station in the Philippines.

Many of last year's players have been transferred or discharged. One familiar face belongs to Charles F. Ferguson, YNSN, second baseman and part-time pitcher.

Utility Squadron SEVEN's playing schedule is as follows:

Date	Day	Home Team	Visiting Team
2 April	Wed.	VU-7	HS-2
3	Thurs.	HU-1	VC-7

VU-3-K Welcomes Two New AP'S

Last week VU-3(K) welcomed two new members when L. H. Caselton, AMC (AP) and A. R. Kouns, ADC(AP) reported aboard for duty.

Chief Caselton came from Pt. Mugu where he completed a tour of duty with the NAMTC Drone Division. He is not a new face here at VU-3(K), having been a member of the squadron before his two-year tour at Pt Mugu.

Chief Kouns comes into drone work for the first time from the Naval Air Basic Training Command at Pensacola, Fla.

PacFleet Boxing

son of PhibPac, Clarence Jackson of CruDesPac will meet Harold Baird of PhibPac in a lightweight battle, and Howard Prestwood will attempt to unseat Felix Franklin of PhibPac in a welterweight brawl.

In the light-welter division, Ken Morton of CruDesPac will meet International Gloves kingpin Billy Hartman of PhibPac, while Sam "The Assassin" Williams will battle with Ray Walters in the light-middle class. Danny Hayes will take on Johnny Holman of the USS NAVASOTO as light heavyweight.

What promises to be one of the best fights of the night will be little-known Eddie Hughes of the Skyraiders against Nolan Davis of PhibPac in a middleweight fracas. Davis, a cool, methodical operator, will meet an equally apt opponent in Hughes who is seeing his first tournament fight this season.

NAS Fishing Boat

lands the largest game fish aboard an NAS boat will receive a new outboard motor. Military personnel only are eligible for prizes.

Chief Chambers announced this week that by the middle of April, three fishing boats should be in operation. At this time, the fishing schedule will be revised to conform with the larger number of boats.

At present the fishing boat can be reserved Wednesday through Sunday.

The only charge for fishing is for bait, which usually runs $1.00 per person. Sinkers, hooks, etc., must be furnished by personnel.

Game fish as classified for the large game fish derby are: Yellow tail, Barracuda, Bonita, White Sea Bass, Tuna and Albacore, and Kelp Bass.

For the present time, NAS fishing boats are restricted to NAS personnel and supporting activities.

Reservations can be made on Wednesdays only, by calling Chief Chambers or L. E. West on X-632.

VU-3(K) Nine Wins Opener

VU-3K, with just three practice sessions under its belt, successfully opened the baseball season at Buchi Field with a 4 to 2 win over HU-I.

The winners fielded a team built around team captain French at short-stop, English in the left field, Stevens on second base, Ancker handling the catching chores and Snow, Meehan and Zohlers doing the pitching.

VU-3K picked up 2 runs in the third inning when Brooks lined a single to centerfield and came home when French hit a home run to right field. The game was iced in the fourth inning with one run and picked up another run in the seventh. Pitcher Snow tossed a six-hit game and had his control except for a let-up in the third inning when he was touched for 2 runs which tied up the game.

VU-3K will play an 18-game schedule against other Ream Field teams. All games will be played at Buchi Field continuing till June 19. VU-3K's next game will be Tuesday April 8 against HS-2.

VU-7 Electronics Training Program

The Electronics Division of VU-7 now has an extensive on-the-job training program in effect under the direction of Chief Norman L. Humiston and his two assistants, Luther N. Scott, ATI, radio class instructor, and Lewis E. Garner, ALI, in charge of the code and blinker classes.

Daily instruction in such subjects as code, blinker, voice procedure, semaphore and maintenance of equipment installed in squadron aircraft has helped prospective VU-7 air crewmen in the performance of their duties.

The NORTH ISLANDER

VOLUME VIII — SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, APRIL 11, 1952 — No. 15

REALLY GETTING IN THE MOOD for Easter is Regina Barrett, five-year-old daughter of Mrs. T. C. Barrett of Coronado.

Hold Sunrise Services At NAS, San Diego

On Easter Sunday, there will be numerous Sunrise Services and Masses on North Island, in Coronado, and in the San Diego area. NAS religious activities will be open to civilians as well as military personnel.

SUNRISE SERVICES

There will be Sunrise Services held on board the USS BON HOMME RICHARD at 0530 Sunday morning, and at the Coronado Housing Project at 0630. In addition to those mentioned, there will be the regular Sunday morning services in the Chapel at 1000.

In the San Diego area, Sunrise Services will be held at the usual traditional locations: Alvarado Canyon, Mount Helix, Mount Soledad, Presidio Hill, Balboa Park Organ Pavilion, and Cabrillo National Monument, Pt. Loma.

CATHOLIC MASSES

Catholic Mass will be held Sunday morning at 0845 and 1145. After the 0845 Mass, there will be the Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Committee Elections April 23

Civilian Welfare & Recreation and Shop Committee elections will be held Wednesday, April 23, the Industrial Relations Department has announced.

Voting hours have been designated to permit every employee, regardless of his working shift, to vote. In units having three shifts, the voting hours shall be from 0001 to 2400, April 23. Where there is only the day shift or two shifts in the unit, the voting hours will begin with start-work whistle and end with the stop-work whistle. Employees working in outlying areas will be allowed to secure from work in sufficient time to reach the voting area and have adequate time to cast their ballots prior to the stop-work whistle.

Ballots, prepared by the Industrial Relations Department, will contain the names of candidates selected in recent nominations and also have three spaces for voters to write in the names of other eligible individuals. Voters in all units are asked to vote for three individuals except in Public Works shops where ballots will be cast for one individual only.

Senior Civilian Supervisors or Military Supervisors will announce the location of the polling places to their organizational units.

All non-supervisory employees, except employees appointd for periods of less than one year, are eligible to vote in the Shop Committees elections. All employees, supervisors and non-supervisors alike, are eligible to cast ballots for Welfare-Recreation candidates.

Two Good Friday Services Today At Main Chapel

Members of both the Protestant and Catholic faiths are invited to attend special Good Friday religious services being held today in the Main Chapel.

Catholic services will be held from 1200 to 1500, and Protestant services will be conducted at 1000. Both military and civilian personnel desiring to attend may be excused at the discretion of their department heads.

Civil Service personnel will be required to have leave slips for the purpose approved.

Bill Proposes Survivor Benefits for Dependents

A bill has been introduced in Congress by Representative Paul J. Kilday which would provide for increased benefits for survivors of service personnel who die while on active duty, and funds for survivors of personnel who are on the retired list and die.

Known as the "Uniformed Services Survivors' Benefit Act of 1952," the bill, if passed, would increase the benefits of survivors of service personnel at no cost to the government to a level closer to the benefit system now in effect for civilian components of Federal Service.

The Survivors' Bill would apply to all members of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Coast Guard, Coast and Geodetic Survey and the Public Health Service.

Under present laws, the survivor of a retired serviceman who dies, gets nothing unless the annual income is less than $1000, in which case the survivor receives $42 a month for life or until remarried.

Present survivor benefits resulting from the death of a serviceman on the active service list—not the retired list—are: Six months death gratuity which is six months of the deceased's base pay at time of death; installment payments of the $10,000 National Service Life Insurance; and $75 a month for a wartime death, or $60 a month peace time.

The Survivors' Bill would set up a simple "group insurance" formula which would provide a monthly income to dependent survivors after the death of a serviceman. Persons entitled to benefits under the act would pay monthly amounts based upon their base pay, ranging from three-fourths of one percent for the lowest pay grade to two and one-fourth percent for the highest pay grade.

Persons with dependents will be required to participate under law, but individuals without dependents may do so at their own option.

Survivors, under the bill, would receive 25 percent of the deceased's pay and $360 annually for each child up to the age of 18, not to exceed $900, to be equally divided among all children. A retired person may also elect a reduced payment for himself, depending on his age and the age of his dependent, and then upon his death his survivor would receive 50 percent of his retired pay.

Ike Carpenter to Play for All-Station Dance April 19

Ike Carpenter and his orchestra will provide music for the "April Showers" spring dance for North Island military personnel and their guests Saturday, April 19, at the station gymnasium.

Admission is free. However, to keep an account of the number expected to attend, tickets will be issued. Division officers or the Special Services Officer should be contacted to obtain these tickets.

For those men who do not have dates, the Special Services Division is contacting 600 young ladies in San Diego to attend the dance.

Plenty of free refreshments will be served. In addition, a dancing contest—a popular feaure of previous dances—will be conducted. Prizes will be awarded to the winning couples.

Ike Carpenter, a relative newcomer to the orchestral world, is a popular recording artist and has appeared at night spots in San Diego and Mission Beach. "Downbeat" magazine recently rated Ike as one of the most promising young orchestra leaders in the country.

XO Duties Assumed by CDR Knight Thursday

In informal ceremonies yesterday, CDR Page Knight assumed the duties of Executive Officer at NAS. CDR Knight relieves CDR W. S. Guest, Executive Officer for the past 15 months, who reports to Newport News, Va., to assume the XO post aboard the USS LAKE CHAMPLAIN (CV-39), now being recommissioned.

A graduate of the Naval Academy class of 1935, CDR Knight was designated a naval aviator in 1939. After completing flight training at Pensacola, he joined a squadron serving aboard the USS WASP. His most recent assignment, prior to coming to NAS, was aboard the escort carrier USS SIBONEY. CDR Knight holds the Bronze Star, three Air Medals, and the Navy Unit Citation. He also wears the American Defense service ribbon, the European-African campaign ribbon, and the World War II Victory and American Area ribbons.

CDR Knight resides with his wife and family at Quarters "J" aboard the station. The Knights have three children, Elizabeth, 4, Claudia, 2, and Page Lees, nine months.

Over $4,000 Score in NAS Red Cross Drive

The Red Cross fund campaign at NAS, which closed last week, reached $4115.42 in contributions, according to a final tabulation reported by the Executive Officer's office this week.

The AirPac Red Cross drive stood at approximately $7,000, according to a report Thursday. Personnel of Fleet Air detachments at NAS, ALF Ream, and NAS Miramar contributed this amount. Contributions from AirPac ships have not yet been reported.

Chaplain's Corner

What Is Easter?

Religion for most of us, is something that we heartily believe in and endorse because we understand that it is the link between God and ourselves. In the course of a year we celebrate certain feasts such as Christmas and Easter, both of which commemorate some aspect of the life of Jesus Christ. The very word Christmas means Christ's Mass and Easter celebrates the Resurrection of Christ from the dead. Yet, despite the fact both of these "days" deal with religious themes of great importance, the world is more occupied with the giving of presents, the trimming of trees, the rolling of eggs and the donning of new clothes than with the spiritual importance of both feasts.

I have often thought that it was simply because we have not properly understood the role of Jesus in our Redemption and so on this Good Friday as you are reading this article I hope you will have a better understanding and perhaps appreciate a little more the great sacrifice on the Cross.

When Almighty God created Adam and Eve and placed them in the Garden of Paradise He gave to them wonderful gifts among which were the following: They would never know illness or death, never have to work for their survival, know not the sins of the flesh and above all have a special sight of God. One thing was forbidden them—the eating of the apple. We all know how Eve lured Adam to eating this apple after she had been tempted by the devil with promises that both would be as powerful as God. Thus hiding themselves from God they heard the fateful words that by the sweat of their brow would they exist and that they would be prone to sins of the flesh as well as all the ills and sufferings of body which we poor mortals know so well. Above all, the gates of Heaven would be closed to them and to all their successors because of the infinite evil committed against a loving God. Thus the human race in the persons of Adam and Eve had fallen, and all members of that race would bear the stigma of their sin when borne into the world. We call this stigma Original Sin—the sin of our origin.

The human race was procreated by Adam and Eve and the long history of their vicissitudes, failings and yet sometimes wonderful deeds is carried out. We read of silly acts such as the building of the Tower of Babel to reach God; the making of false graven images for worship and the wanderings in the desert. Interspersed in the account we read the wonderful stories of Isaac and Jacob, Moses, the Psalms of David, the Father sheep of Abraham. Time after time Almighty God had intervened in the troubles of the Jews, His chosen people, and saved them from their own folly. Thus He delivered them from the Egyptians, He allowed them to return to the Promised Land, He aided leaders such as Joshua in the Battle of Jericho but still they would turn aside from loving Him, much as we do today.

In the fullness of time, God, taking mercy upon mankind, sent His Own Divine Son Jesus Christ into the world so that He could buy back for mankind God's good graces. Because the sin of Adam and Eve was infinitely Evil an infinitely good act was required to appease Almighty God. Thus God became man so that this effect could be produced. Born of the Holy Ghost and the Virgin Mary not in a palace but in a humble cave, He lived for 30 years as the obedient charge of Mary before beginning his ministry of love and goodness.

For three years He spoke to the people of the Kingdom of God and the message of love, cured their ills, performed miracles and pointed out how man could attain eternal happiness. Then betrayed by one of His own disciples, He was falsely accused, scourged, mocked, spat upon, made to carry His own instrument of death, and finally crucified. The love of God for man had reached the most sublime heights on the Hill of Calvary. God had allowed His own Son not only to become a mere mortal, not only to be insulted and crucified, but to shed every drop of His blood as an indication of His love for man. The price had been paid. Jesus Christ had redeemed or bought us back into the good graces of God. Once again the Gates of Heaven were opened to us but now we had to follow the rules that were laid down. He had founded a church. He had given to it a commission; He had instituted sacraments; He had promulgated laws.

We cannot afford to ignore the love of God symbolized for us all in the sign of the cross and the crucifix. If there is an ounce of gratitude in us as human beings, if it is possible for us to love anyone or anything, then Easter should be a day on which we should say "Thanks, Almighty God, for this extra chance. I appreciate it even though at times I'm worse than Judas who betrayed You once. Help me to keep in mind how much You loved me and maybe I'll fall, but don't let my heart harden against you. Let me not be indifferent or lazy in carrying out my obligations to You and my fellow man. Above all, dear Lord, make me conscious of Your goodness to me and enable me to grow daily in my love for You."

Steel management challenged the President's legal authority to seize the steel industry to avert a strike. Production is now under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce Sawyer. An attempt by the steel companies to get an emergency order to return the mills to their private owners was not upheld in a Federal court.

Other labor difficulties plagued the nation as 300,000 telephone workers walked off jobs in sympathy with 68,000 communications union strikers.

Western Union facilities were still bogged down due to a strike of telegraphers.

Midwesterners experienced Wednesday something which they think happens only in California. Strong earth tremors shook the area extending from Austin, Texas, to Des Moines, Iowa. Although very little damage and only one injury was reported, the quake was of a "seven intensity." If the earthquake's epicenter had been in a city, it would have resulted in serious damage ,a seismologist said.

Faint hints by Korean Communists of a compromise, brought some renewed hope of an armistice in Korea. Communist negotiators at Panmunjon said they might be willing to give in on Russia as a "neutral" inspection agent, if the UN would permit the Reds to repair their airfields.

President Truman has called upon Congress to use its constitutional powers to allow servicemen to exercise their right to vote in cases where the states fail to do so. He has pointed out that in 24 of the states servicemen will be unable to vote effectively and easily in 1952. Of these, 17 do not allow sufficient time between transmittal of the absentee ballot and the time when the ballot must be returned.

He also recommended that the states improve their absentee ballot systems so as to afford servicemen every possible means of exercising their voting rights.

The President recommended to Congress a system where servicemen of voting age would have a right to vote without registering in person; without paying a poll tax and without meeting unrasonable residence requirements. They would also have the right to use the federal post card application for a ballot and to receive ballots for primary and general elections in time to vote.

PW Orchid Growers Take Contest Prizes

Growing orchids is a hobby of two Public Works employees, Mabel Brinegar and Elaine Dolle. The two recently won a first and third in the sixth annual San Diego County Orchid Show held in La Jolla.

Their cymbidium orchids topped the amateur group exhibit in the show.

Benny Sugg Program Stays In High Gear

Estimated annual savings to the government of $118,039.09 are represented by the 192 beneficial suggestions adopted by the NAS Committee on Awards during the first quarter of 1952. The civilian employees who submitted these time and money saving suggestions received a total of $5,050 for their ideas.

Within the three-month period, 525 suggestions were received. The average participation rate for NAS civilians was 5.95 percent per 100 employees, which keeps this Station in first place among all major BuAer activities. NAS participation on a yearly basis is approximately 23.80 percent per 100 employees, while the Navy average is 14 percent.

Top showing among NAS activities was made by S&F's Administrative Division, with a participation record of 13.07 percent per 100 employees during the January-February-March period. Figured on a yearly basis, the average would be 52.3 percent per 100 employees. Recognition of this effort was made last Monday when CAPT C. M. Boundy, Supply and Fiscal Officer, presented Administrative Division personnel with the NAS Bronze Plaque for employee participation in the beneficial suggestions program.

In a recent message to personnel of the Department of Defense concerning the Incentive Awards Program, Acting Secretary of Defense William A. Foster urged all employees to make a special effort to contribute to the increased efficiency of operations at the many U. S. activities and stations, both at home and overseas, by making suggestions which will qualify them for awards.

The understanding of Mr. Foster's message by NAS Department Supervisors is evidenced by the exemplary record they have established for the initial quarter of 1952, states IRD's Jack Ball, Executive Secretary, Committee on Awards.

LCDR H. I. Pemberton, chairman of the 1952 Navy Relief Carnival Committee, has announced that the following members of the North Island Association will work in conjunction with the committee on the annual summer event.

They are: Mrs. Isabel K. Smith, NIA president, who will be an ex-officio member of the committee; A. J. Quicker, Public Works Foreman; Robert S. Putnam, Industrial Relations Department; W. Kirby Vaughan, S&F Department; F. Geer, O&R Department; E. P. Becker, Transportation Department; and R. T. Morse, County Commander American Legion.

"It is felt," stated LCDR Pemberton, "that the backgrounds and invaluable experience possessed by these people will materially aid the success of this year's carnival."

Want Carpenters For N.R. Carnival

An opportunity for NAS military personnel with carpentry skills to take an active part in the construction of booths, exhibits, and other structures for this summer's Navy Relief Carnival is announced by J. R. Samuelson, JOC, in charge of publicity and promotion for the event.

Men attached to NAS who have any carpentry or construction experience are urged to contact Chief Samuelson in Room 1, Bldg. 8, without delay.

TOP PARTICIPATION in the NAS Beneficial Suggestion Program for the first quarter of 1952 was achieved by S&F's Administrative Division. In recognition of the showing, CAPT C. M. Boundy, Supply and Fiscal Officer, presented the Bronze Award Plaque last Monday to Mrs. Mary Glover, Supervisor and Service Branch clerk, who accepted it on behalf of Division personnel.

Coronado VFW Installs Officers

During ceremonies held last night at 2000 at the VFW Hall, 6th and Orange in Coronado, the General Henry D. Styer Post and Auxiliary held the annual installation of officers.

Henry S. Hoppis of the Naval Air Station replaced Harry Harris of Public Works as Commander of the Post, while Julia Dixon replaced Roseina Graves, night telephone operator for NAS, as Auxiliary president.

Other officers installed were: Richard Steen, Senior Vice Commander; Irving Sonnebaum, Junior Vice Commander; Roy Desbrow, Chaplain; Harry Morris, Quartermaster; and W. W. Brinkmier, Adjutant.

Auxiliary officers are: Viola Dominguez, Senior Vice Commander; Genevah Wattier, Junior Vice Commander; Annie Latsch, Chaplain; Ann Reading, Conductress; and Mamie Spitzbart, Guard.

Installing officer for the men was B. C. Hesser, Senior Vice Commander of the First District, while Marie Edwards, former First District President, installed the ladies.

Campus Spirit Invades FASRon 7

More than forty percent of the officers and men of San Diego based FASRon 7 enrolled in Navy and United States Armed Forces Institute correspondence courses during March.

The squadron education officer, LT Jacob Stringer, conducted a campaign to encourage squadron members to take advantage of the opportunities offered them.

Some 295 officers and men responded, enrolling in every type course from one on the Uniform Code of Military Justice to one on the establishment and operation of a shoe repair business.

LT Stringer explained that Navy correspondence courses are free and provide instruction in an individual's particular rating while USAFI offers high school, vocational and college level training. An initial enrollment fee of $2 is charged for the first course, after which all courses are free.

Credit may be obtained from some civilian institutions from USAFI courses to be applied toward high school diplomas or college degrees.

ADVANCE LEAVE REPAYMENT NO LONGER FORGIVEN

Federal workers who lose their jobs in agency layoffs or who are displaced by order of the Civil Service Commission must henceforward repay the Government for any unearned sick leave or vacation time which has been advanced to them, the Commission has announced.

Heretofore, the Federal-employee leave regulations permitted "forgiveness" of the leave obligation in reduction-in-force and displacement cases. Displacement may be ordered by the Commission for the purpose of removing an employee who has not obtained his position through competitive means and replacing him with an eligible from a Civil Service list.

THE CHANGE IN REGULATIONS, WHICH BECAME EFFECTIVE FEBRUARY 22, CARRIES INTO EFFECT THE THINKING EXPRESSED IN SENATE CIVIL SERVICE COMMITTEE REPORT ON LEAVE LEGISLATION.

Exemption from the requirement of repaying unearned advanced leave continued, under the amended regulations, to be granted to employees who retire on account of disability and to employees not eligible for disability retirement who are unable to return to their jobs because of disability. Also, no attempt is made to collect from the estate of a deceased employee money that had been paid him for unearned leave.

ASSEMBLY LINE OPERATION enables B. D. Holdman, CS3 (left) and M. H. Brooks, CS3, of the NAS Flight Ration Galley, to turn out up to 50 box lunches in half-an-hour. E. J. Kraszewski, CSC in charge, closes the lids prior to stacking lunches for later distribution to flight personnel.

Flight Galley's Food Rates High With Flyers

The open-all-night restaurants in any large U. S. city have nothing on the NAS Flight Ration Galley, located in Building 317. This activity, which prepares an average of 300 box lunches a day as well as basic meals for completion aloft, operates every day on an around-the-clock schedule. It also supervises operation of the Ream Field Flight Galley, supplying food used there and directing menu preparation.

The Flight Galley is in charge of E. J. Kraszewski, CSC, and the crew comprises four Commissary Stewards third class—B. D. Holdman, M. H. Brooks, J. A. Hogeland and W. V. Mouradjian. Holdman doubles by keeping the galley's books and records.

Only authorized flight personnel assigned to NAS-based squardons are entitled to draw the highly praised, galley-prepared lunches. Their passengers, however, may purchase the lunches for 60c each. All requests are handled directly by Chief Kraszewski, who can fill orders on as little as one hour's notice. However, the usual galley procedure is to make up surplus lunches during slack time, for quick distribution during peak request periods.

The galley's major equipment includes two large ice boxes, an electric slicing machine, and a large work table. The men who put together the lunches utilize production-line methods to accomplish the job quickly and easily. In an emergency such as a storm stand-by condition, they have turned out as many as 1700 lunches to handle the extra personnel on the Station.

Uncooked meals, for subsequent completion during flight where equipment exists, can be prepared on a 15-man scale, and include tasty, well-balanced breakfasts dinners and suppers.

There is only one stringent law in force at the Flight Ration Galley—No Sampling Allowed!

RETURNING FROM ITS SECOND KOREAN CRUISE is the seaplane tender USS GARDINERS BAY commanded by CAPT Joseph B. H. Young. The tender docked at NAS yesterday morning.

The Navy's XA2J-1, first multi-engine turbo-prop carrier-based attack bomber, takes off on its initial flight. It is the heaviest of the Navy's carrier planes with a gross weight of more than 26 tons and is capable of carrying a bomb load of 10,000 pounds. The plane is powered by two turbo-prop engines turning six-bladed contra-rotating propellers.

AirPac Supply Holds Picnic

A softball game between the officers-chiefs and white hats of ComAirPac Supply, was the highlight of a picnic held by this division last Saturday. Two hundred Supply personnel and their guests spent the entire day at El Monte Park.

Result of the softball game was a victory for the officers and chiefs, who had some help from first class PO's, and sore muscles for all. Also on the schedule of amusement were sack races.

Barbecued icken, hot dogs, ham and beverages made up the two meals served.

FASRon Includes Moral Guidance With Education

With a large percentage of young men under 25 in the Navy, the question of proper moral, spiritual, and religious guidance is one that looms large in the eyes of relatives of Navy men. So much so that the Secretary of Defense issued a memorandum advising commanding officers of their responsibility to provide the proper guidance and a well-rounded program of religious, educational and recreational activities.

Anticipating this need many months ago, FASRon 691 began sponsoring a weekly bible study class under the direction of Protestant Chaplain T. E. Schultz. Already known for its educational program, the FASRon is widening its field of instruction to include even the spiritual and religious needs of the individual.

The bible study group was originally organized by W. M. Blair, AEM3, a licensed minister of the World Bible Way Fellowship and member of FASRon 691. Through his efforts, the group has expanded, drawing the attention of Chaplain Schultz and personnel from other units. Attendance at the weekly classes usually includes representatives of several West Beach area units, VC-11, VC-35, VP-731, and VP-892.

Anyone interested in attending these classes is welcome. They are held each Wednesday at 1200 in FASRon 691's lecture room, Hangar 40.

'What Do I Do Now?' Helicopter Gets Ticket

One surprised helicopter pilot was LT G. HAINES of Helicopter Squadron ONE. When he was flying along the coast near Oceanside, Calif. he noticed smoke coming from the engine compartment of the helicopter. An emergency landing was safely made on the smooth sand near the beach on the U.S.M.C. Camp Pendleton Reservation.

LT HAINES had extinguished the small electrical fire and was looking the rest of the helicopter over when a Marine "MP," mounted on a jeep, came racing up and stopped near the helicopter.

This is when LT HAINES received his big surprise. The "MP" took out his pad of traffic violation tickets and proceeded to write up the pilot on two counts; illegal parking on the Reservation, and no operator's permit.

It is believed that this was the first and only parking ticket given to a helicopter. Believe it or not it's a true story.

AirPac Staff Officer Goes to Naples, Italy

LT Wilford K. Truitt, Aide and Flag Secretary for the former Commander Air Force, Pacific Fleet, VADM T. L. Sprague, has been ordered to report to Naples, Italy. At his new duty station he will serve as Personnel Officer for the Commander in Chief, Allied Forces, Southern Europe.

Before taking over his new job in Naples, Truitt will report to the Chief of Naval Operations, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., for temporary duty.

Before coming to ComAirPac in May 1950, LT Truitt was Assistant Planning Officer on the Staff, Commandant ELEVENTH Naval District.

VP-42 Pilots Awarded Medal for Korean Duty

LCDR Fred S. Bertsch, Jr., was recently awarded a Gold Star in lieu of the Air Medal, for "skill and devotion to duty" while serving with Patrol Squadron FORTY-TWO in the Korean Theatre.

LCDR Bertsch is now serving as Ship's Training Officer with Staff, FAW-14.

While serving with VP-42 in the Korean area, he was a patrol plane commender.

The Gold Star was awarded by VADM C. T. Joy, Commander Naval Forces, Far East, and presented by CAPT J. B. Paschal, Com FAW-14.

LTJG William A. Daniel, serving with VP-42, was also awarded the Gold Star in lieu of the Air Medal for devotion to duty and skillful performance of duty while serving with the squadron in the Korean conflict.

VADM Joy awarded the citation and it was presented to LTJG Daniel by CAPT Paschal.

NAS Lensmen Trade Cameras For Shovels to Plant Trees

If you can't see the forest because of the trees a few years from now in the Laguna Mountain recreation area, it will probably be due to the tree planting expedition held last Saturday by members of the NAS Photo Lab.

In a public spirited effort to help re-forest county areas decimated by fire, the 22 men and women of the Photo Lab made arrangements last month to purchase and plant new trees on their own. Following a lead discovered in a local news story, they contacted the Penny Pine Plantations, an organization which makes it possible for military, civic and fraternal groups to sponsor such a project at small expense. From them, LT L. E. Bartels, officer in charge, learned that for $65 they could buy 680 Jefferson pine seedlings, grown in the Mt. Shasta National Park and shipped to any designated San Diego area for replanting purposes.

The money was collected, and last Saturday morning six carloads of Photo Lab personnel, accompanied by the families of LT Bartels, C. C. George, AFC, and F. V. Taylor, AFC, arrived at the Laguna Mountain receration area ready for work. They were met by Forest Ranger Lloyd Britton, who supplied them with shovels and tools and supervised the planting operations. In just two hours, every one of the 680 seedlings had been firmly rooted, and the remainder of the day was devoted to food, refreshments, baseball and volleyball.

A three-fold purpose lies behind these public sponsored tree planting projects. Burned out areas are re-forested, erosion prevention is assured, and more pleasant recreational areas are provided for future visitors. The 40-acre area selected by the Photo Lab group was partially destroyed last year from a fire set by a careless hunter. Over 640,000 acres of forest land in San Diego National Park areas suffered a similar fate in 1951. The National Forest Service lacks sufficient funds and personnel to tackle the job of reforestation on its own, and public assistance is the only answer.

The Navy "Pine Plantation" created last week will be used as an experimental area to check rate of growth and spacing procedures, and in June a redwood sign will be erected on the territory stating that the planting was sponsored by the Naval Air Station, San Diego, Photo Lab Department.

Those participating in the worthy project, in addition to LT Bartels, Chief George and Chief Taylor, were D. N. Moss, AF1; Edith Monson, PH3; N. L. Steel, AN; B. W. Johnson, AN; B. G. Conner, AN; J. L. Beaver, AN; C. W. Law, Jr., AFAN; R. M. Ramirez, SN; L. C. Hoffman, AFAN; H. N. Demsien, AFAN; R. E. Delange, AA; H. J. Loomis, Jr., AFAN, S. L. Klien, AFAN; C. E. Snook, Jr., AFAN; W. B. Martin, PHAN; P. W. Sommer, AFAN; R. A. Spidell, AN; J. Gibbs, AF3; and Elizabeth Winter, PHAN.

THE PLANTERS as well as the trees need water. Benjamin Johnson, AN, and Paris Sommer, AFAN, take time out for a cooling drink.

A TALL PINE TREE will mark this spot one day in the future. Planting the seedling from which it will grow are H. N. Demsien, AFAN (left), and B. G. Conner, AN. These two men were part of a group of 22 NAS Photo Lab members who bought and planted 680 pine seedlings as a public service last Saturday in the fire-ravaged Laguna mountain recreation area.

OFF TO WORK go volunteer tree-planters W. B. Martin, PHAN (left); P. W. Sommer, AFAN; D. N. Moss, AF1; N. L. Steel, AN, and J. Gibbs, AF3. The area they helped re-forest last week will be identified by a sign naming the NAS Photo Lab as sponsors.

Aztec Riders Hold Sunrise Services

The Sixth Annual Mounted Easter Sunrise Services, held under the auspices of the Aztec Riders, will take place at the Aztec riding ring in Alvarado Canyon, La Mesa, starting at 0521 Easter Sunday. Conducting the services will be the Rev. R. G. Berg, and the choir of the First Baptist Church will sing. Chairman of arrangements is Jim Crosley, Shop 5121, O&R Assembly Division.

Special Services Leading Chief Receives Orders

Special Services leading Chief Eugene F. Lento, ADC, will report next week to AirPac for assignment, completing a two and one-half year of duty at NAS.

While being a member of the Special Services Division, Lento has been an important figure in the successful production of Hollywood shows that have played at the NAS theater. It has been his job to make careful preparations and accommodations for the casts of these shows. This includes arranging for quarters, meals, transportation, and being on hand to answer queries and fulfilling the many other needs which may arise when stars visit NAS.

Eugene F. Lento

In connection with his duties he has met such stars as Bob Hope, Hedy LaMarr, Jack Benny, Edgar Bergen, Horace Heidt, Frankie Laine, Marilyn Maxwell and many others.

VC-35 Airmen Take Part in SD Musical Comedy

"Show Biz" will be the off-duty occupation of VC-35 airmen Jess Burton late this spring when he becomes a featured dancer in the San Diego musical comedy, "Caught in the Act." The local production will be staged at the Balboa Park Globe Theater May 23 to June 30.

The show will include 16 skits depicting life in San Diego. Burton will have a lead in two dancing scenes in the production.

Burton, a parachute rigger in his squadron, studied dramatics and dancing in Seattle and appeared in "Song of Norway" when it was staged in that city. He was also in the cast of the recent North Island production of "Liberty Hop."

Skiers Hold Last Meeting of Season

The North Island Ski Club held its last meeting of the season Tuesday evening. Skiing at Big Bear and Snow Valley is just about over for the year and no more official parties will be going to the mountains to ski.

Skiing has just started in the Upper Mill Creek and Mamouth Mountain regions and those intrested in skiing with a group should contact Harley Gerdes, ext. 492 in barracks 706. Skiing should be good until the middle of June.

The skiing party was a great success and, except for two accidents, a good time was had by all.

Next year most of the skiers will be back and should resume meetings and ski trips in mid-November.

The Ski club has met every Tuesday for the last few months in the small auditorium in Building 8. They have made numerous trips to Big Bear and Snow Valley on weekends for skiing and have members from both military and civilian personnel at North Island.

NAS Volleyballers Are Runners-Up in 11ND Tournament

The Naval Air Skyraider varsity volleyball squad brought back a runner-up trophy from the 11th Naval District Volleyball Championships held last Friday at Los Alamitos. The Skyraiders, in a double elimination tournament, defeated Point Mugu 15-1, 15-3, and added two more wins to their list by defeating Miramar 15-6 and 15-8.

The Airmen were defeated by the formidable Los Alamitos team in their first two games, 15-8 and 15-12, and returned to take two more lashings from the powerful Reserve Air Station.

Tuesday night the volleyball squad will enter the city tournament to be held at the City Gym in Balboa.

About Books

Badmen, Bug-Eyed Monsters Added to Library Book Menu

The station library (topside, Bldg. 91) has received new additions to its stock of literature on "bems" (bug-eyed monsters), interplanetary travel, and weird goings-on outside of space and time. Four new books—one novel and three anthologies—should keep the science fiction addicts satisfied for a few evenings at least.

Imagination Unlimited, edited by Everett F. Bleiler and T. E. Dikty, is an anthology of 13 stories. Each story is based on a different branch of the sciences—philosophy, chemistry, physics, etc.—thus providing for every taste of the imagination.

Science Fiction Omnibus, compiled by the same editors, presents what these men consider the best of science fiction stories in 1949-50.

Ship of Destiny, by Henry J. Slater, concerns itself with a Transatlantic ocean liner hit by a storm which proves to be rather extraordinary as well as severe. Something is thrown out of gear in the cosmos and when the storm subsides the passengers and crew find themselves cruising to nowhere in particular—the world has dissolved and they are floating in a void. Naturally such a situation presents some problems.

Galaxy Reader of Science Fiction, edited by H. L. Gold, presents selections from the popular science fiction magazine, contains 25 stories and five novelettes.

The story goes that a little girl was informed by her parents that they were moving to Kansas. That night as she said her prayers she was quoted as saying, "Goodbye God. We're going to Kansas." The girl's prayer probably made some sense if she were going to Dodge City. According to Stanley Vestal, author of Queen of the Cowtowns—Dodge City, that town between the years of 1872-86 was the meanest, dirtiest, wickedest, and most Godless little city in America. It was there that a cowboy could break all ten commandments in one day, die with his boots on, and be buried on Boot Hill the next morning.

The author gives us a vivid narrative of this brawling, bloody crossroads on the high plains where the cowpoke, the buffalo hunter, and the railroad worker met, often to shoot it out. Brought to life, accurately and picturesquely, are the colorful gun-toting figures of the time, that, incidentally, have often been misrepresented in the movies—Wyatt Earp, Bat Masterson, Doc Holliday and Luke Short.

Gardeners' Troubleshooter, by Victor H. Ries. This book is a handy summary of information the successful gardener should know. Well indexed and simply written, the book particularly emphasizes the chemistry of soils as a key to making that backyard plot yield as it should. Common garden pests and diseases are described and methods of combating them are recommended.

PacFlt Boxing Winners Arrive Here to Train

The winners of the Pacific Fleet Boxing Tournament arrived at North Island Wednesday for two weeks intensive training for the forthcoming All-Navy fights which start April 24.

The finalists will train under the able guidance of the Amphibious Base boxing coach and the Skyraider coach, John Goudy.

NACRA BOWLING

When the NACRA Sweepstakes were bowled last week, Lee Stone and Jack Lowen tied for top honors. Tuesday night at Pacific Recreation, the tie was bowled for high three game score. Stone bowled 168, 183 and 225 for a total of 576, taking first place over Lowen who bowled 182, 161 and 138 for a 481 total.

Cleo Simmons took women's high scoring with 623.

Winter Bowling

The Jiggers, number one team of the 800 Scratch League have taken the undisputed lead of the winter league, as the season draws to an end. The Jiggers hold a 60 win against a 27 loss record to keep them one game ahead of second place Timbermen with a 59 win and 28 loss record.

Tonight at Pacific Recreation, the bowling season for the 800 Scratch League closes, as the Jiggers bowl against tenth place Rejectors, while the Timbermen bowl fourth place Top Five.

MGM's glamorous Sally Forrest is reason enough for going to the beach if the rainy season ever ends. Come to think of it, who wouldn't go to the beach, rain or snow, to see Miss Forrest?

Airmen Defeat Marines, Face Beasley's Monday

Nothing can stop the Skyraider softball team, not even rain! Tuesday night at Mainside diamond, the Naval Airmen knocked off the Marine Detachment of the Amphibious Training Unit, 6-0.

Pitching with a wet ball, Bob Fesler continued to strike out 22 men during the game, and walking two, only because the horsehide got a little too wet to handle.

Fesler not only led the Skymen to victory on the mound, but helped their attack along by knocking a home run far over the left fielder's head. Skyraiders had 6 runs, 6 hits and one error, while the Marines scored no runs, no hits and four errors.

Monday, at 1900, the Skyraiders will come up against some of their toughest opposition, again for the second time. The varsity softball squad will face Beasley's on the Mainside diamond. The two teams faced each other a mere two weeks ago, the Skyraiders ending up with a close 1-0 victory.

Skyraiders will play DeSure's Thursday night at 1930 at Mainside Diamond.

NAGA NEWS

L. T. Pierpont won this month's "ACE" tournament at the Rancho Santa Fe Golf Course, with a low net of 72. Walt Axcell won the second low net trophy also with a 72. C. F. Bartlett won low gross trophy with 74.

The next monthly "ACE" tournament will be held at the Circle R golf course on 7 May. Tee-off as soon as each contender arrives. Green fees are $1.00.

All golfers having room for riders, or needing riders, can leave their names at the golf range.

For team standings and latest information on golf courses, please consult the bulletin board at the NAS Golf Driving Range.

Hayes Looms As Darkhorse For Light-Heavy Crown

Nearly half of the Skyraider boxing squad was entered in the Pacific Fleet boxing finals last Friday night at the San Diego Coliseum. Out of the five fighters entered in the tournament, two are now Pacific Fleet Champs—"Darkhorse" Danny Hayes, and Kirby Seals, who won because of a lack of opposition.

The other three ring gladiators, Dale Kite, Don Malvezzi, and Howard Prestwood met with defeat at the hands of more powerful opponents combined with some prominent hinderances on the part of the Skyraiders.

Kite started out the Skyraider's downfall with a loss to Tony Rios of the USS TOLEDO, in a slugfest that is seldom seen in the bantamweight bracket. Judging by the crescendo of applause given the boys, spectators enjoyed their standing-up toe-to-toe slugging. In this case the hinderance referred to earlier, was Kite's lack of stamina. The second round found him noticeably tired; the third was even worse. His weariness lost him the fight, and a chance at the Pacific Fleet title.

BRINSON DEFEATS MALVEZZI

The third bout on the card, and the Skyraiders' second loss was Don Malvezzi's defeat by Bill Brinson of PhibPac. This brawl pitted Malvezzi against a boy who has fought in every class from lightheavy to featherweight. Brinson's greater reach, plus a near knockdown in the final stanza, gave him the decision.

PRESTWOOD TKO'd IN FIRST

The third Skyraider defeat saw Howard Prestwood, fresh out of novice ranks, take a terrible lashing in the first round from Felix "The Cat" Franklin, defending welterweight titlist from 1950. Franklin, a veteran of 70 fights, had just a little too much experience for the young Skyraider welterweight, who fought his first fight only a few months back. Franklin scored a first round TKO over Prestwood.

HUGHES SUFFERS CUT EYE

In one of the best fights on the card, the Skyraiders' Eddie Hughes met with a cut eye TKO from PhibPac's formidable Nolan Davis. Hughes, who punches even with Davis, was going strong in the punch trading business until the second round when a gash was opened over his eye, forcing the referee to stop the fight.

Captain's Cup Lowdown

The Captain's Cup softball league is now in full swing, and it looks as though it's going to be a tight race all the way to the finish. Test Line and G.C.A. have fielded the most impressive teams so far with both teams having plenty of power at the plate and a capable pitching staff.

In the second night game of the year, Tuesday night April 8, B.O.Q. conquered a hard fighting Power Plant 9-8 on the Mainside diamond. B.O.Q. had to come from behind to win this thrilling contest.

Joe Kinkaid and Jim Kirchner defeated CDR H. H. Hunt and LCDR J. D. Smith for the doubles Tennis championship, but nevertheless Supply came out on top in the standings with a total of 33 points. Special Services were the runnerups with 27 points to their credit, with Metal Machine following closely with 20¾ points.

The Captain's Cup standings in this half of the year, show Special Services leading by a slim margin over Supply and Boat House, although it is a tossup as to whom will end up with the coveted Captain's Cup.

WINTER SPORTS

North Island intramural teams completed the last lap of the winter sports schedule this week, with Ready Issue clinching the bowling league. The storekeepers finished their 12-game schedule with a 12-0 record, defeating VR-5 in the final contest.

Competition in the other winter sports—volleyball, handball, and horseshoes — was completed last week. The North Island champions in the four winter sports are: Bowling, Ready Issue; Volleyball, Ready Issue; Handball, FAIRBETUPac; Horseshoes, FAIRBETUPac.

Next event on the winter sports schedule is a playoff between th NAAS Miramar champions and the league winners of ALF Ream. The winner of this tournament will meet the North Island champions on 15-20 April for the Fleet Air Detachment, San Diego, Winter Sports Championship. Trophies will be awarded winners.

A Corner on Sports

By BOB LAIBLE

Skyraider football coach Stan Williamson returned this week from a six-week tour of ComFairs in Seattle, Alameda, and the Far East. Purpose of his trip was to conduct a survey of varsity and intramural sports programs in the Far East.

In an interview with this writer, Coach Williamson stated that "the intramural sports are predominant here on the coast, but the farther west I went, I found that the varsity sports prevail. This is true especially in Guam and Japan."

During his six-week survey, he also visited ComFair Hawaii.

1952 FOOTBALL TEAM LOOKS STRONG

When we asked the coach what he thought of the prospects for the 1952 Skyraider football team, his eyes lighted up as he remarked, "we're five times as strong right now as we were in June of last year. We have a nucleus of new players who have been assigned to ComAirPac from several of the boot camps, plus a number of last year's returning veterans."

"Of course we're going to be hit hard defensively with the loss of "Toad" Hoagland, Guy Barassi, Gary Glick, Ray Verkerk and Jim Tatum, but offensively we have a complete team with the exception of Jim Haley and Don Stephenson. All our centers will be back, plus our offensive guards and ends, among these Bud Landers and Ernie Evans. Also, we're expecting Wixie Robinson back to hold down one of our defensive ends position."

MAY START TRAINING IN JULY

Coach Williamson says that the Skyraiders' "spring" training will most likely start in the summer months, probably July, in order to groom them for the pro game. The Skyraiders have been invited to play in the Navy Relief benefit game, but plans for this are still tentative. It is not yet known whether the Skyraiders will sit in on this or not.

So, it is with a bright outlook that we view the prospects for the 1952 Skyraider football team. Only time will tell, but from here, it looks like we may once more field a championship team.

NACRA Fishing News

A slight alteration has been made in the rules of the Civilian Welfare and Recreation fishing tournament which will last until 1 December, it was announced this week.

Bonita, Sculpin, Sea Trout and White Small Mouth Bass have been dropped from the list of fish eligible in the tournament, while Crappie have been added.

Also, a perpetual trophy will be given for the largest Yellowtail caught during the tournament. Another trophy for the largest Marlin caught will also be given.

Deep sea fishing must be done in the vicinity between Oceanside and Ensenada. No limitations have been made on fresh water fish.

Entry forms to the tournament can be obtained at Employee Services Office, Bldg. 415, or through your division representative.

Helicopters Play Role of Gun Spotters

Keeping in line with a realistic training program, HU-1 is currently furnishing helicopters to the Naval Gunfire Spotting School, Coronado, Calif. Each G-3 class of student officers is required to perform actual spotting missions before completion of the two weeks course. Some spotting is done for the Marine Artillery at Camp Pendleton while others spot Naval gunfire at the firing range at San Clemente Island.

Helicopter pilots flying in the forward area are often called upon to adjust the gunfire of Uncle Sam's mightiest ships, thereby bringing about neutralization or destruction of enemy targets.

contests taking place. The results of the first match between NAS-NAB and FASRONS was reported earlier (NAS-NAB won, 460-448. The results of other contests: ComUtWings & Rons defeated TransRons 453-438; FAIRBETUPac defeated CAGS 458-440; VS-VC & CAP Staff defeated FAW 14 & Rons 456-439. The weekly team high (460) was made by the NAS-NAB team in their victory over FASRONS. Weekly single shoot high was racked up by ICDR Kellet of FAIRBETUPac, who banged out a 99x10. Close on his heels was Chief Leslie, also of FAIRBETUPac, who scored 98x100.

SPRING SPORTS

All North Island Fleet Activities are reminded that it's time to make official entry into the Spring Sports Leagues. Deadline date for entering the spring sports competition—softball, golf, table tennis and tennis—is 18 April. Entries should be submitted to the Force Athletic Officer by official letter and include name, rank or rate of the OinC and team managers and their phone numbers. A meeting of all softball managers will be held at 0900 18 April in the conference room of NAS Theater, Bldg. 650. For further information on spring intramural sports, see ComFAirDet SD Notice 1710 of 4 April, or contact Chief Freeman on ext. 1484.

Hayes Looms

Now comes a victory. Danny Hayes, who may be referred to as a "dark horse," for this was only his second tournament fight this season, really came through for the Skyraiders, belting out a unanimous decision over Jerry Holman of the USS NAVASOTO. Hayes, who barely made the weight, coming up from a middle, was little weary in the third round but added points constantly to take the nod.

And last but not least, "Old Faithful" Kirby Seals came through, winning on a lack of opposition.

Their reward: a beautiful trophy with a clock mounted in the center, a crack at the All-Navy, and maybe even a chance at the Olympics.

There will be NO complimentary tickets available for the All-Navy fights. Tickets can be purchased at the Federal Athletic Club, 15th and E Street, San Diego.

Ream Man Saw Italy Invasion, Now in US Navy

John Corvari, AT-2, of HS-2, Ream Field, has had the unusual experience of serving the military of two opposing countries. Corvari was born in Atlantic City, New Jersey, and at the age of three moved to his father's native land, Italy.

Shortly after arriving in Fermo, Italy he was taken into Mussolini's fascist youth movement. He attended classes 6 days a week, one day of which was set aside for military training.

John Corvari

During the closing days of World War II, to escape being taken into Hitler's retreating army, he was forced to take refuge with friends and neighbors. Little did he realize, as he watched the invasion of Italy, that some day he would be a member of those same conquering forces.

He returned to the United States in 1947 and attended night school and after mastering the English language, he received his high school diploma. He entered the Navy in 1949 and now calls his home, New Haven, Conn.

HS-2 Exec Officer Promoted to CDR

On 24 March 1952, LCDR Knapp received notification of his promotion to CDR, effective as of 1 July 1952.

CDR KNAPP began his naval career as an Aviation Cadet in October 1940.

During his three years of civilian life (1945-1948) CDR Knapp assumed the role of chief test pilot for Piasecki Helicopter Corporation gaining valuable knowledge which he will put to work as Executive Officer of HS-2.

CDR Knapp, whose home is in New York State, also holds the No. 1 Navy Helicopter Pilot's card.

Wren Is Evicted From VU-7 Plane

Take the case of the rugged little Mama Wren who laid her eggs, some five or six days ago, in her nest in the wheel well of TBM-18, a VU-7 aircraft at ALF Ream. She couldn't have picked a poorer place to try to raise her family, but of course she had no way of knowing that her nesting spot was a hard-working tow plane that has temporarily been grounded for an engine check.

Plane captain Cyril F. Kaufman, ADAN, found the nest and its two small eggs as he was giving the plane a last minute check before it was to be turned over to Operations. Not wanting to be a home-breaker, Kaufman gingerly removed the nest to a safer and warmer spot, and daily inspections are now being made to determine if the eggs are going to produce som little TBM fans.

Incidentally, Kaufman took the nesting as an omen of good luck, because he received news the same day that he had passed the Navy-wide examination and will be promoted to aviation machinst's mate third class soon.

96% of ALF Ream Personnel Give To 1952 Red Cross

With a goal of 100 percent contribution set for the 1952 Red Cross Drive in the month of March, men of ALF Ream made a very good showing. A total of 1,640 men contributed to the cause, making a total of 96 percent for Ream Field. Five units donated 100 percent, while two units made up 93 percent.

The progress of the drive was kept by LTJG A. L. Sisson, Jr., ComUtWing Personnel Officer. Each week a graph was distributed with the plan of the day showing each unit's progress in the drive and the standing of personnel based at ALF Ream.

At a meeting held by ComAirPac in February, each unit under ComAirPac was requested to give 100 percent. Ream Field went far to meet this request and receives a "WELL DONE" from CAPT R. W. D. Woods.

PLANE CAPTAIN Charles F. Kaufman, AL3, points out to LCDR B. M. Holder, Executive Officer of VU-7, the spot in the Wheel Well where he extracted the wren nest and its contents of two small eggs.

HS-2 Takes Second Handball Trophy

HS-2 annexed its second trophy of the current station playoffs by defeating HU-1 in the finals for the Handball championship. Friday, April 4, in a hard fought game, HS-2 defeated VU-7 in the semi-finals and went on to take the finals on Monday of this week. For the champs the winning combination was Tilley, Wild and Haro.

In the past week HS-2 continued their winning ways ,and were victorious over VU-7 in softball and tennis. The newly formed softball and tennis league playoffs will continue throughout June.

VU-3 Classes Prepare Men For Rate Advances

One of the most interesting projects that VU-3 is undertaking is the subject of Military Lectures. "The main purpose of these lectures," says C.A. Crouse ADC, "is to cover all phases of Military subjects for advancement in rating." Chief Crouse is conducting these classes and is assisted by Bill Estes and Gene Sorenson, all from Utility Squadron Three's Information and Education Office.

VU-3 is made up of 12 sections and the classes are scheduled so that no more than one-twelfth of the men are in class at one time or since there are two classes a day, there are never more than one-sixth of the Squadron in class a day.

Military Lecture times amount to 9,300 man hours of time a month, which does not include the professional training amounting to two hours a day given by each department pertaining to their rate. This is worked out so that these classes do not interfere with work or recreation.

Over the year and six months that this program has been in effect, Chief Crouse has found that the ideal class is not over 23 men and that visual training aids seemed to be the best source of getting across the information.

ALL THE BOOKS YOU NEED

VU-3K Information and Education Office has the distinction of having every book that the Navy publishes for the advancement in rating. Every man in the squadron has access to these books and should take advantage of the opportunity.

VU-3 Takes Ream's Volleyball Title

VU-3K won the Intra-Squadron Volleyball championship of ALF Ream Field by defeating VU-7, by the scores of, 15-11, 4-15, 15-7.

Monday, April 14, VU-3 travels to Miramar to meet FASRON 701 for a playoff match to decide the winner who will trek to the Com Fair San Diego Championship at North Island. Congratulations to Bill Estes, "Tarheel" Eldridge, Bill English, R. E. Warner, B. Averill and LT Snellman for sterling performances this past season.

5th Annual Mullinnix Skeet Shoot this Week

Tomorrow and Sunday, the NAS Skeet Range will be the site of the Fifth Annual Mullinnix Skeet Shoot. The meet will start at 0900 each day, continuing until each event has been completed.

Named after the late Admiral Henry Mullinnix, the shoot is expected to draw over 125 of California and Arizona's top shooters, including Charlie Rapp, defending over-all champion of last year's Mullinnix shoot.

There will be four events on Saturday and two on Sunday. Ninety beautiful trophies have been selected for winners, and medals for members of the winning team.

Military teams will be entered representing Camp Pendleton, El Toro, Barstow, and Inyokern, plus the two teams from North Island.

The shoot which has been previously co-sponsored by the California Indians and the North Island Gun Club will be sponsored this year solely by the North Island Club.

Personnel of the Ordnance Division have been making preparation to accommodate the shooters and spectators, such as painting and cleaning up the area. They will also furnish over 30 men to operate the traps, and two chiefs to act as safety personnel, in addition to ordering food for the luncheon furnished to shooters and their guests.

"Skeeter" W. W. Eddington, ADC

The event is open to all shooters in the area, and will be open to the public at no cost.

TWO GALS AND TWO GOBS all ready and waiting for the "April Showers" which hit Naval Air tomorrow evening are (left to right) Marilyn Walker, hostess from the Volunteer Bureau in San Diego; Robert Jackson, JO3 and Duane Roberts, PNSN, both of the Naval Air Station Public Information Office; and Marion Stromie, also of the Volunteer Bureau. "April Showers," the spring dance for Naval Air Station personnel, will take place tomorrow from 2100 until 0100 in the NAS Mainside gym. Among the many features of the event are dance contests, music by Ike Carpenter's orchestra, refreshments, and hundreds of beautiful girls from San Diego's Volunteer Bureau.

Will Poll United Fund Plan In April 23 Civilian Elections

It has been proposed that a United Fund Drive be formed for the purpose of combining into one annual campaign the numerous fund-raising efforts of local, State and national welfare and health organizations which provide services in this area. The object of a United Fund would be to reduce duplication of effort and expense caused by separate solicitations, and also to provide top planning and leadership for such a unified campaign.

It is proposed that the United Fund Campaign be directed by a Station Committee working directly with representatives from all participating agencies.

Plans similar in character have been successfully initiated at a number of other stations as well as several cities. It has been proved that more money has been collected in a combined drive than all other drives totaling, in some instances as much as 75% more.

Distribution of the collected funds to various agencies will be made on a percentage basis still to be worked out, however, particular activities may be designated by the donor.

Tentative plans indicate that the donation may be spread over 4 to 6 paydays and that receipts suitable for income tax purposes will be issued.

During the forthcoming Civilian Welfare and Recreation, and Shop Committee elections, Wednesday, April 23, a poll will be taken of all civilian employees. It will be appreciated if each employee will signify his desire for having one combined United Fund Drive or continue under the present system of individual drives for each charity.

Action in May Probable on Pay, Korean Vet Bills

Two bills of vital importance to servicemen—the Armed Forces Pay Bill and the Korean-Vet Bill—will probably have to wait until May for any concrete congressional action.

The pay bill, passed recently by the Senate, is now awaiting the action of a joint conference committee that must reach a compromise version of the bill acceptable to both houses.

The joint conference will not be scheduled until some time

E-4, E-5, E-6 Ratings Effective This Week

New chevrons were quite stylish around Naval Air this week as station personnel who advanced in ratings joined with other men throughout the Navy in adding the "dash of red" to the left sleeve.

Wednesday was the big day the new ratings went into effect and cigars accompanied by boxes of candy were the order of the day.

According to Don Warf, NAS Navy Exchange store manager, cigar sales for last Wednesday alone exceeded the total sales for the previous two weeks combined. More than 300 boxes were sold which Mr. Warf believes to be a record for this station's Navy Exchange store.

Naval Air Station ship's company and the units based combined boasted well over a thousand advancements. Listed below are the unofficial tabulations of the number of men who advanced, released

Announce New Open Hours For NAS Hobby Shop

New open hours for the NAS Hobby Shop were announced this week by leading Chief C. C. Sanders. Hobbyists may use the facilities from 1500 to 2200 Tuesdays through Fridays and from 1000 to 1700 on Saturdays.

The Hobby Shop will be closed on Sundays, Mondays and holidays. Assistant Chief-in-charge A. J. Menzel, says the ceramic room has been moved and enlarged to provide more space.

Everything has been painted and plans are underway for adding more darkroom facilities.

Completed Wage Data Forwarded

Data collected during the San Diego-Oceanside area wage survey was reviewed at the final meeting of the Area Wage Survey Committee, held Friday, April 11, and was forwarded to the Navy Department via the Area Wage and Classification Office, Long Beach.

NAS was represented at the meeting by Robert S. Putnam, Civilian Industrial Relations Administrator, and George Haywood, Planner and Estimator, Overhaul and Repair Department, who attended as the Air Station's Observer.

NAS employees are assured that the Station will advise them as soon as results of the survey are announced by the Navy Department.

VA Says No More Receipts For Premiums

Veterans Administration has announced that it will discontinue sending receipts for insurance premiums becoming due on and after August 1, 1952, according to word received from the VA Information Service early this week.

Notices concerning the discontinuance, which, VA pointed out, would in no way affect service to policyholders, will be mailed to all policyholders of U. S. Government Life Insurance and National Service Life Insurance—the two groups affected.

A preliminary estimate of the savings likely to accure to the Government as a whole from this economy measure is approximately $1,000,000 annually.

Policyholders who wish to maintain a record of their premium payments are advised by VA to make payments by check or postal money order and to keep the cancelled checks or postal money order stubs as evidence of such payments.

VA said that it will continue to maintain the official record of premium payments for the protection of policyholders.

Prayer, Like Radium, Is Self-Generating

Dr. Alexis Carrel, a foremost scientist, stated several years ago that "The most powerful form of energy one can generate is prayer. Prayer—like radium—is a luminous and self-generating form of energy." What this man is saying is that the greatest power in all the world can be released through our lives and through the lives of all believers who practice the reality of prayer.

"Prayer is instinctive with men. It is not unique to Christians. Men everywhere pray. As incense rises from the altars, so he's never more Godlike than when he prays. Never do we reach higher heights of Christian living than when our lives are low at the foot of the Master in prayer. After all, everything that we do could come easily under one of three categories—work, thought, prayer.

Some of us work with our hands. Some of you are engaged in work which utilizes your minds. And then here's this third area, the area of the spirit, where all of us can work. Here is prayer—something just as real, just as vital as the other two. Yet here is a realm that is foreign not only to non-Christians but also to hundreds and thousands of people who call themselves Christians but to whom prayer is not real. God has given us hands to work with, minds with which we can think, and souls through which we can commune with God and become familiar with this realm of the spirit. How tragic it is that we do not pray."

THIS WEEK

On the Island And Ashore

This week's entertainment at the Naval Air Station and in San Diego gets under way tomorrow night with the gala "April Showers" dance to be held in the NAS Mainside gymnasium. Hours for the big event are 2100 until 0100.

Also tomorrow, San Diego offers a Judo Exhibition at the Armed Forces "Y", square dancing at the Recital Hal, Balboa Park, and a tour of La Jolla Gardens which leaves the Saint James By-the-Sea Church at 1100. The 26th Annual Coronado Flower Show will be held tomorrow also in e East Plaza Park in Coronado.

Tomorrow is the first of the two-day showing of more than 50,000 rose buds and blooms at the Silver Anniversary of the Spring Rose Show at Balboa's Recital Hall. Admission is $1.25.

San Diegans will have the opportunity of witnessing the finals of the Annual Ink Tournament in the Balboa Park courts tomorrow.

The semi-finals and finals of the San Diego Badminton Tournament will be held Wednesday and Thursday, April 23 and 24, in the Balboa Park gymnasium. Many of the outstanding contestants in the matches will be FairBetuPac and AirPac personnel from this station.

The much-heralded All-Navy Boxing Championships will get under way Thursday, April 24, at the Coliseum, 15th and E Streets in San Diego. The 16 bouts will be between only regional champs who are vying for the All-Navy crown. Friday, April 25, has been designated "Kirby Seals and ComAirPac Night." (See sports page for further information.)

IN 1920 a new era of naval aviation began when the collier JUPITER was converted to an aircraft carrier and became known as the USS LANGLEY. The LANGLEY was a familiar sight at North Island during the years it operated as a fleet carrier. The scene above shows the CV-1 tied up at an NAS pier. A VE-7 type aircraft is pictured taking off from the carrier's deck. The LANGLEY in 1937 was converted to a seaplane tender, and in 1942 met its end at the hands of enemy aircraft in the south Pacific.

This Week's News

at a glance

The Missouri valley flood moved south into Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas after bringing extensive damage to South Dakota cities. The raging waters, the worst in history, drove 25,000 families from their homes in the area. Thousands of citizens of Omaha, Nebraska, and Council Bluffs, Iowa, were engaged in defense of their communities to repel the "Mighty Mo." Eight thousand people are working to bolster 23 miles of levees that protect their cities. As of yesterday, their efforts were holding off the raging waters. The crest is due tonight.

The upper Mississippi waters were also on a rampage. St. Paul, Minn., reported a crest two and one-half feet higher than an 1881 record.

Now that GEN Dwight D. Eisenhower has indicated his intention of returning to the United States in June, the question is, who will succeed him in the NATO command? Most frequently mentioned names for the position are GEN Matthew B. Ridgway, UN commander in the Far East, and GEN Alfred M. Greunther, GEN Eisenhower's chief of staff.

The talks at Panmunjon the past week were marked more by their brevity than their agreement. Most of the talks lasted anywhere from 15 seconds to two and one-half minutes. The Communists have now asked that the UN resume the discussion of the prisoner repatriation problem. Despite the apparent lack of progress in the talks, some observers predict that May will see agreement reached on an armistice.

How to make $10,000 a minute was aptly shown by Sugar Ray Robinson in a title bout with Rocky Graziano last Wednesday. Robinson, floored by his opponent, quickly regained command of the ring and knocked our Graziano in 1:53 seconds of the third round. In successfully retaining his middleweight title, Sugar Ray cleared better than $80,000.

Consumers of canned fruit worms and dinosaur skeletons may soon find prices rising, as a result of the Office of Price Stabilization's recent action decontrolling prices on these items.

Among other durables similarly decontrolled were sundials, canned rattlesnake meat and stuffed elephants.

Cancer Drive Aids Research And Prevention

The month of April has been designated by the American Cancer Society as "Fight Cancer" month.

A brief resume of some of the more pertinent facts concerning this disease will tend to make you realize that Cancer is not a disease of "the other guy." It is just as lial le to strike you as the next person.

There are about 20 million living veterans of all wars, and approximately four million of them will have cancer. Some of the present and future veterans will be cured, but half of those who die could have been saved if they had recognized a cancer danger signal soon enough.

Some of those symptoms which usually don't, but sometimes do mean cancer, are: Any sore that doesn't heal, a painless lump or thickening; progressive change in the color or size of a wart, mole or birthmark; persistent indigestion, and persistent hoarseness, unexplained cough, or difficulty in swallowing.

It is folly not to go to a physician, because only when caught in early stages is there bright hope for cure.

The dollar given the Cancer Crusade is divided into three parts. Research gets 25 percent of the money. Research laboratories which qualify are backed with money give by the public. Cancer control by re rch and education get the major part of the dollar, but another division is made and those who already have the disease benefit by this percent.

The people who are being helped in one way or another by Cancer Crusade are not strangers. They are near you, because in time cancer will strike every other family.

NAS Blood Account Is Back to Normal

Weekly donation days for the NAS Civilian Blood Account, held on successive Wednesdays this month to replenish an existing deficit, were tentatively ended with last Wednesday's donations. At that time the account went back over to the credit side.

However, another heavy withdrawal such as that occurring in March, when 150 credits were consumed, could easily deplete the stock on hand. To insure against any future shortage, IRD has decided to establish a standby list of potential donors who will volunteer blood when more donations are needed. Civilian employees desiring to participate in the program are urged to notify their supervisors of their availability for the purpose.

Volunteers for the April 16 donation were:

Questions and Answers From the VA

QUESTION: I bought a house with a GI loan, and I now find I'm to re-enter military service. Do I have any protection against foreclosure, just in case I can't meet my payments while in service?

ANSWER: Yes, under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, you and the lender may agree to reduce the loan payments during your military service and for 90 days thereafter. Provided, of course, you're unable to make the full payments because of being in uniform.

QUESTION: I interrupted my GI Bill schooling to go back into military service. I expect to be discharged soon, and I want to know when I have to resume school again.

ANSWER: You must resume your GI Bill studies within a reasonable period after your separation from service. The length of this period will depend on the circumstances of your particular case. Factors considered are availability of training, family conditions and the like.

QUESTION: I need an automobile to travel to and from work, since there are no public means of transportation available. May I get a GI business loan for the car?

ANSWER: No. GI loans for automobiles may be approved only when necessary for the veteran in conducting his ow business or in fulfilling the requirements of his job. The use of a car to travel to and from work does not qualify a veteran for a GI auto loan.

after the House reconvenes at the end of its Easter recess. House members are expected to return for business on April 21.

The K-Vet Bill, now carefully being drafted by members of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, also will not be ready until after the Easter recess. The finished version will then be put before the House.

There is little likelihood that a final version of either bill will be passed in April, but observers pin their hopes on May for final passage of both bills.

With political convention time fast approaching, it appears that Congress may begin to put on pressure for passage of important pending legislation sometime before the end of May.

Navy Tests Arctic Water 10,000 Feet Below Surface

A study of Arctic Ocean water to a depth of 10,000 feet has been carried out by the Office of Naval Research, William V. Kielhorn, civilian scientist, has announced.

Water immediately below the ice is minus—30 degrees. Its temperature stays the same for several hundred feet, then rises to a point just above freezing. This layer is 2,000 feet thick. Below it the water again becomes colder, Mr. Kielhorn said.

Flower Show To Be Held Day Earlier

Change of date for this month's Transportation Department Flower Show was announced this week by Mrs. Sally Rice of the flower show committee. The competition will take place next Thursday, April 24, instead of the following day. In the past the Department has held the event on the last Friday of each month. The time alteration was made because of the final Friday's heavy work load.

Advance reports indicate that roses will be predominant among April entries and regular transportation department competitors are nurturing their prize buds in preparation for the judging.

All interested NAS personnel are invited to view next week's show in Building 314.

Announce Red Cross Assistance in Future Prisoners' Exchange

Advance preparation for Red Cross assistance in the eventual exchange of prisoners of war was announced by the American Red Cross.

As soon as the truce negotiators give the signal, the American Red Cross is prepared to give service to the American prisoners of war held in Northern Korea. Thousands of standard and invalid food parcels will be rushed to prisoner of war camps from stocks warehoused in Yokohama.

Each exchanged prisoner will be able to send a 50-word cable to his family at Red Cross expense. All other traditional Red Cross personnel and welfare services will be provided to prisoners of war and their families.

NAS Anglers Plan Rod and Reel Club

Organization of an NAS angling club "for fun and recreation and the development of good sportsmen" is announced by Mr. John Gizo, O&R Electronics Shop Painter, acting president.

To be known as The Federal Employees Rod and Reel Club, the group is being formed to give those civil service personnel and members of their families who only fish a few times each year a chance to visit nearby lakes and streams and catch fish more often.

Both novices and seasoned anglers are invited to attend the club's first general meeting, scheduled for 1930, Friday, April 25, at Mr. Gizo's home, 5780 Division St., San Diego. At that time a constitution will be drafted, and election set for permanent officers and committe members, and arrangements made to obtain a hall for future meetings.

RETURNING VETERANS GET FEDERAL BENEFITS

More liberal benefits to certain former Federal employees returning from military service or employees transferring to other agencies are provided by revised regulations just issued, the Civil Service Commission has announced.

The revisions that affect employees who transfer are in accord with the Whitten Amendment and with the Commission's policy of encouraging the transfer of Federal employees from non-defense to defense activities.

The regulations became effective February 11, 1952, except that any agency, at its option might have elected to operate under them before that date. The regulations appeared in the Federal Register of January 11, 1952.

The principal features of the revised regulations are the following:

1. Former indefinite employees who were separated to go into the military service can be appointed in any agency without competitive examination within 90 days of their honorable discharge from military service. Before, such employees generally had to compete in examinations before they could be reappointed.

2. Employees who move from one agency to another while they are serving their probationary or trial period are allowed to complete this period in the new agency. Before, they generally had to start a new 1-year trial period unless they had completed a probationary period during some earlier period of service.

Q. I HAVE A QUESTION ON THE ABOVE INFORMATION, WHERE DO I WRITE FOR AN ANSWER?

VP-46 Back from Korea With Salisbury Sound

After almost nine months of duty in the Far East, the seaplane tender USS SALISBURY SOUND and Patrol Squadron FORTY SIX returned last Wednesday.

Commanded by CAPT. S. C. Strong, this is the tender's second tour of duty in Korean waters. She returned from the first cruise on March 31, 1951, and in August departed for the area once again.

Refueling and repairing Navy seaplane patrol bombers was the primary task of the SALISBURY SOUND. She operated from the Pescadores Islands, Formosa, Iwakuni, Japan and Buckner Bay.

The planes from Patrol Squadron 46, which is commanded by CDR R. L. Donley, and which were serviced by the tender, flew "shipping surveillance" missions in order to keep a watchful eye on all ship movements in the Yellow Sea. At times, they flew as far South as Shanghai.

The squadron also carried out routine anti-submarine patrols off the coastal waters of China and surrounding waters of Japan. The large "Mariners" were also called upon to carry out "weather patrols," so reports could be made for daily operating fighter aircraft which offered close ground support.

Just Like Mother Used to Bake, But On a Bigger Scale

By Van Hedges

That automatic mixer you proudly gave the Missus last Christmas might look a little out of place at the Commissary Division's Bake Shop, located in Building 317. The giant-sized bread and pastry mixers there are strictly for large-scale production, and the Shop's two ovens are built on a scale to match.

Every day—all day—during three shifts, the Bake Shop's 25 men-in-white turn out pies, cakes, cookies, rolls and bread. These may take the form of bear claws, apple pies, corn bread, chocolate cake, jelly rolls, rye bread or a variety of other fresh-from-the-oven items.

The Shop, in charge of J. E. Pearce, CSC, produces approximately 800 loaves of bread at a time. Or, if the menu calls for pie, some 600 at one order pass through the special 10-shelf revolving oven, used exclusively for pastry baking. The baking time for an apple pie here, incidentally, is 42 minutes at 400 degrees.

While the pastry oven revolves, the bread oven travels. That is, its 25 moving shelves go up, around and down, over and over again, to assure even baking. There's also quite a process involved before the first whiff of that delicious, fresh-baked aroma emerges from Building 317.

After its session in the mixer, the dough goes into a fermenting room for one hour and 20 minutes; then, in turn, it is punched, divided, overhead-proofed, molded and once again proofed before entering the oven. After baking, it's allowed to "set" for about 24 hours. If you tried to butter it right from the oven, you might end up with a cut finger.

What happens to the bread that isn't used? Pass the pudding, friend, and find out for yourself.

eral employees and members of their immediate families, both male and female. Those under 16 years of age will enjoy all club facilities and privileges free of dues. For others, dues will be $3.00 a year for a limited period, and persons joining in the near future will become charter members, to be decided by vote.

Other objectives of the club, also subject to approval by members, include: improvement of fishing condition in general—(stocking of streams and lakes; building of check dams and beaver ponds; conservation of coastal game fish); advocation of a more equitable distribution of funds derived from fishing license fees paid to the State; clarification of State fishing laws; and development of picnic and recreation spots in this area.

Successful growth of the Rod and Reel Club at NAS may lead to an invitation to members of other Federal installations in the San Diego area to join.

Anyone desiring further information prior to the April 25 meeting is invited to contact one of the following:

THESE GIANT TABULATORS are part of the equipment to be found in the commodious new quarters of S&F's Machine Records Division, recently established on the second floor of Building 334. Also located there now are the Civilian Payroll Section and the Costs and Reports Section. These three activities were formerly in Building 654.

* * * * * *

S & F Department Coordinates Activities in Building 334

Consolidation of all major Supply and Fiscal administrative functions in a single location was realized this week as finishing touches were given new offices on the remodeled second floor of Building 334. Joining S&F headquarters components already in the building are Fiscal Division's Costs and Reports Section, Civilian Payroll Section, and Machine Records Division. These units were formerly located in Building 654.

Primary objective behind the integration was to establish a closer coordination, especially in personnel administration, between interrelated Supply and Fiscal division activities.

Scientifically lighted, soundproofed work areas throughout the refurnished second floor assure maximum efficiency, and the proximity of previously separated activities is already proving a tremendous time-saver. Also in the process of receiving a complete face-lift is the Department's lunch room.

The Procurement Section, formerly on the second floor, has moved to the mezzanine, and the Fleet Aviation Accounting Office, temporarily removed to the first floor, will shortly be established in another building.

The S&F consolidation was begun early last month, and its rapid accomplishment has been due not only to the exceptional cooperation of the Public Works Department, but to the enthusiastic direction of CAPT C. M. Boundy, Supply and Fiscal Officer, as well.

Sewing Hobby Pays Off In Savings, Pin Money

A stitch in time may save nine, but what's more important, it also saves a substantial part of the funds marked for clothing in the average family budget. Proof of this slightly-altered adage is provided by Mrs. Allidean E. Payne, O&R Accessories and Ordnance Division Shop Learner, who not only makes all the clothes worn by herself and her six-year-old son, but supplies her husband with the shirts and jackets he wears.

Mrs. Payne has been turning out professionally finished wearing apparel ever since completing a dress for herself at the age of eleven. While most of her skill comes naturally, she admits learning quite a few shirt-making tricks of the trade while working for a Fort Worth tailor shop whose specialty was Western-style shirts. Three years previous employment in a tailor shop in her native Seattle also gained her a professional know-how that many a housewife would envy.

When Mrs. Payne buys material to make a shirt for her husband, she always gets an extra half-yard and turns out an identical shirt for her youngster. She follows the same procedure when making wool sport shirts or corduroy jackets for her two men folk, and the matching father and son outfits create an interesting sartorial note.

At the present time, Mrs. Payne's sewing ability is proving more than just a relaxing hobby. Besides the money she saves by providing clothes for herself, Mr. Payne, and young Michael, she supplements the family income by making an occasional hand-tailored suit, dress or sport shirt on order for friends.

GIRL ON A PUTT-PUTT is Mrs. Louanna Rose, O&R Department messenger, enroute here to one of the delivery stops she'll make on her hourly outside run.

THE MAIL GOES THROUGH the window at an O&R Shop along the way. John J. Foran, Dispatcher, receives the last delivery of the day from Messenger Rose.

Scooters Provide Lifeline Between O&R Shops, Units

The shortest distance between two points isn't necessarily a straight line, especially when the route you travel has nearly 35 stops along the way. At least that's the opinion of Mrs. Louanna Rose, who covers Overhaul and Repair Department's outside mail delivery routes on a motor scooter several times each day.

Alternating with four other messengers, Louanna services approximately 375 O&R Division offices, branches and units, delivering work orders, blueprints and specifications, dispatches, publications, work schedules and general correspondence. Classified matter is handled by authorized messengers.

Central mail unit for O&R activities is located in Building 94, and operates under the supervision of Mrs. Helen Quady of the Administrative Section. Here the Department's mail is sorted and cased and made up for one of the three regular outside routes or the single inside run. Inter-unit mail is also picked up and exchanged by messengers enroute, saving time by eliminating the necessity for handling it at the central unit.

Each of the O&R messengers is assigned to a different route every week, and is also required to handle the job at the mail desk. In this manner, all of them become thoroughly familiar with all stops —new and old—on the mail run, as well as with sorting and casing procedures.

According to Mrs. Rose, the average O&R run takes from 30 to 45 minutes to complete, depending upon the volume of mail to be picked up and delivered. Like all NAS vehicle drivers, Mrs. Rose had to pass rigid Station qualification tests to obtain her permit. The scooters are assigned to O&R as they are to other Station activities which maintain mail delivery units, by Transportation Department, where they are also serviced.

O&R messengers, both men and women, are required to hold veteran status. Mrs. Rose, whose husband is in the Navy and stationed at FAIRBETUPac here, served in the WAVES during World War II as an Aviation Instrument Mechanic.

DON WARF, HEAD SPORTSMAN in the Navy Exchange Store, tells D. J. Blaser, SA, that just one more item would make his summer a sportsman's dream.

Navy Exchange Provides A Sportsman's Paradise

By Bill Feeney

Every year about this time, most red-blooded men get the "sporting urge." That term, "sporting urge," means a million different things to each man who finds his pleasure in a different way.

To the fisherman, it means buying tackle and getting out in the sun with an inborn anticipation of the record catch to come. Although he may not catch a fish all season, it is very difficult to convince him that he is fighting a lost cause.

The hunter, a well equipped, sun-tanned man, with the eye of a hawk and the patience of Job, will defy any mortal to convince him that there is any greater sport than tracking the wily animal to its lair. To this sportsman, there is no greater pleasure than exposing himself to the tortures of the insect laden back-country for a possible shot at his quarry.

The golfer, to his friends, the "tee-chopper," is a man that neither rain, or sleet, nor a wintery gale can keep from his favorite pastime. This hobby, which takes most of his spare time, is simply made up of hitting a small white ball toward a sunken recess in the grass. It is needless to say that more often than not the ball ends up in the undesirable areas of the course. Sandtraps, water holes, trees, etc.

We have not hit on all sports, but it is a rare occasion when a man won't hold up his favorite sport above all others. Regardless of the sport you particularly desire, Don Warf, The Navy Exchange's top sportsman, can assure you a complete line of equipment.

For the fisherman, he has all the name brands in rods, reels, hooks, sinkers, and other miscellaneous gear.

For the hunter, who desires a complete assortment of guns, ammunition and sights, the sporting section of the Navy Exchange Store is the place to go. Most guns from .22 cal. to 30-06, and shotguns are available, and ammunition for them is easily attained.

For the golfer, tennis player, swimmer, or any other popular sportsman, a complete line of necessities and accessories are available and it is known that there is a substantial saving on any item.

In case you don't see what you want in the store, Don Warf sent along this message:

"If there is anything in the sporting line that you need, and don't see in our store, ask me about it. The chances are that I can get it for you—and quick."

craft also provided close aid support for friendly ground troops.

"By the alertness and vigor of his command throughout this period," the DSM citation states, "the enemy's breakthrough was halted in May and their subsequent second spring offensive was utterly defeated."

Rear Admiral Henderson trained as a Naval Reserve aviator in World War I before transferring to the Regular Navy in 1922. In World War II, he was executive officer of the aircraft carrier USS HORNET which served as the base for Lieutenant General James Doolittle's famous Tokyo raid.

Later he had command of the USS PRINCETON, and subsequently served as Commander, Fleet Air Wing One and Escort Carrier Division 25. As captain of the PRINCETON he directed air attacks against the Buka-Bonis area, Bougainville, and the Solomons and Rabaul in 1943. In the latter commands, he was cited for leading his carrier division against strongly defended enemy forces in the Philippines.

SATURDAY, April 19—THIS WOMAN IS DANGEROUS, starring Joan Crawford and Dennis Morgan. Joan Crawford, the sweetheart of gangster David Bryan, has tried to persuade him to quit the rackets and go straight. She is unsuccessful and when she discovers she is going blind, she engages the "eye specialist" Dennis Morgan. In the ensuing weeks of convalescence, she and Morgan fall in love, and Bryan finding out about this, plans to kill the doctor. The climax comes in the hospital when police kill Byran in his attempt.

'The Drunkard' to Be Presented April 25 By Legion Post 552

Leaving the Pacific Beach Post 552 of the American Legion, for a two-night run, the New Pickwick Players will present that old melodrama, "The Drunkard," at La Mesa on Friday and Sunday, April 25 and 27, at 2015.

Cast for this play has been selected from the La Jolla Pickwick Players, who have donated their services and it will star our own Mel Thornton of Bldg. 90.

Complete proceeds from the performance Friday will be donated to the American Legion County Council of San Diego for child welfare and rehabilitation work.

ONLY THE CORE will be left in his Adam's apple when the villain of "The Drunkard" gets his just desserts from hero Mel Thornton (at right), popular NAS civilian. The play will be performed next week in La Mesa.

FASRon 691 Pilot Receives DFC and Air Medal Here

LTJG Alwyn L. Fox, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal in ceremonies aboard NAS last week.

The Distinguished Flying Cross was for "extraordinary achievement" on Dec. 4, 1951, when, leading a group of three F4U Corsair fighter planes, he flew in close support of the Second Army in Korea.

By repeated bombing and strafing attacks at treetop levels, he assisted the ground forces in securing the now famous Heartbreak Ridge.

His Air Medal was ". . . for extraordinary achievement as pilot of a fighter aircraft from 28 August 1951 to 6 October 1951" during which he flew 20 missions over enemy territory. He was credited with assisting in the destruction of 50 buildings, 38 railroad cars, 17 railroad bridges, 10 highway bridges, and two gun positions, all in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire from the enemy.

Citations accompanying both awards were signed by Vice Admiral H. M. Martin, then Commander of the Navy's Seventh Fleet, and now Commander Air Force, Pacific Fleet.

LTJG Fox was then a member of Fighter Squadron 53, which operated off the aircraft carrier USS ESSEX. He is now a member of Fleet Aircraft Service Squadron 691 at San Diego.

Begin Preparing SD Fair Grounds

Operations have begun in the preparation of the grounds for the 1952 San Diego County Fair to be staged from June 27 through July 6.

Gardening crews went to work to refurbish established plantings and to beautify exteriors of the fair buildings. Painting contracts were awarded last week at the regular monthly meeting and this work will get under way immediately.

An air of unrestrained optimism prevails at the prospects for this summer's big exposition. Indications are that a substantial increase over last season's 212,000 attendance total will be reached inasmuch as the trend is upward and the San Diego area has increased in population.

Premium books, listing awards totaling more than $120,000, will soon be available to exhibitors in the fair's major departments, including agriculture, horticulture, livestock, poultry, rabbits, home economics, gem and minerals, flower show, junior fair and others.

ELECTRONS

By WINDY SPLICHAL

At a meeting in March, ANDREW J. MILLS, of the radio shop, was elected to the post of Chairman of the San Diego Regional Group of the Blinded Veterans' Association. ED CONLEY, manager of the vending stand at the ferry, was elected as Vice Chairman. A. G. GAGNON of Metal and Machine Division was elected as Secretary and Treasurer.

These officers of the Blinded Veterans' Association are planning to attend their annual convention this year in San Francisco, California, August 13 to 16. At this convention, it is reported that the San Diego Regional Group of Blinded Veterans' Association will nominate NAS as the "Employer of the Year." We will all be waiting for this big event to take place and hope to see NAS become the "Employer of the Year."

Rescue Device Sends Signals Under Ocean

A detecting device that can pick up underwater sounds 3,000 miles away is being tested by the Navy for use in search and rescue work.

Called SOFAR (sound fixing and ranging) it works on a natural sound channel deep in the ocean which may be used for transmitting audible signals over great distances.

If adopted for search and rescue work, lifeboats and aircraft will be equipped with small bombs. Dropped overboard, these bombs will sink to proper water depths and explode. Sound waves thus released will be picked up by Navy SOFAR stations and positions of the craft will be determined by triangulation.

Center of the sound channel is roughly 4,200 feet below the ocean surface. It is established by a combination of temperature and water pressure factors. The principles and equipment used in SOFAR were developed by Dr. Maurice Ewing of Columbia University, N. Y.

Softball Team Drubs Beasley's Baseball Team Touring L. A.

Aided by a home-run and a double by Gary Glick and a double by Hank Hashe, the Naval Air Skyraider varsity softball squad tripped Beasley's Monday night on the Mainside diamond 2-0. The Airmen racked up a previous win over the same team 1-0.

Ray Holcomb and Don Trueblood pitching for Beasley's gave the Skyraiders two runs, eight hits and no errors, while Bob Fesler fanned 13 men and allowed only one hit. Red Davidson was the lone hitter for the opposing team.

Last night, the Skyraiders faced De Sure's, one of their toughest opponents to date. De Sure's have a strong battery, including Bob Orautte on the mound, and Dick Goebels as catcher. Orautte was the leading pitcher in the Amateur Softball Association last year, until he broke a foot.

Due to the lateness of the game, results could not be obtained, but will be published next week.

Softballers Have 7-0 Record

The varsity baseball team has not faired quite so well as the softball team. After a dismal early season turn-out, the softball team has racked up a lusty seven win against a zero loss record, while the baseballers suffer a seven loss against a five win record. Last Friday's game with NTC marked the third time the Airmen have lost to the Bluejackets.

Starting later than most of their opponents, coach Harvey Speed is still in the process of whittling the team down to playing size. As yet, he has not played exactly the same team twice, in order to pick the most outstanding players.

Open With PhibPac

When the baseball season officially opens on 7 May, the Skyraiders may have more to offer. Their initial start against PhibPac is likely to be a win, due to the fact that the Airmen have bested the Invaders twice already, and with two altogether different teams.

They are still a little hard hit in infield positions, and are also lacking on the mound, and Coach Speed is still accepting candidates.

Tour Los Angeles

The baseballers have been on the road all this week, playing a full schedule against some mighty tough opposition up Los Angeles way.

Tuesday they faced the Bruins from UCLA, Wednesday met the Waves from Pepperdine College, Thursday played the Los Angeles Police Force team, and tomorrow meet Douglas Brothers in Glendale.

Returning home, the Skyraiders will play the Naval Station here at Towers Field Monday, and Tra-Pac here Wednesday.

The softball team also have two tough games scheduled for next week. Monday they will meet Tufford Motors, and Thursday play Turner's Builders. Both games will be played on the Mainside Diamond starting at 1930.

Airmen Enter ASA League

Major League softball comes to North Island, as the Naval Air Skyraiders enter the major softball league in San Diego. The Amateur Softball Association (SA League) will start play on May 20, and will top teams in the Southern California area.

The ASA league is the only league recognized by the Amateur Athletic Union, and will play competetive softball according to national regulations laid down by that body.

In entering this league, the Skyraiders will give their followers the opportunity to see such outstanding hurlers as Bob Michaels, Bill Mathie, Chet Jordan plus the Skyraiders' own Bob Fesler, Adolph Mason and many others.

The league will play four rounds and each team will visit North Island twice. Home games will be played on the Mainside Diamond behind the Navy Exchange. Other games will be played on diamonds in San Diego and surrounding communities.

Exhibition games with other teams in the league will start on approximately 5 May. Admission to all games is free. The Airmen have scheduled games with teams representing commercial firms in and around the immediate San Diego area.

In games to date, the Skyraiders have shown an excellent defense, a good speed and the ability to get hits when they are needed.

Only one major problem confronts the coaching staff of the varsity team. That is, that many of the players will be due for discharge before the season is completed.

Winter Bowling

The Jiggers of the 800 scratch bowling league took top honors last Friday night as the winter season officially came to a close. In a thrilling race for the lead, the Jiggers wound up with a 62 win against a 28 loss, while the Timbermen who have been running a close second all season, pulling ahead only once, ended their most successful season with 61 wins against 29 losses.

Timbermen also took the high team score with 2732, while high team game was taken by machine shop with 1005. Special awards were given to G. Greer for a high individual game with a total of 289.

The Accessories team took third place with 59 wins against 31 losses, and Top Five was knocked out of fourth place by Machine Shop with 52 wins against 38 losses.

Awards were presented last night at the Pacific Recreation Bowling Alleys.

The Skyraider volleyball team moves into its third tournament next week, the San Diego Parks Welfare and Recreation Open Tournament. The slap-ballers have twice been a bridesmaid in tournament tussles, but never quite a bride. They were runners-up in both the YMCA tourney and the 11ND championship playoff, being edged out by the powerful NAAS Los Alamitos team in the finals, (15-12, 15-12) of the latter.

Winter Intermural Sports

The race for top spots in the ComFair SD Winter Sports Competition (volleyball, horseshoes, bowling and handball) moves into the final stage next week. In the playoff between Miramar and Ream to decide who would tangle with North Island's champs for the area titles, Ream won two titles and Miramar two. Ream's HS-2 won both the bowling and handball, while FASRon 701 of Miramar won the volleyball and Miramar-based VF-781 won the horseshoes. Here's how the finals will be played:

VOLLEYBALL — Ready Issue (NI) vs Fasron 701 (Ream). First game at 1130, 21 April at NI gym. Second game at 1130 at Miramar. Time and location of third game, if necessary, to be decided.

Atlantic Fleet to Field Large Team in All-Navy

By BILL COUGHLIN

Navy boxing wizard, "Battlin' Bill" Brennan, 1952 coach of the Atlantic Fleet's battalion of punchers in the All-Navy fracas, has whipped together what he believes is one of his most dynamic fight teams ever to appear here.

Brennan is making his fourth appearance here as Atlantic Fleet mentor and since his All-Navy debut in 1947, his skilled hands have molded no less than five All-Navy crown winners out of 24 aspirants. Fighters like the unforgettable heavy titlist Joe Connell who grabbed All-Navy laurels in 1948 and was runner-up in '48; bantam Bill Bossio who punched out a U. S. Olympic crown after taking the All-Navy in '47 and '48; trip-hammer punching Jimmy Ither, multi-titled featherweight and 1948 All-Navy winner, are among others who have graced the famous Brennan stables.

Although he has only one All-Navy veteran in his current crop, he is counting on no less than three of his pugilists to reach the finals and possibly Olympic fame.

Light heavyweight Don Lee, with 110 battles and 105 wins, comes into the fray with a string of vari-important crowns ranging from the 1950 and '51 New England Golden Gloves light heavy to the Cruiser Force, Atlantic heavyweight titles. A lefthander, Lee has been in the amateur ring five years and under Brennan's guidance he has met and licked some of the nation's top amateurs.

Fighting for the love of fighting typifies Brennan's Atlantic Fleet welterweight aspirant Arthur Oubre. Oubre began his career in the Army in 1947 in the Far East and since that time he has rolled over 55 of 60 opponents, 35 of which were KOs. Fighting as a bantam, feather, and lightweight, he punched out the All-Japan crowns in 1947, '48 and '49. Oubre has been handled by some distinguished coaches in addition to Brennan. Most noted of these was Earl Pedford, who was one of few punchers to top Marcel Cerdan and Johnny Bratton. Pedford fought them while in the Army in Europe.

One of two Marines on the team, light middle Al "Robinhood" Hood has been groomed especially hard to knock the crown off Sam "The Assassin's" head. An artful boxer, Hood should give slugging Sam plenty to do trying to tag him if these two collide. Hood scored two KO's in the Atlantic Fleet tourney, and in 71 contests, has has topped 59 opponents.

A 1949 All-Navy semi-finalist, Bob Nichols will provide plenty of fast action in the lightweight bracket. Coached by Chief Al Gibbs of West Coast All-Navy fame, Nichols, a four-year ringman, easily decisioned two Atlantic Fleet aggressors for his laurel in that tourney.

Speed, power, and deception color the style of bantam entry Juan Jose Ramirez. Although a newcomer to tournament competition, Juan Jose will be right at home in the company of such men as Toni Rios, Pacific Fleet, and Neil Stevens, 11th Naval District. Ramirez has battered 30 of 32 opponents.

John Miller, Brennan's 190-pounder, is another Al Gibbs-sired battler on the Atlantic Fleet staff. Miller is exceptionally fast for a heavyweight and his sharp punches have won 40 of 47 bouts.

VU-3 (K) Calls Its Leading Chief 'Tops'

Utility Squadron Three's personality of the week is its leading chief, J. C. Feher, ADC. Although he has been leading chief for a short time, he has won over both officers and men with his quiet and winning personality.

As leading Chief of VU-3K, his duties to the squadron are important and numerous. First of all he is the liaison between both officers and enlisted men. He carries out Navy regulations, muster reports, squadron fire bills, storm bills, and duty details.

All department chiefs work very closely with him. Chief Feher cooperates with the Commanding Officer, Executive and Personnel Officer in things pertaining to morale and welfare of the squadron.

Chief Feher has served seventeen years in the Navy, 42 months of which with VU-3K. He took his "boot" training at Great Lakes and his tour of duty includes six years with the USS CORONADO, VU-10 in Cuba, Jacksonville NAS with VPB-1, Aleutian Islands with VP-42, two and a half years, and attached to VU-3K on Saipan before reporting to Ream Field.

While serving on the USS COLORADO, he boxed and held the Division championship in wrestling. He pulled in racing cutters six years, but what Chief Feher points to with pride was when he was stationed at Jacksonville Naval Air Station as Beachmaster. While Beachmaster at Jacksonville, Feher rescued five men at different times out of the St. John's river and applied artificial respiration and was mainly responsible for saving their lives.

About the future, well, Feher says, he'll continue with the Navy.

HS-2 Handballers Dump Miramar's VF-781 Tues.

Ream Fields Handball champions, HS-2, downed VF-781 of Miramar in the ComFair San Diego handball championships held at Miramar Tuesday.

Hager of HS-2 dropped Brewer of VF-781, 21 to 2 and 21 to 5. In the doubles Filley and McCarthy of Ream teamed together to defeat Krober and Gallardo of VF-781, 21 to 5 and 21 to 11.

Helicopter Provides Only Escape for Downed Pilot

When the pilots and crewmen of Helicopter Squadron ONE, serving in the Korean area, awake in the morning they never know just what task they will be called upon to perform, nor what experience is in store for them, but they are reasonably assured that each day will be eventful before it is over.

One day last fall proved to be not only eventful but also packed full of life or death action for HU-1 Units operating on both coasts of Korea.

LTJG P. J. Myatt of HU-1 Unit 17 was piloting his helicopter on a reconnaissance mission in the Inchon Area when he intercepted a radio message stating that there was a pilot down deep in enemy territory and that the land based helicopter that had been dispatched on the rescue was running low on fuel and was forced to return. LTJG Myatt immediately volunteered his services and the helicopter was soon proceeding deep into enemy territory to pick up the downed flyer.

The flight was progressing without incident when suddenly the helicopter was caught in a barrage of anti-aircraft fire. The crewman, L. L. Walters, AD1, was hit in the leg, and although in great pain, he assisted LTJG Myatt in returning the bullet-riddled aircraft to friendly territory where a safe landing was made and first aid given to Walters.

Just as soon as the helicopter was hit a radio message went out to HU-1 Unit 12 which was operating in the Wonsan Area on the opposite coast of Korea.

At the time the message was received by Unit 12, Chief Aviation Pilot C. W. Buss and his crewman R. O. Sherrill, AD3, were busy rescuing LTJG L. R. Downs who had been forced down in enemy territory. Although intense small arms fire was encountered, the pilot was successfully picked up and returned to the base of Unit 12 where the helicopter was fueled and launched again to pick up the remaining downed pilot.

This trip LT J. M. Farwell was at the controls and his crewman was W. H. Williams, AD2. A fighter escort joined up and the long inland flight was underway. Upon arriving over the downed pilot's position, three low passes were necessary to spot 2nd LT A. M. Muller, the downed pilot. The helicopter was brought to a hover over the South African Airforce pilot and he was hoisted aboard amidst the intense machine gun and small arms fire. As the helicopter pulled up to make its getaway, a bullet came smashing through the cockpit knocking most all the instruments out of commission. With the help of a few prayers and some good luck the second bullet-riddled helicopter for the day limped back to its base.

The day's operation added two more to the total of HU-1's increasing list of pilots delivered from the hands of the enemy by the use of its unarmed and vulnerable helicopters which have provided the only way out for many a downed pilot.

Squadron Party For All Hands of VU-3 a Success

How much can you eat and drink? That was the theme of VU-3's party which took place at Camp Booth last Wednesday.

Under the direction of LTJG W. Snellman, Recreation and Welfare Officer, assisted by C. L. Anckner ADC, Terittibo AMC, and the Recreation Committee, the day's outing was a terrific success.

Fried chicken, potato salad, olives, peanuts, pickles, hot dogs, and beverages were just part of the food and refreshments that were offered. "MC" for the athletic events was LT McDonald, whose running description of the day's athletics kept everyone in stitches.

Contests were held in the muscle building part of the party. Archery was won by B. J. Lang, AN, tug-a-war was pulled in by the team from ComUtWing, sack race by Bill English, AN, and three legged sack race was waddled in by Carl Anckner, ADC, and Harold French, ALC. Egg race with a speed was captured by ENS Green and the highlight of the various contests was the egg throwing contest won by the team of Bernard Averill, AL3, and French, ALC. These two men faced each other a few feet apart and until they dropped the oval, backing off a step at a time, and throwing it back and forth, they won the ordeal. French and Averill survived out of thirty contestants and then whipped Bill English and "Tarheel" Eldridge, SN, in a play-off. It actually became an egg throwing contest when all contestants let go. The yokes flew in all directions, but peace was declared and the fun continued. There was also group participation in softball, volleyball, football and horseshoes.

third (if necessary) to be decided.

BOWLING—HS-2 (Ream) vs Ready Issue (NI). First game at 1300, 24 April at Navy Field. Second game at same time, 25 April at either Navy Field or North Island. Third game, if necessary, will be played on 28th at location to be decided.

HANDBALL—HS-2 (Ream vs FAIRBETAUPac (NI). All games will be played at North Island in Fasron 110's handball court. First game at 0930, 28 April. Second game at 1100, 29 April. Third game (if necessary) at 1100 on 30 April.

HS-2 Dumps VC-61 In ComFair Bowling

The bowlers of HS-2, paced by Smith, downed VC-61 of Miramar 3 to 1 in the ComFair San Diego semi-finals bowling championship held at Miramar last Tuesday.

The HR-2ers defeated HU-1 in the finals for Ream Field Championship and gained a berth in the semi-finals against VC-61 of Miramar.

The line scores for the bowlers:

HS-2	Totals
Schmidt	446
Lt. Webber	470
Graupman	520
Smith	477
Worack	454
	2367

VC-61
Sloat	463
Riale	409
Norris	498
O'Donnell	444
Lt. Keefe	492
	2306

The win places HS-2 in the finals against a team representing Naval Air Station, San Diego. If HS-2 should defeat the North Island crew it will make them the undisputed champions of ComFair San Diego.

VU-7 Man Wins Camp Pendleton Golf Tourney

Leave it to VU-7 to come up with a dark horse when it is least expected. The scene was set at the 23rd Annual Coaches-Sportwriters' Golf Tournament held Friday, April 11, at the elaborate Camp Pendleton Golf Course.

Gerald S. Sota, AN, from Utility Squadron Seven pulled a 69 from the par 72, 18 hole course. It wasn't until late in the morning that the 93 other contenders noticed the threat from VU-7. He carded 35 on the dew heavy front side, followed by a 34, thus nosing out Marine Sgt. Blissett's 73 stroke round. For his efforts Sota was presented with the Stanley Andrews Trophy for low gross score in the Tourney.

Sota, who now plays on VU-7's intermural golf team, has proven himself an able contender for the Skyraider eight man team.

PRETTY MISS MARGIE MURELLO does a mambo in the ALF Ream Variety Show held in the Station Theater, April 9.

Present Variety Show at ALF Ream Wednesday

Variety acts from A to Z, performed by top entertainers, joined together to make a highly successful and entertaining show at the Ream Field Theater last Wednesday.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was LTJG J. M. Stevens of VU-7 whose wit, humor and ad-libbing went over well with the audience. As a warmer before the show, M. C. Stevens gave his amusing interpertation of the Armed Forces Military Code of Justice before introducing Charlie Austin and his All Star Swing Band.

They were followed by three girls from a Dance Studio who found hula talent in the audience and brought them on the stage to help with the dance.

A Western band, composed of P. E. McGhee, SN, of FASRon 701 Dept., Chief Whitaker of the Radio Station and Evert Crooms was one of the highlights of the show with their hillbilly music.

Margie Murello and her Mombo dancing added a fast tempo to the show and was highly successful according to the applause received.

Kay Chavlier sang a couple of numbers and was followed by a baton twirling exhibition presented by Jerry Tremble who climaxed her act by twirling a baton with flame on both ends.

The singing mailman from VU-3K, Dean Jones, was back again and captivated the audience.

Lois Hood then played the accordian. Last but not least was the complete show stop by Wes Harrison and his sound effects. His fine style of presentation and accuracy of reproducing sound with only his mouth caught the audience, who would not let him leave the stage until he gave another number.

VU-3 Divot Men Take Opener

With their woods and irons in the fire, Utility Squadron Three teed off their golf season with a convincing 12 to 0 win over HU-1 played on the Caliente golf course, last Friday, April 4.

There will be twelve matches altogether and the golf season lasts until June 20th. Leading this year's aggregation is LT Delicharz, who shot an 84, LT Fancher, an 89, LT Donovan, who carded an even 90, Chuck West, team captain, and Lang, SN, both shot 91's and Bill Estes, SN, brought home a 93.

These matches will be on an intermural basis with Squadrons VU-7, HS-2, HU-1 and VU-3K making up the quartet.

VU-3K's next match will be with HS-2 Friday, April 11, at Caliente.

Safe Driving Program Next Week

Safe driving education will be emphasized next week at NAS with lectures and training devices relating to motor vehicle operation.

The program to promote safer driving habits among station personnel will be presented in two phases. One will be a lecture by a representative of the National Automobile Club, and the other will be through use of a mobile unit, sponsored by the 11th Naval District Safety Council, equipped with testing and demonstrational devices.

The mobile driving training unit will arrive at NAS April 28 and remain here until May 2. To be located in front of Bldg. 90 (O&R Machine and Metal) the unit will contain a driverometer and other psychophysical test devices. Tests given will include depth perception, peripheral vision, night vision, color perception, steadiness and reaction.

Personnel attending the training unit's tests and demonstrations will be assigned by division officers. NAS-based Fleet personnel will have access to the training unit the last three days of its scheduled visit here.

On Monday, April 28, Robert W. Jackson will deliver two lectures on safe driving to North Island personnel. Mr. Jackson is public relations director of the National Automobile Club. The theme of his lecture will be "Motor Manners."

The lectures, to be held in the Bldg. 8 auditorium, are scheduled for 1000 and 1300. Heads of departments are urged to send as many of their personnel as possible.

350 NAS Men Affected By Extension

Between three hundred and three hundred-fifty enlisted men aboard this station will be affected by the recent presidential order which extends the enlistments of certain members of the Armed Forces, according to the NAS Enlisted Personnel Office.

The presidential decree, announced late last week, calls for the involuntary nine-month extension on enlistments for personnel whose enlistments would ordinarily expire between July 1, 1952, and July 1, 1953.

Exceptions are men who have already been involuntarily extended and men who voluntarily extended under conditions where the effective date is on or after July 28, 1950.

The new presidential order continues to allow men to voluntarily extend or enlist.

C. O. Inspection Friday, May 2

Commanding Officers' personnel inspection for all station personnel will be held next Friday, May 2. Divisions will fall in at 0700 in the area south of buildings 379 and 333. Assembly and inspection will be held at 0730.

The uniform designated for the inspection will be service dress blue baker for chief petty officers; and service dress blue baker for other enlisted personnel.

Identification cards and tags may be inspected.

JIM KELLY of Phoenix, Arizona, is shown holding the Perpetual Trophy of the Annual Mullinnix Skeet Shoot. Kelly won with scores of 96 in trap and 99 in skeet. Both scores were out of a possible 100.

Announce Final Dates for Vote Registration

Some States require servicemen to register before voting in 1952 Primary and General Elections. The attached tables list the last date for becoming registered in order to vote this year. As final registration dates have already passed in some States, those States are not included in the application list.

Voting Officers in each of the Services have detailed information about registration in all States, and servicemen desiring to vote this year should see their Unit Voting Officers at once so that application may be made at an early date and, in all cases, before established deadlines.

State	Final Registration Date	Is Absentee Registration Permitted?
Georgia	3 May	Yes
Montana	19 September	Yes
Arizona	29 September	No

Sign Painters Needed For NR Carnival

An opportunity for NAS military personnel with sign painting skills to take an active part in the painting of signs for booths, exhibits, and other items for this summer's Navy Relief Carnival, is announced by J. R. Samuelson, JOC, in charge of publicity and promotion for the event.

Men attached to NAS who have any experience in this line are urged to contact Chief Samuelson in Room 1, Bldg. 8, without delay.

Defense Exhibit To Be In San Diego May 11-14

ALERT AMERICA, a ten-thousand square foot, animated display with color, light, sound, motion and action, will visit San Diego May 11 through 14, in the Conference Building, Balboa Park. Admission to this huge Civil Defense display will be absolutely free.

The purpose of the display is to call attention, in dramatic fashion, to the acute need for adequate self-protection paralleling the service's build-up against the possibility of full scale war.

San Diego is the first West Coast city to see "ALERT AMERICA."

Contained in the exhibit, which takes approximately an hour to go through, are demonstrations of the uses of biological and chemical warfare, as well as atomic bombs. In addition "Alert America," points out the steps necessary for the individual to protect himself, and calls attention to the need for Civil Defense organization side by side with the Military services.

U. S. intelligence sources reported last week that "Soviet Russia's civil defense preparations are now just about complete. As recently as a year ago the Russians seemed to be paying little attention to Civil Defense. Western officials read this as one sign that Russians are not prepared to go to war."

May Day Dance At CPO (Open)

All chief petty officers, their guests, and fleet reservists are invited to attend the "May Day" dance at the NAS CPO Mess (Open) Friday, May 2. The dance, featuring the music of the Amphibious Base's "Amphibians," will begin at 2030. There will be no cover charge.

Thursday, May 1, at 2015 the CPO Mess (Open) will feature another of its regular Thursday night bingo games. A twenty-one-game series will be played.

PARKING PERMIT

Harbor Dr. Lot Parkers Need New Stickers

Replacement of windshield stickers for all NAS military and civilian cars now using the Harbor Drive parking area, located on the East side of the Coronado Ferry approach, is announced by the Security Department's Traffic Section. The area provides parking space for approximately 1285 cars.

Three-fold purpose of the new sticker issue is to eliminate duplications in the lists of personnel now authorized to park there, prevent use of the area by unauthorized persons, and make available for use any spaces presently vacant.

Military and civilian personnel parking in this area are requested by the Traffic Section to re-submit their names immediately to their respective department heads or division officers. The latter will shortly be advised of the procedure to follow for turning in lists of names to the Traffic Section.

Stickers now in use will be removed at the lot by Security Division men in the near future. New stickers will subsequently be forwarded to respective departments and divisions for distribution to eligible drivers.

The change-over is expected to be completed by the middle of May.

6 North Island Civilians Named To Coordinate Carnival Contributions

Six civilian members of the 1952 Navy Relief Carnival Committee will coordinate the Navy Relief fund-raising drive on NAS in conjunction with the 1952 Carnival promotion.

This fund-raising drive should not, in any way, be confused with the contribution campaign of the National Navy Relief Society for the period between May 4 and June 6.

The civilian members of the Carnival committee were authorized by the committee chairman, LCDR H. I. Pemberton, to coordinate all dollar contributions, among all NAS civilian and military personnel.

As in past years, each dollar contribution will be acknowledged by a numbered receipt, and the numbered receipts this year will determine the owners of six brand new 1952 Mercury sedans.

The committeemen are:

Mrs. Isabel K. Smith, President North Island Association and ex-officio member; A. J. Quicker of Public Works; Robert S. Putnam, of Industrial Relations; W. Kirby Vaughan, of Supply and Fiscal; F. Geer, of Overhaul and Repair; E. P. Becker, of Transportation; and R. T. Morse, County Council Commander of the American Legion.

All of the civilian members of the committee have volunteered their support of the 1952 Navy Relief Carnival which will be sponsored this year by the Naval Air Station.

Mrs. Smith has written letters to all of the participating organizations, urging their cooperation in the forthcoming fund-raising campaign, and requesting each organization to appoint representatives to work with Mr. Putnam, who will coordinate the civilian phase of the drive.

Psst! PST To Be PDST PDQ

Going to be out late tomorrow night? Better plan on getting home an hour earlier than your original schedule calls for; otherwise, you'll be returning an hour later than you think it is when you put the key in the lock.

To avoid asking yourself "how did it get so late so early?" remember right now to set the clock ahead an hour at 0100 this Sunday morning, or whenever you retire. That's when daylight saving time becomes effective, and the hour-hand jumps forward to 0200.

In other words, from now until September, Pacific standard time becomes known as Pacific daylight savings time.

Chaplain's Corner

'Is Not Life More Than . . .'

From the conversations of many, one may gather that their entire goal and attitude toward life is that of satisfying only their personal desires with little regard to the harm it does to their body and soul as well as to their neighbor. For some it is the living of one, from one "lost wekend" to another. Or it is merely the waiting from paycheck to paycheck with no purpose in life.

And again others may have the pagan attitude as expressed by Shakespeare through his character MacBeth: "Life's but a dark shadow, a poor player that struts and frets his brow upon the stage and then is heard no more. It is but a tale told by an idiot, signifying nothing." MacBeth wanted to be king. He had decreed that nothing would keep him from his desired goal. He murdered all who stood in his way of gaining the kingdom. After having reached his goal through deceitfulness and murder, he also faced the penalty for his wicked deeds—death. In the last hours of his life his evil deeds flashed before him which gave him no rest for his soul. In utter despair he wonders what is life anyway. He tries to philosophize life's meaning, saying that it's nothing but a poor play on a tale.

Well, maybe some think that they have progressed a little beyond their animal characteristics and say "I have faith—faith in now; faith in myself. But this is a pathetic sort of faith, as human faith usually is grasping around in the dark, making a stab at some final decency in the universe; hoping that it will all add up to something.

What about these attitudes; is there something more than these? . . . Jesus said, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life. No man cometh unto the Father but by me." In Christ is the true meaning of life, which is beyond the pathetic sort of attitude found among people today.

This Week's News

at a glance

The effect of Tuesday's atomic bomb test at Yucca Flats, Nev., will not be evaluated for at least two weeks, according to scientists supervising the test. The bomb, larger than the type used at Hiroshima and Nagasaki, was dropped from a B-50 and exploded 3500 feet above the desert. Combat troops were dug in four to six miles from the scene of the blast. Observers believe that the powerful weapon is designed for tactical uses against an enemy army.

A fight touched off because prisoners found salt in their coffee resulted in a violent riot in the Southern Michigan prison. Driven in to a cell block, 173 convicts, holding 10 guards as hostages, refused to surrender until prison officials agreed to correct certain grievances.

Efforts to hold levees around Omaha and Council Bluffs succeeded but the swollen Missouri rolled further south to threaten cities in Kansas and Missouri. Dikes broke in Leavenworth, Kans., and rains are adding to the flood danger in the area.

Sir Stafford Cripps, the personification of British austerity, died Monday after a long illness. As chancellor of the exchequer from 1947 to 1950 Sir Stafford formulated strict economy measures which imposed frugality and thrift on the English people in order to avoid British bankruptcy.

Southern California welcomed royalty from the Netherlands this week. Queen Juliana and her consort, Prince Bernhard visited Los Angeles, and attended church in the Dutch community near LA.

The government was still embroiled in the steel issue. The steel industry is now being operated by the government. The legality of federal seizure has been challenged. The controversy probably stems from the fact that in 165 years the powers of the President have never been precisely defined. Ultimately, it would take a Supreme Court decision to settle the question—and that may take a a long time.

The government yesterday issued an order permitting the steel industries to hike steel prices $3.00 per ton. This is one-fourth of the amount the companies sought for off-setting the wage boost.

THIS WEEK

On the Island And Ashore

This week's ntertainment calendar for servicemen in the San Diego area opens with the Clyde Beatty performance this afternoon at 1500 and tonight at 2000. The circus will also present performances tomorrow and Sunday at the same hours at its Frontier and Enterprise Street location.

The week of entertainment at the Armed Services "Y" begins tonight with a big informal dance in the "Y's" Davidson Hall. The ComAir Pac Band will furnish music for the event which is scheduled from 2000 until 2300.

Tomorrow will see the opening of the Annual San Diego Home Show which will be held in Balboa Park's Federal Building. The show will close May 3.

Also, tomorrow night is the night for the Mission Beach Ballroom Dance which begins at 2100 and lasts until 0030.

Escondido's flower show opens tomorrow in the Escondido Elementary School Auditorium. The show will also be held Sunday.

Sunday, the weekly organ concert will be presented in the Balboa Park Organ Pavilion. Concert time is 1430.

Sunday evening, the San Diego Philharmonic Orchestra will present a concert featuring Gerald Vinci as solo violinist with the orchestra. Concert time is 2015 in Russ Auditorium.

Country Dance Night will be observed Monday evening at 2000 in the Armed Services "Y".

Tuesday, April 29, is the date of the opening of the District Softball League for the San Diego and Long Beach areas.

The San Diego Padres will play host to the San Francisco Seals in the first of a seven-game series between the two teams, Game time is 2015 for the games which will be played Tuesday through Saturday at Lane Field.

Monday night is also Bingo night at the Red Shield Center. Games begin at 2000 at the club on 2nd Avenue in San Diego.

The two-day Women's Badminton Championship Tournament opens Wednesday, May 30, in the Balboa Park Gymnasium.

Carlsbad's Annual Spring Holiday Festival begins Wednesday and will last for five days.

The San Diego NCCS Club presents an informal dance at the club headquarters, 925 1st Avenue, San Diego, next Thursday, May 1, at 1930.

Announce Dates For 1952 Navy Relief Drive

Once again this year, The Chief of Naval Operations (President of the Navy Relief Society) has stated that the period of 4 May to 6 June, commemorating the Navy-Marine-Air battles of the Coral Sea and Midway, has been designated by the Navy Relief Society for its "Annual Call for Contributions" from personnel of the Navy and Marine Corps.

It must be realized that the National Fund Raising Drive is over and above all local campaigns. The Naval Air Station's drive, which will be acknowledged by a numbered receipt for promotion purposes, must not in any way be confused with the announced goals of the National Society.

All funds realized from volunteer contributions for Carnival promotion, and all funds collected by the 1952 Navy Relief Carnival will be turned over to the San Diego Auxiliary of the Navy Relief Society. From this total, a portion will then be given to the National Society.

The sole purpose of the Navy Relief is to assist in times of need, the personnel of the Navy and Marine Corps and their dependents. Financial assistance to those in immediate distress takes the form of an outright grant, a loan without interest or a combination of the two, depending on the degree of hardship involved,

With these facts in mind, it is important that the National Society, which cannot issue acknowledging receipts, obtain the very maximum amount in overall contributions.

USS Cavalier Honors Queen

The attack transport USS CAVALIER returned from its second tour of duty in Korea last Wednesday. Immediately after tying up at the Naval Air Station's Pier "M", the ship's officers and men took part in a "military presentation" of three dozen roses, a cake, and a $1000 check to the girl selected as their queen.

Lynda Bloodworth, chosen by the crewmen as the ships sweetheart, was there to greet the ship in her new Easter outfit. Lynda, a 13-year-old San Diego girl, was informed by telegram several weeks ago that she had been chosen to accept the honor of being made an honorary member of the ship's crew.

The men had voluntarily donated the money into a fund for the education of the girl.

The CAVALIER, arriving home for the second time, had been in the Far East training troops of the First Cavalry Division in amphibious warfare when the Korean action began.

She participated in landing the First Cavalry Division at Po-hang-Dong, the first amphibious landing against North Korean forces. During that time she operated as flagship for Transport Division 12. The USS CAVALIER also landed the first assault waves of the First Marine Division in the amphibious assault at Inchon.

During her second duty tour, the attack transport operated as part of Task Force 90 and helped move troops of California's 40th Infantry Division.

O&R Veteran Leaves Today

It was hail and farewell today to Thomas Gascoigne, O&R Shop Equipment Specialist, who leaves to accept a position with a local aircraft company. Tommy's 12 years of NAS service were to be climaxed this afternoon in the O&R Engineering Division, Building 94, where a host of his friends are scheduled to honor him in a brief ceremony.

The popular O&R employee was awarded the Meritorious Civilian Service Award last year when he compiled a report of technical data responsible for the elimination of many duplicate, obsolete and undesirable items, and his recommendations have subsequently been adopted by various Naval establishments.

Mr. Gascoigne's new job will place him in an important spot with a company in whose establishment he helped before starting to work at NAS.

Services Plan To Use Same Pay Cards

For the first time in history all Services will use identical pay cards. Beginning July 1, 1952, old pay cards will be junked and the new form immediately put into use.

Based largely on the Navy's form 500, the new card (DD113) is the result of years of research by a special committee representing all Services.

NEA Installs New Officers

Joseph Whalen, O&R Department, was installed as fourth president of the Naval Employees Association at installation ceremonies held last Friday night at the Linda Vista Community building. Others taking office included Joseph Bachoini, vice president; Frank Jolly, secretary-treasurer; and John Vito, guardian, all of O&R. Members of the executive committee installed were Arthur Gehert, L. B. Coyle, George Amon, also from O&R, and Homer Henson, Naval Training Center. Mr. Coyle, a representative of the National Association of Government Employees, acted as installing officer.

The new N.E.A. officers attended a meeting the previous Wednesday with CMDR M. T. Wells, NAS Industrial Relations Officer; Robert S. Putnam, Assistant; and Howard Goods, Employee Relations Superintendent. The meeting was arranged to familiarize the new officers with NAS labor relations policies, and the procedures established for bringing employee problems to management for consideration and discussion.

To Present Fashion Show in Auditorium At Bldg. 8 April 29

A fashion show will be held Tuesday, April 29, in the Building 8 Auditorium at 1930.

Sponsored and commentated by Mrs. Louis Kipperman of Coronado, models will include NAS Wave personnel and Coronado sorority members.

The fashion show is open to all station personnel and their dependents.

Name Youngest Award Winner

A recent group of employees presented with 10 year length of service pins, for Naval Air Station Employment, included one employee whose singular record sets him off from the others. He is Charles R. Knowles of the Machine Branch, Metal and Machine Division. At 26 years of age, he is considered to be the youngest employee at the Naval Air Station wearing a 10-year pin.

Charles Knowles was born in Olathe, Colorado, on June 9, 1925. His family then moved to California. At age 16 he was granted a work permit and on January 5, 1942, was employed as an Apprentice Machinist at the Naval Air Station. The Navy inaugurated the apprenticeship program in 1941 and Knowles was in the second group of apprentices started under this new program.

In August, 1943, he was placed on Military Furlough and served with the U. S. Merchant Marine until April, 1947, when he returned to Naval Air Station to complete his apprenticeship. This was accomplished in February, 1948, when he was promoted to the rate of Journeyman Machinist.

The time served with the Merchant Marine is creditable for Naval Air Station Service, since Knowles was furloughed from this activity.

NAVY FINDS SUBSTITUTE FOR ASBESTOS INSULATION

The Navy has announced the development of a new quartz paper which may be substituted, in certain cases, for higher-cost asbestos insulation material.

Hold Monthly VFW Dance

The monthly VFW dances sponsored by the General Henry D. Styer Post and Auxiliary are getting bigger and better at each meeting. Tuesday night found the VFW hall, 6th and Orange in Coronado packed as nearly 150 enlisted personnel and their guests danced to music furnished by the Amphibians.

The dances are held the fourth Tuesday of each month starting at 2000 at the above mentioned place, and are free to all enlisted personnel and their guests.

Free refreshments are served throughout the evening, and dancing hostesses are provided those without dates.

ITEMS OF INFORMATION FOR CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

COLUMN RIGHT—Is your column. Its purpose is to answer questions of general interest which affect your employment. Forward all questions to: "COLUMN RIGHT," c/o Industrial Relations Department, Building 415, or deposit them in the Beneficial Suggestion Boxes.

CHANGES IN REEMPLOYMENT RIGHTS

Several changes have been made regarding reemployment rights, as follows:

a. An employee who has transferred with reemployment rights is able to apply for reemployment in his former agency when he is faced with a reduction in his present agency below the grade of his last permanent position in his former agency as well as when he is about to be separated by his present agency. Before, he could apply for reemployment only when he was faced with separation.

b. If an employee who has been granted reemployment rights fails to apply within 40 days of separation, or if after application for reemployment he refuses an offer in the same location and type of work and at or above the level of his last permanent position in the agency to which he has a right to return, he loses his reemployment rights.

c. The regulations make it clear that a permanent employee of a non-defense agency who moves to a defense agency automatically receives reemployment rights except in those few cases where the Commission rules, on appeal from the losing agency that the loss of the employee would jeopardize an activity essential to the public welfare.

d. Jobs of permanent employees who go into the military service or who transfer to another agency with reemployment rights, are protected by a provision that their positions may not be filled by probational (permanent) appointment. (Only one percent of Federal jobs are now being filled by probational appointment.)

TWENTIETH CENTURY MARINERS J. W. Myers, AN, (left) and R. L. Bray, AA, both on TAD to the NAS Transportation Department from FairBetuPac, enjoy the cool, clear water from North Island's old whaler's spring which also furnished 17th, 18th and 19th century seafarers with fresh water.

Island Spring Is Deep In Sea Lore

By L. Robert Jackson

If you should visit some of the old fishermen's wharves which dot the San Diego water front, chances are that you would soon hear two or three of the old seafarers spinning tall "sea stories" centering around one of the oldest known and most interseting land marks in Southern California.

These old sailors would most likely be telling fables about sea escapades which had their beginning or ending at the old "whaler's spring" located on the Pacific side of North Island. For more than three centuries, the spring has provided fresh water for sailing ships which sailed the waters of the California coast.

The most famous story involving the springs is the Richard Dana epic, "Two Years Before the Mast," in which Dana often mentions the visits by the crew of the Pilgrim to the whaler's spring to get fresh water for the vessel.

The actual date the spring was first discovered is unknown, but it was supposedly used as far back as 1602 when Vizcaino, discoverer of Catalina Island, and his men used it quite frequently during their expeditions.

The first written records are dated 1793 when the men at Fort Gurjarros used the spring for their water supply. The fort, however, was subsequently abandoned and the island became the home of several private families who continued to draw water from the spring for their personal use.

From 1846 until 1923, the exact location of the spring was unknown since, after the families vacated North Island, drifting sands covered the mouth of the spring.

Major Leslie Arnold, an officer stationed at Rockwell Field, which occupied much of the island, is credited with re-discovering the spring in 1923. However, he failed to chart its location and it was lost again shortly thereafter.

Max Miller, well-known author, recorded the re-discovery of the spring in 1929 when Major Carl Spatz and LT. Hal Bowman reported to Major Albert Sneed, Commanding Officer of Rockwell Field, that they had found the long-sought whaler's spring in a sandy area along the Pacific beach area of the island. The spring, located on the bank of a tidal basin which has since been filled in, was found by the two men when they spotted an old water keg lying half buried in the sand near the mouth of the spring. Not far from the keg, the men found a number of bleached bones which, when closely examined by the paleontologists, proved to be the partial remains of a whale which lived during the Pleistocene period. Major Sneed expressed his belief, which has not been substantiated, that the spring was a small opening of the San Diego river which he believed flowed underground.

Once more, the location of the spring was forgotten until shortly before the outbreak of World War II when the station's Public Works Department began excavating for the machine gun butts at the southwest corner of the island. When it was accidentally uncovered by workmen, the flow of water was so great that two pumps were required to keep the water level down sufficiently to permit work to continue.

Today, the old whaler's spring has been cemented and piped and can, in the event of an emergency, provide fresh water for Naval Air Station.

Coronado Players to Offer 'Gioconda Smile' This Week

"The Gioconda Smile," by Aldous Huxley, will be given its Southern California premiere performance next Thursday evening when the curtain rises on the Coronado Players' first presentation of the forthcoming summer theatrical season.

Several Naval Air Station employees and Naval personnel will participate in the production, which will be presented at the Coronado Playhouse on the Silver Strand each Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings beginning May 1 and ending May 10. Heading the list of NAS thespians is Lucille Neal Parsons, employee in the Family Hospital, and John Reed, of the NAS Supply and Fiscal Division, who are both veteran performers in the Coronado group. Mrs. Parsons will portray the nurse and John Reed the doctor.

LUCILLE NEAL PARSONS

JOHN REED

Veteran Actors Featured

Laureen Smith and Dolly McVey, both Navy wives, Ed Moore, formerly stationed here, Marie Millonzi and Bill Hackleman will also be featured in "The Gioconda Smile" cast.

Long one of the favorites of the Huxley offerings, the play, based on the short story of the same name, has as its theme one of the most discussed and controversial mysteries in the artistic field—the reason for the strange and beguiling smile on the lips of the world famous "Mona Lisa," the painting by Leonardo da Vinci.

"Huxley's Smile"

Art critics have speculated for centuries as to the meaning of the smile. Some believe the smile reflects the lady's affection for the artist, while less romantic speculators think the lady smiled in such a manner to hide poor teeth. However, no satisfactory conclusion has ever been agreed upon as the real meaning behind "The Gioconda Smile," as the painting was originally titled. Huxley, in his modern-day answer to the question projects a similar smile in his play and gives as its reason murder.

Tickets on Sale

Reservations are being accepted for the performance and may be made by calling Henley 3-4856 or Henley 3-4847.

Service Ticket Tax Exemption Proposed

A draft by the Defense Department of proposed legislation that would "exempt from taxation the amounts paid for admission to theaters and other activities operated by or under the control of the military departments" has been transmitted to the House Ways and Means Committee.

TAKE THAT, YOU HEEL! Mr. Ted Blake pounds a new heel in place on one of a pair of shoes brought to the NAS Cobbler Shop for servicing. Mr. Blake also acts as counterman at this Navy Exchange activity.

Rod & Reelers Meet Tonight

Civilian angling enthusiasts are urged to attend the initial meeting of the new Federal Employees Rod and Reel Club, to be held tonight at 1930 at the home of Mr. John Gizo, acting president, 5780 Division St., San Diego.

The business of the first meeting will include drafting of a constitution and scheduling of an election to choose permanent officers and committee members. For this reason, Mr Gizo announces that a large representation of charter members is imperative.

Sweetwater High Offers Two Courses In Navigation

Sweetwater Evening High School, at 2800 Highland Avenue in National City, is offering two classes in Sea-going navigation.

The first of these will be a class in beginning Navigation. The class will begin Tuesday, April 29, at 1900. The course will cover plotting of a Great Circle Sailing route, and the aspects of everyday celestial navigation.

The second class will be in celestial navigation for advanced students. The class will start on Monday, April 21, at 1900. This is a course in the cross-ocean navigation by use of the sun, moon and stars. Higher mathematics are not necessary for these courses.

These classes will be completely free of charge. The only expense to the student will be for his own books and equipment.

HAPPIER FEET will result from the repairs being made on these shoes belonging to NAS military personnel and their dependents. Hard at work in the Cobbler Shop are (left to right): Richard Ramirez, SH3; Sherman Fullmer, SH3; Mr. R. S. Rorabeck, and Kenneth Conley, SHSN.

Six Man Crew Deals In Soles, Heels, & Tongues

Between 1,500 and 2,000 pairs of shoes leave the feet of their owners and make their way to the NAS Cobbler Shop each month for repairs. This busy Navy Exchange facility, located in Building 9, next to the Post Office, supplies dog-tired footwear with new heels, half-soles, whole-soles, stitching, re-welding and various other minor repairs.

Materials used at the Shop are the finest available, yet the cost of repair work to NAS military personnel and their dependents is well below that done in off Station establishments. The modern equipment includes finishers, soling machines, stitchers, rough rounders for trimming soles, patching machines for handling rips and upper shoe damage, and a nailing machine for building up soles.

Joint Navy-Civilian operation of the Shop rests in the capable hands of Mr. R. S. Rorabeck, in charge; Mr. Ted Blake, Mr. Paolo Marchess, Richard Ramirez, SH3, Sherman Fullmer, SH3, and Kenneth Conley, SHSN. Each of these men is thoroughly familiar with all types of shoe repair tools, machinery and procedures, while Mr. Blake doubles as "front" man and serves customers at the counter.

Occasionally patrons will bring in articles other than shoes for repair—such as golf bags or brief cases. Because the Cobbler Shop equipment is designed expressly for the repair of shoes, however, these items should be taken to stores ashore which specialize in handling them.

Summer Cruise for Middies

A total of 5,100 Naval Academy and Naval Reserve midshipmen will train on 35 ships during the 1952 summer midshipmen training cruises to European ports, the Department of the Navy has announced.

'April Showers' Rated Best of Season's Dances

The Naval Air Station's "all hands'" dance, titled "April Showers," was held last Saturday night at the Mainside Gymnasium. If the enthusiasm of the more than 700 in attendance could be used to judge, this was by far the most successful dance of the current season.

Ike Carpenter and his orchestra was received in a fashion that makes it probable that he will be back for a repeat performance in the future. The only regret of the entire occasion was that the 240 minutes that the dance lasted passed so very quickly.

The hundreds of hospitable hostesses, provided by the San Diego Volunteer Bureau, were as always charming company for the NAS "stags."

As is the custom at all monthly "all hands" affairs, a snack luncheon was served during a brief intermission. The amount of food consumed was once again proof that although dancing is considered "social pleasure," it is downright hard work.

SPRING IS BUSTING OUT ALL OVER, and from the moonstruck looks on the faces of these couples during last Saturday's all hands" dance, the season has things well in hand.

Work 'Weather' Controlled By Industrial Hygiene Lab

By Van Hedges

If your sight and sound and sense of smell are up to par, and you're feeling otherwise physically fit, much of the credit goes to the Industrial Hygiene Laboratory, located in Building 319. This important Medical Department activity is under the direction of Mr. Carroll Pernell, Industrial Hygienist, who received his degree at the University of Arizona.

CARBON MONOXIDE in the blood is measured by this device at the Industrial Hygiene Lab.

Principle objective of the Laboratory is the preservation and improvement of the health of all NAS personnel. Its mission is carried out through the constant and diligent control of poisons, dusts, excessive temperatures and humidities, defective lighting and noise.

Among the devices in the Lab used to test any below-standard conditions that might occasionally develop are illumination and brightness meters, sound level meters, X-ray testing equipment and Geiger counters. Still other equipment is on hand for measuring carbon monoxide and lead content in the air as well as in individual blood samples. Mr. Pernell also tests mists, gases, fumes, vapors, solvents and dust for air pollution effect.

The protection of Station personnel who work with radium is assured through required wearing of film badges. These films are developed in the Lab's dark room at two week intervals, to ascertain the degree of exposure to which such individuals have been subjected. Another means of checking radiation is the Radon breath balloon test, which can determine by breath analysis the amount of radium in the entire body.

A portion of Mr. Pernell's time is spent outside the Lab in on-the-spot checking of air pollution reports. Strict control measures are immediately taken when an air test shows the existence of irritating substances. The simplest remedy is to eliminate the cause of the irritants, and if this is not possible, counter ventilation measures are instituted to cancel any harmful effects.

If you drop into the Industrial Hygiene Lab on a warm, muggy day, you can find the relative humidity and air temperature recorded on a Hygro-Thermograph. Or if you're feeling a bit on the leaden side, the Heyrovsky Polarograph will give you an exact count of lead particles in the air. But a quick look around at the colored liquids filling breakers, flasks, test tubes and graduates will give you assurance that no matter where your NAS work area is located, the protection of your health is the primary factor considered, thanks to the work of the Hygiene Lab.

THE LEAD CONTENT in blood samples held in these separatory funnels is being determined by Mr. Carroll Pernell, the chemist, who heads the NAS Industrial Hygiene Lab, which helps keep Station health standards at top level.

Coronado Designates Saturday, April 26, As Loyalty Day

Coronado Mayor Keir Brooks, in cooperation with the General Henry D. Styer VFW Post 2422 and Auxiliary, has designated by proclamation Saturday, April 26, as Loyalty Day.

Post Commander H. F. Hoppis of O&R will act as Chairman of the Loyalty Day Observances in Coronado, assisted by Auxiliary Publicity Chairman Rosiena W. Graves, NAS night telephone operator.

Many NAS military and civilian residents will participate in the patriotic observances.

The Marine Corps Recruit Depot band will offer band selections, and the observances will be highlighted by addresses from Mayor Brooks, Commander Hoppis and other dignitaries.

Loyalty Day program will be free and open to the public at the VFW Hall, Sixth at Orange in Coronado. Program starts at 1400 on Saturday.

VA-702 Will Present Awards

The Commanding Officer of Attack Squadron SEVEN HUNDRED TWO announced that the following awards will be presented at Commanding Officers' Inspection on Friday, 25 April 1952.

LT Robert T. Walker, Jr., will receive the Air Medal (third award); LT Robert S. Farnsworth will receive the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal (ninth award); and Robert T. Brunskill, AD-1, will receive a Letter of Commendation.

Air Medals, in lieu of the 6th and 7th awards, will be presented posthumously to LCDR Wilfred Zelenski. His son, Michael Zelenski, will receive the awards.

Air Force Adopts Nautical Terms

Airspeeds and distances will be computed in knots and nautical miles, respectively, beginning July 1, 1952 the Department of the Air Force has announced.

Change-over to nautical measurement will affect pilots, ground-to-air communicators, all flight clearances and charts. The new ruling will be adopted by both military and civil aviation in the continental U. S.

This Week's MOVIE MENU for NAS

SATURDAY, April 26—WEEKEND WITH FATHER, starring Van Heflin, Patricia Neal, Gigi Perreau and Virginia Field. Some very charming people are seen in a light romantic comedy about a widow with two sons and a widower with two daughters who ramonce under the critical eyes of their offspring, and a TV star who has designs on the widower during a weekend stay near the mountain camps. Van Heflin, as the father, and Patricia Neal as the mother provide the adult appeal. Little Gigi Perreau is a standout among the children. Virginia Reynolds is the TV star.
Short: BLUE BARON AND HIS ORCHESTRA.
Running Time: 1 hour and 46 minutes.

SUNDAY and MONDAY, April 27 and 28—VIVA ZAPATA, starring Marlon Brando and Jean Peters. This is the story of the growth of a man from the position of farmer among Mexico's many peons, to the position of President of the country. In all the battles and crusades, he has nothing but the welfare of his people in mind, but as is the case, this only makes his task more difficult. Even when Zapata's brother becomes a land-grabber, he is no exception and is dealt with as the others were.
Running Time: 1 hour and 47 minutes.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, April 29 and 30—VALLEY OF THE EAGLES, starring Jack Warner and Nadia Gray. This is as novel a parcel of exciting entertainment as has ever been captured on motion picture film. While its literary basis is a crime-manhunt story—with touches of humor and romance—and which in itself is cleverly conceived and developed, the feature's unusual facets steam from the on-location footage filmed in Lapland and are supplied principally by the breath-taking sequences which reveal the killing of wolves by giant eagles trained for that purpose by the natives; an awe-inspiring avalanche; and the migration of a vast herd of reindeer.
Short: SMITTIN' KITTIN' and MY FAVORITE PRESIDENT.
Running Time: 1 hour and 47 minutes.

THURSDAY and FRIDAY, May 1 and 2—FLAMING FEATHER, starring Sterling Hayden and Forrest Tucker. For western fans who want action—and what else do they want?—this excellent sagebrusher, produced by Nat Holt, and possibly his all-time best, is a bonus package of bright entertainment. There is Technicolor to do full justice to as breath-takingly beautiful scenery as ever backgrounded a picture. Add galloper ingredients, and the sum is a super-western.
Short: CANDID MIKE NO. 4.
Running Time: 1 hour and 48 minutes.

WAVES to Celebrate 10th Anniversary

The WAVES will hold their tenth anniversary reunion July 26-27 at the Hotel Statler, Washington, D. C. The reunion will feature a banquet and speakers who will discuss the present and past mission of the organization. Regulars, reservists and former members are urged to attend. Information may be obtained by writing the WAVES Reunion Committee, Anacostia Naval Air Station, Washington, D. C.

Island WAVE Married in Balboa Chapel

Patricia Barbara Lazenby, YN3, of the Naval Air Station's Division X-21, was married to Edward Harry Alderman, Jr., of the USS MOUNT KATMAI (AE-16) last Saturday.

The ceremonies were held at St. Mary's Chapel on the grounds if the U. S. Naval Hospitol, San Diego.

The Rev. Father Edward Martineau officiated at the ceremony, in which the couple wore uniforms, and the bride a white gardenia corsage.

COM(Open) Plans Events For May

The regular "Happy Hour" scheduled for May 9 at the COM (Open) has been postponed until Saturday, May 10, from 1700 'till 1900 because of the Tommy Dorsey dance. Happy Hours will continue as usual on other weekends.

The COM (Open) pool will open next Wednesday and will be open from 1000 to 1800 daily. The snack bar at the pool will be open from 1100 to 1700.

San Diego and Coronado stores will present fashion shows on Tuesdays, May 13 and 27 and June 3. Luncheon will be served from 1200 to 1330 on these days and reservations must be made.

Dancing is held Wednesdays through Saturdays and dancing lessons are given every Thursday evening.

Lincoln and His Generals—
by T. Harry Williams

This book throws light on a little-known aspect of Lincoln's character—his genius as a military leader. It is the author's opinion that Lincoln—despite errors and bad decisions—stood head and shoulders above his generals as a strategist.

When he took office and was faced with a war, Lincoln bore the whole burden of liquidating an antiquated command system. He appointed and tried to use such men as McClellan,, Pope, Buell, Rosecrans and Fremont. All of them for one reason or another proved inadequate in the face of Confederate military skill. Not until Ulysses Grant appears does Lincoln find a man that he can delegate the authority and trust he had previously withheld from others. Around Grant he builds a command system which, acording to the author, is superior to any in the world at that time.

Under the Sea-Wind—
by Rachel Carson

The migration habits of eel or the life cycle of a mackrel appear dull stuff to anyone but the zoologist. However, when this and other phenomenon of the sea are described in Miss Carson's prose it is interesting and exciting. As in her The Sea Around Us, the best-selling non-fiction of 1951, the mystery and beauty of the sea are again the backdrop for her portrait of the birds and the fishes that inhabit the eastern rim of our continent.

The book was first published in 1940, but, despite its merits, was somehow forgotten. The publishers brought out a new edition this year.

Oriskany Will Join Pac Fleet This Summer

The aircraft carrier, ORISKANY, will soon transfer to the Pacific Fleet by way of an almost forgotten world trade route—Cape Horn, southernmost tip of South America.

Accompanying the ORISKANY on her tour of South America will be the destroyers WILLIAM C. LAWE and POWERS. Fighter squadron 11 and Air Anti-submarine squadron 32 will be aboard the ORISKANY.

Plans are for the ORISKANY to shove off on her 15,000-mile cruise the first part of June. Completing a lengthy overhaul at New York, the ship will stop at Norfolk, then train briefly at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, before heading south. Her CO is CAPT J. O. Lambrecht.

Captain's Cup Lowdown

With the first half of the Capt.'s Cup Softball schedule just about completed, it looks like it has narrowed down to a close race between Planning, G.C.A. and Supply. Planning is unbeaten. Supply has a record of 9 wins and 1 loss against G.C.A.'s 6 wins and 1 loss. The Yeomen and Repair and Flight division have both dropped out of the league.

All golfers should be thinking about the coming golf tournament, which is the next Capt.'s Cup Sport.

L. E. Schumacher, AM1, who has been acting in the capacity of Captain's Cup Director for the past year, left this week for duty in Yokasuka, Japan. Schumacher completed nearly three years of shore duty at NAS. All hands wish him the best of luck at his new duty station.

Robert F. Williams, AD1, has replaced Schumacher in this position. Williams reported to NAS from VF-51, completing tour of duty in Korea aboard the USS ESSEX. He played for the Naval Air Fliers in 1947 and 1948, taking part in the All-Navy playoffs in 1947.

MARY MURPHY, honey-brunette from Paramount Studios will be the queen of the All-Navy boxing tournament. This five foot, four inch lovely was "discovered" while taking her lunch hour in a Beverly Hills hotel.

VU-3 Man Marries In NAS Chapel

Gene Sorenson, AN, of Utlity Squadron Three, was recently married to Miss Shirly Hesch in the North Island Chapel. Best man at the ceremony was Robert Elzey, also of VU-3, and the maid of honor was Ellen Dwarshack.

Seals To Defend Navy Championship Tonight

By BILL COUGHLIN

A gigantic card is in store for followers of the big 1952 All-Navy fight tournament which started at 2000 last night at the Coliseum. Thirty-two bouts fill out the card for last night and tonight, with Kirby Seals and Dale Kite of the Skyraiders heading the list of ringmen scheduled for tonight.

KIRBY SEALS, All-Navy heavyweight champion will put his crown on the block tonight when he tangles with Jim "Grizzly Bear" Vines. The 230-pound giant was an 11ND heavyweight finalist last year. Seals will be fighting his first tournament fight since his stunning loss to Ed Sanders in the Golden Gloves.

ALL-NAVY middleweight king Sam "The Assassin" Williams is the other member of the Pacific Fleet contingent who will defend his title tomorrow as a light-middleweight. Since gaining the All-Navy title in 1950, Williams is the current 1952 So. Calif. Golden Gloves titlest.

Bantams, lights, middies and welters, in that order, started the huge Navy tourney in progress last night.

Jackie McCann, Northwest, and Juan Jose Ramirez, Atlantic Fleet, appear threatening in the bantam class. Ramirez, with 30 wins in 32 starts, will have his hands full with the stinging leather of former Minneapolis Golden Gloves winner Milt Hansen.

National Golden Gloves bantam champ of 1949, Jackie McCann, of the Northwest group, figured favored over Hawaii's Cesareo Lopez in their tiff. Bantam McCann has scored 28 KO's in 80 fights.

Top names among lightweights include those of Dick Rall, 11ND, and Bill Trice, of the South Central punch club. Rall, a 1952 California Golden Glover, met Northwest's Bruce McKay. McKay has bested 33 opponents in 39 attempts.

With three tournament titles each, Billy Trice, South Central, and Aime Lucian Morin, Mid-Atlantic, are another standout pair of lightweights. Morin has barnstormed New England winning the 1948 and '49 bantam and feather crowns of Maine and New Hampshire while Trice claims the 1952 Corpus Christi, Texas Golden Gloves in addition to the 1952 eighth Naval District and South Central belts.

Some of the Navy's classiest contenders were among the welter and middle brackets which also highlighted last night's card.

Felix "The Cat" Franklin, Pacific, Albert Anderson, Northeast, Virgil Wharton, Far East, and George Price, 11ND, are a good idea of welterweight action to be expected. Little needs be said of Franklin and Price who have thrilled thousands locally. Price met Rudy Owin of the South Central group.

The Northeast's Albert Anderson and Virgil Wharton of the Far Eastern aggregation are another pair of welterweight punchers who should see the finals. Anderson is the 1949 All Navy titlist and has won 135 battles in 151 bouts. Wharton is the 1951 All Japan and '47 Columbus Golden Gloves champ.

Top middleweight matches featured the Atlantic Fleet's Emanuel Britt and Pacific Fleet's ace Nolan Davis. Britt, a crown copper since 1947, met the pride

A Corner on Sports

By BOB LAIBLE

We don't usually try to predict winners in fight tournaments, but this year the Pacific Fleet team is stacked with so much talent, that is almost a certainty that some of them will go all the way in the All-Navy tournament, and possibly to the Olympics.

A short rundown on the team reveals an amazing nucleus of experience, and quite a number of champions including two All-Navy kings, Golden Gloves, AAU, YMCA, etc.

Heading the list is of course the defending heavyweight champion Kirby Seals. Little need be said about Seals, for his is a name respected throughout fistic circles. Just for the record though, Seals boasts over 70 fights against nine losses, and has enough knockouts to fill this whole column were we to mention the names of all his victims.

Next on the list of champions with this year's Pacific Fleeters is one of the greatest fighters in the Navy today. Sam "The Assassin" Williams. Sam has fought 87 fights, losing six and scoring 34 knockouts. Williams and Seals are both current All-Navy titleholders. There are plenty of good boys after Sam's title, but for our money it's Williams all the way.

Another name not unfamiliar to fight fans is that of "Bad News" Nolan Davis. The name "Bad News" explains itself inasmuch as Davis has already scored no less than five knockouts this year, and has repeated the same for 40 out of 50 fights.

Among other greats on the PacFleet teams is Billy Hartman, International Golden Gloves champ from last year, Felix "The Cat" Franklin, Johnny Eugenio, 1952 San Diego Golden Gloves champ and All-Navy bantam runner-up in 1950, Dick Sanchez, quarter finalist of the National Golden Gloves last year, Bill Brinson, 1950 YMCA champ, and Jerry Holman, the youngest of the old pros on the Pacific contingent.

Another popular San Diego fighter who will carry Pacific colors into the ring will be Willie Faulkner, that great bantam from NTC, fighting in place of Dale Kite who has turned flyweight for this event.

All in all, this writer will pick at least three, and maybe four Pacific Fleeters to snatch All-Navy titles.

Airmen Dump Pepperdine; Softball Team Defeated

The Skyraider baseball team returned this week after a very successful road trip to Los Angeles, bringing back two wins and suffering only one loss.

The Airmen lost only to the UCLA Varsity nine in a real battle which ended up 2-1. The Skymen now hold the scalps of the Pepperdine College WAVES and the USS TOLEDO. Returning home they continued their winning streak by knocking off the Naval Station 10-4.

EARL KELLY, Skyraider second baseman takes a trip to first via a hit in Monday's softball game with the PhibPac Brewers. Skyraiders scored an impressive 7-0 victory before the game was stopped in the fifth inning. George Vehawn catching, and Mark Markichevich umpiring.

The high riding Skyraider softball team was finally knocked off their "pedestal" by a civilian team calling themselves De Sure's.

The two teams collided last Thursday on the Mainside Diamond in a desperate battle that ended 6-5.

The Skyraiders were behind 4-2 as the game went into the bottom half of the seventh inning, and succeeded in scoring twice to even up the score. De Sure's scored twice more in the ninth, and the Skyraiders got one run back and had a runner on base when the game ended.

The Skyraiders will attempt to avenge their defeat when the same two teams collided tonight at 2000 on the Mainside Diamond.

The softball team will open their Eleventh Naval District major league competition Monday at Mainside when they take on Camp Elliott at 2:000, following through Wednesday with the Naval Hospital at Navy Field at 1700.

Baseball coach Harvey Speed announced this week that the baseball team is really rounding into form and players are pretty well seated in their positions. Only newcomers with a more than average amount of experience will be accepted.

CLAY BIRD CHAMP

Kelly Wins Fifth Mullinnix Shoot

Jim Kelly of Phoenix, Arizona, was winner of the high over-all honors of the fifth annual Mullinnix Memorial Skeet Shoot held at the Naval Air Station last week-end. Kelly racked up a 96 in trap and a 99 in skeet to lead the field of outstanding amateurs in Southern California.

Park Frazier of San Diego was runner-up to Kelly in the meet. Frazier posted a perfect 100 in skeet and 94 in trap, while his wife, Dorothy, won the high over-all honors for the ladies' division for the second consecutive year. Mrs. Frazier recorded a 90 in skeet and 86 in trap.

Last year's over-all winner, Charlie Rapp of Los Angeles, shot a 90 in trap and 97 in skeet.

Top skeet honors went to J. Wake Hunt of Burbank, who posted a perfect 100 score, while Bud Crook of Los Angeles won the 16-yard trap event with a 96 score.

Naval Air Skyraider number One team walked off with military team honors with a 477 out of a possible 500 to receive the military team perpetual trophy. Last year's defending military champions, Skyraider team number Two, placed third with a 448. Camp Pendleton Marines took second place in the military team event with a 466.

Captain W. L. Erdmann, Commanding Officer, hosted the event and officiated at the trophy awarding ceremonies assisted by Captain Dick White, USNR.

In the first round of the COMFair SD Winter Sports Championship events the athletes from Miramar handed their North Island opponents a little rough. The volley ball playoff is complete, with Miramar's FASRon 701 capturing the title. In the opening series, played at North Island, the Miramarmen topped Ready Issue (NI) 15-13, 5-15, and 15-11. In the second series of games, played at Miramar, 701 again outfought the Storekeepers 15-9, 12-15, and 15-11, capturing the crown, and making a third series of contests unnecessary.

Another Miramar-based unit, VF-781, is also giving FAIRBETUPac a hard time in the championship horseshoe tilts. In the first round of this competition 781 won both single matches to forge ahead of the electronicsmen. FAIRBETUPac won the doubles.

Still to be played this week and the following are the playoffs in bowling (between HS-2 (Ream) and Ready Issue (NI), and handball (between HS-2 (Ream) and FAIRBETUPac), plus the completion of the horseshoe matches. Time and place of these matches was announced last week.

HU-1 Whirlybird Picks Up Pilot From Enemy Hands

ENS. Donald R. Hollis and Ernie L. Crawford, AD1, of HU-1 Unit No. 13 based aboard the USS TOLEDO actually picked up LTJG H. G. Goodell out of the hands of the enemy.

LTJG Goodell was on a low level mission over enemy territory when his aircraft was damaged. He decided to ride the plane in just off the coast so he would have a better chance of being rescued and less chance of falling into the hands of the enemy. A landing was made in the water and Goodell climbed into his life raft only to find out that he made a good target for the enemy. He deserted the raft and started swimming away from the beach.

As soon as the position was reported, ENS. Hollis and Crawford were on their way with fighter cover. In approximately 25 minutes Goodell was hoisted aboard and on his way to the Toledo.

The enemy not only missed out on getting their hands on Goodell but they received a good working over from the fighter escort before departing.

All-Navy Boxing

of the Northwest, James Williamson, while Davis swapped with Warren Vanderschuit of the powerful Far Easterners. Davis and Britt loom favored with the lesser experienced Williamson and Vanderschuit.

Sixteen battles between the flys, feathers, light welters and heavies will open a brand new card tonight.

Pacific Fleet favorite Kirby Seals will pound his way in the act with Jim "Grizzly Bear" Vines who resembles "Two Ton Tony" Galento. Vines is the 1950 Guam Golden Gloves champ. He fought here in '51 when he was the 11ND heavyweight finalist. Seals is always a stiff competitor, but will find equally stiff competition shooting for his dethronement.

Hawaii's Allan Williams and George Woods will square off in another top-notch heavy clash. Williams, the son of "one punch" Williams of Norwalk, Conn., has been blasting out crowns since 1946 and was a 1950 All Navy runner-up.

Light welters Arthur Oubre from Bill Brennan's sharp Atlantic Fleet stable, Morris Phillips, 11ND and Charles Ayala, Mid-Atlantic, are among Friday's stars cast in that division. Oubre will go against the Pacific Fleet's Billy Hartman while Ayala will meet Jim Armstrong of the Northeastern outfit. Former San Diego Golden Gloves lightweight winner, Morris Phillips will clash with four years of boxing in Tommy Ocera from the South Central delegates in another top light welter collision.

Eight grade "A" feather and flyweight contests will fill out the Friday card. Top contenders here are featherweights Clarence Odom, who is filling Jimmy Ithier's shoes for the Atlantic Fleeters, Bill Brinson, Pacific, and Glen Erwin of 11ND. Erwin and Brinson will collide in purely local elimination while Odom is pitted against Harold Midlenberger of the power laden Northwesterners. Mildenberger comes with Montana State Golden Gloves crown under his belt.

Three flyweights, Johnny Eugenio, Pacific, Victor Perez, Mid-Atlantic, and Dale Kite, 11ND, figure prominently to find their way to the finals. Eugenio faces the fiery fists of Ralph Medina, Atlantic, and Perez and Grant will pair off in Friday's flyweight finals.

In 20 fights, Perez has taken the National East-West title of 1952 while Grant has won six trophies in his 40 tiffs.

Saturday action in the big show will put Sam "The Assassin" Williams, Pacific, Al Hood, Atlantic Fleet, "Big" Don Lee, Atlantic Fleet, Jesse Barber, 11ND, and Duane Dove, Northwest, in action for the light middle and light heavy thrones.

Light heavy Lee, a converted heavyweight, may be able to upset defender Jesse Barber but he will have to get by Jerry Holman, Pacific Fleet first. Barber will have to overcome a five-time winner of tournaments, Pete Gay of the latent South Centralites. Gay owns the 1950 and '51 New York Golden Gloves laurels among others.

Duane Dove will face heavy leather of 1951 New Jersey champ Charles Lee Butler of the Middle-Atlantic team in their go.

Fabulous Sam will be punched at from all directions but the first assailant will be Bob Hostrom, Northeast, on Saturday. Underdog Holston has 18 wins in 24 battles, 12 of which were KOs. When—and if—Sam gets by Holston, he will meet either Dick Bryant, Mid-Atlantic, or Jeff Lee, Far East, for some mighty tough quarter final punching.

Atlantic Fleet light middle, Al Hood and Dave Bailey, South Central, head another top contest in that division. An agile ringman, Hood has lost only 11 fights in 81 and scored two first round KOs in the Atlantic Fleet tourney. Bailey, "The Horse" packs a powerful wallop too. It was enough to win the 1952 6th Naval District and South Central tournaments for him.

The quarter finals of Thursday night's pairings will complete the 16-bout Saturday night card.

HU-1 Units Arrive Home From Korea

Helicopter Units 3 and 20 of Helicopter Squadron ONE arrived home at ALF Ream after having completed their tour of duty in the Korean combat zone.

Officer-in-charge of Unit 3 was LT. Harold W. Davidson, and sharing the flying duties was B. D. Pennington, Jr., ADC (AP), and Newton D. Hill, ADC, was chew chief. Joseph C. Herrin, AD1; Stanley P. Taylor, AE2; Don R. McCurdy, AN; and Robert L. Wallitner, AN, made up the crew.

Unit 3 was based aboard LST type ships most of the time and conducted operations in support of minesweepers and in addition they evacuated wounded and transferred personnel, supplies, food and mail.

Unit 20 was based aboard the aircraft carrier USS VALLEY FORGE. LT. C. L. Parsley and LTJG W. R. Brock picked up 7 pilots in addition to performing personnel and guardmail transfers to the various units of Task Force 77. Crew Chief was William H. Eichelberger, Jr., AD1, and the remainder of the crew consisted of John A. Hallen, AD2; Eearl M. Moon, AM3; Raymond J. Swanecamp, Jr., ALAN; Charles Yarbrough, AA; and Russell M. Browning, AN.

VU-7 Tops ALF Ream Golf Team

Utility Squadron Seven moved into sole possession of first place in the ALF, Ream golf competition last Friday with a 7-5 victory over VU-3K at the Agua Caliente course in Tijuana. The win was VU-7's third in a row in the newly organized league.

Gerald Sota, AN, of VU-7 was medalist for the match with a three-over-par 75. LT Delicharz was low for VU-3 with 78.

Results of the two best-ball matches were as follows: Busby and Sota, of VU-7 defeated Delicharz and Lang, VU-3K, 6-0. LT Fantcher and Estes, VU-3(K), defeated LT Crumley and Russo, 5-1, VU-7.

The two teams had been tied for first place prior to Friday's match with 2-0 records. HS-2 holds third place in the league with a 1-2 record, ahead of HU-1 who have three loses and no wins.

"YOU CAN BRING IT BACK for exchange if it doesn't work," says Charles D. Gillingham, SA, as he issues new parachutes to Robert L. Deal, AN, crew member departing on a work hop in the JD-1 Invader. Despite the ominous warning, the crew members are confident that the chutes and gear checked out of the ready issue shack are all in first rate shape as the parachutes are given monthly checks and other gear is neatly kept and gets a thorough going-over before each hop.

Knowledge And Quick Thinking Save Plane

Last week LTJG R. E. Miskosky and David Jenschke, AD3, of Utility Squadron Seven took off from ALF Ream on a routine operational flight. As they left the ground and flipped the landing gear handle, they discovered, much to their dismay, that the wheels of their JD-1 "Invader" would not retract properly. With some fast manipulation of the landing gear control handle the wheels finally came up.

The pilot, LTJG Miskosky, being a cautious airman, was then assailed with doubts as to whether the landing gear hydraulic system was operating properly. He decided that before continuing on mission, he would check to see if the landing gear would extend normally.

The check failed to extend the landing gear so Miskosky immediately executed a 180 degree turn and returned to the base and informed the squadron and control tower that he could not lower his landing gear.

By radio, instructions for the emergency lowering of the landing gear were relayed to the pilot by the S.D.C. All instructions were carried out to the letter, and the usual rocking of wings, negative G's, and other little tricks of the trade were thrown in for good measure but all results were negative. For over two hours, every known method for extending the gear in the JD aircraft was tried and the pilot finally resolved that a wheels-up landing was in the offing.

At this point, LCDR W. C. Minyard, and LT G. C. Harrison of VU-7's Maintenance Department, entered the picture and suggested that crewman Jenschke disconnect the selector valve cable from the selector valve, thereby giving the landing gear handle a "full throw" with no restrictions. This was the last resort, and miraculously, the wheels came down without a hitch, much to the great relief of Mikosky and Janschke.

This is another of the many instances where crew training and familiarity with their aircraft paid off, saving the Navy many dollars in plane repairs and possible serious injury to the crew.

VU-3 Archers Place 2nd and 4th In State Meet

Art Warp, AEC, and Robert W. Pettit, AL1, brought fame and glory to themselves and to Utility Squadron THREE, by placing fourth and second in their respective clases in the California State Archery championships held at Harts Memorial Park, Bakersfield, California, April 19 and 20.

Out of some 300 archers from all parts of California, Chief Warp placed fourth in the Class "A" competition, while Pettit competed in the "E" class and captured second place.

The archery enthusiasts were classified on April 19, according to their score and were then placed in Classes A and E.

It was the same course for all competition. It consisted of four ranges, two of which were shot in the morning and two in the afternoon. There were animal targets, moving targets, gallery shoots, disappearing targets and many others. The distances varied from 15 to 150 yards, with sometimes only 10-second reloading time between targets.

The San Diego Field Archery Club, of which Warp and Pettit are members, won most of the top honors. Club president, "Corky" Johnson, won the Class "A" championship.

The Robin Hoods of VU-3K are now looking ahead to the National Archery Championships to be held in the Twin Cities, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., this summer If the goddess of Bows and Arrows smiles on Art and Bob, they both plan to try for another feather in their caps.

Vol. VIII — SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, MAY 2, 1952 — No. 18

New Mercurys Seek Owners

Arrival this week in San Diego of the six brand-new 1952 Mercury sedans to be awarded at the mid-summer Navy Relief Carnival coincided with the start yesterday of the fund-raising drive now being held in connection with NAS sponsorship of the event.

Six NAS Waves will help publicize the big four-day Carnival through advance appearances with the cars in strategic San Diego locations and on the Carnival grounds July 31, August 1, 2 and 3. Chosen to serve as "Mercury Mermaids" during the drive were Priscilla Owens, Molly Gunnigan, Mary R. Martin, Ella Louise Phelps, Ruth Hener and Irene Eichhorn.

Dollar contributions to the fund will be recognized by numbered receipts. Owners of the new Mercurys, to be presented with all sales taxes and license fees paid, will be determined from these numbered receipts.

Contributions are now being received by authorized personnel throughout the San Diego area. The NAS fund drive has no connection with the National Navy Relief Society campaign, which will be conducted between May 4 and June 6, it is pointed out by LCDR H. I. Pemberton, Carnival committee chairman.

Yesterday, at the start of this year's Navy Relief Carnival Fund Raising Drive, more than $500 was contributed. This led the Carnival Committee Chairman to say, "This will be the biggest yet".

An all-Navy show, sparked by Buddy Viotti and Bob Bibb and his Rhythmasters, was performed at the Navy payline. It then proceeded to the civilian cafeteria, where more contributions were received.

In future weeks, this show will tour the entire Naval Air Station for the purpose of entertaining the airmen and civilians.

House Group Ready to Act On K-Vet Bill

The K-Vet Bill is finally ready for approval by the House Veterans Committee.

Congressional observers feel confident that the bill will reach the House floor for a vote before the end of May.

The bill will carry free school benefits similar in many ways to those granted WWII veterans. It is expected to cost approximately $13 billion. The program has, however, been tightened up to prevent abuses.

The bill may also contain benefits to include loan guarantees for homes, farms and businesses, social security and possible unemployment insurance coverage. It is not known, however, whether these benefits will actually be a part of the schooling bill or be contained in later legislation.

Antietam To Aid Crippled Children

When the aircraft carrier USS ANTIETAM docks in San Francisco today she brings back a fine Korean record plus $15,000 for the Shriners' Crippled Children's Hospitals.

The men of the ANTIETAM chose the Shriners' Crippled Children's Hospital because their money will benefit crippled children throughout the country regardless of race, color or creed.

When the idea was first suggested, CAPT. George A. Dufek, ANTIETAM commanding officer, said he had been hesitant to suggest a drive knowing the limited funds of servicemen. Since the idea originated with the crew, he endorsed it and said, "May God bless each of you for your willingness and spirit in this matter, and may His blessings be rich for those we are now helping in this small way."

Results of Civilian Elections, United Fund Poll Announced

Tabulation of votes cast in the April 23 Civilian Welfare and Recreation and Shop Committee elections, together with compilation of opinions expressed on the United Fund Drive proposal, were completed this week by the Industrial Relations Department.

Employees voting in favor of consolidating all fund-raising efforts of local, state and national welfare and health organizations into a single annual campaign numbered 4,066, with 2,310 persons opposing its adoption. A total of 6,376 votes was cast on this issue.

The proposal is currently being considered for adoption at NAS, and further developments will be answered in The North Islander.

At a combined meeting of outgoing and newly elected Divisional Civilian Welfare and Recreation Committee chairmen, held Tuesday in Building 8, new officers were selected and named to head this activity during the forthcoming year. Elected were Roscoe T. Morse, O&R, chairman; Fred Ball, Public Works, vice-chairman; and Rose Gregor, Public Works, secretary.

First official act of Chairman Morse was the appointment of the 1953 Budget Committee, whose members are Karl Kobrich, chairman; William R. Ross, and Emmett Dawson.

Civilian employees chosen to serve on divisional Shop Committees and Civilian Welfare and Recreation Committees in the April 26 election are listed below:

CAG-5 Featured In Mag Article

"The Forgotten Heroes of Korea" is the title of a forthcoming feature article in the Saturday Evening Post which describes the participation of Carrier Air Group 5 in Korea operations.

The article is written by James Michener of "South Pacific" fame.

Among the Air Group's personnel pictured in the article are CDR Marshall Beebe, LT Sam Murphey, and CDR Paul Gray.

500 Take Safe Driving Test

A driver, motoring on a busy city boulevard, approaches a parked bus. Suddenly a pedestrian darts out from behind the bus . . . The driver slams on the brakes, but is it in time to avert a death?

This is one of the situations re-created by the driverometer testing device, part of the safe driving mobile testing unit located on the north side of Bldg. 90.

The unit winds up its tour at NAS today after testing more than 500 military and civilian personnel at North Island. NAS is one of the military installations in the 11th Naval District that has been visited by the unit, under the auspices of the District's Safe Driver training council. While at the station, the unit was under the operation of I&E personnel.

The testing device receiving the greatest amount of interest was the driverometer which accurately tests a motorist's reaction time. The driverometer projects authentic driving conditions on a screen for a driver who sits behind a mock auto instrument panel. When a situation arises requiring use of the brake, the driver's reaction in applying the brake pedal is recorded. He sees how his time compares with the three-quarters of a second normal for "accelerator-to-brake." By a formula, calculating theoretic distance and speed, he can discover whether he escaped a highway mishap.

The unit was also equipped with instruments for testing night vision, color perception, peripheral vision, and steadiness.

Safe Driving Lecture

Safe driving training also received emphasis this week in the HIGHWAY HAZARDS in the classroom will give Gilbert Mashburn, AN, I&E, a chance to show the coordination between his eyes and right foot. H. R. Mercantel, IMC, explains the principle of the driverometer to Larry Kleinpeter, (right), another one of the more than 500 North Island personnel who received the machine's verdict on their reaction time.

Tommy Dorsey Plays at NAS Next Friday

Tommy Dorsey, the sentimental gentleman of swing, and his orchestra will present an hour-long show for all Naval Air Station personnel and their dependents next Friday, May 9, on the stage at the NAS theater.

The musical review will feature several soloists accompanied by the Dorsey group, plus renditions of all-time favorites in the familiar Dorsey style.

In addition to the special program for enlisted personnel, Dorsey and his orchestra will play for the Officers Dance immediately following at the Commissioned Officers' Mess (open).

Admission is entirely free for both the Dorsey show and 2000 movie and no tickets are required for admittance. Doors will be opened at 1815.

Mess Hall Now Opens At 1630 for Supper

New hours for the evening meal in the general mess were announced this week. Effective yesterday, the mess hall will open at 1630 for the evening meal, closing at 1830.

Formerly the hours were 1600 till 1800.

Chaplain's Corner

One Way of Putting It

A minister has stopped trying to persuade folks who don't go to church to mend their ways. Instead he just hands them a list he calls "Why I Don't Go to Movies," which lists these reasons:

1. The manager of the theater never calls on me.
2. Every time I go they ask me for money.
3. Not all the folks live up to high standards of the film characters.
4. I went so much as a child, I've got all the entertainment I need.
5. The performance lasts too long. I can't sit still for more than an hour.
6. I don't care for some of the people I meet at the theater.
7. I don't always agree with what I hear and see.
8. I don't think they have very good music at the theater.
9. The shows are always held in the evening, and that's the only time I'm able to be home with my family.

MAY DEVOTIONS

Beginning 1 May, all Catholic personnel are encouraged to pray to Our Blessed Mother for the intention of peace. As all Catholics know well, May is the month dedicated to Our Blessed Lady. Attendance at Mass and reception of Holy Communion daily plus recitation of the Rosary might be the means of bringing peace to our war-weary world.

This Place Is Familiar -- Do You Know Where It Is?

About four years ago, a group of NAS men found an old anchor on the beach, and then and there a landscaping idea was born. They thoroughly scraped it, painted it white, and placed it on a section of ground at the foot of a tree outside their place of duty. Its location was framed with an attractive plant border, and a few inches below the anchor's shank, in large red letters imbedded in the earth, they spelled out—NAS FIRE DEPT. Like the rest of the grounds around Fire Station No. 1, this scenic spot is kept in perfect gardening condition by the firemen themselves.

Where is it? You've probably passed it innumerable times, at the corner of Quentin Roosevelt Blvd. and Saufley St.

"No, They Haven't Come Out Yet!!"

This Week's News

at a glance

U. S. District Judge David A. Fine last Tuesday ruled that the President's seizure of the steel industry was "without authority in law" or the Constitution. His decision, probably of historic significance, was the first test of the "inherent powers" of a President under a period of emergency.

Meanwhile, 650,000 steelworkers began a walkout. Threatened with a 95 percent cut in steel production, the National Production Authority put a freeze on steel supplies.

The steel mills will not, however, be returned immediately. The U. S. Court of Appeals nullified temporarily the court injunction returning the steel mills to their private owners. A "staying" order postponed their return until a government appeal to the Supreme Court is acted upon.

Soviet jet fighters strafed with cannon and machine guns a French commercial airliner flying in the allied corridor to Berlin. Four persons were injured. With 25 holes in its fuselage and wings, it was considered a miracle that the plane escaped being shot down.

A British, U. S., and French note to the Russians protesting the act was ignored. The Russians said the plane was not flying in the corridor. The French pilot said he was flying "precisely in the middle" of the prescribed air route to Berlin.

The Soviets did, however, apparently as consequence of the protest, ground their military aircraft in the corridor area.

The Japanese peace treaty became effective last Monday, returning the former U. S. enemy her sovereignty. It is expected, as indicated by Communist riots in Tokyo yesterday, that Russia will embark on a program to woo the Japanese into the Communist sphere or at least into a position of neutrality.

Despite the natural emnity between the two nations—dating back to the Russo-Japanese war—the Soviet Union and her satellites may offer trade agreements which would be tempting to industrial Japan.

United Nation truce negotiators awaited the Communists' reply to the "Package Plan" submitted to them. The plan provided for return of 60 percent of the Communist prisoners held by the United Nations. It also provided for a compromise agreement on the inspection team issue—neutral countries making up the inspection team would be cut from six to four, eliminating Russia. The Communists would also be allowed to build their airfields.

GEN Matthew Ridgway, UN commander in the Far East, was selected as successor to GEN Dwight D. Eisenhower to the SHAPE command. Participating European nations unanimously confirmed the President's nomination.

GEN Ridgway now holds the distinction of being the successor of two of America's most famous military leaders as well as holding two of the most important commands that a military leader can claim.

GEN Mark Clark was named to assume Ridgway's vacated UN command.

LCDR Morrissey Heads Station's N. R. Drive

The Navy Relief Society's "Annual Call for Contributions," which will be conducted aboard the Naval Air Station from May 4th to June 6th, will be headed by LCDR J. L. Morrissey, Administration Officer.

For the drive, Heads of Departments will designate a departmental drive chairman, and Division Officers will designate a divisional drive chairman. Each of these will advise LCDR Morrissey as to the telephone extension of each representative in order to maintain an accurate count of donations.

Navy Relief, whose purpose is to assist in times of need the personnel of the Navy and Marine Corps, will be the sole beneficiary of the drive. Keeping this in mind, it is far more important to have everyone contribute a little than to have a few contribute a lot. In this drive, 100% is the goal.

THAT MAN friday

Editor's Note: This week the NORTH ISLANDER starts a new feature, a weekly column written by different members of the staff.

For some reason or another, that first Tuesday in November of each Leap Year, like so many other special days in our calendar, seems to take on that "it's still a long way off" appearance until, one morning it's here! Then, we find ourselves wondering how we could have let it creep up on us without our knowing it.

Of course, you already know that this first Tuesday in November is election day and you're probably thinking to yourself, "And it's still six months away, so why the spiel?"

You're right! It is six months until the November 4 elections and we realize that, but this "spiel" isnt too early despite that fact. Remember this: that final voting day is merely the climax of several elections which, regardless of their seemingly limited scope at the time, are very necessary and extremely important.

In order to vote in all of these elections, voters who are away from their voting states must apply for and vote by absentee ballots issued by their particular states. Each state has set up its own individual rules and regulations governing absentee voting and definite deadlines have been established before which these ballots must be filed.

Absentee voters who desire to and who should take part in these vital preliminary elections must conform with these regulations. Proper steps should be taken by these voters to insure their voting privileges in these elections. Therefore, military personnel specifically, are urged to contact the designated voting officer for their particular units so that they may receive the most up-to-date information concerning ballots and voting in general.

For ship's company at Naval Air Station, of which an estimated two-thirds are eligible voters, the NAS Enlisted Personnel Office is providing all such information. Enlisted men should contact the office as soon as possible so that their ballots may be submitted before the deadline dates thus insuring their eligibility as voters.

True, six months still remain before the November 4 elections, but many states have already held primary elections to choose convention delegates and other states will be holding theirs shortly. So, if you don't want to "miss the vote," and military personnel should be greatly concerned with all elections, make all necessary arrangements for casting your ballot. It's later than you think!

A MINIATURE TOURNAMENT OF ROSES is what the Transportation Department Flower show turned out to be last week. (Left to right) Mrs. Lorena Valentine, Mrs. Gentiliska Graham and Mrs. Sally Rice helped arrange some of the numerous entries, best of which were judged as the three "Sutter's Gold" roses in the center box above. They were grown by Mr. S. L. Patterson, Transportation Officer.

Roses Predominate at Transportation Show

The greatest participation since its inaugural last December marked this month's Transportation Department Flower Show, held on Thursday, April 24, in Building 314. Over 40 single rose entries alone made that flower the favorite among April entries, and sweepstakes winner was Mr. S. L. Patterson, Transportation Officer. His class B entry, for three roses of the same variety, gained him top honors with a trio of "Sutter's Gold" blooms. Mr. Patterson also took first place in the single rose classification, and a second place in the sweetpea bouquet division.

Judges of the show were CDR Vernon Williams, chief of staff of Naval Air Bases in 11ND and 12ND; CDR F. W. Curren and LT G. W. Burton, from Public Works, NAS Alameda.

Other winners by divisions were: single rose, Gentiliska Graham, second, and Frank Payne, third; three roses, Frank Payne, second, and G. A. Saul, third; sweetpeas, Lorena Valentine, first, and W. W. Tout, third; single bloom, any variety, Gentilska Graham, Marylyn Harkrider, Lorena Valentine; best arrangement, Gentiliska Graham, Sally Rice, T. H. Fox; bouquets, J. C. Johnson, C. J. Buehner, O. C. Fletcher.

Building 5 Office Gets Turkish Bath

It wasn't that the people in Vocational Training were angry about anything last weekend, but nevertheless their administrative section in Building 5 got about as steamed up as a place can get without evaporating.

What happened was this: at some time during the weekend, the steam pressure regulator in the building's main office blew up. Because all windows and doors were thoroughly secured, detection from the outside was impossible. That's why at 0637 Monday morning, when Mr. Roscoe L. Creighton, Apprentice Training Supervisor, opened the door of Building 5, he thought he'd been sidetracked into the geyser country of Yellowstone National Park.

Thick, billowing clouds of steam swirled throughout the big room. A two-inch layer of water covered the floor. Desk tops were blistered and peeled, and blotters, wall charts, calendars and maps had turned into pulpy non-recognition. As the cool outside air rushed in, the swollen bases of overhead light fixtures began contracting and there was a succession of splintering crashes as the large white outer globes dropped sickeningly, one by one, to the floor.

Mr. Creighton's first and immediate action was to notify Public Works' plumbing and electric shops, located just a few yards away. In an amazingly short time, repairmen had restored order. The intercom system and all telephones and lights had gone out, but by noon phone service had been re-established. The soggy debris from the floor, walls and desk tops was removed quickly and efficiently. Material contained in the files was undamaged, and other records were set out to dry in one of the building's classrooms.

Since doors were closed to other offices in the building and to the upstairs area, none of them were affected. Classes were held all day as usual and on schedule, and by afternoon the curious onlooker who dropped into the administrative office could see only a thoroughly steam-cleaned, somewhat barren-looking office.

But over in one corner, someone had waggishly placed a large, printed sign which read: FLOOD SALE.

NAS Masons Invited To May 8 Ceremony

RETIREMENT

Q. IF AFTER 10 YEARS OF CIVIL SERVICE I RESIGN AND LEAVE MY MONEY IN THE RETIREMENT FUND, WHAT RATE OF INTEREST WILL IT DRAW?

A. Four percent compounded annually to 31 December 1947. From 1 January 1948 three percent compounded annually. No interest is allowed beyond the date of separation, unless employee separates to enter Military Service, or has over five years civilian service with rights to receive annuity at 62. Interest is there paid until the beginning of annuity or until the date of death, whichever is earlier.

Q. I WILL HAVE 30 YEARS OF CREDITABLE SERVICE AT AGE 55 AND WILL HAVE HAD A BASIC SALARY FOR THE FIVE HIGHEST CONSECUTIVE YEARS OF $3000.00 A YEAR, WHAT WILL MY LIFE ANNUITY BE PER YEAR?

A. $1402.50 per year.

Q. HOW IS THIS FIGURED PERCENTAGE-WISE?

A. One percent of $3,000 plus 25 multiplied by number of years, with a reduction of one-fourth of one percent for each full month under 60 years of age.

Q. IS THERE A WAY FOR AN EMPLOYEE COVERED BY THE RETIREMENT ACT TO INCREASE HIS ANNUITY?

A. Yes, you can purchase additional retirement annuities, but the premium payments cannot exceed 10% of your aggregate basic salary received since August, 1920.

Four Runners-Up, Two Champs Emerge From Pac-Fleet Team

By Bob Laible

Out of 80 initial starters in the All-Navy tournament, six who entered the ring last Wednesday for the final night of boxing were Pacific Fleet ringmen. Four of these emerged as runners-up, and two retained their 1950 All-Navy crowns. Sam "The Assassin" Williams, thrice winner of the title, and Kirby Seals of the Skyraiders, came through as champions.

Flyweight Johnny Eugenio lost a unanimous decision to Willard Ira of the Hawaii-Far East team in one of the fastest bouts of the night. Ira continually beat Eugenio to the punch in all three rounds. In the third, Ira had Eugenio leaning against the ropes and repeatedly belted him with stinging rights and lefts.

Willie Faulkner of the Naval Training Center, who has been fighting under Pacific Fleet colors during the tournament, dropped a split decision to Harold Mullins of the South Central team. Faulkner took a decisive first round by staggering Mullins several times with left hooks and right crosses. The South Central lad stuck with Faulkner throughout the second round, making that stanza pretty close.

Rudy Gwin, also of the South Central delegates, punched out a unanimous decision over Felix "The Cat" Franklin of the Pacific in a fight that was strictly boxing. The two boys only really mixed it in the third round, and Gwin connected enough to win by points.

Nolan Davis, a sure bet to come through with the title, lost his middleweight bout to Ed Kennett, another South Central scrapper, by a cut eye in the first round. Davis opened the fight fast, and probably would have closed it faster, judging by his few minutes performance. Going into a clinch in a neutral corner, Davis came out with a gash over his left eye. After being examined by the doctor, the referee stopped the fight.

Kirby Seals, after battling his way through two tough competitors of which the first one, Jimmy Vines, he KO'd in 36 seconds of the first round, tangled with Allen Williams of the Hawaii-Far East team. Williams is the same boy that Kirby fought for the title in 1950.

The fight was frequented by many clinches and Seals didn't really open up until the final round when he rushed Williams, practically punching him all over the ring. Williams stayed on his feet, but the lashing he took in the final round cost him a unanimous decision.

Sam "The Assassin" Williams stopped his fight early. After throwing a hook into the solar plexis, Williams followed with a terrific right that floored Bob Baysinger of the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in one minute and 28 seconds of the first round.

The Captain Jack Kennedy trophy, awarded annually to the outstanding boxer of the All-Navy tournament went to Williams, who is the first fighter ever to hold the title three times.

Skyraider Boxing Coach Builds All-Navy Champs

How many times have you heard this question, "I wanna fight mister?" Perhaps the man on the Naval Air Station who has heard this phrase more than anyone is Skyraider boxing coach John Goudy, for in his 20-odd years in the fight game, he has handled well over 500 fighters, putting the gloves on most of them for the first time.

Goudy has been around the ring since the tender age of twelve when he first started training under the instruction of his stepfather, then a professional fight manager. At the age of 14, Goudy entered his first fight as a lightweight, and fought over a six year period, ending up as a welterweight.

Entering the Navy in 1930, he was assigned to the battleship USS NEW YORK, where he fought in some of the ship's smokers but soon gave it up because most of the fighters were turning pro, a practice that is now discontinued.

Goudy kept up with the fight game, more or less as a passing interest, until he came to North Island as assistant coach in 1946. At that time there was a better than average heavyweight here named Maynard Jones. Goudy took over as head coach in 1947, and that same year Jones fought his way to the All-Navy title.

In 1948, Goudy took in a lad who had very limited high school boxing experience. Under Goudy's tutelage he went to the quarter finals of the All-Navy in 1948, only to be defeated by stablemate Jack Woods. In 1949 this same boxer went to the finals of the All-Navy but was defeated by the Great Joe Connell. In 1950, still under Goudy's wing, he barnstormed Southern California, taking every heavyweight title available, for this was the great Kirby Seals, who now holds 26 amateur titles, a record seldom excelled.

Coach John Goudy

As far back as North Islander records indicate, there was never an All-Navy fighter from North Island until Goudy started coaching. And by the looks of things, he has built some fighters this year who may be future champs.

Air Pac Sports

by Bob Swisher

The AirPac Spring sports program kicks off with a bang Monday when softball lifts the curtain off the 1952 season. Tennis and table tennis start next Thursday, while golf got under way yesterday.

The softballers will be out to end FAIRBETUPac's one-year domination. The rabid Raiders last year went through their schedule without a defeat and climaxed things with a two-out-of-three playoff decision over VC-11. Again this season the Raiders and Comets will be in different leagues.

A new rule, which was inserted into the Intermural Regulation, may tend to make more of a hitters' league this season. The rule states that no pitcher who pitched on a Double or Triple "A" team, either last year or this, is eligible to pitch in the AirPac league. The classifications are determined by the Amateur Softball Association.

This bombshell will keep such hurlers as Adolph Mason, of FASRon-110, Leo Pich, FAIRBETUPac, and R. W. Ray, of VC-11 from the firing line. However, it doesn't exempt them from action elsewhere on the diamond.

This, plus the fact that last year's terrible trio of Larry Higgens, FASRon-691, Tom Cole, VC-11, and Bob Biddle, FAIRBETUPac, are elsewhere pulling duty may lift many a batting average.

Favorites will be who you wish. Unlike other years, when teams anchored by the Biddles, Coles and Higgins were top heavy favorites, the 1952 race promises to be wide open.

Games will be played every day Monday-Friday, with the exception of Wednesday. Starting time is 1100.

Softball Men Drub Elliott; League Baseball Starts Next Wednesday

The Skyraider softball team started off their Eleventh Naval District league season by blasting the Camp Elliott nine Monday on the Mainside Diamond. The Skyraiders ended up with a neat 7-1 victory. The baseball team, on the eve of their initial league game with PhibPac which is due to come off Wednesday May 7 at Navy Field, overpowered the Camp Pendleton Marines 7-5 Monday on the Towers Field diamond.

THE BATTERY—Charged with high intensity is the arm of Bob Fesler (left) as he talks "things" over with his partner in arms Hollis Lucas, Skyraider catcher prior to last Monday's game.

The Skyraiders will play one more practice game before they start their league season. That will be against the powerful San Diego State Aztecs on their home diamond Tuesday.

Last Thursday, the softball team tied with Turner's Builders in a game that lasted eight innings and was halted because of rain. The game ended four all.

Bob Fesler pitched a no-hitter for four innings Monday against Camp Elliott before retiring the mound to John Huffman. Huffman hurled the remainder of the game allowing only two hits. Gary Glick continued his hitting streak by slamming another home run. Elliott's lone scorer was their pitcher, Johnston, who scored off a single by Morrison.

Dick Kerr was winning pitcher for the Skyraider baseball team, while Manchester was losing pitcher for Pendleton.

Bob Heller, Skyraider catcher, led the Airmen's hitting efforts, three-for-three, while Hap Ivy was heavy hitter for the day, knocking a homer in the first inning and later drawing two singles.

Randolph and Palmer led the Marine's hitting with three for five and two for four.

Tonight at 2000, the softball men will play a rematch with Turner Builders on the Mainside diamond. Monday they face Miramar at Mainside; Wednesday, the Naval Station there, and Thursday they play Austin Plumbers here at 2000.

Fasron 691, Squadrons Dominate Raider Squad

By Marsh Johnson

Attending a Skyraider practice session on Towers Field early this week we observed a squad that is dominated by FASRon 691, with eight men fighting for varsity berths.

Scanning the outer garden, we noticed that 691 will be represented at all three outfield positions when the 'Raiders open their regular season against PhibPac next Wednesday afternoon. H. S. Ivey, T. J. Weaver, and O. D. Finley, all of FASRon 691, are the probable starting flychasers, with R. E. Christensen, also of 691, ready and able to move into the front line at a moment's notice.

T. E. Futch of FAU will probably start at first base. His power at the plate is expected to help the Skyraiders immensely as the season progresses.

At second base, P. S. Green of FAU and B. L. Johnson of VS-892 are waging a battle to see who will be the regular pivot man come opening day.

B. N. Hancey, classy fielder from FAIRBETUPac, seems to be the top prospect at shortstop but a close fight is in progress at third base to determine who will be the starter there. E. T. Kozeliski, another FASRon 691 product, and C. R. Blackstone of FASRon 7, will be fighting it out right through to opening day. Both men are of top-flight calibre and, regardless of who wins out, the 'Raiders will be assured of a reliable man to handle the hot corner.

R. R. Heller, No. 1 catcher, and P. E. Pardue, crafty southpaw pitcher, both of FASRon 691, will undoubtedly be the battery in many important Skyraider tilts throughout the coming season. Backing up Heller and ready to take over back-stopping duties in case of an emergency are W. F. Hill of 691, and W. E. McDonald of FASRon 7.

Pitching strength is expected to be plentiful in the Skyraider camp this season with Manager LT H. G. Speed having an experienced six-man stoff to help out. In addition to Pardue, R. L. Yerby of NAS, B. B. Campbell of VS-53, V. L. Richards of VS-892, B. L. Smith of FASRon 7, and R. A. Kerr of the Badeong Strait, are all expected to see plenty of action as the Skyraiders move through their 11th Naval District schedule.

'Raider Golfers Humble Aztecs

The Skyraiders varsity golf team, playing their second league match, defeated the San Diego State College Aztecs 50-4 Wednesday at Mission Valley.

Walt Axcell of NAS was low with 73 strokes while Sota of Ream Field followed closely with 75.

NAGA NEWS

The monthly "ACE" tourney will be held on the Circle R Golf Course next Wednesday. The tournament will commence upon each individual's arrival.

Registrations must be at the NAS Golf Range prior to 6 May.

A Corner on SPORTS

By Bob Laible

HARTE RETURNS TO SAN DIEGO

A few weeks ago we carried an item in the "corner" to the effect that light-heavy Frank Harte of '48 and '49 fame might be back to display his fistic talents under Skyraider colors. Last week while moseying around the boxing gym who should show up but the KO specialist himself. Harte is now attached to a squadron at Miramar, and may return to North Island to continue where he left off two years ago.

Readers may remember that Harte decisioned Jesse Barber in 1950 during the Golden Gloves, but left for duty overseas prior to the All-Navy classic. With Harte out of the way Barber went on to win this title.

If boxing does continue throughout the summer, it is more than likely that Frank Harte's name will once again be prominent in the headlines. By the way, Frank says he has learned to box a little better, but still carries his Sunday punch, a tremendous left hook that has floored many an opponent.

SLATTERY KO's MACK OVER TV

Middleweight Bill Slattery scored a first round knockout over PhibPac's Willie Joe Mack week before last over Hollywood's KNXT. Slattery had Mack on deck twice before sending him down for the final count.

Last Tuesday at the Wilmington Bowl, five more members of the Skyraider boxing squad filled out the card. Howard Prestwood decisioned Henry Martin, Don Malvezzi drew with Fred Vaca, Bill Slattery decisioned Ed Lastra, and Dale Kite fought the semi-windup, drawing with Danny Duran. Ed Jackwin, entering his first fight since sustaining a cut eye in the opening rounds of the Pacific Fleet tournament, fought the main event, decisioning Ralph Antunez. All the Skymen's opponents were civilians.

MALVEZZI DUE FOR DISCHARGE

Featherweight Don Malvezzi turned in his gear last week heading for the separation center. Malvezzi, who was a runner-up in the Southern California Golden Gloves, AAU champion, and Pacific Fleet runner-up says he might continue boxing in the state of Connecticut. Good luck Don.

KITE UPSETS NATIONAL GG CHAMP

In last Friday's quarter-finals of the All-Navy tournament, Dale Kite of the Skyraiders, fighting as a flyweight for the Eleventh Naval District during the All-Navy classic won a decision over Victor Perez of the mid-Atlantic team. Perez is the 1952 National Golden Gloves champion.

FASRon 7 personnel, in a festive get-together at the Navy Field "Tropical Gardens" last Saturday, were entertained by popular talent from North Island. Shown above are Buddy Viotti (left), leader of the "Madcaps" band, and guitarist Gene Upton accompanying vocalist Margie Butler.

'Spring Frolics' Party Held by Fasron Seven

Fleet Aircraft Service Squadron SEVEN held a squadron party, "Spring Frolics," April 26 at Tropical Gardens, Navy Field.

Music was furnished by Buddy Viotti. Jane Pulford performed a by Louise Aguilar and Margie Butler. Jane Pulford performed a hula dance, while Ken Sansom, North Island's versatile impressionist, did his imitations of Hollywood stars.

Prizes were given to the two best dancing couples and four two-day passes for enlisted personnel were given as door prizes.

Hostesses from the NCC club and Waves attended. Jim Gray, AOC, was in charge of arrangements under the supervision of LT Ed Henry, Squadron Welfare Officer.

Refreshments were served, and a good time was had by all.

This Week's MOVIE MENU for NAS

SATURDAY, May 3—"THE CLOUDED YELLOW," starring Jean Simmons and Trevor Howard. Although technically discharged from the Secret Service, David Somers (Trevor Howard) is maneuvered into taking a restful job in the country, cataloguing butterflies for Jess Fenton (Barry Jones). Jean Simmons is kept in seclusion because of a clouded memory about the death of her parents there some years before. Hick, a local handyman, annoys Sophie and when he is murdered she is suspected. Somers is not only convinced of her innocence but of some plot to keep her mind clouded, so takes her away and lays a trap for the killer.
SHORT: "Wrestling Rogues."
Running Time: 1 hour and 43 minutes.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, May 4 and 5—"MY SIX CONVICTS," starring Gilbert Roland and Millard Mitchell. Dr. Wilson (John Beal) has the important assignment of being the first psychologist to work in a certain prison as part of a reform movement. He knows if he fails it will react against his field of work. The warden is skeptical but the prison physician is cooperative, warning him to wait for volunteers for his staff, as the prisoners have learned about him through the "grapevine." The convicts don't relish anyone trying to find out what goes on in their minds, but slowly he wins their confidence.
SHORT: "Let's Go."
Running Time: 1 hour and 59 minutes.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY, May 6 and 7—"BEND OF THE RIVER," starring James Stewart and Arthur Kennedy. With James Stewart, former Missouri Raider now going straight, as the guide of a group of Western farmers going to Oregon, meets Arthur Kennedy, a one-time companion of Stewart in Missouri. In Portland the expedition contracts with Howard Petrie, owner of a river steamboat, to send cattle and food upstream a month later. When the boat does not arrive, Stewart returns to Portland to find a gold rush in progress and Petrie profiteering on supplies, with Kennedy as his partner. In a desperate fight, Stewart kills Kennedy and the riverboat arrives in time to avert disaster.
SHORT: None.
Running Time: 1 hour and 56 minutes.

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY, May 8 and 9—"DAVID AND BATHSHEBA," starring Gregory Peck and Susan Hayward. King David (Gregory Peck) falls in love with Bathsheba (Susan Hayward), neglected wife of Uriah (Kieron Moore), a hardened soldier. Remorseful, David tries to send Bathsheba away, but their romance flames. The Ark of the Covenant is brought to Jerusalem and a tabernacle is built; then a drought strikes the land, and during this crisis Bathsheba tells David she is pregnant. David is blamed for the plight of the people, and mobs howl for the adultress, Bathsheba. David's prayers are answered by torrential rains, and it is indicated that he and Bathsheba may in time be forgiven through constant prayer.
SHORT: None.
Running Time: 2 hours and 3 minutes.

ELECTRONS

By WINDY SPLICHAL

Congratulations to Katie and Jimmy Tate, who this week became the proud parents of a dark-haired baby girl. Katie, formerly of the Cable Shop, is at the Mercy Hospital with her new daughter.

The Radar Shop has taken on a new look this past week. You might well say the workers are looking through rose colored glass.

About one-third of Shop 4264-1 turned out to the Repair and Flight Division Dance last week and a grand time was had by all.

Helen Cash is back to work after three days of illness.

Hangar 68 bid farewell to John D'Spain and Joe Wilkerson, who resigned from N.A.S. for employment elsewhere. Dorothy Mizger has resigned due to ill health. We are sorry to see these employees leave, but wish to extend our well wishes.

Betty Beers is looking hale and hearty after a seige of the measles.

It's really time for a vacation when things out of the ordinary begin to happen. Paul Harshberger recently walked into a Safeway store and before going through the turnstile reached into his pocket for a nickel. "Ace" Wischstadt was to report a stock number to someone else over the phone and dialed the stock number instead of the phone number desired. A short vacation is what is needed.

We will all be anxious to see the Baseball Game at the Electronic's Division Picnic on June 7. Hangar 68's Hotshots have challenged the Cable Shop Cuties to a fight to the finish battle. May the best team win.

Welcome back to Donald Steimetz, who recently returned to NAS after an absence of nine months.

Martha and Ivan Puryear (Radio Shop) are the proud parents of a set of twins born on April 20th at the Chula Vista hospital. The boy weighed in at 6 lbs., is named Russell, and his sister, who weighed 5 lbs., 4 ozs., is named Roberta.

Mildred Black, Lorraine Anderson and Vivian Harrison have gone home to await the visit of the stork.

form of lectures and movies conducted by Robert W. Jackson, public relations director of the National Automobile Club.

In two lectures Monday, Mr. Jackson emphasized the need for individual responsibility in safe driving. Only by strictest regard for good driving habits and traffic laws can the accident rate be reduced. His views were illustrated in the film "A Day in Court," which showed seven traffic offenders charged with violations that perhaps every driver has committed at least once in his life.

Looking Back

One Year Ago at NAS—

The veteran seaplane tender USS GARDINERS BAY returns to NAS from duty in the Far East with former Naval Air Executive Officer, CAPT Frank G. Raysbrook, as skipper.

North Island's "Fliers" met the Naval Training Center's "Recruits" in the baseball season opener at Towers Field. Results: Boots, 6, Naval Air, 2.

Two Years Ago on North Island—

The Third Annual Mullinnix Skeet and Trap Shoot match draws a record crowd to the NAS Skeet Range. Charlie Rapp, Beverly Hills sportsman, took the Mullinnix Trophy.

The NAS golf driving range was officially opened this week as CDR Frank G. Raysbrook, Commanding Officer, drove the first ball.

The USS SHIPMATE, repainted and with a brand new crew aboard, is standing by at the NAS boat house waiting for the first of many fishing parties which will use her throughout the coming fishing season.

Naval Air Station Five Years Ago Today—

"Mauler" Mason, the bantamweight blaster from NAS, smashed out a three-round decision over Engrana Aragon of the Naval Station in his Area Championship finals here. Maynard Jones, heavyweight, beat team-mate "Smiling Jack" Scheberies the same night.

LA Hotel Plans Officers' Luau

The "Lure of the Islands" will reign supreme on Sunday, June 8, when the Ambassador Officers' Club holds it second annual Hawaiian Luau party.

The informal party will be held in the patio at the Ambassador Hotel on Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles, from 1630 until 2000. All armed forces officers from the area have been cordially invited.

Wing Shop News

The gals and guys really did enjoy that free coffee, given them by Joe Matyas. He is the proud father of a baby girl named Jill Marie.

It was none other than Ollie Steger who went fishing in Mexico last weekend and caught 18 large crappies in less than two hours.

It was nice to have Velma Vincent back on the job after being off on a vacation.

The Wing Shop boys have a ball club called the Rinky Dinks. The club consists of 11 ball players; Tony Vitrano has been chosen captain. This club is willing to meet any other team on or off NAS.

CAG 5 Gets New CO In Ceremonies Here

Commander C. V. Johnson assumed command of Carrier Air Group FIVE during ceremonies here last Tuesday.

He relieved CDR M. U. Beebe, commander of the air group since orders to the Naval Air Test Center at NAS Patuxent River, Maryland.

Commander Johnson, a former enlisted man, served aboard the battleships USS NEW MEXICO until entering the Naval Academy in 1934. He graduated in June 1938.

In February 1941, he received his wings at NAS Pensacola, Florida, and reported to a scouting squadron aboard the carrier USS RANGER, in the Atlantic Fleet. While operating from this ship, during the invasion of North Africa in June, he assisted in the destruction of the JEAN BART, a French battleship being used by the Axis forces. For this action he received the Navy's third highest honor, the Navy Cross.

His squadron was then transferred to the Pacific Fleet, and flew from the USS ESSEX and the USS BUNKER HILL. He participated in all the important battles from the Marcus Islands to Japan.

By Max

Taking first place last Friday evening in the San Diego Dance Cavalcade was Lillie Villarin of Statistics, who brought home a handsome trophy for her and her partner's excellent performance in the art of waltzing.

Good luck to Liz Benson, who gained a promotion, but is leaving us for O&R as a timekeeper next week.

Welcome to our new messenger, Herb Francis, who came from another Island: Rhode, that is!

Congratulations to the new CWR Committee members—Millie Rose, Steve Fouquette, and Olga Merinkers. Also to the new Shop Committee—Joe Funston, Ted Vaught, and James Palmer.

Reminder: This is the final day for turning in the questionnaires regarding our Luau evening at the El Morocco.

Chiefs Add Shuffleboards To CPO Club

Shuffleboards will be a new addition to the recreational activities of the Chief Petty Officers' Mess (Open), Manager A. V. Jelinski, MMLC, has announced.

"In response to many requests from CPO club patrons," says Chief Jelinski, "we have decided to obtain the shuffleboard equipment." No date was given when the equipment will arrive and be ready for use.

The CPO Mess (Open) at ALF Ream will also install shuffleboard, it was announced.

'Pirates' Sign O&R Man's Son

April was a proud month for Charlie Mayers, Leadingman of O&R's Shop 3280 in Building 1. A letter this week from his son Jerry, who was 19 years old last Saturday, revealed that the boy is going great guns with the Pittsburgh Pirates' farm team up in St. Jean, Quebec, Canada.

Young Jerry was a three-year Letterman at La Jolla High, where he excelled in baseball, football and basketball. Before his graduation last year, a Pirate scout who had seen him in action on the diamond signed him up as a rookie. In March he received orders to report for farm training at San Bernardino, and left San Diego State college, where he had enrolled early this year.

After two weeks in San Bernardino, Jerry was flown to workout headquarters at Leland, Florida, and upon completion of another two weeks' training, he advanced from class D to class C status. From Florida he journeyed up to Quebec, where he'll cover second base spot for the Pirate outfit there.

Jerry's letter to his folks is full of enthusiasm for St. Jean and its French-speaking inhabitants. He reports that they are tremendously fond of baseball, and will inaugurate the season in style next week at their new $45,000 field.

Another big reason for Mr. and Mrs. Mayers' elation was their recent initiation into the ranks of grandparents. Their other son, John and his wife announced the birth of a daughter, young Toni Lynn early in April.

Information On Extensions

The following table is the specific implementation by the Navy and Marines of the executive orders which extended enlistments.

The tables take into account the two previous extensions and list the month in which men affected will be eligible for release. The month of normal expiration of enlistment is itemized and the planned month of release from active duty (unless released sooner under some other special program) appears to the right.

Spring Sets Pace For Fashion Show

A fashion revue featuring the newest Spring styles in feminine apparel was held Tuesday night at 1930 in the Building 8 auditorium. Commentator for the show was Mr. Lewis Kipperman, and spectators included NAS Waves and dependents of Station military personnel.

A musical background was provided by Mrs. Wm. Penn, pianist. Modeling the new outfits were Waves and members of the Tau Omicron Phi sorority. Participants included Mary Kay Heyn, Bette Guimont, Carol Pamperin, Sara Ellis, Ann Roswall, Norma Heck, Joan Sands, Mary McCabe and Jane Pulford.

What!! No Popcorn?

The O&R sparkplug shop (Shop 6250) is no longer in the popcorn business. Since last September, popcorn had been used experimentally as the packing material for overhauled sparkplugs prepared for shipping.

The shop's popular popcorn popper, which has manufactured the unique packing material for the last seven months, was retired recently. The Bureau of Aeronautics has authorized a new cellulose product for the packing job.

Toastmistresses Club Meets

The North Island Toastmistress Club met at the NAS Commissioned Officers' Mess (Open) Tuesday of last week. A fashion show followed the luncheon meeting.

Guests included regional director of the International Toastmistress Club, Gertrude McMahon, of Santa Ana; Lois Hall of El Cajon, chairman of Council 7; and Josephine Bucket of San Diego, secretary of Council 7.

Jo Rogers, president of the club, extends a cordial invitation to prospective new members.

A FULL HOUSE WAS IN THE CARDS last night in more ways than one for the Coronado Players when the curtain went up on the premiere performance of Huxley's "The Gioconda Smile" at the Playhouse on the Strand. Four members of the cast are shown above in one of the three acts of the murder-drama. They are (left to right) John Reed (Dr. Libbard), Ed Moore (General Spence), Lucille Neal Parsons (Nurse Braddock), and Dolly McVey (Janet Spence).

NAS Thespians Seen In 'Gioconda Smile'

Last night's premiere performance of the Coronado Players' production, "The Gioconda Smile," opened the Playhouse's summer season. More than 200 enthusiastic theater-goers watched the Huxley "Smile" beam across the stage of the Playhouse on the Strand for the first time in Southern California.

One of the most outstanding and warmly received aspects of this production, other than the excellent performances turned in by the "Gioconda" cast, was the superb sets and lighting effects arranged by Jon Savage specifically for this seldom-produced drama.

Parsons, Reed, Moore From NAS

Lucille Neal Parsons, John Reed and Ed Moore, all Naval Air Station civilian employees, were featured in "The Gioconda Smile" cast. Mrs. Parsons, employed at the Family Hospital, portrayed Nurse Braddock, and John Reed was Doctor Libbard. Ed Moore, who became employed in the NAS Supply & Fiscal Division only last week, added another success to his already impressive list of theatrical successes as General Spence.

Huxley's "Smile" centers around the theme of reason for the smile on the face of the lovely Mona Lisa, the portrait by da Vinci. Huxley injects a similar smile into his play and gives murder as its motive.

Ends May 10

"The Gioconda Smile" will be presented this evening, tomorrow evening, and Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings next week.

Membership in the Coronado group is open to all interested persons and offers experience in all phases of little theater work.

Pride Takes a Fall as Plane Hits the Ground

Even when the famed P-40 was at its peak in production, it was a rare occasion indeed to see the sharp-nosed fighter cavorting around a naval base. But last Sunday at ALF Ream, according to eye witnesses, a sleek, new P-40F was seen to take to the air from runway 270 to grace the lazy afternoon sky with some choice maneuvers that gladdened the hearts of even a few naval pilots that happened to be on hand.

After executing a flawless chandelle, the little plane pulled up sharply into the sun, and with a sickening cough and sputter suddenly stalled, fell off on its port wing and plummeted to the ground in a tight, deadly spin. The spectators stood stunned for a moment, as if rooted to the ground, but one man, seemingly more alert than the rest, ran to the scene of the crash to see what could be done.

Strangely enough, that interested party was the pilot of the aircraft, and he wasn't hurt a bit, except for his pride. You see, the little P-40 was a radio control model that Marwin W. Winingar, AM3, Utility Squadron Seven, had been working on for the past month at the Ream Hobby Shop in his spare time. He had put a lot of hours in on that little job, but he had enjoyed every minute of it because model making is his hobby.

Undaunted by the accident, Winingar salvaged the motor and radio gear and is determined to put a sister ship in the air in a couple of weeks, with more gratifying results—he hopes.

HU-1 Scores A 'First'

The adage of plans of mice and men recently developed into a "first" for Lieutenant C. L. Kennedy, Officer in Charge of Unit 20, HU-1. Lt. Kennedy was flying Colonel W. K. Davenport, Commander Island Defense, to direct his troops on a planned mock invasion of a small island off the coast of Korea when Communist shore batteries forced a temporary change of plans.

Col. Davenport utilized the helicopter's radio to direct Marine fighter aircraft, British Naval Units and his own troops to silence the annoying enemy shore batteries. This action is believed to be the first time a helicopter has been used to simultaneously control sea, air and ground forces against the enemy.

Award Winged 'S' To Men of HU-1

To show their appreciation of the fine work done by the pilots and crewmen of their aircraft, the Sikorsky Aircraft Corporation, Bridgeport, Conn., awards them with a citation and a "Winged S" lapel pin. This citation and pin is given those who directly participate in a life saving mission either on land or sea. Although given only once to a man, 106 of these awards have been presented in the past year to the pilots and crewmen of Helicopter Squadron One.

VU-3's Master-at-Arms Is Its Landscape Artist

Utility Squadron THREE's landscape artist deluxe is the M.A.A. of barracks 61, Henry Kerswill Jr., BM1. Henry reported to VU-3K in July 1951 from the USS ROGUE, but prior to this, "Boats" as he is commonly called, has had quite a tour of duty.

He enlisted in the Navy in Philadelphia Oct. 8, 1917, and took his boot training at Norfolk, Va. He then reported aboard the USS MISSISSIPPI when they commissioned her in Dec. 1917. After a few years on the Battleship MISSISSIPPI, he broke his service between the years 1921 to 1927, but the lure of the Navy was too great and he re-enlisted in 1927 and reported to the USS PENNSYLVANIA in San Francisco.

From 1927 to the present day, which covers a little less than 29 years, Kerswill has served aboard battleships to tugboats and from Training Centers to Air Stations.

But what Bos'un takes personal interest in, is the beautification of the sleeping quarters of the Squadron. With the assistance of Ivan Berry, AN, Harold Anspaugh, AN, Gene Davis, AN, and Frank Vandervort, AN, in the planting of flowers, grass, hedges and trees together with putting curtains and new lockers in the barracks, he has tried to make the men's living conditions pleasant and to make the barracks a home to the flying sailors of Utron THREE.

"Boats" recently celebrated his fifty-third birthday and thirty years of married life. He is a member of the Masons, some eight years, belonging to the Blue Lodge, Military Service Lodge No. 570, in San Francisco and the 32nd Scottish rites on Guam. His hobby, well, as he says, "I'm a tinkerer. Anything I can do or make with my hands."

As far as future plans, Kerswill says, "I'll definitely make the Navy my career."

HS-2 Tops In Bowling, Tennis

Ream Field Bowling Champs, HS-2 supported by other bowlers of Ream Field, lost out to FAD San Diego in the ComFair San Diego play-off. In the first two of a three series the newly acclaimed ComFair Champs defeated Ream Field 4-0 and 3-1.

Before falling by the wayside the ball rollers of Ream Field had victories over VC-61 of Miramar, VU-3K, and HU-1.

For the Ream Field tennis championship, HS-2 holds first place by winning the first four matches of a twelve-match series.

Two of the wins were over VU-7, both ending 4-1. The other winners were VU-3, 5-0, and HU-1, 4-1.

LT Hampton, McCollum PNSN, Goff AMAN, and Wilson AL3 make up the winning combination.

VU-3 Drops Ball Game to HU-1

Reaching for their sixth straight victory, VU-3K dropped a 4 to 1 decision to HU-1 at Buchi Field last Tuesday.

The score was knotted 1 to 1 at the top of the fifth inning on Carl Anckner's third home run of the season, but HU-1 picked up three runs in their half of the sixth that sewed up the tilt.

Each side punched out three hits, but the three big errors on Utron THREE'S ledgers plus some questionable decisions made the difference.

John Arce pitched his first game for the losers, taking over the reins from Snow and Zollers, VU-3's first-line pitchers, who have been transferred.

Utility Squadron Three still remains atop the league standings with five wins and one loss.

Use Your Hobby Shop

More and more of the squadron personnel are realizing that the Ream Hobby Shop is a handy place to spend a spare hour or two at night or on week ends to develop a project. Model making, leather tooling, plastics, wood working, and auto mechanics are just a few of the facilities placed there for their benefit.

VU-3 Linksmen Outplay HU-1

Utron THREE'S aggressive golf team got back on the winning path by again blanking HU-1, 12-0, in an intra-squadron tee match on the Caliente greens last Friday, April 25.

It was VU-3K's third shutting out of an opponent out of four contests. With LT. Drelicharz, ace linksman, on the sidelines, LT. Fancher led the Dronemen with an 85, followed by J. S. Lang, AEAN, 86, Charles West, ADC, 89, and LT. Donovan with a 90.

Team Captain Charlie West gives out a call for squadron men to try out for a station team. It will be a minor league and a four-man VU-3 team is needed immediately.

HU-1 Pilot Aids In Ocean Survey

To once again prove the usefulness of rotor-winged aircraft in this scientific age, LT R. M. Christensen, HU-1, recently flew a helicopter on an ocean temperature survey for the Scripps Institute of Oceanography which is located in La Jolla.

AAU Track Meet Set for May 17 At Balboa Bowl

The Third Annual AAU track meet, sponsored by the Southwest Pacific Border Association, will be held Saturday, May 17, at Balboa stadium. The meet will feature open college and service competition, in addition to the high school events.

No teams will be entered, and each contestant will be entered individually.

All running events and hurdles will be conducted in metric distances, in preparation for the coming Olympics. Trophies will be awarded to winners in the open division, and medals to the high school entrants.

Anyone wishing to enter should contact Ralph Smith at City Recreation in Balboa Park, prior to May 14.

Were You Puzzled Last Week?

North Islander readers may have noted a certain discrepancy between last week's crossword puzzle and its answer.

This fact was brought to the attention of the Islander staff on several occasions last Friday. "It is heartening to note," declared the editor, "that we have so many faithful readers." He assures all crossword puzzlers that in the future, puzzles will be carefully proofread before being published. This task will be assigned to a person, said the editor, who knows that "mail" is not a word for "gem weight."

To rectify the error and end the suspense, last week's puzzle answer as well as the current one is being published.

June Opening Slated For EM Beach Club

Naval Air Station's new Enlisted Men's Club, now under construction on the EM Beach, will open its doors to NAS personnel sometime in June, according to word released this week by the Station Public Works Dept. and Special Services division.

Work was begun on the new club building, which will include the latest club and entertainment accommodations, February 6, with the moving in sections of the Naval Ground Defense Force Building across Rogers Road to the EM Beach area. The definite completion date and the opening will be announced within a few weeks.

Two Wings

Plans for the new EM Club Building, which is being constructed under the supervision of the NAS Public Works Department, provide for a north and a south wing which will partially enclose a patio, furnished with barbecue pits, picnic tables, and other picnicing accommodations.

The south wing will house showers and bath-house facilities for EM beach-goers and the center spaces, which connect the two wings, will be used for a snack bar and a section of the dance floor. The remainder of the dance floor, an orchestra stage, and a movie projection booth, situated above the level of the dancers' heads, will be located in the north wing.

Area Filled In

In order to assure that the building would be above high tides at all times, four feet of sand was brought in to raise the foundation level.

Excavation for the foundation blocks, which were also formerly part of the NEGDF Building, was done by portions of the 26 enlisted man crew and 15 civilians employed on the project.

Tunnels were constructed from the east side of the building to nearby Building 666 for sewer pipes, water and gas lines, and electrical wiring.

PW Officer in Charge

CDR J. R. Davis, Naval Air Station Public Works Officer, is in charge of construction with CHCARP Fred Renner and CARP L. M. McKnight acting as associate on-the-job supervisors of construction. J. Roemer, DC1, is the petty officer in charge of the Navy crew and the civilian workmen are under the direction of C. P. Fuller and Jack Faulkner, Shappers in the Public Works carpenter shop.

NAS Begins Auto Safety Inspection Next Week

Beginning Monday, May 12 the Naval Air will initiate a safety inspection program for all vehicles operated by civilian and military personnel on the station.

The inspection, conducted in co-operation with the San Diego Police Department and California Highway Patrol, will consist of a thorough 29-point check of all autos. The SD Police Department's "100-percent" sticker, issued in the current San Diego car safety program, will be given to autos passing all the prescribed items in the safety check sheet. Autos carrying the special sticker will not be required to undergo the similar San Diego safety inspection.

Supervised by the NAS Security Department with the assistance of I&E and Transportation personnel, the safety check will be conducted daily, 0800 to 1600, at the approach to Gate 2 (Coronado First Street entrance). The program will continue through May until all cars are inspected. There are 7000 vehicles registered on the Station.

Scheduling for the safety check will be handled by departments. Each department will be notified by telephone as well as in the "plan-of-the-day" when its personnel are to have their cars in-

Old Permits For Harbor Dr. Lot Expires May 15

Deadline for replacement of parking permit stickers for the Harbor Drive parking lot has been set for May 15, the Security Department's Traffic Section has announced.

On that date, the gold car-pool and blue individual-driver stickers will become invalid.

The Traffic Section is now completing the calling in of old stickers and issuing new ones. This move was made necessary to reduce the congested parking condition in the parking lot and to reapportion its 1285-car capacity on a more equitable basis.

Allocation of space is being carried out on a percentage basis by departments, with permits issued to civilian and military motorists alike. Departments have already been notified of their share in the space allocated.

New decals permitting parking in the Harbor Drive lot are being sent directly to department heads or supervisors for distribution.

Operations Dept. Scores 100% in NR Contribution

The Navy Relief Society's "Annual call for Contributions", was answered yesterday by the NAS operations department personnel with a resounding 100% score. This mark was reached only 4 days after the drive began at NAS.

The Navy relief fund campaign began May 4 and will last until June 6. Personnel are urged to contact their divisional representatives.

The Navy relief Society will be the sole beneficiary of the funds received in the drive. The Society's purpose is to assist in times of need the personnel of the Navy and Marine Corps.

Rather than establishing any monetary goal in the drive here at NAS, emphasis has been placed on 100% participation by personnel. It is considered more important that every one contributes a little than to have a new contribute a lot.

Ungraded Job Review Starts Next Week

First in a series of annual maintenance reviews of ungraded positions, established to determine the accuracy of each employee's rating in the light of his work assignment, as well as to allow any indicated adjustments, will be conducted at NAS beginning next Thursday, May 15. At that time the Industrial Relations Department will supply supervisorial personnel with check list forms for distribution to their respective employees holding ungraded positions.

Immediate supervisors will be responsible for instructing each employee to complete the form appropriate to his job, and covering the duties performed by him during the past year. Every check list form carries a job title, and lists the duties normally included in that particular category. The employee strikes out any words or sentences not applicable, and may also add any pertinent duties not included on the form.

In turn, the immediate supervisor will review each completed form, supplement it if necessary before signing it, and refer it to the next higher level of supervision for initialing and approval. All forms will then be forwarded to a Maintenance Review Committee, for receipt by May 26.

This Committee, which will screen and certify all properly classified positions and make recommendations covering questionable assignments, will be com-

Dorsey Band Plays Tonite

Naval Air Station personnel and their dependents will start "getting sentimental" to the music of Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra tonight at the NAS Theater, when the famed Trombone-man and his crew present an hour-long "in person" stage show.

Doors open at 1815, and admission to both the Dorsey musical revue and the regular film presentation which follows at 2000 will be free. After the theater appearance, the group will play for the Officers Dance at the Commissioned Officers Mess (Open).

Numbers made famous by the Dorsey aggregation will highlight the musical presentation, which will also feature the talents of various soloists in the band.

221 Pints of Blood Given by Squadrons

Sixty pints of whole blood, received in donations here Tuesday, were flown to the armed forces in Korea Wednesday from Travis Air Force Base, near San Francisco.

The 60 pints were part of a 221 pint donation to the armed forces held at the NAS Infirmary Tuesday. Making the donation were personnel from North Island-based air units. Fasron 691 personnel led off blood contributions with 164 pints. Fasron 7 men gave 37 pints and personnel of VR-32 contributed ten pints. Ten additional pints were given by individual donors from several other units aboard the station.

The voluntary contributions were handled in record time by the doctors, nurses, and assistants from the San Diego Blood Bank mobile unit and the Red Cross. The blood operation began at 0800 and continued at a rapid pace, hardly with any interruption, until all 221 volunteers had made their donations at 1345.

The blood remaining from the 60 pints delivered to Korea for immediate use was sent to a blood processing center in Los Angeles. After being processed into plasma, it also will go to the armed forces overseas.

The 221 volunteers will be attending a Padre baseball game in the near future. Each donor was given a free pass to one of the local games.

Future dates for armed forces blood donations have been scheduled as follows:

Tuesday, June 3—Civilian Personnel.

Friday, July 11—Military Personnel.

Tuesday, August 5—Civilian Personnel.

Friday, September 5—Military Personnel.

'Operation—Home'

We read frequently about "operation plans" that were in the planning process for months. With great skill they were executed by many people as planned. I wonder if we are planning our homes with a similar skill. My home is not an ideal one but it is one of reality. It is composed of several people and is constantly in the building process. Alterations are frequent. They are agreed upon but are not always completed. To the best of my knowledge no one seems to be suffering from what may be termed "a lack of stability or security." We have all agreed upon one thing and that is, "This is my home."

People live in our home. Therefore it is not always a place of peace and quietness. Everyone does not see "eye to eye" so there are many disagreements. They are serious at times, but soon they are forgotten. This is the building and alteration process. These are changes — not radical ones—but little changes that help to ease an unhappy situation.

My home is certain. It may move but there is great comfort in knowing I will always have a home. Why am I so sure? Because I am at home wherever I may be. Is home, then, a fictional place? No! It is a reality. Wherever a person may live, that can be his home.

In my home there is laughter and there are tears; there is work and there is play; there is joy and sometimes there is grief; but always there is love. This is my home. God is as much a part of my home as I will let Him be. When He is left out there is little peace of mind and heart, and it is a place of frustration and anxiety.

Operating and maintaining a home requires planning — much planning. We may leave out some of the material things and the home will not suffer, but there is one thing I am sure we must not leave out and that is—God.

We and our plans may be altered by circumstance, but God will give us the stability to stand firm. This is the greatest source of security that I know. On this basis my home is being built and it is in operation now.

This Week's News

at a glance

The Korean armistice talks reached a deadlock stage this week and it was possible that all further discussions might be broken off.

The showdown was reached after the Communists demanded the involuntary return of war prisoners held by the Allies. President Truman declared the U. S. "will not buy an armistice by turning over human beings for slaughter or slavery."

If talks collapse it is believed by many observers that sanctions will be applied against Red China.

Naval Aviation Marks Forty-First Birthday

Yesterday, May 8, 1952, marked the forty-first anniversary of Naval Aviation. On that date in 1911, Captain W. I. Chambers requisitioned the first airplane for the United States Navy. Today, 41 years after an unceremonious beginning, Naval Aviation has assumed the position of a major division of America's first line of defense.

When the records of World War II are examined, it is obvious that the Naval Air Force has definitely come into its own. The battles of Midway and the Coral Sea are but two of the many encounters which give evidence of the prowess of the Navy's fliers and planes. Practically every operation of any significance in the war saw the Navy flyers in full command of the sky—an invaluable support to sea and ground activities.

Although 41 years have passed, it is plain to see that this is only the beginning of Naval Aviation. Once again it is helping to rule the skies, now over Korea, and with an admirable record behind it, it is easy to see that the Navy's "sky-fighters" will come through as always before.

Editor's Note: This week the NORTH ISLANDER runs the second in a series of weekly columns written by members of the staff.

Most natives of Southern California are apt to say, when questioned about this year's unusually wet winter, "Why, it hasn't been this wet since the floods of '35."

It is true that this winter has produced the wettest season in the past 12 years, but it is also true that the good from these excessive amounts of snow and rain will greatly outweigh the bad.

This writer recently took a tour of the area some 60 miles northeast of San Diego, which includes Cuyamaca, Alpine, and Julian. During the trip, a "casing of the joint" was accomplished. The conclusion drawn was that I, along with most of the real authorities in this area, believe that the coming summer months are shaping up as a banner season for Southern California's near-million rod and reel enthusiasts. For the first time in seven years, Southland lakes and streams have been restored to normal water levels and, what's more important, many will be stocked with more catchable fish than ever before.

There are a multitude of favored "fishing holes," located within easy driving range of both the Metropolitan San Diego and Los Angeles areas. Included are all trout waters being stocked by the Department of Fish and Game this season and popular warm-water fishing havens where bass, bluegill, crappie and catfish will be hitting.

For the week-end angler, there are a variety of streams, lakes and reservoirs in the area not more than 70 miles from San Diego. The most promising of these include: San Vincente Reservoir, north of El Cajon on U. S. 78; and Sweetwater river on the Cuyamaca Road, north of Descanso.

For the man who desires that one or two-week vacation with nothing to do but fish, the "Popular High Sierra Havens" provide everything from tops in fishing to scenery beyond description. This "fisherman's paradise" can be reached by traveling some 450 miles north on U. S. 395.

The next time someone seems perturbed about the rain, and has nothing good to say for "Mother Nature's" efforts, why not relate to him the FISH STORY you've just read.

The Place Is Familiar

Away back some 30 years ago, the mighty marker pictured above rested on the North Island side of the old Spanish Bight, with the Army's Rockwell Field on the other. Later it graced the foreground of the NAS Administration Building, until in the late thirties it was moved to its present location at the base of McCain Blvd., historically similar to the original demarcation line.

On-Station drivers using the Main Gate pass its imposing bulk each morning and afternoon, on their way to and from their jobs. Have you ever seen it?

Suggestions Pay Off in O&R Hose Assembly Section

Over 3,000 man-hours have been saved each year through beneficial suggestions submitted and adopted by the men assigned to the Hose Assembly Section of O&R's Metal and Machine Division Shop 3280. It is believed to be the only such section at any Air Station which operates in the Metal and Machine Division, other NAS activities relegating it to their Accessories Division.

Today the five men regularly assigned to the Hose Assembly Section here are doing the work it took 11 men to accomplish three years ago. Located in a concentrated yet comfortable 27x30-foot area in Building 1, the Section is responsible for the assembly of all hydraulic low, medium high and high pressure hose used at NAS. Besides its assembly function, the Shop operates an allied fuel and oil and self-sealing hose cut-off service. In addition to the five regular employees, the Hose Assembly Section also trains both civilian and military personnel.

Suggestions by men now in the Shop, as well as by former employees, have included new assembly, testing, installation, safety, tooling and measuring methods. They have not only resulted in savings of thousands of dollars and man-hours to the Navy, but have brought monetary awards to the men submitting them.

Three years ago a back-log of 40,000 obsolete hose assemblies existed. Due to over-age hose, the fittings on these assemblies were salvaged and re-used. The Section is responsible for the 100% replacement of all over-age airplane hose, and meets its commitments promptly and accurately. The time now required to manufacture hose assembly, ready for distribution, is 7½ minutes, in quantity orders. The Section is equipped to manufacture any type and all sizes of hose, with a present daily output of 400 assemblies.

Each employee is an expert in his field, and produces at top efficiency. This is especially remarkable in view of the fact that three of the men are 62 years of age, and another is almost totally blind.

Not content even now with the smoothly running operation they have achieved over the past three-and-a-half year period, the men of the Hose Assembly Section are working on still more ideas to improve and increase their productivity. Under development are a faster hose-testing method which will eliminate the present time-consuming hose and ring coil assembly union and the use of wrenches and vises, and a process for affixing burr tags to separate hose assemblies, which would do away with the present identification tab procedure involving color coding, date tags and taping operations.

The record of the Hose Assembly Section constitutes a real challenge to all NAS shop personnel who are also interested in achieving maximum work output at minimum cost, through employee-submitted suggestions.

BENNY SUGG BEAMS APPROVAL as he notes the changes effected in O&R's Hose Assembly Section as a result of employee suggestions. Working at the hose coupling machines, final step in the assembly process, are (left) C. A. Wagner and (right) C. C. Allen. Frank Rice (center) stacks hose which is ready for cleaning and inspection. Not shown are Joe Lagasse and Adolph Brodman, many of whose suggestions have been adopted for use in the Section.

Employee Service Creed Gets Wide Endorsement

Text of a "Federal Employee's Creed of Service," endorsed by the Civil Service Commission, Federal departments and agencies generally, employee organizations and other groups, was released this week by the Industrial Relations Department.

For the information of all NAS personnel, it is printed in full below:

THE FEDERAL EMPLOYEE'S CREED OF SERVICE

"We as members of the civil service accept our opportunity to serve the American people well and in full measure, doing our best to further the free and democratic institutions of our country.

We believe it is our duty to—

Carry out loyally the will of the people as laws:

Serve the public with fairness, courtesy, integrity, and understanding;

Help improve the efficiency, economy, and effectiveness of our work; . . . and thus do our part in performing the great services of the Government."

DISCUSSING PLANS to make this a banner year in NAS Civilian Welfare and Recreation Association history are the committee's newly elected officers. They are Roscoe T. Morse, O&R, chairman (at right); Rose Gregor, Public Works, secretary, and Fred Ball, Public Works, vice-chairman. The three were chosen to head the activity in the recent NAS civilian elections.

NAS Blood Account Needs Volunteers

A May 15 call for volunteer blood-donors to help continue the build up of the Civilian Blood Account for NAS employees and their dependents was issued this week by the Industrial Relations Department. As a result of donations received in April, the reserve is now 60 credits to the good. However, it has been established that this amount represents only enough for a one month supply at the present rate of demand. In order to create a wider safety margin against future needs, the goal for next Thursday's donations has been set at 75 units.

Volunteers are asked to signify their intention to their supervisors by turning in the completed coupon below before noon on Tuesday, May 13.

COLUMN RIGHT

ITEMS OF INFORMATION FOR CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

Q. What are the requirements for an increase from Step 3 to Step 4 under the new regulations?

A. The employees' performance and conduct must meet the criteria below:—

(1) Conduct. No disciplinary action has been taken against the employee during a waiting period of 52 weeks of creditable service.

(2) Ability. The employee, by knowledge, experience, and aptitude, can, in the judgment of his immediate supervisor, other supervisors familiar with his work and the Foreman of the Shop or Unit, perform the major operations normally required of his trade or occupation.

(3) Performance. The employee's performance is superior in quantity, quality and adaptability. The employee's performance shall be judged on the basis of the following five items only. Note that it is not necessary that the employee qualify under all five items. If he qualifies under item (a) and any one of the remaining four, he qualifies under this criterion.

(a) The employee's performance of work assigned exceeds normal requirements with respect to quantity and quality.

(b) The employee readily adapts himself to new and changing job situations with much less than the usual amount of supervisory instruction and follow-up.

(c) The employee is frequently given assignments which demand a higher degree of quality, skill, speed or accuracy than is normally required.

(d) The employee is frequently given assignments requiring the solution of problems unusual to the operation or type of work involved.

(e) The employee is frequently selected to work with and "break-in" new employees, or other employees on new or changd operations.

Q. When will I be considered for Step 4?

A. After you have served 52 weeks of creditable service in Step 3.

Q. How is action initiated for recommendation to Step 4?

A. When employee becomes eligible a "review form" is sent by IRD to the Foreman of the Shop where the individual is employed.

Q. Who will recommend me for Step 4?

A. Your eligibility will be considered by a Committee consisting of line supervisors who are familiar with your work.

Q. What further action is necessary if the Committee of line supervisors recommend approval of Step 4?

A. This must be approved by chain of command up to and including the Commanding Officer.

Q. If I am not initially eligible, when will I again be considered for Step 4?

A. Only at intervals of 6 months.

Q. Do I have to have an "O" performance rating in order to receive the 4th step?

A. No, the criteria listed above will make an employee eligible.

Q. Is the 4th step limited to a percentage of the number of employees in a shop or division?

A. No, the 4th step is given on merit of the employees as per the criteria.

Q. Is there a station notice on the 4th step? When does it become effective?

A. Yes, NAS SD Notice CP 195. 15 May 1952.

Sure, she's patient; she's had to be
Since the day her boy first went to sea.
That morning he left, "Don't worry," said Dad,
"The Navy will take good care of the lad."

But nevertheless, as Mothers will,
She wondered who'd comfort him when he was ill,
And if he would get enough food to eat,
And remember to keep his hair combed neat.

With all that water, (she let herself fret)
Wasn't he certain to get his feet wet?
And in treating the cold, would he do what was best?
Would there be someone there who would rub his chest?

The letters she got didn't tell her much—
Just the places he'd been, and seen, and such.
But she managed to hide the ache in her heart
By reminding herself he was doing his part.

So as time went by, her pride in him grew,
And by smiling, she knew he'd be proud of her, too.
After all, she thought, he's no longer a boy;
He's outgrown my worrying, just as a toy.

Then at last come the day she'd so long awaited;
"I'll be seeing you soon," he'd written, elated.
As he hugged her so tightly she thought she'd smother,
"Welcome home," she gasped, "from your Navy Mother!"

330,000 Homes Damaged By Fire Each Year in U.S.

Each year fires occur in approximately 330,000 homes in the United States. On an average, 12,000 persons are killed and many thousands more injured. Eight persons lost their lives by fire in San Diego the first four months this year. One of these fires need not occur in your home if you possess a healthy respect for fire and take common-sense steps to eliminate the causes of home fires.

It is the aim of the Fire Prevention Division of your local Fire Department, near your home, or here at the Naval Air Station, to point out the common fire hazards in the home and show they can be eliminated.

SMOKING

Careless smoking causes 30 percent of home fires. These fires do not occur in homes where smoking materials are disposed of properly and smoking is limited to safe areas.

Common-sense smoking hints:

1. Smoking in safe places. "No Smoking" areas in the home include beds, closets, attics, and the work bench when shavings are around or flammable liquids are being used.

2. Use ash trays with built-in fire safety. Desirable built-in safety features are low center of gravity, adequate size (at least 4 inches diameter) and cigarette rests above the interior of the tray, or sloped toward the interior.

3. Place ash trays for convenient use. Plenty of ash trays, distributed for easy use, contribute to the pleasure and safety of smoking.

4. Dispose of ash tray contents so fires will not start. The silent butler or other covered metal container is a safe place to empty ash trays. It is far better to leave ash trays unemptied a few hours than to empty them in unsafe places.

5. Be careful with matches. When "lighting up" out of doors and in other areas where ash trays are not available, it is particularly important that the match is out before being tossed away. (Only safety type matches are allowed on the Naval Air Station.) It is a good idea not to discard the match until the head is cool enough to touch.

6. Keep awake while smoking. Too many lives are lost and homes destroyed by sleepy smokers whose cigarettes fall on their clothes, upholstered furniture or bedding.

7. Smoking is prohibited on the Naval Air Station:
   A. Where "No Smoking" signs are posted.
   B. Within 50 feet of gasoline, paint, oil, or other flammable liquid storage.
   C. Within 50 feet of aircraft.

Introduce Four Bills Affecting Servicemen

Four bills recently introduced in Congress are of interest to service personnel. The proposed measures are:

1. A bill to provide free postage for members of the Armed Forces.

2. A bill to abolish special pay for physicians and dentists of the uniformed services.

3. A bill to provide combat-duty pay.

4. The following bills to amend the Career Compensation Act of 1949 were also introduced:

a. To reduce and equalize the monthly rates of certain categories of incentive pay prescribed for members of the uniformed services for hazardous duty.

b. To provide for the reduction of certain station allowances.

c. To reduce and equalize the monthly rates of flight pay and submarine pay prescribed for members of the uniformed services.

Mother's Day Tribute to A Working Grandmother

"By "Windy" Splichal

Our choice to pay tribute to this Mother's Day is Edna Wheeler, Limited Electrician, in the Plug overhaul section of Shop 4259. Edna is the grandmother of five and one of four living generations of girls.

Her mother is 71-year-old Ivie Hensley, who lives with her at 2285 Grand Ave., Pacific Beach, Calif.

MRS. EDNA WHEELER

Edna was born in Linton, Indiana, and when only six months old she moved to Puxco, Mo. Here she grew up and went through school. In 1924 she married in Flint, Mich. She is the mother of Virginia, age 27, Anna Mae, age 22, Nona, age 18, and Eugene, age 10. All of her daughters are married and have families, and all live some distance from their mother and grandmother. Her oldest daughter, Virginia, lives in Venice, Calif., and has a son who is one year old. Anna Mae lives in Fort Wayne, Indiana, and has a son, age five, and two daughters, age 3 and 9 months. Nona, who just recently visited her mother, lives in Memphis, Tenn., and has a daughter a year old.

In 1943, just a year after Edna's son was born, she went to work at General Electric in Fort Wayne, Ind., to aid in the war effort. She worked at General Electric until 1947 when she moved to California.

In August, 1948, she came to NAS as a helper electrician and in January, 1951, was promoted to limited a/c electrician.

Everyone enjoys working with Edna, for she has a beaming smile for everyone and loves to talk with others. She goes out of her way to help anyone who needs a little assistance.

So this Mother's Day we extend to Edna three wishes. Good luck is the first, good health the second, the third is for more joy than ever before.

Get Him! A Real Clown--Buddy Viotti, That Is

At a recent performance of North Island Productions' presentation, "Liberty Hop," this reporter overheard (purely by accident of course) a conversation between two numbers of the audience who were obviously enjoying the show a great deal.

Their conversation, which primarily concerned the "characters" in the show, ended with the conclusion that "all Viotti needs is a circus 'cause he's a natural-born clown."

Well, Viotti finally got a circus, even if he did have to give it back, and is now a full-fledged clown. Here's the story of Buddy and the circus:

Saturday, April 26, Buddy Viotti, Naval Air Station performer-au falt, dropped in to the Clyde Beatty circus offices to visit an old friend and one time fellow vaudeville cohort, who is now featured as "Mingo," the Circus Clown, with the Beatty show.

"Mingo" and Viotti recalled old times when they traveled the vaudeville theater circuits together as clowns. After their visit, "Mingo" introduced Viotti to Clyde Beatty, who, after hearing of Buddy's previous background, invited him to participate in the jester capacity at the matinee and evening performances scheduled the next day. Buddy accepted.

The next afternoon, a new personality stepped into the center ring of the Beatty show. He went into the rehearsed routine with the other clowns and then, like a grease painted A-bomb, exploded into a routine all his own. Yep, it was B. Viotti, red-nosed, big feet, and all. The crowd roared, but then they usually do when the inimitable Viotti, garbed in jester regalia or in mourning habit, steps before them.

NEW ENLISTED MEN'S CLUB OPENS IN JUNE

WHITE HATS AND CIVILIANS work side by side in spreading the fresh concrete for the foundation of the new building located on the Enlisted Men's Beach. The dance floor, constructed of concrete also, was poured in four sections, each with a total area of 2,875 feet.

"HIT THE NAIL RIGHT ON THE HEAD" is the slogan of carpenters T. J. Jones, SA, (left), D. J. Salley, AA, (center), and H. R. Moore, SA, who add their "downbeats" to the symphony of noises made by the construction crews now completing the final phases of work on the new EM Club building. Twenty-six Navy men comprise the military crew now working on the building.

"BAR NONE" will be one theme strictly observed in the new club building and to insure that there's no misunderstanding, D. J. Atherton, AN, (left), W. W. Lovejoy, AA, (left center), P. A. Callaway, AM3, (right center), and E. E. Unger, AMAN, remove the bars from the window of the former NEGDF Building which was moved, redesigned and remodeled for the new club.

CHCARP FRED RENNER, associate on-the-job supervisor of construction, conferrs with E. C. Page, MM1, in deciding a proper course to take in moving a section of the former NEGDF Building into position on the EM Beach. Page and his tread-tractor moved the building in sections from its previous position to its new location.

Fairbetupac Gets Artist

Frank R. Hill, draftsman illustrator seaman, is one man who believes in "showing 'em how" and he's got plenty on the ball to do just that.

Frank, in addition to creating charts and illustrative morale-builders for the FAIRBETUPac school command, is the Staff Artist for the Unit's weekly newspaper, the BORDER REVIEW and has, from time to time, had cartoons in such magazines as "Our Navy," "Saga," "Signs of the Times," "Male," "Mister," "Speed Age," "Sports Life," "Sports Stars," and numerous other trade periodicals.

The artist is a reserve and reported aboard FAIRBETUPac on 21 March where he was assigned to the Visual Presentation Section. He was at Treasure Island, San Francisco, prior to coming here and reported there from inactive duty in Santa Cruz, Calif. He was an employee of the Fred Tool Advertising Agency in Santa Cruz and a well-known local artist.

NR Carnival Show Group Featured At SD Home Show

The NAS Navy Relief Carnival show troupe, starring Buddy Viotti and Bob Bibb and his Western Rhythmasters are currently the featured entertainment of the San Diego Home Show at the Electric Building in Balboa Park.

The NAS military entertainers will appear continuously tomorrow and Sunday from 1400 till the 2200 closing hour.

The Western Rhythmasters will appear at the NAS Enlisted Men's Club tonight at 2030 till ?, for the entertainment of NAS-based enlisted personnel and their guests.

Highway Deaths Exceed Total U.S. War Dead

A comparative study of U. S. war and traffic deaths conducted by the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies reveals that more lives were lost in highway accidents since 1900 than in all the nation's wars during the last 177 years.

The number of the nation's war dead since the Battle of Lexington, April 19, 1775 totaled about 1,055,000 on the 177th anniversary of that historic engagement, the Association reports.

Air Medal Awards To 5 VP-40 Men

At brief ceremonies held last week in Bldg. 245, CAPT J. B. Paschal, Commander, Fleet Air Wing 14, presented five of the officers now serving with that group with Air Medals and temporary citations for devotion to duty.

The five officers, who had completed 20 patrol plane missions over hostile territory in Korea, served with Patrol Squadron 40 on its last deployment in the western Pacific.

Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy, Commander, Naval Forces Far East, made the awards to LT Walter N. Benoit, USN; LTJG James R. Whitehead, USNR; LT Jerome R. Matross, USN; LTJG John W. Wood, USN; and LT Alfred G. Truebe, jr., USN.

Navy Adopts British Carrier Catapault

A new British aircraft catapult will be adapted for use on U. S. aircraft carriers, the Department of the Navy has announced. Recent tests proved that the catapult, which is powered by steam from the carrier's boilers, could hurl Navy jet fighters into the air even when the carrier was at dockside or headed downwind. First installation will be made on the Essex class carrier USS HANCOCK.

Popular Wave Becomes Civilian

Rosemary Kramer, popular NAS Wave, receives her "walking papers" today, and assumes the duties of an un-military housewife.

Mrs. Kramer, wife of ENS George Kramer of Fighter Squadron 721, has been aboard the Naval Air Station for more than two years, and has been attached to the Public Information Office as a JOSN. In that position, she helped lay the foundation for such events as this year's Navy Relief Carnival to be held July 31, August 1, 2 and 3.

Teleman's School Opens in June

Establishment of a new school for training personnel in the teleman's rating at the Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, Md., has been announced by the Department of the Navy. First classes will begin June 2 and will run for 16 weeks. The school, which is designed to train recruits, will begin a new class every two weeks.

Some NSLI Holders Now Given Choice In Refund Return

Military personnel who have a partial waiver of premium but who are paying full premiums by allotment on permanent plan government life insurance politices have a choice in the way they may obtain refunds.

They can either write to the VA and ask that refunds be sent to them with interest once a year or they may allow the waived portion to accumulate at interest until they are discharged or released from the Service. If they choose the first method they should include their name, address to which the check should be sent, Service serial number and the numbers of the insurance policies.

Involved in the program are permanent plans of NSLI and USGLI such as ordinary life, 20-pay-life, 30-pay-life and endowment plans. Term insurance policies are not included. About 100,000 military personnel are affected.

About BOOKS

THE LETTERS OF PRIVATE WHEELER, edited by Liddell Hart.

Private Wheeler, an English infantryman in the Napoleonic Wars, might be considered a 19th Century Ernie Pyle. His recently discovered letters throw a different light on the bitter twenty year struggle between Britain and France.

The letters describe the horrors of the battlefield and the amusements of the camp from the standpoint of the foot soldier. While history books may describe Waterloo in terms of the strategy of Bonaparte and Wellington, Wheeler, writing hardly before the cannon have cooled, refers to this turning point in European history, as "that three-day battle."

Even if it is just another battle to him, his vivid description of the bloody fighting would be a credit to any modern combat journalist.

CAESAR, by Gerard Walter.

The biographies of Caesar number literally in the hundreds, so perhaps there seems little justification for this latest one. However, earlier biographers of the great Roman figure have frequently been subject to wild prejudices and bias, showing either passionate contempt or reverent idolatry for the man. Many Caesar myths which have no basis in truth have been perpetuated by some of these biographies.

Walter, a French historian, works entirely from authenticated source material. He does not gloss over Caesar's occasional affinity for cruelty and licentiousness, nor does he overdramatize the conqueror's humanitarian deeds.

The book is lengthy and at times over scholarly, but if one can forget the terrors of ninth grade Latin, he will find Caesar as fabulous as any fictional character in a historical novel.

Assistant SecNav Qualifies on Carrier

Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air John F. Floberg has qualified as an aircraft carrier pilot by completing three solo landings on board the flattop USS CABOT. A native of Chicago, he served as an officer in World War II.

SULTRY Adele Mara, curvaceous starlet for Republic Studios, poses in the latest togs of what "the well-dressed cowgirl" will wear in 1952. Betcha there's going to be more than deer and antelopes roaming the prairie this year!

A WOMAN'S TOUCH IS ADDED TO NECKERCHIEF TYING . . . as Mae Entwisle, Miss VP-731, squares away R. H. Olney, airman, during her inspection of the squadron. She was elected queen of the NAS based patrol squadron and crowned in ceremonies at North Island last week.

VFW Participates in Hospital Dedication

North Island civilian members of the Coronado General Henry D. Styer VFW Post 2422 and Auxiliary will participate Monday in dedication ceremonies of the new wing added to the Coronado Hospital.

Post Commander Henry F. Hoppis, of Engine Overhaul, announced that the VFW Post is donating a flag pole and a set of National Colors to the Hospital during the dedication ceremonies.

NAS WAVE Betty Haddy, AT2, from Special Services Division, has volunteered to be the "official bugler" for the ceremonies. Miss Haddy, who has participated in other Coronado civic functions this year, earlier sparked an All-Navy talent show at the Village Theatre in conjunction with a 20-30 Club Rheumatic Fever Benefit.

Ceremonies will commence at 1600 at the Coronado Hospital. All NAS personnel are invited to attend.

Fasron 7 Will 'Frolic' Again

Spring is no dreary season at Fasron 7. The NAS-based unit is planning its second "Spring Frolics" party at Tropical Gardens, Navy Field, May 17. Like the previous April 26 party a grand array of entertainment and festivities is scheduled.

The Naval Training Center band will provide music with Don Howard, local radio personality, acting as master of ceremonies. Other entertainment includes the novelty act of Bostic Weston, door prizes, plus other attractions.

The party will begin at 2000, lasting till 2400.

LT Ed Henry, special services officer, and Jim Gray, AOC, are in charge of arrangements.

Ronnie's Battle, Aided By Fasron 701, Ends

Members of Navy Fleet Aircraft Service Squadron 701, Miramar, certainly tried.

Ronnie Whitecotton of Grand Prairie, Texas, son of a squadron member, had developed the dreaded disease leukemia.

A sailors' white hat was passed around. Three-hundred dollars was raised to assist Ronnie's father with medical expenses. The Navy gave Ronnie's father a transfer to the Naval Air Station, Dallas, Texas, so he could be near his stricken child.

Squadron members felt good when they heard the child was improving.

The other day news came again.

Once again the men of the Dallas Reserve squadron took up a collection . . . to send a wreath to little Ronnie's funeral.

NAGA NEWS

NAGA members still have a chance to compete in this month's ACE tourney at the Circle R Golf Course by playing with a fellow NAGA member.

The play may be any day before 0800 May 11, and no earlier than 0800 May 7. Cards must be attested to by a fellow member and must be turned in to the Golf Driving Range prior to closing date so trophies can be awarded the eventual winners.

'Raiders Win Calif. State Skeet Title

The Skyraider five man skeet team returned Monday from the San Joaquin Open Skeet championships held in Fresno, Calif., over the week-end, and brought back several awards, including the California State Championship, five man All Gauge Double A championship, and five man All-Gauge service team championship.

The Skyraider team, four of whom shot their way to the Mullinnix Championship, shot a 493 out of a possible 500. W. C. Ellington, Fasron 691 and A. D. Cohen of VS-892 led the field, each shooting a perfect 100, but lost out on shoot-offs. Ellington won the runner-up trophy after knocking down 245 consecutive birds. This score also gave him the Service Champion title.

W. W. Eddington, L. W. Hughes and F. A. Lastrico, the three remaining members shot 95, 99 and 99 respectively.

Lastrico and Cohen also won the All-Gauge Double A and All-Gauge Service two man team championship shooting 199x200. Cohen was runner-up to Ellington for the Service Champion title.

This weekend, the Skyraiders were scheduled to compete in the First Southwest Nationals and Fifth Oleander Open Skeet Championships held in Galveston, Tex., but due to the gasoline shortage, a definite decision had not been made as of this writing.

What's The Catch?

F. H. Travers, GM1 of NAS, landed the first and only fish of the day aboard the NAS fishing boat Shipmate last Sunday. His catch, a 41½ pound White Sea Bass caught off Coronado Island, enables him to win a glass rod, reel and 200 yards of line. This was the fifth award given in the large fish derby now being held at NAS.

Although there were several hookups that day, Travers was the only one who landed his fish, using a Spanish Mackerel.

Airmen Drub Turner, Miramar; Face NTC Monday At Mainside

Last Friday night at Mainside, the Naval Air Skyraider softball team played a rematch with Turner Builders, defeating them 4-1. On their first outing, the two teams were forced to halt because of rain.

Monday, the Airmen defeated Miramar 10-5 for their third league win of the season. John Huffman, replacement for Bob Fesler who is getting discharged, pitched his first league win, allowing Miramar five hits.

The Skyraiders ended up with ten runs, twelve hits and three errors, while the men from Miramar had five runs, five hits and seven errors.

During the Turner battle, the game remained scoreless until the third inning, when Fesler got on with a single, and scored on a bunt by Jim Berard.

The score remained the same until the top of the sixth, when Turner scored their first and only run. Siegel got on with a single, and was brought home on a hit by Bressler.

In the bottom of the sixth, the Skyraiders turned on the heat, and scored three more runs. Jim Berard and Wayne Smith each got a single, and Harold Johnson hit a home run to right center field to bring in the three runs.

Coach Bob Greeley's Naval Airmen journeyed to the Naval Station Wednesday, but the score was not received by press time. Monday, the Skyraiders will face the NTC Bluejackets at 2000, on the Mainside Diamond.

NACRA BOWLING

John Allison of Supply and Fiscal was re-elected President of the San Diego Bowling Association during the organization's annual election Sunday at the San Diego Bowling Academy.

Other North Island employees elected for office were: Thomas Coughlin, treasurer; Wilbur Goodale, director; Charles Ellis, director, and William Oswald, director.

The Landing Gear team of the North Island bowling league will travel to Los Angeles this weekend to compete in the California State Bowling Tournament. The team is headed by Ray Farrell.

Anyone interested in forming a summer bowling league is urged to contact John Allison, X-697.

Cindermen Vie For AAU Title

Some of the biggest names in service track will be entered in the Third Annual AAU Track Meet sponsored by the Pacific Southwest Border Association scheduled for May 17 at Balboa Park.

In addition to the regular track events, a 400-meter low hurdle race will be added. This race is only held in the United States during the Olympic year.

Dick Attlesey, record holder for the 120-yard high hurdles will represent Los Alamitos in the meet, and will be making his third appearance in San Diego in less than a month.

Many top-notch cindermen from service teams in the San Diego area will be entered, and also members from the U. S. Naval Academy squad will be present.

There will be no team scoring and each contestant will be entered individually.

All running events and hurdles will be conducted in metric distances, to conform with Olympic rules. The meet will also feature open college and service competition and high school events.

Anyone from the Naval Air Station wishing to enter should contact Ralph Smith, at City Recreation in Balboa Park, Franklin 8956, prior to May 14.

Softball Season Starts Under Wave of Protest

By Bob Swisher

A new rule, which states that no softball pitcher who pitched on a Double or Triple "A" team, either last season or this, is eligible to pitch in the AirPac intermural league, has started a wave of protests.

With only two days spent in the 1952 season, a pair of protests are already awaiting judgment by the front office.

FASRon-691 was the first to growl, when VC-11 hurled chucker R. W. Ray in the opening game. A day later VA-55 followed suit by protesting FAIRBETUPac's use of Leo Pich.

The issue confronting the protest board is whether or not Ray and Pich can be classified as Double or Triple "A" pitchers, according to classifications set up by the Amateur Softball Association. If so, the protests will probably stand. They will be decided on Monday morning at 0900.

The big blast in early play was FASRon-110's smashing 20-0 rout of VS-21. Two other shutouts were turned in by FAIRBETUPac and FAW-14 as they won 12-0 and 4-0 games from VA-55 and VF-884 respectively. In other games, Ready Issue dropped VC-35 by 5-2, PAMI outhit VS-892 10-6, FASRon-7 nudged VF-721 8-5 and VC-11 won their game from FASRon-691 by a 10-2 score.

Skeet, Golf, Also Underway

In the skeet league, the combined VS-VC and ComAirPac staff team has taken an early lead with three straight victories. Following close behind are FAIRBETUPac and the combined NAS, S.D.-NAB Staff Club with 3-1 marks.

Three matches were turned in in the golf loop with FASRon-7 taking VS-892, VC-35 topping VS-23 and FAIRBETUPac measuring VP-40.

MANAGER HARVEY SPEED (right) plans his line of defense with coach "Ned" King in the dugout prior to Wednesday's game with PhibPac. Their strategy must have been "okay," because the Skyraiders dumped the Invaders 11-5.

Skyraiders Trip PhibPac In Initial League Tussle

The Naval Air Skyraider baseball squad, in its initial league game of the 1952 season, trampled the Amphibious Base Invaders 11-5 at Navy Field last Wednesday. The Naval Airmen posted twelve hits, eleven runs and seven errors, while the Invaders had four hits, five runs and two errors.

Vice Admiral I. N. Kiland, ComPhibPac, officially opened the game by throwing in the first ball. Brigadier General W. W. Davies was catcher, RADM L. S. Sabin was the batter, and VADM H. M. Martin, ComAirPac, was the umpire.

The Skyraiders were the first to draw blood, as Tom Futch got a double, enabling Dale Hancey to score. The Invaders rallied in the bottom half of the first scoring four runs.

The Airmen scored again in the third inning, as pitcher Burt Smith scored when Bob Johnson flyed out to center field.

The fourth inning remained scoreless for both teams, but in the fifth Smith again got on and tallied off a double by Ivey who later scored the second run during that inning.

In the sixth inning, the Skyraiders repeated their first inning's performance, crossing home plate five times.

"Blacky" Blackstone, Dale Hancey, Bob Johnson, Tom Futch and Hap Ivey each added another run for the 'Raiders.

Both teams scored one run in the seventh inning, Blackston for the Skymen and Larry Motley scored off Dick Ditz's double for the Invaders.

Tom Futch scored the last run of the game for the Skyraiders in the eighth inning, freezing the score 11-5, Skyraiders.

R. I. Takes City Volleyball Title

Coach Wally Hanna's augmented Ready Issue volleyball team knocked off the Naval Station last Tuesday night in a double elimination tournament to take the San Diego City volleyball title. The games were played in the City Gym, Balboa Park.

The Naval Station defeated Ready Issue in their first match 15-8. Ready Issue won the next game 15-11, but dropped their next one 15-8.

In the second match, Ready Issue won two straight 16-14 and 15-8 to take the title.

This marked the first time in the history of the volleyball tourney that two Navy teams have entered the finals, and gone on to win the championship.

Last night, Ready Issue entered the YMCA league tourney, which will be played on a "round robin" basis. This tournament will be played in preparation for the AAU tourney to be held in June.

Members of the team are: Wally Hanna, player-coach; Ralph Wickner, Ready Issue; M. S. Johnson, VC-35; D. T. Voll, VC-35; W. E. Schmidt, VC-35; J. E. Fletcher, VC-35; A. B. Bass, Fasron 7; S. K. Gutterez, Fasron 7; Don Mahl, VR-32; J. E. Carmichael, Ready Issue and Jesse Davis, AirPac.

Seals, Kite Headed For Annapolis

Kirby Seals, two-time All-Navy heavyweight and Dale Kite, flyweight semi-finalist from the All-Navy classic will represent the Naval Air Skyraiders in the American Olympic team finals at Kansas City in mid-June.

The two fighters left last Saturday for Annapolis where they will undergo intensive training for an Olympic team berth.

Sam "The Assassin" Williams, thrice winner of the title and present holder of the Captain Jack Kennedy trophy, Billie Hartman, Johnny Eugenio, Felix Franklin and Nolan Davis, other members of the ten man contingent of the Pacific Fleet teams are among the numerous fighters making the trip.

The boxers will train under Navy Head Coach Spike Webb at Annapolis. Other coaches and trainers accompanying the mittslingers are M/Sgt. Frank Veith, Cherry Point; M/Sgt. Freddie Lenn, El Toro; Bill Brennan, USS Mississippi; and Hugh Davidson, PhibPac.

C. E. LAIR, FASRon 691 pitcher fires the first pitch of the 1952 AirPac intermural season to catcher J. Hurd. The hitter is G. R. Dallas of VC-11. A few pitches later, Dallas blasted a home run to start VC-11 on way to a 10-2 victory.

No Biz Like Show Biz—Just Ask John

A nasal voice behind you says, "All, right, Looey, drop da gat." The first impulse is to drop it, but realizing that there is no gun, you turn around to see if "Humphrey" has one. Then comes a surprise—"Humphrey" has no gun—and "Humphrey" is not "Humphrey." 'Tis only LT John Armstrong, 1st Lieutenant of Squadron HS-2.

LT Armstrong is Johnnie Webster on stage, radio, and TV (who, despite popular concepts, is NOT 'the All-American Boy'), and in a few short years was well on his way to the top in his chosen profession. His career was interrupted in April 1951, when he was recalled to active duty involving flying with the Navy, which, next to show biz, is his favorite occupation.

John got his start in radio and after appearing on a series of smaller stations in Florida and Arizona, was announcer for station WDSU; New Orleans, and then for station WBNY in Buffalo, N. Y. Finally the lure of the stage captured John, calling him to Broadway and a beginning in the night club circuits with his partner, Red Kayne, in their duo impersonation act labeled "Webster and Kayne." Fortune smiled her widest grin on the pair when Arthur Godfrey booked the lads for his television and radio programs. Robert Q. Lewis and Steve Allen soon followed suit by inviting Webster and Kayne to participate on their respective shows. Thus, another door was opened on the long trip to the top and there was much in the offing, but Uncle Sam put a quick cap and zipper on the enthusiasm by issuing a recall.

Thus a career has been interrupted, and make no mistake, it is only an interruption, for LT Armstrong, USNR, alias Johhnie Webster, alias Humphrey Bogart, alias Peter Lorre, etc., never stays in character very long before assuming the local characteristics of another personality.

LT JOHN ARMSTRONG

Answer to Puzzle

Section X Aids VU-3 (K) EM's

Almost every day, new enlisted personnel are being transferred into Utility Squadron THREE. These new white caps, whether previously attached to a ship, Naval Air Station or a Training Center, are placed in an X Section to be indoctrinated in the policies of Utron THREE.

Section X is a seven-day introduction period to familarize the personnel with the Squadron. During the seven days that J. C. Johnson, AD1, instructs new men he must be sure that Squadron and station orders and policies are defined and understood.

Lectures also cover the most important Squadron organization, security, information and education service, station facilities, and information on Navy and State drivers' licenses.

At the completion of their first week with X Section, the personnel office then assigns these men to various sections according to their abilities.

Under the direction of division officer, LT. Dahms, and assisted by Charlie West, ADC, Section X has been instrumental in helping new VU-3K enlisted men feel that they are part of the Squadron.

North Island Pilot Rescued From Night Dunking By HU-1

The first night rescue of a downed pilot by a Piasecki Helicopter occurred at 1957 on May 1 near North Island.

The rescuing crew, Henry Cardoza, AD1 (AP) and William N. Hilton, AD1, had just landed after night flying practice when a "May Day" distress call came in from an AD down seven miles off the coast.

The pair quickly manned their helicopter and with the aid of illumination flares, quickly located and hoisted aboard LT W. D. Willis, of VC-11, North Island. The cold but otherwise uninjured pilot was flown to ALF Ream for medical attention.

HU-1 Unit Back From Korean Duty On British Carrier

Helicopter Unit 15 of Helicopter Squadron ONE arrived home at ALF Ream after completing its tour of duty in the Korean combat zone.

Unit 15 was based aboard the British carrier HMS Glory and conducted operations as plane guard in support of regular carrier operations in addition to transfer of personnel and mail. All hands were agreed that life aboard the HMS Glory was excellent but it was good to be home.

Officer-in-Charge of Unit 15 was LT C. H. Barfield, with ENS D. B. Dickson sharing the flying duties. Men of their crew who kept the helicopter in readiness at all times were Roy T. Baker, AD1, Crew Chief; Edward H. Williams, AM2; Donald C. Goodrow, AD3; Lee Paola, AD3; Ted J. See, AN; and James R. Wheeler, AN.

HS-2 Is Best In Intramural Table Tennis

HS-2 holds first place in tennis and ping pong for the intra-squadron championship at ALF REAM.

During the past week the tennis team defeated VU-7, 3-0, to bring their winning streak to five straight. The team led by team captain McCollum, YNSN, of personnel office, promises to bring home the trophy to be added to the bowling and handball trophies previously won by HS-2.

During the week ending May 2, HS-2 also were victorious in golf, softball, and table tennis.

The golf team, led by LTJG Bob Brower, defeated VU-3, 11-1, at the Caliente course in Tijuana.

Play-offs for the golf championship will continue throughout June.

The softball squad defeated VU-7, 3-2, in a hotly contested game. Stanley, YNSN, of the squadron personnel office was the winning pitcher with a brilliant two-hitter. Future competition between these two squads promises to be keen and will bear close observance.

VU-3 Softball Team Tops HS-2

Utility Squadron THREE defeated HS-2, 5 to 1, in an intra-squadron softball game played at Buchi Field last Tuesday, May 6.

John Arce pitched the whole seven innings to pick up his second victory, while allowing but four hits. The game was won in the first inning when the dronemen batted in two runs.

Home runs by Charlie Stevens and Bill English, with one aboard, scored three runs in the bottom of the third to ice the contest. HS-2 managed to put one run across in the top of the sixth, but the fire was put out and VU-3K won their sixth game of the season.

VU-3 Is Stationed All Over Pacific

Outside of regular operational duties, such as radio controlled aircraft, VU-3K, one of the busiest drone squadrons in the Navy, supplies targets for ships' gunnery exercises. These KD's, pilotless aerial target units, are high speed targets that are radio controlled from the ship or shore installations.

There are presently 597 men in Utility Squadron THREE, 135 of whom are attached to KD Units all over the Pacific. Three of these Units are stationed with the Squadron at Ream Field and two at nearby Border Field.

There are KD units with the USS MANCHESTER, USS BREMERTON, USS ROCHESTER, USS ST. PAUL, and the Battleship USS IOWA.

Besides the shipboard units, Utron THREE has a drone "Nolo" Unit at NAS Atsugi and Neho, Japan. Composed of thirty-two men, this far eastern unit has won acclaim for their fine work and cooperation with the Air Force, which is based nearby.

NORTH ISLANDER

Armed Forces Day, 1952

We are the members of the Armed Forces of the United States of America.

The uniforms we wear symbolize the Freedom, Equality and Justice for which our country stands. Both at home and while serving in other lands, we are true representatives of democracy, and as such we are helping to keep alive the spirit of free men everywhere.

Our Unity embodies one of the basic principles upon which our Nation was founded—the ability to work together, with a convergence of interests, toward a common goal. In our Strength lies the essence of that goal—the will to protect our cherished birthright as Americans, and to insure the perpetuation of our democracy against those who would challenge it. Our Freedom flies with the flag under which we are united, and is the common denominator which binds us—the men of the Armed Forces—together, as we serve our country with pride in peace or in war.

Unity, Strength, Freedom!

Why The Eternal Fear?

Fear can be one of the greatest destructive forces within man. It is capabe, if permitted, of harnessing man from the cradle to the grave. It can take upon itself many characteristics. It is seen in the anxious fear over every situation in life. Sometimes it is a sensitive fear and the fear of loneliness, or it is the fear of not being recognized. It is the fear of not making the right decisions, and consequently some have lost all initiative in life. It has left man to turn acid and bite and life revengefully.

Then there is the fear of the self, with the worry about tomorrow and the day after. There are few indeed who in these uncertain days haven't made its acquaintance. It's the thousand struggles for existence. It can be seen on the harnessed faces of the multitude who will become helpless and frightened. For some of this fear and weariness is giving place to panic and despair. They have taken it with them when they retire in the evening and give it a rehearsal upon starting a new day, only to find that the roots grow deeper and life becomes more disarranged.

Man cannot live with all these fears lined up against him unless he seeks help from God. He cannot get rid of it by reading a book, going to the movies, or by developing a stoic philosophy of live. Neither can he run away from it in a mad rush in his automobile, nor can he escape from it in the tune of the clinking glasses. Nothing is more pathetic than to see people trying to run away from fear.

Man need not live with all these fears, for God has promised, "Fear thou not; for I am with thee: be not dismayed; for I am thy God: and will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness." Isaiah 41:10. That is precisely the service Jesus offers to render every living human soul. He comes quietly into the midst of all these fears and says, "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you, not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." St. John 14:2.

Down through the centuries come the multitude of freed men into the Kingdom of God and at the portal of that Kingdom their Statue of Liberty is the Cross of Christ. These have been released from the eternal fears within them.

Ascension Thursday

May 22, Ascension Thursday, is a Holy Day of obligation for all Catholics. For the information of all hands, the following is the Mass schedule aboard this station. 1200—Bldg. 8 Auditorium (Administration Bldg.) 1645—Main Chapel.

The Place Is Familiar

In commemoration of the Naval Air Station's establishment at North Island on June 8, 1918, a bell tower was constructed approximately six years later in the court directly behind the Administration Building. Beneath its tiled roof a ship's bell, obtained from the old Destroyer Base, was hung, with the date of the Station's official founding inscribed upon it.

During its early days, the bell was used for sounding general quarters aboard the Station. Later it was ceremoniously rung each morning and evening in measure of the day's activities. At one time it served as the background for a scene in a silent motion picture starring Jack Holt.

Today this NAS landmark still stands in all of its original dignity. Designed by Mr. William Gregg, a former NAS civilian who retired in the mid-thirties, the tower has been seen and admired by tens of thousands of Air Station personnel in the years since it was built.

In the picture above, Richard Nelson, AN, from VP-731, inspects the inscription on the bell's surface. Next time you're in the vicinity, why not stop by and take a look at it yourself?

"RELAX—he's only the doorman at the Roxy."

This Week's News at a glance

The Army recently disclosed some information about its new atomic artillery piece. Army Secretary Frank Pace said, "it is essentially an artillery piece —but with immeasurably greater power than any artillery hitherto known." The weapon weighs 75 tons and can travel at speeds of about 35 m.p.h., and is said to have unusual long-range accuracy.

Striking oil workers Wednesday accepted the 15 cent an hour wage boost approved by the government. Federal officials predicted that the 15-day-old oil strike, which had not affected California, would soon end.

The steel situation was still awaiting a decision by the U. S. Supreme Court, ruling on the legality of the President's seizure of the steel industry.

An indefinite recess was called in the stalled Panmunjon truce talks. The prisoner exchange question, the major source of disagreement, was further beclouded by the situation resulting from the kidnaping and later release of GEN Francis T. Dodd by Communist prisoners on Koje Island.

Allied officials were wondering if another Berlin blockade was about to be applied by the Russians. Allied military patrols were halted by the Soviets on a highway connecting West Germany and Berlin. At the same time, flow of freight barges into Berlin was hampered and a telephone line cut, either by accident or intent.

The U. S., France, and Britain also told Russia that they would agree to talks on a unified Germany only if the Soviet first consents to free all-German elections.

Polio Danger Greater in Summer

Since there are usually more cases of poliomyelitis during the summer months than at other times, the following information is submitted as a guide for all hands.

Poliomyelitis is an acute virus infection which involves the central nervous system, producing paralysis of muscles in some cases. It is caused by one of the smallest of all known viruses, and is now regarded as a contagious disease which is passed from person to person by close contact. Flies are believed to play a part in spreading this disease.

Known predisposing factors are fatigue, chilling, and exhaustion. You are more likely to contract the disease if you should be exposed while exhausted or chilled.

The incubation period of polio is from 5 to 21 days. Most cases develop between the 7th and 14th day following exposure.

First symptoms to appear are headache, generalized aching, low fever, mild sore throat, stiff neck, and sometimes nausea and vomiting. The early symptoms are somewhat similar to those encountered in a common cold.

ADVICE TO ALL HANDS:

1. Get your rest regularly.
2. Avoid chilling — wear proper clothing.
3. When tired avoid crowds.
4. Go to Sick Bay promptly for treatment of headache, stiff neck, colds, sore throat, or generalized aching. Your doctor can do much more for you if you go to him early than he can if you wait. Above all, don't try to treat yourself.

BUMPER CROP

THAT MAN friday

We cut loose from the tow plane at about 800 feet. A moment before the pilot had noted the needle of his rate-of-climb indicator give a sharp upsurge, meaning we had passed through a thermal. He pulled the release and immediately banked the sailplane back into the area of lift and started circling, searching for the center of the thermal. We were gliding "downhill" all the time but we were going up!

'Round and 'round and 'round. Widening and tightening the turn, we drifted with the thermal back over the field. The rate-of-climb needle moved up and down but always centered around the 500 feet-per-minute "up" mark.

Trees, houses and cars started getting smaller and smaller. Looking down the long narrow wing of the glider from the rear seat, watching the ground get farther away, I suddenly got a funny feeling — that of being very much alone, although the pilot was just three feet in front of me. On the ground, the 52-foot wingspread had looked pretty big, but as we climbed past 6000 feet they seemed to look rather fragile.

At 6500 the thermal slowed down and we just about held our own, we weren't climbing anymore, but weren't going down either. Then we struck out across the valley, looking for more thermals, with Lake Elsinore on our left, looking like a small fish pond. The glide seemed effortless, with no sound but the wind and no engine noise or vibration to mar the stillness.

I was beginning to feel more at ease now, enjoying the view across the mountain tops and the valley below. Suddenly the nose dropped and the airspeed began to build up. Sixty, seventy, eighty. At about ninety miles per hour the nose came up and I was jammed down in my seat. My face sagged and I felt as if I weighed a ton. All I could see was sky in all directions and then the ground came up over the top of the glider and we were pointed straight down. Then we leveled off again and headed up. I thought we were going to loop again but the pilot leveled off after the steep climb and I felt the sailplane drop from under me. What a sensation. Whew!

If I had had any doubts about the strength of those fragile looking wings before, they were all gone now. If they could stand that 5 "g" loop, they would stand anything, as far as I was concerned.

The sailplane came down as easy as it went up. Near the thermals, or rising air bubbles, there are always downdrafts, and the pilot just circled in a "down" area and pretty soon we were at 1000 feet and headed in for a landing.

Civilian Groups To Aid Carnival

Organization of NAS civilian support for the 1952 Navy Relief Carnival was sponsored this week by the North Island Association, with appointment of representatives throughout the Station who will work directly in cooperation with the NIA Carnival committee.

Representatives have been selected from various cooperating civilian groups at NAS, and may be identified by the bright red badges they wear. The badges read: Navy Relief Carnival—NIA Official.

Each official now has receipts available for $1 donations to the Carnival fund, and every contribution entitles the donor to an opportunity to own a 1952 Mercury Sedan. Six of the cars will be presented at the Carnival, scheduled for July 31-August 1, 2, 3 at Navy Field.

New Compromise Pay Bill Brought Up by Committee

A House-Senate conference committee has come up with a compromise version of the long awaited military pay bill. The new bill would grant a four-percent increase in base pay and a 14-percent increase in quarters and subsistence allowances.

At the same time the conference junked a Senate proposal to give $45 a month combat pay to men under fire in Korea. House members, however, indicated that they would soon begin hearings on separate legislation to provide the combat bonus.

The pay bill would become effective on the first of the month in which it is passed. Thus, if the bill were passed this month, it would be retroactive to May 1.

The new version of the bill represents a compromise between the two original bills. The House called for a blanket ten-percent increase and the Senate a three percent increase in base pay with increases in allowances running

Require New Permits For Harbor Dr. Lot

Effective next Wednesday, May 21, the Harbor Drive parking lot will admit only autos carrying the authorized blue parking sticker.

The calling in of old parking stickers and the re-allocation of space in the Harbor Drive lot were completed last week by the Security Department.

The new stickers have been delivered to the various departments for distribution. Eligible personnel who have not yet received their stickers will receive them shortly.

President Truman's Views On Annual Leave Revealed

Recommendations by President Truman concerning a provision in a bill which would affect civil service annual leave accumulation privileges are contained in a recent letter sent by the President to Senator Burnet R. Maybank, South Carolina. Passed by the House of Representatives on March 21, the bill, known as the Independent Offices Appropriations Act of 1953, is now under consideration by the Senate.

Contents of the letter, of interest to all NAS civilian employees, were released last week and are printed below:

"Dear Senator Maybank: I am writing to urge your careful attention to a matter of great importance to the proper management of the Government and to the welfare of our many hard working Federal employees. This matter relates to the bill before your Subcommittee on Independent Offices Appropriations, which would have the effect of prohibiting accumulations of annual leave by reinstating a provision in the statutes which was expressly repealed no longer ago than October 30 of last year.

"After extensive hearings and careful study of the subject of annual leave, the Congress enacted a new leave program expertly designed to meet the needs of the Federal Service. This Act, the Annual and Sick Leave Act of 1951, provided for a graduated system of leave based upon length of service. Although the statute reduced the total amount of leave earned per year by most Federal employees to thirteen days or

Report Obtained On Leave Rider

Information on the controversial Thomas Leave Rider, which concerns accumulated civil service annual leave, was obtained by Mr. Robert Putnam, NAS Civilian Industrial Relations Administrator, during the San Francisco Federal Personnel Conference which he attended May 1 and 2.

Mr. Putnam reports that Civil Service Commissioner Harry Mitchell, who attended the conference, revealed that his Washington office of the Civil Service Commission had received an opinion from the Comptroller General on the Thomas Leave Rider. This opinion indicated that if the leave rider was passed in its present form, it would not adversely affect the annual leave accumulated prior to calendar year 1952.

Commissioner Mitchell stressed the fact that the preliminary interpretation is subject to any evidence of congressional intent to the contrary which may be reflected in the complete history of the legislation as of the date of its enactment.

Navy Relief Society Annual Call For Contributions

NR Society Drive 31% Towards Goal

Paced by Operations Department's 100 percent response to the Navy Relief Society's annual call for contributions, NAS Transportation (military) early this week became the second department on the station to report 100 percent participation of its personnel in the campaign drive. The X-25 (PIO) division also achieved its 100 percent goal this week.

With three weeks remaining in the campaign 31 percent of the contribution goal set for the Station has been reached.

Personnel who have not yet made their contribution are urged to contact their divisional campaign representative.

No specific monetary goal has been established for the Navy Relief Society's fund drive. Emphasis has been placed on 100 percent participation of NAS personnel. It is considered more important that everyone contribute a little than to have a few contribute a lot.

FULL HONORS were accorded GEN Matthew B. Ridgway when he arrived at NAS 1730 Wednesday. The former supreme commander of the United Nations forces in the Far East was greeted by his mother, Mrs. Ruth Ridgway, a San Diego resident. GEN Ridgway is enroute to his new post as successor to GEN Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander in Europe. Shown above is GEN Ridgway about to be piped aboard the station. Variety of Events at NAS and Ashore for Armed Forces Day

Armed Forces Day, Saturday, May 17, will be marked in San Diego by exhibits and ceremonies sponsored by the Navy, Marines, Air Force, and Army.

At North Island visitors will be welcomed aboard between 1000 and 1600 to view exhibits in the Operations area and to tour naval vessels tied up at the quay-wall.

Included in the exhibits at NAS will be a static display of twelve naval aircraft—jet fighters, helicopters, and patrol bombers; a mock-up display of the O&R department industrial facilities, and the model Essex class carrier USS NORTH ISLAND. FASRon 7 will present a display of Navy survival equipment.

At the quay-wall the Essex class carriers KEARSARGE and BON HOMME RICHARD, and the escort carriers BADOENG STRAITS and RENDOVA will be open to the visiting public. In addition, the USS ESTES, AGC, tied up at Pier J, will be open to the public.

Visitors to the exhibits in the Operations area and the carriers may enter through the Coronado Gate 1. They will be directed to the areas by Security Department personnel. Visitors to the carriers may also use water transportation from the Fleet Landing on Harbor Drive. Boats will operate periodically during the day.

At the foot of Broadway the public will be welcomed aboard a cruiser, an attack transport, submarines and several other naval vessels tied up at piers there.

Armed Forces Day will also be celebrated at other military installations in the area with the public invited. At Lindbergh Field a B-36 bomber will be exhibited by the Air Force. Reviews, open to the public, will be presented at both the Naval Training Center and the Marine Corps Recruit Depot. Open house will be held at the Naval Hospital, the Naval Amphibious Base, and the Army's Ft. Rosecrans.

COLUMN RIGHT

ITEMS OF INFORMATION FOR CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

Q. What credit is given for experience gained while in military service toward experience requirements?

A. If employee is being considered for promotion to a position in the same line of work he held prior to entry into military service and to which he returned after discharge, credit may be given for complete service career, regardless of the type of work performed while in the Armed Forces, provided he has not changed his line of work subsequent to his discharge.

Credit may be given on a day for day basis for experience gained which is pertinent to the proposed position.

Q. I was hired after Korea under a temporary appointment; what is my present status?

A. You have indefinite status, i.e., you are a temporary employee with no specific time limitations on your appointment.

Q. I am a Civil Service employee and am covered under the Retirement Act. Can I voluntarily change over to coverage under Social Security?

A. No, once an employee is placed under the Retirement Act this coverage continues mandatorily so long as the employee remains continuously in service. Accordingly, unless employees are separated and given new appointments, after a break in continuity of service, they may not be placed under the Social Security law and have their retirement deductions discontinued.

Q. What are the qualifications to receive an increase from Step 2 to Step 3?

A. The waiting period for a Periodic Step Increase to Step 3 is 78 weeks since your last equivalent increase in pay, with not more than 10 days authorized LWOP. At the end of this period, your services and conduct have to be certified satisfactory.

However, after 52 weeks of creditable service you are eligible for an Administrative pay increase provided your services are recognizably better than other employees in the trade and you have had no disciplinary actions during this period.

Q. What is the latest information on the recently conducted wage survey at N.A.S.?

A. The Wage Data was submitted to the Navy Department on April 16, 1952. Information is not available as to when we can expect the new wage schedule or what the results will be.

NOBODY GETS TRIMMED who contributes a dollar to the Navy Relief Carnival, says Lou Dasbach, PR2, (right) as she explains to Charles Rose, AF1, (in the chair) and NAS Barber Vincent Raimondi how they can qualify for possible ownership of one of those six brand new 1952 Mercury Sedans. The cars will be awarded on the Carnival grounds, Navy Field, July 31, August 1, 2, 3.

O&R Shop Mechanic Sees Sky 'Object'

A tap on the shoulder, a finger pointing to the sky, then the words: "Hey, Kelley, there goes another one!" became an established routine last Wednesday in O&R Accessories and Ordnance Division's Hydraulic Shop. The target was good-natured E. M. Kelley, aircraft mechanic general, who viewed the unusual light seen over San Diego Tuesday night.

Described in the San Diego press as "a strange light that descended out of space at terrific speed and then leveled off to circle slowly down over downtown San Diego," the object was also reported by three other San Diegans.

Mr. Kelley was visiting his father-in-law, who resides at 4921 Mountain View Drive, on Tuesday evening. He was in the back yard of the house shortly after 2100, when his attention was attracted by a big white light in the sky above. Thinking at first it was a shooting star, he watched it swoop down, then take off over the city in a southwesterly direction. Realizing the object was too large to be a star, Mr. Kelley conjectured momentarily that it might be a jet plane, but again its size discounted that theory. He reports that there was no sound connected with its actions, that it looked to be about 2,000 feet in the air, and that although it appeared to be traveling at a terrific rate of speed, its course was pursued in a hesitant, erratic motion differing from the clean straight arc usually traveled by a plane.

Kelley thought no more about it until he saw the newspaper account the following morning, and read that two aircraft engineers and a housewife had reported seeing substantially the same phenomenon. He doesn't ascribe any "space ship" characteristics to the object, but he's mighty sure he saw "a big white light in the sky," unlike anything he's ever seen before.

ELECTRONS

By WINDY SPLICHAL

'Tis picnic time once again and plans for the Electronics Division picnic are well under way. Your recreation committee is going all out to make this the best picnic you have ever attended.

Due to the fact that there will be some who will work on June 7, we are planning an afternoon and evening picnic. The picnic will begin at 1400 with a soft ball game between the Hanger 68 Hotshots and the Cable Shop Cuties. At the same time we will have games for the children.

A special feature on the program will be the bathing beauty contest. The winner will receive a new bathing suit as the prize and the title of Miss or Mrs. Electronics. All girls wishing to enter this contest must submit their names and shop numbers to any one of the Committee, not later than 2 p.m. on June 6, 1952. Be the first to enter from your shop Every woman is eligible.

There are a number of games planned for adults, and for couples. This is your picnic and a very good time for your familes to meet the families of your fellow workers.

Bar-B-Q beef, potato salad, baked beans, and many other good things will be served. We will have plenty of food for all. Little or no waiting to be served.

The evening entertainment will include dancing and merriment for all.

See your supervisor, he can tell you who in your shop has tickets.

Concert Pianist Aspirant Has Tour with FairBetuPac

By C. E. Lacy

When Howard Neal Punches, 20, of FAIRBETUPac sits down to his first love, the piano, there is no fanfare of applause at start or finish of the many concert pieces in his repertoire. Nor does he perform in the standard full-dress tuxedo. Instead he plays intently in a recreation room that echos with the sharp staccato of ping-pong balls in furious play and the thudding jungle rhythm of a punching bag. His dress for these occasions consists of the Navy working uniform, dungarees and the traditional white hat. However, these minor details do not distract from the fervor of his interpertation of the classics.

Starting his musical career at the early age of ten, Punches, like many musicians before him, had to decide between classical and popular music. Popular music won out and for a year Punches specialized in the varieties in this idiom—jazz, boogie, crooners' delights, and the current be-bop. But after a year's study he became convinced that popular music lacked the depth of expression found in the classics.

The following year, in 1946, he embarked on a program of serious study of the piano under Emma Endres-Kountz, an accomplished concert pianist and teacher. During a three year period as her student, Punches made two guest appearances with the Toledo, Ohio symphony orchestra and also on a radio program over the New York station, WNYC.

During the same period he completed high school in Toledo and was accepted for study toward a master's degree in music at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music in Oberlin, Ohio. His selection was made on the basis of an audition which received the unanimous praise of the school's audition board.

In 1951, after a year and a half at the Conservatory, Punches dropped from school to join the Navy. After Boots at Great Lakes, Illinois, and Electronics School at Memphis, Tennessee, he was assigned to FAIRBETUPac for advance training in electronics. His next billet will be the USS BOXER. Upon discharge Punches intends to continue study of music with the ultimate goal of concert pianist.

Five Symbols of Unity—representatives from each of the armed services—are depicted against one of the oldest and most respected symbols of unity—the American Flag. These five military men, all stationed in the San Diego area, personify the motto selected as the theme for this year's Armed Forces Day, UNITY-STRENGTH-FREEDOM.

ARMY: Sergeant Brad Harris, a native San Diegan, is presently stationed in the local Army and Air Force Recruiting Office. Sergeant Harris has been in the Army for more than seven years and was connected with the Armed Forces Radio Service before his entrance into service.

NAVY: Seaman Joe E. Maxey, now assigned to the Naval Air Station Enlisted Personnel Office, hails from Electra, Texas. Maxey has been at NAS for the past thirteen months, having undergone training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, before reporting aboard.

AIR FORCE: Staff Sergeant Daniel L. Allen, another native of San Diego, was originally an Army man, transferring to the Air Force eight months ago. Sergeant Allen, who has been in military service ten years, was formerly road commander for many of the USO shows overseas. He is now stationed in the San Diego Army and Air Force Recruiting Office.

MARINE CORPS: Corporal Jim Ellis, a member of the Marine Corps for the past two years, comes from Red Bluff, California. He is now assigned to the Naval Air Station Marine Detachment.

COAST GUARD: Aviation Ordnanceman First Class Fred W. Rix, stationed in the ordnance department at the Coast Guard Air Station in San Diego, is originally from Roseburg, Oregon. Rix has been in the Coast Guard service for the past sixteen years.

VR-32 Inspected Last Thursday

Personnel of Air Transport Squadron Thirty-Two were inspected last Thursday, May 8, by CDR I. L. Dew, Chief Inspecting Officer for the Commander Fleet Logistic AirWings, Atlantic Fleet.

CDR Dew arrived last Wednesday from the Naval Air Station, Pawtuxet River, Maryland, his headquarters location, for the surprise administration and personnel inspection of VR-32. The inspection took place at 0830 in Hangar 307, VR-32's base of operations.

CDR C. B. Cottingham is the squadron's commanding officer.

Assembly Div. Holds Picnic

Chuck Hinson's report on the picnic held by Station Two of Hangar 68 last week was: "Day ideal, ball game a fast one, and the food delicious." The O&R Assembly division group had 175 persons attending the picnic at Felicita Park on the afternoon of May 10.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Baholzer were guests of honor and the barbecue went to R. R. Bell and A. P. Christianson. Johnny Wilburn was the master-of-ceremonies.

The Situation Is Well in Hand

Two Marines invaded the NAS WAVE barracks this week, and—get this—they'll be living there for the next three months! But you can pick up your teeth and put them back in; they're women Marines, and they've been assignd to NAS for 90 days' temporary duty in connection with the 1952 Navy Relief Carnival.

SGT LaVonne Bain and PFC Rose Rodgers, both from the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego, reported aboard NAS Tuesday morning. LaVonne is a construction draftsman in MCRD, and has been in the Corps for seven years. She hails from Oregon, and after her basic training at Camp Lejeune, N. C., she served for three years during WW II at Marine Corps HQ in Washington, D. C.

PFC Rodgers is from New Jersey, and has been a Marine for a year. She took her basic at Parris Island, S. C., and has been assigned to MCRD as a file clerk and mimeograph operator.

Both LaVonne and Rose will help the four NAS Waves now working on pre-Carnival promotion and donation collections. The WAVE team is composed of Ruth Hener, SKSN; Margaret Szilagy, SN; Mike Owens, TD2, and Lou Dasbach, PR2.

George 'Do Do' Snodgrass Resigns Post At NAS

George Snodgrass, Transportation Dept. employee for the last 11 years, has resigned his position at North Island to assume the management of a mountain lodge east of San Diego.

Mr. Snodgrass, known as DoDo, the Clown, while in grease paint, has performed at numerous North Island entertainment functions

Staff Right at Home in Studio

If the old adage about experience being the best teacher is true, then AirPac's radio-television staff can certainly consider itself a well-educated group. A look at the background of each individual on the staff uncovers some interesting and varied careers in the radio and TV profession.

Take, for example, Jack Brown, JO1, former Armed Forces Radio Service station manager at the station in the Philippines during most of World War II. Brown did a great deal of radio-TV work, in both announcing and producing capacities, for radio and television companies in Hollywood. Later, however, he was employed in the Office of the Secretary of Defense as a producer of radio shows for the government until his recall to active service in 1950. Brown was assigned to ComCarDiv 5 in the USS Princeton at that time and remained with the carrier until her return to the U.S. He then assumed his present duties with the ComAirPac radio-TV Department.

MERITS FOR MERRITT

Merritt Hadley, PH3, is still another member of the staff who sports a wide radio-TV background. Hadley, a commercial announcer for stations in Pueblo, Colorado, and Los Angeles before entering the naval service, has become a familiar personality to listeners in this area through the Air Pac "Take-Off Time With Your Navy" show, the newscasts, and the television show. He also serves as the Navy question-and-answer man on a local commercial radio show originating in radio station KCBQ, answering questions submitted by listeners concerning different aspects of Navy life.

Aside from actual participation in radio productions, Hadley also designed and built the recording studios soon to be completed in the tower of the Administration Building from which "Take-Off Time" will originate in a few weeks.

SCRIPTS BY HOWARD

Still another "old timer" in radio-TV production is AirPac's Tom Howard, JO2, who writes the script for "Take-Off Time" and several other presentations. Howard was formerly a Michigan radio announcer as well as a student in the University of Missouri's School of Journalism, until he entered the Navy. One of the big jobs performed by him is the recording and disseminating of the hometown "canned" interviews to radio stations throughout the United States.

SPORTS BY SWISHER

The sports man in this department is Bob Swisher, announcer and sports writer, who is also a weekly contributor to the NORTH ISLANDER sports columns. Swisher was a professional basketball and football play-by-play announcer for a Murray, Kentucky, radio station during the 1949-1950 season. Enlisting in the Navy in the fall of 1950, he was subsequently assigned to his present job where he continued in the sports broadcasting field. He is now the sports announcer for "Take-Off Time."

MEN BEHIND THE MIKE

A major phase of any studio production is the preparing of scripts, arranging rehearsals, checking time, directing the actual broadcasts, and, generally, assuring that the show will run smoothly—all jobs of the "men behind the mike" who, in this case are LT R. E. Burnett, assistant ComAirPac Information Officer in charge of radio-TV production, and R. S. Ladue, ADC, who was a writer-producer for two years at the Armed Forces Radio Service in Los Angeles.

New Pay Bill

well over 10 percent.

The conferees also slashed a Senate proposal which would have given an extra $10 a month rental allowance to officers with more than two dependents.

The pay bill is expected to come before the House as soon as possible. Congressional observers feel confident that it will get equal priority in the Senate and cautiously comment that "it might very well go through before Memorial Day."

The bill would affect members of the Army, Navy, AF, Marines, Coast Guard, U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, Public Health Service and 484 uniformed members of the Maritime Commission.

All retired personnel of the Armed Forces are also eligible for the increase.

If the bill is passed this month, finance officials indicate that servicemen might get the increase on their next pay day.

This would depend, however, on how late in the month the bill becomes law.

Dependents may get the increase a month or so later, at which time they will receive the retroactive amount.

AirPac's 'Welcome Aboard' Tops in TV

Six AirPackers Combine Talent For Show

By L. Robert Jackson

"Welcome aboard, ladies and gentlemen. Once again, through the cooperation of KFMB-TV, the Public Information Office of Commander Air Force Pacific Fleet invites you to meet our Navy!"

Every Thursday for the past thirteen weeks at 1730 over TV's Channel Eight, these words have ushered in ComAir Pac's television show, "Welcome Aboard," which has become one of the popular telecasts in this area.

The show is familiar to everyone—the interviews, the music, the news, the specialties. But, as is the case with all productions of this type, there's a great deal more to each presentation than "meets the eye."

Before each telecast of the AirPac show, presented as a public service in cooperation with KFMB-TV, the efforts and talents of the six staff members of the ComAirPac Public Information Office's radio-television department are transformed into fifty pages of script with approximately 150 man hours spent in collecting script material, script writing, filming, rehearsals, time checking, and finally, the actual telecast.

FIRST TELECAST FEB. 6

Just over three months ago, the first telecast production in the "Welcome Aboard" series went into rehearsals with the staff of the radio-television department participating. Merritt Hadley, PH3, was assigned duties as announcer and Jack Brown, JO1, was named master-of-ceremonies.

LT R. E. Burnett, officer in charge of the radio-TV department and assistant to CDR William Bryson, ComAir Pac Information Officer, designated R. S. Ladue, ADC, director of production.

It was decided before the first show went into production that, in order to more completely satisfy the interests of a civilian and a military audience, "Welcome Aboard" would include Navy news, music, interviews, occasional dramatic sketches, sports, and any filmed news events which applied to Navy life that the general public would find interesting and noteworthy. This system kept the show from becoming too stereotyped and departmentalized and added to its freshness.

SHIPBOARD SETS

One of the most attractive and unique aspects of the show is the background sets which are designed to resemble shipboard interiors. Not only are the sets "attention-holders," but they also make the show seem more authentic.

Other props used on the show since that time have included everything from used targets to drone aircraft and stuffed penguins.

VIOTTI'S MUSIC

A group of Naval Air Station musicians, including several members of the AirPac Band, were procured to furnish the "live" music for the telecasts.

Buddy Viotti, SN, musician and entertainer now stationed with the NAS Special Services Division, was asked to compose original theme music for "Welcome Aboard" and to conduct the band. Since that time, the Viotti theme has been used to open and close the show.

TOM HOWARD AND MERRITT HADLEY walk from one of the carriers that docked at the quay-wall recently after recording a broadcast of the ceremonies of the ship's arrival. Also, both Howard and Hadley have recorded hundreds of home town interviews with members of the ship's company of many vessels docking at NAS.

TEN AND TWENTY YEAR records for government service were honored Tuesday in the Transportation Department. Pins were awarded to five Transportation employees by Henry W. Miller, the department's foreman. Pictured, left to right, are: T. O. Greenwood, with 20 years' service; H. W. Miller; F. M. Payne, 20 years' service; O. W. Carpenter, 20 years' service; W. Tappan, 10 years' service; and R. Keating, 10 years' service.

Other Weekly Shows Offered By ComAirPac

"Take-Off Time With Your Navy," the weekly one-half hour radio show presented by the ComAirPac Public Information Office's radio-television section, is still another of their programs which has become a dial favorite with listeners in the San Diego area.

This program, aired each Tuesday from 1930 until 2000 over Radio Station KSON, features recorded music, an interview with the personality of the week who is attached to either AirPac or Naval Air Station, news of recreational activities for each week in San Diego, speciality stories or interesting yarns concerning AirPac activities and sports high-lights.

"Take-Off Time With Your Navy," presented under the direction of LT Burnett, is written by Tom Howard with Jack Brown and Merritt Hadley as Masters of Ceremonies.

Recorded in AirPac Studio

The program, which now originates in the commercial studio, will soon be recorded for broadcast in the ComAir Pac recording studios now in the process of being completed and outfitted. The new studios are located in the Building 8 tower.

Ten newscasts are prepared and presented weekly by the radio-tv staff over two local stations which bring news of local people and AirPac activities with emphasis on the latest actions of the 77th Carrier Task Force in the 7th Fleet now on duty in the Pacific.

Broadcast Special Events

In addition, the PIO radio-tv men tape all special events which take place in this area and distribute these "canned" programs to all outlets in Southern California and some other parts of the country.

One of the most important functions performed by this department is the recording of hometown interviews, which are sent to the radio station in the interviewee's home town. During the month of April alone, 100 of these taped interviews were processed by ComAirPac PIO.

FAW-14 Upsets Fairbetupac In AirPac Softball Play

By BOB SWISHER

Late Bulletin—Rule 19, concerning eligibility of pitchers, was voted out yesterday in a meeting of the team's officers-in-charge, along with all play to date. A new setup is effective immediately, seeding seven teams in a major league and twelve in two minor leagues. This is effective in first half play only. All games to date are cancelled.

While the pending decision on the protests over ineligible players held the attention of most of the AirPac intra-mural softball league, FAW-14 sprang one of the biggest upsets in recent years with an 8-7 win over powerful FAIRBETUPac.

The loss knocked the Raiders off their pedestal in the National league and also halted a victory string that carried back to the 1950 season. Meanwhile, FAW-14 slipped almost unnoticed into the top spot with their second straight decision.

The ruling on Rule 19, which forbids any pitcher with a Double or Triple "A" classification from pitching in the intra-mural league, was delayed until yesterday, when the officers-in-charge of each club were slated to meet for further clarification of the rule. The protests entered against VC-11 and FAIRBETUPac for using pitchers R. W. Ray and Leo Pich are still awaiting decision.

Over in the American circuit the big question seems to be how to stop FASRon-110. To date the

A JAPANESE GOOD LUCK KNOT is pointed out to LT J. T. Waldron, Information and Education Officer (left), by LT W. F. Lee, Boat House Officer. Several dozen types of knots are affixed to the large display board recently presented the I & E Division by the NAS Boat House crew.

It's Knot as Hard As It Looks, Mate

By VAN HEDGES

Next time you're down in Lima, how would you like to amaze your friends and impress the natives by tying a two, three, four or five-fold Peruvian quipu knot? All you have to do beforehand is take a look at the big new display board in the entrance of the Information and Education Division, in Building 317-A.

Along with the many regulation knots demonstrated on the board are Japanese and Chinese good luck knots, two and three-leaf Chinese temple knots, Japanese and Brahmin sacred knots, and a Japanese success knot. One neophyte airman who tried this last one reports that it's called that because if you can tie it, you're bound to be a success at anything. And the quipu knot is said to make even a llama stay put.

The exhibit was given the I & E Division recently by J. R. Castle, SN, in behalf of the five NAS Boat House men who constructed it. He is the only member of the group still at NAS, the others having been transferred to different sea commands. They were R. L. Reckler, BM1; J. Manera, BM1; A. A. Arnold, BM2, and R. W. Smiley, BM2.

The quintet of hobbyists constructed the board from white pine and scrap lumber during their off-duty hours. Begun in June, 1950, the job took eight months to complete, and was on display in the Boat House prior to its donation to I & E.

twenty days, depending on length of service, it was accepted as a fair and reasonable approach to the leave problem. This acceptance was based partially at least on the fact that as part and parcel of this system, arbitrary restrictions upon the accumulation of leave up to the sixty-day maximum were removed.

"It strikes me as particularly unfair to Federal employees and to those who were heard in Congress on their behalf, to remove the accumulation privilege and thus deprive these employees of their fair consideration for the cutback in the amount of leave earned. Unfortunately, however, that is the effect of a provision in the Independent Offices Appropriations Act of 1953 enacted by the House of Representatives on March 21, 1952. Moreover, the effect of this provision is especially harsh inasmuch as the accumulation of annual leave is the only cushion the Federal employee has at the present time against unemployment. Until some form of severance pay or unemployment compensation similar to that required by Federal law for private employees is provided for Federal workers, the only protection against the hardships of unemployment which they can rely on is whatever amount of annual leave they are able to save.

"Furthermore, I am convinced that a careful study of the long-range effect of this provision would indicate that it would increase cost to the Government because it would complicate emergency recruiting and would result in amounts of overtime at premium rates.

"Inasmuch as I know of your long-standing concern for a healthy and economical Federal establishment based upon fair standards, I am taking this opportunity to urge upon you the advisability of removing this unfair provision from the bill under consideration.

Very sincerely yours,
HARRY S. TRUMAN."

NO MOVIE MENU

Because the Special Services Division had not received next week's movie listing at press time, the NORTH ISLANDER was unable to publish the "Movie Menu."

Please do not call the North Islander for the movie schedule. This information is not available to the staff.

"THE LIGHTS are okay, now let's check the windshield wipers," comments PFC James W. Hackney of the NAS car safety check team as LCDR G. E. Minor, AirPac Staff, has his car inspected. Checking off the 29 items on the thorough safety inspection is C. T. Calabrese, SH3. LCDR Minor's car passed the inspection.

Safety Check Begins Here, List Department Schedule

Automobiles driven by Overhaul & Repair and Administration department personnel went through the 29-point safety check this week at the quay-wall as part of the auto safety inspection program being held here in cooperation with San Diego city and county traffic authorities. The goal of checking all motor vehicles operated by military and civilian personnel on the Station is expected to be accomplished by May 29.

Of 500 cars inspected in the early part of this week, 35 percent of all autos driven by civilian personnel and 20 percent of all autos driven by military personnel failed to qualify for safety stickers, the Security Department announced.

Cars which successfully pass the safety check are issued the same safety sticker used in the current San Diego inspection. All autos issued the stickers at NAS will be exempt from the San Diego inspection.

Autos found with defects which disqualify them for a safety sticker are pulled off the inspection line, and the owner is given a form which lists discrepancies and requests that he remedy the condition.

The safety inspection follows the schedule listed below:

May 19-20—Supply and Fiscal Department.

May 21 — Transportation and Operations Departments.

May 22-23—ComAirPac Units.

May 26-29—All other units at NAS and stragglers.

Although the safety check has been set up primarily for personnel who normally drive their cars on the Station, other NAS personnel may have their autos brought aboard and inspected during the May 26-29 period by obtaining a visitor's pass at the Main Gate.

Skeet Champs to Receive Awards

The combined VC-VS-ComAirPac Staff team still holds a slim lead in the Island skeet league with a perfect 3-0 mark. Tied for second place with identical 3-1 records are FAIRBETUPac and the combined NAS S.D.-NAB teams.

A lot of light will be thrown on the subject of a winner Monday when the leaders fire against FAIRBETUPac. Should the VS-VC ComAirPac Staff shooters come through, they will be a top-heavy favorite to cop the flag.

Announcements from the ComAirPac intra-mural office and the NAS Athletic office indicate that trophy awards will be made again this year. The seven members of the winning team will receive individual trophies along with a perpetual team trophy. Awards also will be made to the men with the high individual average and runner-up. At this time, J. A. Leslie, FAIRBETUPac, and Duke Ellington, FASRon-691, are tied with 96 averages.

Free Dancing Lessons

Special Services Division announced this week that another series of free dancing lessons for all NAS-based military personnel will be conducted each Wednesday evening from 1930 to 2030 at the recreation room in the theatre building.

Skyraiders Bow To Boots In First Home Fracas

The Naval Training Center Bluejackets, after recovering from a two-run first inning jolt on the part of the Skyraiders, blanketed the Naval Airmen 8-2 at Towers Field Diamond last Friday. This game opened the 1952 season for NTC, and was also the Skyraiders' first home game.

The Skymen, in the initial inning scored two runs, then drew a blank as the boots continued to tally eight times.

Bob Johnson, Skyraider shortstop took a free trip to first, and was brought in on a home-run by Tom Futch before the boots could open their eyes.

NTC didn't recover from the lightning-like first inning until the fifth, when second baseman Jack Cross scored the first NTC run.

From that time on it was NTC all the way, as they crossed home plate three times each in the sixth and seventh innings, driving pitcher Dick Kerr from the mound.

The sixth and seventh frame was a one-sided battle, as Ken Peterson, Dick Sturger, and Bob Thompson each posted a run for NTC.

Two doubles and two triples graced the seventh inning, as the boots rode roughshod once again. Al McKinney started the NTC attack by doubling into right. Peterson then tripled into left scoring McKinney. Sturger got a double on an error by Paul Green and Peterson scored. First sacker Bob Thompson then stepped to the plate and knocked the longest triple of the day, scoring Sturger.

Cross scored one more run for NTC in the eighth off pitcher Bob Campbell.

In the bottom of the ninth, the Skyraiders looked like they might make a comeback, using several pinch-hitters including manager Harvey Speed. The bases were loaded with no outs, but three successive shut-outs by NTC left the score standing at 8-2, Bluejackets.

SAFE AT THIRD—Bluejacket Dick Sturger slides into third and is safe on an error by Blackie Blackston. Sturger scored two runs for the day, helping the Boots to win an 8-2 decision over the Skyraiders.

Wave Ball Team Bows to CamPen; Drubs Big Shots

The newly formed Naval Air Station WAVE softball team split a pair, losing to Camp Pendleton 12-1 last Wednesday and defeating the San Diego Big Shots 10-3 Monday night.

Helen Tremmel led the WAVE's hitting efforts against the Big Shots, batting two-for-two before she was taken out of the game with an old injury. Donna Donahue got two hits and two runs, and Edith Phinay scored twice and got one double.

Mickey Hill, pitching for the WAVES allowed only five hits, striking two batters, while Pendry chucking for the Big Shots allowed five hits and ten runs, striking out one batter.

Monday night, the WAVES will play Norton Air Force Base here at Mainside, and Wednesday will face the NTC Bluejackets there.

'Raider Softball Team Dumped By Naval Station; Defeats NTC

The Skyraider softball club suffered a 2-1 first league defeat at the hands of the Naval Station Wednesday, May 7, marking their second loss in play for the season.

The game was tied until the bottom of the seventh, when Nagoner walked and later scored on a hit by Wright.

Monday, LT Bob Greeley's Naval Airmen avenged their loss by trimming NTC 2-1 in a thriller that went twelve innings.

Both teams earned one run in the second and third innings, each on errors. Skyraider Earl Kelly walked, stole second and third then scored on Rosemond's wild throw to second. Vice scored for the Bluejackets also on a wild throw to second by Bob Daniels.

From then on it was a bitter battle waged by two teams striving for the same goal. NTC almost won out in the top of the twelfth, but a sensational throw-out by Earl Kelly stopped them cold, and in the bottom of the twelfth, Bud Landers connected with a screaming single to score Gary Glick from third base. Adolph Mason was winning pitcher for the Skyraiders.

ADOLPH "MACE" MASON, (left) 1948, '49 and '51 all-Navy chucker, instructs newest addition to Skyraider pitching staff John Huffman. Huffman won the Miramar victory, while Mason was responsible for the 2-1 defeat of NTC.

What's the Catch?

The largest fish caught last week on the three Naval Air Station boats was landed by J. J. Bean, AN from the K-1 Division. His 17½ pound Yellowtail was caught on May 7, aboard the Shipmate.

Approximately 75 Yellowtail plus numerous bottom fish were hauled aboard the boats last week, but Sunday was poor, and the only thing landed was a 65 pound Blue Shark.

Yesterday, reservations for the month of June were being taken, and will continue until the month is booked up.

Captain's Cup Lowdown

The first half of the Capt's Cup Softball race is rapidly drawing to a close, with Supply leading the field, completing a season of 14 wins and two losses. They are followed closely by Navy Weather Central with 12 wins and two

A Corner on Sports

By BOB LAIBLE

As the 1952 baseball season swings into high gear, it looks like the Skyraiders will really have to knuckle down and make ready for some tough opposition. Already they have a one-win, one-loss record in only one week of major league competition. That is as of this writing. The Airmen played away this week, traveling to Camp Pendleton Wednesday, then to Los Alamitos today (Friday).

PENDLETON DEFEATS NTC

The strong PendleMarines defeated the Skyraider club twice in practice tilts before bowing to them at the close of the practice season. We don't know too much about the Marine team, but we have this to go on. Pendleton defeated NTC 5-4 this week while the Skyraiders dropped an 8-2 decision to the Boots. The same goes with Los Alamitos. Lately they are really fielding some strong teams, and have more than earned the right to call themselves a member of the Major League. Los Alamitos defeated PhibPac 9-4, which gives the Skyraiders a little edge.

THREE HOME GAMES NEXT WEEK

Returning home, they will be faced with two tough ones, and one that is no pushover. Monday they face El Toro, Wednesday MCRD, and Friday PhibPac.

El Toro also pulled a surprise upset this week, shellacking MCRD 12-5. We'll pick the Skyraiders over PhibPac, call it a toss-up against El Toro, but the 'Raiders will really have to play ball to get by the Marine Recruits.

MCRD TOUGH THIS YEAR

The 1952 Devildog squad will probably make last year's district runners-up look like second raters.

Nearly all of their team members have had professional experience, and will be a real threat to the Skyraider nine. It would be impossible to go through all of their records in this column, but we can give a rundown on some of the bigger names.

Devildog third sacker Don Bausman, returning from last year's squad, is owned by the St. Louis Cardinals. Bill Cheatham, first sacker, signed with Pittsburgh. Charles Closs, pitcher, had contract with Phillies, but sold to Baltimore. Bill Fischer, under contract with White Sox. Bill Long, infielder, under contract with the Cincinnati Reds. Thomas Self, outfielder, under contract with New York Yankees. Bob Skinner, first baseman, under contract with Pittsburgh Pirates. George Smith, outfielder, under contract with Cardinals. Mike Werbach belongs to the Dodgers, and Frank Simanovski, pitcher, hurled pro ball for two years at Grand Forks, North Dakota, and pitched for the Depot last year ending up with fourteen wins and three losses. And that's just a few of them.

Yes, the Skyraiders will really have to be on the ball to get by the Marines, but Harvey Speed and Ned King are old hands at the game of baseball, and the Skyraiders are out to win.

Anyway, no matter what the outcome of this game is, you can rest assured the 'Raiders will be in there fighting. And, who knows, they just might upset the Devildogs.

Rod and Reel Club To Meet Thursday

The newly organized Federal Employees Rod and Reel Club will hold its annual business meeting Thursday, May 22, at the Filipino-American Veterans Association Hall, 2926 Market St., San Diego, at 7:30 p.m.

This meeting is very important due to the fact that rules and by-laws will be adopted, and plans will be made for increasing membership, it was announced this week by Vice President Roy Wehlage.

All Federal Employees are invited to attend, and free refreshments will be served.

NAGA NEWS

Monday, May 19, will be the deadline for scores to be handed in from this month's ACE tourney held at the Circle R Golf Course. This one extension has been made due to the desires of many.

NAGA team matches will conclude on May 28, and will start again when the AirPac and Eleventh Naval District schedules have been completed sometime in August. The monthly ACE tourneys will continue throughout the year.

Tennis Team To Be Formed

Tryouts are now being held for a Naval Air Skyraiders Varsity tennis team between 1400 and 1630 each day in the area behind the NAS Theater.

Anyone who has had previous experience, or is interested in forming the team can contact the Force Athletic Officer, Room 21, at the NAS Theater Building.

Ream Skeet Team Dumps Air Groups

Ream Field skeet team defeated the Carrier Air Groups of North Island on 7 May, 1952, in their 4th shoot of the year.

Personnel from HS-2, VU-3, VU-7, and HU-1 make up the team. HS-2 is represented by LTJG R. J. Wood, LT R. J. Gill, LT W. J. Hampton and G. Estes, AOC. From VU-3 there are LT D. J. Jacobs and W. E. Webb, AO2, and from VU-7, H. W. Jenson, AO1. CDR E. H. Bayers of HS-2 and LT R. E. Roby of HU-1 are the alternates.

The Ream Field team has defeated North Island Transport Squadrons and Fleet Air Wing 14, and lost to N.A.S. and N.A.B.

In defeating the Carrier Air Groups, LTJG R. J. Wood (team captain) was high man with 94 hits out of a possible 100.

ComAirPac Makes Awards to Men of HS-2 at Inspection

Vice Admiral Harold M. Martin took part in HS-2's monthly inspection at ALF REAM last week. The purpose of the Admiral's visit was to present the awards earned by the men now in HS-2, while serving under his command as Commander 7th Fleet.

LT J. L. Morrison earned his third D.F.C. and his fifth Air Medal for his heroism and participation in the strikes against the enemy made by his squadron, VA-702 of CAG 101 on board the USS Boxer.

LT E. R. Bergsma was presented his first, second and third Air Medal for his participation in the mercy flights and utility work he did as officer-in-charge of Unit 1, HU-1 in the Korean theater.

Good Conduct Medals were awarded to E. A. Price, ADAN, D. L. Richardson, AD3, and K. M. Norris, AD1.

Captain R. W. D. Woods made the athletic awards to the winners of the Ream Field Hand Ball and Bowling championships.

LTJG R. B. Ulm, Athletic officer of the squadron, received the team trophies for the two sports. Individual awards in Hand Ball were presented to E. G. Tilley, AD3, W. R. Wild, AN, and R. L. Haro, AD3.

The following were presented individual trophies for Bowling: CDR E. H. Bayers, C. O. of HS-2, LT W. N. Webber, LT G. J. Ryan, B. J. Worack, ADC, L. Osbourne, AN, and R. E. Burk, PH2.

The squadron was especially praised for the spirit of its participation in these events despite the fact that the squadron is new to the leagues and had to start early in March.

Following the presentation of awards, Commander E. H. Bayers conducted a personnel inspection concluding the formalities.

VU-3 Dominates Softball Leagues

Utility Squadron THREE's softball team continued to dominate their opponents by outscoring VU-7, 10 to 7, and defeating HU-1, 5 to 3, to pick up their seventh and eighth victories in games played on Buchi Field last week

Picking up one run in the first inning and a four run outburst in the bottom of the fifth inning, including Dane Taylor's tremendous home run with two mates aboard, VU-3 came from behind to defeat HU-1, 5 to 3. "Indian" Anckner, of VU-3, led the hitters parade with three of the six hits "earned", but pitcher John Arce allowed but three hits in gaining his fourth victory.

In the game with VU-7, the dronemen batted across six runs in the first inning, two in the second, to insure the victory. VU-7 put across seven runs in the sixth and seventh innings, but their rally fell short of its mark. Arce chalked up victory number three, but was helped out by Jimmy Lang and Lowell Zollars to end the game.

As the season reaches the halfway mark, Utility Squadron Three now boasts eight wins and one loss and leads the FAD Ream standings by three games.

Ream Squadrons Enter Display In Local Parade

During the last week the personnel of Ream have been wondering why the Bell Helicopter, KD Target and glider target were being hauled around the base on a low boy.

It was the ALF Ream entry in the South Bay Historical Day parade held in Imperial Beach last Saturday.

The Bell Helicopter represented HU-1 and HS-2, the KD represented VU-3K, while VU-7 showed a glider target.

The display was placed on one low boy and signs and colored bunting were added to make the float attractive.

After the parade the float was on display at the Community Center and much interest was shown by the non-military spectators in the Ream Field display.

VU-7 Anglers Find Lake Fishing Best

An angling word to the wise, especially to those unfortunate fishermen who have just returned from empty kreel creek. Men, the lake's the thing—always productive in one way or another. If you go after bass, you'll get bluegill—if you try for bluegill you're apt to end up with a string of crappies—if it's crappies you are after the bass might decide to bite. It's a vicious circle at best, but the very least you can bring home to the little woman is a dozen or so mud suckers and a badly picked-over can of worms. Yes, very productive, and fun, too.

Last Saturday morning three aspiring plug casters from VU-7 took off for Lake Rodriguez to try for bass. The trio, LT Jack Crumley, LT "Mac" Maguire and LT Loren McDonald, tried for four hours to raise the wily largemouth, but no luck. LT Crumley's charmed bucktailed spinner failed miserably even though it produced a nice 6¾ pound bass a few days before.

Undaunted by the bass's failure to put in an appearance, the boys were not disheartened—they simply put away their lures, reached for the worm can and proceeded to catch a nice string of bluegills. The moral of the story is to never underestimate the power of the lowly worm. If the fancy lures are no good, swallow your pride and provide the fish with a tasty earth worm dinner.

Utility Squadron Three Men Are USAFI Minded

During the past year in which USAFI has been in operation at ALF Ream, 700 men of Utility Squadron THREE have participated in GED, College and High School level examinations.

USAFI, U.S. Armed Forces Institute, has proven a valuable aid to Squadron members who have needed High School credits and have a desire to better their education. USAFI courses are available in four areas of learning: elementary, high school, technical or vocational, and college.

Currently enrolled in correspondence courses are 53 men of the Squadron, taking courses from Commercial Art to Psychology. Under the direction of Department Head, LT H. R. Hunzeker, the Education and Information Office aids the men in determining the courses and administering the examinations. For the small price of $2.00, any member of VU-3 can enroll in USAFI courses. Subjects in the college level not covered in the general USAFI catalog, can be obtained from anyone of the forty-seven cooperating Colleges and Universities that participate in this program, costing the enrollee only half the enrollment fee.

Men of VU-3 take pride in bettering their professional and educational backgrounds and besides USAFI, there are 296 dronemen enrolled in the Navy Correspondence School, Brooklyn, N. Y., for advancement in rating.

Regardless of their rate or rank the Armed Forces Institute and its educational opportunities that can be obtained, whether they left school in the elementary grades or continued until they earned college degrees, has enabled the men of Utility Squadron THREE to take courses in many new and valuable fields of learning.

Supply, which has completed the season, will be watching with no slight interest the remaining game of Weather Central, which can throw the league into a two-way tie by winning their remaining game with Power Plant.

The second half of play starts June 2, with 16 teams participating. The winners of each half will receive individual trophies and winner of the championship will receive a championship trophy.

VU-3 Man To Wed Saturday

Earle C. Thomas, PN3, of Utility Squadron THREE, will be married to Miss Nancy Nicolson of Arcadia, California, Saturday, May 17, in Pasadena, California.

Earle, who makes his home in Arcadia and Balboa, California, enlisted in the Navy September 8, 1950, and has been a member of VU-3 some fifteen months. He is active in yachting and swimming.

After a brief honeymoon in Carmel and San Francisco, the couple will live in San Diego.

110ers are undefeated in three games and making shambles of opposing pitchers. They won their first two games by scores of 20-0 and 21-0, and to prove they were no flukes, bounced back to smother a good AirPac Personnel team 14-1 on Monday.

VC-11 is the only team close to 110 as they have two verdicts. But, the outcome of their games rests in the hands of the protest board and officers-in-charge of the teams.

B. J. WORACK, ADC, of HS-2 maintenance department, added one more trophy to his trophy room by winning the Sponsors Tournament at Pacific Beach Victory Alleys. Competing with 164 other bowlers, Chief Worack came up with 1303 pins, which was 6 pins better than the nearest contender.

British Pilot Rescued By HU-1 Unit 15

LT C. H. Barfield, Officer in Charge of Unit 15, Helicopter Squadron One, and E. H. Williams, AM2, crewman, based aboard the HMS Glory, recently rescued LT J. R. Fraser of the Royal Navy, after his British Sea Fury Fighter ditched upon returning from a flight against Communist ground forces.

After several approaches to his ship, the pilot elected to ditch his plane in the water and landed about 200 yards off the starboard side of the ship. The plane remained afloat long enough for the pilot to climb out on the port wing and be picked up by the awaiting Helicopter. The elapsed time from the pilot's election to ditch and his arrival back aboard the Glory was two minutes.

The Versatile Helicopter

A small boat and a panic-stricken boy were being swept to sea by the outgoing tide when a helicopter pilot spotted the boy's predicament. Utilizing the 'copter's powerful downwash from the rotors, the pilot blew the boat out of the tide's grasp and back to shore. Although the main objective of Helicopter Squadron ONE of Ream Field is to supply trained reserve units to the fleet, numerous incidents such as the above situation, spotting wetbacks entering the country, and the reporting of numerous stolen cars are proving to the personnel of HU-1 that their unique type aircraft is indeed a versatile machine.

'K-Vet' Bill Referred to Congress for Approval

The K-Vet bill has been unanimously approved by the House Veterans Committee. It must now be passed by the House and Senate.

The measure would provide up to 36 months of free schooling, up to $300 in mustering-out pay and government-guaranteed loans on homes, farms and businesses.

The benefits would be available to all men and women in uniform between June 27, 1950, and a date to be set later by either Congress or the President.

Chief benefits are: Education—$100 a month for single veterans and up to $150 to those with dependents. Students would be entitled to one and one-half days of free schooling for each day of service. The maximum would be 36 months, the normal period for a four-year college education. Veterans must pay their own tuition and use whatever is left for living expenses.

Housing — Provisions are the same as those in the WWII bill, except that home builders will be required to give veteran buyers a one year warranty that the house is as represented.

Loans—The government, as before, will guarantee up to 60 percent of a four percent loan on home, farm or business with a maximum guaranty of $7,500.

Mustering-out pay — Men up through the Army rank of captain will get $100 for service of less than 60 days, $200 for more than 60 days and $300 for more than 60 days and overseas duty.

Social security—As before, the government will credit each man in Service with $160 monthly salary in figuring social security benefits.

On-the-job-training — Generally, the same, except that the government's contributions will be reduced automatically every four months.

The committee provided special safeguards against abuses which hampered the WWII program. It barred such avocational courses as bar-tending, dancing and personality development. Any flight training would have to lead to a job.

Bob Hope and Company At NAS Theater Monday

PALEFACE (ALIAS BOB HOPE) is shown as the object of "gun-slinging" Roy Roger's searching eyes. Out west, they say that the "light-skinned" hombre is the toughest thing since "powder-puff Polly" roamed the range.

Roy Rogers, Dale Evans, Les Brown Featured in Show for N. I. Military

Once again Bob "PALEFACE" Hope brings one of his "always welcome" shows to the Naval Air Station. The show will be presented Monday night and doors open at 1845.

Sharing the spotlight with Bob Hope will be Les Brown and his "Band of Renown" featuring Butch Stone, and special guests including Roy Rogers and Dale Evans.

Fronting his world-famous "Band of Renown," Les Brown will give the NAS audiences an opportunity to see and hear his celebrated orchestra. His sparkling brand of music yielded the Brown organization one of the most sought after spots in radio when Bob Hope chose them to be featured on his radio show. With Hope, they have traveled all over the South Pacific as well as Korea and Japan, playing for servicemen.

The show will be tape recorded from 1900 to 1930 for a later national broadcast.

Because of the limited seating, dependents will not be invited; the show will be for military personnel only.

The "EM" uniform is the uniform of the day, and officers and chiefs will wear Dress Blue Baker.

Tickets may be obtained through squadron Special Service Officers, or NAS Division Officers.

North Islander to be Issued Next Thursday

Military and civilian personnel aboard this station will observe holiday routine next Friday, May 30, Memorial Day, with twenty-four hour service maintained.

Since this holiday occurs on Friday, the NORTH ISLANDER, usually distributed throughout this station and area on Fridays, will be distributed Thursday, May 29. Division, department, and squadron personnel who usually pick up copies of the paper for their units may get them after 0800 and preferably before 1200. Regular station deliveries will be made.

President Signs Military Pay Boost Legislation

The long-awaited armed forces pay raise became law this week when President Truman signed the legislation which was earlier passed unanimously by both Houses of Congress.

The new law reflects a compromise between the separate bills offered by the House and the Senate earlier this year.

Retroactive to May 1, the pay raise calls for a flat increase of four percent in base pay for all personnel and an increase of 14 percent in allowances for food and rental.

Intended to help offset the higher cost of living, the new law will give the average low-ranking serviceman a three dollar a month raise in base pay. For enlisted men with dependents, the monthly increase in pay and allowances would average $13 to $19 per month.

The measure adopts six important points as follows:

1. The base pay of all personnel in the Armed Forces will be increased four percent.
2. Allowances for quarters and subsistence of all personnel will be increased by 14 percent.
3. The base pay of midshipmen and cadets at the Military, Naval and Coast Guard Academies, and of aviation cadets of all Services will be increased four percent.
4. The pay of all persons on the retired lists of all Services will be increased four percent.
5. A raise in pay of enlisted rates will be authorized for certain members of the maritime service, which is operated under the jurisdiction of the Department of Commerce.
6. Personnel appointed to the Military and Naval Academies

ROSE! ROSE! PLEASE TAKE OUR DOUGH! Marine Private First Class Rose Rogers, on temporary duty at Naval Air Station from the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, receives donations from five North Islanders for the Navy Relief Carnival. RADM J.W. Roper Appointed To 11th Naval District Post

Rear Admiral John Wesley Roper was assigned last Tuesday to the post of Commander of the 11th Naval District. He will replace RADM Wilder D. Baker who is scheduled to retire August 1st.

Prior to assuming his new duties, RADM Roper will remain in his present status as ComCruDesPac. He has held this position since April 1951.

During World War II, he served throughout the South Pacific area in several individual positions. One of these was as a staff member of the Commander of the South Pacific in 1942. Returning to Washington, RADM Roper later served as assistant director and then director of the Officer Personnel Division, Bureau of Naval Personnel. In 1944 he assumed duty as the assistant to the Secretary of the Navy.

In 1945 RADM Roper took command of the USS WISCONSIN and participated in the raids against Okinawa, Kyushu, and Amami. For these actions he received the Legion of Merit.

RADM Baker held the post of Commander 11th ND for more than three years. He assumed command on February 14, 1949.

Carnival Gains More Civ. Aid

Another NAS civilian group has added its support to the six announced last week which are helping to collect funds for the 1952 Navy Relief Carnival in connection with the North Island Association.

The Planner and Estimator and Progressman's Association has appointed four men to act as official representatives in accepting $1 donations to the Carnival fund. They are authorized to issue numbered receipts from which the future owners of six new 1952 Mercury Sedans will be secelted.

Representatives chosen were Ralph Mann—Repair & Flight Test, Bldg. 378; Roy Wehlage, Tex Hammond and Jean Pierce, all of Planning, Bldg. 94.

Chaplain's Corner

Francis Thompson, the author of the wonderful poem "The Hound of Heaven" also wrote the following beautiful poem entitled "From the Lips of Children."

Little Jesus, wast Thou shy
Once, and just so small as I?
And what did it feel like to be
Out of Heaven, and just like me?
Didst Thou sometimes think of there,
And ask where all the angels were?
I should think that I would cry
For my house all made of sky;
I would look about the air,
And wonder where my angels were;
And at waking 'twould distress me—
Not an angel there to dress me.
Hadst Thou ever any toys,
Like us little girls and boys?
And didst Thou play in Heaven with all
The angels that were not too tall,
With stars for marbles? Did the things
Play 'can you see me?' through their wings?
And did Thy Mother let Thee spoil
Thy robes, with playing on our soil?
How nice to have them always new
In Heaven, because 'twas quite clean blue.

Didst Thou kneel at night and pray,
And didst Thou join Thy hands, this way?
And did they tire sometimes, being young,
And make the prayer seem very long?
And dost Thou like it best that we Should join our hands to pray to Thee?
And did Thy Mother at the night
Kiss Thee, and fold the clothes in right?
I used to think, before I knew,
The prayer not said unless we do.
And didst Thou feel quite good in bed,
Kissed and sweet, and Thy prayers said?
Thou canst not have forgotten all
That it feels like to be small;
And Thou know'st I cannot pray
To Thee in my father's way—
When Thou wast little say,
Couldst Thou talk Thy Father's way?

So, a little child, come down
And hear a Child's tongue like Thy own;
Take me by the hand and walk,
And listen to my baby talk.
To Thy Father show my prayer
(He will look, Thou art so fair)
And say: 'O Father, I, Thy Son,
Bring the prayer of a little one.'

And He will smile, that children's tongue

Dumb Animals Aren't So Dumb

Safety is a funny thing. "Dumb" animals take to it naturally; it's born and bred right in them. But man, supposed to be on top in the social order, often gets to thinking that only "sissies" practice safety.

It is said that beavers always detail one of their number to watch and warn the rest of the animal tree choppers when a tree is about to fall. Yet, many of us fail to give our fellow employees the same consideration when danger is near.

If you have ever hunted crows, you know that it is almost impossible to get a close range shot at the flock. WHY? Because they have sentinels placed at advantageous spots to warn of man's approach. Yet how often we have failed to caution and warn our fellow workers about their personal safety and how to avoid accidents.

Surely, we who can talk should pass on to our co-workers and families any safety device that will help to promote and insure their happiness.

Ideas for Cartoons? Well, Let's Have 'Em

For the past several weeks, the staff members of the NORTH ISLANDER have received many favorable comments concerning the cartoons drawn by S. D. Jones, appearing on this page.

Since such wide interest has been shown and since obvious enjoyment is derived from these cartoons, we desire to include this item in our list of permanent features each week. We also wish to cover as many and varied subjects of particular interest to ISLANDER readers as possible.

Therefore, we request ISLANDER readers, who have a special subject which they find humorous or amusing and would like a cartoon or caricature to appear in the paper on that subject, to submit their ideas to Jones, located in the art room of Building 317-A (the I&E Building) or to the NORTH ISLANDER office, Room 1 in the Administration Building.

All ideas and subjects will be carefully considered and, if used, full credit will be given to the person or persons offering the suggestions. Sketches may or may not accompany each entry.

This Week's News at a glance

In an address at West Point, President Truman warned of the possibility of an outbreak of full scale warfare in Korea. He said he was still hopeful that a just and honorable peace could be concluded but added, "We must also be alert and ready to meet treachery or a renewal of aggression if that should come.

President Truman defended the nation's arms and foreign aid budget and expressed, and said military production has been tripled in the last year. In citing the country's expanding defense strength, he mentioned the development of atomic artillery.

The riots and sitdown strikes in the Kojo prison are apparently being caused by a group of Communist diehards who are trying to prevent the segregation of pro-Communist and anti-Communist prisoners. The outbursts at Koje appear to be well coordinated with the Communist propaganda campaign at Panmunjon. VADM Joy, UN peace negotiator, said the Communists there have turned on the most vicious and degrading propaganda he has heard in the more than ten months since the talks began.

Of interest to local sports enthusiasts is the news that the Armed Forces track and field championship meet, originally scheduled for San Diego, has been transferred to Long Beach. It will be held in the Veterans' Memorial Stadium there June 7-8. The championships will bring together a crack field of 300 athletes representing the Army, Air Force, Navy, and Marines, and Coast Guard.

Two labor disputes were settled this week. The bus strike which affected the local area ended this week and the buses began to roll again. In Washington, the three-year railroad labor dispute ended when the Brotherhoods accepted the terms of a government settlement.

Here's the Dope

THAT MAN friday

A young friend of mine recently asked what it was like to go to a show back in the silent movie days.

"It was quiet," I replied, giving him a baggy-eyed stare. "Nice and restful and quiet." I was mentally comparing those visits in the 20's, when the man at the mighty Wurlitzer was the only sound between me and Clara Bow, with a session at one of our contemporary popcorn palaces.

Today it is usually my misfortune to pick a seat in the immediate vicinity of one of the crunch-and-crackle boys. Sometimes this individual will be a Squeaker. A Squeaker eats his popcorn with a slow, gentle chomping of the jaws, as if fearful of injuring the kernels in his mouth. What issues forth is a series of mournful, prolonged squeaks, duplicated only by a mother chick and her brood at feeding time.

Another type it has been my ill-luck to sit near is the Vivisectionist. In contrast to the Squeaker, he is out to kill his mouthful as quickly and maliciously as possible. His teeth are sharper than any in a garbage disposal unit, and he shreds his intake with lightning-like gulps that outclass the finest model on the market.

The true menace, however, is the Artilleryman. To sit a row or two ahead of him requires wearing a crash helmet. He is the careful muncher who separates the uncooked kernels from the popped, then spits them with explosive force at any target within range, which often turns out to be my neck.

A distant relative of this character is the tooth-prober. After finishing his noisy treat, he tries to extricate the particles stuck between his teeth with a curled-tongue sucking sound. "Frizee-eee, frizee-eee," he hisses, and the small children in the audience run outside to see who's letting the air out of their bicycle tires.

Aside from these specialists, there are the routine bag rattlers and box diggers. Their combined maneuvers sound like the far-off rumble of a major battle in progress. One is sometimes fortunate enough, during a lull, to hear the heroine's voice from the screen as she shouts: "Do I know this man, officer? Why, I've never seen him before in my whole life!"

Come back, Norma Talmadge. Let me gaze at your magnified beauty with silent reverence, far away from this chomp, chaw, crackle and crunch!

Science Institute Will Present Demonstrations Here June 9-12

Armed with over 2,000 pounds of specialized laboratory equipment, the Moody Institute of Science is scheduled to set up a scientific array on the stage of Building 8, Auditorium, which will transform the auditorium into a modern house of wonder. Personnel of North Island will enjoy a week of spectacular demonstration beginning June 9 that will show the harmony that exists between true science and true religion.

Mr. George Speake, of the Moody Institute of Science staff, will give at least four lecture-demonstrations in the Auditorium during his visit to NAS. The first demonstration will be at 1930 Monday, followed each night with an entirely different demonstraation. The demonstrations will be open to all personnel and their dependents and no admission will be charged.

Following the findings made by myriad scientists over the years, Speake will demonstrate that many things which are looked upon by some as Biblical myths can be supported by scientific facts, and that the natural laws of the universe substantiate the Spiritual laws of God.

In the course of the lecture you will see solid metal float in air, an egg will be fried on a cold stove, an ordinary suitcase with a mind of its own, as well as demonstrating many other astounding and scientifically founded facts. On one of the evenings Mr. Speake will discharge over a million volts of electricity through his body.

Sermons From Science are nondenominational and it is not a religious program as such. That is, there are no prayers, hymns, or other activities usually associated with religious services. Mr. Speake puts on a demonstration of unusual accomplishments of Science, which brings out the fact that there must be a Supreme Being behind all this natural phenomena. Rear Admiral Stanton W. Salisbury, Chief of Navy Chaplains, stated ,"I heartily endorse this program and feel that it can make a real contribution to the religious program in the Navy."

George Speake was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania with a degree in Mechanical Engineering, receiving the Senior Mechanical Engineering Award. He served in the Naval Air Force for ten years as a pilot and won the bronze star for meritorious achievement during the war and now holds the permanent commission of Lieutenant Commander in the Naval Air Reserve.

G. E. SPEAKE demonstrates part of the apparatus to be shown at the "SERMONS FROM SCIENCE" show at the Building 8 Auditorium June 9 through June 12.

VFW Dance Next Tuesday

GEN Henry D. Styer Post 2422 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary will hold its regular monthly dance for enlisted personnel Tuesday, May 27, at 2000.

This will mark the twelfth dance of the series, which is held the fourth Tuesday in every month. No charge is made for admission and hostesses are furnished.

Dancing will be to the music of the CruDesPac band and entertainment will be furnished. All hands are invited to attend this dance at the VFW post at 6th and Orange in Coronado.

A REMINDER

Station Personnel Should Check Annual Leave Credit

With just one month remaining in the current fiscal year in which military personnel may take leave accrued during this year, the Naval Air Station personnel offices would like to remind all men of existing regulations and policies governing leave.

Leave is earned at the rate of two and one-half days for each month of active service and is credited on the leave record at the end of each fiscal year (June 30). The total accumulated leave showing on the leave record may not exceed 60 days at any time, so any leave in excess of 60 days is dropped from the record at the beginning of the next fiscal year. This means that all days of accrued leave totaling more than the allotted 60 will be lost if not utilized before the end of the fiscal year.

All hands are encouraged to take their leave as accruing. This is especially important for men on shore duty who expect sea duty in a short time.

If you are in doubt about your leave, contact your leading chief or division officer who will aid you in determining your leave credit which in turn may be verified by your service record on file in the respective personnel offices on the station.

VF-871 Wins Safety Award

The Air Force, Pacific Fleet VF Safety Award for the third quarter of the fiscal year, was presented to Fighter Squadron 871, a member of Air Task Group TWO, based at NAS. The award is presented, each quarter, to the AirPac type squadron with the best safety record. VF-871 won the award as the safest fighter squadron.

This is the second squadron in ATG-2 to win an AirPac safety award. Attack Squadron FIFTY-FIVE won the VA Safety Award in the second quarter of the fiscal year. ATC-2 broke the record for the number of landings in one week aboard the USS BON HOMME RICHARD, when they completed 1,073 landings aboard that carrier in recent operations.

The VF Safety Award was presented to LCDR Frank C. Hearrell, Commanding Officer and LCDR Charles C. Sanders, Executive Officer, of VF-871, by CDR James G. Daniels III, Commander of ATG-2. Left to right are: CDR Daniels, LCDR Sanders and LCDR Hearrell.

Exchange Closes For Inventory

Because of an inventory for the end of the fiscal year, the Navy Exchange store will be closed Saturday morning, May 24, and all day Monday, May 26, Don Warf, store manager, has announced.

Every effort will be made to keep the front counter of the store open to sell necessities after 0900, said Mr. Warf.

Three Civilians Get Meritorious Awards Monday

Three civilian employees were given meritorious awards at NAS by the Commanding Officer Monday. Charles F. Braley, Shop Learner in Power Plant Division, received his award for exemplary performance of duties as messenger in IRD.

Rodney C. Cole and Harold W. Smith, Metalsmiths in Assembly Division of O&R received their awards for engineering changes originally submitted as beneficial suggestions. These changes and redesign of aircraft parts has resulted in the saving of 1720 man-hours per aircraft in the PBM line.

Supply Depot Paper Begins Publication

"The Spotlight" is the name of the new four-page tabloid published for the employees of the Naval Supply Depot in San Diego. The first issue appeared May 9.

Published bi-weekly, "The Spotlight" is edited by Michael Goodbody. Art Center is the paper's staff photographer; McKinley Thomas, staff cartoonist.

The "North Islander" offers its congratulations to the newcomer in local Navy journalism.

Changes Affect Savings Bonds

New regulations governing the issue and redemption of United States Series E Savings Bonds have been announced by the Treasury Department, and became effective May 1. Aimed at improving the intermediate redemption schedule to provide a higher return in the earlier years, interest will start at the end of six months instead of at the end of one year as formerly.

The rate accrued at the end of six months will be 1.07 percent; at the end of one year, 1.59 percent; at the end of two years, 2.10 percent; and so on. The over-all interest rate on E bonds has also been raised from 2.9 percent to 3 percent compounded semi-annually, the maximum permitted by law. The $18.75 issue price on a $25 bond has been retained, as has the $4 return for a $3 investment. The change in the over-all return has been effected by shortening the length of the Series E bond from 10 years to nine years, eight months.

The Treasury is also offering an entirely new current income savings bonds to be designated Series H, which will have interest paid by check semi-annually, instead of having the interest accrue. Present Series F and G bonds are being replaced by a new series to be known as J and K, which will differ from the old series primarily in their higher interest rate schedules.

For information on additional changes in the Series E bonds, as well as on the H, J and K bonds, NAS civilians are invited to contact Mr. Jack Ball, IRD, Ext. 694. Military personnel may obtain complete information from the Enlisted Personnel Officer in building 8-A.

COLUMN RIGHT

ITEMS OF INFORMATION FOR CIVILIAN PERSONNEL

Q. I became an apprentice with the understanding that after 4 years I would be promoted to a permanent journeyman. Now this promotion will be temporary. What right do I have in the event of an R.I.R.?

A. You have permanent rights to a Helper Position.

Q. If a position is allocated to a higher grade but the incumbent does not satisfy the requirements of C.S. Regulations 8.109, what action should be taken?

A. Action should first be taken to determine eligibility for promotion in terms of provisions for two-grade promotions within the course of one year. In the event eligibility cannot be so established (as in the case of an employee who has been promoted two grades within the previous year), the incumbent may be detailed, subject to detail requirements, to the higher grade position until he is eligible for promotion. (This assumes the position may not be feasibly filled with a fully qualified person either by appointment or position change.)

Q. A permanent employee has been given indefinite appointments in lieu of transfers in one or more agencies without break in service of one or more working days. Does he have permanent tenure in his present agency?

A. Yes. He is entitled to permanent tenure in his present agency in his last permanent grade.

Q. May promotion action be taken when there are three grades between the position occupied by an employee and the position to which it is desired to promote him if there are not positions or qualified employees at intervening grades at the installation?

A. No. Promotion of the employee in such cases is prohibited by law unless he is within reach on a Civil Service certificate of eligibles or unless he has been reduced in force from the higher grade. This would not prevent establishment of a position one or two grades above the position currently occupied and promoting the employee to such position if eligible.

Q. If an employee is now serving in a position at Grade GS-7 in a series properly classified at one grade intervals, can he be promoted to a position at Grade GS-9 in a series properly classified at two-grade intervals?

A. Yes, if one year has elapsed since assignment to the grade GS-7 position, and he is otherwise qualified. In such cases, the classification standards for the position to which the employee is being promoted will be used to identify series properly evaluated at two-grade intervals.

Suisun Returns After Third Tour in Korea

Seaplane Tender USS SUISUN, the first ship of her class to serve three tours in Korean waters, is scheduled to dock in San Diego at 1130 tomorrow morning.

Aboard are more than 200 men returning from seven months in Far Eastern waters where the "Susy Q" served as an advanced airdrome for Navy seaplane patrol bombers conducting reconnaissance missions along Korea's coasts.

Commanded by Captain John B. Bowen, Jr., the tender carries a complete maintenance crew responsible for the material upkeep of the patrol planes.

Named after Suisun Bay in the San Francisco area, the SUISUN was commissioned September 10, 1944, and saw World War II tending action. When Japan surrendered, she was the eighth ship to enter Tokyo Bay.

Stationed in the Philippines when South Korea was invaded in June 1950, she was immediately pressed into service and has seen action in the following places: Philippine Islands, Pescadores Islands, Okinawa, Japan, China, and Korea. The "SUSIE Q" has traveled some 42,000 miles of the Pacific Ocean in 19 out of the past 24 months.

RADM Ekstrom Is Appointed ComCarDiv 17

RADM Charles E. Ekstrom relieved RADM Herbert E. Regan as Commander Carrier Division 17 in ceremonies held aboard this station Monday, May 19. RADM Ekstrom formerly was Chief of Staff for Commander Air Force, Pacific Fleet.

RADM Regan headed CarDiv 17 since November, 1951, when he reported from duties as Commander Fleet Air Seattle, Wash. A Naval Aviator since 1925, RADM Regan was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1922 and has served with carrier squadrons, carrier divisions, and commanded carriers and Naval shore installations. He will assume command of Carrier Division ONE in the near future.

RADM Ekstrom, who graduated from the Naval Academy in 1924, completed flight training in 1926. His past duty stations include service aboard the Navy's first aircraft carrier, the USS LANGLEY, and later aboard the carrier USS RANGER.

He has commanded patrol squadrons, and, during World War II, was executive officer of the USS BUNKER HILL and commanded the USS SAVO ISLAND. Later he was commanding officer of the USS FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

Weekly Free Dances

Weekly free dances for uniformed military personnel and their ladies will be held each Saturday and Sunday afternoon, starting tomorrow, from 1530 to 1830 at TOPS on Pacific Highway.

Jack Nye and his Orchestra will furnish music for dancing each weekend.

LeRoi Dance Studios will furnish 35 dancing instructors for those personnel wishing to take free dancing instruction during the weekly dances at TOPS.

IR DIVULGES

By Max

Looking very military, LCDR R. S. Putnam left last Monday to report for two weeks active training duty in the San Diego area.

Welcome to an old classmate—Jean Cleatis, in Employment, who is quite a musician, holding many honors for her fine performances with the cello.

Taking a few days leave is Benny Sugg Supervisor, Jack Ball—getting that "Hot Motor" in shape for the Memorial day races, I bet!

Happy Birthdays to Barbara Smith and Bill Dede . . . . .

Transferring in the very near future to Miramar Air Station is Mary Smith, who will assume new duties of Employment Supervisor—Good Luck.

Chocolates were passed among fellow employees by Roselle Hill, who resigned from her position in the Tab Section last Friday.

Air Medals Given Members of VP-40

Sixty-two officers and enlisted men, all members of Patrol Squadron FORTY, were presented the Air Medal in ceremonies held here last Saturday, May 17.

The citations accompanying the medals, awarded by LCDR Miles S. Whitener, squadron commanding officer, read in part:

"For meritorious achievement in aerial flights as a member of a patrol plane crew—during operations against enemy forces from 11 July to 11 November 1951—his devotion to duty was in keeping with the highest traditions of the U. S. Naval Service.

After seven months patrolling countless thousands of miles of the Yellow Sea and the Sea of Japan in Martin "Mariner" patrol bombers, the squadron returned to San Diego in December. Pilots and aircrewmen, flying the twin-engined seaplanes, conducted long-range anti-submarine and weather reconnaissance missions for the United Nations in the Korean area.

American Small Sailing Craft by Howard I. Chapelle.

This book contains a collection of 100 plans of small sailing craft used in coastwise trade and occupations during the days of sail. The boats described are within the limit of forty feet on deck and represent a variety of types from the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts and the Lakes.

The book is not only of value because of its historical interest but also for its appeal to the small boat enthusiast who can find several handsome and efficient designs which can be built efficiently. The book also contains a chapter on early-day rigging techniques.

The author is one of the nation's outstanding authorities on sailing craft construction, design, and history. His previous books, "Boatbuilding" and "Yacht Design and Planning", are standard works on the subject.

The Goshawk by T. H. White.

Falconry, the medieval hunting sport, depended on a well trained hawk—preferably a goshawk, a powerful short-winged bird, considered by many as the finest and bravest of hunting hawks.

Training a goshawk is no easy matter as T. H. White, modern day falconry enthusiast, has discovered. His book is the account of the training of one of these birds. It was a long, painful and emotionally trying period.

The goshawk is a proud, aloof, and aristocratic bird. White had to establish himself as an equal in the eyes of this imperious hawk.

White stayed up night after night, talking and crooning to "Gos" and reciting Shakespeare. Finally the hawk came to recognize his master as his peer in strength and stamina. The slow, wearing and intricate process is described in detail to the moment when the goshawk perches on his master's wrist and takes food from his fingers.

Palomar by Helen Wright.

Mt. Palomar, a short drive from San Diego, will become more interesting to those who have visited it, or at least plan to, in the future, if they read this book.

The book describes the entire history of the big Palomar Eye, its development and its contribution to astronomy. Illustrated with photos and drawings, the story begins with the negotiations for the $6 million construction job. It tells the tremendous job of casting its 200 inch mirror, the job of shipping and mounting it. Told also is the story of the telescope's part in pushing back the frontiers of the universe.

OTHER NEW BOOKS

Navy Relief Society Annual Call For Contributions

More Units Report 100% In NR Drive

The Station's score in the Navy Relief Society's annual call for contributions soared to 64 percent of its goal this week with the campaign continuing until June 6.

Three divisions—Information & Education, Public Works 32, and Military Personnel—reported 100 percent participation in the fund drive by their personnel this week.

The list of 100 percent divisions and departments is growing rapidly. Other divisions are approaching the mark.

All personnel who have not yet contributed are urged to contact their divisional representative, give any amount—large or small—so the Station can reach its full participation goal.

Pay Raise

prior to 1912 and 1913 will be permitted credit for military and naval service provided they could count that service when they retire.

Of the six points, all are permanent except the quarters allowances for enlisted personnel. This runs concurrently with the Dependents Act of 1950 which expires April 30, 1953.

At that time, Congress may elect to continue the act or let it drop. If they drop it, this would mean that dependents of enlisted men below the rank of E-4 would not receive any quarters allowance.

The Defense Department has stated that increases in monthly allotment checks reflecting the rate cannot be effected for three months due to mechanical difficulties. The increase, however, will be paid to the individual serviceman as an increment of his regular pay for two months following the month in which the bill is enacted. Thereafter, the raise will be reflected in regular monthly allotment checks.

Leave rations and commuted rations are not increased under the terms of the act. These items are authorized to be adjusted by provisions of the annual appropriations act.

Personnel on recruiting duty and other special projects who receive subsistence at the rate of $2.25 daily will receive the increase.

Station Marines Combine Courtesy With Vigilance

Most people think only of Marines as Uncle Sam's rough and ready boys, quick, tight-lipped and alert. If their manner is sometimes gruff, it's attributed to the rugged nature of their jobs, which leave little time for the soft word or the friendly nod.

But NAS civilian and Navy personnel who come aboard and go ashore each day have a far different impression of the Semper Fidelis men assigned here. Civilian and Navy man alike are greeted with a pleasant "good morning," "good afternoon" or "good evening" as they pass through the Station's gates. This combination of courtesy with effective security has now become an established tradition with NAS Marines.

Actually the men who man the Station's portals are members of a guard platoon from the San Diego Naval Station, and they serve under the operational control of the Commanding Officer, NAS. The platoon's officer-in-charge is 1ST LT H. L. Alderman, and his assistant is CWO R. E. Varnum.

Although their principal mission is the security of the four major NAS posts of entry, the several dozen Marines quartered in Building 648 keep busy in other capacities as well. They often fill special posts as sentries or honor guards, and frequently assist civilian police in handling crowds on hand to greet returning ships.

The NAS watchdogs also attend regular classes held on the Station in such subjects as rifle instruction, sanitation and hygiene, infantry tactics, and shelter tent and pack procedures.

Posts 1 and 4 at the Main gate and the Main Dock are maintained on a 24-hour schedule, with the men who guard them serving on four-hour shifts every other day. This duty is alternated with other daily assignments, and they supplement the regular gate crews during the morning and afternoon rush hours. A Sergeant of the Guard, who is assigned for a 24-hour period, makes periodic checks of all posts during his time of duty.

The four-man crew which serves during the off-peak hours at the main vehicular gate checks all incoming and outgoing cars, as well as pedestrians. The crew is increased to eight during rush hours, when additional traffic lanes are opened. Persons not carrying proper identification are referred to the Security office just inside the gate for clearance.

According to T/Sgt. D. A. Wright, guard chief of the NAS Marine Detachment, the men regularly assigned to the Station are supplemented every two weeks by a group of Sea School graduates from MCRD who remain aboard while awaiting ship orders.

But whether regular or temporary, all NAS personnel are proud of the Marines who serve them—for their smart military bearing, for their exacting performance of duty, and for their outstanding and refreshing courtesy.

SHOREBOUND—L. J. Berube, BMCG, NAS Beachmaster, goes through Gate 1 on his way to the Main Dock. His identification is checked by PFC C. D. Chacon (left), and PFC C. Rodriquez, two of the Marine Guards who man NAS points of entry and departure.

VC-11 Officer Awarded Medal

LT Edward W. Sabol was awarded the Navy's Commendation Ribbon in ceremonies held here last Friday.

The award was for "meritorious achievement" while LT Sabol, presently a member of NAS-based Composite Squadron ELEVEN, was maintenance officer of Fleet Aircraft Service Squadron ELEVEN under the Commander Fleet Air, Japan, in Tokyo.

LT Sabol maintained a supply of available aircraft from August 11, 1950, to June 11, 1951, and "achieved the maximum effectiveness of the forces at his disposal," the citation stated.

Presented by CDR James R. Reedy, Commanding Officer of Composite Squadron ELEVEN, the citation was signed by VADM C. Turner Joy, Commander of Naval Forces, Far East.

Besides the Commendation Ribbon, LT Sabol is authorized to wear the Presidential Unit Citation, Navy Unit Citation, Asiatic-Pacific Area Campaign Medal, Philippine Liberation Ribbon, American Area Campaign Medal, and the World War II Victory Medal.

A CHEERY "GOOD MORNING" is given Mrs. Evelyn M. Pilson, wife of LCDR L. J. Pilson of the ComDesFlot Staff, by Marine Guard PFC Clarence O'Bannan, as he checks her pass at the NAS Main Gate.

Civilian Employees' Armed Forces Blood Donation June 3

Civilian blood donations for overseas Armed Forces shipment will be taken at the Main Dispensary, Building 14, between the hours of 0800 and 1300 of Tuesday, June 3.

Every individual wishing to donate should contact his Shop Personnel Supervisor, who in turn will give him an appointment card. In order to accommodate an expected 300 donors at the Dispensary, blood will have to be taken at the rate of 60 pints an hour.

Visitors See Carriers Planes, Exhibits on Armed Forces Day

Armed Forces Day was observed over the nation and at the Naval Air Station last Saturday when 3,500 persons visited the ships and displays here.

Sixteen types of Navy aircraft were on display as well as a model of Overhaul and Repair Department showing miniature aircraft and buildings. Also a static ordnance display was viewed by the spectators.

FASRon 7 had a survival display and the model Essex class carrier USS NORTH ISLAND was included in the NAS exhibits.

At the quay-wall the Essex class carriers KEARSARGE and BON HOMME RICHARD and the escort carriers BADOENG STRAITS and RENDOVA were open to the visiting public, as well as the USS ESTES, USS QUINCY, and USS CURTISS.

WHOLE BLOOD rushed by air from the United States helps save the lives of wounded G.I.'s in an Army mobile hospital only two miles behind the front lines in Korea. The injured man in the photograph above continues to receive transfusions of whole blood while undergoing an operation. Speedy and massive blood transfusions have already proven extremely valuable in treating the wounded in Korea. Sometimes as many as 20 pints of whole blood, or blood and plasma, have been administered to one man.

VFW Poppy Day In Coronado

Today and tomorrow have been designated as "Buddy Poppy Days" in Coronado by the Mayor. This annual drive for relief funds is made by the VFW and Auxaliary, by selling Poppies made by veterans. Their slogan is: Every VFW Buddy Poppy honors the dead by helping the living."

OFF TO AN ILLUSTRIOUS START in their Naval careers, members of NTC's Company 52-197-5 March graduated last Tuesday as high infantry company at the Training Center. The men of this group formed the praiseworthy Honor Guard which participated in welcoming ceremonies for GEN Matthew B. Ridgway at NAS on May 14. Company commander is R. Colvin, QMC.

Powerplant PARAGRAPHS

By Beulah Dreher

Lots of plans are underway for the Power Plant Picnic to be held June 21 at the El Monte Park. The Recreation Committee has lots of entertainment lined up and plenty of good food for everyone. Don't forget the date, Power Planters.

C. J. WILLIAMS, Shop 6123-2, is the proud owner of a 17-foot skiff which he hopes to use successfully doing some fishing in the kelp beds. Said skiff is equipped with a marine engine and aside from the transmission falling out on the first voyage, it is a good seafaring vessel.

JOHN GRAMOY, Shop 6248, and three other "friends" went fishing at San Vincente last weekend. The only thing caught was Johnny who got a fish hook in his skull from a well cash line. So they all left the lake suddenly to head for town and a doctor. The offending hook was cut out and John's wearing a patch on his cranium as proof of his story.

Delayed news but here it is anyhow. H. W. JONES, JR., 6234, was married to BABE BROWN, Supervisor of IRD Tab Room in La Jolla Presbyterian Chapel on April 12. A reception followed at the Admiral Kidd COM. (Open) and the Jones honeymooned at Catalina.

Lots of new faces in Shop 433, Material Group in Building 379. RUTH SWIFT is replacing DOROTHY SEETO who will stay home and be a housewife from now on. MARIE WILLIAMS from Planning has taken the desk formerly occupied by ROSEMARY SCARBOROUGH who transferred last Friday to the Naval Hospital. MARLENE RENFROE, formerly at the Naval Base, will take over for LOUISE ASSENMACHER who also quit to stay home for a while. JUANITA JENKINS of 6203 has been transferred into the group to work for AL LOWER in jet engines.

F. A. ANDREWS, JR. of Shop 6203 recently transferred to the Inspection Department as a full fledged inspector and as assigned to Power Plant Division.

COMMANDER GEORGE M. DOUGLASS, Executive Officer of Fleet Aircraft Service SEVEN, presented the Captain's Perpetual Trophy recently to Rudy A. Gallego, AT3, who accepted the trophy for the Electronics Division. The trophy, presented for the first quarter of 1952, is presented each quarter to the division with the highest number of combined points in intra-mural sports within Fasron SEVEN. The Electronics Division amassed a total of 357 points during the quarter.

ASA Carnival Set for Wed. At El Cajon

The 1952 Amateur Softball Association's pre-season carnival will be held next Wednesday, May 26, at the El Cajon softball diamond.

Nine teams will compete in the carnival, each playing two innings, or a twenty-minute time limit.

The Skyraider varsity softball squad will be entered, playing Plymouth Mopars in the fourth match of the night.

Also the Naval Air Station WAVES will meet the San Diego Big Shots, a team once defeated by the Waves, in the second match.

The program is scheduled to start at 2000, with pre-game ceremonies. Actual game time will be 2030.

ASA league play will commence on June 2, on a ten-week schedule. The 'Raider softball squad will compete with this league in their games, in addition to the Eleventh Naval District softball league.

RAY HOLCOMB, of O&R, will be pitching for Beasley's when the ASA league starts on June 2. As before, Ray will probably start the season with a neat Van Dyke and chin fuzz to match until he wins his first game.

Coronado Playhouse Holds Tryouts for New Play Sunday

Cast tryouts for "Suds in Your Eye," the delightful farce by Mary Laswell, will be held Sunday at 1430 and Monday at 2030 at the Coronado Playhouse on the Strand.

There are choice male and female parts open. The play will open about July 10 and rehearsals will start soon.

Spring Frolics Party Judged 'Big Success'

Fasron 7 doesn't seem to be lacking in entertainment this season.

Under the direction of Jim Grav, special services chief, the Fasron 7 entertainment committee prepared a variety of attractions for their second "Spring Frolic" party last week.

In the entertainment field they had on hand Bostic Weston with a comedy act and the N.T.C. Band with their lovely singer, Bobbie Winter of San Diego.

And topping off the entertainment with a few songs of his own was the master of ceremonies, Don Howard from the KSDO radio station.

Also doing his part in making the party a success was LT Ed Henry, Squadron Special Services Officer.

Sheepskins Provided By NAS I&E Division

Every month between 25 and 35 enlisted men assigned to NAS and the ships and squadrons which base here successfully don a figurative cap and gown and become full-fledged high school graduates. There are no classrooms, athletic fields or ivy-covered campuses connected with their studies; they have simply come of their own volition to the Information and Education Division in Building 317-A and asked to take the general Educational Development high school test, in order to complete their high school education.

Here, in a series of five individual tests, they are examined in Correctness and Effectiveness of Expression; Interpretation of Reading Materials in the Social Studies; Interpretation of Reading Materials in the Natural Sciences; Interpretation of Literary Materials, and General Mathematical Ability.

Each separate test takes about two hours to complete. They may be taken all at once, or on a day-to-day basis, as over a five-day period. When the full set has been completed, it is forwarded to United States Armed Forces Institute Headquarters at the University of Wisconsin for grading. Results, which are generally known in from three to four weeks, are forwarded to the individual taking the test as well as to the I&E Division.

If the man being tested is 20 years of age or over, he may request that his grades be sent directly to his former high school for acknowledgment. If under 20, he must have the school in question obtain the grades from USAFI headquarters.

Although certain high schools do not issue diplomas based upon successful completion of the GED examination, most colleges acknowledge the men taking it as qualified high school graduates for entrance requirement purposes.

The I&E Division at NAS is open every day from 0800 to 2100, and is prepared to issue the GED high school test to any applicant during those hours. Thus any man assigned to a ship which remains at the Station for even a few days has the opportunity of obtaining his high school diploma, the value of which increases the older he grows. He has only to get the authorization of his Division or Training Officer to apply.

Besides the high school GED examination, a college-level GED test is available to interested applicants, who may also obtain information on other examination subjects from the men in the I&E Division.

VC, VS, AirPac Staff Near Skeet Title

The combined VC-VS-ComAirPac Skeet team took a long step toward the North Island intramural skeet championship Monday when they outshot FAIRBETUPac by a score of 463-460 score. Prior to the match, FAIRBETUPac was right on their heels with a 4-1 record. The winners now sport a perfect mark in four attempts.

NAS, S. D.—NAB occupies second place with 4-1. However, they had their shot at the leaders earlier in the year and lost.

The biggest obstacle left for VC-VS-ComAirPac Staff now seems to be the FASRons. Although their record is just 2-2, they have some of the highest shooters in the league. This match comes off on June 6.

Leagues Tighten in Three AirPac Sports

Three torrid races are shaping up in the AirPac intra-mural tennis, table tennis and golf leagues.

The tennis loop has three unbeaten teams in FASRon-691, FAW-14 and FAIRBETUPac. The first two have won two while the other one.

FASRon-7 leads the table tennis loop with three straight wins, followed by VS-892 with an impressive 6-1 record, and Ready Issue with 3-1.

VC-35 FAIRBETUPac each have won two golf matches and are tied for the lead in that league.

This Week's MOVIE MENU for NAS

Friday, May 23—"STEEL TOWN"—Ann Sheridan, John Lund, and Howard Duff.
Hollywood gives the eternal triangle the backdrop of a steel mill. Lund, portraying a rather uncongenial character, comes to Steel Town to mess up Duff's love affair with Ann Sheridan. Tempers get fired up and molten iron gets spilled before this nasty business is settled. Lund wins Sheridan, and Duff goes back to puddling iron.
SHORTS: "Man's Best Friend" and "To the Rescue"
Running Time: 1:47.

Saturday, May 24—"RANCHO NOTORIOUS"—Marlene Dietrich, Arthur Kennedy, and Mel Ferrer.
This is a superwestern with a cast of three of Hollywood's best. Marlene Dietrich is the keeper of an outlaw ranch and sweetheart of trigger-happy Mel Ferrer. Arthur Kennedy is equally handy with the gun and is seeking revenge for the murder of his girl friend. It is a melodrama to the nth degree, opening with a murder. Building up suspense, it climaxes with the hardbitten outlaws turning their guns on each other.
SHORTS: "Emperor's House"
Running Time: 1:46.

Sunday, May 25—"THE MARRYING KIND"—Judy Holiday and Aldo Ray.
A humorous story of an average (?) American family and their domestic difficulties. Newcomer Aldo Ray gives a good performance, and aptly weathers Miss Holiday's verbal blasts, replying in kind. The picture has its poignant moments, handled with restraint and good taste by the cast, which brings it above the level of the ordinary comedy.
SHORT: "Water, Water Everywhere"
Running Time: 1:46.

Monday, May 26—THE BOB HOPE SHOW on the NAS theater stage, with Roy Rogers, Dale Evans, and Les Brown and his "Band of Renown." Doors open 1840. See story on page one.

Tuesday, Wednesday, May 27, 28—"WITH A SONG IN MY HEART"—Susan Hayward and David Wayne.
The story of Jane Froman, her singing performances for GI's during the war, the near-fatal airplane accident, and her struggle for recovery from the injuries. Susan Hayward plays Jane Froman and David Wayne portrays the pilot who rescues her from the crash and later marries her. Singing sequences are Miss Froman's actual voice.
Running Time: 1:45.

Thursday, Friday, May 29, 30—"A GIRL IN EVERY PORT"—Groucho Marx, Marie Wilson, and William Bendix.
Marx and Bendix are four-hash-mark seamen, who, with Marie Wilson, provide enough hokum to keep audiences laughing for 114 minutes.

Skyraiders Drop to Sixth Spot In League, Suffer Five Losses

After starting off the 1952 season with a grandslam win over PhibPac, the Skyraider club has gone into an early season slump, and are now resting in sixth place in the Eleventh Naval District major league.

Since their first league loss to NTC a few weeks back, the Skyraiders have continued the losing streak by taking three startling defeats at the hands of Camp Pendleton, Los Alamitos, and El Toro.

The Pendle-Marines knocked off the Naval Airmen, 14-4, Los Alamitos blanketed them 9-2, and the Flying Bulls of El Toro handed them a blistering 13-1 loss, almost a complete shutout.

In Monday's tilt with El Toro, the 'Raiders remained scoreless until the bottom of the ninth, when third sacker Blackie Blackston hit a homerun into center field to score the only run of the day.

The Bulls started their attack early in the second inning, when Bob Vanderlinden hit a fly ball over the right fielder's head, going for three bases and later scored on a fly to left field.

Wednesday at Towers Field Diamond, the Skyraiders were victims of an 8-0 defeat by powerful MCRD. Righthander Charlie Closs pitched his second consecutive no-hit, no-run game. The Marines got eleven hits from Skyraider pitchers Dick Kerr and Red Campbell.

Today, at Towers Field, the baseball team will meet the PhibPac Invaders at 1400. This will mark the second time the two teams have faced each other in league play, the Skyraiders taking the first by a 11-5 verdict.

YOU'RE OUT!—El Toro infielder James Byrkett is put out by Skyraider catcher Bob Heller on a throw from first base. Flying Bulls scored a 13-1 defeat.

Captain's Cup Lowdown

By Leon Cox

The first half of the Capt's Cup Softball league came to a close with two teams deadlocked for first place honors. Supply and Fiscal, and Navy Weather Central ended the season with 15 wins against 2 defeats each, throwing the league into a two-way tie which should prove to be an exciting end to the first half of play.

Both divisions have fine pitchers, excellent fielding and a battery of sluggers that will be out to win.

The championship will be decided by a two out of three playoff series, to be held on the mainside diamond from 1000 to 1300 on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

Second place honors went to G.C.A., who completed the season with 13 wins and 4 defeats, followed by Planning with 11 wins and 6 losses.

The second half of the season will get under way Monday, June 2 with 16 teams participating. Supply, Weather Central and G.C.A. fielding the same teams are favored to repeat as the top three, although a new entry, Electronics, is looking pretty sharp in practice sessions and should be right in there at the top.

Softball Team Defeated By Marines, Civilians

After completely shutting out Camp Matthews 15-0 at Camp Matthews Wednesday, May 14, the Skyraider softball club suffered their second league defeat at the hands of MCRD, and their second ASA defeat at the hands of Plymouth Mopars.

The Marine Recruits handed Coach Bob Greeley's Naval Airmen a 2-1 defeat on the Marine home diamond Monday, May 19. The Skyraiders Gary Glick was the lone scorer in the second inning when he got on with an error and scored on a single by "Johnny" Johnson.

The Marines scored one run in the third and fourth innings when Garth got on by an error. He later went to third and was scored by Parker's single. In the fourth frame, Keener got on after being hit by a pitched ball and later scored on an error by third baseman "Mac" McCombs. Adolph Mason was credited with the loss.

Plymouth Mopars handed the Skyraiders their worst defeat during all season play at Mainside Diamond last Friday. The Skyraiders were victims of a 7-2 decision.

The 'Raiders will attempt to avenge their defeat today, when they meet Mopars in National City. Monday, they will meet the Naval Hospital at the Mainside Diamond. Game time is 2000.

NAGA NEWS

The extended "Ace" golf tourney drew only 14 entrants this month, thus allowing, under the present rules, only one trophy, that for low net. This was won by D. S. Lyons from VU-3 at ALF Ream, with a 66 net score.

Usually there are two or three trophies given, depending on the number of participants. Tied with Lyons was W. R. Peterson, who also had a 66, but having previously won the prize, was ineligible.

Low gross score of 79 was recorded by G. Aggass. L. J. Drelicharz recorded a 74 but was ineligible because of a previous win. L. Sherrick won the "Booby" prize —a golf lesson.

AirPac's Softball League Revamped

By Bob Swisher

The officer-in-charge of the 18 AirPac intra-mural softball teams erased two weeks of play last week in one big sweep and are starting again from scratch with a new set-up.

Action began Monday under the new regime, with three leagues, two minors and one major, in operation.

The Major league as FAIRBETUPac, VC-11, VC-35, FASRon-691, FASRon-7, and FASRon-110. Minor league "A" has VS-892, VS-21, VR-32, FAW-14, VA-55, and VS-23. The "B" league cards PAMI, VP-40, VF-884, VF-721, Ready Issue, and ComAirPac Personnel.

Play in the Majors found VC-11 moving out in front with 3-2 and 11-5 wins over VC-35 and FASRon-691 respectively. FASRon-7, in the only other game as of Wednesday, bested VC-35, 11-8.

Two games were played in Minor league "A," with VS-892 taking VS-21 by an 8-1 count and FAW-14 smothering VS-23, 11-4. The only game in the "B" loop saw PAMI registering a 10-0 shutout over VF-884.

The sudden change in policy was voted for by the teams' officers-in-charge during a special meeting last week. They had gathered to discuss the controversial Rule 19, which forbade a pitcher who had pitched a Double or a Triple "A" Class team from hurling in the intra-mural league. After lengthy discussion, they voted the rule completely out, along with all play to that time, and seeded the teams into a Major and Minor group. This move was obviously made for the purpose of making a more even league.

NAS Pistol Shooters Storm Regional Meet

The Naval Air Station pistol team, competing in a field of over 175 of the top shooters in the southwestern states, copped first place centerfire match team trophy in the Marksman class, at the South Pacific States Regional Pistol championships held at the San Diego Police Range last week.

The team wound up with seven first places, nine second places and four third places. Elwyn G. Rowell, AEC, grabbed two second places in the master class, in the .45 National Match and centerfire timed match. Norman Lyman, AMC, also copped two second places in the sharpshooter class.

Bill Miller, AT3, led the field of NAS shooters in the Marksman class, taking three firsts and two thirds. Miller took first places in the centerfire slow fire, centerfire national match and the centerfire aggregate. His two third places were in the .45 slow fire and .45 aggregate.

Other winners were: Dan Forsythe, AOC, shooting in the Expert class, took first in the .45 timed fire and second in the .45 rapid fire. Vern Mardis, ALC, Marksman, took two third places in the .22 national and Grand aggregate. Raymond W. Elworth, ATC, took three firsts and two seconds in the sharpshooter class. First places were in the centerfire slow, centerfire aggregate and centerfire national. Seconds were .22 rapid fire and .45 rapid fire. Arthur Wollrich, ATC, took seconds in the .22 timed fire and .45 rapid fire in the marksman class.

The team will compete in the California State matches to be held at the Legion Park in Los Angeles in July, and are expected to take top honors.

WHAT'S THE CATCH?

Commander E. H. Bayers, of Ream Field won last week's large-fish derby award when he landed a 32-pound White Sea Bass aboard the NAS fishing boat "Rollover" on May 14.

C. A. Wand, PN3, of the Administration Department was a close runner-up, landing a 24½ pound White Sea Bass on board the Shipmate.

Yellowtail fishermen were a bit disappointed last week, only 21 yellowtail being hauled aboard all three boats.

Personnel in charge of the NAS fishing fleet announced this week that the boats are all booked up for the months of June and July, but a new system has been worked out to insure that each division or squadron is given an equal amount of trips.

'Raider Golfers Tied for First In 11ND League

The Naval Air Skyraider varsity golf team made up of the top ten golfers on the station is now tied for first place with the Naval Training Center in the Eleventh Naval District league.

The 'Raiders won their first league match with PhibPac, 16-8, on May 8, C. F. Bartlett, ADE2, being low scorer for the day with 79.

On May 15, the Skyraiders defeated the Naval Station 18-6 at Mission Valley, low scorer for the day being CHMACH Walt Axcell with an amazing 71.

Their third win came with a bye, which now gives them a three win, no loss record for league competition.

Next Thursday, the Skyraiders will face the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at Rancho Santa Fe. Tee off time is 1300. June 5 they will met El Toro at Santa Ana, Pendleton June 12 and NTC on June 19, both at Rancho Santa Fe.

The All-District qualifications will be held between June 19 and July 24, the Skyraiders being a strong contender for the title.

HU-1 Unit, Now Aboard Carrier, Renders Invaluable Service

"Personnel concerned, stand by to receive helicopter" has now become a familiar chant that raises the ears of the Helicopter Squadron One, Unit 16, personnel. The present unit, now aboard the USS ANTIETAM, came originally from HU-1, parent Squadron based at Ream Field, and has been aboard since July, 1951.

Pilots LT J. F. Wilson, ex-fighter pilot of VF-13 on the FRANKLIN, and LT J. A. Jenkins, one-time fighter pilot of VF-19 on the LEXINGTON and HORNET, have utilized their acrobatic know-how in operating the "sky-going peddy-cab" in the big winds aboard the ANTIETAM. Designed to operate in winds not over 20 mph, these flying windmills are more often than not utilized in winds of two or three times that velocity.

The whirly-bird flies every day, replenishing days included. In port the whole unit is ferried over to the Helicopter Detachment Squadron for heavy duty maintenance and occasional emergency missions as directed by Commander Fleet Air Japan.

Last time in port, LT Wilson, with our UP41 Helicopter, was sent back almost immediately to the Korean bomb line for an urgent mission. He returned to the ANTIETAM two weeks later with his mission accomplished; but it became necessary to leave the UP41 at another base to fill a shortage. In losing UP41, the ANTIETAM'S gallant "Copter crew" felt that they had lost an old and dear friend who had set a record availability of 100% from July thru January.. However they now have an incentive to shoot at with their new bird, UP27, which has been thru the mill with duty on an LST and gun spot duty aboard cruisers as flak and small arms holes in the fuselage will attest.

Thus far, the crew, equipped with frog suits, have completed the safety and rescue course at the Underwater Demolition Team School and are capable of swimming many feet below the surface of the water to get a pilot out of a cockpit. So it seemed nothing unusual to L. J. Harwood, Jr., when he jumped into the icy waters recently to help LT A. S. Kalas out of the cockpit of his Jet Photo plane after it crashed.

Altogether, six pilots have been rescued this cruise . . . 238 passengers carried, 8682 pounds of guard mail and over 15,000 pounds of priority freight transported. The work is hard but the compensation abundant—particularly in appreciation from the pilots snatched from the icy waters.

Squadron Skipper 'Brings Home Fish'

"You should have seen the one that got away!" is an often heard phrase around HS-2 these days.

The squadron has been bitten by the fishing bug and so far has sent four parties on deep sea fishing expeditions. Although numerous fish have been taken, individual honors go to none other than the Commanding Officer, CDR E. H. Bayers, who landed a huge 32 lb. sea bass off the Los Coronados Islands on Wednesday, May 14. Arriving at the fishing grounds just after daybreak, the fishing party had hardly put their lines in the water when the skipper had his strike. Demonstrating superlative skill he battled the fish for ten minutes before it succumbed to the gaff. Numerous bottom fish have been taken on the fishing parties including barracuda, sea trout, calico bass, etc.

CDR E. H. BAYERS

Although quite a few of the amateur Isaac Waltons have had some experience in this sport, numerous men are attempting it for the first time with the result that LT E. R. Bergsma, Officer-in-Charge of scheduling the fishing parties, is beseiged with requests for more trips. The only event marring the picture is that several of the HS-2 "sailors" have been attackd with that loathsome disease, seasickness, but despite that fact, all are ready to go back and try for "taht one that got away."

Picnic Area To Open Soon For All Units

ALF Ream picnic and recreation area now under construction by HU-1 will soon be available to all ALF Ream Units and personnel.

Plans include picnic tables, barbebue pit and ball diamond. There will be a serving pavilion with an adjacent open dancing area.

Foundations now standing will be utilized for construction of the pavilion. The project will be in a scenic wooden area near the skeet range south of runway 9-27. Construction is under the direction of LTJG R. G. Powell of HU-1.

UtWing Variety Show Is Big Hit at Ream Theater

Utility Wing Variety Show number four played to a highly appreciative full house at the Ream Field Theater, Wednesday, May 14.

LTJG J. M. Stevens was back again with his wit and humor to m.c. the snow and, much to the amazement of the people that know him, showed his versatility by rendering a vocal solo, his version of "Old Man River."

First of the many wonderful acts was Jerry Hedrix at the xylophone accompanied by Margaret Rogers.

Pretty little Miss Barb Hollis stunned the audience with her rendition of "That's the Glory of Love."

JoAnn DeRieux gave a very professional exhibition of acrobatics on roller skates.

The singing dancing combination, Frances Farries and Ruth Carter, received a warm round of applause from the audience. They were followed by Ruth's little brother, Bobby, and his rendition of 'Chocolate Ice Cream Cone."

Pretty Gloria Jerome gave an exciting act of magic set to comedy and music.

Songs in Bonnie Baker style were sung by Joe Purl.

Dick Gauthier, a sailor from NTC, had the audience rolling in the aisle with his pantomiming, imitations and comedy.

The Ream Field sweetheart, Mary Lou Doxtater, was back again with her singing and turned out to be a show-stopper again as always. Four numbers were rendered before the audience would even think of allowing her to leave the stage.

Ream Field's talent on the show was a western combo composed of men from the various squadrons on the base.

Show number four has been acclaimed a howling success by many of the spectators. Each show has been a bigger and better production, so by all means don't miss the show set for the early part of June.

'Copter Gives Sheriff a Hand

A Navy Helicopter from Ream Field recently helped the Sheriff's Department locate a stolen and stripped car.

The pilot, ENS M. R. Henry and crewman A. L. Starkey, AN, spotted the 1949 Ford Convertible hidden in the brush three miles northeast of Otay Lake. Upon landing nearby, the crewman checked the car and found it stripped of all removable parts and accessories.

The owner was located through a license sticker and photo album found in the car.

Rescue Stricken Sailor

An emergency operation on a sailor many miles at sea was made possible thanks to a Navy Helicopter.

Seaman Barry Wolf, of Phoenix, Arizona, was stricken with appendicitis aboard the submarine K-3 100 miles east of Pearl Harbor. the USS SICIILY sent a helicopter to pick up Wolf.

The 'copter was piloted by LTJG James Williford of 1475 Reed St., Pacific Beach. Capt. W. A. Choech of 5136 Brackbank Pl., commands the SICILY.

Taylor Unloads Bases as VU-3 Wins Over HS-2, 6-5

Dane, "Casey at the bat," Taylor's single with the bases loaded in the bottom of the sixth inning, brought three runs across the plate to defeat HS-2, 6 to 5, in a intra-squadron game played Tuesday on Buchi Field.

HS-2 drove in five runs in their half of the second inning on Ben Robairs home run with the bases clean and four runs through one hit, walks and two errors, but thereafter Utility Squadron 3 went to work.

In the fourth inning, John Gough, short-stop for VU-3, blasted a home run and was followed by a double by John Arce, pitcher, who was singled home by Charlie Stevens to score two runs.

One more run was picked up in the fifth inning when Taylor punched out a single, stole second, then third and came in on Milton Lachowski's long fly to make the score 5 to 3.

Starting pitcher of HS-2, Jim Stanley was relieved in the sixth inning by LT. Ulm after allowing two men on the bases. LT. Ulm was nicked for a single by Dick Sufficool to load the bases. Taylor then came through again to put the drone squadron into the lead and end the scoring.

John Arce gave up but six hits to notch win number five and his second over HS-2.

VU-3 WELCOMES 20 MEN

VU-3K, during the past week, welcomed aboard twenty men from the Naval Training Center, San Diego.

As their first assignment from "Boot Camp," the men, all with the rating of AA, are looking forward to service with Utron THREE, and acquainting themselves with the Naval Service.

Week Remains in NR Society Drive

This week the score in the Navy Relief Society's annual call for contributions shot to 85 percent at NAS.

Only one week remains to accomplish the 100 percent goal set for the Station LCDR. J. L. Morrissey, head of the campaign here, declared that "the response to the Society's appeal for funds has been very gratifying." He urged personnel who have not yet made their contributions to do so before the June 6 deadline.

Departments and divisions added to the 100 percent list this week are: Medical Dept., Industrial Relations Dept., Public Works (civilian personnel), Security Dept., (military personnel), and Commissary Div.

Bob Hope Show Bigger And Better Than Ever

Pay Increase Reflected In Monday's Pay

NAS personnel can expect part of their pay raise next Monday. The four percent increase in base pay, representing the month of May will be included in the pay disbursed on June 2, Lt. A. T. Taylor, disbursing officer, announced.

Personnel will have to wait until the June 16 pay day before increases in dependent allotments will be reflected in their pay.

Because of the mammoth job involved in changing allotment checks, personnel will receive these allotment increases personally on pay days during June and July. Increases will not be reflected in the checks until August. Dependent allotments will be increased automatically by the disbursing office and will require no action on the part of personnel concerned.

The pay raise became law on May 19 when the President signed the Bill passed by both Houses of Congress a few days earlier. Under the law base pay is increased four percent and allowances 14 percent.

Polio Insurance Renewal Due Soon

A drive for renewal of NAS Group Polio Insurance, which expires for present holders on July 7, has been set tentatively for the week of June 23-27. Civilian employees will find polio insurance application cards in their time card racks at the beginning of the drive period. These are to be

2500 Islanders Find Hope, Rogers, Evans, Brown, 'Tops' in NAS Show

Bob Hope, Les Brown and his "Band of Renown," Roy Rogers, Dale Evans and the remainder of the sterling cast did just what everyone expected of them. During the Hope Show presented last Monday night, they combined talents to literally roll the "over capacity" audience in the aisles.

A series of hilarious events made this show more than just an ordinary guest performance. Actually, it's hard to remember any line read without an ad lib inserted or some sly glance by Bob (Happy Valley) Hope that didn't start the throng roaring. To illustrate this, the tape recording, which was to last the regulation time of 30 minutes, took some 48 minutes to complete.

Things started rolling when some ten minutes before the show was scheduled to start, Hope discovered the micro-

Navy Again Wins Suggestion Award

For the second time in the past three years the Department of the Navy has received the Achievement Award of the National Association of Suggestions Systems, a non-profit organization founded for the express purpose of promoting employee suggestion systems both in private industry and the Government. Each year the Association presents the award to the Federal agency having the greatest increase in beneficial suggestions participation by its civilian employees. The award for the fiscal year 1951 was accepted for the Navy by RADM W. McL. Hague, Chief of the Office of Industrial Relations, at the 1951 annual NASS convention held in Detroit.

The plaque commemorating the honor is currently touring Navy installations throughout the United States, and was on display this week in the trophy case at the NAS civilian cafeteria.

During the fiscal year 1951, Navy employees submitted 51,990 suggestions; 13,146 were adopted, resulting in cash awards to employees totaling $346,828. These adopted suggestions have an annual savings value of $8,414,182 to the Navy. In addition to the monetary savings, and equally important, are the many other benefits resulting from employee suggestions which have improved employee-management relations, increased industrial safety, produced greater efficiency, and brought about better working conditions.

In announcing receipt of the award, Under Secretary of the Navy Francis P. Whitehair, who is chairman of the Navy Efficiency Awards Committee, pointed out that although this Nation-wide recognition is a most commendable achievement, it represents the participation of only 14% of civilian Navy employees. Mr. Whitehair emphasized that Navy management should concentrate on the remaining 86%, since it is not unreasonable to assume that these employees are also capable of observing and suggesting improvements which will contribute ma-

Donations Tues.

Civilian blood donations to the Armed Forces will take place next Tuesday morning between 0800 and 1200 at the Main Dispensary, Building 14. Appointments have been scheduled for approximately 250 people, at the rate of 60 an hour.

The June 3 donations will be processed and sent overseas to the Armed Forces as expeditiously as possible.

THEY DIDN'T MISS THE BOAT—Let it never be said that the men in the Naval Air Station Boat House have ever missed the boat and especially the one, in the form of a carnival receipt, which may take them straight into the driver's seat of one of the six beautiful new 1952 Mercurys to be given to the holder of the lucky contribution receipt.

NAS EM Beach to Open With Splash Tomorrow

Old King Neptune reclaims his seaweedy crown, a bit tarnished from the Winter rains, when the NAS Enlisted Men's Beach officially lays out its sandy carpet on Memorial Day. From tomorrow on, between 1000 and 1800 any day, Dad, Mom and their assorted offspring can spring off the sloping shores of the beach into the swirling surf in exclusive, exhilirating abandon.

Plenty of lifeguards will be on hand to assure the safety of swimmers. The Special Services Division has just completed intensive training of 15 able-bodied men to take over these duties, and each of them is thoroughly familiar with all the responsibilities of his job.

This year the swimming beach has been moved to the area directly fronting the new Beach Pavilion now under construction. Pending its completion later in the season, temporary dressing rooms at the former beach may be used.

Barbeque pits, sports equipment, and facilities for serving short orders and refreshments will be available. As in the past, arrangements for special beach parties and picnics may be made through the Welfare and Recreation Department.

Opening of the Pavilion some time this summer will offer beach-

"I OUGHT"

The Golden Rule of the teachings of Jesus states very clearly that we are the judge of what we ought to do. You know the quotation "Whatsoever ye would that men do to you, de ye even so to them." I believe that God has given us the right to choose between good and evil. However, before we can actually make any choice a conscience must be developed. In my opinion, when we begin to make choices, spiritual values enter into our thinking and we develop a conscience. This is the beginning of a spiritual life. I believe we fail to make progress for the well-being of man until we become conscious of a Divine Being. Consciousness implies that "I ought" or "I ought not."

My personal job is filled with the idea "What can I do to make this a better place to live?" My conscience tells me "I ought" to pray more for Divine guidance; that "I ought" to study the Word of God more diligently; that "I ought" to be a better and more understanding father in my own home; that "I ought" to answer all the questions raised concerning "how to fit in this society of ours" and that "I ought" to be more sensitive to the needs of those about me.

Over 200 years ago a great philosopher named Montesquieu answered this question "What can I do?" by saying, "If I knew something beneficial to myself but harmful to my family, I would drive it out of my mind. If I knew something advantageous to my family, but injurious to my country, I would try to forget it. If I knew something profitable to my country, but detrimental to the human race, I would consider it a crime."

When you and I and the 86 millions of the people of our great country—who are practicing the "I ought"—decide on a way of life based upon faith in God and in the teachings of Jesus, mankind will be pulled onward and upward.

This Week's News at a glance

Six weeks time has seen an astonishing change in the complexion of world affairs. In March a considerable degree of optimism could be noted in statements of U. S. officials and foreign diplomats. Likewise, many journalists and experts on foreign affairs pointed to indications that Russia and her satellites were taking a more conciliatory attitude toward the many issues that divide East from West.

During that brief period of hopefulness, it was predicted by numerous journalists and officials that a Korean armistice would be concluded by May 1. Other events, viewed by some people as indications of a reversal of Soviet policy, were the Russian efforts to encourage east-west trade and her proposal for the unification of Germany.

But once more the pendulum has swung the other way and the high hopes have dissolved in thin air. ADM Joy, prior to leaving his post as senior armistice negotiator, replied to bitter Communist denunciations by telling the Reds it was their decision whether or not an armistice could be accomplished. All of the compromises offered by the UN have failed to evoke any indication of sincere desire for peace from the Communists. UN forces in Korea are now being alerted to prepare for a possible full scale Communist offensive. To the north in Siberia, according to a Japanese intelligence report, the Soviet has massed a large army and air force.

In Europe, the first step toward a unified army including Germany was achieved with the signing of the "Peace Contract." Still to be ratified, the US-French-British agreement with the Bonn government is already being threatened with sabotage by East German Communists, who say they will expel the Allies from Berlin.

To add to the intensifying difficulties abroad, Iran once again has been subjected to Soviet pressure. A Soviet note warned the Iranians against accepting American military aid.

MGEN William K. Harrison, Jr., has been named to succeed VADM C. Turner Joy as chief of the United Nations Command Korean armistice delegation. MGEN Harrison has been a member of the Allied team since January. VADM Joy, who recommended MGEN Harrison as his successor, will depart June 9 for his new assignment as superintendent of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The keel of the NAUTILUS, the Navy's first atomic-powered submarine, will be laid in June, the Department of the Navy has announced. The new craft may be ready for testing sometime in 1954.

THAT MAN friday

Recent depredations on college campuses, as disconcerting as they may seem to university regents, would probably appear vapid and uninspired to the old grads, who took pride in the cleverness and the careful execution of their pranks.

Back in the days when old grads were undergrads things were different. A good joke was a good joke and it wasn't imitated a couple dozen times. Then, too, the boys in raccoon coats eschewed the mob psychology that prevails today. The best of pranks were perpetrated by a small group, led by a genius for dexterous plots. Today, with individualism on the campus apparently extinct, it only requires a person apt at histrionics to stir up a mob. and then madly set off for the nearest sorority house.

Yes, the old grads had some pretty good stunts up their sleeves. Some of them were rather diabolical plots, of course, but you have to hand it to them for their resourcefulness.

Take, for example, an incident which occurred on a New England campus a few years after the Civil War. One night a small group of undergraduates removed the cannon from the town's war memorial. The decrepit old muzzle loader was dragged down the street and carefully hoisted on to the front porch of the president's home. It was carefully primed and aimed, and a cannonball was sent hurtling through the learned doctor's parlor . . . It was indeed fortunate for higher education that the misdeeds of students were not imitated in those days.

A good, carefully planned prank, as they were executed in the old days, could be educational too. At a west coast university not too many years ago, several students dismantled the car belonging to a colleague who was home on vacation and reassembled it in his second-floor dormitory room. The rhythmic purr of a well-tuned engine greeted the unfortunate vacationer as he returned to his college room. It is recorded that all parties involved in the incident learned a great deal about auto mechanics and the car received a much needed valve job.

It remains for sociologists to determine the significance of current outbursts on the campus; it is the task of the psychologists to tell us what motivated the misled students. Then it will all be forgotten—forgotten by everyone except the old grads, who set up such fine traditions in campus deviltry and now have seen them so rudely shattered.

The Place Is Familiar

The line forms to the right when this well-known NAS landmark opens for business each evening. Fronting the NAS theater, the box office has provided an open sesame to entertainment-bound NAS military personnel since 1945. November 23rd of that year was the official opening date, with a stage and radio show chosen to inaugurate the new building. Prior to that time, film and stage presentations had taken place in the Ship's Service auditorium.

The theater has a normal seating capacity of 2098, which can be increased to 2330 with the addition of extra seats for which space is provided. Acoustically, the house ranks with the best in the area. Its ample backstage facilities, including dressing rooms, showers and a band rehearsal room, make it especially adaptable for the presentation of many top rank Hollywood radio shows, such as the Bob Hope show held last Monday night.

S&F's Frank Lynch Takes Post at SD Supply Depot

In an informal gathering of Supply & Fiscal Department, employees in building 334 last Friday, honored Frank Lynch, S&F Stock Control Supervisor, who leaves NAS to assume a new position at the San Diego Naval Supply Depot.

Mr. Lynch has been associated with the NAS Supply Department since 1937, when he came here as a Storekeeper, first class. Leaving the Navy in 1951, he continued in a civil service capacity at S&F.

While on a job, which required contacting numerous shops and units on the station, he acquired the title, "Walter Winchell" for his keen sense for seeking out news items. It is also reported that he has an uncanny ability for forecasting the future!

As well as serving as S&F Stock Control Supervisor, Mr. Lynch also was assistant to the S&F Control Branch Supervisor. His new position at the Supply Depot is Storage Division Supervisor, GS-11.

turned in to Shop Personnel Supervisors, who will issue receipts. Military personnel may obtain applications from their Division Officers.

For a nominal fee, the group insurance covers the employee or military man and their wives and children against all expenses of polio—hospital, doctors, nurses, therapy, ambulances, iron lung, medicine, etc. — up to $5000 per person, or for a period of three years.

The Command recommends that military personnel take advantage of this insurance since the Navy does not treat dependents suffering from polio. Anyone attached to a unit, ship or squadron having headquarters at NAS may apply. Premium costs for a year's coverage are as follows: single person (employee), $1; employee and wife or husband, $2; employee, wife and children, $5; widowed or divorced employee and children, $4.

Persons filing new applications before the renewal period must pay for the balance of this year to July 7, and all of next year. Applicants filing between now and June 7 will pay $1.20, 2.40, 6 and 4.80 for coverage in the above categories. Those filing between June 8 and June 23 will pay $1.10, 2.20, 5.50 and 4.40.

Coverage for the present year will not be given unless applications are received prior to June 23. All premiums paid after that date will take effect on July 8.

North Islander Editor Leaves

It's a "hail and farewell" this morning for the NORTH ISLANDER'S editor, Fayette Copeland, Jr., AT2, who bids a fond adieu to his buddies and shipmates at Naval Air. "Cope," having completed his 16-month tour as a reserve, returns to the "civilian" status.

First coming to Naval Air Station late last spring, Cope was immediately assigned to the Public Information Office and to the NORTH ISLANDER staff. It wasn't long until he assumed the position as the staff Sports Editor. Last December when John R. Samuelson, JOC, then editor, was made leading chief of the division, he was replaced by Copeland as the ISLANDER'S editor.

Cope, a native of Norman, Oklahoma, and a graduate of Oklahoma University's School of Journalism, says his plans for the immediate future are somewhat incomplete and indefinite, but he hopes to tour the European continent late this fall and then return to Los Angeles where he will enter the photographic supply business.

The ISLANDER staff joins with his many friends throughout NAS in wishing Copeland the best of luck and success in his new "rate" —Civilian First Class.

Powerplant PARAGRAPHS

By B. Dreher

AL MILLER of the Engine Schedule Section has been recuperating at home from an emergency appendectomy performed May 19th. However, he plans to be back with us right after the holiday.

RUTH MC NEESE, also of Engine Schedules, returned to work this week after a three week vacation in her old home town of Buffalo, Wyoming.

KATHLEEN GROBECKER, sister of Stanley Grobecker of Shop 6236, arrives this week from England for an extended stay with her brother and family in Ocean Beach.

Lots of Power Planters vacationing these days. MELVIN DEAN, Shop 6123-2, went to Canada recently, but came back early as he says there was too much snow there for a confirmed Californian. JAMES RUSSEFF, 6123-2, is on a month's leave in Bismark, North Dakota, and MUTT CONLEY, same shop, is taking his two weeks vacation in Texas. LEO STONE of the Plating Shop is spending his month's vacation in Yosemite National Park. J. D. RIVIRA of the Paint Shop is on an extended leave "back east."

A. T. KNIGHT of the Test Stands has spent the last few weekends at Deer Park in the Lagunas where he is doing assessment work on his mining claim.

Shop 6201 has a couple of new fathers exchanging stories this month. TRAVIS B. ANDERSON, Apprentice, now has a son, Chuck, weighing 8 lbs., 9 oz. and born May 5th. RICHARD BEVIER has a daughter, Linda Louise, born May 23rd and weighing 7 lbs., 8½ oz.

REMEMBER THE POWER PLANT PICNIC at El Monte Park, June 21st. Lots of food and lots of entertainment for everyone. Buy your tickets today from representatives in your shop.

IRVING KELLEY and family leave today for Boston via Niagara Falls for a five weeks' vacation. We're all hoping they make it this time. Two years ago enroute to Boston, Kelley's car fell apart, so to speak, and another had to be purchased for the return trip.

BOB COLLINS of Plating Shop has a double interest in life these days. He plans to be married soon and with his bride-to-be is busy remodeling a Coffee Shop in National City which they will run.

CO Inspection Friday, June 6

Commanding Officer's personnel inspection for all station personnel will be held next Friday, June 6. Divisions will fall in at 0700 in the area south of buildings 379 and 333. Assembly and inspection will be held at 0730.

Islanders Enjoy Free Tea Dance

Showing Thompson and Hansen a new dance step are Ann Wall (left) and Anna May Somma of the LeRoi Dance Studio.

Each Saturday and Sunday afternoon, from 1530 to 1830, Tops offers free dancing to the music of Jack Nye and his orchestra to all uniformed military personnel and their guests. Each session is attended by over 30 dancing teachers from LeRoi Dance Studios for those wishing to learn new steps. This service is also offered free.

SMILES, MUSIC, AND GIRLS were on hand to greet NAS-based men who attended Saturday's Tea Dance. Here's just a sample.

STEEL FLOATING IN MID-AIR? Yes, and George Speake, lecturer for the Moody Institute of Science, is just the person to demonstrate how it can be done. The lecture-demonstrations will be held in the Building 8 Auditorium beginning June 9.

Moody Institute Of Science Will Present Lectures

Music from a beam of light! A deafening roar from a hushed whisper! These are just two of the astounding miracles that will be performed by the Moody Institute of Science in their series of demonstrations starting at 1930 June 9th in the Building No. 8 auditorium.

The series will contain different shows for four days showing the harmony between true science and true religion.

The lectures entitled "Sermons from Science" became nationally famous at the San Francisco World's Fair and since then have been presented throughout the United States at schools, military installations, and clubs.

George Speake, the current lecturer, holds a permanent rank of Lieutenant Commander in the Naval Reserve and is a veteran of such World War II battles as Guadalcanal, Luzon, Iwo Jima, and Okinawa. A University of Pennsylvania graduate, Mr. Speake devised many of the scientific units used in the amazing demonstrations.

terially to efficiency and economy in the Navy.

With the goal in mind of helping the Navy capture the award for the fiscal year 1952, NAS San Diego is marking up substantial contributions to the national program. During the latter half of 1951, this Station held first place in competition with all major activities.

During the calendar year 1951, NAS employees here submitted 2,019 suggestions on ways to improve Navy operations and save taxpayers money, 732 employees receiving a total of $24,486 in cash awards. As a result of adopting these ideas, the Station effected a monetary savings of more than $634,000.

Breeland, the Winner, Heads For Open Spaces

Honor guest at Madisonville, Texas' giant rodeo celebration June 3-6, will be Walt Breeland, AN, of NAS Special Services.

Walt was notified Monday that his letter won first prize in the "Why I Would Like to Live in Texas" contest, sponsored by the Madisonville Sidewalk Cattlemen's Association.

In addition to being guest of honor at the Madisonville festivities, he will have all travel expenses paid, and be outfitted in a western style costume.

Breeland, who hails from Biloxi, Mississippi, in his letter extolled the many opportunities Texas holds for a young man, and declared that he "liked the people there."

Before joining the Navy, Walt lived in Texas for a three-month period.

Beach Memorial Day? Well, Let The Mussels Lie

Each summer, California's yearly quarantine against gathering mussels goes into effect. This law prohibits the collecting of these shellfish for any use but fish bait from May 1 until October 31 due to the fact that mussels produce a deadly poison which may result in fatal complications for the eater.

So, let those "sleeping mussels lie!"

Volunteers Sought

Coronado Branch, American Red Cross, began making 25,000 surgical dressings Monday for Navy ships sailing from San San Diego.

Women are needed for this project, which is being carried on at Coronado Red Cross Headquarters, 1113 Adella Avenue, Coronado, where the work is being done Monday through Friday, 10 to 12 and 1 to 4. Telephone number is Henley 3-4285.

Air Pac Sports

Fasron 7 retained their lead in table tennis last week, remaining undefeated in the process. They now have four straight victims. A three-way battle rages for second place with Fasron 110, Ready Issue and Fasron 691 tied with 3-1 slates.

TENNIS

Fasron 691 and FairbetuPac share the lead in tennis, both with 2-0 records. FAW-14, which dropped a match to FairbetuPac last week, dropped to third with 2-1.

GOLF

In the golf circuit, VC-35 although suffering an upset loss to Fasron 7, retained their slim hold on first place. Their mark to date is 3-1, followed by FairbetuPac and Fasron 110 with 2-1.

NORTH ISLAND SKEET

With time running out in the North Island skeet league, no one has yet to budge the combined VC-VS—ComAirPac Staff team from their number one position. With four straight wins under their belt, they need only two wins out of their remaining shoots to assure themselves of at least a tie for the title.

Memorial Day — A Day to Remember

'Safety' Is Password, As 'M-Day' Approaches

"Honor our dead—don't join them" is a fitting slogan for naval personnel as they pause on Memorial Day to honor the dead who have sacrificed their lives in winning and safeguarding American Freedom. Let us also pause a moment at this time and consider the dishonor to our country caused by the million victims who have died needlessly as the result of motor vehicle accidents.

The three-day holiday death toll, unless checked, will exceed 300. In a sincere attempt to halt this slaughter, the states and communities have adopted the slogan 'check your car — check accidents." Accident prevention is an individual responsibility that rests heavily on our shoulders. A little courtesy and common sense may save the pain, inconvenience and financial loss resulting from almost every motor vehicle accident. The Navy emphasizes "Check Your Driving" in this nation-wide search for highway safety.

Check Your Car!
Check Your Driving!

Civ., Military to Observe Holiday

Civilian and military personnel aboard the Naval Air Station will observe holiday routine tomorrow, May 30, Memorial Day.

However, 24-hour service will be maintained throughout the entire station.

Holiday Activities Offered to Military

The American Legion's Pacific Beach Post 552 will sponsor a special Memorial Day parade, the only one scheduled in San Diego, on May 30 in that community. Headed by Grand Marshal Carl Sherwood, the parade will start at 1300. It will include units from the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, California National Guard, Boy and Girl Scouts, Sea Scouts, Gold Star Mothers, San Diego J. C. Knightettes, La Jolla High School Majorettes and drum corps, and the Dennis T. Williams Drum and Bugle Corps. Veteran and civic groups participating will include the VFW, Order of the Purple Heart, American Legion, Catholic War Veterans, Jewish War Veterans, Lions Club, Kiwanis Club, and the Pacific Beach Business Men's Assn.

Memorial services will be conducted by the American Legion 40 & 8, Voiture 732, with San Diego District Attorney Don Keller as speaker. Special American Legion guests will include Harold Lasher, 22nd District Commander, and San Diego County Council Commander Roscoe Morse.

Other events scheduled for the Memorial Day weekend in San Diego are:

Friday, May 30—Beach party and picnic at Torrey Pines, leaving National Catholic Community Service Club, 925 1st Ave., at 1000, with a special dance at club Hq. at 2000. Amateur show at 2nd Ave. USO at 2000. Opening day ceremonies at Mission Bay and Coronado Yacht Clubs. Full holiday schedule at Downtown YMCA, with movies shown throughout the day and a special dance at 2000. Stock car races at Balboa Stadium, 2015. San Diego vs. Portland, Lane Field, 2030.

Saturday, May 31—Big variety show, USO, 2000. Recruit dance at Catholic Community Service Club, 1430-1730; special party at 2000. Midget auto races, Balboa Stadium. San Diego vs. Portland, Lane Field, 1430. All day entertainment, Downtown YMCA.

Sunday, June 1 — Portuguese Fiesta at Pt. Loma, 1000. Exhibition of blindfold checkers, Downtown YMCA, 1230. San Diego vs. Portland, double-header, Lane Field, 1330. S. D. Floral Assn. Display, Balboa Park, 1300-1700. Artist on hand at USO to sketch free pictures from 1000-1400; vesper hour, 1700; coffee hour, 1730; song fest, 1930. San Diego Philharmonic "Pop" concert, Balboa Park Bowl, 1430; Navy Band Concert, Balboa Park Organ Pavilion, 1600. Puppet shows, Balboa Park, 1400 and 1600.

MEMORIAL DAY — 1952

Some of them were tall and lanky; some were short and inclined to be stout. Others had red hair and freckles, and liked to shoot the breeze. Still others were quiet and thoughtful, with great plans for the future occupying their minds. But nearly all of them shared these things in common—they were young, they were full of hope, and they died so that the young men who came after them could enjoy the Democracy they had helped to preserve.

Once a year we pay them tribute—heroes every one. The stones that bear their names are more than merely grave markers; each one is a personally inscribed building block in the structure known as America—John Perkins, Battle of Bull Run, 1861; Thomas Hammond, Charge of San Juan Hill, 1898; Robert Jones, Meuse-Argonne, 1917; Theodore Lane, Normandy Landing, 1944; Fred Barnes, Heartbreak Ridge, 1951. It is a structure made of many thousands of such stones, stained with the blood of glory and sacrifice, but built to endure forever.

The tribute we pay these men on Memorial Day 1952 is in no sense a maudlin one. Instead, it is a rededication of our vow to them to protect this structure they helped to erect, and to do it proudly, unselfishly, and with gratitude.

Trans. Flower Show Held Today

Transportation's monthly flower show will take place today instead of tomorrow, as announced, due to the observance of Memorial Day by station personnel, according to Mrs. Sally Rice, member of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Rice also said that more than forty entries are expected to be entered in the show with roses predominating, as was the case in last month's show.

At press time, the judges for this event had not been designated.

The committee in charge of the Transportation Flower Show other than Mrs. Rice are Mrs. Gentiliska Graham, and Mrs. Lorena Valentine.

The picture was taken Monday at the Commissioned Officers (Open) Pool which will be opened tomorrow. Dick, when not Aqua-Capering, is Shop Personnel Supervisor of the NAS Public Works Department.

Have Fun But Play Safe

America honors its war dead with traditional reverence again this Memorial Day. But even as we pay them homage, we also look forward to the Memorial weekend as a time for relaxation, when we can forget our daily routine and enjoy a well-earned rest.

In forgetting our daily cares, however, we cannot afford to forget common sense. The same caution we exercise to stay safe on our jobs should be extended and increased to cover our activities over the long weekend ahead.

Traffic accidents are expected to exact a tragic death toll across the Nation's highways. Our own courtesy and careful driving can help to prevent many of them.

Drowning will claim the lives of many of us. Ordinary precautions on the part of swimmers—not entering the water too soon after eating, swimming only in areas manned by lifeguards or in the company of others—can forestall these needless deaths. Sunbathing, too, although healthful in moderate doses, will account for scores of badly burned victims who could easily have prevented such injuries.

Let your weekend be filled with enjoyment—but let common sense bring you back to work on Monday rested, relaxed, and alive.

NAS Troupe Sparks 'NR Day' Festivities

The NAS Navy Relief Show Troupe starred at the American Legion Post 552's "Pacific Beach Navy Relief Day" last Saturday afternoon. The model aircraft carrier, USS North Island, was on hand to stimulate interest.

Buddy Viotti and Ken Sansom, assisted by the Madcaps, performed to the throngs from Ocean Beach. In addition, Bob Bibb and his Western Rythmasters played request melodies and drew large crowds of western music lovers.

The Navy Relief show troupe was invited to Pacific Beach Saturday by the American Legion Post 552 to further advertise the 1952 Navy Relief Carnival which will open July 31 at Navy Field for four big days and nights.

Until then, however, the muscle men and the mermaids should provide interim entertainment for sand dune spectators. The flexed bicep and the well-turned calf will bring forth the usual feminine "ohs" and masculine "ahs" until the sun sinks slowly in the West.

And who knows, some people may even go in the water!

1952 NSLI Dividend Credited To Veterans Not Requesting Cash

The Veterans Administration has announced that veterans who do not request their 1952 National Service Life Insurance dividend in cash will be notified that the dividend amount has been placed on deposit to their credit.

Dividend notices will be mailed to such veterans after the 1952 anniversary dates of their policies—the dates when the 1952 dividend is payable. The first notices are scheduled to be mailed soon.

Holders of NSLI in military service, who are paying premiums by allotment from military pay and who request their 1952 dividend in cash, will receive their checks from the VA Central Office in Washington, D. C.

Policyholders who desire dividends paid in cash should write the VA office to which they are paying premiums, giving their full names, insurance policy numbers and the addresses to which they want the dividend sent.

EVERYBODY WANTS TO GET INTO THE ACT—After the Bob Hope Show was presented at NAS last Monday, the cast was entertained at the COM (open). Although this was for the entertainment of the Hope cast, it seems that they did most of the entertaining.

phone was changing volume. For the better part of a half-hour, with Les Brown and the band, he put on an extemperaneous stage show with Hope singing, dancing and knocking himself out. This left the audience with a show before the show, a show after the show and the tape recording.

The "after show" was a continuation of the madcap performance. Les Brown and the "Band of Renown" kept the men in the audience tapping their feet to the rhythm of "the most sought-after band in the land," while Bob Hope, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans entertained repeatedly. One of the top acts starred Butch Stone and "Stubby" Brown, members of the band. The latter is Les Brown's younger brother.

The tape recording will be heard over the National Broadcasting Company's Coast to Coast network Tuesday, June 10.

After the show, the cast was entertained at the COM (open), at which time Bob and Jack Hope, Bob's brother and business manager, were presented with plaques exemplifying their untiring efforts to entertain the nation's servicemen.

All that can be said now, is that as always we are looking forward to the next appearance of the Bob Hope Show.

Dance Lessons Offered to Men

Weekly dancing lessons for the men at Naval Air Station got under way last night as between 35 and 50 Islanders tripped the "light fantastic" with the teachers and hostesses in the Special Services' lounge, Building 650.

These free lessons will be offered each Wednesday evening and all NAS-based personnel are cordially invited to participate.

OIR Chief Tells Views On Civilian Job Rights

RADM W. McL. Hague, Chief of the Office of Industrial Relations, Navy Department, has issued a statement of interest to all Civil Service employees which appears in the current OIR Washington Newsletter. It is reprinted for the information of NAS civilian employees. RADM Hague says:

"As I see it, much of the difficulty in consideration of employment problems stems from misconceptions as to the nature of an employee's rights in his job.

"On the one hand, there are those who feel that Civil Service employees should be considered as mere 'squatters' on government property, to be unceremoniously evacuated at the whim of the government's official representatives—management.

"On the other hand, there are those who feel that an employee possesses 'title' to his job 'in fee simple,' and is not to be divested of his 'property rights' therein short of court action. In fact, this school of thought, you may be surprised to know, frequently holds that every citizen of the United States has an inalienable right to a job on the Federal payroll, and that a citizen is justly aggrieved when, in his pleasure, he offers his services to a government agency, and those services are declined.

"As I see it, neither of these conceptions is sound. In my view, the status Civil Service employee with indefinite tenure possesses, not property rights in his job, but rather a leasehold, and the lease may not be vacated except for demonstrable disqualification, or the necessity, which unfortunately arises from time to time, of vacating the premises as a result of reduction in force.

"The rights of the leaseholder are limited, but clear, and are adequately protected by statutes, Civil Service Commission Regulations and the NCPI.

"The new employee, during his year's probationary period, cannot be said to possess a leasehold on the job. Rather, during this period, he is occupying the premises tentatively, and is merely a prospective leaseholder. During this probationary period, the employee strives to justify his retention of tenancy so as to become a lease-

"REAL PARDNERS"—Yessiree, John P. Lloyd, SN, stationed at NAS in the Special Services Division, found Roy Rogers a mighty fine hombre and Dale Evans purty as a western sunset when he visited with them back stage at the NAS Theater just after they appeared with Bob Hope and his show.

Captain's Cup Lowdown

By LEON COX

The Supply and Fiscal Dept. are undisputed champions of the first half of the Softball league. The Supply boys copped the championship on two straight wins from a hard fighting but outclassed Weather Central team. The first game went to Supply 12-6 and the second 10-5.

The playoffs were studded with thrilling plays and exciting moments. The Weather Central Team was a constant threat to the winners, drawing within one or two runs of Supply numerous times. But the big bats of Supply were too much for the Weather Central team, always coming through with runs at the most opportune times.

The championship trophies will be awarded at the next Captain's inspection, and will be individual trophies for every man on the Supply squad.

From the looks of things these two teams should be repeaters in the second half, they both have great ball clubs and will be fighting hard all the way.

Starting the second half Monday Boathouse will play Supply on diamond No. 1 at Mainside and Special Services will play Metal Machine at Diamond No. 2 behind the NAS theater.

Waves Edge WAF After Defeats By NTC, MCRD

A seventh inning triple by Mae Huntington scored Kay Kline and Kay Zanicek and enabled the Naval Air Station WAVES to take an 8-7 victory over the Norton Air Force Base Interceptors Monday night at Mainside.

The WAVES are presently recovering from two shattering defeats at the hands of MCRD and NTC.

Heavy-hitter Monday night was Betty Reedy, slamming two singles for three times at the plate. Kay Donohue got two for four including one double, and Ruth Moore hit one for three, batted three runs in, and also knocked one double.

The WAVES led throughout the game until the top of the seventh when the Interceptors slammed home three runs, taking a 7-5 top of the seventh inning lead. Mae Huntington then tripled in the bottom of the seventh scoring the winning runs.

The WAVES had twelve hits and seven errors while the Interceptors had seven hits and three errors.

Coach Tony Coty's WAVE ball team will face the Naval Hospital Monday at 1730 at the Mainside Diamond, then will journey to Santa Ana Wednesday to meet El Toro.

Skyraider Softball Team Dumped In Double-Header

Last Wednesday, May 14, the Skyraider softball club played a double header, defeating Camp Elliott 10-0 in the afternoon, and losing a 5-4 verdict to the El Cajon Cowboys later that evening.

Friday, they were victims of a 1-0 defeat by Plymouth Mopars for the second time. The softball men now have six losses marring their record, five of which have been one run defeats.

The Mopars scored their winning run in the first inning, as the first man at plate was hit by a pitched ball and later scored off Davidson's single. The game then remained scoreless, the Skyraiders coming close to tieing it only once.

In the fourth inning, "Johnny" Johnson got on with a single and was sacrificed to second by Wayne Smith. Stealing third on an error by the third baseman, he was thrown out at home plate in his attempt to score.

During the El Cajon game the Skyraiders opened it fast, scoring four runs, then drew a blank for the remainder of the game. Johnson, Aja, Kelly and Glick all crossed home plate for the Raiders.

The Cowboys scored once in the second and third inning, twice in the fifth, and scored their winning run in the eighth.

Both scorers in the second and third innings got on base by being hit with pitched balls, and later scored off singles.

In the fifth inning Graham drew a walk and scored off Schmidt's double who later scored off a triple by Stalmaker.

The winning run was scored by Stalmaker in the eighth inning off of Kieser's single.

Next week, the Skyraiders will play two Eleventh Naval District games. They will face the Naval Station here at Mainside on Monday, and NTC on Wednesday at the Bluejacket's home diamond.

Major Loop Leads AirPac's Revamped Softball League

By Bob Swisher

With the first week of the revamped softball league complete, 15 games have been turned in. The Majors lead with seven games, Minor League "A" has three and Minor "B" finished five.

FASron-110, turned in a pair of shutouts, moved into an early lead in the Majors while Ready Issue leads "B" and FAW-14 tops the "A" loop.

While defeating Fasron 7 and VC-35 by 8-0 and 9-0 scores, the 110 team got lots of help from Fasron 691, which sprang a stunning 4-1 upset of FairbetuPac. The loss to the Raiders, coupled with their 3-2 win over VC-11, enabled Fasron 110 to slip into the top spot. VC-11 occupies second place with 2-1, while Fasron 7, FairbetuPac and Fasron 691 are knotted next with 1-1 records.

Ready Issue nudged tough PAMI 5-4 last Friday to gain the undisputed leadership in the "B" circuit. Earlier in the week they had lambasted ComAirPac Personnel 11-1. The loss to PAMI shoved them into a three-way tie for second with VF-884 and VP-40. Each club has split two games.

In the only three games in the "A" league, VS-892 stumped VS-21 by 8-1, FAW-14 smothered VS-23 by 11-4 and VS-23 eked out an 8-7 win over VS-892.

NAS Baseball Team Loses Upset Victory To PhibPac Last Friday

A first inning run on the part of second baseman Paul Green got the Skyraider baseball team off to a good start, but four costly errors by the Airmen were responsible for a 4-2 upset victory by the PhibPac Invaders, a team four times previously beaten by the Skyraiders, in a game played last Friday.

Hitter for the day was Green, getting three for four times at the plate, and batting in one run.

THE LAST CHANCE—Tom Futch, Skyraider center field, takes a vicious cut at the last ball thrown during Friday's game with PhibPac, and goes down striking. Invaders won a stunning 4-2 upset.

The game remained 1-0 until the top of the fourth inning, when Bud Valeschini scored on a wild throw to first base from catcher Bob Heller.

In the fifth inning, Bob Wenke scored on a bunt by Carl Andresky. First sacker Jim Pardue picked up the ball as it was rolling down the right field line, but was eluded by the runner. The Invaders scored twice more in the seventh inning, Urbanski on a wild pitch, and Wenke on a grounded ball by Andreski.

Blackston Scores in Eighth

Third baseman "Blackie" Blackston stretched a single to a double because of an error on the shortstop in the eighth inning, then went home on a single by Green who was later put out in an attempt to steal second base.

The score remained the same in the ninth inning, PhibPac ending up with a 4-2 victory.

The Skyraiders had nine hits and four errors, while the Invaders got eleven hits and committed only one error.

Meet Los Alamitos Monday

Harvey Speed's Naval Airmen collided with NTC last Monday, but due to Thursday's paper the score could not be obtained. The Skyraiders will take a rest until June 2 when they will meet Los Alamitos at Towers Field. Wednesday, June 4 and Friday, June 6, the Skyraiders will play two games away, meeting El Toro and MCRD.

Legion Drag Races Set For Tomorrow

American Legion Drag Races will be held tomorrow at the Paradise Mesa Air Strip as a part of the Veteran's Rehabilitation Benefit.

The track, operated by the San Diego Timing Association is the fastest quarter-mile track in California, and is located four miles East of National City on Eighth Avenue.

In addition to the fastest cars and motorcycles in California, bands and parades will be on hand to add to the festivities.

Time trials will be held in the morning, and eliminations will start at 1300.

Play Ben Hogan Saturday, May 31

How would you like to beat the king of golf, Ben Hogan? If you'd like to try you will be given the chance Saturday, May 31, to match round-for-round with the toughest competitor in golf.

For Saturday is National Golf Day, and Ben Hogan will match strokes with anyone. He will tee off at the Northwood Club in Dallas, and will be covered by radio, newsreel and television and his round will be broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System on a special, nationwide network.

Your entry fee of $1.00 (in addition to the regular green fees) will be divided equally among two very charitable organizations. The USO and National Golf Fund.

Your card will be matched with Hogan's, subtracting your regular handicap and women getting an extra five strokes. Prize for the day is a bronze National Golf Day medal saying, "I beat Ben Hogan."

Check with your golf club now! Don't miss this chance to play the "king of golf"!

What's the Catch?

Yellowtail fishermen had a field day last week, as over one-hundred of the fighters were hauled aboard the three NAS fishing boats.

C. F. Foster, AN of the Special Services won the weekly prize for his 22 pound yellow. Foster hooked him in the kelp, and struggled forty minutes to get his prize-winner aboard. Over eight more weighing more than 20 pounds were hauled aboard Saturday.

Survival Exhibits to Be on Display June 3

The F.A.D. Ream Survival Council has announced the prospective opening of its two new survival exhibits on June 3. One display, showing survival equipment which is issued to pilots and crew members as well as items improvised from parachute parts, is located in Bldg. 64 at ALF Ream. The other is an outdoor exhibit located adjacent to the skeet range on the south side of runway 27. Here flying personnel can see various types of emergency shelters, including the paratepee, types of fires and improvised cooking equipment, and many different kind of traps and snares which can be employed in a survival situation.

Classes will be held in these areas in the near future for FAD Ream pilots and crew members.

All hands are invited to inspect both the indoor and outdoor exhibits on or after 3 June, during working hours.

PARATEPEE—one of the many items to be on display in the forthcoming survival exhibit scheduled for June 3.

Ream's Tennis Team Wins Seven Straight

The tennis team of HS-2 were acclaimed FAD Ream Field Champions after winning seven straight matches of a twelve match series. Their closest contender, VU-7, was three matches behind and conceded the remaining matches as did VU-3 and HU-1.

Lt. W. J. Hampton, T. M. McCollum, PNSN, and J. W. Goff, AMAN were given a well done by the personnel of HS-2 for their outstanding performance in winning the Championship.

VU-3 (K) Blasts VU-7 12 to 1

Utility Squadron THREE's dynamic Softball team continued to trounce their opponents by blasting VU-7, 12 to 1, in a scheduled league game played last Thursday.

Putting together two runs in the first inning, three runs in the third, four runs in the fifth, and three runs in the sixth inning, VU-3K completely dominated the play by having men in scoring position in every inning, but the fourth.

The battery of Johnny Arce, five wins and one loss, and Carl Anckner, Catcher, have consistently mowed down the opposition. With the sterling play of Harlan Price at first base, Charlie Stevens at second base, John Gough filling in at short-stop, Ken Brooks at the third base slot, and the outfield of Tom Fennell, Dane Taylor, and Dick Sufficool, the season's record of ten wins and only one loss, speaks for itself.

With a strong bench to support the ball club, Ed Allen, Paul Steege, Jimmie Lang, and Milton Lachowski, together with regulars, Bill English and Harold French, who are due back from leave, the Intra-Squadron Championship is all but in the hands of VU-3.

VU-3(K) Golfers Win Over HS-2

VU-3K, golf masters, parlayed bogies into eagles to defeat the tee quartet from HS-2, last Friday afternoon on the Caliente Greens at Tijuana.

LT Delicharz sank a fine 75, Jimmie Lang posted an 84, Bill Estes came in with an 85, and team captain, Charlie West, toured the eighteen holes with a score of 87.

Delicharz, ace linksman, is currently averaging 76 strokes a match and is almost a sure thing to nab the low score for the intra-squad league.

The next match on VU-3's schedule, pits the dronemen against VU-7, with the championship hanging on each putt. VU-3 will be out to reverse a previous loss by the score of 7 to 5.

HS-2 Holds Picnic At El Monte Park

Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron TWO held its first picnic at El Monte Park, Thursday. More than 400 persons attended the gala affair to partake of hamburgers, hotdogs, potato salad and a large quantity of cold drinks.

Participation in sporting events such as soft ball, horse shoes and valley ball sharpened the appetite for the chow which was served continuously from 1000 on.

Special events at the outing included egg throwing contest and races of the usual picnic variety. Prizes of custard pies were awarded winners of the events and a door prize of a portable radio was given the holder of the lucky ticket number.

Camel Caravan Goes Over Big With Ream Audience

A full house of Officers, men and their dependents was on hand at the ALF Ream theater Thursday, May 22 to witness the "Camel Caravan".

The Camel Caravan, composed of seven wonderful variety acts is a USO camp show now playing in the San Diego area.

Jay Kirk, comedian and acrobat acted as master of ceremonies and introduced each act.

The beautiful Spaulding twins, in appropriate costumes danced.

Singing was furnished by Dory Claire who sang popular songs and Mervin Shiner who sang western ballads.

Roller skating acrobatics were performed at their finest by beautiful Dolly Barr.

One of the highlights of the show was Patsy the Horse and partner whose comical antics and expressions caused the audience to roar with laughter.

Wally Milford presented the world's largest saxophone which is seven feet tall. Music for the show was furnished by Wally and the Camel Four.

This is the first show of its sort that Ream Field has received and it is hoped that more will be obtained in the near future.

British Airmen Rescued From Front by HU-1 Man

Chief Aviation Pilot D. C. Fridley, USN, of Helicopter Squadron One, ALF Ream, saved two British Airmen from the hands of the enemy recently, when he flew his helicopter deep into the front lines of Korea, picking up LT R. Willams, and Crewmen K. Sims, then returning them safely to their carrier.

While on a deep support mission over enemy territory, Williams, pilot of a British fighter, was forced to land his bullet-riddled plane in shallow water near a small island just off the coast.

A radio message went to the carrier at once to send the helicopter to pick up the downed airman.

The 'copter was escorted to the scene of the crash by British fighters, and as enemy troops closed in on the stranded pilot and crewmen, overhead fighters went to work. They repeated strafing runs, the 'copter went ahead with its mission without further resistance.

While Fridley hovered his helicopter over the crashed plane, G. (N) Korack, 'copter crewmen, lowered the hoisting sling to Sims. Being wounded in the arm, he was assisted into the sling by Williams. Sims was flown to dry ground to wait, while Williams was hoisted out of the water. The 'copter then returned for Sims, waiting on the nearby beach. He was loaded aboard and a safe trip was enjoyed by the two British Airmen to their carrier.

HU-1 Whirlybirds Save Injured Man

Two helicopters from Helicopter Squadron One recently were responsible for the saving of a seriously injured pilot after his AD Skyraider ditched in Wonson Harbor, Korea. When the call came in from the aircraft that he was ditching, B. D. Johnson, ALC (AP), pilot, and J. B. Bennett, AD2, crewman, from the St. Paul (VA-73) took off followed by Lt. B. E. McMollen, pilot, and crewman D. A. Decker, AD1, from the LST-799, in their helicopter for assistance if necessary.

Chief Johnson reached the scene first and found that due to the pilot's injuries, he was unable to fasten himself into the rescue sling. Crewman Bennett was lowered into the water and quickly fastened the unconscious pilot into the sling. After the injured man was in his helicopter, Chief Johnson flew him to the St. Paul for medical attention. The crewman was picked up by Lt. B. E. McMollen and also returned to the St. Paul.

Ceremony Marks Terminal Opening

Dedication of the new Fleet Logistic Air Wing Terminal, which provides completely remodeled and enlarged passenger-cargo facilities at NAS, took place last Tuesday morning in an impressive ceremony attended by members of the San Diego Detachment of Air Transport Squadron Five and visiting guests.

Captain W. L. Erdmann, Commanding Officer of the Naval Air Station, turned over the terminal's keys to Captain E. E. Colestock, Acting FlogwingPac Commander and Commanding Officer of VR-5, who flew from Moffett Field for the presentation. In dedicating the new structure, CAPT Erdmann stated in part: "For a long time now we have been aware that enlarged facilities here at the FlogwingPac Terminal were badly needed to accomplish an effective support mission concurrent with the increased tempo of today's activities."

After giving CAPT Colestock the keys to the new FlogwingPac Terminal, CAPT Erdmann said: "I trust that the doors of the terminal, once open, will not require their further use, and that our mutual goal will continue in its present successful course, with never a barrier between us."

In accepting the keys, CAPT Colestock promised to respect the trust that went along with them, stating: "To me, the gesture of the Naval Air Station in providing us with these excellent new facilities is a real tribute to the officers and men of this organization, and to the squadron members who work so closely with it."

Following the ceremony, coffee and a cake created especially for the dedication event were enjoyed by those attending, and the new structure was informally inspected. On hand to provide tempo for the occasion was the ComairPac band.

BOTH INCOMING AND OUTGOING PASSENGERS receive prompt, courteous service at the new accommodation and information desk in the commodious Fleet Logistic Air Wing Terminal, officially dedicated here last Tuesday morning. The enlarged facilities in the Building 700 Terminal nearly double the space formerly assigned for the handling of passenger-cargo functions.

Anticipate Passage of K-Vet Bill By July 1

July 1 may see the passage of the bill giving GI benefits to Korean veterans and other servicemen and women, observers in Washington report. This prediction, however, is with the provision that Congress meet its time-table for passage. The new K-Vet Bill, approved by the House Veterans Committee recently, is awaiting passage by the House and later action by the Senate.

The education benefits will provide veterans with up to 36 months of schooling, these to be started within two years after discharge and completed within seven years after discharge. The bill will also provide an allowance of $110 monthly for single vets and $150 for those with dependents, these to be cut to $50 and $70 if the man is attending school on a half-time basis.

Loan guarantees similar to those granted WWII veterans will be given, with greater protection to the veteran home-buyer. The bill will require that the builder give the vet a contract detailing exact plans and specifications.

All men up to the rank of captain, or lieutenant in the Navy, will receive mustering-out pay computed at the rate of $100 to $300, depending on amount of time in service. This pay will be retroactive for men discharged before enactment of the new GI Bill.

Veterans who have served since June 27, 1950, will be eligible for benefits under the new plan.

A first-year cost of $325 million is estimated for the bill with an expected jump to $836 million yearly. Mustering-out pay will cost the Government about $200 million yearly also, based on the present size of the Armed Forces.

Bairoko Arrives In SD Next Tues.

The escort carrier USS BAIROKO arrived in Pearl Harbor Monday enroute to San Diego from her second round of Korean fighting. She is scheduled to dock here Tuesday, June 10.

She departed for the Far East in December, 1951, after a short rest from her first 10-month Korean cruise.

At first, the BAIROKO conducted anti-submarine patrol with Air Anti-Submarine Squadron 25. Then on February 17, for the first time in seven years, she launched combat strikes behind enemy lines. On that day the "Checkerboard" Marine Attack Squadron 312 began operations from the BAIROKO flight deck.

Returning aboard the ship is Rear Admiral D. S. Cornwell and his Carrier Division 15 Staff and the personnel of VS-25 commanded by Lieutenant Commander A. J. Kelly.

Originally commissioned July 16, 1945, the BAIROKO saw no World War II combat duty. She later participated in the Einewetok A-Bomb tests and was inactivated December 12, 1949. When the Korean crisis broke out, she was the first major combatant vessel to be taken out of mothballs.

Viotti, Sansom On Heidt Show

The Naval Air Station's own two men of mirth and music, Buddy Viotti and Ken Sansom, were at their best during last Friday night's television production, "Family Night With Horace Heidt."

Both of these showmen had previously been with Horace Heidt in other capacities. Buddy Viotti was in the nation-wide finals of the television youth opportunity show, and Ken Sansom had appeared in guest roles several times.

Buddy's performance Friday night consisted of his inimitable take-off on the fabulous Sam Spade. This "who dun it?" routine, one of his best, brought thunderous applause from the studio audience.

Ken Sansom, impersonator, did his usual remarkable job on Louella Parsons, Barbara Stanwyck, Katherine Hepburn, Edward G. Robinson and Peter Lorre.

These two entertainers are now working in conjunction with the Air Station-sponsored Navy Relief Carnival. They are touring the San Diego area in an effort to stimulate ticket sales and make the people aware of the gigantic affair to be presented July 31, August 1, 2, and 3 at Navy Field.

Moody Institute Lectures Begin At NAS Next Monday

A fried egg from a cold stove? No, not hokus pokus. Just one of the many astounding feats that will be performed by George Speake from June 9-12 in the Building 8 (Main Administration Bldg.) auditorium in his dramative 4-day series "Sermons from Science."

The time for the shows has been set at 2015 as previously announced. This will allow North Island personnel enough time to get from the theater to Mainside after the regular 1800 movies.

The series of demonstrations, sponsored by the Moody Institute of Science, has been proclaimed outstanding by military bases, churches, schools, and clubs throughout the U. S. "Sermons from Science" illustrates the great power in true science and shows its relationship to the Supreme Power.

Although a show for religion, the demonstrations are non-denominational and have been performed in churches of all faiths. Since the first showing at the San Francisco World's Fair the series has been amazing audiences with such feats as music from a beam of light, passing 1,000,000 volts through a man's body, and a suitcase with a mind of its own.

The program will also offer magic in chemistry and physics. All shows in the series are open to military personnel and their dependents. From the thousands who have seen the demonstrations comes this testimony—"The unbelievable happens right before your eyes."

The Sermons from Science lecture-demonstrations will take place in the Ad Building Auditorium as follows:

Evenings—June 9 through June 12, 2015.

Daily Character Guidance Lectures—June 10 through June 12, 1000 and 1500.

1,000,000 VOLTS

IN A STARTLING CLIMAX to his Sermons From Science lecture-demonstration, George Speake releases one million volts from his finger tips which have just passed through his body.

Free Dance Lessons Now Offered to Men

Want to learn how to dance? Here is your golden opportunity. Weekly lessons for the men of the Naval Air Station are being held every Wednesday night from 1930 to 2030 in the Recreation room of the NAS theater.

The first night these lessons were given there were at least fifty pupils who attended. The basic Fox Trot steps were taught and eventually swing, jitterbug and tango will also be taught.

These lessons are free and there are plenty of teachers available so all NAS-based personnel are cordially invited to participate.

What Price Happiness?

Many set out on a quest for happiness by accumulating much material possessions, acquiring a reputation or securing a good position. Although these things may add to the feeling of satisfaction in life, they do not produce happiness. Pick out the unhappy people, the frustrated people, and see how they spend their time. Their conception of complete happiness may be freedom from all responsibility and freedom from want. It is the picture painted by a poet, of a cow, knee-deep in clover, chewing her cud contentedly. But you may have your picture of the cow in clover and the lazy dog if your ambition is comparable to that of an animal. However, seek out the radiant few and you will find that they are not spending their time making themselves free from all responsibility and desiring to be independent, but they are making themselves sympathetic and indispensable. God's idea of happiness is that it consists simply and solely in being useful to others. Its prescription is found in the words of The Holy Bible, Chapter 13 of I Corinthians, translating from the original Greek:

"If I speak in the tongue of men and of angels, but have not love, I am a noisy gong or a clanging cymbal. And if I have prophetic powers, and understand all mysteries and all knowledge, and if I have all faith, so as to remove mountains, but have not love, I am nothing. If I give away all I have, and if I deliver my body to be burned, but have not love, I gain nothing.

"Love is patient and kind; love is not jealous or boastful; it is not arrogant or rude. Love does not insist on its own way; it is not irritable or resentful; it does not rejoice at wrong, but rejoices in the right. Love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things.

"Love never ends; as for prophecy, it will pass away; as for tongues, they will cease; as for knowledge, it will pass away. For our knowledge is imperfect and our prophecy is imperfect; but when the perfect comes, the imperfect will pass away. When I was a child, I spoke like a child, I thought like a child, I reasoned like a child; but when I became a man, I gave up childish ways. For now we see in a mirror dimly, but then face to face. Now I know in part; then I shall understand fully, even as I have been fully understood. So faith, love, hope abide, these three; but the greatest of these is love."

THAT MAN friday

Few of us ever stopped long enough since we donned these Navy Blues to consider one very important aspect of our lives as Navy men. We've been too busy thinking only of ourselves as members of the military and how it affects our existence now and the role it will play in our future.

But let's take just a moment to consider how being in the Navy has affected two people who, in many cases, are the two most important individuals we know—our parents.

Regardless of how old we are or how long we've been away from home, it goes without saying that our mothers and fathers are always interested in our general welfare, our activities and . . . well, everything concerning US.

Have you ever asked yourself or them just how they feel about you and the Navy? Of course, most unmarried men who enlist consult with their parents before signing the paper. But have they asked their parents since just how they feel about their son and the Navy now that he's been in for a while?

A few days ago, the Commanding Officer of this station received a letter from a Navy mother and father which we believe generally sums up the over-all feelings of all parents of men in the Armed Forces. See if you don't think your mother and father see things as these parents do.

"We civilians don't always know or understand the limits and boundaries of our duty to our military service, but as parents, we are more than interested and wish to cooperate in every way we know. If it isn't presumptious, we'd like to tell you we feel that the time our son has spent at the U. S. Naval Air Station under your command has been valuable to him.

"When he went into service, we, as is a parent's prerogative, worried some—among other things about the moral side, but we are so happy to say that we believe he is a better man physically, mentally, and morally for having had those two years.

"We trust we are not taking up valuable time or getting out of line when, as parents, we send you our sincere appreciation and deepest thanks for all these good things which give us the privilege of being proud of our boy, the Navy, and the Navy's leaders."

"You'd think they'd issue us crash helmets this time of year"

This Week's News at a glance

The steel strike was on again this week following the historic Supreme Court decision which ruled the President's seizure of the steel industry illegal.

Attempts to settle the prolonged crisis began yesterday at the White House with a meeting of union and management officials. Congress is not waiting, however, for any settlement that may come out of the White House parleys, but is going ahead with legislation proposals that would cover strikes in a critical industry during an emergency.

Attempts of Communists to foment troubles in France have apparently met with complete failure. Their call for a national strike to protest the arrest of the top French Communist in a recent Paris riot brought a walk-out in only one industry in the nation.

Handling of the Communists as well as other political problems is rapidly bringing Premier Antoine Pinay recognition as the ablest leader France has had since the War.

American motorists last weekend went beyond the National Safety Council's highest expectations. But their accomplishments merit no commendation. Four hundred twenty-five motorists were killed on the nation's highways—75 above the Council's prediction and nearly 100 more fatalities than the 1951 Memorial weekend.

The Senate voted Wednesday to continue the government's wage-price-rent-controls in essentially their present form. The Senate also curtailed Wage Stabilization Board's power to consider labor disputes, and removed price controls on potatoes.

More good news for Navymen— a report from Washington disclosed another cut in small stores prices. The price reductions, said to average 20 percent on present items, will go into effect July 1. With the price cuts will come a corresponding reduction in monthly clothing maintenance allowances.

BUMPER CROP

familiar

A constant stream of military and civilian personnel passes through this well-known doorway every day between 0800 and 1700, and on Saturdays from 0800 to 1630. It leads to the United States Post Office, Naval Air Station branch, at the busy intersection of Murray St. and Quentin Roosevelt Blvd.

Here six civilian post office employees handle all incoming and outgoing mail for NAS and regularly assigned squadrons. Complete post office services except savings bonds and postal savings are offered Station personnel. Mail from the half-dozen boxes located around the Island is picked up twice a day by a Navy man in time for outgoing runs at 1200 and 1700. Apart from Station-originated mail destined for delivery right here, all outgoing mail is processed and cancelled at the San Diego main Post Office.

A Directory Service which handles improperly-addressed mail is maintained by Navy personnel in the rear of the post office building. Prior to 1946, the entire mail function was operated by the Navy, but in February of that year regular U.S. government post offices were established at military installations throughout the country.

String Saving

The New York Journal of Commerce has come up with the astounding news that the average American must pay $34,743.23 in taxes during the remainder of his life if present government spending trends continue. This will be 22 per cent of his total income during that time and will amount to approximately eight years' earnings. These figures are based on a life-expectancy of 68 years, during three of which he can collect a return from his Social Security payments if he has made any. This means that for at least eight years of the remainder of our lives we will literally and figuratively "work for the government."

These figures present a particular challenge to those of us who actually work for the federal government in either a civilian or military capacity. As individuals we can do little to control the international situation, but we do hold the key to all the routine day-to-day economies which could conceivably reduce the eight years of "gratis" working.

Federal taxes now provide the pay for six million of us—3,500,000 military and 2,500,000 civilian. Ironically, we pay a part of our own salary because we pay federal taxes too. Hence, when we effect a savings we actually help ourselves.

For every one of us who works for the federal government there are 24 United States citizens who do not. Turning the statement around, for every 24 citizens powerless to reduce the tax load, there is one citizen who could and should do something about it.

We should not be discouraged by the adverse criticism brought our way by a few outstandingly unscrupulous individuals who slipped into Federal service. Rather than "live down" to the reputation they have brought us in some circles, every effort should be made to restore Federal service to the highly reputable position it enjoyed in the pre-World War II years. Only you, individually and collectively, can do it. "String-saving" frugality is the order of the day.

But the Naval Air Station is different, you say "If we economize in the repair of aircraft, we'll be penny wise and pound foolish."

We'll "buy" that—to a point. Naval Air Station components and the facilities to test them are costly. But how many times have you tossed aside an idea for improving the process because you couldn't find a beneficial suggestion blank, or because you thought someone wouldn't like it if you seemed too "eager?"

And the paper work—you've cursed it, but have you written up your constructive suggestions on what should be done about it?

How much have your "headaches" cost the taxpayer in the past year in misused sick leave?

Have you cleaned your desk and turned back to stock your excess horde of pencils, notebooks, etc.? Do you use obsolete forms and stationery for scratch pads and rough drafts, or do you throw them indiscriminately in the wastebasket?

And we have only scratched the surface. "String-savings" must become a part of everyone's job here at Naval Air Station. The gentlemen who have to justify the Department of Defense budget needs the support of all hands.

George Bergman Gets BA Degree

Completing his college career after a long period of persistent effort, George Bergman, Associate Editor of the North Islander, receives his Bachelor of Arts degree with Departmental Honors this afternoon at San Diego State College's graduation ceremonies.

Mr. Bergman has been on temporary leave for the past four months to finish his college studies, but resumes his North Islander duties on Monday, June 16. He majored in geography at San Diego State, with psychology as his minor.

George first enrolled at Long Beach Junior College in 1938, after completing his first Navy hitch. He left to go to work, and was called back to active Naval service shortly before the outbreak of World War II. While on night duty at 11ND Headquarters as a Chief Yeoman from 1942 to 1944, he completed two more years at San Diego Junior College and San Diego State.

Following his separation from the Navy in 1945, he again enrolled at San Diego State and in the summer of 1946, he took a temporary job at NAS. The position resulted in permanent employment, however, and his studies were confined to extended courses which he took up until this Spring. His determination to finish college was realized when he enrolled for the full-time Spring semester this year.

PW, Electronics Picnic at El Monte

El Monte Park will be the scene of annual picnics for two NAS units this month.

Tomorrow the popular recreation area west of Lakeside will be visited by the families of the Electronics Division. The picnic will include a choice menu of food and refreshments and such entertainment tidbits as hog calling, pie feeding, southern accent, and bathing beauty contests. Plenty of games and entertainment for the little people, too.

The families and friends of Public Works will gather at El Monte on the following Saturday. There will be a plentiful array of food, games, entertainment, and prizes throughout the day at the PW affair.

Navy Exchange Offers Floral Service at NAS

Naval Air Station's Navy Exchange Store now has facilities for handling all floral needs of men based here, according to Don Warf, Navy Exchange Store manager.

A complete selection of corsages, bouquet and arrangements for every occasion is available for selection and will be mailed for delivery anywhere in the United States except rural routes and post office numbers. Local deliveries will also be made through this service.

Flowers from which selections may be made include roses, carnations, birds of paradise, orchids, and gardenias. Assorted bouquets and leis of certain flowers are also on sale.

Trans. Flower Show Winners Named

Transportation's monthly flower show, usually held the last Friday in each month, took place last Thursday, May 29, due to the observance of Memorial Day by station personnel Friday.

As has been the trend the past several months, roses held the spotlight. Other types of blooms included in the more than eighty entries were gladiolus and hollyhock.

One of the outstanding features of the show was the beautiful and unusual arrangement of blooms which won O. C. Fletcher first place in the "best arrangement" classification. Mr. Fletcher's "primrose pie," the name given his entry, consisted of one large deep red hollyhock placed in the center of a pie pan partially filled with damp sand surrounded by several primrose blooms.

The rose, entitled "Etoille de Hollande," entered by Frank Payne, was awarded the sweepstakes.

Other winners in the Thursday show were as follows:

SINGLE ROSE, any variety—(1) F. Payne, (2) S. L. Patterson, and (3) F. Payne.

THREE ROSES, same variety—(1) S. L. Patterson, (2) R. Rabe, and (3) S. L. Patterson.

GLADIOLUS, bouquet — First, second, and third place, Lorena Valentine.

SINGLE BLOOM, any variety—(1) Leo Baker, (2) Marlyn Harkrider, and (3) Leo Baker.

BEST ARRANGEMENT — (1) O. C. Fletcher, (2) Lorena Valentine, and (3) Gentiliska Graham.

BOUQUETS—(1) Leo Baker, (2) Lorena Valentine and (3) O. C. Fletcher.

Judges for the May flower show were Paul Cooksey, Administration Officer, Public Works Department; Mrs. Winifred Arnold, Industrial Relations Officer, Naval Air Bases, Eleventh Naval District; and LCDR (NC) Margaret L. Haley.

3 Units Plan June Picnics

Fun for not just the adults but the youngsters too will be featured at the annual S&F Material Branch picnic planned for Saturday, June 28, at Felicita Park.

The kids will have their share of entertainment with water-filled balloon battles, peanut races, baseball, and other games and contests.

Not to be slighted, the adults will be afforded a full day's entertainment with square dancing to a real hoe-down orchestra, baseball, and other activities not yet announced.

For both adults and youngsters will be the barbecued ham and quantities of other food and refreshments.

Tickets for the big picnic are now being sold in Material Branch. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

The Operations department and O&R's Assembly Division have scheduled picnics for the very near future.

The Operations picnic is on tap for this Saturday, June 7th, and is to be held at Felicita Park. A large variety of games with prizes for the winners are scheduled along with food and beverages.

The Assembly Division's annual outing is to be held Saturday, June 14, at the same location. This recreational outing will be from 1000 to 1700, and will include games, prizes, dancing, and a multitude of other activities.

NR Nursery Asks For Volunteers

Service wives in the San Diego area are urged to volunteer their services to the Navy Relief Society in maintaining the commissary nursery at the Naval Station. All interested ladies are urged to call Mrs. George Henderson at Extension 1294.

Mrs. Henderson is chairman of Volunteer Recruiting for the San Diego Auxiliary of the Navy Relief Society.

ENTHRONED for the next three months, Summer Vacation today, at last, gains supremacy over the rigid rule of the three R's. The NAS school bus will make its last run between the station and Coronado this afternoon for 50 North Island youngsters. But it will be no vacation for bus driver James Hoy, CMC, pictured above with grade school student Sharon Mainord, daughter of CHBOSN W. S. Mainord. Hoy and his bus will find other jobs on the station to keep the summer busy.

FairbetuPac At NAS Three Years

By Bill Feeney

The Fleet Airborne Electronics Training Unit, known as FairbetuPac, celebrated its third anniversary last Tuesday of its arrival here at Naval Air Station. Until its removal here June 3, 1949, FairbetuPac had been located at Ream Field which was de-commissioned the same year.

Now in full operation, the unit handles approximately 3,200 men annually. Aviation electricians from the school in Jacksonville, Florida, and electronics technicians and operators from the "A" school in Memphis, Tennessee, receive the final training course in specific types of radar, radio, and electrical gear now in use by the Navy. When released from FairbetuPac, they are then assigned to individual squadrons or units.

In recent months, two classes of Australian airmen, in addition to the regular Navy students in attendance, have received an extensive course in the classrooms of the unit in order to become familiar with the newer types of U. S. gear to be used in their planes.

The aircraft in use for instructional purposes by FairbetuPac include P2V's, TBM's, R4D's, PBY's, and SNB's. Over 900 members of the permanent personnel are kept busy maintaining all equipment and making sure it's in proper operating order for the students.

This unit also has two detachments at the Naval Air Stations, Whidbey Island and Alameda. These establishments are for the purpose of giving refresher courses to fleet personnel who are qualified to attend these schools.

On the East Coast, the counterpart of FairbetuPac is known as FaetuLant and is situated at Norfolk, Virginia. This school serves the same purpose for the men in the Airforce, Atlantic Fleet.

Service Cindermen Run Tomorrow

The first Inter-Service Track and Field Championships will be staged Saturday and Sunday, June 7 and 8, in the Veterans' Memorial Stadium, Long Beach, starting at 1400 each day.

Three speed and power-laden teams representing the Army, Navy and Air Force will contest a near-full slate of Olympic Track and Field events.

The big service meet is sponsored by the Secretary of Defense in cooperation with the U. S. Olympic committee, and is hosted by the Commandant Eleventh Naval District.

Seats are now available through the Director of Special Services, M-3871, extensions 374 or 774. Reserved seats are $1.20, General Admission 85c and students' tickets 50c.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON PERFORMANCE RATINGS

Q. WHY DOES THE EMPLOYEE SIGN HIS PERFORMANCE RATING CARD?

A. The employee signs the Performance Rating card to show that his supervisor has discussed his performance with him. It does NOT mean that he approves of his rating.

Q. CAN MY PERFORMANCE RATING BE CHANGED AFTER I HAVE SIGNED THE CARD?

A. The employee's signature does not apply to the rating at all; it merely indicates that the employee's performance has been discussed with him. The answer to the question is "Yes"—the rating on the card at the time of this discussion is the rating which your supervisor is recommending for you, and it has to be approved by the reviewer, the Department Head, and the Performance Rating Board before it becomes an official rating. At any of these stages the supervisor's recommendation may be reversed.

Q. WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF THE PERFORMANCE RATING PLAN?

A. The main purpose of the Performance Rating Plan is to insure that the employee's performance will be discusssed with him regularly. It is felt that this will create better understanding between the employee and his supervisor.

Q. WHEN WILL THE RATINGS BE APPROVED BY THE PERFORMANCE RATING BOARD?

A. The Performance Rating Board is reviewing the ratings at the present time, and is making every effort to complete their review as soon as possible. They should be completed within the next few weeks.

Q. CAN THE STATION MAKE ANY CHANGES IN THE PERFORMANCE RATING PLAN?

A. Since the Performance Rating Plan was set up by law (Performance Rating Act of 1950) its basic provisions can be changed only by legislation. However, BuAer requested that field units submit recommendations based on their experience with the program, and this Station has recommended several changes. We expect some revisions to be made before the next annual rating.

NAS Celebrates 34th Birthday This Sunday

By VAN HEDGES

Commemoration of the Naval Air Station's official establishment on North Island takes place this Sunday, June 8, as NAS-San Diego celebrates its thirty-fourth birthday. The Island's early history is an interesting one, and its development has closely paralleled advancements in aviation itself.

Glenn Curtiss chose North Island for his experiments with the Navy hydroplane in 1910, establishing the Navy's first claim to the area and marking the start of its existence as an air field.

In 1912, the Army moved a portion of its small Air Force to the Island, naming it Rockwell Field. In 1917, the Government purchased the area for $6,000,000 for Army and Navy use, and in January of that year the Army established the first aviation training center in the United States here. That September, the Naval Air Station, with Lieutenant Commander E. W. Spencer, USN, in command, was commissioned as a primary flight training center and an aviation mechanics school. At that time the Island comprised 1275 acres, 725 occupied by the Army and 550 by the Navy.

While the training of aviation mechanics was progressing at a temporary school established at the Naval Training Camp, Balboa Park, numerous conferences were held between Army and Navy officials here. No definite settlement of location of the dividing line between the Army and Navy portion of North Island was made until March 16, 1918, when a definite line was agreed upon and indicated by fixed marks.

The Army, meanwhile, had been making plans for establishing a temporary station on the southern, or Army, portion of the Island, and on June 8, 1918, seven months after the establishment of the Naval Air Station in San Diego, the Army vacated the buildings on the Navy end of the Island and turned them over to the Navy. It may, therefore, be said that on June 8, 1918, the Naval Air Station was first established on North Island.

From June 8, 1918, until the signing of the World War I Armistice, the Air Station turned out 892 men in the Quartermaster Division (seaplane riggers, hull workers, etc.), of whom 634 were sent overseas and 75 to Columbia University as officer personnel. A total of 206 student officers completed the course in flight school, were sent to Pensacola for advanced work, bombing, gunnery, etc., and then overseas.

In 1922, the Air Station was converted from a training center to a base for fleet air squadrons, starting the growth of the Assembly and Repair Department, whose functions now comprise the major percentage of the Station's activities. In 1935, the Navy assumed complete control of North Island.

Jack Ball, Roy Wilkie Team to Win Drag Races

Memorial Day proved to be an exciting holiday for IRD's Jack Ball and Transportation's Roy Wilkie as they teamed up to win first place in the American Legion Drag held in conjunction with the San Diego Timing Association at Paradise Mesa.

Competing on his motorcycle with head modifications and a lightened frame, Jack Ball won the meet with a clocked speed of 108.96 mph.

To show the keen competition involved in this meet, in which 25 competed, the second place man was but four-tenths of a mile per-hour behind Jack Ball's winning performance.

The trophy was presented in conjunction with the American Legion's Veteran Rehabilitation Fund. In this race, Jack used alcohol as fuel in an engine designed exclusively for gasoline consumption. He has previously hit a speed of 110 mph on the same 'cycle.

An interesting sidelight to the race was that just prior to the final competition, Jack's machine developed coil trouble. Things looked hopeless until Roy Wilkie of the Transportation Department rigged a temporary ignition system which without the benefit of tune-up, lasted to enable the winning performance.

The question now, is how are the two men going to divide the trophy. After all, everyone knows you can't drink out of one-half a cup.

JACK BALL, IRD employee, received his fourteenth award last Friday at the American Legion Drag Races at Paradise Mesa Airstrip for clocking the fastest motorcycle time of the day. Jack clocked 108.96 using fuel on a quarter-mile track to win the fastest time trophy.

Navy Relief Society Annual Call for Contributions

NR Society Drive Nears Completion With Record Mark

The Navy Relief Society's "annual call for contributions" comes to a close today at the Naval Air Station with a record of 98 percent participation by civilian and military personnel.

According to LCDR J. L. Morrissey, administration officer, military personnel reached a 100 percent mark in the campaign. Civilian employees almost equalled this score with 95 percent of them contributing to the Society's cause.

The actual amount of the contributions had not been tabulated by press time, but will be announced next week.

Contributions will still be accepted today. Personnel who have not yet contributed are urged to contact their divisional representative.

The Navy Relief Society will be the sole beneficiary of the funds donated in the current drive.

CDR Dail Becomes Skipper of VP-46

Commander Robert S. Dail assumed command of the San Diego-based Patrol Squadron 46 in ceremonies held at the Naval Air Station May 29.

The former squadron skipper, Commander Robert L. Donley, will report for further assignment to the Bureau of Naval Personnel, Washington, D. C. He brought the squadron back to San Diego April 10, after six months' reconnaissance and anti-submarine patrol duty in the Korean area.

CDR Dail completed training at the Armed Forces Staff College, Norfolk, Va., before reporting to the patrol squadron.

He previously served with Naval Air Transport Service, participating in the Berlin Airlift. The Naval aviator was aboard the battleship USS TENNESSEE at Pearl Harbor during the Japanese attack He later reported to flight school and received his wings in June, 1943.

CDR Donley took command of VP-46 in March, 1951. Flying Martin "MARINER" patrol bombers, he captained the patrol unit through two tours of Korean duty. He attended M.I.T. Electronics School, receiving his BS degree to add to the BA he earned at Ripon College, Ripon, Wis., in 1938.

IT WAS the first visit to San Diego for two crew members of the Canadian Cruiser HMCS ONTARIO but they didn't miss out on an opportunity to get Navy Relief Carnival receipts which may make them owners of one of the six 1952 Mercurys. Pictured near the No. 3 turret of the ONTARIO as it was tied up at Navy Pier are Ordinary Seaman W. Shannon and Petty Officer, Second Class N. Read receiving Carnival receipts from Wave Mike Owens of NAS.

O & R Civilians Complete 600 Mile Horseback Trip

By Bill Feeney

There is many an outdoorsman, aboard this station, but how many can boast of a 600-mile trip on horseback into the seldom-seen back-country of Southern California?

Recently Joe Schweikert, O&R Planning Group, along with Wayne Cozard, O&R Repair and Flight Test, and the latter's brother, Jim, undertook this extensive pack-trip with only the idea of seeing "the many fantastic sights often overlooked by the everyday traveler." As Mr. Schweikert told it to this reporter, "Many years ago I was a hunter who disliked returning without a kill, but today I've come to realize that the beauty of our wildlife is in viewing them and their natural environment."

Their extensive outing began at Mr. Schweikert's home in El Cajon and proceeded into the back country at the almost unbelievable rate of nearly 100 miles per day. Along with the three horses for riding, there were two pack horses which were alternated.

The only mishap of the trip happened just some 20 miles from the jumping-off place. One of the new horses, unaccustomed to the technique of mountain climbing, slipped from the trail, but damage was slight. In fact a slightly sprained wrist and an encounter with some of the ever-present cactus was the total extent of the incident.

On a trip which includes such a vast area there are so many interesting sidelights that it seems almost impossible to remember them all, but here are some of the more interesting ones as Mr. Schweikert remembers.

Upon reaching the Coachilla Indian Reservation, there was a scene of contrasts. The reservation was made up of warmly but very plainly dressed natives and brown adobe houses. The contrast was the beautiful mission on the fringe of the reservation. There was no name for this house of worship but it gave an insight into the tremendous religious faith of these people.

From beginning to end, the group must have passed several thousand of what are called "Glory Holes." These are in reality the marks of fortune-hunting prospectors. These "Glory Holes" are the man-dug cavities in the surface of the earth made during the never-ending search for gold and other precious minerals.

Although the men agreed that they had never seen any of this semi-arid section so beautiful, and so abundant in foliage, it was clear to see the aftermath of this year's heavy rains. Washed-out bridges and gutted roads, marked the trail of the high waters which bathed our mountains this last winter.

The trip ended with a 17-hour ride the final day. More than 600 miles in six and one-half days was certainly a strain, but these men agree that they are looking forward to taking an even longer trip in the near future.

By WINDY SPLICHAL

Last Monday the Division bid a fond farewell to Quarterman Cecil Allen of the Cable Shop. We wish to take this opportunity to say farewell to Cecil Allen and wish him the very best of good health and success in his new business. He has made numerous friends in the Division and will be missed by all.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Steven Hoag, who this past week became the proud parents of their second son. The little tike weighed in at 7 lbs., 14 ozs.

Jeanette Kinser spent the last weekend visiting Mt. Palomar and was very impressed.

Toni Vasquez and her family spent three lovely days camping south of the border in Mexico.

All of Herman Stange's friends will be sorry to hear that his wife is now in the hospital. We hope she will improve very rapidly and be up and about before too long.

Lt. O. Bernauer is on leave for three weeks. He plans to spend some time in Las Vegas, Nevada, and some in California.

Faye McAdams of Dispatch will become the bride of Leo Allen on June 11, 1952, at the Wedding Bell Chapel in San Diego. We wish to congratulate the young couple and wish them years of happiness.

This past week all the final preparations were being made for the Electronics Division picnic to be held tomorrow at El Monte Park. The recreation committee has worked very hard to make this picnic the best the Division has ever sponsored. We will report to you in the next issue on the results of the bathing beauty contest and the big ball game between the Hangar-68 Hot Shots and the Cable Shop Cuties.

S & F Ad. Div. Party At Adm. Kidd Club

Dinner and dancing featured the annual S&F Administrative Div. party held recently at the Admiral Kidd Officers' Mess (Open) in San Diego.

Attending the party were military and civilian personnel of Planning Div., Inventory Branch and Liaison Branch and Administrative Div. CAPT and Mrs. C. M. Boundy were guests of honor at the party.

about books

The companion volumes, The Life of Johnny Reb and The Life of Billy Yank, by Buell Irvin Wiley, represent valuable additions to the abundant historical writing on the Civil War. These two books were written to order for readers who enjoyed the classic Civil War novel The Red Badge of Courage.

As in Stephen Crane's narrative of a raw recruit being initiated to the ordeal of battle, Historian Wiley's books also treat the individual soldier, not the impersonal mass that armies are often thought of in history books.

Apparently there is a wealth of source material for the writer to work with to create a vivid and lively picture of the typical soldier in blue or gray. Because many thousands were away from home during the Civil War and were experiencing momentous things, they wrote frequent and descriptive letters and often kept diaries. Even today these priceless records of the past are being dug out of attics and closets.

From these copious documents, the author creates the characters of Johnny Reb and Billy Yank. They are in a sense composites, representing the thousands of plain folk who fought in both armies. Wiley tells us how they felt about their enemy, why they enlisted, what ideals they were fighting for. He tells us, from their own accounts, the type of weapons they used and what their training and discipline was like.

CS Circular Stresses Truth, Completeness In Personnel Actions

A recent Civil Service departmental circular contains an article regarding the importance of truth and completeness in applications for employment or non-competitive personnel actions. For the information and guidance of civil service employees, the article is quoted in part below:

"Several cases have recently come to the attention of the Commission which indicate that some Federal employees and applicants for Federal employment do not fully realize the importance of truth and completeness on application Forms 57 and other forms which serve as a basis for personnel actions. Some employees who have made false statements on applications have stated that no one had ever pointed out to them the necessity for honest and complete information and the penalties to which they might be subject.

"False, misleading or deliberately ambiguous statements on application forms are dishonest and show a cynical and irresponsible attitude toward government that is wholly out of place in a democracy. Such statements are properly the basis for dismissal from Federal service in many instances, and may even lead to criminal prosecution. The signature of an applicant on our application form is legally as binding as an oath certifying to the correctness of the information.

"Personnel or other administrative officers and employees of Federal agencies who have occasion to solicit application forms from employees for any type of personnel action, or to advise the general public regarding application for Federal employment, are in a position to remind such persons of the importance of truth and completeness and to point out the possible penalties for false or misleading statements. All employees of the Federal Government, therefore, who are in such a position must assume this responsibility."

New Flogwing Bldg. Adds Needed Space

Nearly doubling the work area formerly occupied by VR-5's Fleet Logistic Air Wing personnel, the new Building 700 structure dedicated this week at NAS features a spacious passenger waiting room, an enlarged accommodation and information desk, a newly-installed public address system, a senior officers' waiting room which will also serve as a pilots' report room, a new incoming baggage section, plus ample office space for administrative and duty officer functions.

The new structure which adjoins the building already housing FlogwingPac facilities replaces the space previously taken by two Quonset huts. Soundproof walls, sky lights, large windows overlooking the ramp outside, increased restroom services, and a modern heating plant assure maximum passenger comfort.

Soon to be constructed in the older section of the terminal is a new duty crew's bunkroom and a ready room, as well as an enlarged recreation area.

The crew which operates the terminal on a 24-hour a day basis is headed by Lieutenant Commander George R. Keagle, Air Traffic Officer, whose two assistants are Lieutenant W. A. Garrett and Lieutenant L. K. Stanley. Leading chief at the activity is L. E. McBrayer, ADC, and four other CPOs help carry out the terminal's passenger and cargo functions. They are C H. Spruill, ADC; R. G. Klingler, ABC; F. J. Fox, ADC; and R. H. Foster, ADC.

The completion of the terminal's modernization now ranks it among the finest in the country, and represents a complete face-lifting job since its operation in the middle 1940s as the Naval Air Transport Service Terminal here.

CAPTAIN E. E. COLESTOCK, Acting Commander, Fleet Logistic Air Wing Pacific and Commanding Officer of Air Transport Squadron Five, cuts the cake honoring dedication of the new FlogwingPac passenger-cargo Terminal at NAS, which took place Tuesday morning.

Flogwing Plays Vital Role In Support of Pacific Fleet

The prompt and efficient transport of men and materials to areas whose limits are measured in thousands of miles is an every day, routine mission with the men assigned to the Fleet Logistic Air Wing, U. S. Pacific Fleet. With headquarters at NAS-Alameda, FlogwingPac is comprised of four Navy squadrons, VR-2, VR-5, VR-21, and VR-23, as well as two Marine Corps squadrons, VMR-152 and VMR-352.

These squadrons are located at various points extending from the West Coast to the Far East. FlogwingPac is under the operational control of the Commander in Chief, U. S. Pacific Fleet, and under the administrative control of Commander Air Force, U. S. Pacific Fleet.

Providing logistic support to the Pacific Fleet here at NAS is the FlogwingPac unit operated by the San Diego detachment of Air Squadron Five. Officer-in-charge of the detachment is Commander B. C. Wheatley, and assistant officer-in-charge is Lieutenant Commander M. A. Merrill. The local VR-5 detachment is also charged with operation of the NAS Flogwing Terminal, whose recently modernized facilities were officially dedicated this week.

In addition to the transport of passengers and cargo, VR-5's Flogwing unit here also has its share of VIP flights. In the past several months, it has carried such notables as Dan A. Kimball, Secretary of the Navy; Vice Admiral T. L. Sprague, and Congressman L. M. Rivers, South Carolina.

For its regular personnel and cargo flights, the local squadron mostly utilizes R6Ds, but operates two R6Vs as well. Although a few Stateside missions are flown, the majority of its flights are of a trans-Pacific nature. The Flogwing Terminal acknowledges no priorities, makes no reservations. It simply carries out the operational orders issued by CincPacFlt, and provides logistic support of Pacific Fleet Units whenever and wherever such support is required.

NAS-San Diego cooperates with VR-5 in every way possible to facilitate accomplishment of the FlogwingPac mission here. When additional terminal space was deemed necessary, the Station's Public Works Department was consulted, and the present expanded terminal facilities were built by PW personnel. They are not only expected to add to the comfort of passengers—enlisted and officer military personnel, civilians under orders, and properly authorized reserve and retired personnel, but should also allow maximum operational efficiency.

Since FlogwingPac is primarily a cargo airline, not operating a schedule, many of the conveniences found on commercial airlines cannot be provided on its aircraft. Passengers, however, are supplied with every possible courtesy. Box-lunches are served, an orderly is in attendance, and comments and suggestions are welcomed at all times.

This is a banner week for FlogwingPac in San Diego. The new NAS terminal symbolizes its vital importance in the continued logistic support of the Pacific Fleet.

WHEN CAPTAIN E. E. COLESTOCK, Acting ComFlogwingPac, arrived at NAS last Tuesday morning from Moffett Field to attend the FlogwingPac Terminal dedication ceremonies, he was met by Captain W. L. Erdmann, NAS Commanding Officer, who presented the new terminal facilities to members of VR-5's San Diego detachment.

Two-Thirds Mark In Blood Drive

The two-thirds mark in the 3,000,000-pint drive of the Armed Forces Blood Donor Program has been topped, the American Red Cross and the Department of Defense have announced. Total collections of whole blood since the start of the drive, Sept. 10, 1951, reached 2,029,805 pints during the 31st week of the campaign.

TRANSPORTATION FOURSOME HONORED

National Secretaries' Day, when America honors the women who pound the typewriter keys and jot down the shorthand notes, was observed last Wednesday at NAS when Transportation Dept. paid homage to four of its women employees. Necklaces and cologne, in token of their outstanding work, were presented to Ellen Pearson (left), Barbara Stone, Barbara Whitacre and Margaret Neel. Mr. S. L. Patterson, Transportation Officer, helps secure the clasp on Barbara Stone's necklace.

TOM FUTCH (19), who recently took over the catching chores for the Skyraider ball club, is letting no one sneak by. Here he puts out Fred Myatt of Los Alamitos as he attempts to slide into home.

Ball Team Tripped By Los Alamitos After NTC Win

A slightly revamped and much improved Skyraider baseball team came out of their six-game losing streak to hand the Bluejackets from NTC a shattering 7-3 loss Monday, May 26, at NTC's Hull Field, only to return and lose a heartbreaker to Los Alamitos this week.

A few minor changes in both the infield and outfield seemed to account for the errors that have cost the Skyraiders most of their games.

The new line-up puts Tom Futch in at catcher and Bob Heller in right field. Manager Harvey Speed now plays regular at center field, while Schayot is handling the initial sack.

This was the lineup that dumped NTC. The Bluejackets had a zero slate until the eighth inning, while the Naval Airmen started their scoring attack early in the third by virtue of Tom Weaver's home run. The 'Raiders scored once more in this inning, and twice more in the fifth frame.

Tom Futch accounted for two of the runs batted in, and scored himself off of Heller's single in the fifth.

Peterson and Doden scored for NTC in the eighth inning, both off base hits.

The Skyraiders loaded the bases in the final frame, Green, Weaver and Speed each singling. Green was put out on a double play, and Johnson drew a walk. Futch then repeated his fifth-inning efforts by hitting a two-bagger to bring in the three men on base.

The Bluejackets scored once more in the bottom of the ninth, when Halibuck tripled then went home on a wild pitch.

Red Campbell was credited with the win, while Meshelski was the losing pitcher.

Monday's game with Los Alamitos saw the Skyraiders fall back into the hole, dropping a 6-3 verdict.

The 'Raiders attempted to rally in the last four innings, nearly tieing the score several times. At one point of the game the bases were loaded, but the Skyraiders couldn't get that one game-winning hit.

Monday, the 'Raiders will again host the NTC nine on the Towers Field diamond. Game time is 1400, and plenty of seats are available for Skyraider rooters.

Fifth Inning Rally Aids Miramar Win

A six-run, fifth-inning rally on the part of the Miramar Jets succeeded in driving Skyraider pitcher John Huffman to the showers, and assured the men from Miramar an 8-3 win over the Skyraider softball club Wednesday, May 28, at the Northern Diamond.

Miramar shortstop Bud Dunham walloped a home run to tie the game 2-2 in the fourth inning, then repeated his efforts in the fifth, slamming another homer, this time with bases loaded.

The Skyraiders' runs were made by Earl Kelly, Wayne Smith and Adolph Mason, who got a home run in the sixth inning, but unfortunately, bases were empty.

Jim Brown, a new addition to the softball club took over on the mound in the sixth inning, and allowed only one hit for the remainder of the game.

Since that time, the 'Raider softball team has posted victories over the Naval Station, Naval Hospital and a two-inning victory over Anderson Furniture during the ASA Carnival held last Wednesday evening in El Cajon. The WAVES, who were also entered in this event lost their two-inning game to the San Diego Big Shots.

Adolph Mason pitched both wins, allowing the Naval Hospital six hits and the Naval Station a mere two. Scores were 5-2 and 1-0 respectively.

The softball team now has an eight-win, three-loss record for Eleventh Naval District Major League competition, and is presently resting in third place behind the Training Center and Marine Recruit Depot, who are tied for the top spot.

Next week, the Skyraiders will play two home games. Monday they host Camp Matthews, and Wednesday meet MCRD. Both games will be played on the Mainside Diamond starting at 2000.

What's the Catch?

Lieutenant Ryan of Fasron 7 won last week's award, a glass rod, reel and 200 yards of line for his 20½ pound Yellowtail hooked aboard the NAS fishing boat Rollover on May 29.

Two days earlier, F. H. Travers of Public Works landed a 23 pound White Sea Bass, but was ineligible for the prize because he has won it before.

Nearly 100 Yellowtail were hauled aboard the three NAS fishing boats last week, in addition to ten Barracuda.

SPORTS

Keglers Needed For Summer Loop

Either two or four men's teams are needed to complete a fifteen-week summer bowling league which started two weeks ago.

Both military and civilian personnel are eligible to enter the matches which will be held at the Comanche Bowl, 73rd and El Cajon each Tuesday at 2100.

Anyone interested in joining this league can contact Flo Day at the Bowl, or C. T. Cooper, X-884 on the Station.

AirPac Softball Loops Reach Halfway Point

By BOB SWISHER

With the half-way mark of the AirPac intermural softball leagues reached, a two-way tie exists for the lead in the Major league while FAW-14 and Ready Issue hold commanding bulges in a couple of stalled minor loops.

Rain, holidays and operational schedules have slowed the Minor's play to a walk, but FASRon-110 and FAIRBETUPac have rolled ahead of the field in the Majors. As of Wednesday the two clubs had identical 4-1 records. Their clash on Thursday of this week (too late for game results) will go a long way toward deciding the final winner. Earlier in the year, the Raiders edged 110 by a 3-2 count.

Minor league "A" has played only one game in the past 10 days, as VS-892, VS-21 and VS-23 have been forced to postpone games due to operational schedules. FAW-14 holds the lead with two straight wins. Every other team has been decisioned at least once.

A tough Ready Issue team seems about ready to clinch the "B" league. Undefeated in three games, the Storekeepers lead their nearest rival, ComAirPac Personnel by a full game, and, also won an earlier 11-1 pasting over the same Personnel ball club.

FASRon-7, FAIRBETUPac and VC-35 hold leads in the other three intermural sports.

With six consecutive wins under their belt, FASRon-7 leads FASRon-691 by a game in table tennis, FAIRFETUPac's 3-0 slate is a game better than FAW-14 2-1 in tennis, and VC-35 heads a tight golf race with 4-1. FASRon-7 is in second with three wins in four starts.

Captain's Cup Lowdown

By LEON COX

The second half of the Capt's Cup Softball league got underway Monday with four games being played. The first day of play should be a hint of what to expect throughout the second half. There were two hours of good softball with every man playing to win.

The most thrilling game of the day was between the first half champions, Supply, and a strong contender, Boat House. Supply eked out a narrow win after a hard-fought game and many thrilling plays, winning 4-3.

In the other games Special Services defeated Metal Machine 14-0, while Inspection handed BOQ their first defeat and Security 34 edged out Operations 27 in a close contest.

Tuesday's games were rained out and play was resumed Wednesday with Weather Central handing Electronics their first defeat and Planning downing Power Plant, while Assembly defeated Test Line and C.G.A. handed Ordnance 31 a defeat.

The new Captain's Cup Board is completed and the standings are up to date. The board is located on the corner of Murray St, and Quentin Roosevelt boulevard.

Netmen Prep For 11nd Tournament

As the area eliminations of the Eleventh Naval District Tennis tournament approaches, the Skyraider varsity tennis squad is fast whipping into shape.

The team, which was formed only a few weeks back, has a rugged schedule in order to get their contenders into playing form for the tournament set for June 11, 12 and 13.

One of the strongest contenders for the Eleventh Naval District singles title is the Skyraiders' number one racket wielder, Lieutenant Elston Wyatt. Thus far, Wyatt has won every singles match he has played.

Tuesday, May 27, the Skyraiders met NTC on the NAS court taking two out of twelve matches from the powerful NTC squad. Wyatt waxed Glenn Linden six love, six love, while Kersner took his two single matches 6-2, 6-2.

Last Saturday, the Naval Airmen faced the Ojai Valley Tennis Club taking four out of 10 matches

NAGA NEWS

The "ACE" golf tournament for the month of June will be held at Agua Caliente golf course between Monday, June 2, and Monday, June 9.

Rounds must be played in the presence of another NAGA member, and score cards must be turned into the golf-driving range before 0800 June 9.

Team standings will be published next week.

Axcell Leads In Defeat Of MCRD

The Skyraider golf club, now tied for first place in the Eleventh Naval District Major league, defeated the Marine Corps Recruit Depot 22-2 last Thursday at Rancho Santa Fe.

Walt Axcell continued his winning streak by taking the low gross with a neat 72 score.

Out of the three matches the golf team has played, Axcell has copped the low gross twice, previously with a 71.

G. S. Sota of Ream Field followed with a 73, and Bisdorf, a new member of the 'Raider team was third with a 74 in his first league match.

The 'Raiders play two more matches before they meet first place NTC. Yesterday they met El Toro on the northern course, and next week will take on Camp Pendleton.

June 19 will mark the rigid test against NTC. Should the Skyraiders remain tied for first place with the Bluejackets, this match will then decide the winner of the first half of play.

LCDR Dixon Is Legion Speaker

LCDR William C. Dixon was a guest speaker for the Fighting Bob Evans American Legion Post 364 on June 4 at the War Memorial Building, Balboa Park.

The topic of discourse was on "Helicopters and the Korean War." LCDR Dixon is the Operations Officer of HU-1 based at Ream Field. He has just recently returned from Korea where he won the DFC for a particularly hazardous helicopter rescue.

VU-5 Promotes Good-Will In Japanese Towns

News has been received from VU-5 (A), in Japan that they procured a KD2G-2 small drone from ASB, Yokosuka, and mounted it for display on Boys' Day, observed May 5 at Odawara. LTJG Meyrick of VU-3(K) detachment accompanied the drone and returned to Atsugi the same day. The children enjoyed the display and RADM Gouin, Commander Air Fleet, Japan, expressed his satisfaction with the success of the project.

The men who accompanied the small drone were entertained by the mayor and other city officials of Odawara and were afforded the opportuinty to become better acquainted with the Japanese and their customs.

Also, Gentry has been fostering goodwill between the unit at Itazuke and the Air Force by becoming one of the outstanding track men on the Itazuke Base Team. Early this spring the team competed with a Japanese University and Gentry placed first in the 100 and 200 meter dashes, and was on the winning relay team. He also unofficially broke the Far East record in the 100 meter dash by 1/10 of a second and the 200 meter dash by 2/10 of a second.

11th ND Tennis

and since that time have had matches nearly every day up north.

Sunday they took two out of seven singles and one out of three doubles away from the Monochito Country Club in Santa Barbara; Tuesday, they played the Long Beach Naval Station; Wednesday, the Lakewood Country Club; Thursday, El Toro, and today they will meet Los Alamitos.

Sunday they will face the West Side Country Club in Los Angeles, then return home for a full week's tentative schedule.

HS-2 Begins Intra-SquadCompetition

Intra-squadron competition is in full swing for the personnel of HS-2. Playoffs are in progress in softball, ping-pong, horseshoes and volleyball and will continue until teams have played each other twice.

For competition it was necessary to divide the squadron into five parts, Administration, Electronics, Power Plants, Air Frames and Operations which consists of the men from Material, Ordnance and Disbursing.

One hour each day is set aside for the matches and, as the wining team will be given one day off plus a suitable trophy, there is enthusiastic participation.

At the end of the second week of the playoffs the Air Frames team is undefeated in all sports while the Administration and Operations teams are tied for second with two losses each.

Units Arrive At Ream From Korea

Helicopter Unit Twenty-One of Helicopter Squadron One based at Ream Field, arrived home May 29, after completing their tour of duty in the Korean combat zone.

Officer-in-Charge of Unit Twenty-One was LT J. F. Wilson, with Chief Aviation Pilot Ruell E. Martin sharing the flying duties. Chief Aviation Machinist Mate Harold D. King was their crew chief. Charles D. Dever, AD1, Joseph B. Vissage, AL1, Aaron E. Rudd, AD3, Virgil D. McCord, AD3, and Norman J. Karel, AM3, made up the crew.

Unit Twenty-One based aboard the USS MANCHESTER (CL-83) conducted flight operations such as Naval Gunfire Spotting, evacuation of injured personnel, and transfer of mail and cargo to other units.

Needless to say, all were happy to get back to their families and stateside duty.

DD-to-Helicopter Transfer Performed By HU-I Craft

On May 27 a detachment of Helicopter Squadron One accomplished what is probably the first night personnel transfer from a destroyer to a carrier in the helicopter.

The unit operating locally with an HUP-2 Retriever from the USS RENDOVA, transferred a man from a night plane guard destroyer to the RENDOVA for medical care after the man had suffered a broken arm. The feat was complicated by the fact that there was a marginal horizon for the pilot's reference and further by the fact that the hoisting sling normally used for the helicopter was unsuitable for use with such a casualty.

The crewman, C. N. De Freitas, AD2, was lowered to the lantern-lighted deck of the pitching destroyer. There he diagnosed the problem and devised a sling from a seat belt which proved efficient and comfortable to the patient. The patient, closely followed by De Freitas, was hoisted aboard the helicopter and the plane returned to the carrier after what the pilot describes as a highly interesting ordeal.

New Maintenance Officer for VU-3

LT William C. Hale relieved LT Champ C. Mulligan as Maintenance Officer of Utility Squadron THREE last Thursday, May 29.

LT Hale, with 21 years and nine months of Naval service behind him, reported to VU-3 for duty, February 19, 1952, after serving 17 months on the USS VALLEY FORGE.

LT Mulligan served two years with the squadron before being reassigned to N.A.S. Anacostia, D. C., for duty.

VU-3's Robinson Is New Father

James E. Robinson, Aviation Electronic Technician second class, of Utility Squadron THREE, was presented by his wife, Rose Marie, with a bouncing baby girl, Wednesday, May 28.

The new addition to the Robinson family weighed in at a fancy six pounds, thirteen ounces, and mother and child are doing well.

Robinson, who hails from Grapeville, Pa., enlisted in the Navy October 18, 1948, and has been a member of VU-3 for almost two years.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson and daughter are presently residing in Escondido, California.

VU-7 Pilot Is Named Head of Toastmasters

LTJG A. W. Romans of VU-7 was recently elected president of the Coronado Toastmasters' Club. Al has been a club member since March, 1951.

Primarily, the club gives its members the opportunity to better their public speaking ability through experience and evaluation. The club's secondary purpose is to participate in service club activities which better the community through speeches; such as aiding in Red Cross drives, civilian defense and the like. It includes in its membership many members of service clubs who find the toastmasters' training valuable in their respective club functions.

At present the Coronado club has its meetings every Thursday evening at a restaurant in Coronado.

The uninvited visitor to VU-7 personnel office Memorial Day, Mr. Snake, is being held by R. S. Allen, SA, on the left, and D. D. Pierce, SN, on the right. The snake measured approximately four feet long, with brown sides and brown spots along the back.

Snake Pays Surprise Visit to VU-7 Yeomen

If you are looking for something you can usually find it in a yeoman's desk drawer and often find something you are not looking for.

Such is the case of a couple of yeomen from VU-7 who had the duty on Memorial Day.

Donald N. Pierce, SN, started to open a desk drawer while looking for something. He heard a strange noise and looked into the drawer to see a snake coiled ready to strike. In the surprise he jerked his hand back only to pull the drawer open wider. The snake struck at Pierce and in doing so jumped out of the drawer and fell on the deck between Pierce and R. S. Allen, SA.

The cry of "Snake!" was called out and a post watch and the ASDO were sent quickly to the rescue. Hero of the story was B. H. Levesque, AOC, ASDO, who sighted snake and killed same.

As yet the mystery has not been solved on how the snake happened to be in the drawer but nothing is stopping the boys from putting in for hazardous duty until the mystery is solved.

Three VU-3 Golfmen Beat Ben Hogan Sat.

LCDR "Chubby" Lyons, LT. H. R. Hunzeker and Charles West, ADC, THREE, defeated the nationally known golf pro, Ben Hogan, in an eighteen-hole contest played last Saturday on the Balboa Municipal Golf course and Mission Valley Golf course.

Playing tournament golf and the pressure mounting on each hole, LT. Hunzeker posted a net score of 66, Chief West sank a net 66, and LCDR Lyons toured the greens with a net of 68. Mr. Hogan could only shoot a one under par 71.

The only catch, however, is that Saturday, May 31, was known as "Beat Ben Hogan Day." Covered by television and radio, golfers around the nation competed with the Pro although there were hundreds and even thousands of miles between them.. Contributing one dollar, which went to the USO and Golf Associations, Mr. Lyons and Mr. Hunzeker, with handicaps of 25 and 23, respectively, and West with a handicap of 16, will receive a medal with the inscription stating: "I beat Ben Hogan, Saturday, May 31, 1952."

VU-7 Golfers Win Over VU-3K

VU-7's golf team, sparked by Gerald Sota, downed the powerful VU-3Kers 8 to 4 in a match held at Rancho Santa Fe, Thursday May 29.

This places VU-7 in the undisputed lead at Ream Field and barring upsets, it makes them the FAD Ream champions.

Team scores as follows:

VU-7		VU-3K
Sota	73	Lt Drelicharez	82
Toth	90	Lt Fancher	94
Russo	91	West	88
Jacobs	89	Lang	86

VU-3 Club Takes HS-2 Team 11-5

Utility Squadron THREE baseball club picked up win number 11 as they buried HS-2 11 to 5 Tuesday at Buchi Field.

HS-2 scored two runs in the first inning and three runs in the second to take the lead. VU-3 came back with two runs in their half of the second inning and were behind 5 to 2 until the bottom of the fifth. Batting around almost twice, VU-3 scored six runs in the bottom of the fifth, on four hits and five walks, including Tom Fennell's home run with the bases clean. Three more runs cleared the plate in the sixth inning to insure the victory.

John Troegel, newly acquired pitcher for VU-3, allowed but five hits as he won his first start. Leading the hitting for the victors were Price and Fennell, both with two hits.

Vol. VIII SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JUNE 13, 1952 No. 24

BOND DRIVE POSTPONED

The Station bond drive for civilian employees, originally scheduled for the week of June 16-20, has been temporarily postponed, according to the Industrial Relations Department. Dates for the drive will be announced later.

Bairoko Arrives, Crew Gives $2400 to Home

More than 500 people were on hand Tuesday to greet the escort carrier USS BAIROKO, home from six months in Korea. At 9 a.m., the carrier touched the NAS quay wall ending her second combat tour.

Colorfully uniformed bands of ComAirPac and the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, led by strutting majorettes, painted a colorful backdrop for the arrival.

D. R. SLOAN, Superintendent of the San Diego County Home for the Aged (left) accepts a check for $1900 and two TV sets from Alfred Jikora, JO3, in dockside ceremonies at NAS.

The personnel of the BAIROKO, Air Anti-Submarine Squadron 25, and Carrier Division 15 collected $2400 for the San Diego County Home for the Aged. The money was used to buy two TV sets and furnish a recreation room for the Home.

Mr. D. R. Sloan, Home Superintendent, accepted the gifts from Alfred Pikora, journalist, third class of CarDiv 15, in dockside ceremonies.

Thanking the men for their generosity to the "folks at the Home who are going to welcome these presents," Mr. Sloan said that the returning sailors will "forever live in their memories."

He went on to praise the crew's spirit, saying that "as long as we have boys in our Navy who are as far-sighted and thoughtful as you, our country never need fear anything."

Vice Admiral Harold M. Martin, Commander Air Force, Pacific Fleet, welcomed the ship home, and Captain L. T. Morse, the BAIROKO skipper, replied, "We're really glad to be home."

House Passes K-Vet Bill

The House has passed the K-Vet bill by a vote of 360 to one. The bill now goes before the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee. Hearings will be held before it goes to the Senate for a vote.

The measure would provide up to 36 months of free schooling, up to $300 in mustering-out pay and government-guaranteed loans on homes, farms and businesses.

The benefits would be available to all men and women in uniform between June 27, 1950, and a date to be set later by either Congress or the President.

NAS O&R Officer Assigned to BuAer

Completing nearly three years as NAS Overhaul & Repair Officer, CAPT A. L. Baird was ordered on June 5 to the Bureau of Aeronautics, Washington, D. C., where he will take a post in the Powerplant Division.

A specialist in aircraft engine developments, CAPT Baird has spent much of his career since 1941 with BuAer, in work dealing with reciprocating, turbo jet, and turbo prop engines.

A graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, CAPT Baird has done post-graduate work at the Academy and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He received flight training in 1929.

As well as serving in other O&R departments previously, CAPT Baird has also served with patrol and carrier based squadrons.

A MESSAGE
From the Commanding Officer

The generous Station-wide response to the Navy Relief Society's annual contribution drive, which ended last week, is indeed gratifying. While it is an established tradition for Naval personnel to give whole-hearted support to this fine organization, the voluntary participation of Air Station civilian personnel warrants special commendation.

Civilian contributions represented a response by 95% of the Station's employees. Coupled with the 100% record achieved by Naval personnel, joint contributions greatly exceeded results of last year's call.

To every civilian employee and to every Navy man and woman who contributed to the success of this year's drive, my sincere thanks for a job well done.

W. L. Erchmann
Captain, U. S. Navy
Commanding

Military Personnel Are Invited to San Diego County Fair

The San Diego County Fair opens its seventh season on Friday, June 27, at the San Diego County Fair Grounds, Del Mar, California. Running for ten days, the Fair will afford military personnel aboard this station a chance to see a gala array of talent, as well as many wonderful special events for one single admission price.

The Fair will feature a musical revue to be called "Fiestacade of 1952." This entertainment classic will run from July 3 through 6, and features such name stars as the Bell Sisters and Ina Ray Hutton. Other entertainment stars appearing are Spade Cooley, Hilo Hattie and Nick Lucas, "The Singing Troubador."

Among the special events which will be seen throughout the 10 days and nights of the Fair are the All-Star Rodeo, Championship Motorcycle Races, San Diego National Horse Show, and many other fascinating events that will make a day at the Fair one well spent.

Breeland, Winner of Texas Trip, Returns

Special Services' Walt Breeland, AN, returned from the all-expense-paid, four-day visit to Madisonville, Texas, the first prize in the Sidewalk Cattlemen's Association, "Why I Would Like to Live in Texas" contest.

During his trip, Breeland, who hails from Biloxi, Mississippi, was accompanied throughout the giant rodeo festivities by none other than Miss Texas of 1952. He was also presented with a complete western style outfit and was guest of honor at the celebration staged at Madisonville.

Breeland, in his prize-winning letter, hailed Texas as a land of opportunity and stated "he liked the people there."

He was notified two weeks ago of his success and left a few days later to claim his reward.

Basis for Granting 4th Step Explained

Clarification of the fourth step pay increases for ungraded NAS employees, which has been the subject of some misunderstanding in the past, was issued this week by the Industrial Relations Department.

According to IRD, the fourth step is a merit step and is not considered in the establishment of the going rate for the trade. If the standards for the fourth step were lowered to the point where they would in essence be based on length of service, which is the primary basis for granting the second and third steps, information from Navy Department representatives indicates that the Navy would be compelled to drop its merit step. This action would become necessary because it would become a factor in establishing, through wage surveys, the going rate for the trade.

IRD states that it should be obvious from this explanation that the granting of the fourth step is purely administrative and as such must be handled and acted upon within the employee's division, subject of course to approval by the Commanding Officer. However, an employee is entitled to information regarding his work performance and how he may improve his performance.

The Commanding Officer has approved the establishment of a quarterly performance review procedure which will insure employees the receipt of information concerning their work performance, and how such performance may be improved. This procedure will be established shortly by Station notice.

Therefore, it will not be necessary for the employee's supervisor to explain to him the reasons for disapproval of the fourth step at the time the employee is considered. Although the Navy Department instructions for the fourth step, described in NCPI, does not require that employees be informed of the division's action when he is considered, it will continue to be a policy of this Command to notify employees when they have been approved or disapproved for the fourth step.

Moody Inst. Demonstrations Electrify Audiences at NAS

By Clayton E. Lacy

The lights go out and in the darkness all eyes of the audience are straining for a glimpse on the stage when—SSSZZZTTTT!! POP! CRACKLE! SSZZTT!! The entire auditorium is lit up with the eerie blue glow of the discharge of a million volts. Then quiet follows and the lights switched back on as the audience eases itself out from the backs of the seats. Thus another "Sermons from Science" program commenced in the series presented in the Bldg. 8 Auditorium this week by George Speake, lecturer for the Moody Institute of Science.

Over two thousand military men and their dependents have seen the demonstrations this week, each of which was interwoven with a religious attitude that was presented without fanfare or pomp but instead very logically and down to earth. Mr. Speake illustrated many of his points of lectures with actual participation from the audience. In one demonstration, for instance, three North Island men could only babble words because of a device which allowed them to hear their own utterances with a slight time delay. And one sailor appeared to lose all his strength when he attempted to manuever a mere suitcase. His difficulty was explained by Mr. Speake when he pointed out a large gyroscope within the suitcase.

Mr. Speake presented entirely different demonstrations each night plus day time performances on each of his four day stay here at North Island. The climax of the series came Thursday evening when he closed the show with the discharge of a million volts of electricity through his body and off his finger tips. This startling bit of showmanship has been featured in national magazines and presented on television with great response.

"Sermons from Science" has appeared at North Island by direction of the Navy head of chaplains, in connection with the Navy's Character Guidance program.

IS IT MAGIC? No, indeed! The aluminum rings cavorting in mid-air before the eyes of three incredulous sailors behave in accordance with scientific laws. Mr. George E. Speake (right) demonstrates the "gravity neutralizer"—equipment used in his "Sermons from Science" program—to Leonard Mazar, TEM1, Thomas Martin, YNT3, and Merrill Pease, TDAN, Fleet Air Wing 14 sailors.

Chaplain's Corner

"Self Respect"

There are two determinators that enter into the lives of all of us. One is self respect; the other human respect. The former has as its object the praise and admiration of God; the latter the esteem and praise of fellowmen. One looks to Heaven, the other to earth. Self respect stands for knowledge of self; in the sense that a man understands that God made him according to His own Image and likeness and that God has obligated him in every thought, word and action. He respects himself simply because God thinks so highly of him. Human respect stands for approval of our fellowman. A man with mostly human respect seeks as his objective in life the knowledge and accord of his associates. Such adulation is the standard he follows. If he wins that he is satisfied with himself and with his life that he leads. Such a success is, of course, barren and shallow but many men think it is the greatest thing in life. And the reason is simply that they have lost sight of God and they make a God out of human relationship.

We must always think well of our fellowmen. But we must never for any reason put them ahead of our God. The first and greatest command God gave was to love Him: the second was to love our neighbor.

No one can long respect his fellowman who has lost his respect for God. On the other hand the man who recognizes his God will see the image of God not only in himself but in his fellowman.

Life is not a popularity contest: it is a solemn obligation to the God who made us. Popularity is a luxury but self respect is a necessity. Without it we cannot long live with ourselves or with others but with it we can live forever.

Bible Classes Held Weekly at Fasron 691

Informal Bible discussion classes which feature a series of topics designed to acquaint members with background material concerning the life of Christ and the various Saints, as well as the role of Christianity in the world today, are conducted each Wednesday from 1200 to 1300 in FASRon 691's Hangar 40 auditorium. The classes, which were reorganized in January of this year by Chaplain T. E. Schultz, are attended by men from FASRon 691 and nearby activities. Members average from 20 to 35 men, but military personnel from any NAS unit are cordially invited to attend.

The discussions, which are accompanied by films in many instances, featured the Life of St. Paul and the Life of Christ earlier this year. Just concluded were four classes of mission studies which pointed out what Christianity is accomplishing in other countries of the world, as well as the need for its establishment in troubled areas involved in the current tense international situation.

Forthcoming topics will include a study of the various books of the Bible, such as The Acts and the Epistles of St. Paul.

FLAG DAY—1952

Tomorrow marks the official observance of Flag Day throughout the Nation and wherever Old Glory unfurls its 13 stripes and 48 stars. Much has been written and many words spoken in tribute to the flag and the American traditions it represents.

But one of the flag's more personal meanings to individual American citizens has often been overlooked in the flowing oratory and the adjective-filled phrases. That's the fact that the flag contains a lucky star for every man and woman who gazes upon it. One of those 48 stars belongs essentially to each of them, and its place in the field of blue has a singular, personal significance.

No matter where he is, as he looks with pride at his National emblem, the man from Minnesota thinks of clear, blue lakes and bountiful hunting and fishing. The girl from North Carolina remembers cotton fields and Pines along the shore. The youngster from Pennsylvania sees iron and steel and the Liberty Bell in Independence Square. The old-timer from Oklahoma reminiscences about his younger days in the oil fields, where the thick black gold built fine new cities. The gray-haired woman from Washington recalls the clean, fresh smell of lumber in production, and the dark, rich red of apples.

Whatever his native State, every American sees his own home reflected in the folds of the Stars and Stripes, one of the thousands which stretch from the Pacific's sandy shores to the rocky New England coast. And those 48 neighboring stars which he views represent a unity unprecedented in the history of the world.

No wonder, as he salutes his country's flag, he proudly says: "Long may it wave!"

This Week's News

at a glance

The Senate rejected President Truman's plea for legislation which would grant him power to seize the strike-bound steel industry. Instead the senators passed a proposal requesting the President to invoke an anti-strike injunction as provided by the Taft-Hartley law.

Addressing a joint session of Congress, President Truman declared that use of the Taft-Hartley Act would be "unwise, unfair, and quite possibly ineffective." Emphasizing the need for authority to get the steel mills operating, he said, "The issue of peace or war hangs in the balance, and steel is a vital element in the outcome."

The Senate's proposal urging use of the T-H law took the form of an amendment to a bill extending the Defense Production Act—basis for the government's wage-price-credit controls. The President would have to sign it if he wants to continue present anti-inflation controls on the economy.

With the nation's steel production shrunk to 12½ percent of normal, the Commerce Department has put an embargo on all foreign steel exports for civilian purposes.

The USS UNITED STATES, largest ocean liner ever built in America, reached speeds in excess of 34 knots in speed trials held this week. Later in the year the 53,000-ton vessel will make a bid for the Transatlantic speed record, presently held by Britain's HMS QUEEN ELIZABETH.

U. S. paratroopers began "Operation Breakup" this week to end violence and terror in the Koje Island prison. One by one the compounds have been entered and communist resistance subdued. The prisoners will be segregated into smaller groups for easier handling.

Troops entering the infamous Compound 76 met fierce resistance from entrenched Communists using improvised weapons. Thirty-one prisoners were killed in the battle, many of them by their fellow prisoners for refusing to fight. Prisoners in other compounds have been submitting without a fight to the Allied resettlement operation.

MGEN William K. Harrison, senior Allied truce negotiator, bluntly told the Communists that the UN would make no concessions on the prisoner of war issue. As the armistice talks reached a virtual impasse state, fighting was increasing on the Korean front. The week probably marked the heaviest fighting in 1952 with coordinated allied ground and air forces striking the Chorwon area in the western sector. British observers revealed the grim news that three fresh Chinese Communist armies had moved into Korea for a possible offensive.

familiar

It's the first building you pass as you come ashore from the Main Dock in the morning, and the last one you leave every evening. That's why they chose "The Last Chance" as the name for Don Conley's vending stand, located just outside NAS Gate 4. Opened on December 8, 1950, the small structure handles soft drinks, candy, tobacco, magazines and pocketbooks. Its services have helped make the bay crossing more pleasant for many thousands of North Islanders, both military and civilian.

BUMPER CROP

THAT MAN
friday

You know, courtesy is certainly a funny thing. Look at it this way: courtesy costs so little, yet is worth so much.

Noah Webster in his best-seller, defines courtesy as being "Politeness combined with kindness or common consent."

But courtesy—average, everyday, good ole' American courtesy—is a great deal more than just politeness and kindness between individuals. It comprises a part of every single person; it is a major part of his make-up—an indispensable portion of his character and personality.

Regardless who he is, each individual is affected constantly by courtesy in one way or another. When one asks a favor of another, for example, his request may be stated in such a manner that, though meant well, will cause it to be flatly denied. However, if he should use exactly the same words, perhaps adding a few "pleases" and "thank you's," and use a pleasing voice, his request might be quickly and cheerfully granted.

There's just no getting around it—courtesy is a phase of your character which is more than just worth your while to check on every now and then.

Last Monday, a Chief Machinist Mate with 22 years of Naval service behind him, was discussing this subject—one, I gathered, that was a favorite of his—with me. He stated that in a personal survey he had conducted that morning, he found that only about six out of every ten men encountered returned an appropriate greeting when they were extended such a greeting. He was wondering why the other four had chosen to ignore his salutation.

"It certainly doesn't cost a person a copper cent to give a 'good morning', 'good afternoon', or 'good evening'," he said.

" 'Seems to me that it would be only natural to speak when spoken to, if nothing else. I guess they must've missed breakfast or something this morning."

The Chief may have been right, but these men—who undoubtedly had received better training—should be a little more "rememberful." I expressed the opinion that these men had not purposely avoided the greeting, but had either not heard it or forgot to extend the greeting. I felt that in most cases, it was nothing more than just forgetfulness that made these men seem impolite.

I am not trying to deliver a sermon—merely a reminder that just a little thoughtfulness would go such a long way to create an even stronger feeling of friendliness, warmth, and comradeship that already exists aboard this station.

A "good morning" is such a great way to begin the day. Try it!

New Management For Civilian Cafeteria

The NAS Cafeteria Board announced this week that starting next Monday, June 16, the Civilian Cafeteria and canteen facilities will be operated under new management. The action follows a thorough survey conducted by the board of conditions affecting the desires and welfare of all Station employees. From a group of competing firms, Board members selected the L&M Caterers as the organiaztion which it believed would provide the type and quality of service desired by employees of the Station.

This firm has had considerable experience in servicing military industrial establishments, and at the present time operates the Long Beach Naval Shipyard cafeteria Its record at this field activity establishes it as one of the best organizations of its type operating on the West Coast.

The NAS Cafeteria Board is convinced that the new firm's goal, which is to provide improved facilities and services here on the Station, will attract many NAS employees not presently using the cafeteria.

A recent improvement in the cafeteria facilities was the steam cleaning and painting of the interior of the Main Cafeteria, Building 243. Among the other projects which are being acted upon by the Cafeteria Board is the installation of a modern dish washing machine.

Additional new features and improvements will be announced through the North Islander from time to time.

O&R Leading Chief Goes to Whidbey

D. N. Stewart, AMC, who has been Leading Chief for the NAS Overhaul and Repair Department for the past two and one-half years is being transferred to Fleet Air Wing Four at Whidbey Island, Washington. At present Chief Stewart is working with the Navy Relief Carnival Committee.

He expects to depart from here Friday, June 13, and report to Whidbey Island for duty on July 3. CHPHOT Barnstead, who was formerly with the Ordnance and Accessories Division 4000 is replacing Chief Stewart in the Overhaul and Repair Department.

Chief Stewart will complete 16 years in the United States Navy this August. He enlisted in Tryon, Oklahoma his home town, and then underwent training at the Naval Training Center in San Diego. He then spent thirty-three months at Pearl Harbor, nine of these months aboard the USS PELICAN and the remainder at the NAS Repair Department. He also spent three months aboard the USS YORKTOWN, 49 months at North Island and 16 months at Kanocho, Hawaii.

A LITTLE PAINT, a few repairs and plenty of elbow grease are being applied to some discarded toys by part of the crew at NAS Fire House 3. Left to right, are: M. M. Spahr, AN; A. W. Fowler, AA; J. D. Porterfield, AN; R. M. Waterhouse (civilian); and A. L. Davis, AA. Commencing on July 1, all NAS personnel are asked to contribute used toys for repair by Fire Station members, who will distribute them next Christmas to under-privileged San Diego children.

St. Nick Here For The Summer

Santa Claus will take a sleigh ride in July and come to NAS in fire-engine red swim trunks next month, in connection with a long-range drive announced this week to assure a merry Christmas to under-privileged children in the San Diego area.

Used toys of all sorts, sizes and descriptions, suitable for children in all age groups, are wanted by NAS Fire Station military and civilian personnel, who will renovate the articles received and distribute them next December.

Start of the used toy collection drive is scheduled for July 1, and special containers for the purpose will be placed at NAS Gates 1 and 4, and at Fire Station No. 1, Bldg. 33, at the corner of Quentin Roosevelt Blvd. and Saufley St.

All Station personnel are earnestly requested to look now through their own childrens' discarded toys for any which can be repaired, repainted and given to some less fortunate youngsters. The drive will continue through November.

Bairoko Arrives From Korea

BAIROKO left on her present tour in December, 1951, after a short rest from 10 months' combat operations.

For the first part of the cruise, VS-25 conducted anti-submarine patrols from the BAIROKO, which was also flagship for Rear Admiral L. S. Cornwell, Commander Carrier Division 15.

In February, these two units were replaced by the "Checkerboard" Marine Attack Squadron 312, and the BAIROKO got her first crack at launching combat sorties. A record for CVL's was established in April when the Marine corsairs roared over enemy installations on 80 combat strikes in a single day.

Commander M. C. Reeves, BAIROKO executive officer, praised the Marine flyers, saying that the "Checkerboard squadron is as good as its reputation." On board for 22 months, he called the Naval battle force in Korea "truly a UN operation," with the ships of the U. S., Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and the Dutch in the area.

Exams for Rate Advancement Are Announced by I&E

The Exam for all men wishing to advance to E-3 pay grade will be given on June 20. All requirements necessary to take this exam were to be in by June 5. Approximately 125 men are expected to take this exam.

The exam for advancement to pay grades E-4, E-5 and E-6 are being held July 8, 15 and 22, respectively. All requirements in order to take these exams were to be turned in not later than June 1. Approximately 85 men are expected to take the exam for advancement to E-6 pay grade, 150 for advancement to E-5, and 620 for advancement to E-4 pay grade.

Islander Loses Hedges, Bergman Returns Monday

Van D. Hedges, Associate Editor and only civilian member of the NORTH ISLANDER staff since late February this year, leaves Naval Air Station today and returns the "civvy" chair in the ISLANDER office to its former occupant, George Bergman.

Van came to the staff as a temporary replacement for Bergman who accepted a leave of absence in order to complete college and receive his Bachelor of Science degree from San Diego State College.

During his four months as a member of the ISLANDER complement, Van became widely known for his specialty articles, his ability at covering and writing civilian news as it occurred on the station, and especially for his features written in the familiar and inimitable Hedges style.

In addition to his regular duties on the paper, Van also aided in compiling news releases to local civilian newspapers in this area as well as service newspapers on other military installations in this vicinity.

George Bergman, who, as was recorded in last week's NORTH ISLANDER, was awarded his BA at graduation exercises last Friday, will resume duties as Associate Editor on the staff Monday.

Bergman has been connected with the NAS Public Information Office for more than six years, achieving a wide reputation during that time as newsman extraordinary.

The staff joins with the men and women at Naval Air in wishing Van the best of luck, and in welcoming Bergman back.

Madge Muloch Awarded Pub. Ad. Certificate

Mrs. Madge Muloch of IRD Employees' Services was among a group of ten San Diegans to receive Public Administration Certificates awarded in ceremonies last Friday by San Diego State College.

The certificates were presented to the 10 students—four of them federal employees in the area—for the completion of a night class course of study in the problems and techniques of public administration. The course may be completed in one to four years, depending on the number of weekly classes a student attends.

The Civil Service approved program includes public administration and constitutional government as required subjects. Statistics, governmental writing, personnel administration, administrative law, and guidance counseling techniques are among the elective subjects in the curriculum.

Mrs. Muloch is the fourth NAS employee to receive a certificate in the State College Public Administrative program. Harrison W. Kimball of Structures Division, and Don O. Shively and Clarence H. Evans, both of Training Division, completed the course in 1951.

Pat Farnsworth, LCDR R.E. Empey To Wed June 28

Miss Pat Farnsworth, popular North Island employee, will be wed to LCDR R. E. Empey on June 28 in the Naval Air Station Chapel. Chaplain S. B. Bennett will perform the ceremony.

Miss Farnsworth has been aboard the station for nearly three years. She was employed in the Industrial Relations Department for one year and has been at Special Services for the remainder of the time.

LCDR Empey was aboard the station for two years as the Special Services Officer. He is now taking advanced Navy courses at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Majorettes, Marine Corps musicians, and eager families gave the crewmen of the escort carrier USS BAIROKO a hearty welcome Tuesday when the carrier returned to San Diego after six months in the Korean area.

NAS Family Hospital Boasts Fine Actress

Jill of all jobs at the NAS Family Hospital, presently located in temporary quarters in Building 255, is Mrs. Lucille Neal Parsons. Doubling as collection agent, receptionist, informant, and escort to incoming patients, Mrs. Parsons fully utilizes the knowledge acquired since she first became associated with the hospital on its establishment in 1941.

At that time she was a volunteer worker folding bandages, later becoming a volunteer office helper. Subsequently she was offered a regular part-time position with the hospital, and gradually the services she performed were encompassed into a full-time job.

The same versatility which accompanies Mrs. Parsons' daytime activities is carried over into her principal outside interest—acting. During the past six years, she has played a variety of roles for the Coronado Players, running the gamut from comedy to tragedy. Currently she is rehearsing in the role of Mrs. Rasmussen in the comedy, "Suds in Your Eye," which opens soon at the group's Playhouse on the Strand. The part is the same as that she filled to successful acclaim last summer.

Mrs. Parsons remembers her first stage appearance as a four-year-old youngster in Quaker costume, confidently singing a song. Later, when she attended boarding school in her native New Hampshire, she essayed many of the male roles in the plays presented, because she was one of the taller girls in school. A member of the Rochester Little Theater, she gained experience in numerous types of parts before moving to Coronado, where her secondary interest today is gardening.

Whether she is fulfilling her duties at the Family Hospital or enacting a part on the Coronado Playhouse stage, Mrs. Parsons lends equal enthusiasm to both roles. Those who know her agree that she is an outstanding performer in either category.

Divisions Sked Picnic This Week

On June 14, Flynn Springs in El Cajon will be the scene of gayety and merriment for approximately one hundred and forty persons, plus their children.

The Machine Records and Fiscal Division annual picnic is scheduled to start at 1300 and will include all types of dancing which will last into the evening. Plenty of games and contests are being planned for both the adults and the children; included in this schedule will be ping pong, baseball, softball, volleyball and horseshoes.

Prizes will be awarded for certain games and contests, and two people will be lucky enough to walk away with the door prizes.

The contest which should draw the greatest attraction of all is the hat making contest. The only material to be used in making these hats is the material which is to be found in the immediate vicinity of the picnic.

The menu will include baked ham, hot dogs, potato salad, ice cream and beverages.

In Defense of Father

Obscured by the sentiments of Mother's Day and the brilliance of the Fourth of July is the quiet inauspicious occasion we dedicate to Father. On that day Dad is feted and fed by Mom and the kids; he is awarded the annual gaudy cravat —the badge of his position—and then on Monday his brief glory becomes only a faded memory.

If, as they say, a man's home is his castle, then Dad must be the king. He may dispute this and claim duties less distinguished in his kingdom. To Mom he might be the disbursing officer, and to the whole family the Marshall Plan. Eight-year-old Junior looks on him as second in sagacity only to Hopalong Cassidy. He's the Supreme Court to Sister and the Boy Friend when he hands down a decision on Saturday night's hours.

But Dad somehow survives the arduous tasks of his office, and no revolution has come to challenge his status. If Pop were elected to his position, who knows, he might win by a landslide.

No Ill Omens

ALL THE ILL OMENS that can be concocted on Friday the 13th fail to discourage three VC-11 sailors from trying their luck on Navy Relief Carnival contributions. Receiving opportunities that may make them 1952 Mercury owners are Stephen Fedoriska, AD1 (peering in cracked mirror), Randy Russell, AM2 (lighting third cigarette with one match), and Leonard Polejewski, AM3 (under ladder). Wave Margaret Szilaqyi, SN, flaunting her contempt for the umbrella superstition, receives their Carnival donations.

SATURDAY, June 14—SOMETHING TO LIVE FOR staring Ray Milland and Joan Fontaine. An ex-alcoholic, played by Ray Milland, now a member of a group which helps others fight their drinking problems, is asked to aid an actress (Joan Fontaine) who is on a binge. They fall in love, although Milland is happily married and has two children. Joan reveals her alcoholic weakness is caused indirectly by Richard Derr, a stage director with whom she had been in love, but broke away to accept a part with another director.

SHORT: "The Awful Tooth."
Running time, 1 hour and 44 minutes.

SUNDAY and MONDAY, June 15 and 16—DENVER AND RIO GRANDE starring Edmund O'Brien and Sterling Hayden. Both the Denver & Rio Grande and the Canyon City & San Juan railroads claim the right of way to pass through the Royal Gorge and across the Colorado Rockies in the 1870's. Edmund O'Brien two-fisted chief engineer for the D&RG, is framed for murder by Sterling Hayden of the CC&SJ and the latter road stages a series of "accidents" to hold up the D&RG's track laying.

SHORT: "Lambert the Sheepish Lion."
Running time, 1 hour and 45 minutes.

TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, June 17 and 18—BRONCO BUSTER starring Scott Brady and John Lund. John Lund, champion rodeo circuit cowboy, coaches a cocky newcomer, Scott Brady, who rapidly turns into a grandstanding egomaniac. Brady even moves in on John's girl, Joyce Holden, who is the daughter of Chill Wills, rodeo clown, when Joyce accepts Brady's attentions because John, she feels, takes her for granted. Brady becomes a dude rider and, after a quarrel with Lund, goes it alone.

SHORTS: "City Slicker" and "Campfire Club."
Running time, 1 hour and 43 minutes.

THURSDAY and FRIDAY, June 19 and 20—PRIDE OF SAINT LOUIS starring Joanne Dru and Dan Dailey.

SHORT: "Flipper Frolics."
Running time, 1 hour and 43 minutes.

The Electronics Division picnic which was held at El Monte Park last week was an overwhelming success and a good time was had by all. The highlight of the day was the softball game between the Hanger 68 "Hotshots" and the Cable Shot "Cuties." The game was a rough pitcher's battle with the score 33-4 in favor of the Cable Shop Cuties. The girls practiced hard and were determined to win the trophy. It will remain in the Cable Shop and anyone who has not seen it should be sure to do so. The bathing beauty contest was full of fun and merriment. Two girls were in Gay Nineties bathing suits but were disqualified in the first elimination. The winner of the contest was Miss Jane Blair. A certificate for $10.00 was awarded.

Mrs. Isabel Smith, our division clerk for the past few years, has had a promotion and is now working in IRO. We were very sorry to see you leaving us, Mrs. Smith, because if we needed anything done you were always willing to give of your time to aid us. Our very best wishes for success in your new job.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith To Marry Thursday

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Smith will exchange wedding vows at St. Jude's Catholic Church in San Diego Thursday, June 19. On the same day the same Smiths will celebrate their fifth wedding anniversary!

Smith, a chief aviation electrician's mate serving as permanent NAS assistant officer of the day, clarified his unique marital status by explaining that previously he and Mrs. Smith were married in a civil marriage ceremony.

Recently Mrs. Smith joined the Catholic church — her husband's faith—and they will have their marriage solemnized in that church.

Wally Hanna Transferred To NAS Barber's Point

By Bob Swisher

The driving force behind athletics at Ready Issue has been transferred to Barber's Point.

Wally J. Hanna, AKC, who has been pushing the name of Ready Issue to lofty heights in Fleet Air intermurals, received his orders after 23 months at North Island.

When Wally checked in at Ready Issue, athletics were at a sub-zero level. Not a single team was being fielded by the Storekeepers in competitive sports.

Chief Hanna soon took matters into his own hands. He started issuing calls for athletes and reorganized.

A brand new organization is not expected to cause much trouble in seasoned leagues. But the Storekeepers soon sounded their warning. Their first year out in volleyball they were runners-up to FairbetuPac. This year they won the volleyball championship.

Their total record for the past two years for all intermural sports shows three winners, four seconds and three thirds. Not bad for an organization which 23 months ago had hardly any athletics.

Hanna is a lover of sports and an untiring worker. One of his chief ambitions since coming to North Island has been to popularize volleyball. This past season he coached both the varsity Skyraider team and the Ready Issue team. The Skyraiders were 11ND runners-up to Los Alamitos, which went on to win the national championship, and the Ready Issue squad was runner-up to the same Los Alamitos in the YMCA tournament and won the city championship.

So Ready Issue's loss is Barber's Point's gain. Before leaving San Diego, Hanna expressed the keen desire to continue in sports at the Islands. "I've always been connected with athletics in one way or another," said Hanna, "and I see no reason for stopping now."

Captain's Cup Lowdown

By LEON COX

The second half of the Captain's Cup Softball league is well under way with only five teams left undefeated in the race. They are Special Services with 4 wins and no losses followed by G. C. A. and Planning with three wins and no losses each, with Weather Central fourth with 2 wins and no losses and Security 34 in fifth spot, with one win and no losses.

The highlights of this week's play was Special Services' win over a tough Boat House crew 5-2 and G.C.A.'s win over Supply by a score of 8-4. G.C.A. had an 8-0 lead in the last inning but the hard-fighting Supply team put on the pressure with four runs in the final frame and were threatening again when they made the last out.

Rod & Reel Club To Meet Tuesday

The second meeting of the Federal Employees rod and reel club will be held June 19, 1952 at 8:00 p.m. at the Philippine American Legion Hall, 2926 Market Street. Election of a Treasurer and Board of Directors will be held.

An item up for discussion will be the feasibility of buying, building or leasing a lake for our members' use, also discussing buying or leasing a deep sea fishing boat.

Two of the members, John H. Gizo and Ray W. Minor, assisted the State Fish and Game Dept. in the planting of 1400 Catching size trout in the Sweetwater River. The plant was made in the Green Valley area.

Remember the period for signing up charter members closes August 21. Let's all round up a couple of members by the next meeting.

Following the business meeting there will be a fishing movie and refreshments. All Federal Employees are welcome and urged to attend this meeting.

Mr. Kelly, one of the members, returned from the High Sierras recently and reported all the rivers near Sequoia Park are at flood stage and fishing is poor. He saw two 6" trout taken from the upper Kern River and one small trout taken from a branch of the King River. The mountains still contain 2 to 8 feet of snow at the 8,000 ft. level and deeper snow above.

CAPT Byng Inspects FairbetuPac Saturday

Last Saturday marked the monthly FAIRBETUPac Captain's Inspection of ships' company and school participants. CAPT J. W. Byng, Commanding Officer of the Unit began the ceremonies with the presentation of citation, medals and athletic trophies.

Trophies presented consisted of handball and badminon awards for the Comfair San Diego Championships. Taking the honors for handball was Officer-in-Charge, CHELEC H. L. Williams, and team members H. M. Seda, AE2, and H. A. Shelter, AKAN. The Comfair Badminton trophy, won by CAPT J. W. Byng and LT J. T. Doyle, was presented to LT Doyle.

The ceremonies were climaxed with the usual inspection of the ranks and followed by all hands marching to Towers Field to have squadron pictures taken.

'Raiders Rap NTC in 11, 7-6

THAT'S STRETCHING THINGS TOO FAR! Will Schayot, Skyraiders' first-sacker, is shown being tagged out by NTC's 3rd baseman Ken Peterson. This unfortunate event happened when Schayot tried to stretch a good two-base hit into a triple. The 'Raiders defeated NTC in 11 innings.

Futch Hits Into Left Field To Score Weaver From Third

The Skyraider Baseball team fielded a vastly improved club to knock the props out from under the previously highly rated Training Center Bluejackets.

This game, the best of the year from the standpoint of sound fundamentals and horsehide thrills, was tied up in the sixth inning, 6-6. The score remained the same until the bottom of the 11th when Tom Futch drove a hot ground single past the NTC third baseman to score Tom Weaver and break up the hotly contested game.

Marv "Red" Campbell was the winning pitcher, as he pitched the final five frames allowing no runs and only one hit. Dick Kerr, who started the game for the 'Raiders, pitched beautiful ball until the sixth frame when a streak of wildness got him into trouble.

Going into the sixth, he had allowed but one run and four hits, but he led off that frame by hitting the first two batters. The next man singled, then came a bases-loaded four-bagger by Pete Vucurevich, the NTC pitcher. Before Kerr had retired the side, five runs were scored and the game was brand new.

The Skyraiders scored one in the first on a home run by Bob Johnson; two in the second on hits by Futch, Graham and Blackston; two in the third on a hit by Tom Weaver, walks to Johnson and Futch, and an error on the NTC shortstop Sturger, and one in the fourth on a triple by pitcher Kerr, a walk to Green, and a single by Tom Weaver.

After the training men's splurge in the sixth, the game moved along until the 11th frame, with batters from both teams unable to touch the opposing pitcher.

In the bottom of the eleventh, "Red" Campbell led off with a single and was sacrificed to second by Green. Tom Weaver reached first on a fielder's choice when Campbell was thrown out at third, and Bob Johnson was walked. The stage was set—on the two-and-two pitch, Tom Futch smashed a hot single past the third baseman and the Skyraiders had won their second successive game over the once-highly regarded Naval Training Center Bluejackets.

One week from today, Friday the 20th, the Skyraiders host the El Toro "Flying Bulls," and on Monday, the 23rd, and Wednesday, the 25th, respectively, they play the MCRD "Devildogs" and the PhibPac "Invaders" here.

Softballers Win Two, Tied for Loop Lead

The Naval Air Skyraiders smashed their way into a tie for the 11th Naval District Major Softball League by shutting out NTC 7-0 on Wednesday, June 4, and winning from the Marines at Camp Matthews last Friday.

Adolph Mason threw a masterful two-hitter in the NTC whitewash to allow the softballers their second successive win over the Bluejackets. Bud Landers was the big man at the plate with a home run.

Hollis Lucas, 'Raider catcher, wielded a heavy bat to aid in the win over the Mahines. His home run and double played a big part in the victory. Once again Mason was the winning pitcher.

Although at press time the Skyraiders were tied for first place with MCRD, a game between these two teams was played yesterday at Mainside. The results of the game were too late for this week's issue and will be published next week.

ASA League Toughest in Area

The Amateur Softball Association League, the toughest in this area, is not so rough that our Skyraiders aren't holding their own very well. Although several games have been lost, these contests have been very close and usually decided in the last few innings. Last Tuesday night, the 'Raiders played the Plymouth Mopars here at Mainside. Going into the tenth inning, the score was knotted one each. Then the combination of an error and two hits produced two runs and the town ASA Leaguers went on to win a 3-1 decision in ten innings.

Last Friday, the Skyraiders opened their ASA League season with Anderson's Furniture. This was an extremely close game until the seventh frame, when the furniture men who are now on top in the standings found the range and pounded out a 5-1 decision.

Win, lose, or draw in the ASA League, the Skyraiders will gain valuable experience against top-notch pitching.

Next week, the Skyraiders will play two Eleventh Naval District major softball tilts. Monday, June 16, they will host the Miramar Jets, and on Wednesday, the 18th, the 'Raiders meet the Naval Hospital at Navy Field.

what's the catch?

The winner of last week's prize in the NAS large fish derby was C. E. Jones, SA of the ComAirPac Master-at-Arms Division, for his 28-pound white sea bass.

Jones landed his prize winning fish aboard the NAS fishing boat "Salty," to mark the first time an award winner has been caught aboard this particular boat.

The only close competition that Jones ran into was a 16-pounder caught by N. R. Isaacs.

It was announced this week that the three boats are booked up for both the months of June and July, and reservations will not be taken until July 15.

11 ND Skeet Shoot to Be Here June 17, 18

The Eleventh Naval District Skeet Championships of 1952 will be held here at the Naval Air Station on the 17th and 18th of June The ComAirPac and the Commanding Officer of the Naval Air Station will jointly host the shoot.

The meet will consist of competition between the different commands of the 11th Naval District, for the right to represent the District in the National Skeet Championships at Dallas, Texas, from July 21 thru 26.

Teams desiring overnight berthing at the Air Station should contact the Special Services Division before the date of the shoot.

Each command is limited to a maximum of 10 shooters. Activities without teams may send individual shooters.

Suitable awards will be provided by the Director of Special Services, 11th Naval District.

By BOB LAIBLE

After getting the 1952 baseball season off to a dismal start, the Skyraider baseball team looks like they have finally got their sights adjusted and are now eyeing the comeback road, judging by their startling defeats over El Toro and NTC, powerhouses of the 11ND Major League.

Taking a brief glance at their record to date, we find that Lieutenant Harvey Speed and his Naval Airmen now have an eight-loss, four-win record in league competition. Out of these eight humiliating losses, six were consecutive.

Errors are costly. The 'Raiders learned that the hard way, by six straight losses.

Harvey Speed and Ned King solved this problem with a few minor changes in their defensive line-up, and in their last game, an eleven-inning thriller with NTC, they committed only one error, ending up with a neat but hard fought 7-6 victory over the Bluejackets.

Yes, the 'Raiders have solved their error problem, but are now faced with a riddle they cannot solve alone. The ever-present problem of support.

Only once did the 'Raider ball club draw a supporting crowd. That was during their first home game with NTC when they suffered an 8-2 defeat. Since that time only a handful of faithful team followers have turned out to cheer them along.

Sure, the team's got a lot of spirit, but it's a known fact that a little yelling on the part of the audience never did any damage. If it did, there would be no demand for cheer leaders.

Don't judge by the headlines, they only give the verdict, they don't tell how these guys are playing their hearts out.

Why not get a first-hand account of what the Skyraiders are doing? Watch the sports page for home games which will be played at 1400 on the Towers Field diamond directly behind the NAS Theater. The Skyraiders need your support, give it to them in the form of a yell!

Fasron 110 Nears Softball Title

Fasron-691's upset victory over FairbetuPac a couple of weeks ago in the Air-Pac Major Softball League looms larger and larger as a deciding factor in the final pennant outcome. As of Wednesday, the defeat hung on the Raiders is the only thing separating them from the league-leading Fasron-110. The Raiders' record is 7-2 with one game left, while 110 has won seven and lost but one, with two engagement left.

Another big blow was landed on the Raiders last Thursday by Fasron-110 outfielder Jim Smith. Smitty smashed a two-run homer in the 10th-inning to give 110 a 5-3 victory over the Raiders in one of the most exciting softball games seen in many-a-moon. At the time of the battle, the two powerhouses were knotted for the lead with

Ream Finds Variety Show Tops

It was "Curtain Time" again at the Ream Theater last Monday night. A beautiful customed chorus line started the show with a fast song and dance routine.

Patti Thompson acted as mistress of ceremonies and introduced each act. Pretty little Dee Ann Johnson sang and gave her demonstration of dancing through the ages. Olie Kittleson followed with his version of "I Had the Craziest Dream."

Janice Brooks tapped and jumped rope. Sherrian Barcom and her little golden voice captivated the audience. Jeanne Heinz followed with spine twisting acrobatics.

Little Linda Wilson and Rusty Williams, ages 4 and 3, stopped the show with their singing and dancing. Jack Stump and his trumpet impersonations again stopped the show and he had to render two more numbers before leaving the stage.

Next were Olie Kittleson and Bobbe Metts in "How Could You Believe Me." Carol Wilson followed with a southern tap. Phylis Fleming showed some expert baton twirling for another show stop. Carol Wilson came back with a Spanish tap.

The Two Cats and a Canary, with Olie Kittleson and Jack Stump as the cats and Patti Thompson pinch hitting as the canary turned out to be another of the many show stoppers.

Little Dee Ann Johnson returned to give her version of Mae West. The Finale brought back the entire cast in a singing and dancing number. The talent on the show was furnished by Mrs. Marian Kittleson dancing classes. Marian also accompanied the acts on the piano.

This was Ream Field Variety Show number five which played to a full house. Show number six is on the way in the early part of July so watch the plan of the day so you won't miss it.

Hash-marked Olie Kittleson and pardner, Bobbe Metts, gave forth with song and dance at the Ream Variety Show last Monday.

Men In The Know Keep VU-3 Flying

One of the most important and least rewarding occupations in the work of maintaining Utility Squadron 3, is that of the plane captain.

Being both mothers and fathers of their aircraft, four typical plane captains, all Aviation Machinist Mates third class, are Harlan Price, plane captain for an F8F "Bearcat"; Paul L. Steege, "P. C." for an F6F "Hellcat;" David L. Franer, F7F "Tigercat"; and Richard S. Yanuszeski, plane captain of the Beechcraft. Although they are assigned to different planes, fundamentally they have the same job.

They are responsible at all times for their plane, except when it is in the air. The maintenance, upkeep and arresting any and all discrepencies in their aircraft are primary duties.

Besides being machinist mates, they are pencil pushers. An engine log, prop log, and an aircraft log is kept up to date at all times. When the planes have had 30, 60, 90, 120, and 240 hours in the air, they are automatically put into the shop for a engineering checkoff. It is the engineering department's job to repair the big things, but it is still the plane captain who looks for and finds the small things.

Like a mother hen brooding over her young, tuning up an engine checking flight operations, preparing the plane for the pilot, and making take-off and landing checkoffs, the plane captains of VU-3K are capable of handling their job. Before they'll allow their aircraft to fly, they are sure that it is one hundred percent safe. If there is any doubt as to the ship's safety, they will "thumb dow" the aircraft.

Many a pilot owes his life to the quick thinking and preparedness of his plane captain, who, whether washing and shining the aircraft or running an engine check, takes pride in seeing that his ship is the best in the squadron and that VU-3K is number one in the Wing.

identical 4-1 marks. Since then, the 110ers have picked up a pair of wins while FAIRBETUPac has crushed three foes.

In the Minor leagues, Ready Issue took a long step toward the flag in loop "B" by defeating VP-40 by 11-0 Monday. This left the Storekeepers with a 4-2 slate with only one game left. PAMI is in second with two victories in three starts.

League "A" is still having trouble getting a game played. Various complications have forced postponements of every game for the past 10 days. FAW-14 still heads the circuit with a pair of wins. Every other team has dropped at least one decision.

Students Visit Ream Wednesday

A group of young first graders from Imperial Beach Elementary Grade School were the guests of Ream Field on Wednesday June 4.

The group arrived via school bus at 9 a.m. and made a tour of the base until noon.

Among the places they visited were the fire department where they were shown the clothes the firemen wear and how they fight fires. They visited the HU-1 line where they were shown a helicopter. They continued on to the parachute loft where a demonstration of a chute being folded and opened was held.

The students also inspected the survival exhibit and were shown the use of survival gear.

Their visit also included the tower and the crash crew.

Much interest was shown by the students and it is hoped that they all had a good time.

Rickey Applestill, an Imperial Beach Elementary Grade School student, tries on parachute as J. M. Derick, PR1, of Fasron 701 Det., looks on.

VU-3 K Team Eyes Title

VU-3K Softball nine, with but three games remaining, cinched at least a tie by defeating VU-7, 10 to 4, then losing to HU-1, 7 to 4, Tuesday, to still remain three games ahead of the field.

Boasting a season's record of twelve wins and three losses, all of which were to HU-1, VU-3 needs one more win to wrap up the intra-Squadron championship.

HU-1's Unit 7 Returns Tues. Aboard Bairoko

Helicopter Unit 7 of HU-1, based at Ream Field, arrived home Tuesday, June 10 on board the USS BAIROKO (CVE-115) from the Korean Combat Zone.

Officer-in-Charge of Unit 7 was LTJG U. F. Perdue with Chief Aviation Pilot W. F. Banks sharing the flying duties. Crew chief was F. E. Pospichal, AD1. The remainder of the crew consisted of L. K. Evans, AM3; M. W. Foster, AN, M. J. Grant, AE3; C. M. Righter, AN; D. H. Williams, AD3.

VU-7 Moves to North Island

It's moving time again for VU-7. Plans are under way to take all VU-7 personnel, aircraft, and equipment to North Island next Monday.

They will share hangar 525 with IFID.

The planes will take off on their work hops Monday as scheduled and, when finished, they will return to their new home at North Island.

The whole move is scheduled to take place Monday, leaving only a few odds and ends for Tuesday. After cleaning up their spaces, the men of VU-7 will say "good-bye" to Ream and "Hello" to North Island.

CDR Kosciusko Inspects HU-1

HU-1 personnel based at Ream Field underwent inspection on 6 June. Commander H. M. Kosciusko presented a letter of commendation to Robert E. Bonny, AK2, for his outstanding performance of duty as storekeeper-in-charge of the squadron's Material department during the period from September 28, 1949 through May 31, 1952.

Cornelius F. McCarthy, AN, received a trophy for winning the Fleet Air Detachment handball championship. McCarthy won the squadron singles, then won the first round singles from HS-2. He then went on to play with HS-2 against Miramar in doubles to win the right to play in ComAirPac Championship game against FairbetuPac. FairbetuPac is the present Comairpac champions.

NR Carnival Midway Readys for Throngs

NAVY FIELD, June 19—Construction here for the big 1952 Navy Relief Carnival is progressing according to schedule with 26 of 45 Carnival booths already completed. The row of booths will form a semi-circle around the Carnival site—which is three times larger in area than the 1951 Carnival—and provide spaces for part of the great array of concessions, exhibits, and displays slated for the big mid-summer event.

A crew of NAS Navymen under the direction of F. A. Hojnacki, DCWC, began the construction job two weeks ago at Navy Field, and the structures are being erected at the rate of four each day. His crew of eight men are doing all the construction work.

Earlier at NAS, the crew began the job of gathering lumber and other material and fabricated all the frames for the booths. These frames were trucked to Navy Field to complete the construction job.

Chief Hojnacki says tne booths will soon be ready for decoration and occupancy by the various mil-

Camp Davidson Again Offers Tops In Fun for Navymen

Tomorrow, Saturday, June 21, ushers in that favorite time of year when most of us can think only of fun, relaxation, and complete enjoyment—summer.

Since tomorrow is the first day of summer, it is naturally the opening of the big season when the Armed Forces YMCA's Camp Davidson will begin its very busiest time of year.

For several seasons now, the camp, operated by the San Diego YMCA in cooperation with the U. S. Navy, for the specific purpose of recreation and rest for servicemen, has furnished the last word in recreational facilities for locally-based military personnel.
